——Arts. 226, 311—Order of dismissal based partly on erroneous assumption of fact—High Court will not decide as to proper punishment on deletion of erroneous portion but quash such order. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Mad 393 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Railway servant — Reduction in rank by way of seniority — Writ to quash.

Even assuming that the seniority of the railway servant has been adversely affected by an order of the General Manager passed in contravention of a rule, the railway servant has no justiciable right which can be enforced by the High Court by the issue of a writ or other appropriate order. Even if there was a reduction in rank by way of seniority it is obvious that it was not as and by way of punishment. Rules of seniority, no doubt, are based on certain equitable principles but they also depend upon certain principles of administrative practice which may in certain cases lead to hardship. AIR 1937 P C 31 and AIR 1937 P C 27, Rel. on. 1958 Mad W N 645 : 71 Mad L W 750 : (1959) 1 Mad L J 359 : (1959) 2 Lab L J 613 : AIR 1959 Mad 68 (71) (Prs 11, 12, 13) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Scope —'Reduction in rank' contemplated — Variation in order of seniority — Remedy under Art. 226 held cannot be revoked. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1958 Mad 53.

——Arts. 226, 309 and 311 — Administrative acts — Issue of writ — Reversion to original substantive post as administrative measure — No reduction in rank — Petition under Art. 226 — Competency. See Ibid, Art. 311. (1957) 2 Mad L J 515.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Infructuous order.

Contention that Government of Madras had no power to remove petitioner from service and that Government had contravened Art. 311 — Held, that if the contention of the petitioner was sound, the High Court would not be passing any infructuous order — It would be directing the Government to pass a legal order after complying with the provisions of the Constitution of India — To that extent it would be performing its duty to see that no authority in Madras State exercised its powers in derogation of the provisions of the Constitution. 1954 Mad W N 592 : (1955) 1 Lab L J 391 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 591 : AIR 1954 Mad 1043 (1044) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Departmental enquiry — Disciplinary authority having discretion under Central Civil Services (C. C. and A.) Rules, 1957 to permit accused Government servant to engage legal practitioner having regard to circumstances of case — Question whether refusal to allow lawyer amounts to denial of adequate opportunity to defend should depend on facts and circumstances of each case — Case not one of great complexity in which the Government servant could not have himself adequately defended without aid of lawyer — Every opportunity given to him at the enquiry — Government servant stating at enquiry that he had not been handicapped in presenting his case - Held, he could not make a grievance out of the refusal to allow lawyer at the departmental enquiry in the writ application. AIR 1961 Cal 1 (8B) and AIR 1957 Andh Pra 414 and AIR 1958 All 532 and AIR 1962 Orissa 78, Rel. on. AIR 1964 Manipur 46 (57, 58) (Pt C) (Prs 34, 35, 36).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Dismissal of civil servant—Writ against—High Court cannot go into reasons for punishment imposed.

In a writ petition against an order of dismissal passed against a Civil Servant, the High Court cannot go into the reasons which induced the punishing authority to impose the punishment when there has been an enquiry consistent with the prescribed Rules. AIR 1963 S C 779, Foll. (1965) 1 Mys L J 323 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Termination of services without enquiry—Subsequent reinstatement with direction that interim period should be treated as leave without allowances — Direction having been made without finding the servant guilty was not by way of punishment and could not be sustained. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1962 Mys 43 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 309 and 313 — Government servant—Conditions of service — Administrative instructions are not law within meaning of Art. 313 — Error committed by breach of such instructions—It cannot be rectified by application to Court.

The remedy of an employee in this case is not by an application under Art. 226 to the High Court but by an appeal of an official or political kind. AIR 1937 P C 31 and AIR 1937 P C 27 and 1895 A C 229, Rel. on. 38 Mys L J 212 : ILR (1960) Mys 360 : AIR 1961 Mys 247 (252, 256) (Pt C) (Prs 33, 54) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretionary orders — Reduction in rank — Reversion of officiating officer for want of vacancy - Question of subsequent promotion — Discretion of Government—Interference by High Court. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1957 Nag 95 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Jurisdiction of High Court — Dismissal of Government servant under Police Regulation—(M. P. Police Regulation, Regn. 232).

The jurisdiction of the High Court is not restricted only to cases where there has been any infraction of the Constitution but extends also to cases where the Police Act or Regulation have been infringed, in dismissing a police officer from service. ILR (1955) Nag 93 : 1955 Cri L J 974 : AIR 1955 Nag 160 (163) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Dismissal of public servant—Question falling for consideration under S. 240 (2) — Relief under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 240 (2). AIR 1954 Nag 258 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of public servant — Application under Art. 226 — Applicant if should be left to his ordinary remedy by suit.

Where a public servant who has been ordered to be dismissed applies for a writ under Art. 226, he should not be left to his ordinary remedy by a suit. Public interest is not served by allowing the validity of the impugned order to remain in doubt till the final result of an ordinary litigation. Notwithstanding the impugned order, the applicant is deemed to be in service and would be entitled to receive his remuneration until his services are validly determined afresh, though he is kept out of actual service as a result of the impugned order. If the applicant is not to be retained in service, there is then no point in prolonging a situation which entitles him to his pay without rendering any service to the State. 1955 Nag L J 145 : AIR 1954 Nag 258 (259, 260) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Dismissal, removal and reduction in rank—Nature of—Termination of service in ordinary course — Article not applicable — No remedy under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1954 Nag 161 (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ jurisdiction — Railway employee —Misconduct — Subordinate Railway employee demanding and accepting paltry amount of 8 annas from passenger for service rendered—Dismissal from service — It is not within jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 to enquire whether punishment of dismissal was too severe — Railway Establishment Code, Vol. I, R. 1701, Para. 2 (1) ILR (1964) Cut 369 : (1965) 1 Lab L J 181 : (1965) 7 O J D 69 : AIR 1964 Orissa 253 (254) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil Court's jurisdiction to interfere with Government's Order of dismissal of its servant. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1963 Orissa 73 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Departmental enquiry — Dismissal of servant — Power of High Court. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Orissa 26.

——Art. 226 - Powers of High Court — Dismissal of civil servant—Interference.

Where after a consideration of the entire evidence, the Appellate Authority has come to the conclusion that the charges against the Government servant have been proved and that his dismissal from service was proper the High Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 would not interfere with the dismissal order merely because the delinquent was not allowed by the Enquiry Officer to examine a certain witness or to further cross examine certain another witness. I L R (1959) Cut 95 : A I R 1959 Orissa 152 (155) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—High Court's power under — Nature and scope of.

A writ of certiorari is not meant to correct an erroneous decision of an inferior tribunal. The High Court in such cases is not to act as an appellate Court and correct what it may consider to be an error in the decision, nor has it anything to do with the appreciation of evidence. Irregularities in the conduct of departmental inquiry regarding the allegations against a civil servant or in reception of evidence therein, rejection of defence as unreliable and the conclusion being based on insufficient evidence or conjectures are matters which do not fall for consideration of the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226. The fact that certain rules have been framed to safeguard the rights of civil servants in matters of disciplinary action does not mean that the High Court has jurisdiction to quash the order of dismissal simply because the provisions of one or the other of those rules have not been strictly observed So far as there is no contravention of Art. 311 of the Constitution this Court would have no jurisdiction to quash an order of dismissal A I R 1952 S C 192, Ref. I L R (1955) Patiala 416 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 97 (104, 105) (Pt E) (Prs 23, 24).

——Art. 226—Existence of alternate remedy—Fundamental rights.

Where the procedure adopted by the Government in terminating the services of the petitioner who was integrated as a permanent employee on the regular establishment of the Government, was altogether illegal and violated the fundamental rights of the petitioner under Art. 311 it was held that it would not be proper to throw out his petition under Art. 226 merely because it was open to him to file a civil suit against the Government. ILR (1953) Patiala 588 : A I R 1953 Pepsu 196 (200) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Government servant—Departmental inquiry held against him resulting in his dismissal — Writ petition by servant — High Court's powers in such petition to review findings of Inquiry Officer. ILR (1965) 2 Punj 319.

——Art. 226— Power to interfere — Interim Order of suspension—Suspension order providing subsistence allowance — Order is not punishing measure but interim order — Order cannot be challenged in writ proceedings : A I R 1961 S C 276 and A I R 1954 S C 787, Foll. 1954 Cur L J 489 : 66 Pun L R 1227.

——Arts. 226, 311 —In petition under Art. 226 merits of charges made in the departmental enquiry cannot be considered. ILR (1962) 2 Punj 642 : A I R 1963 Punj 298 (318) (Pt Z6) (Pr 41) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Departmental enquiry — Enquiry Officer refusing to summon records from possession of employer — Refusal made ground for writ petition as betraying bias — Held that High Court in the writ petition was not sitting as a Court of Appeal and could not go into correctness or otherwise of the grounds for refusal on the part of the Enquiry Officer. 64 Pun L R 431 : (1962) 4 Fac L R 213 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 570 : AIR 1962 Punj 355 (358) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Arts. 226, 311—Reduction in rank — Petitioner reduced from his officiating post to substantive post on account of incompetency and not by way of punishment — Article 311 does not apply. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Punj 244.

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2)—Government servant — Departmental enquiry — Nature of function of Inquiry Officer —Enquiry Officer refusing to comply with S. 173 (4), Criminal P. C. — No remedy under Art. 226—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 173).

The purpose of a departmental inquiry held against a Government servant is merely to help the Government to come to a definite conclusion regarding the conduct of a Government servant and to decide what penalty, if any, should be imposed upon him. Such a proceeding before the Inquiry Officer cannot be held to be of a criminal or quasi-criminal nature. In this view of the matter the Inquiry Officer is not bound to see that the provisions of S. 173 (4), Criminal P. C., are observed before he proceeds to record evidence in the inquiry. If an Inquiry Officer refuses to comply with the provisions of S. 173 (4), then it cannot be held that it is liable to be set aside by the High Court in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred upon it under Art 226 of the Constitution. 1958 Cri L J 94 : I L R (1958) Punj 218 : AIR 1958 Punj 27 (28, 29) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 226, 311—Removal proceedings—Interlocutory orders — Interference under Art. 226 — See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1957 Punj 42 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Interference with internal working of department —Object of Art. 311—Interference in borderline cases.

The High Court should not interfere with the internal working of a department except in very extreme cases. The purpose for which Art 311 was enacted was not to reinstate a civil servant who has been proved to have committed misconduct of the grossest type because of a technical flaw in the enquiry held against him. A Government servant should not be dismissed without being furnished a reasonable opportunity of defending himself nor should he be victimised and deprived of the rights of a fair trial. But there are many borderline cases in which the Court should hesitate to interfere if only because cases of misconduct of Government servants are extremely difficult to prove and it is very seldom that a false charge is made the subject-matter of a departmental enquiry. ILR (1956) Punj 361: AIR 1956 Punj 102 (105, 106) (Pt D) (Prs 11, 12).

——Arts. 226, 311 and 320 (3) (c) — Punishment of public servant - Public Service Commission consulted —Interference by High Court.

The proper machinery for advising the Government as to whether a public servant should be punished or not is the Public Service Commission and if they have been consulted in a case and there is no breach of the forms of law or contravention of the rules of natural justice the High Court would be loathe to interfere. AIR 1955 Punj 1 (3) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Other remedy—Petition under R. 1727 by Railway servant—(Indian Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, R. 1727).

In case of compulsory retirement the only remedy which the Railway servants have is to petition the President under R. 1727 of the Railway Establishment Code. It does not, however, mean that in the case of an ordinary dismissal a Railway servant cannot move the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution where he can show that he was removed or dismissed illegally. 56 Punj L R 392 : (1955) 1 Lab L J 408 : ILR (1955) Punj 382 : A I R 1954 Punj 245 (247) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Another remedy open — Petitioner removed from service by departmental head—Petitioner having right of appeal under Civil Service Rules —Remedy to enforce his rights by suit also available —Remedy by way of writ is not open to him — A I R 1950 S C 163, Disting. ILR (1953) Punj 472 : A I R 1953 Punj 137 (142, 143) (Pt C) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Dismissal of Government servant—High Court when will interfere under Art. 226.

The High Court does not go into the merits of the case in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art 226. But the question whether a dismissal is at all justified under Rule 15 of the Rajasthan Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1950, and whether the reason given can at all be a good and sufficient reason is a matter in which the High Court can go in an appropriate case, otherwise it would be open to those armed with the power of dismissal to call any reason a good and sufficient reason and dismiss anybody from service. Therefore, where the reason which is said to be a good and sufficient reason for dismissal is really no reason at all and the matter is apparent and requires no argument, the action of a dismissing authority in holding it to be a good sufficient reason amounts to an abuse of the provisions of the law and the High Court will always step in to prevent such an abuse of the process of law. 1958 Raj L W 392 : ILR (1958) 8 Raj 432.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Recording of adverse entry in character roll —Justification for, if can be gone into. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1957 Raj 230 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311—Dismissal of Chaudhari—Procedure to be followed.

Dismissal of a Chaudhari is not a legislative function. Nor can it be said that it is a judicial function. A Chaudhari is a sort of agent of the Government for the collection of land revenue, for which he gets certain remuneration. Appointments and dismissals of agents of this kind can only be a purely executive function. A Chaudhari appointed under the Land Revenue Act of Bikaner is not a person in the civil employ of the State and is not entitled to the protection of Art. 311. At the same time, a distinction must be made between appointment and dismissal of a Chaudhari or persons like that. A person who fails to get an appointment cannot approach the High Court in its extraordinary jurisdiction on the ground that he should have been appointed.

But the case of a person dismissed stands on a different footing. He holds the appointment and unless the appointment is for a temporary period, he can claim that he should not be removed unless there is some defect in him. Where no statute or rule has been pointed out providing the manner in which a case of dismissal of this kind should be dealt with, it is enough if at some stage a hearing in some manner is given to the person against whom the order is passed by some officer on behalf of the authority passing the order. 1956 Raj L W 466 : ILR (1956) 6 Raj 335 : AIR 1956 Raj 110 (111, 112) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Order of termination of service passed prior to Constitution by the then Government of Jodhpur — High Court cannot give any assistance. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 1642 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Jurisdiction under, scope of.

Ordinarily, the High Court would be reluctant to interfere by exercise of its extraordinary powers under Art. 226 in cases of disputes between master and servant as to wrongful dismissal or removal, etc., but where the case involves a substantial question of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution, which Art. 228 requires to be determined by the High Court, as also the validity of a statutory rule of law as being against the Constitution, it is a fit case in which the High Court should exercise its powers under Art. 226. 7 Sau L R 63 : AIR 1954 Sau 146 (150) (Pt D) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Declaration under Art. 226.

Where the termination of services of the petitioner was declared illegal and void, the petitioner was granted a declaration that on the date of the petition he was a member of the Service of the State Government in the post he then held. AIR 1942 F C 3, AIR 1948 P C 121, Rel. on. 7 Sau L R 63 : AIR 1954 Sau 146 (150) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 (2)—Scope — In a petition under Art. 226 against the reversion of the petitioner from his post, the Court is concerned only with the question whether there are irregularities in the enquiry which would vitiate it under Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution. AIR 1962 Tripura 15 (16) (Pt A) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Mandamus — Issue of — Dismissal of Government servant — Proper writ — Certiorari and not mandamus.

A mandamus to compel re-instatement shall not issue and is not available to a Government servant in cases of wrongful dismissal or removal from service. If the petitioner succeeds, the only writ that can be issued in such cases under Art 226 would be a writ in the nature of certiorari declaring the order of dismissal to be void and inoperative. If the petitioner succeeds, it will not be also necessary to issue a writ declaring the order directing the petitioner to hand over charge of his post to be void and inoperative as it will be automatically vacated if the order of removal is set aside. AIR 1958 Tripura 28 (29, 30) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

23 (i). Service Rules, enforceability of.

——Arts. 226 and 309 — Scope—Engaging in subversive activity—Government servant associating with persons engaged in subsersive activity— Taking interest in political activities of Communist party as long as it is not banned—Allegations do not amount to Government servant being engaged in subversive activity — R. 3 of Civil Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949) not attracted — Compulsory retirement in such circumstances amounts to removal from service by way of penalty— Government servant can maintain a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Civil Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules, (1949), R. 3. AIR 1963 S C 1160.

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Powers of High Court — The High Court, when exercising powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot go into the question of unfairness or unreasonableness of a Government servant's service rule. All that can be seen is whether a rule is valid and applicable. AIR 1964 All 411 (414) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226, 309 and 311 — Departmental rule fixing age-limit for appointment not having statutory force — Appointment in contravention of rule not invalid — (U. P.) Manual of Government Orders (1954 Edition), R. 10.

Rule 10 of the Manual of Government Orders, Uttar Pradesh (1954 Edition) prescribing the age limit for appointment is purely a departmental rule the contravention of which may give rise to some departmental action but would not invalidate the order of the appointing authority, notwithstanding the fact that the person so appointed was, at the material time over the age-limit prescribed by the rule. A writ of certiorari can be issued to quash an order terminating the services of such person on the ground that his appointment was contrary to this rule. (1961) 1 Lab L J 668 : 1961 All L J 170.

——Art. 226—Grounds for interference—Dismissal in violation of Service Rules—Contravention of Art. 311 not proved — Issue of writ. See Ibid, Art. 310. AIR 1959 All 771.

——Arts. 226 and 309— Breach of statutory rules— Regulating conditions of service— Writ of Mandamus—Competency.

Rules made by the Governor General in the exercise of his powers under S. 241, Government of India Act, 1935, regulating the conditions of service of persons appointed to public services have statutory force and it any of these rules are not observed it is open to the person affected by such a non-observance to approach the High Court for relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution and a writ of mandamus can be issued directing the opposite party to enforce those rules. These rules, in so far as they regulate the conditions of service and do not affect the pleasure of the President or the Governor to terminate the services of his employees under Art. 310 of the Constitution, cannot be regarded anything but statutory rules, a breach of which will be enforceable in proper cases by means of a writ. AIR 1958 All 345 (346, 347) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 10).

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion — See Central Civil Services (Temporary Services) Rules (1949), R. 6 (ii). AIR 1956 All 476.

——Arts. 226, 311 (2)—Reduction in rank — Order declaring probationer suitable for full membership before he had passed necessary tests under Service Rules—Order is invalid and inoperative—Subsequent G. O. cancelling that declaration and extending his probationary period to enable petitioner to pass tests —No reduction in rank — Article 311 (2) not attracted —Remedy under Art. 226 to impugn G. O. not available — Madras State and Subordinate Services Rules, Rr. 26, 27, 28 and 49— Interpretation — Scope — See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1963 Andh Pra 357.

■ ——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Orders of dismissal of police officers — Conviction of police officers for offences involving moral turpitude under Ss. 331 and 348, Indian Penal Code—Sentence of imprisonment—Declaration of amnesty to all prisoners by Government of Andhra during pendency of appeals against conviction—Orders of dismissal pending appeals to High Court—Not illegal as violative of Police Standing Order No. 77 — Constitution of India (1950), Art. 161—Grant of pardon — Not same as remission of sentence in whole or in part under Ss. 401 and 402, Criminal Procedure Code—Constitution of India (1950), Art. 311 (2), Proviso cannot apply to person dismissed, removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which leads to conviction on a criminal charge—Dismissal not rendered void by the fact that an appeal is pending—Order of dismissal whether becomes null and void on account of P. S. O. No. 77. The Deputy Inspector-General of Police, Northern Range, Waltair v. D. Rajaram, (1959) 2 Andh W R 526 : ILR (1959) Andh Pra 1294 : 1959 M L J (Cr) 916 : 1959 Andh L T 916 : 1960 Cr L J 565 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 259 (262, 263) (Pt F) (Prs 17, 19, 23, 24) (SB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Jurisdiction of High Court— Government of India Act (1935) — Rules framed under R. 8 (a) — Statutory effect — Violation of, by Tribunal—Power of High Court to question order.

The rules framed under the Government of India Act, 1935, have statutory effect and continue to be in force and binding on the Government and the Government or the Tribunal is not entitled to act in violation of these rules.

Rule 8 (a) enacts as to how the enquiry should be held and in the exercise of the jurisdiction under Art 226, the High Court is entitled to call into question the orders passed by Tribunal refusing to summon the witnesses or to produce the documents required by the petitioner: W. P. No. 817 of 1952, dated 21-9.55 (Andhra). Foll. (1957) 2 Lab L J 238 : AIR 1956 Andh 203 (207, 208) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 21).

——Arts, 226, 309, 310, 311 — Applicability —Pleasure of Governor — Breach of service rules not enforceable under Art. 226.

The pleasure of the Governor, so far as the tenure of the office is concerned, is subject only to the express provision of the Constitution embodied in Art. 311 and the breach of the Service Rules apart from the violation of Art. 311 will thus not be enforceable under Art. 226. The rules framed under Art. 309, even though they are statutory rules, cannot be regarded as express provisions of the Constitution so as to affect the pleasure of the Governor under Art. 310. A I R 1959 Mad 1 and A I R 1960 Bom 431 and AIR 1960 Bom 14 and A I R 1958 Bom 283, Rel. on. ILR (1961) 13 Assam 179 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 3 : AIR 1961 Assam 74 (76, 77, 78) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 16 and 309 — West Bengal Civil Service Rules, R. 24 — Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 22 — Permanent Government Servant transferred to temporary dapartment — Introduction of a scheme by Government providing for absorption into comparable posts after reversion from such department — Reversion to old post with financial advantages — Writ on ground of loss of prospects in old post — Not maintainable — Art. 16 not applicable.

Held, that the order of reversion did not contravene Art. 16 of the Constitution since it did not govern the opportunities of promotions after a person gets employment. (ii) R. 22 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules was not attracted, (iii) the scheme introduced by the Government for absorption of the employees of Civil Supplies Department to comparable posts was merely an administrative scheme and as such could not be enforced by way of a high prerogative writ. Further, as the petitioner was governed by the West Bengal Service Rules, his transfer to the Civil Supplies Department was not in violation of proviso to R 24. Consequently, on his reversion he had no right to join his old department at a post, which he might have reached had he been regularly promoted. The only other alternative was to keep the petitioner at his old post allowing to him all the financial advantages of the pay scale as from time to time revised which had been given to him. No relief could therefore be granted under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1962 Cal 587 (589) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Fundamental Rules, 3rd Edn., R. 56 (b) (i) — Chief Ministerial Officer of Small Causes Court—Applicability of R. 75 (a), W. B. Service Rules —High Court, if can compel Government to use discretion under rule by issue of writ. See West Bengal Service Rules (1941), R. 75 (a). AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 2343.

——Art. 226 — No interference — (Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 55).

Where in a departmental enquiry the petitioner had not suffered any prejudice by reason of the discrepancies complained of or by reason of the allegations being supplied to the petitioner after he had submitted his explanation to the charge-sheet:

Held, that the infringements of R. 55 of the Civil Services Classification Rules were not of such a nature as to call for interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1954 Cal 335 (338) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Bengal Civil Service (Classifications, Control and Appeal) Rules, R 55 — Departmental Enquiry — Inspection and production of documents. See Bengal Civil Service (Classifications, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 55. A I R 1953 Cal 361.

——Art. 226 — Contravention of rules under Art. 309 — Decision of Government is not justiciable unless case falls under Art. 311. See Ibid, Art. 309. 1961 Ker L T 461.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Madhya Bharat Union Covenant (1947), Art. 16 (1)—Notification under—Defence Department Notification No. 5 of 1949 dated 14th May, 1949 — Nature of — Not a law or statute laying down conditions of service and rules for pension—It embodies merely administrative directions as to the normal age of superannuation, etc.—No right to be retained till the member attains the age of superannuation—No breach of statutory right involved in retirement before age of superannuation. A I R 1954 S C 680, Disting. No case for interference under Art. 226. Madh B L J 1955 H C R 1353 : A I R 1956 Madh B 40 (42, 43, 44) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 10) (DB).

——Art 226, Art. 310, Art. 311 and Art. 309 Proviso — Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1950, R. 8—Civil servant—Dismissal of—Mandamus to compel re-instatement does not lie.

It is clear from Art. 310 that persons employed in the service of the State, are engaged on the express statutory condition that they hold their employment at the pleasure of the President or the Governor or the Raj Pramukh, as the case may be, and that they can be dismissed, removed, or reduced in rank at the pleasure of these authorities subject to the limitation imposed by Art. 311. It must be noted that Art. 311 does not in any way, alter or affect the principle embodied in Art. 310 that a Government servant holds office during the pleasure of the President or the Governor or the Raj Pramukh as the case may be. It only imposes certain statutory obligations before dismissal or removal or reduction in rank is effected. It is the breach of these statutory obligations that affords a cause of action to a person adversely affected to complain that his employment has been wrongly terminated. If in the termination of his employment, there is no contravention of Art. 311, the High Court would have no jurisdiction to quash the order terminating the services.

The (Madhya Bharat) Civil Service (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1950, which prescribe the conditions of the service, that is to say, the circumstances and the manner in which the employment of a Civil Servant can be terminated, though framed by the Raj Pramukh under the power conferred by the proviso to Art. 309 of the Constitution, do not in any way abridge or control the power of the President or the Governor or Raj Pramukh to dismiss at pleasure a civil servant. These rules are merely administrative rules for the guidance of officers of the Government in the imposition of penalties and in the conduct of departmental inquiries against Government servants. The dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of a civil servant in violation of the Rules would not by itself entitle him to come to the High Court but would leave him to appeal to the administrative authorities. It is only a breach of Art. 311 that furnishes to a Civil servant adversely affected to come to the High Court or to approach a Civil Court for redress.

As there is no statutory obligation on the State to retain him in the service, an order in the nature of a mandamus cannot clearly be issued to the State to reinstate him. A mandamus cannot be issued to compel an appointment in the office held at pleasure. (1872) 2 2 Q B 21, Rel. on.

Even if it is assumed that in the termination of the petitioner's services, Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution had not been complied with, on that ground alone the High Court would not be justified in giving to the applicant the remedy by a mandamus. For, a mandamus is not granted unless it clearly appears that it will be effectual. If the State had sufficient cause to remove the petitioner from service, it would, undoubtedly, remove him again after complying with the provisions of Art. 311 (2), if the Court orders the State by mandamus to reinstate him in the office and thus the State would render the order in the nature of a mandamus inoperative. The petitioner cannot clearly be granted a mandamus to set aside the order of the Government teminating his services though the order may be illegal. A mandamus does not lie for declaring that an act of a person or an authority is illegal and ultra vires. It only lies to compel public officials or bodies to carry out their statutory duties. ILR (1952) Madh Bha 253 : A I R 1952 Madh B 105 (108, 109) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — General Financial Rules, Vol. 1, Rr. 116 and 117—Rule 116 and others are executive orders and not statutory Rules - Action taken under Rules is outside the purview of writ proceedings.

Held on facts, that the Rules applied only when a person was newly appointed to a service or post under the Government. In the case of the petitioner, that happened in 1950 when the princely States merged in the Union of India and the servants of those States were absorbed in the services of the new State of Vindhya Pradesh. 1958 S C R 1013, Rel. on. That being so, the petitioner was disentitled to call in aid R. 116 for relying upon the declaration which he gave subsequently either when he was promoted to the I. A. S. or when he was about to reach the age of superannuation. As indicated by R. 1 of the rules, R. 116 and other rules are essentially executive orders and not statutory rules. They do not confer any legal or enforceable rights on any person and impose no obligation on the authorities for whose guidance they are made. That being so, any action taken thereunder was outside the purview of correction in the writ proceedings and any breach of such a rule, even if patent, would not justify the issuance of a writ of certiorari. AIR 1956 S C 896, Rel. on. 1963 M P L J 862, Dist. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 121.

——Art. 226 — Grounds for issue of writ — Madhya Bharat Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1950—Breach of—If in itself ground for interference with order of suspension. See Ibid, Art. 309. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 295 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Applicability — State Bank of India (Sub-Accountants and Head Cashiers) Service Rules (1959)—The said rules have no force of law— Their violation will not be enquired into in writ petition. See State Bank of India (Sub-Accountants and Head Cashiers) Rules (1959). AIR 1964 Mad 335.

——Arts. 226 and 309 — Scope—Petitioner's name included in list of persons considered fit for promotion — Subsequent removal of his name from list is not justiciable. (1959) 1 Mad L J 220 : 72 Mad L W 255 : 1959 Mad W N 237 : ILR (1959) Mad 639 : 1959-2 Lab L J 514 : AIR 1959 Mad 270 (270) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226 — Person accepting Government service subject to Government Service Conduct Rules — He cannot challenge validity of Rules having taken benefits under it. (1955) 1 Mad L J 538 : 1955 2 Lab L J 473 : 1955 Mad W N 1037: AIR 1955 Mad 468 (469, 470) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Service Rules — Non-observance — Disciplinary action — Relief against, in writ application—Not available unless prejudice has been proved. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1963 Manipur 28.

——Art. 226 — Rules under — Mysore Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1957, Rr. 5, 7 (1) — Government not acting according to Rules — Aggrieved party has right to approach High Court. See Ibid, Art 309. AIR 1965 Mys 244 (DB).

■ ——Art. 226 — Service Rules whether justiciable—Doctrine of pleasure — Extent and scope of — Reversion of Government servant, deputed to other department, to parent department — Service Rule relating to fixation of pay on reversion — Claim under such rule is justiciable right in respect of which relief is obtainable under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 309. A I R 1961 Mys 88 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Government Servants Conduct Rules, R. 9—Petitioner purchasing car without prior permission required under R. 9 — Whether serious notice of contravention of R. 9 should be taken or not, in view of subsequent permission obtained, is matter that cannot be looked into under Art. 226. (1965) 7 O J D 74 : (1965) 1 Lab. L J 265 : A I R 1965 Orissa 183 (187) (Pt H) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Rules under Orissa Protection Rules, (Rules for protection of officers of old Bihar and Orissa Services), R. 6—Officer in old Bihar and Orissa Secretariat transferred to Orissa on formation of that State — Confirmation as Registrar in Secretariat on 14-10-1958 while junior officer in old Bihar and Orissa Secretariat confirmed as Registrar in Bihar on 23-8-1956—Contravention of protection afforded to transferred officers —Date of confirmation for purpose of pension must be taken as 23-8-1956. See Government of India (Constitution of Orissa) Order (1936), Para. 23 (2). AIR 1964 Orissa 65 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Dismissal of civil servant — Petition under Art. 226 challenging order — Considerations for High Court — (Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 55).

In considering whether the provisions of R. 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules have been substantially complied with or not, the High Court has to satisfy itself whether the irregularity committed at any stage of the departmental enquiry really caused prejudice to the public servant concerned, and for that purpose it is very necessary to find out whether the objection to such an irregularity was taken as the earliest possible stage when it could have been remedied. 25 Cut L T 493 : AIR 1957 Orissa 21 (23, 24) (Pt A)(Prs 6, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability—Bihar and Orissa Education Code— Rules under — Not statutory — Of no legal force—Assistant Headmaster of an educational institution—Services dispensed with by the Managing Committee — Not properly constituted as per the Rules of the Code—Issue of writs.

B applied under Art. 226 of the Constitution for the issue of writs on the ground that his services were illegally terminated by the resolutions of the Managing Committee of Bhakta Madhu Vidyapitha which was alleged to have been constituted properly as per rules under the B. and O. Education Code and the appeal preferred by him to the D. P. I., Orissa was dismissed in spite of the report of the Inspector of Schools in his favour,

Held: The real question is whether a legal right has been made out and whether the Managing Committee was illegally constituted or acted in violation of any statutory duty imposed upon it. The Bihar and Orissa Education Code and the rules in it are merely departmental regulations which do not create any statutory or legally binding rights and duties. They do not derive their validity by virtue of any legislative sanction.: Nothing is shown that they have the force of law. On this preliminary question being found against the applicant. merits of the case are not to be gone into. 18 Cut L T 334 : AIR 1952 Orissa 259 (259) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Service Rules — Non-compliance with—Effect — Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R 55 — Case to which Art. 311 (2) is held not applicable— Still non-compliance with R. 55 will invalidate discharge. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1961 Pat 339.

——Art. 226—Breach of Civil Service Rules — Civil servant aggrieved—High Court cannot order enforcement of rules. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4999.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Jurisdiction — Applicability —Transfer of service and of lien without consent of Government servant — Legality — (Fundamental Rules, Rr. 12-A and 15).

Fundamental R. 12-A read with Fundamental R. 15 authorises the transfer of a Government servant from a permanent post in any service or department to a permanent post in any other service or department, so as to abolish the lien on the original post and to create a lien on the new post. Such permanent transfer can be made. irrespective of the wishes of the Government servant concerned.

Further, such transfers are not made as a matter of any punishment and there is no reduction in rank. AIR 1952 Orissa 258, Disting. 1957 Raj L W 382 : AIR 1957 Raj 230 (231) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

23 (j). Non-compliance with procedure.

——Art. 226 — Grounds for issue of writ — Government servant—Reversion to substantive rank—Omission to follow procedure laid down in Art 311 or S. 240, Government of India Act, 1935—Power to issue writ. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). I L R (1957) 9 Assam 223.

■ ——Art. 226—Dismissal of Government servants — Non-compliance with procedure under S 240, Government of India Act, 1935 — Mandamus if can issue — Dismissal in contravention of Indian Independence Act (1947)—Right to relief. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 240. AIR 1954 Assam 224 (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Infringement of constitutional right under Art 311—Petition under Art. 226 —Practice in Bhopal Judicial Commissioner's Court.

Judicial Commissioner's Court at Bhopal has consistently held that an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution lies only in the case of infringement of fundamental right as stated in Part III of the Constitution. A public servant under the State or Union has a certain right under Art. 311 of Constitution to a proper and due enquiry according to the rules prescribed therefor. The right of being heard in a due, proper and prescribed enquiry is one which is cherished by a servant with same acidity or confidence as any citizen of India cherishes his fundamental right. Both these rights are provided under the Constitution and even if these rights may not fall within the purview of fundamental right under Part III, still it is undisputed that it is his constitutional right and is the very essence of his own and his dependants living. That being so, it is but proper and according to the Constitution that protection under the Constitution should be available to them and in this view the petition under Art 226, is tenable to enforce a constitutional right and the Judicial Commissioner's Court has power to interfere and set right any infringement of such right in its substance or its enforcement.

Then again, it is now well settled that any action or order in contravention or violation of natural justice infringes the fundamental rights of every person. Such principles of natural justice may be illustrated by rules that no person shall be condemned or made to suffer without giving him a hearing or without evidence to support the condemnation or by caprice of the authority condemning him. If, therefore, it is proved that the applicant has been condemned in violation of any of the principles of natural justice, then the action or order of the authority by which he is so condemned to suffer infringes his fundamental right and the Constitution has made provision for bringing such authorities under the supervision of the ordinary Courts in India. One of such provisions is the power given to High Courts in the States under Art. 226, (1) and Art. 227 (1) of the Constitution. AIR 1954 Bhopal 25 (27) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226—States Reorganisation Act (1956), S. 88—Actionable wrong other than breach of contract—Meaning of — Dismissal of Government servants — Order challenged on ground of infringement of Art. 311 (2)—Protection under Art. 226 available. See States Reorganisation Act (1956), S. 88. AIR 1959 Bom 363.

——Art. 226—Traffic Accounts Code, R. 846—Standing Orders, Rules 31 and 237 (h)—Railway Establishment Code, R. 1706 R — Railway servant charge-sheeted for misconduct—But penalised for negligence coupled with violation of rules—Held as conduct of servant did not amount to misconduct, charge-sheet must be treated as vague — Penal order must be quashed See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). (1965) 10 Fac L R 263 (Cal).

——Art. 226 — Departmental inquiry conducted in a manner contrary to law—Order of dismissal—Liability to be set aside. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1961 Cal 40.

——Art. 226—Invalid order—Dismissal order passed against railway servant—Departmental inquiry defective — Order is invalid. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1956 Cal 662.

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Enquiry into misconduct of Civil servant - Strict adherence to rules—Failure does not entitle servant to complain against punishment unless Art. 311 is violated — Kerala Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Ker 224.

——Art. 226—Object of Art. 311 — Protection given to Government servants—Extent of. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1954 Madh B 49 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 and 311 — Charge of corruption against Govt. Servant—Inquiry and report by Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal—Dismissal of servant by Govt. — Appeal to Governor under Civil Services (Classification and Appeals) Rules—Dismissal—Petn. under Art. 226—Maintainability.

Held that (1) neither the Govt. nor the Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal fall within Art. 227.

(2) that the fact that rules are made to safeguard the rights of civil servants in matters of disciplinary action does not mean that the High Court has jurisdiction to quash orders of Govt. dismissing a civil servant because one or other of the rules has been contravened. As there was no contravention of Art. 311 of the Constitution the High Court had no jurisdiction under Art. 226 to quash an order of dismissal by the Govt. 64 Mad L W 436 : 1951 Mad W N 410 : 1951-1 Mad L J 709 : 1951 Mad W N 410 : AIR 1951 Mad 882 (882, 883) (Prs 2, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Requirements of Art. 311 (2) not fulfilled—Order terminating service quashed. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1965 Manipur 46.

——Arts. 226, 311 (2)—Departmental inquiry—Non-compliance with relevant rules — Prejudice—(Book Circulars, No. 13, Part I, Rr. 8-A and 13-A).

Where a Sub-Inspector of Police in a departmental inquiry against him was prevented from putting up a proper defence because of the failure of the authorities concerned to apprise him sufficiently of the grounds on which the proposed action was determined.

Held, that there was non-compliance with rules regarding departmental inquiry which resulted in prejudice to him. The provisions of Art. 311 (2) could not also be deemed to be duly complied with in such circumstances. This attracted the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art 226 AIR 1954 Nag 90, Disting. ; AIR 1954 Nag 229, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Nag 18 (19) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Dismissal of Police officer contrary to Police Regulation 241—If can be questioned.

Although a dismissal by the Governor of a person holding a civil post under the State may not be open to question under the Constitution, a dismissal of a Police Officer by a District Superintendent of Police stands on a different footing. If such dismissal is contrary to Police Regulation 241, it is contrary to law and can be questioned under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1951 Nag L J 593.

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules, R. 4 (b) — Termination of Service — Per Ramaswami J : One notice for making enquiry—Second notice indicating the punishment proposed and for showing cause against it is not required, though the rule is in terms similar to Art. 311 (2) of the Constitution—Rule 4 (b) has to be read in its context — Procedure under and context of R. 4 and Art. 311 (2) indicated—Per Sarjoo Pd. J : There is no distinction between wording and context of Art. 311 (2) and R 4 (b) of National Security Rules — But question of want of second notice held could not be agitated in proceedings under Art. 226, but could be taken up by way of a suit. See Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules, R. 4 (b). AIR 1953 Pat 92.

——Art. 226 — Decree by Civil Courts setting aside dismissal from service on ground of non-compliance with provisions of Constitution — Government can direct further enquiry. 1960 Raj L W 385.

——Art 226—Certiorari—Issue of writ—Dismissal of subordinate employee by Director of Education—Latter not following procedure prescribed by R. 7 of Jaipur Civil Service Regulations.

The tribunal or the authority whose decision is questioned by a writ of certiorari must be under a legal obligation to act judicially. If the law under which the authority is making a decision itself requires a judicial approach, the decision will be quasi-judicial.

The Jaipur Civil Service Regulations can neither be said to be statutory law nor rules made under the authority of a statute. They are simply rules for the guidance of the authorities. It cannot be said that whatever is contained in R. 7 of Appendix L casts a legal duty upon the heads of the departments or other authorities to adopt the particular procedure laid down therein. If they ignore that procedure, it cannot be said that they have acted in breach of some legal duty. Therefore, a writ of certiorari cannot issue against the Director of Education who has dismissed a subordinate employee without following the procedure prescribed by R. 7. 1952 Raj L W 118 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 134.

23 (k). Suspension.

——Art. 226—Government servant—Order of suspension in contemplation of departmental inquiry — Subsequent order of discharge set aside as illegal — Effect of — Subsequent order of suspension with retrospective effect—Legality.

The petitioner was first placed under an order of suspension. As a result of subsequent departmental inquiry instituted against him he was discharged from service. This order of discharge was found to be illegal and was set aside by the High Court under Art. 226. The authority concerned informed the petitioner that he will be treated as under suspension from the date of discharge. The petitioner who was then dismissed from service after giving him show cause notice again moved the High Court under Art. 226.

Held, that the first order of suspension merged in the order of discharge, and was not revived when the order of discharge was set aside by the High Court. Consequently, it was no longer possible to rely on that order of suspension. Even if the second order of suspension be considered as a fresh order, such an order of suspension with retrospective effect could not be passed. Hence that order of suspension, must be quashed. AIR 1955 S C 600, Foll; AIR 1954 Cal 340, Rel. on. 60 Cal W N 628 : AIR 1956 Cal 447 (448) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Scope — High Court cannot go into question whether order of suspension was based on proper materials—Suspension does not amount to dismissal, discharge or reduction in rank. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir (1957), S. 103. AIR 1964 J & K 14 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Reduction in rank — Suspension does not amount to. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1954 Madh-B 49 (DB).

——Art. 226—Termination of services of temporary Government servant during suspension — Remedy against. See Ibid, Art. 311(2). A I R 1954 Madh B 49 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311, 12—Writ of certiorari—Co-operative society registered under Co-operative Societies Act—Included within definition of 'State' in Art. 12—Amenable to writ jurisdiction — Not competent to order suspension of employee pending inquiry if not provided by a bye-law — Suspension order with retrospective effect is illegal.

A co-operative society registered under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, being an authority or body of persons having the power of framing bye-laws would fall within the definition of 'State' in Art. 12 of the Constitution. A I R 1956 Trav-Co 19 (FB), Rel. on. View of Krishnan, J., in A I R 1959 Madh Pra 218, Dissent. from.

A co-operative society is not an 'individual' in the context of the administration of bye-laws. Byelaws can be impugned on the ground of unreasonableness. Third parties are bound by byelaws without any consent on their part. Byelaws thus stand on the same footing as a statutory rule so far as enforcement is concerned. For that reason if an authority acts in excess of, or refuses to exercise, or abuses, the power granted to it, a writ can issue to correct its action.

The bye-laws give a legal right to the servant apart from the contract and both the society and the servant are bound by it. The enforcement of such a legal right forms an appropriate subject-matter for the issue of a writ under Art. 226 of Constitution.

Under the general law a master cannot suspend his servant. He can either dismiss him or continue him in service on fresh terms. AIR 1941 Nag 125 and AIR 1945 Nag 183 and AIR 1945 Nag 244 and AIR 1946 Nag 347, Rel. on.

Held, that the society had no power to suspend the petitioner employee except by way of punishment. The society's order suspending its employee pending enquiry was without jurisdiction and liable to be quashed. Held, further that the order of suspension could not be, in any case, of retrospective effect. AIR 1955 S C 600, Relied upon. Held also that the co-operative society was entitled to pass a fresh order of dismissal after obtaining due sanction from the Registrar and hence its further action was not barred. (1962) 1 Lab L J 353 : (1961) 3 Fac L R 357 : I L R (1961) Madh Pra 673 : 1961 M P L J 1059 : 1961 Jab L J 786 : 1961 M P C 572 : AIR 1961 Madh Pra 289 (291, 292, 293) (Prs 7, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16, 17, 19) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Fundamental Rules, 3rd Edn. — Appendix XXV, Part E—Suspension before commencement of criminal proceedings—Legality.

Under Appendix XXV, Part E. to the Fundamental Rules, suspension of a government servant can be ordered even before the commencement of criminal proceedings against him. What is required is that there should be an accusation of a criminal offence against him and not that criminal proceedings should actually commence in the sense that a challan is filed. I L R (1952) Nag 52 : 1952 Cri L J 845 : 1952 Nag L J 221 : AIR 1952 Nag 170 (172) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Subsequent valid order of suspension of public servant — Previous illegal order can be quashed.

Public servant, suspended by order of person having no authority — Rule issued on footing that order was illegal — Order sought to be justified — Subsequent valid order of suspension by proper authority, during hearing of rule — High Court would quash previous illegal order, since the petitioner had acquired a valuable right under Civil Law for he would be entitled to his full pay as long as the illegal order was in force — (Discretionary power when to be exercised indicated). A I R 1952 S C 106; A I R 1953 S C 277, Rel. on. I L R (1954) Patiala 105 : A I R 1954 Pepsu 98 (109) (Pt G) (Pr 27).

——Art 226—Suspension order made when enquiry was suspended—Order is not illegal. See Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules (1957), R. 12. AIR 1960 Punj 147.

23 (l). Justiciability of punishment.

See Note 23 (h).

24. Clarification, order for.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Writ to quash order of Minister — Power of High Court to seek clarification.

The position of the Minister before the High Court is that of a party, he being represented by the Government Advocate. The High Court is entitled to ask a party for clarification. The High Court can seek clarification by the Revenue Officer of the order passed by him when the order has been understood in conflicting ways. AIR 1943 F C 72, Rel on. ILR (1951) Hyd 845 : AIR 1952 Hyd 10 (14) (Pt B) (Pr 17) (DB).

25. Company, application by.

See Note 6.

26. Complicated question of fact.
See Note 79.

27. Concurrent jurisdiction of High Court and Supreme Court.

● ——Art. 226—Applicability — Government servant challenging validity of service rule — Proper remedy available is writ petition to High Court under Art 226 — Writ petition directly to Supreme Court under Art. 32 not competent. See Ibid, Art. 32. 1964 (2) Cri L J 481 : AIR 1964 S C 1585.

● ——Art. 32 — Applicability — Infringement of fundamental right to carry on business — Application for writ dismissed by High Court but judgment in favour of petitioners — Application for Special Leave pending — Supreme Court has power to grant relief under Art 32.

Where in effect, the judgment of the High Court was in favour of the petitioners though in form the writ petition was dismissed and the petitioners' fundamental right to carry on business was certainly involved in the case the Supreme Court should not refuse relief under Art. 32. Shrinivasa Reddy v. State of Mysore, 38 Mys L J 71: 1960 Mad W N 98: (1960) 2 S C R 130 : 1960 S C J 1092 : A I R 1960 S C 350 (353) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

● ——Art. 32—Scope.

The jurisdiction conferred on the Supreme Court by Art. 32 is not concurrent with the one given to High Courts by Art. 226. 52 Cri L J 391 : 1951 S C J 98 : 1950 S C R 940 : 64 Mad L W 378 : 1951 Mad W N 709 : 1951 Mad W N (Cr) 213 : A I R 1950 S C 124.

——Art. 226—Construction—"Notwithstanding anything in Art. 32"—Interpretation of.

The words "notwithstanding anything in Art. 32" in the beginning of Art 226 of the Constitution have a special significance and cannot be ignored. They mean and only mean that in spite of the provisions of Art. 32, every High Court shall be empowered to issue writs of the sort specified in the Article. They do not mean or imply that the exercise of this power will be subject to any future legislation by Parliament. 1952 Cri L J 660 : A I R 1952 Bhopal 1 (3, 4) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10, 12, 17).

——Art. 32—Application for certificate under Art. 134 (1) (c) against order of detention under the Preventive Detention Act (1950) — Application under Art. 32 to Supreme Court against identical order of detention summarily dismissed — In view of that fact application under Art. 134 (1) (c), held failed on merits. See Ibid, Art. 134 (1) (c). 1962 (1) Cri L J 282 : A I R 1962 Cal 122 (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Supreme Court refusing leave to appeal—High Court, if can exercise powers under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 136. A I R 1958 Mad 398 (DB).

28. Conduct of petitioner.
See Notes 35, 39 and 48.

29. Contractual rights, enforcement of.
(a) Alternative remedy.
See Note 7.

29. Contractual rights, enforcement of.

● ——Art. 226—Order for payment of money can be made under Art. 226 to enforce statutory obligation.

The High Court normally does not entertain a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution to enforce a civil liability arising out of a breach of contract or a tort to pay an amount of money due to the claimant and leaves it to the aggrieved party to agitate the question in a civil suit filed for that purpose. But an order for payment of money may sometimes be made in a petition under Art. 226 against the State or against an officer of the State to enforce a statutory obligation. Where the petition under Art. 226 is for enforcement of the liability of the Collector imposed by S. 14 of the Orissa Sales Tax Act it can only be allowed subject to the restrictions which have been imposed by the proviso. Burmah Construction Company v. State of Orissa, 1962 S C D 240 : 1962 Supp (1) S C R 242 : (1961) 12 S T C 816 : 28 Cut L T 150 : (1962) 2 S C J 148 : AIR 1962 S C 1320 (1322, 1323) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Contractual obligations—Writ to enforce—When will issue.

Ordinarily, the High Court will refuse to intervene under Art. 226 of the Constitution in a matter which in final analysis has to interpret a contract arrived at between the parties and give relief upon it. The proper forum for such disputes to be settled is the agency of the regular Courts. But where the State decides to employ coercive process of recovering as an arrear of land revenue the amount alleged to be payable to it under a contract, the High Court will not hesitate to intervene if upon the facts accepted or established, the amount sought to be recovered is not payable to the State even if the terms of the contract have to be construed. AIR 1961 All 485 (486, 487) (Prs 6, 8, 9).

——Art. 226—Immunity from income-tax claimed on basis of merger agreement—Dispute arises out of merger agreement and is not justiciable. AIR 1961 All 280 (DB).

——Art. 226—Other remedy open—Enforcement of contractual rights — Agreement under U. P. Educational Code—Arbitration Board constituted in breach of agreement—Interference—Power of—(Arbitration Act (1940), Ss. 14 (2) and 33) — (U. P. Educational Code (1936), Para 358 (2)).

Held, on facts (1) that this being a dispute of a contractual nature the High Court would decline to entertain it in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 (2) that the applicant's speciäc remedy was to require the arbitrator under S. 14, Arbitration Act to cause the award to be filed in Court and thereafter to make an application under S. 33 under which an award can be challenged on any ground. 1957 All L J 741 : AIR 1957 All 737 (738) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Rights relating to contract—All-India Postal Workers Union (Class III) (Allahabad Branch) Constitution — Rule 45—Scope of—Breach of R. 45—Writ of mandamus—Issue of.

Rule 45 of the Constitution of the Allahabad Branch of the All-India Postal Workers Union (Class III) has not got statutory force. It is only in the nature of a contract binding on the members of the Union. Any breach of such rule cannot be enforced by a writ of mandamus under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1957 All 234 (236, 237) (Pt C) (Pr 14).

——Arts. 226, 311—Persons employed on contract basis—Applicablility of Articles—(Master and Servant—Dispensing with services). See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1956 All 43.

——Arts. 226, 299 — Contract with Government — Government cancelling offer even before contract was concluded — Aggrieved party cannot claim any right to maintain writ petition—Proper course is to proceed under general law. AIR 1959 S C 490, Rel. on. (1965) 2 Andh W R 383 : AIR 1965 Andh Pra 425 (431) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art 226—Contractual obligations—Remedy for enforcement—Issue of writ—Propriety—Art. 298.

(Per C. P. Sinha, C. J., agreeing with Deka, J., Mehrotra, J contra).

Though the powers given to the High Court under Art. 226 are very wide, where the question posed is referable to any contract between the parties, that matter must be litigated in the ordinary Civil Courts and not under Art. 226. If the State Government is acting as a lessor under a contract, then the State Government stands on the same footing as any private lessor. The Deputy Commissioner acting under the order of the State Government, the lessor, in taking possession of the land cannot be said to be acting in his executive capacity. AIR 1952 S C 59 and Civil Rule No. 69 of 1954 (Assam) and Civil Rule No. 131 of 1956 (Assam). Foll.; AIR 1956 All 564 and AIR 1954 S C 447 and AIR 1954 S C 415 and AIR 1954 S C 92 and AIR 1954 S C 119 and AIR 1953 S C 108, Dist.

The question whether in such a case the Government can resume the land without bringing a suit for that purpose must be left to be decided by the appropriate ordinary Courts. ILR (1961) 13 Assam 32 : A I R : 1961 Assam 20 (22, 26) (Prs 5, 6, 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Contractual rights — Apprentices appointed prior to nationalisation by an Insurer—Not employees of the Insurer—S. 11, Life Insurance Corporation Act does not apply—Writ petition under Art. 226 for fixing their grade etc., is not maintainable. See Life Insurance Corporation Act (31 of 1956), S. 11. ('63) 67 Cal W N 855.

——Art. 226—Rights relating to contracts—Enforceability.

The High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 does not enforce performance of a contract or prevent the breach of an obligation under the contract. ('58) 62 Cal W N 384.

——Art. 226—Conditions of service founded on contract — Benefit of maxim audi alteram partem not given—Issue of writ.

It cannot be laid down that even where the conditions of service of a person are not governed by any statute, but are founded, on a contract, he is entitled to the benefit of the maxim audi alteram partem. A writ should not, therefore, issue in favour of such a person even if he has not been given the benefit of the maxim. AIR 1953 Punj 88, Distinguished. AIR 1953 Him Pra 103 (104) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Contract of personal service—Specific performance — Writ petition for reinstatement — (Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 21 (b)).

A contract of personal service is not specifically enforceable and a suit by an employee for the relief of reinstatement is liable to be dismissed. The emplovee cannot obtain that relief by means of a writ petition for it is one of the cardinal principles governing writ petitions that none will issue where either the party claiming it has not the legal right to it, or there is no corresponding legal duty cast upon the respondent to perform the act for which the writ is claimed. AIR 1953 Him Pra 103 (104) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 32 (2-A) as applied to State of Jammu and Kashmir—Scope—Contractual rights not covered.

Under Art. 32 (2-A) of the Constitution of India as applied to the State of Jammu and Kashmir a writ for enforcement of contractual rights cannot be granted, because such a right is not a fundamental right so as to call into operation the provisions of that Article. 1953 S C J 323; AIR 1953 S C 250, Relied on. AIR 1959 J & K 10 (10, 11) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability -Contractual obligations —Agreement by student (petitioner) to serve State for specified period after taking degree—Recovery of compensation payable under agreement, by Government for alleged breach — Breach of agreement disputed by student petitioner — Remedy lies in regular Civil Court and not under Art. 226 — Use of Revenue Recovery Act for recovery does not alter the situation. AIR 1961 All 485, Disting. 1964 Ker L T 316 : AIR 1964 Ker 272 273) (Prs 3, 5).

——Arts. 226, 16— Breach of contract — No fundamental right is involved.

Where the grievance relates to a wrongful termination of a contract with the Government for the supply of milk to hospital, it cannot be agitated in proceedings under Art. 226. There is no scope for the applicability of Art. 226 to such a case. AIR 1953 S C 250, Foll.; AIR 1954 Mad 549 and AIR 1955 Mad 385, Relied on. 1959 Ker L T 125 : A I R 1959 Ker 239 (241) (Prs 14, 17) (DB).

——Art 226—Executive or administrative orders — Infringement of provisions of Travancore Education Code — Issue of writ — (Travancore Education Code).

A teacher in a private school is not a servant of the Government. The relation between himself and the manager of the school is purely contractual and Art. 226 could not be invoked for the vindication of any right flowing from such a relationship. Education Code and the orders issued from time to time by the Government or the Department have no statutory force and infringement of the provisions of the Code or such orders could not be made the subject of judicial review. A teacher in such a school must seek his remedies against the management of the school and not the Government. 1958 Ker L T 124.

——Arts. 226, 299 (1) — "For any other purpose" — Existence of legal right is essential for exereise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 — Claim to enforce right under contracts with State — Contracts not complying with Art. 299 (1) — Right cannot be enforced under Art. 226.

Article 226, can only be invoked for the enforcement of fundamental rights and other legal rights if the petitioner has no other specific remedy which is equally convenient, beneficial and effective.

The existence of a legal right is the foundation of the exercise of the jurisdiction under Art 226 A I R 1952 S C 12; AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1950 Madh B 46, Rel. on

Where the petitioners claim to enforce a right to certain forest areas and to the manufactured material (charcoal and kattha) under contracts between them and the State authority the D. F. O) and the contracts admittedly do not comply with the requirements of Art. 299 (1), the contracts being unenforceable, the petitioners have no legal right to work the forest areas and to the manufactured material which can be enforced by any direction or writ under Art 226.

The provisions of Art. 299 (1) are mandatory and if a contract on behalf of the Government does not satisfy the requirements of that article, the contract is not binding on the Government and is unenforceable against it. AIR 1954 S C 236; AIR 1952 Cal 306 and AIR 1955 Assam 86, Rel. on. (1916) 2 K B 193 and (1949) 1 K B 227 Disting. ILR (1956) Madh Bha 1 : AIR 1955 M B 188 (191, 192) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art 226 — Government granting lease in Nazul lands — Lessee alleged to have committed breach of conditions of lease — Question whether there had or had not been breach of condition of lease could be determined only in a civil Court—Government deciding to exercise right of re-entry as lessor on breach of condition of lease — Government asking the lessee to vacate—Government's right of re-entry is like that of any lessor – Government cannot forcibly evict lessee —He can evict him only by a civil suit. 1963 M P. L. J. 701 and M. P. No. 482/64 dated 9th February, 1965 Foll. 1965 M P L J (Notes) 176.

——Art. 226 – Petition not to be entertained to enforce civil liability for breach of contract.

Held that the amount which the petitioners desired to be refunded to them had not been forfeited by the State. It had been only withheld till the petitioners paid the amount of rent said to be due from them in respect of the distillery building. The question whether the opponent was justified in refusing to return the amount under the circumstances depended upon the terms of the contract and the licence. High Court should not normally entertain a petition under Art. 226 to enforce a civil liability arising out of a breach of contract or a tort to pay an amount of money due to the claimant and should leave the aggrieved party to agitate the question in a civil suit. An order for payment of money might some time be made in a petition under the Article against the State or against an officer of the State to enforce a statutory obligation. The obligation which the petitioners were seeking to enforce was one arising under the contract and could not be regarded as a statutory obligation. There was no breach of any statutory obligation or violation of any fundamental rights of the petitioners. That being so, the petitioners had a right to take the matter in a civil Court. A I R 1952 S C 1320, Rel. on. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 174.

——Arts. 226 and 299 - Scope of— Contract not satisfying requirements of Art. 299—Contract not binding on Government —Person aggrieved can have no remedy under Art 226.

The remedy provided by Art. 226 can be resorted to only for enforcement of fundamental rights and other legal rights if the petitioner has no other remedy which is equally convenient, beneficial and effective.

The provisions of Art. 299 (1) are mandatory, and if a contract on behalf of the Government does not satisfy the requirements of that article, the contract is not binding on the Government and is unenforceable against it. In such a case the person aggrieved can have no legal right which can be enforced by any direction or writ under Art. 226. AIR 1954 S C 236, Rel. on. 1961 Jab L J 452 : 1961 M P C 204 : ILR (1959) Madh Pra 854 : 1961 M P L J 627 : A I R 1961 Madh Pra 364 (364, 365) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Enforcement of contractual rights.

Where under an agreement entered into between the petitioner and the Collector, the petitioner agreed to purchase stated quantities of rice from the Collector and to sell it to the public at prices fixed by him and the Collector terminated the agreement without any enquiry as to the misconduct alleged against the petitioner.

Held, that the question of violation of the principles of natural justice would not be attracted to a case, where the act of the Government amounted merely to a breach of contract. The mere fact that the seller of the rice happened to be the Collector did not take the case out of the rule of law that a mere breach of contract has not remediable by a high prerogative writ. 73 Mad L W 209 : 1960 Mad W N 173 : (1960) 1 M L J 328 : I L R (1960) Mad 557 : A I R 1960 Mad 350 (351) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Contractual rights involved—Jurisdiction under Art 226 will not be exercised — Fact that State is a contracting party makes no difference. AIR 1959 S C 490 and AIR 1958 S C 532 and A I R 1954 Mad 549, Rel. on. I L R (1962) Cut 331 : A I R 1962 Orissa 183 (187) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Sales Tax—Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), Ss. 2 (g) and 13 — Contract for assembling and installing machinery plant — Supply of goods in execution of contract — Liability to pay sales tax — Application under Art. 226—Maintainability. (1958) 9 S T C 639 (Pat).

[Reversed in AIR 1961 S C 1615.]

——Art. 226—Rights initially based on contract protected by statute—Violation thereof by statutory body — Writ petition by aggrieved party is competent. ILR (1964) 2 Punj 150 : AIR 1964 Punj 533 (539) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Service contract—Breach of—Rights of parties — See Contract Act (1872), S. 39. AIR 1956 Punj 220.

——Arts. 226, 19 — Supply of electrical energy—No fundamental right — Default in payment of bills — Disconnection of premises — Writ petition not maintainable. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1959 Raj 275.

——Art. 226—Scope — Cases arising out of contractual relationship.

The High Court will not use its extraordinary powers under Art. 226 in cases arising out of contractual relationship, where there is a specific remedy available otherwise, and where the harm done can be compensated for by a suit for damages for breach of contract. So far as the primary relief of writs of prohibition and certiorari is concerned the latter writ is issued to an interior Court to quash the proceedings of that Court which are in excess of its legal authority. Similarly, a writ of prohibition is issued to prohibit an inferior Court from acting in excess of its legal authority. The order against which a writ of certiorari may be directed should be a judicial or quasi-judicial order.

Lease by Government— Eviction of lessee by Government Officers, acting for Government as lessor— Officers acting either as agents of lessor or as persons having no authority.— Tenants can either apply for reinstatement under S. 7 of the Rajasthan Tenants' Protection Ordinance or file a regular suit either in revenue or civil Court — Writ application will not be entertained. AIR 1954 Raj 81 (82, 83) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope.

The Industrial Tribunals under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, are charged with difficult and delicate task and in the interests of industrial peace should be allowed to discharge their duties without delay or interference. Any employer who feels the urge to move the High Court will do well to note that Art. 226 of the Constitution is no charter for the preservation of antique concept of contractual rights in the field of labour relations against the impact of awards which are liberal or legislation which is progressive. A I R 1953 S C 53, Foll; AIR 1951 Mad 974; AIR 1953 Mad 102, Rel. on. ILR (1954) Trav-Co 322 : 1953 Ker L T 856 : AIR 1954 Trav Co 240 (243) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Applicability — Abkari contract between State and citizen for vending toddy—Obligation of citizen to conform to terms of contract— Government seeking to enforce terms after due notice and hearing objections—If violation of fundamental right to carry on business — Certiorari—If lies.

It is not the object of the Constitution of India to enable citizens to break or ignore the obligations arising under lawful contracts entered into by them on the pretext of such obligations being repugnant to the recognition of fundamental rights. When a person enters into a contract, such as an Abkari contract to vend toddy, he is bound to conform to the conditions of that contract, and the State is perfectly justified in enforcing the terms of the contract; and when the State seeks to enforce the same after giving due notice, the citizen cannot approach the High Court and apply for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the Government is denying his fundamental right of carrying on his business or acting contrary to the principles of natural justice. No writ or direction can issue in such a case. 1951 K L T 329 : AIR 1952 T C 287 (289) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Contractual matter—Issue of writ.

There is no occasion for the issue of a writ on what appears to be a simple issue arising out of contract. such as payment of entertainment tax. A I R 1952 Vindh Pra 35 (35) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 (1)—Invasion of right created by contract—Issue of writ.

An invasion of a right created by contract of lease for which the lessee can seek relief in the Civil Court for compensation or cancellation of the lease or otherwise is not such an invasion of a fundamental right as to call for an extraordinary remedy. A I R 1952 Vindh Pra 13 (15) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

29 (a). Alternative remedy.

See Note 7.

30. Corporation, application by.

See Note 6.

31. Costs in writ proceedings.

(a) By advocate.

(b) Inferior tribunal, cost in favour of or against.

(c) Special costs.

31. Costs in writ proceedings.

——Arts. 226, 136 — Writ petitions and appeals from orders thereon — Tribunals joined as parties—Cost of lawyers—Generally not allowed.

In writ petitions and in appeals from the orders passed on the petitions, the tribunals may be proper and necessary parties, but unless allegations are made against them which need a reply from them, it is not usual for the authorities to be represented by lawyers in Court. In ordinary cases, their position is like that of Courts or other Tribunals against whose decisions writ proceedings are filed, they are not interested in the merits of the dispute in any sense, and so, their representation by lawyers in such proceedings is wholly unnecessary and even inappropriate. They should, therefore, bear their own costs. Syed Yakoob v. K. S. Radhakrishnan. (1964) 5 S C R 64 : A I R 1964 S C 477 (483) (Pt E) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226 — Costs in writ proceedings — Costs against party beyond territorial jurisdiction.

Where the prime mover (Central Government, in this case) of proceedings, sought to be quashed by writ proceedings, was beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court, it is true the High Court cannot issue a writ directed to that party, but it does not mean that costs cannot be awarded against that party, when that party is given an opportunity to appear and represent its case before the High Court.

There may be a case where a person, residing outside the jurisdiction of the High Court may institute a suit in a Court within the jurisdiction of the High Court. In such a case, if a writ of certiorari or of prohibition is issued against that Court, the liability for the costs incurred by the petitioner would fall not on the Court but on the person, who initiated those proceedings, even though he may be residing outside the jurisdiction of the Court. (1955) 28 ITR 211 : ILR (1955) 2 All 600 : AIR 1955 All 515 (518) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Costs—Suspension of Government employee from service—Allegations found untenable — Re-instatement—Proceedings under Art. 226 by employee for direction to pay arrears of salary —Writ allowed—Employee entitled to costs. 68 Cal W N 1028 : (1965) 2 Lab L J 321 : AIR 1965 Cal 281 (282) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Costs—(C. P. Code (1908), S. 35).

Where the application under Art. 226 was dismissed but involved the interpretation of a recent statute which had not yet been authoritatively interpreted the Court made no order as to costs. 58 Cal W N 617 : AIR 1955 Cal 72 (76) (Pt H) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226 — Costs — Petitioner successful — But petition filed just two days before the date of poll—Petitioner asked to bear his own costs. AIR 1959 Him Pra 20 (25) (Pt B) (Pr 30).

——Art 226—Costs—Petitioner not disclosing in his affidavit material correspondence relating to his case —Petitioner is not entitled to costs. 1964 Ker L J 130 : 1964 Ker L T 140 : ILR (1964) 1 Ker 662 : AIR 1964 Ker 194 (197) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Legal practitioner—Fees—Writ petition — In special cases Court will allow more fees than the maximum fixed —High Court Rules (Madras) —Rules to regulate proceedings under Art. 226, R. 7, High Court (Madras) Fees Rules (1956), O. 5, R. 16— Per Rajagopalan Offg. C. J. AIR 1962 Mad 36 (43, 44) (Pt D) (Prs 21, 22) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Practice — Costs — (Civil Procedure Code (1908), S. 35).

In view of the delay and loss to the petitioner who was granted the relief prayed for, full costs, were awarded. ILR (1956) Nag 157 : AIR 1956 Nag 1 (8) (Pt I) (Pr 52) (DB).

——Art. 226—Costs.

Petition under Art. 226 allowed—Petitioner himself partly at fault resulting in the order which was quashed under Art 226—Action of authorities bona fide—Parties directed to bear their own costs. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 551 (552) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

31 (a). By advocate.

——Art. 32—Costs—Advocate ordered to pay costs personally—(C. P. Code (1908), S. 35).

An advocate presented a petition under Art. 32 for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a lady and appeared as her next friend. The petition did not disclose that he made any attempt to consult the person who he said was the husband of the lady, nor did it show that he made any attempt to contract either the lady or even her uncle. He had three hearings in the Court despite the warning he was given about costs and the Attorney General was also aked to appear. When the arguments were fully concluded and he found that the Court was against him he asked for permission to withdraw the petition. That was refused and the petition was dismissed.

Held, that the advocate should be made to pay the costs personally. Vidya Verma v. Shiv Narain Verma, 1956 S C J 121 : 1956 All W R (H C) 168 : 1956 Nag L J 200 : 1956 All L J 156 : 1956 S C A 357 : 1956 B L J R 133 : (1955) 2 S C R 983 : 1956 Cr L J 283 (S C) : AIR 1956 S C 108 (110) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

31 (b). Inferior tribunal, costs in favour of or against.

——Art. 226 — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Rules (1949), R. 7 — Rent Control Officer acting under the rule must consult the owner and make the allotment in accordance with his wishes — Failure to comply with the requirement vitiates the order of allotment — Non-compliance due to deliberate defiance of rule and not due to bona fide mistake — Costs in the writ proceedings should be ordered to be paid by the officer personally. ILR (1962) 2 All 377.

——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Rule as to costs of Tribunal and parties.

As a rule of practice, whenever a writ is sought challenging the order of a Tribunal, the Tribunal must always be a necessary party to the petition. It is equally clear :that all parties affected by that order should also be necessary parties to the petition.

Where the Tribunal decides to show cause and to contest the petition, it must take the risk as to any order that might be made with regard to costs. If the petition succeeds, the Tribunal would have to pay the costs of the petition. If the petition fails, the petitioner would have to pay the costs of the Tribunal. But the practice which is growing up for Tribunals merely to appear and to submit to the order of the Court has to be discouraged. Every citizen in that sense of the term has to submit to the orders of the Court. There is no reason why a Tribunal should file its appearance in order to do something which it will have to do, whether it appeared or not.

If the Tribunal is not contesting the petition, there is no reason why it should merely appear to file an affidavit to place all the relevant and material facts before the Court. If the Court requires any facts or information, it is always open to the Court to direct the Tribunal to file the necessary affidavit, and this can be done without the Tribunal appearing and submitting to the orders of the Court. Therefore, as a matter of practice if the Tribunal merely appears in order to submit to the orders of the Court ordinarily the Tribunal should be given its costs. 55 Bom L R 573 : ILR (1953) Bom 800 : AIR 1954 Bom 33 (34, 35) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

31 (c). Special costs.

——Art. 226 — Special costs — Award of — Powers of High Court.

The arrest of the petitioner in this case was manifestly illegal due to the grossly exaggerated notion of the officials of the Co-operative Department of their powers under S. 42 (4-A) of the Co-operative Societies Act. Further the hearing of the case was quite unnecessarily prolonged as a result of the attempt of the State to justify the arrest.

Held, that the circumstances of this case justified the awarding of special costs of Rs. 500 to be paid to the petitioner. AIR 1959 All 733 (737) (Pt E) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Costs or damages — Power of Court to award — (Civil Procedure Code (1908), Ss. 35 and 35-A).

No doubt the rule that costs should follow the event would apply even to proceedings under the writ jurisdistion, unless of course some special reason can be shown for making an order otherwise. But an order of costs is one thing, and an order of costs which is really an order for damages independently of the conduct of the suit or proceeding is quite another matter.

In a mandamus proceeding it is not proper that a decision on a question of damages which the petitioner may eventually suffer should be given. 1958 All L J 879 : AIR 1959 All 226 (229, 230) (Pt B) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Habeas Corpus petition — Effect of delay — (Criminal Procedure Code (1898), S. 491).

Though the principle is that in cases in which the petitioner does not come to Court for redress at the earliest opportunity, the Courts shall refuse the relief prayed for, unless the petitioner is able to satisfy the Court that there is good and valid reason for the delay, delay in filing the petition is not by itself such a fatal defect as to disentitle a petitioner to the relief he wants.

Held, on facts that the delay in filing the petition had been satisfactorily accounted for and the Court would therefore, not be justified in rejecting the petition on that ground. 1957 Cr L J 1361 : ILR (1957) 2 All 42 : AIR 1957 All 782 (791) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

32. Court-fees.

See also Note 10.

——Art. 226—Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1956), Sch. 2 Arts. 11 (S) and 11 (U)—Petition under Art. 226, Constitution of India for appropriate direction or order — Court-fees payable on petition would be under Art. 11 (S) and not under Art. 11 (U). See Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1956), Sch. II Art. 11 (S). (1964) 2 Andh W R 290.

——Art. 226—Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), S. 79 (2)—Applicability—Proceeding arising otherwise, interpretation of — Writ petition—Nature of. See Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), S. 79 (2). AIR 1958 Andh Pra 267.

——Arts. 226, 225, 246 (3), Sch. VII, List II, Item 3 —High Court prescribing court-fee for proceedings before it in original jurisdiction — Powers of State legislature in this respect—Court-fee on writ petitions. See Ibid, Art. 225. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 123 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Act prescribing fee on writ petitions except habeas corpus writ to High Court, validity — Fees whether tax — See Andhra Court fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), Sch. I, Art. 11 (1). AIR 1957 Andh Pra 123.

——Art. 226—States Reorganization Act (1956)—Ss. 3, 119, 120 and 121 — Telangana with Hyderabad forming part of Andhra Pradesh — Income-tax Appellate Tribunal at Hyderabad—Writ of mandamus—Court-fee — Necessary adaptations and modifications to Hyderabad Court-fees Act not made — Hyderabad Court-fees Act applies and not Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act— (Hyderabad Court-fees Act (2 of 1324F), Sch. II, Serial No. 1 (d) :—(Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), Sch. II, Art 11(1).) See States Reorganization Act (1956), S. 3. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 123.

——Art. 226—Withdrawal of petition—Court-fee to be refunded.

Several petitioners jointly made an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution claiming relief against the State by way of re-intstatement. Petition was opposed as being bad for multifariousness due to misjoinder of parties and cause of action. The petition, therefore, was sought to be withdrawn with prayer for refund of court-fee.

Held, that it would be proper to order in exercise of inherent jurisdiction the refund of court-fees to the petitioners. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 45.

33. Courts, writs to.

See Note 5.

34. Declaratory relief.

● ——Art. 32—Powers of Supreme Court — Declaratory relief—Grant of.

Held, that the powers of the Supreme Court under Art. 32 are wide enough to make even a declaratory order where that is the proper relief to be given to the aggrieved party. If the impugned Act has taken away or abridged the petitioners' right under Art. 19 (1) (f) by its own terms and without anything more being done and such infraction cannot be justified, a declaration as to the invalidity of the impugned Act together with the consequential relief by way of injunction restraining the respondents from asserting any rights under the enactment so declared void will be the only appropriate reliefs which the petitioners will be entitled to get. Kochunni Nayar v State of Madras, 1959 Ker L J 464: (1959) 2 S C A 248: (1959) S C J 858 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (S C) 70 : (1959) 2 Mad L J (SC) 70: (1959) Supp (2) S C R 316: AIR 1959 S C 725 (732, 733) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

● —Art. 226—Declaration of rights.

The primary purpose of Art. 226 seems to be the enforcement of legal rights and obligations and not their declaration in vacuo. Sri D G. Vidyalaya Association v. State of U. P., 1962 All L J 329 : 1962 All W R (H C) 243 : ILR (1962) 1 All 737 : AIR 1962 All 187 (191) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (FB).

——Art. 226—Declaratory relief—Grant of.

When exercising its writ jurisdiction the High Court should not attempt to grant a declaration on the basis of a decision arrived at on a consideration of disputed facts. But where the basic facts are unchallenged and the inferences to be drawn from them are obvious the High Court is not debarred from giving a declaration if it appears necessary in order to meet the ends of justice. Civ. Misc. Writ Appln. No. 534 of 1952 dated 3-12-1954 (All), Rel. on.

Petitioner seeking in effect a declaration that he had not forfeited his Indian citizenship by applying for Pakistani passport—Basic facts unchallenged—Declaration granted under Art. 226. 1960 All L J 461 : 1960 All W R (HC) 646 : A I R 1960 All 637 (640, 641, 642) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 10).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1962 S C 1052.]

——Art. 226—Declaratory relief.

While considering whether or not the rights of a person have been infringed it is open to a Court to consider the constitutionality of a statute under which the impugned orders are passed. But in a case where no orders have been passed under an impugned Act and no rights of the petitioner have been invaded mere declaration that the impugned Act is unconstitutional cannot be given. 1959 All W R (H C) 509 : 1959 All Cr R 427 : A I R 1959 All 57 (67) (Pt H) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226—Other remedy open.

Writ proceedings are not meant for declaratory decrees or for giving money decrees. In case a person is entitled to any subsistence allowance from his employer he can file a separate suit. The argument that the suit would involve considerable time is not acceptable because if it were accepted every suit for money should be filed under the writ jurisdiction. (1956) 1 Lab L J 242: AIR 1956 All 43 (46) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Directions, orders or writs, etc. — Declaratory relief.

The writ jurisdiction under Art. 226 should not be utilised for the purpose of granting merely declaratory reliefs. ILR (1955) 1 All 25 : 1954 Cr L J 691 : AIR 1954 All 319 (323) (Pt D) (Pr 3) (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — Declaratory relief.

The powers of issuing writs, orders or directions should not be utilized for giving what is in essence a declaratory relief. Maqbulunissa v. Union of India, 1953 All L J 148 : 1953 All W R (H C) 212 : I L R (1953) 2 All 289 : A I R 1953 All 477 (479) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 S C 532.]

——Art. 226 — Declaration that a decree passed under an Act is null and void—If can be granted.

It is very rarely that a declaration that a decree passed under an Act is null and void is given by a Court on an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution and even otherwise as there is an alternative remedy by suit. 1952 A W R (HC) 139 : ILR (1953) 2 All 849: AIR 1952 All 697 (697) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Grant of declaration or refund.

The High Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 would not grant declaration or direct the refund of the amount collected from the petitioners, for in such an eventuality, any person seeking such relief, should have recourse to the ordinary Courts of law. I L R (1960) Andh Pra 42 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 234 (246) (Pt L) (Pr 68) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari — What relief can be granted—Declaration of right.

Declarations are not granted by the High Court by the issuance of a writ of certiorari. Declaration of right is not a form of relief which is appropriate to proceedings under Art. 226. It is only for the enforcement of a right, that these extraordinary powers of the High Court can be invoked. A I R 1959 Andh Pra 471 (Pt G) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 226—Right to relief—Relief of declaration—If available in proceedings under. See Ibid, Part III, Art. 13. A I R 1959 Andh Pra 471 (DB).

——Art. 226—Wrong recitals in letters or correspondence — If can be declared null and void or ultra vires. A I R 1958 Andh Pra 632 (635) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Declaratory relief—Permissibility.

Where a petitioner seeks a declaration that the officer dealing with his income-tax assessment should be directed to keep himself within the limits and bounds of the statute, such relief being merely declaratory, should not be granted 1958 Andh L T 528 : (1958) 2 Andh W R 353 : (1958) 34 I T R 216.

——Art. 226—Declaratory relief—What is.

An application for an order directing the respondent to forbear from holding elections to the municipal council is not one for declaratory relief. I L R (1956) Andh Pra 480 : 1956 Andh W R 711 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 833 (837) (Pt G) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art 226—Certiorari — Dispute between private parties—Infructuous declarations sought for—Jurisdiction cannot be invoked.

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot be invoked for the purpose of obtaining infructuous declarations.

Held, on facts, that under Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court could grant relief to the petitioner only against illegal acts of the State. It could not exercise its power to decide the dispute as to the interpretation of the agreement or the possession being taken by the other parties in a private capacity over the land as a trespasser. (ii) that merely because the land was sought to be acquired for the Corporation, no relief could be granted against it for the acts which it was alleged to have done as trespasser or in violation of the terms of its agreement with the petitioner independently of the Government. I L R (1962) 14 Assam 404 : A I R 1962 Assam 132 (133) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Relief of declaration.

Obiter. — Article 226 is not to be allowed as a substitute for declaratory suit. But, it does not follow that no kind of declaration can be given by way of relief under Art. 226. The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is comprehensive enough to include powers which civil Courts can exercise. Declarations can be given by the civil Courts only in respect of certain rights and under certain conditions Art. 226 does not impose any restrictions on High Courts in the matter of reliefs. It leaves the power conferred on High Courts completely unfettered. If a declaration is a suitable relief in the circumstances of a given case, High Court is not precluded from granting it under Art. 226 The power under Art. 226 is not limited to the issue of unusual prerogative writs, other orders and directions can issue. These can be issued for the enforcement of fundamental rights and other purposes. A I R 1951 S C 41 : 1951 S C J 29, Rel. on ; A I R 1952 Madh B 105 ; A I R 1953 Punj 137, Commented on. Hiranmoy Bhattacherjee v. State of Assam, AIR 1954 Assam 224 (249, 250) (Pt N) (Pr 53) (FB).

——Art. 226—No existing grievance, no writ

In an application under Art. 226 the High Court is not required to grant a declaration in favour of the applicant unless that declaration is necessary for the exercise of the applicant's rights. If there be no existing grievance, no declaration can be given. A I R 1950 S C 41 ; (1952) 3 S C R 28, Rel. on. I L R (1954) 2 Cal 281 : 57 Cal W N 194 : A I R 1953 Cal 187 (188) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Relief—Industrial dispute—Report by Labour Officer ultra vires so far as petitioners were concerned—Although writs of certiorari, prohibition or mandamus could not be issued in the case, declaration could be given. 1960 Ker L J 999 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 523 : 1961 Ker L T 223 : A I R 1961 Ker 265 (268) (Pt E) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 32 — Scope of — Mere declaration is not permissible.

The power conferred by Art. 32 on the Supreme Court has been conferred for enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution and hence a mere declaration would not be permissible within the purview of the article. 1956 Cri L J 1400 : A I R 1956 Kutch 12 (13) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 228—Declaratory relief.

It is true that Art. 226 of the Constitution confers a power of issuing writs on the High Court not only for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part 3 but also for 'any other purpose". Even then, the granting of mere declaratory relief cannot be said to be contemplated under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Unless a declaration is necessary for the exercise of the applicant's right, such a declaration could not be given. 1956 Cri L J 1400 : A I R 1956 Kutch 12 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—Mere declaration cannot be granted—Warrant against petitioner without jurisdiction to be executed beyond jurisdiction of High Court — Writ under Art. 226, cannot be issued.

The High Court should not take action under Art. 226 unless it is first satisfied that the petitioner has a legal right which has been infringed or is about to be infringed or some illegal wrong has been inflicted upon him or is about to be inflicted upon him ; the jurisdiction under Art. 226 cannot be exercised for the purpose of granting merely a declaratory relief.

The High Court will not interfere under Art. 226 for the mere purpose of granting a declaration that the warrant under S. 100, Criminal P. C. issued by the District Magistrate of Dewas for the recovery of the petitioner from a house in Delhi is without jurisdiction if the declaration cannot be followed up by the grant of any relief. If in spite of the patent defect of the jurisdiction in the warrant, the Station House Officer of Dewas is permitted by the authorities in Delhi to execute the warrant and if the petitioner at any future time happens to be in the place named in the warrant, the petitioner can move the appropriate Court for having the execution of the warrant stayed. 1955 Cri L J 276 : Madh B L J 1954 H C R 1070 : Madh B L R 1954 Cr 160 : A I R 1955 Madh B 20 (21) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Declaratory relief — Issue of writ—Jurisdiction.

What the petitioner really wanted was a declaration that the settlement come to did not bind the petitioner. To get such a relief it must file a suit for a declaration. The jurisdiction of the High Court in relation to writs cannot be availed of for that purpose. (1959) 1 Lab L J 520 : (1959-60) 16 F J R 106 : 72 Mad L W 386 : (1959) 2 Mad L J 173 : 1959 Mad L J (Cr) 627 : I L R (1959) Mad 891 : A I R 1959 Mad 441 (444) (Pt C) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Not issued for declaring rights.

No writ of Mandamus can issue, the object of which is to declare the rights of the parties. A I R 1953 Punj 137 and A I R 1952 Cal 496, Rel. on. (1956) 26 Com Cas 431 : ILR (1957) Mad 383 : 70 Mad L W 28 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 254 : A I R 1957 Mad 309 (312) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Declaratory relief.

Court will not exercise jurisdiction merely for purposes of granting declaration, if it cannot be followed by grant of effective relief — Legality of search challenged — No articles seized — Petition will not be entertained inasmuch as there would be no order for return of articles, if search were held to be illegal. 19 Cut L T 103 : 1953 Cri L J 1041 : A I R 1953 Orissa 153 (154) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope—(Contract Act (1872), S. 24).

The provisions of Art. 226 do not apply for getting a declaration, that is, for purposes of enforcement of a contract or to prevent breach of contract. Where, therefore, the contract was entered into between the State and the petitioner after tenders had been called, and a clause in the contract gave to the Government the right to cancel the contract at any time without assigning any reason and without their being liable for any compensation, the application under Art. 226, by the contractor that his contract was put an end to "as a result of executive action which was capriciously taken and the action of the Government was mala fide" and that it has resulted in a breach of his fundamental right under Art. 14 of the Constitution, was liable to be dismissed. Case law reviewed. (1884) 113 U. S. 27 and (1947) 334 U. S. 1, Distinguished.

ILR (1953) Punj 113 : AIR 1953 Punj 239 (239, 240) (Prs 2, 6, 7).

——Art. 226—"Directions, orders or writs".

Under Art. 226 no relief can be given which will be in the nature of declaration. A I R 1950 Pat 222 (FB), Dissented from. ILR (1953) Punj 472 : A I R 1953 Punj 137 (143) (Pt D) (Pr 23) (DB).

35. Delay in applying.

(a) Habeas Corpus.
(b) Mandamus.
(c) Factor in exercising discretion.
(d) Limitation.
(e) Absence of diligence.
(f) Excusable delay.

35. Delay in applying.

——Art. 226—Laches.

The question whether a party is guilty of laches depends upon the facts of each case. A I R 1956 Ajmer 73 (76) (Pt F) (Pr 24).

——Art. 226 — New point—Objection regarding writ petition being belated, not raised before Single Judge, must be overruled in appeal. ILR (1965) 1 All 329.

——Art. 226—Delay — Proceedings for acquisition of petitioner's land started in 1949 — Government's sanction to acquire land published in 1954 — Writ petition filed in June, 1956 — No award prepared under S. 11 of Land Acquisition Act — Disputed land not yet acquired — Held there were no laches on part of petitioner in filing petition — It was open to him to file petition at any time before his land was actually acquired and possession taken over. I L R (1965) 1 All 329.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Laches.

So far as a writ of certiorari is concerned, the rule has always been that if a person wants to seek the aid of the Court in getting such a writ issued, he must act with the least possible delay and if he is guilty of laches, he must offer some adequate explanation. A I R 1962 All 114 (115, 116) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Reference under S. 3, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act — Interference on ground of delay on application under Art. 226 is within discretion of High Court. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 2664.

——Art. 226—Laches and delay—Effect.

It is well settled that the jurisdiction of the High Court will not be exercised in favour of persons who are guilty of laches and inordinate delay. (1959) 2 Andh W R 53 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 471.

——Art. 226—Delay—Effect of.

An aggrieved party who wants the High Court to exercise these extraordinary powers under Art. 226 must be very vigilant and seek relief at the earliest date. If he fails to do so and has no satisfactory explanation for the delay, then his petition is liable to be thrown out in limine. (1959) 36 I T R 527 (Bom).

——Art. 226—Delay—Effect of.

Where there has been delay or acquiescence, the Court may refuse to intervene, irrespective of the fact as to whether the assessment was valid or not. If the assessment was invalid, such an action on the part of the Court did not make it valid. But an equity Court was not bound to intervene if there had been delay or acquiescence, but would leave the parties to their ordinary legal remedies if any. (1960) 38 I T R 316 : ILR (1960) 1 Cal 33 : 64 Cal W N 963 : A I R 1959 Cal 697 (698, 700) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 6).

——Art. 226—Mandamus.

One of the conditions precedent to the issue of a writ of mandamus is that the party applying for it must not be guilty of any laches. A I R 1953 Cal 659 (657) (Pt D) (Pr 34) (DB).

——Art 226 — Laches — Writ petition — Delay—Effect of. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir (1957), S. 103. A I R 1958 J & K 11 (FB).

——Art. 226—Application under—Delay in making—It is for Court to examine question of delay — Failure on part of opposite party to object on ground of delay is immaterial. 1961 M P L J 1465 : 1962 Jab L J 80 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 50 (53) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Application under—Delay in making—Application admitted for hearing — Still question of delay can be canvassed at time of hearing. 1961 M P L J 1465 : 1962 Jab L J 80 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 50 (53) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Mere delay in certain circumstances may not be sufficient to defeat the petition for a writ of certiorari. AIR 1954 Nag 151 (FB), Foll. 1959 M P C 712 : ILR (1959) Madh Pra 191 : 1959 M P L J 1179 : 1960 Jab L J 45 : A I R 1960 Madh Pra 109 (111) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 20 (2)—Delay in filing application — May be condoned on ground of bona fide ignorance of law. Question is for authority to decide — Not a matter for interference in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution—Constitution of India, Art. 226. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 20 (2). A I R 1961 Mad 310.

——Art. 226—Delay in filing writ petition — When a ground for refusing to exercise jurisdiction.

It is well settled that the delay in invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court is not by itself a ground on which the Court should refuse to exercise its jurisdiction. The question as to whether jurisdiction should be declined on the ground of delay is a matter of sound judicial discretion. Unless the delay in invoking that jurisdiction has resulted in prejudice, which must, from the very nature of the case, be reasonably expected High Court should not refuse to exercise that jurisdiction. ILR (1960) Mys 73.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—Nature—Effect of inaction and inordinate delay in applying.

The power of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a discretionary one. Inaction on the part of a petitioner for a long time and inordinate delay in approaching the Court may itself form sufficient ground for refusing the discretionary relief. AIR 1955 Pepsu 129 (131) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches — Effect of, on petitions under Arts. 226 and 227—No distinction. See Ibid, Art. 227. AIR 1962 Punj 490.

——Art. 226 — Laches — Effect—See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 5. A I R 1959 Punj 54.

——Art. 226 — Delay — Principles — Interference under inherent powers, with orders passed before Constitution.

Article 226 of the Constitution prescribes no period of limitation, but ordinarily no application under it will be entertained unless it is made soon after the right sought to be protected is infringed. No relief is ordinarily granted to a person who does not seek his remedy under the said Article with due diligence. Whether there is delay or not must be decided with respect to the facts of each particular case. 1953 Ker L T 703 : ILR (1953) T C 962 : AIR 1954 Trav.Co 55 (56, 57) (Prs 5, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

The object behind Art. 226 being the rectification of grave injustice, mere delay cannot be a ground for refusing a just writ. In considering what is delay, consideration must be paid to the harassment caused. AIR 1954 Nag 151 (FB), Rel. on. AIR 1951 Mad 250, Dist. AIR 1959 Tripura 21 (24) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

35 (a). Habeas Corpus.

——Art. 226—Delay — Habeas corpus petitions made to jail authorities reaching Supreme Court after four weeks—Delay held inordinate—Such petitions should be sent directly and at once to Supreme Court and to High Courts where they are addressed to them. 1965 Ker L T 1229 : 1966 Cr L J 602 : AIR 1966 S C 816 (819) (Pt D) (Para 12).

35 (b). Mandamus.

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Delay.

A writ of mandamus is not a writ of course or right but is within the discretion of the Court; and if there has been undue delay, it is usually not granted. It would, however, depend on the facts of each case as to whether the delay in that particular case was sufficient to disqualify the petitioner from getting the relief. The mere fact that the petitioner was in jail does not prevent him form making a petition for issue of the writ to the High Court. A I R 1956 Kutch 9 (12) (Pt D) (Prs 18, 19).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Laches.

A writ of mandamus is not a writ of right. A person invoking the special jurisdiction of the Court for the extraordinary remedy is required to be diligent. If he comes late and does not give any explanation for the delay he does not become entitled to the remedy. AIR 1957 Cal 310, Foll. ('62) 66 Cal W N 1029.

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect — Petition for writ of mandamus.

A writ of mandamus is not a writ of right and a person invoking the special jurisdiction of the Court for the extraordinary remedy by way of a writ is required: to be diligent. A delay of about two years is fatal. AIR 1957 Cal 310, Foll. ('58) 62 Cal W N 437.

35 (c). Factor in exercising discretion.

——Art. 226—Writ petition—Limitation for filing—No law providing such period—Delay and laches — When bars discretionary relief—Petition challenging acquisition proceedings—Nature of—Effect of delay.

There is no rule of law laying down any period of limitation for filing of petitions under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The question of delay or laches is only one of the circumstances which the High Court while exercising its discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution takes into consideration. Whether in a particular case the petitioner forfeits the exercise of discretion in its favour on account of laches or undue delay would depend on the peculiar circumstances of that case, nature of the executive action prejudicing its rights and the nature of the relief which the High Court can give under Art. 226 of the Constitution. There is no hard and fast rule laid down in this respect by the High Court or by the Supreme Court which is applicable universally in all circumstances. 1965 All L J 1187 : AIR 1966 All 237 (239, 240) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Delay in filing petition challenging validity of land acquisition proceedings —Delay is not absolute bar to filing of petition and Court will not be deterred in entertaining petition where attempt is made to by-pass statutory provisions. AIR 1965 All 356 (360) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Laches—Relief not necessarily barred.

The relief under Art. 226 is in the discretion of the Court. There is no rule which debars a petitioner from getting relief merely because there is delay in presenting the petition. The matter of delay is only one of the considerations, which arises in granting or refusing relief under the article. 1962 All W R (H C) 12.

——Art. 226—Belated application — High Court not to exercise discretion in favour of petitioner. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 4441.

——Art. 226—Delay in applying—Petitioner is disentitled to get relief. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 4163.

——Art. 226 — Laches — Effect—Petitioner guilty of laches—Petition may be rejected. (1959) 1 Lab L J 554 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Laches—Delay—Effect.

No limitation is prescribed for the exercise of powers under Art. 226, but if there has been delay, the High Court will be reluctant to exercise its discretion under Art. 226. Each case will have to be looked at on its own facts. 1961 (2) Cri L J 195 (Assam).

——Art. 226—Laches—(Sales Tax—Assam Sales Tax Act (XVII of 1947), S. 31 (1)).

Where the assessment has been completed and in some cases even the amount had been realised the High Court would not be inclined to interfere under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Civil Rules No. 132 of 1952, dated 30-1-1956 (Assam) Foll. (1957) 8 S T C 416 : AIR 1956 Assam 185 (186) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay in applying — Discretion of High Court.

The conduct of the petitioner is a relevant consideration when he comes for relief by way of extraordinary writs under Art. 226. It may disentitle him to the extraordinary relief without creating any estoppel.

Held, that for three years the petitioner was acquiescing in the order of suspension and compulsory retirement expressly and by necessary implication and was struggling to get a higher pension on the basis of compulsory retirement. In these circumstances considering his conduct of acquiescence, his failure to appeal from the order under the Fundamental Rules and also delay of three years which could not be accounted for on any reasonable basis, no case had been made out for interference with the order. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 410: AIR 1956 Assam 12 (14, 15) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay.

Petition under Art. 226 for writ directing Government not to enforce award of Industrial Tribunal—Award notified in October, 1952 — Petition presented on 19th November, 1953—The fact of delay, held could not be ignored. ILR (1954) 6 Assam 161 : AIR 1954 Assam 161 (164) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Laches.

A petitioner wanting to invoke the Court's jurisdiction under Art. 226 or 227 must come up for relief as quickly as possible.

Held on the facts of the case arising out of a dismissal of a Government servant that there was not such a gross delay on the part of the petitioner that the Court should dismiss petition solely on the ground of delay. 60 Bom L R 624 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 692 : AIR 1960 Bom 9 (10) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

It has been the uniform practice of the Hyderabad High Court not to entertain applications not filed within reasonable time from the date of the order impugned. The remedy under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a discretionary one, and the Courts will refuse to exercise the discretion in favour of a person who has not been diligent. ILR (1956) Hyd 724: AIR 1957 Hyd 14 (14) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Extraordinary jurisdiction is seldom exercised. A I R 1955 N U C (Hyd) 1547 (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay—Effect of.

Though, ordinarily, a party invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 should come at the earliest possible moment, no hard and fast rule can be laid down and it would be within the discretion of the Court trying the application to interfere in appropriate cases even if the applications are presented beyond the conventional period permitted for filing a Civil Revision Petition. 1958 Ker L J 198 : 1958 Ker L T 130 : ILR (1958) Ker 319 : AIR 1958 Ker 357 (382) (Pt A) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Long delay should disentitle the petitioner to relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1957 Ker L T 1082.

——Art. 226—Limitation—Effect of laches.

Though no limitation is provided for an application under Art. 226, ordinarily it is to be presented as soon as practicable after the event that furnishes a cause for the relief claimed. If the petitioner is guilty of laches it would be justifiable to deprive him of his costs. 1956 Madh B L J 187 : Madh B L R 1956 Civil 33 : AIR 1956 Madh B 175 (177) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Mere delay—Effect.

Although mere delay in approaching the Court would not legalise that what is illegal, yet the power exercisable by the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is discretionary, and in the exercise of that discretionary power the question of delay can properly enter into its consideration and unexplained and unreasonable delay would disentitle the petitioner to obtain redress. No distinction can, however, be made whether the case is one for the enforcement of fundamental right or for any other purpose, so as to place the former upon a higher level which would fetter the discretion of the High Court in the exercise of its power irrespective of the extent and propriety of the delay. AIR 1954 Nag 151 (FB), Foll. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 61.

——Art. 226—Delay in filing application—Exercise of discretion by High Court—Conduct of applicant to be taken into consideration. AIR 1965 Manipur 39 (Pt A) (Prs 14, 15).

——Art. 226—Delay.

Where on merits the petitioner has a good case he should not be deprived of his remedy by a writ application merely because of the delay for which the petitioner is not responsible. ILR (1954) Cut 644 : AIR 1955 Orissa 151 (156) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Petition under — Effect of delay.

It would be an abuse of the power given to the High Court under Art. 226 to issue a writ in respect of an order of removal passed against the petitioner in the year 1948, which order the petitioner apparently accepted without demur at least till 1950. The exercise of the power under the Article is discretionary, except in the matter of enforcement of fundamental rights, and no writ can issue where the petitioner had waited from 1948 to 1954 without taking necessary action against the order. (1958) 1 Lab L J 324 : 1956 B L J R 49 : AIR 1956 Pat 23 (28) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay in making petition.

A party aggrieved by an order of a Court or Tribunal if he seeks to invoke the extraordinary but discretionary remedy of a writ to avoid miscarriage of justice, must do so as early as possible. In cases where there is other remedy also available, a great and unexplained delay in making the petition might render it liable to be dismissed on that score. However, where the aggrieved party has no other remedy under the law, the delay in filing a petition cannot by itself be sufficient ground for rejecting it outright. ILR (1954) Patiala 1 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 133 (136) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Inordinate delay.

Where there is inordinate delay in making the application, the Court may in its discretion reject the application. (1950) 2 Pepsu L R 443.

——Art. 226—Laches and delay afford good and valid ground for refusing writ.

Relief by way of a high prerogative writ being in the discretion of the Court, want of due diligence and promptitude on the part of the claimant may afford good and valid grounds for refusing this relief. AIR 1956 Punj 10 and AIR 1956 Punj 92 and AIR 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on. AIR 1960 Punj 58 (61, 62) (Pt. G) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Acquiescence and laches would be a relevant factor and will have to be taken into consideration while exercising discretionary power under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1959) Punj 1518 : 61 Punj L R 785 : AIR 1959 Punj 460 (461, 462) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Laches and delay in presenting petition is a ground for not exercising extraordinary jurisdiction. 1964 Raj L W 380.

35 (d). Limitation.

——Art. 226—Writ of quo warranto — Belated petition cannot be dismissed for delay— Cause of action arises 'de die in diem.'

There can be no question of delay in presenting a petition for a writ of quo warranto in which the right of a person to function in a certain capacity is challenged. Every day that the person so acts in that capacity a fresh cause of action arises. ILR (1958) Bom 113, Rel. on. AIR 1965 All 151 (152) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—High Court Rules and Orders (All)—Writ Petitions Limitation—Petition filed beyond 90 days of the order without explaining the delay—Petition dismissed. (1962) 46 ITR 529 (All).

——Art. 226—Application under— Limitation — Exclusion of period—Writ application against judgment or order of Court or Officer — Period required in obtaining copy of such judgment or order should be excluded—Period of 14 days for service of notice under Chap XXII, R. 1 (4) should also be excluded—High Court Rules and Orders—Allahabad High Court Rules—Chap. XXII, R. 1 (3), (4). 1961 All L J 726: ILR (1961) 2 All 409.

——Art. 226—Application under—Limitation.

The writ petitions under Art. 226 of the Constitution should be filed as quickly, after the delivery of judgment of the inferior tribunal as possible. A period of 90 days, which is the period fixed for appeals to the High Court from the judgments of Courts below, should be taken as the period for application for the issue of a writ of certiorari, and that time can be extended only when circumstances of a special nature, which are sufficient in the opinion of the Court, are shown to exist 1956 All L J 334: AIR 1957 All 47 (47) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect—Other remedy open—Issue of writ.

The Petitioner who was a railway servant was removed from service. After pursuing the remedies under the Railway Establishment Code, he filed a writ petition against his removal on the ground that he had not in law been removed from service, the petition was filed more than ninety days after his memorial to the General Manager was rejected.

Held, that (i) the alternative remedy of suit for damages for wrongful removal of service was not appropriate. (ii) Since the judgment of the High Court in 1956 A L J 584 in which the ninety days rule of limitation was laid down had not been delivered when the petition was filed, the petition could not be dismissed on the ground of unreasonable delay. (1957) All WR (H C) 138: (1957) All L J 143: ILR (1957) 1 All 24.

——Art. 226 — Audi alteram partem — Petition for setting aside auction sale held by Official Receiver under Provincial Insolvency Act filed beyond 21 days—Application for condoning delay under S. 5, Limitation Act—Court without even ordering notice to the Official Receiver or the auction purchaser, condoning delay and entertaining application for setting aside sale—Held, that there was violation of the principle of natural justice contained in maxim audi alteram partem. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 5. A I R 1964 Andh Pra 50 (DB).

——Art. 226—Expression 'Court of appeal'—Includes every superior Court having power to review decision—Time spent in writ petition — Petition dismissed on ground of other remedy—Time held deductable under S. 14. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 14. I L R (1962) Andh Pra 865.

——Art. 226—Limitation—Appeal against judgment of single Judge—Limitation—(Limitation Act (1908), Art. 151)—(Andhra State Act (XXX of 1953), Ss. 32 and 55)—High Court Orders and Rules — Andhra Pradesh High Court (Appellate Side Rules, R. 51).

All appeals against the judgments of a single Judge on petitions under Art. 226 of the Constitution should be brought within twenty days as prescribed by Art. 151 of the Indian Limitation Act read with Ss. 32 and 55 of the Andhra State Act. R. 14 of the rules framed by the High Court for proceedings under Art. 226 does not lay down any period of limitation for the purpose and R. 51 of the Appellate Side Rules cannot be attracted to appeals against orders of a single Judge made on the original side of the High Court and a proceeding in a writ petition is a proceeding on the original side of the High Court. (1960) 1 Andh W R 36: ILR (1959) Andh Pra 1315: 1960 Andhra L T 183: AIR 1960 Andhra Pra 364 (365) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Limitation.

In the absence of valid grounds for the delay, an original petition should be filed within three months of the date on which the order sought to be quashed was passed. AIR 1959 Ker 21 (23) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Violation of fundamental right — Continuing wrong —Limitation.

In ordinary cases, the Court would be unwilling to exercise its discretion where there have been laches. But in so far as a writ is sought on the ground of the violation of some fundamental right, the breach should be regarded to be a continuing wrong and as such the question of limitation does not arise. English Law should not in this respect be followed, the reason being that the English Constitution is not a written Constitution and there are no such fundamental rights as are the special features of the Indian Constitution. AIR 1954 M B 173 (175) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application under —Limitation — [Letters Patent, Cl. 27 (Nag)] — [High Court Rules and Orders — Nagpur High Court Rules, Ch. 4, Rr. 11 and 14]. AIR 1953 Nag 80, AIR 1953 Nag 251, Misc. Petn. 162 of 1952, Misc. Petn. 254 of 1952, Misc. Petn. 224 of 1952, Misc. Petn. 164 of 1952, Overruled.

It would be wholly repugnant to the nature of the proceedings and of the powers of the Court that are invoked, in the absence of a rule framed under Cl. 27 of the Letters Patent, to postulate an artificial, much less an arbitrary, standard to determine whether a petition should be thrown out in limine or considered on merits. Unless, by undue delay or laches, inconsistent legal or equitable considerations have arisen which judicial conscience cannot with equanimity ignore, justice should not be denied simply because the Court has not been moved soon after the injury was caused or threatened and the delay has not been explained. The question of delay or laches cannot be determined with reference to the number of days that have elapsed since the injury. It is presumably for this reason that the Constitution has not provided any limitation on the discretion of the Court in regard to the exercise of its powers under Art. 226, and has left it to the Court itself to determine the limits to which it will go, depending upon the justice of each case. Inasmuch as judicial decisions cannot make law, they cannot also create any rule or practice without reference to any rule making power. Thus the High Court cannot lay down a rule of diligence by reference to a number of days by a decision without framing it under its rule-making powers. Krishna v. Chief Secretary, M. P. Govt., 1954 Nag L J 218: ILR (1954) Nag 179: A I R 1954 Nag 151 (156, 157) (Prs 25, 27, 28) (FB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

Where a special law has been framed with the particular idea of expediting the disposal of a matter, it is imperative on every party who is aggrieved by the order passed under such a law to approach the High Court without undue delay. The period of 45 days, from which would be deducted the time taken up in obtaining a copy of the impugned order, is sufficient for any person who is aggrieved by the order to come up to High Court. But apart from that, if there is any further delay, then he has got to explain it. This is not a rule of limitation, but only a rule which raises a certain presumption and further it is meant to apply only to petitions whether the main relief sought is quashing an order of an inferior tribunal. A I R 1953 Nag 89 (FB), Expl.; A I R 1953 Nag 80 (FB), Ref. ILR (1953) Nag 837: 1953 Nag L J 189: AIR 1953 Nag 251 (253) (Pt F) (Pr 9) (DB).
[Overruled in AIR 1954 Nag 151 (FB)].

——Art. 226 — Limitation — Application filed 45 days after passing of impugned Order — Burden of proof is on applicant to show that court could not have been moved earlier. ILR (1952) Nag 934: (1933) Nag L J 57 : AIR 1953 Nag 80 (81) (Pr 1) (DB).

[Overruled in A I R 1954 Nag 151 (FB)].

——Art. 226— Dismissal of Public Servant — Commencement of limitation— Reliefs of declaration that order is wrongful and of arrears of salary cannot be separated —Writ petition for former relief —Does not suspend running of limitation. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 102. AIR 1964 Orissa 111 (DB).

——Art. 226—Order under Art. 226—Leave to appeal to Supreme Court — Time requisite for obtaining judgment can be excluded. 1952 Raj L W 511 : ILR (1952) 2 Raj 492 : A I R 1952 Raj 180 (181) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Limitation — Reasonable time for presentation of application for writ.

The conventional period permitted for presentation civil revision petitions may be regarded as a reasonable time for the presentation of applications for writs, orders or directions under Art. 226. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 231 (232, 233) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — Laches.

The period available for a civil revision petition is the reasonable time within which an application under Art. 226 should be presented. No hard and fast rule however can be fixed in that regard and the matter should be left to the discretion at the trying Judge or Bench to accept a petition though presented beyond that period and deal with it on the merits. A I R 1954 Trav Co 55, Referred. S. Mahadeva Iyer v. State. 1954 Ker L T 427 : I L R (1954) T C 1000 : AIR 1954 Trav-Co 469 (469) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (FB).

35 (c). Absence of diligence.

——Art. 226—Delay.

Notification against which writ was sought becoming effective on 31-3-1952—Applicant receiving copy on 18-4-1952—Representation to Chief Commissioner on 24-4-1952 — Decision not communicated — Oral information that representation would be rejected — Writ application on 18-11-1952 — Cause of action for writ held based on communication received on 18-4-1952 — Delay of 7 months held could not be condoned. 1953 A M L J 1 : A I R 1953 Ajmer 2 (1) (2) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Laches — U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (5 of 1954), Ss. 11 and 42 — Writ petition filed after 6 months challenging order in appeal passed by Dy. Director of Consolidation as one without jurisdiction — Order not challenged on this ground before Director in revision, which was decided on merits—Petitioner contending that though revisional authority had power to revise order of Dy. Director, he, the petitioner, had no right to file revision, and also requesting to deduct time spent in revision in considering delay — Held, that time taken in pursuing revision could not be deducted as on petitioner's own contention, he had no right to apply in revision — Held further that though Dy. Director had no jurisdiction to decide the appeal, his order had merged into that of the Director, in revision, which was on merits. 1965 All W R (HC) 666 : 1965 All L J 718.

● ——Art. 226 — Laches—Review application before Board of Revenue—No allegation of discovery of new and important matter — No mistake or error apparent on the face of the record — Board's order wrong on account of erroneous interpretation of law — Petitioner wasting time before applying for certiorari — High Court refused to issue certiorari. I L R (1963) 2 All 751 : 1963 All W R (HC) 498 : 1963 All L J 731 : AIR 1964 All 213 (220) (Pt G) (Pr 18) (FB).

——Art. 226—Delay.

Where the petitioners instead of coming to the High Court within reasonable time from the dates on which the assessment orders were passed, wasted time by applying to the Sales Tax Officers for rectification, they could not, after the delay of much time, be allowed to attack the validity of the assessment orders. (1964) 15 S T C 523 (All).

——Art. 226 — Delay — Notice under S. 9, Land Acquisition Act on 28-12-1960 — Writ petition more than six months after — Petition suffers from defect of delay — Since important questions of law were raised, his Lordship heard the petition on merits. A I R 1960 All 564 and A I R 1959 All 380, Distinguished. AIR 1963 All 426 (428, 429) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 —Writ petition against assessment of tax filed beyond time — Petitioner formerly member of Town Committee — Delay due to filing of second appeal which does not lie, cannot be condoned. See Municipalities — U. P. Town Areas Act (II of 1914), S. 18. 1962 All L J 1115.

——Art. 226 — Laches — Writ petition — Delay — Effect.

It has been unanimously held that if there had been laches in bringing the matter to the High Court by way of writ petition, the Court will not interfere. (1960) I Fac L R 477 : 1960 All L J 288 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 146 : A I R 1960 All 551 (553) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226 — Laches—Effect.

Where the impugned order was passed as long ago as February, 1950, but the petitioner moved the High Court under Art. 226 for the first time in September, 1956, and that too 13 months after the previous petition of similar nature by another had been dismissed by another Judge of the High Court and feeble explanation was attempted for the delay, the petition deserves to fail. AIR 1960 All 438 (440, 441) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 226 — Delay in applying — Effect—Single application in respect of several orders — Competency.

Where a joint writ petition when there were separate assessment orders and separate appeals was filed 8 months after the dismissal of appeals and the explanation for the delay was unsatisfactory and, further, the copies of the orders of assessment were not filed with the writ petition, the writ petition was liable to be dismissed. 1958 All W R (HC) 224 : (1958) All L J 137 : ILR (1958) 2 All 692.

——Art. 226 —Laches — Writ of certiorari to quash order against Government servant — Arts. 310 and 311.

Where in a petition praying for a writ of certiorari quashing the orders of transfer and suspension passed against the petitioner, a civil servant, it was found that the transfer order was passed on 2nd May, 1951, and the order of suspension, on 16th March, 1954, and the writ petition was filed on 26th April, 1956.

Held, that so far as the orders of transfer and suspension were concerned, there were clear laches on the part of the petitioner. (1958) 2 Lab L J 673 : 1958 All L J 218 : 1958 All W R (HC) 284.

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect of—(Tenancy Laws—U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 of 1951), S. 4 (2)).

Where an order of correction under S. 4(2) of the U. P. Act 1 of 1951 is passed so far back as the year 1954 and the petitioner comes to the High Court in the year 1956 long after the order had been passed the High Court will not exercise its discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution in circumstances. 1957 All L J 188.

——Art. 226—Laches.

Where the petition for writ was filed after more than two months of the impugned order and in the meanwhile as many as 158 witnesses had been examined before the Election Tribunal it was held that the petition was unduly delayed so as to disentitle the petitioner to any relief. 1955 All L J 425 : AIR 1955 All 251 (252) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches — Delay on ground of poverty cannot be condoned. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 5494.

——Art. 226—Laches (Per Sapru J.).

The High Court should not exercise its discretion in issuing writs in favour of applicants who did not raise any objection at the time when the charges under S. 40 of the U. P. Municipalities Act were forwarded to them by the U.P. State Government, that there was any ambiguity about the charges and that they were framed in such a manner as not to enable them to know the exact nature of the case against them and who went on even after the order of removal had been passed, making representations to Government without protesting against the vague, ambiguous or defective nature of the charges and did not choose to come to the High Court until after the lapse of a year of the passing of the final order by Government. The applicants had an alternative remedy, i. e., they could go to a civil Court and challenge the order passed against them on the ground that it was arbitrary, capricious, wanton and that the action in removing them was not bona fide. I L R (1952) 1 All 880 : AIR 1953 All 739 (744, 745) (Pt D) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches — Petition filed 4½ years after date of making of order — No reasonable explanation offered — Petition should fail on ground of laches. I L R (1960) 2 Andh Pra 441 : (1960) 2 Andh W R 20 : (1960) 39 I T R 629 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 614 (615) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect of delay.

A person who invokes the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 should be diligent and when the delay is calculated to put the other parties to the proceedings to a great loss and prejudice the relief asked for will ordinarily be refused. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 343 (346) (Pt F) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Delay—Impugned order of Collector passed on 28-9-1950 — Appellate order of Board of Revenue passed on 27.8.1951 — Government rejecting memorial on 2-7-1955—Writ petition in April 1957—No explanation for inordinate delay — Petition would be rejected. (1960) 2 Lab L J 283 (Andh Pra).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Inordinate delay.

Normally, an aggrieved person should seek his remedy under Art. 226 within a period of six months. A petition filed after a delay of five years challenging an order of dismissal from service, without any satisfactory explanation for the inordinate delay, will not be entertained.

(This apart, it was held that no constitutional safeguard guaranteed under Art. 311, was violated.) (1959) 2 Lab L J 271 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Laches — Effect — Petitioner guilty of laches — Petition may be rejected. (1959) 1 Lab L J 554 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Adhiars found to be in possession of land in excess of 10 acres and only for 5 or 6 years—Landholder a blind person and a minor requiring land for personal cultivation — Right of occupancy not acquired — Application for ejectment held maintainable and allowed—Writ petition against appellate decision of Subordinate Judge — Delay in filing—Interference in extraordinary jurisdiction not called for. See Tenancy Laws — Assam Adhiars Protection and Regulation Act (12 of 1948) (as amended in 1955 and 1957), S. 5(1). AIR 1965 Assam 18 (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect of—Inordinate delay.

Petitioner submitted to the order of the State Transport Authority obtained renewal of his permit and applied nearly 3½ years afterwards under Art. 226 for a writ directing the State Transport Authority not to compel him to ply his bus on rotation.

Held, that the petition was liable to be dismissed on the ground of inordinate delay in applying. 1956 Madh B L J (Bhopal) 79 : A I R 1956 Bhopal 55 (57) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Laches of applicant.

Where the applicant under Art. 226 for the issue of a writ has been guilty of laches of nearly six months and the interest of a third party has been created in the land in dispute in the meanwhile and such third party has invested large sums of money on the land the High Court will refuse to issue a writ in the exercise of its discretion as it would militate against third party's interest for no fault of his. AIR 1953 Cal 223; A I R 1953 Nag 80 and A I R 1951 Mad 204, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Bhopal 1 (3) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Laches — Petition filed after 90 days from date of order impugned — Competency.

Although no period of limitation is fixed for exercise of jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution, if a petition is, however, filed more than 90 days from the date of the order impugned, and no reasonable explanation is offered therefor, it cannot be said that the remedy has been prosecuted with due diligence. In such a case, the High Court will not exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution in favour of the petitioner. A I R 1954 Bom 202 and A I R 1956 Bom 128, Foll., (1958) 1 Lab L J 28; 36 I T R 527 and A I R 1960 Raj 56, Dist. 1961 Nag L J (Notes) 63.

——Art. 226—Laches.

In all writ petitions under Art. 226 it is incumbent upon the applicant to approach the High Court as early as possible and without undue delay. Where the applicant took more than three months to file the application it must be rejected. AIR 1956 Bom 128 (129) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Delay — Question of fact — Other remedy open—[Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 188].

A consignment of marbles arrived in Bombay on 19th December, 1952, and the bill of entry in respect of this consignment was prepared and lodged by the appellants. The contention of the Customs authorities was that the goods shown in the bills of lading were not marbles :covered by entry serial No. 103, but were game requisites-covered by serial No. 325, and that the appellants had committed a breach of the Import Trade Control Regulations by importing game requisites without the requisite licence. It was in respect of this contravention that the order was ultimately made by the Collector of Customs on 5th March, 1953 imposing a penalty of Rs. 20,000 upon the appellants. The appellants challenged this penalty, first, on the ground that the Collector had no jurisdiction to impose a penalty exceeding

Rs. 1,000. The other ground on which they challenged this order was that they had committed no contravention of the Import Trade Regulations.

The appellants preferred an appeal under S. 188 of the Sea Customs Act to the Central Excise authorities. But that appeal was dismissed because, as provided by S. 189 the appellants did not deposit the sum of Rs. 20,000. That appeal was dismissed on 16th June, 1953, and it was only on 24th February, 1954, that the petition under Art. 226 was preferred.

Held, that in this particular case, delay might be excused as far as the first ground was concerned. But there could be no justification whatsoever for the gross delay on the second ground. That ground concerned a question of fact, and if the High Court could go into that question, the appellants should have approached the Court immediately, and not waited for the length of time they had taken. But apart from the question of delay, the appellants were not entitled to ask the High Court to go into that question. The only tribunal that had been set out by the Sea Customs Act was, first the Collector who had made the order and then the appellate tribunal which had been set up under S. 188 and that section in terms provided that every order passed in appeal under the section shall, subject to the power of revision conferred by S. 191 be final. ILR (1955) Bom 318 : 56 Bom L R 115 : 1955 Cr L J 423 : AIR 1955 Bom 113 (121, 122) (Pt E) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Laches—Dismissal of Civil Servant — Issue of writ.

Where the order declaring that the petitioner had ceased to be in the employment of the Government and that the vacancy also had been filled up was passed on 7th May, 1956, and the petitioner applied for a writ under Art. 226, on 12th February, 1957:

Held, that the petitioner had not at all been vigilant. To allow the application after such a long delay would not only prejudice the administration but the new appointment which had been made, and would therefore be unjust. AIR 1958 Cal 407 (411) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Laches — Delay in applying—Effect.

A party desiring to invoke the assistance of the High Court by way of a writ, cannot be allowed to carry on private negotiations for the reversal of the order complained of for years and years and then when such negotiations fail, come up to the High Court at long last with an application under Art. 226. In such circumstances the application is liable to be thrown out on the ground of delay alone. AIR 1957 Cal 720 (723) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Mandamus — Petition for writ—Delay—Effect of.

A writ of mandamus is not a writ of right. A person invoking the special jurisdiction of the Court for the extraordinary remedy by way of a writ is required to be diligent.

Held, on facts that the High Court would not be inclined to come to the assistance of a petitioner by a writ if he comes to the Court after six months of the order complained against. 99 Cal L J 39 : ILR (1958) 2 Cal 1 : 61 Cal W N 420 : AIR 1957 Cal 310 (316, 317) (Pt G) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Unreasonable delay—No explanation—Petition not entertained. AIR 1953 Cal 223 (226) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1954 Cal 171.]

——Art. 226 — Petition praying for issue of writ of certiorari—Laches—Other remedy open—(Himachal Pradesh (Courts) Order (1948), Para. 32 (1) (a) (i).)

A Government servant filed a writ petition praying that a writ be issued to the State of Himachal Pradesh and the Union of India directing them to continue him in service. That petition was dismissed by the High Court, leaving him to seek his remedy by way of suit. He accordingly filed a suit for a declaration that the termination of his services was illegal. He obtained a decree from the Court of the District Judge. The Union of India having presented a writ petition against the District Judge after a lapse of one year and nine months.

Held, that the writ petition could not be entertained because (i) the delay in making the petition was not satisfactorily accounted for; (ii) it was open to the Union of India to file a second appeal from the appellate decision of the District Judge under para. 32 (i) of Himachal Pradesh (Courts) Order. AIR 1960 Him Pra 16 (17, 18, 19) (Prs 7, 9, 14).

——Art. 226—Delay in appplying — Good and satisfactory reason not given — Petition is liable to be dismissed on ground of delay itself. (1960) 1 Ker L R 684 : 1960 Ker L J 651 : 1960 Ker L T 727 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 207: AIR 1961 Ker 123 (123) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Effect—Scheme published under Ss. 68-C and 68-D, Motor Vehicles Act (1939), after rejecting petitioner's objection — Writ Petition filed more than nine months after publication of scheme—Writ would be refused petitioner not having acted expeditiously. 1959 Ker L J 1221 : 1959 Ker L R 1271 : 1959 Ker L T 1184.

——Art. 226 – Laches — Resolutions in regard to amendment of bye-laws of co-operative society passed unanimously at meeting held on 7th August, 1955—Petitioner member present at the meeting and resolutions passed in the presence and apparently with his concurrence — Petition under Art. 226 questioning validity of resolutions and registration filed only on 14th November, 1956 — Delay that had occurred held inordinate and petition should be dismissed on that ground. 1957 Ker L T 56 : 1957 Ker L J 199 : AIR 1957 Ker 14 (15) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Application by Municipal Counsel seeking writ of certiorari for quashing notification under S. 6, Land Acquisition Act for acquisition of land belonging to respondent and award of Land Acquisition Officer — Application filed after 14 years after issue of notification and when no time was lost in taking possession of land covered by notification—Held, petitioner could not be allowed to challenge validity of the notification. 1965 Jab L J 1060 : 1965 M P L J 961.

——Arts. 226 and 227— Delay in moving High Court caused on account of proceedings before Board of Revenue—Proceedings before Board of Revenue were untenable and misconceived — High Court declined to issue writ on the ground of inordinate delay. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 145.

——Art. 226—Petitioner's claim for extra pay alleged to be attached to a post — State refusing to pay—Remedy is by way of suit — Claim not preferred within limitation by petitioner—He cannot enforce his right under Art. 226 — Petition to enforce civil liability arising out of breach of contract or tort not to be normally entertained.

Held, on facts, if the petitioner had disabled himself from availing himself of the statutory remedy by his own fault in not doing so within the prescribed time, he could not be permitted to urge that as a ground for the Court dealing with his petition under Art. 226 to exercise its discretion in his favour. A I R 1981 S C 1506, Rel. on. The Court should not normally entertain a petition under Art. 226 to enforce a civil liability arising out of a breach of contract or tort to pay an amount of money due to the claimant and the aggrieved party should be left to agitate the question in a civil suit filed for that purpose. A I R 1962 S C 1320, Rel. on. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 67.

——Art. 226 — Delay — Case not involving violation of fundamental rights or want of basic jurisdiction — Unexplained delay renders application incompetent.

Although the powers of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution are wide, but having regard to the plenary nature of those powers, they have to be exercised with caution. Except in cases where fundamental right has been shockingly violated, or the authority concerned has acted altogether without basic jurisdiction, unexplained delay on the part of the petitioner in approaching the High Court for redress under Art. 226 of the Constitution is by itself sufficient to justify rejection of the petition. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 291 : 1962 Jab L J 475 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 133 (135) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Application under — Delay in making —Considerable and unexplained delay disqualifies petitioner to assistance.

Though there is no limitation for an application for relief under Art. 226 and the Court will not call upon the petitioner under Art. 226 to give a strict arithmetical account of every day, delay that is considerable and unexplained disqualifies the petitioner to any assistance. It is certainly a principle of prudence and diligence to be applied reasonably, and further, the explanation of the delay, if any, should be considered sympathetically. But this does not mean that delay especially of several months, should be overlooked as a matter of course. A I R 1954 Nag 151 (FB) and A I R 1960 Madh Pra 299, Rel. on. 1961 M P L J 1465 : 1962 Jab L J 80 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 50 (53) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Writ proceedings by retrenched Government servant — Delay in filing application after exhausting remedies under Service Rules—Application may be dismissed on that ground alone. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. A I R 1960 Madh Pra 299 (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay—Delay of eight months in filing petition not satisfactorily explained — Petition rejected. 1960 M P C 570 : 1960 Jab L J 1028 : 1961 M P L J 138 : A I R 1960 Madh Pra 282 (285) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Delay in applying—Effect.

The remedy under Art. 226 is extraordinary and the relief is discretionary. The High Court would not be inclined to give any relief to the petitioner on account of the unexplained delay in his coming to High Court. 1959 Jab L J 326 : 1959 M P L J 679 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 195 (203) (Pt F) (Pr 32) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

The order of the Board of Revenue was passed on 15th April, 1955, and the petition was filed on 1st February, 1956, i.e., nearly 9½ months after the final decision. No explanation had been given by the petitioner for the delay.

Held, that the petition was liable to be dismissed on the ground of inordinate delay. 1957 Jab L J 86 : 1957 M P C 32 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 50 (52) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect—Jurisdiction of High Court—Nature of.

Where the action of the Custodian with respect to the property, in dispute was taken as far back as the year 1949 and even the objections raised by the petitioner before the Custodian were decided finally on 9-12-1954 by the Deputy Custodian General but the petition was filed more than twelve months after and the delay in filing petition was not at all explained:

Held, that the petitioner approached the High Court very late, and the petition was liable to be dismissed. 1957 Jab L J 210 : 1957 M P C 102 : 1957 M P L J 156 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 32 (36) (Pt B) (Prs 31, 34) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question depending on facts—Industrial dispute — Delay in raising dispute—Ground of delay though raised by party not considered by Labour Court—High Court has no jurisdiction to proceed with it in certiorari and to hold that laches did not disentitle the concerned party to relief. W. P. No. 129 of 1962 dated 21st April, 1964 (Mad), Reversed. A I R 1948 Mad 154, Foll. 1965 Mad W N 188 : (1965) 2 Lab L J 237 : (1965) 11 Fac L R 294 : (1965-66) 28 F J R 71 : (1965) 2 M L J 298 : 78 Mad L W 252 : A I R 1965 Mad 454 (456, 457) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay—Delay in moving High Court not accounted for convincingly — No circumstances for condonation of laches shown — High Court can refuse to exercise jurisdiction under Art. 226—Refusal of exercise of jurisdiction prohibiting collection of sales-tax under Madras General Sales-tax Act held justified.

No party has a right to approach the High Court and to demand the exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 unless he has exhibited due diligence, or if there has been undue delay, he is able to account for it in a convincing manner. The exercise of writ jurisdiction is a discretionary power and a party does not approach the High Court as a matter of vested right irrespective of his own conduct. A party seeking exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 in his favour must exhibit due diligence and must not delay in any unconscionable manner and must not be guilty of laches. If he is so guilty, the High Court may decline to exercise the jurisdiction in his favour, though it may be that, from a strictly legal point of view, a good case existed for the exercise of jurisdiction, had the party been diligent. The situation is not affected by the question whether the party did or did not exhaust the other remedies open to him.

Where, apart from the failure by the assessee assessed to sales-tax under the Madras General Sales-tax Act, to prefer a statutory appeal against the assessment, there has been considerable delay on his part in moving the High Court for exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 by issuing a writ prohibiting the collection of the tax and no facts are disclosed justifying the delay or calling for condonation of the laches on the part of the petitioner, the High Court is entitled to decline to exercise its jurisdiction under Art. 226 in his favour by issuing a writ of prohibition or other appropriate writ, even though from the strictly legal point of view a good case existed for the exercise of jurisdiction, had the petitioner been diligent. A I R 1961 Mad 322 and A I R 1954 S C 403 and W. P. Nos. 972 to 974 of 1960 (Mad) and W. P. No. 966 of 1960 (Mad), Disting. 76 Mad L W 733 : (1964) 15 S T C 63 : A I R 1964 Mad 311 (313) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Delay — That the petitioner after adverse order was trying to induce Government to reconsider order and that he was unwilling to jeopardise his position by antagonising Government against him by filing writ petition, will not help petitioner to get over infirmities arising out of delay and laches. (1962) 5 Fac L R 262 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 46 : (1962) 2 Mad L J 140 : 75 Mad L W 758 : AIR 1962 Mad 485 (486) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Delay — Writ petition filed 6 years after order of dismissal—Explanation that petitioner was waiting for disposal of criminal cases against him—Claim not as of right but for mercy—Petitioner not diligent — Delay not pardonable. A I R 1962 Manipur 52 (54) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Laches—Delay in applying.

There is no rule of limitation as regards applications under Art. 226 and whether an application should be refused on the ground of laches depends on the circumstances of each case:

Held, that three years was a long period, the petitioner had been guilty of laches and that would be a reason why the petition should not be entertained. A I R 1951 Mad 250 and A I R 1957 Cal 578, Rel. on. A I R 1959 Manipur 17 (20) (Pt E) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Laches.

Delay of about three months—No satisfactory explanation given for delay—Delay held as one of grounds for refusing issue of mandamus. AIR 1951 Mad 204, Relied on. 1956 Cr L J 252 : AIR 1956 Manipur 11 (12, 13) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Petition under—Laches—Discretion of High Court to issue writ or not — High Court can refuse although violation of fundamental right is alleged.

The petitioner entered Government service in the department of Education in 1932. The respondents entered the department after her. At the time she entered service there was a rule to the effect that no lady should be promoted as a District Educational Officer. Even after the Constitution came into force the rule was not altered. In view of the rule the respondents who were juniors were promoted as D. E. Os. Meanwhile the petitioner was agitating that the rule was invalid in view of Art. 15 and her plea was finally accepted and she was promoted as a D. E. O. in 1954. But it was not given any retrospective effect. Later she was temporarily appointed as Deputy Director of Public Instruction in 1962. But for want of vacancy as she was the juniormost for the post she was reverted to her substantive post. In the writ petition she sought to make the order of her promotion with retrospective effect when her junior was promoted to that post and claimed that her further promotion should be deemed to be with effect from the date when the respondent was promoted and she claimed difference of salary.

Held, that the petitioner was guilty of serious laches. She approached the Court after a delay of over 11 years. She offered no explanation in that regard. Evidently she was sitting on the fence. It was only when she was reverted from the post of Deputy Director of Public Instruction in 1962 for want of vacancy, she thought it fit to dig into the past and resurrect her forgotten grievances.

It is within the discretion of the High Court to issue a writ or not. It is undoubtedly true that the discretion is not an arbitrary discretion but regulated by well-accepted principles. If a party does not move the High Court within a reasonable period after she became entitled to a relief, the reasonableness of the period in a given case depending on its own facts, the High Court would decline the relief prayed for. This would be so whether the relief prayed for by him relates to a fundamental right or otherwise. (1965) 2 Mys L J 589 : AIR 1966 Mys 211.

——Art. 226—Laches — Inordinate delay in filing petition — Petitioner held disentitled to any relief. (1964) 1 Mys L J 318 : AIR 1965 Mys 41 (46) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches— Acquisition of lands—Direction under S. 17 (4), Land Acquisition Act issued by Government in Notification under S. 4 of the Act on 13-12-60 — Notification under S. 6 on 10-4-61—Writ petition against direction filed on 31-7-61—Held land-holder acquiesced in the direction by Government and he could not invoke jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 for such great laches. (1965) 1 Mys L J 275 : AIR 1963 Mys 318 (323) (Pt D) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay — Order of Collector, Central Excises and Land Customs under item (8) of S. 167 Sea Customs Act, imposing penalty not shown to be without jurisdiction — Fundamental rights not infringed—Delay held could not be condoned.

The High Court would refuse to exercise its jurisdiction under Art. 226 when there has been unexplained delay in the presentation of the application for a writ under that article.

Held, on facts that the petitioner failed because of undue delay. Held, further, that since the petitioner failed to show that the impugned order had resulted in any infraction of his fundamental rights or that the order of the Collector was wholly without jurisdiction, it could not be contended by the petitioner that the delay in presentation of the petition should not result in its dismissal. It could not be said that the Collector in making the impugned order under S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act acted wholly without jurisdiction even on the assumption that if there had been no such finding, his order should have to be regarded as one made without jurisdiction. AIR 1954 Nag 151 (FB), Applied. 1961 (2) Cri L J 791 : 39 Mys L J 622 : I L R (1960) Mys 683 : AIR 1961 Mys 263 (265, 266, 267) (Prs 11, 13, 16, 18, 19, 26, 27, 28, 41) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay of three years.

An aggrieved party who invokes the extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the High Court should do so at the earliest opportunity, at any rate within a reasonable period from the date of the order which affects him. When the petitioner moved the High Court under Art. 226 nearly three years after the impugned order, the High Court refused to grant any relief to the petitioner. 38 Mys L J 522 : I L R 1959) Mys 678 : AIR 1960 Mys 255 (259) (Pt B), (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay in filing application.

When a Government servant aggrieved by an order of reduction in rank passed against him files an application under Art. 226 in the High Court more than two years after the orders of cancellation of his promotion he is guilty of undue delay in filing the application and consequently he is not entitled to succeed. AIR 1959 Orissa 113 (121) (Pt B) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay.

Inordinate delay of ten months in seeking the remedy under Art. 226, is a good ground for rejecting the prayer, as the Court will not be inclined in favour of a party who has been admittedly guilty of laches. ILR (1953) Cut 659 : AIR 1954 Orissa 87 (93) (Pt H) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226—Quo warranto—Laches.

Writ, if can issue after great lapse of time — Quaere.

Held on facts that the petitioner was guilty of laches and was out of Court on this ground. AIR 1952 Orissa 359 (384) (Pt F) (Pr 66) (DB).

——Art. 226—Duty of petitioner.

The duty of the petitioner is to state clearly in the affidavit all matters by way of explanation for any apparent delay in making the application or acquiescence and he has a duty to specifically bring such matters to the notice of the Court when making the motion. AIR 1952 Orissa 251 (254) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Laches — Order becoming final by party's own act—Jurisdiction under Art. 226 will not be exercised—Order under Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1959), S. 23.

Where the petitioner by his own default has allowed the law of limitation to run against him and has allowed the assessment order to become final, the High Court will not exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226. AIR 1959 Pat 889; AIR 1961 S C 1506 and 1965 B L J R 314, Rel. on. 1965 B L J R 875.

—Art. 226 — Certiorari — Petition for—Effect of delay and bad faith.

Where there is undue delay in applying for a writ of certiorari without any satisfactory explanation for it and the entire transaction to protect which the writ is prayed, is vitiated by bad faith, the petitioner cannot invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1958 Pat 29 (31) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

—Art. 226—Delay in filing petition—No satisfactory explanation given by the petitioner for the delay—Petition is to be dismissed. AIR 1954 Bom 202 and 1955 P L R 507, Rel. on. 1963 Cur L J 584 : ('64) 66 Punj L R 185.

[Reversed in AIR 1964 Punj 337 (FB).]

—Art. 226—Delay—Writ petition in service matters—Effect.

Delay in service matters is far more objectionable than in others because in the meantime the vacancy caused by the impugned order may have been filled and the aggrieved employee may also have sought service elsewhere. 1963 Cur L J 260 (Punj).

—Art. 226—Delay and laches—High Court refused to exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction.

A petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution must be brought without unreasonable delay and a Court exercising its equitable jurisdiction is extremely reluctant to examine the grievances of a person who has not shown reasonable diligence in the assertion of his claim or who has slept upon his rights for an unreasonable period of time or who has failed to show an excuse for his laches in asserting the said rights. Some satisfactory explanation ought to be given by such a petitioner if he fails to assert his claim at an earlier date. The delay of six months in the present case has not been explained at all and the petitioner has been guilty of undue laches. ('62) 64 Punj L R 1014.

—Art. 226—Laches—Delay—Order of suspension—Inordinate delay of four years in filing petition under Art. 226 seeking to have order of suspension and holding of inquiry quashed not satisfactorily explained and therefore disentitled the petitioner from obtaining extraordinary remedies from High Court. AIR 1960 Punj 646 (649, 650) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Art. 226—Laches—Effect of.

Though it is open to the High Court to allow an amendment to a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution having regard to the peculiar circumstances of a particular case even after delay, in the matter of exercise of discretion in this respect the Court must have at least some circumstances before it which tend to justify the reason for not applying for amendment in proper time. (1959-60) 16 F J R 152 : A I R 1960 Punj 76 (78) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

—Art. 226 — Laches — Undue and unexplained delay—Effect.

On grounds of undue and unexplained delay and laches relief by way of high prerogative writ can legitimately and properly be refused. A I R 1959 Punj 643 (645, 646) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

—Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Parties applying under Art. 226 after delay of two years — Alternate remedy by way of appeal against the decision already pending — Petition can be dismissed on these grounds alone. I L R (1958) Punj 134 : AIR 1959 Punj 478 (479) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

—Arts. 226 and 311 — Delay—Effect of—Matters to be considered — Dismissal of Government servant —Petition filed after undue or unexplained delay — Maintainability.

Article 226 does not prescribe any period of limitation, within which an aggrieved party should apply to the High Court for redress. This matter should be considered in conjunction with the nature of the relief, the grounds on which it is so claimed, and the extent of delay. In some cases delay may be such as to lead to inference of acquiescence in the order, which is challenged in the petition, or to inference of waiver against the illegality.

In a case where dismissal is alleged to be wrongful then the order of dismissal should be promptly got set aside. An unexplained delay of three and a half years is obviously culpable delay and that by itself disentitles the petitioner to the relief claimed by him. (1919) 63 Law Ed 650, Foll. AIR 1958 Punj 16 (17) (Prs 4, 5).

—Art. 226—Laches — Excuse should find place in petition.

It is of the utmost importance that a person who seeks the intervention of the High Court under Art. 226 should give a satisfactory explanation of his failure to assert his claim at an earlier date. The excuse for his procrastination should find a place in the petition submitted by him and the facts relied upon by him should be set out clearly in the body of the petition.

An excuse that a person failed to assert his claim because of prudential reasons or because of funds or because of ill-health cannot merit serious consideration. 59 Punj L R 259 : ILR (1957) Punj 1468 : AIR 1957 Punj 220 (221, 222) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

—Art. 226—Laches—Absence of notice under S. 3, East Punjab Act (38 of 1949) — Ground raised after two years — High Court refused to interfere — (East Punjab Utilisation of Lands Act (38 of 1949); S. 3). 57 Punj L R 506 : ILR (1955) Punj 1357 : A I R 1956 Punj 92 (95) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

—Art. 226—Delay in filing petition.

The High Court will not grant any relief in the extraordinary discretion conferred by Art. 226 when an aggrieved party comes after a very long delay. Civil Writ Appln. No. 252 of 1954 (Punj), Rel. on. 57 Punj L R 490 : I L R (1956) Punj 55 : A I R 1956 Punj 10 (11) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Laches — Petition merits dismissal. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4598.

—Art. 226 — Petition for mandamus against State for fixing petitioner as a statistician in Civil Supplies Department in a certain grade — Petition made in 1962 — Position regarding the matter made clear by Government to petitioner as back as 19-10-1953 — Held petition was liable to be dismissed on ground of delay. 1965 Raj L W 373.

—Art. 226—Delay.

Where the application under Art. 226 was filed within six weeks of the dismissal of the review application:

Held, that there was no delay in filing the application. 1955 Raj L W 95 : I L R (1954) 4 Raj 526 : AIR 1954 Raj 214 (217) (Pt F) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

The proposition that the remedy under Art. 226 must be sought as soon as an injury is caused or threatened is merely an application of the equitable doctrine that delay defeats equity and the longer the injured person sleeps over his rights without any reasonable excuse, his chances of success in a writ petition become more slender, and in a proper case the Court may throw off a writ petition on the ground of even a short unexplained delay.

Where a petition under Art. 226 by a discharged Government servant was made about 36 months after the date of the impugned order of discharge;

Held, that the fact that the petitioner was pursuing other ultra legal remedies could not afford any excuse for the delay and therefore, the petition deserved to be dismissed in limine. 9 Sau L R 35 : AIR 1956 Sau 39 (40) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Once the final decision of the Government is given a representation is merely an appeal for mercy or indulgence, but it is not pursuing a remedy which the law gave to the petitioner. Such extraneous considerations cannot afford a valid explanation for the delay in applying under Art. 226. A I R 1956 Trav-Co 33, Rel. on 1956 Ker L T 233 : AIR 1957 Trav-Co 214 (215) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Laches.

A time lag that can be explained does not spell laches. "Laches" is such negligence or omission to assert a right as, taken in conjunction with the lapse of time, more or less great and other circumstances causing prejudice to an adverse party, operates as a bar in a Court of equity. 1955 Ker L T 659 : A I R 1956 Trav.Co 77 (78) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

A writ under Art. 226 will generally be refused in all cases where the petitioner fails to show that he has proceeded expeditiously. The only delay which the High Court will excuse in presenting a petition under Art. 226 is the delay which is caused by the petitioner pursuing a legal remedy which is given to him. Once the final decision of Government is given, a representation to the Government is merely an appeal for mercy or indulgence but is not pursuing a remedy which the law gives to the petitioner. A I R 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on.

A Head Constable was dismissed from service by an order, dated 27-9-1950. After making series of unsuccessful applications to the Government he made a petition under Art. 226 on 30-5-1955.

Held, that the petition should be dismissed on the ground of inordinate delay. I L R (1955) Trav Co 1013 : 1955 Ker L T 651 : AIR 1956 Trav-Co 33 (34) (Pt A) (Prs 1, 3, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—When can be excused.

Delay in applying under Art. 226 to be excused requires an explanation. Such extraneous considerations as existence of a good case on the merits and the absence of any remedy other than under Art. 226 cannot afford a valid explanation and should not weigh with a Court in deciding whether the delay that has occurred in a particular case is fatal or not. ILR (1955) Trav-Co 1013 : 1955 Ker L T 651 : AIR 1956 Trav-Co 33 (34) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Laches in presenting petition — Effect.

It is no doubt true that Art. 226 of the Constitution does not prescribe any period of limitation but ordinarily no application under it will be entertained unless it is made soon after the right sought to be protected is infringed and no relief will ordinarily be granted to a person who does not seek his remedy under the said Article with due diligence. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 55, Rel. on.

The fact that the petitioner was moving the Government subsequent to his dismissal for a reversal of their order cannot also be of any avail. The only delay that the Court will excuse is the delay involved in the pursuit of a legal remedy open to the party and no other. AIR 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on.

(In this case the petition having been presented nearly two years and eight months after the first order of dismissal and almost one year after the last order of the Government the High Court refused to entertain it on ground of delay and laches). AIR 1955 Trav-Co 175 (176) (Prs 5, 8).

——Art. 226 — Petition for certiorari—Laches — Limitation.

Applications for writs of certiorari which are for extraordinary remedies should be presented promptly. The period permitted for presentation of civil revision petitions may be regarded as a reasonable time for the presentation of applications for writs, orders or directions under Art. 226. No hard and fast rule can, however, be laid down and it would be within the discretion of the Judge or Bench trying the petition to interfere in appropriate cases even if the applications are presented beyond the aforesaid period of time. (In this case there had been an inordinate and unexplained delay (of 3½ years) in approaching the High Court which under the circumstances was held fatal to the petition for writ of certiorari.) AIR 1954 Trav-Co 55, Ref. Swaraj Motors Ltd v. Aluvaye Municipality, 1954 Ker L T 443 : ILR (1954) T C 997 : AIR 1954 Trav-Co 468 (468) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (FB).

——Art. 226 (1) — Writ of mandamus — Delay in applying.

No doubt an application for a writ in the nature of mandamus against an alleged invasion of a fundamental right can be made at any time; but a person who delays his application by two years cannot be heard to argue that the alternative remedy of his civil suit might take time. AIR 1952 Vindh Pra 13 (15) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

35 (f). Excusable delay.

——Art. 226 — Delay in filing writ petition — Delay condoned by High Court in exercise of its discretion — Though ground appeared to be inadequate, Supreme Court refused to interfere. Corporation of the City of Nagpur v. Nagpur Handloom Cloth Market Co., Ltd, 66 Bom LR 1161 1963 (Supp) 2 SCR 796 : (1964) 2 S C J 595 : AIR 1963 S C 1192 (1195, 1196) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect of.

The Judicial Commissioner's Court may entertain a petition even if the petitioner has been guilty of laches and has come to the Court late. AIR 1956 Ajmer 70 (71) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect of.

A petition involving the interpretation of validity of a rule (framed under Co-operative Societies Act) cannot be barred on the ground of laches. AIR 1956 Ajmer 63 (66) (Pt E) (Pr 11).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1961 S C 1743].

——Art. 226 — Laches — Suit for declaration of tenancy right and ejectment of defendants, decreed —Land-holders admitting claim of plaintiff—Appellate Court dismissing suit on ground that lease was not registered — Review application dismissed summarily — Held, time taken in review proceedings should be considered — U. P. Tenancy Act (17 of 1939), S. 55.

The petitioners claiming to be the tenants in possession filed a suit for a declaration about the tenancy right and in the alternative claimed possession. The land-holder and the Gaon Sabha admitted the claim but other defendants contested the suit. The tenancy right was declared as well as ejectment of defendants was decreed. In appeal the suit was dismissed on the preliminary ground that the lease, the basis of claim of the plaintiff, was not registered nor the attestation in lieu of registration was properly done. This decision of appellate Court was confirmed in appeal by the Board of Revenue. The application for review filed by the petitioner was also summarily rejected.

Held, that the rejection of the review application by the Board summarily was wholly unjustified. The petitioners were justified in filing that application and hence the time taken in the proceedings should be excluded in considering the question of laches. Case law discussed.

Even if there was no registered document, by virtue of S. 55 of the U. P. Tenancy Act the tenant could have sued the zamindar for executing a document in terms of the settlement. Therefore, proof of admission only was necessary in order to create tenancy in favour of a person which was amply proved in the case. 1965 All L J 1072 : 1965 All WR (HC) 812.

——Art. 226 — Question whether writ petition is belated or not is to be considered at the time of admission of the petition — Single Judge having exercised his discretion in favonr of petitioner, it is not for the appellate Court to go into that question and decide whether or not the Single Judge correctly exercised his discretion. ILR (1965) 1 All 329.

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Laches—If the petitioner considered that, rightly or wrongly, that remedy lay somewhere else, and diligently pursued that remedy, it is not possible to hold him guilty of such laches as would prevent the High Court from giving him an opportunity of obtaining relief. See Excess Profits Tax Act (1940), S. 19 (2). (1965) 1 I T J 677: (1965) (All) 58 I T R 626 (All).

——Art. 226—Laches.

Charge of laches cannot sustain where bona fides in pursuing wrong remedy, resulting in delay, are not open to challenge. 1962 A L J 601, Rel. on. 1964 All W R (HC) 732.

——Art. 226—Writ petition—Limitation—Delay and laches when bar to grant of relief.

Where an assessee filed a writ petition against the Municipality challenging the imposition of house tax and water tax more than 90 days after the imposition of taxes.

Held, "that the taxes are imposed not for one year but for an indefinite period. Consequently, the liability to pay the taxes was not restricted to any particular period but was imposed for all the times to come. In such matters High Courts have viewed the question of delay leniently. Further, the petitioner could rightly challenge the imposition of the taxes only after steps were taken to recover such taxes from him. It could not be said that there was any unreasonable delay in invoking the jurisdiction of this Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution." 1962 All L J 226.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Laches—Removal of railway employee from service—Employee proceeding against order departmentally and filing writ petition within 3 months of last order—Petition not belated. 1960 All L J 727 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 424 : AIR 1961 All 338 (340) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Delay and laches—Order of requisition, infringing fundamental right—Refusal of relief on ground of delay.

Ordinarily delay in coming to the Court may be a good ground for refusing to interfere, but where the fundamental right of a subject is concerned, the Court will not permit the above consideration to intervene. More so where the evidence is that the petitioner has been continuously agitating against the validity of the impugned order of requisition. 1959 All W R (HC) 77 : 1959 All L J 194 : AIR 1959 All 380 (382) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Delay in filing petition—Effect.

There is no limitation prescribed for the exercise of the powers under Art. 226 by the High Court. But as the power itself is discretionary, the High Court generally would not exercise its power in favour of a petitioner who has come to Court after a considerable delay. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as regards the actual period.

Where the writ petition was filed nearly five months after the impugned order of assessment was made and the petitioner possibly had still a right to challenge that order when steps would be taken to realise the taxes.

Held, that it could not be said in the circumstances that the delay was so gross as to disentitle the petitioner to get relief under Art. 226. ILR (1957) 2 All 224 : AIR 1958 All 211 (212, 213) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect (Election).

A candidate for election was informed on 13th November 1956, of the rejection of his nomination and he filed a writ petition on 11th December 1956. The date of election was 20th December 1956. So he asked for interim stay of further elections and though the prayer was not granted the opposite parties were directed not to declare the results of the elections.

Held, that there were no laches. 1957 All L J 247.

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

An order granting leave to the employer to dismiss workmen was passed by the Labour Appellate Tribunal on 17-3-1955. Thereupon the appropriate Government was moved under the Proviso to Sec. 15 (1), Industrial Dispute (Appellate Tribunal) Act to modify the award of the Appellate Tribunal on 29-3-1955. This representation was rejected on 16-4-1955. Thereafter an order dismissing the application was passed on 23-4-1955. Appeal against this order was dismissed on 3-5-1955. Legal opinion was then consulted and some doubt was expressed as to whether the Supreme Court should be moved or the High Court of Pepsu or the Allahabad High Court. Eventually the lawyers advised in the middle of June 1955 that the Allahabad High Court should be moved but that Court had already closed for summer vacation. The application under Art. 226 was prepared on 7-7-1955 and copies of the application were served on the standing counsel on 20-8-1955 and the application was filed on 12-9-1955.

Held, that there was no such delay as to justify the rejection of the application merely on that ground. ILR (1957) 1 All 109 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 603 : AIR 1956 All 644(648) (Pt A) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches of applicant.

The order of enforcement which was being challenged by writ petition, was passed by the U. P. Government on the 3rd of December, 1949. Thereafter the petitioner writes successive letters to the Government, making representations against that order and it was only on the 21st of June, 1950, that the Government sent its final reply, refusing the request of the petitioner to reconsider that order. Thereafter the petitioner took about two months' time to obtain legal advice and prepare the petition. The petition was presented on the 17th of August, 1950. Upto that date, the order had not been carried out and the State Government was still insisting that the petitioner should comply with it.

Held, that in these circumstances, it could not be said that the petition was very much belated and that the delay in filing it would be a sufficient ground to throw it out. AIR 1954 All 705 (708) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 S C 420.]

——Art. 226—Delay — Challenging validity of bye-law imposing licence fees—Circumstances held outweighed delay.

The delay for four years in applying for writ and challenging a certain bye-law of the District Board imposing a licence fee on certain type of factories (Sugar crushing factory, flour and rice mills, saw mills, etc.), even though they had been paying the fees for four years, without challenge, held was outweighed by the circumstances that the Constitution came into force only in 1950 that the legal position regarding the extent of power to impose license fees, was not known to the members of the public or even to the members of the bar in the Districts and that about 200 criminal prosecutions were pending at the instance of the Board, for non-payment of the licence fees, thus hampering the trade. 1954 All L J 405: AIR 1954 All 675 (678) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 14).

——Art. 226 — Limitation for invoking jurisdiction under—Delay, when can be condoned — Jurisdiction can be exercised only in furtherance of justice — Order of Municipality in pursuance of Government Order — Order of Government not sought to be quashed — Order of Municipality alone cannot be challenged. (1962) 1 Andh W R 43 : I L R (1962) Andh Pra 697.

——Art. 226—Laches.

There is no period of limitation fixed by the Limitation Act for filing writs and in appropriate cases the High Court has power to excuse delay in filing writ. Thus where the petitioner was prosecuting the writ in a wrong Court for the same relief and lost no time as soon as that Court rejected the application on the ground of absence of jurisdiction in filing the writ before the proper Court the objection to the application on the ground of delay is without substance. (1962) 1 An W R 263.

——Art. 226—Laches.

A period of six months for a writ of certiorari is reasonable within which a writ petition can be filed unless there are special circumstances for the delay. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 206, Foll. (1959) 35 I T R 24 : (1959) 1 Andh W R 179 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 508 (509, 510) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art, 226 — Laches — Delay in filing writ application—Practice of High Court—(Practice)—(Limitation).

It is a well settled rule of practice that an application by way of writ of certiorari or other writs should be filed within a reasonable time from the date of the order which the applicant seeks to be quashed. Ordinarily, a period of six months may be considered reasonable, but, in extraordinary circumstances the High Court may, in its discretion, excuse the delay. (1957) 2 Andh W R 233 : 1957 Andh L T 785 : I L R (1957) Andh Pra 594 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 206 (206, 207) (Prs 2, 7, 9).

——Arts. 226 and 227— Delay — Effect — Power of High Court not fettered—Government acting under S. 64-A, Motor Vehicles Act, is Tribunal — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A (Mad. Amendment)).

There is no rigid or inflexible rule holding that a writ should not be entertained after a period of 11 months, even in a case of grave miscarriage of justice and flagrant violation of law.

Assuming that it is not open to High Court to issue a writ of certiorari under Article 226 by reason of the delay, the High Court has right of superintendence under Art. 227 over the Government of Madras acting under Section 64-A of the Motor Vehicles Act as the Government of Madras in exercising judicial powers under Section 64-A of the Motor Vehicles Act is a tribunal. The word 'Tribunal' is sufficiently wide enough to cover even the Government when it exercises judicial functions. AIR 1951 Mad 882; AIR 1951 Assam 96, Disting. 1955 Andh L T (Civil) 831 : 1956 Andh W R 652 : AIR 1957 Andh Pra 739 (742, 743) (Pt C) (Prs 15, 17, 19).

——Art. 226—Delay and laches — Writ petition to quash notification under S. 6, Land Acquisition Act —Enquiry under S. 9 of Act pending—No unnecessary delay. 1956 Andh W R 1135 : AIR 1957 Andh Pra 686 (687) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Laches — Held, under circumstances there were no laches to file petition under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 5 (1) (a). AIR 1965 Assam 92 (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay in making application.

The question of delay is a very potent factor to be taken into account in throwing out an application for a writ of certiorari in limine; but after the issue of a rule nisi when the Court has examined the record and is satisfied that the order complained of is manifestly erroneous and illegal or without jurisdiction, the High Court would be loath to allow the mischief of the order to continue and reject the application simply on the ground of delay, unless there are very extraordinary reasons to justify such rejection.

(Note:—In this case the order of the Election Tribunal was dated 16th December, 1952, and was published in the local official Gazette on 31st December, following. The application for writ of certiorari was filed in August 1953. Yet the application was allowed.) ILR (1955) 7 Assam 159 : AIR 1955 Assam 163 (170) (Pt G) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay.

The delay in invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 may be a good ground for declining to grant relief but where there are no laches and there is subsisting cause of action which involves assertion and denial of rights, the new remedy may be availed of, subject to the condition that it should not touch existing rights. Hiranmoy v. State of Assam, AIR 1954 Assam 224 (245, 246) (Pt L) (Pr 44) (FB).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Laches — Application suffering from laches is liable to be dismissed unless delay is explained—Period of 90 days from order challenged is reasonable for petition under Arts. 226 and 227—Delay can be condoned. A I R 1955 N U C (Bhopal) 1784.

——Art. 226—Delay.

Inordinate delay in filing petition under Art. 226 explained by the fact that the applicant was pursuing his remedy by way of appeals and petitions to department authorities and executive heads — Application held could not be thrown out on the ground of delay. A I R 1954 Bhopal 25 (27, 28) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Delay—Validity of legislation in question—Maintainability of petition—Question of delay cannot affect maintainability of petition.

Where a constitutional objection to the validity of a legislation is in question, what is involved is infringement of a fundamental right under the Constitution - Question of mere delay, in such a case, will not affect the maintainability of the petition. The objection is fundamental and omnipresent, whether the Court considers the infringement of a fundamental right or considers the question of ultra vires. Unless it is met and negatived, it remains at all future stages of a proceeding. It must be met at any subsequent stage of the litigation between the parties. Delay as such would not be a good ground to defeat a constitutional objection of this kind. 67 Bom L R 85 : 1965 Mah L J 271 : A I R 1966 Bom 36 (43) (Pt D) (Pr 40) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches — Delay in making petition—Effect.

Where the petition under Art. 226 is in the nature of a writ of quo warranto where the very right of the person to act in the responsible post of Chief Officer of the Municipality has been questioned and if his appointment is illegal, every day that he acts in that office a fresh cause of action arises and there can be no question of any delay in presenting a petition. 59 Bom L R 1088 : ILR (1958) Bom 113.

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

The petitioner was officially informed by the Registrar of the University of the rejection of his nomination paper and he did not wait for an inordinate length of time, in filing the petition :

Held, that the petitioner was not guilty of delay or laches and as such was not disentitled to a relief under Art. 226 on this ground. 1957 Nag L J 67 : 59 Bom L R 300 : A I R 1957 Bom 215 (216) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Sufficient cause for delay in making application—Ignorance of law— Distinction between ignorance of law and mistake of law. See Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 15 (2). A I R 1954 Bom 537 (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches.

The only delay which the High Court will excuse in presenting a petition under Arts. 226 and 227 is the delay which is caused by the petitioner pursuing a legal remedy which is given to him.

Thus where the decision of the Government, dated 15-1-1953 against the order of the Regional Transport Officer was challenged in the High Court on 11-5-1953 and the explanation given by the petitioners for this delay was that on February 19, 1953, the petitioners made a representation to Government to reconsider their decision and the Minister concerned rejected that representation on March 28, 1953, and the petitioners received the final order of Government on April 3, 1953.

Held, that a representation was merely an appeal for mercy or indulgence, but not pursuing a remedy which the law gave to the petitioner. The remedy pursued was extra-legal or extra-judicial. Therefore there had been such delay in the presentation of the petition as would disentitle the petitioner to any relief. 55 Bom L R 922 : ILR (1954) Bom 247 : AIR 1954 Bom 202 (203) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Delay in filing writ petition—Matter depends on facts of each case.

Delay and laches are certainly a bar to the maintainability of an application in the writ jurisdiction. But whether there has been delay depends on the facts of each case. The provisions of the Limitation Act do not as such apply to the granting of relief under Art 226. However, the maximum period fixed by the legislature as to the time within which the relief by a suit in a civil Court must be brought may ordinarily be taken to be a reasonable standard by which delay in seeking remedy under Art. 226 can be measured. The Court may consider the delay unreasonable even if it is less than the period of limitation prescribed for a civil action for the remedy but where the delay is more than this period, it will almost always be proper for the Court to hold that it is unreasonable. AIR 1964 S C 1006, Foll.

Held, on facts, that the application was made before the period of limitation had elapsed and the delay on the part of the petitioners was not such as to disentitle them from getting relief. 69 Cal W N 328 : AIR 1965 Cal 428 (433, 434) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 15).

——Art. 226—Delay in filing petition — Notification issued on 16-5-1960 challenged on 3-8-1961—Held in circumstances of case the petition could not be dismissed in limine on ground of delay. (1965) 1 Lab L J 387 : A I R 1964 Cal 519 (532, 533, 539) (Pt G) (Prs 43, 65) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay — Impugned orders in violation of natural justice—Application for certiorari cannot be rejected on ground of delay alone. (1963) 55 ITR 87 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Delay—Effect.

Where the whole order of requisition is illegal and in the contravention of the express provisions of the statute and also beyond the scope of public purpose as laid down in the statute the delay in filing the application under Art. 226 cannot legalise such illegal order of requisition. A I R 1958 Cal 510 (517) (Pt F) (Pr 29).

——Art. 226—Laches—Conduct of petitioner.

The petitioner, instead of filing an appeal against an order of assessment under S. 11 (2) of the Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act had filed a review application against that order under S. 20 (4) of that Act beyond the period prescribed by R. 80 of the Sales Tax Rules. The Authority without applying its mind to the question of limitation advised the petitioner to file appeal and declined to entertain the review application.

Held, that the conduct of petitioner was not such as to disentitle him to relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (1958) 9 S T C 675 : AIR 1958 Cal 246 (248) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Petition brought several years after—Competency—Failure to object—Effect of.

A person desiring to invoke the jurisdiction of the Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution must always act with reasonable diligence. If he comes after years of the date of the action of which he complains, he cannot expect his application to be entertained. ILR (1959) 1 Cal 175 : AIR 1957 Cal 578 (580, 581) (Pt A) (Prs 8A, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Notice of demand of customs duty under S. 39, Sea Customs Act on 16th April 1958 — Notice giving fifteen days time to assessee to make representation—Assessee making representation —Representation not replied to — Clearance of assessee's second consignment refused in March 1960, unless deman in respect of previous consignment was met—Writ petition to quash order of demand dated 16th April 1958 filed—Petitioner held not guilty of laches. (1960) 1 Guj L R 267 : A I R 1961 Guj 51 (53) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Petitioner receiving intimation of rejection of appeal by Lieutenant Governor in December, 1962—Necessary copies obtained and petition filed on 7th March 1963 — Petitioner held was not guilty of laches. AIR 1966 Him Pra 13 (17) (Pt E) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Laches.

Proprietary land of petitioners taken over by former ruler of Bhagat State on rent for holding fair—Claim of petitioners for restoration of possession—Order of refusal to return land passed by ruler on 10th April 1948—Merger of States in Himachal Pradesh — Constitution of India coming into force on 26th January 1950 — Offer of compensation made to Government for acquisition of land, by Tahsildar on 12th April 1951—Representations for restoration of land—Final reply of Assistant Secretary (Home and Revenue) by letter, dated 25th June 1952, that land was required for Government purposes — Petitions under Art. 226 filed on 15th September 1952—Time between dates of letter of Assistant Secretary and preferment of petition under Art. 226, held was the only relevant period to be taken into consideration—There were held no laches. AIR 1956 Him Pra 95 (99) (Pt D) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226—Laches — Conservator of Forest alleging petitioner's contractor to have cut trees from reserve forest and demanding compensation from petitioner on the risk of being prosecuted—Petitioner denying his liability—Repeated demands and repeated denials — Petitioner's car attached for recovery of compensation — Petition under Art. 226 on the 18th day after attachment—Held, that application did not suffer from laches — Held, also that application was maintainable since the executive act which gave the cause of action for application under Art. 226, arose after the commencement of the Constitution. A I R 1953 Him Pra 33 (35) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Prerequisites—No laches—No other remedy—Demand and refusal of a legal duty—Motor Vehicles Act—Provisions of—Issue of permits — Right to carry motor transport business under Art. 19 (1) (g)—Defence of act of State.

The petitioners under Art. 226 were carrying on motor transport business and applied for renewal of permanent permits after the passing of Motor Vehicles Act. The permits were renewed first for one year and then for two periods of 3 months each when they were finally informed that the State was undertaking the transport business and the permits would not be renewed thereafter. Hence the petitions.

Held: Where the procedure laid down in S. 57 of the Motor Vehicles Act was not followed and no order refusing the renewal of permits after the original period of one year, for the first issue proper under the Act, was passed, it could not be contended that the cause of action arose even when the renewal thereafter was only for 6 months (not in accordance with the provisions of the Act); the petitioners must be held to have thought their applications were still pending until definite refusal has been communicated to him. They could therefore not be held guilty of any laches on their part.

Where no order of refusal has been passed as required by S. 57 (7) of the Act and no copy of the same had been furnished to them by the Authority it cannot be held that they can appeal under the Act and that therefore no application under Art. 226 will lie. (AIR 1951 All 257, Foll.)

They had made the demand to the authority six days prior to their applications under Art. 226 and if they had waited for the replies, their business would run the risk of being stopped. The authority had also already stated that extension of permits will not be granted on any account. Hence there had been a demand and refusal. (A I R 1951 All 257 (FB), Foll.; AIR 1950 M B 46 and AIR 1949 Bom 229, Ref.)

The right of carrying on transport business falls in the category of fundamental rights mentioned in Art. 19 (1) (g). (AIR 1951 All 257 (FB), Foll.)

This fundamental right to carry on transport business within the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, cannot therefore be infringed on the ground of nationalisation of transport in the State.

The defence of the 'act of State', in taking over the governance of the Hill States in 1948 against the right claimed as exercised by the petitioners prior to it in those States on the authority of AIR 1915 P C 59; 39 Bom 625 ; 48 Bom 613; AIR 1924 P C 216 ; AIR 1947 P C 1 are not of any avail. The right of the petitioners to ply their trade had been recognised by the Government of India after 15th April 1948 by grant of permits issued to them and could not be taken away subsequently on the rule based on an act of State. It is open to the petitioner to claim those rights in municipal Courts. AIR 1951 Him Pra 36 (39, 40) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Laches—Delay which can be excused.

The delay which a Court can excuse is one which is caused by the petitioner in pursuing a legal remedy and not a remedy which is extra legal or extra judicial, such as making representation to the Government. I L R (1956) Hyd 724 : A I R 1957 Hyd 14 (15) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 32 (2-A) (J. and K.)—Certiorari — Laches—Land acquisition proceedings in disregard of provisions of law—Delay in filing petition not sufficient for rejecting petition.

In a matter of a serious nature such as where the property of a person is taken away in disregard of the provision of law, the Court should be very reluctant to reject his petition for a writ of certiorari to quash the entire proceedings on the mere ground of delay. A I R 1962 J & K 19 (20) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Laches—Breach of fundamental right.

The discretion vested in the High Court in overlooking delay in the presentation of a petition under Art 226 must be exercised liberally, where a fundamental right is infringed. A I R 1952 Vindh Pra 13 and A I R 1954 Madh B 173 and A I R 1954 S C 403, Rel. on. (1960) 1 Ker L R 439 : 1960 Ker L J 527 : 1960 Ker L T 565 : I L R (1960) Ker 980 : A I R 1960 Ker 386 (388) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect.

Order complained against passed on 4-1-1956—Three months period expiring on 4-4-1956 when Court was on vacation — Petition under article filed on reopening day, i. e., on 28-5-1956.

Held, that in the circumstances it could not be said that there had been unreasonable delay. 1957 Ker L J 380 : 1957 Ker L T 411 : A I R 1957 Ker 109 (110) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Application under—Delay in making—Petitioner seeking other remedy not provided by law.

The satisfactory way of explaining delay in making an application under Art. 226 is for the petitioner to show that he had been seeking relief elsewhere in a manner provided by the law. If he runs after a remedy not provided in the statute or the statutory rules the High Court cannot condone the delay. It is immaterial what the petitioner chooses to believe in regard to the remedy. 1961 M P L J 1465 : 1960 Jab ——Art. 226—Laches — Dismissal of review petition —Petition under Art. 226 challenging appellate order about 2½ months after.

L J 80 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 50 (54) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

Order in Rent Control Appeal was passed on 6-4-1956 and review petition was dismissed on 8-10-1957. Petitioner challenged on 28-12-1957 order passed in appeal and not in review.

Held, that under Art. 226 order in appeal could be challenged whether or not modified in review. The petition could not be deemed to be unduly delayed from the date of the review order. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 75.

——Art. 226—Laches—Railway employee ordered to retire from particular date—Protest letter immediately sent to personnel officer of the Division and copy to General Manager — Another appeal made to General Manager—No reply—Petition under Art. 226 — Respondent's affidavit that letter not received at Divisional Superintendent's Office—No denial that letters were not received by General Manager — Held, that there were no laches in applying for writ. A I R 1959 Mad 88 (89) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Delay in applying under article—Effect.

Delay by itself should not disentitle the applicant to any relief. If the delay was caused by reasons which could be satisfactorily and properly explained, then the High Court would not refuse the remedy to the petitioner. (1954) 1 Mad L J 244 : A I R 1954 Mad 587 (589) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Delay in making application.

Though there is no period of limitation as such prescribed for application for the issue of prerogative writs, long delay can be one of the grounds for refusing to grant an application for the issue of such writs. There may, however, be circumstances which should make the High Court take a more lenient view and entertain the application even after delay. ('51) 64 Mad L W 270 : (1951) 19 I T R 402 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 417 : 1951 Mad W N 257 : I L R (1951) Mad 815 : A I R 1951 Mad 204 (206) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Delay and laches — Land acquisition proceeding — Objection to acquisition taken from the very beginning—Writ petition filed after proceedings under S. 9 of Mysore Land Acquisition Act were taken—Question of delay held was not very material when violation of fundamental right to hold property was complained of. (1965) 1 Mys L J 269 : A I R 1965 Mys 269 (272) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Delay — Petition made not under genuine awareness of infraction of right but under influence of subsequent events presenting with chance of obtaining relief — High Court should not entertain such petitions.

In a writ petition relating to admission into a college, the circumstance that a considerable portion of the academic year, to which the writ petition relates has expired by itself, may not or need not in all cases disentitle a petitioner from approaching the High Court or disable the High Court from entertaining such petition and issuing appropriate writ or directions such as may be found necessary in the interests of justice. Nor can the fact that petition filed sufficiently early comes to be or happens to be disposed of late in the academic year be of relevance to the point or of assistance to the petitioners.

Where, however, the petitioners have not only delayed long in approaching the High Court, but are obviously acting not so much under a genuine awareness of an infraction of rights cherished by them as under the influence of subsequent events presenting them with a chance of obtaining relief for which they could or should have applied earlier, the High Court should not entertain the petitions. A I R 1961 Mys 263, Applied. (1963) 1 Mys L J 272 (DB).

——Art 226—Mandamus—Delay—Petitioner reverted in service on 27-5-1949 — Petitioner continuing in service—Various representations challenging legality and propriety of reversion order — Applications not finally disposed of, when he was ordered to retire compulsorily on 13-12-1951 — Petitioner petitioning for writ of mandamus on 17-12-1951 against both orders, order of reversion and order of retirement—Held, that there was no delay. I L R (1952) Patiala 392 : A I R 1952 Pepsu 152 (155) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Laches — Delay in filing petition for enforcement of fundamental rights—Relief cannot be refused merely on ground of delay. 1964 Cur L J 517 : A I R 1965 Punj 410 (411) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Petition for writ—Fundamental rights affected—Laches of petitioner—Not material.

It is well settled that when such rights as are covered by the chapter on fundamental rights in the Constitution are affected laches in approaching the High Court under Art. 226 would be wholly immaterial. ('61) 63 Punj L R 474.

——Art. 226 — Waiver — There can be no waiver of fundamental rights by a party and mere laches will not deprive him of that right. A I R 1959 S C 149 and A I R 1959 Punj 544, Foll. (Obiter.) 62 Punj L R 612 : A I R 1960 Punj 439 (444) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Delay — Effect of — Deprivation of fundamental right—Laches—If ground for depriving person of his fundamental rights. See Ibid, Art. 31 (2). A I R 1959 Punj 544 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 19 (6) — Laches — Fundamental right—Infringemant of—Continuing wrong —Order refusing renewal of licence.

Where an order is passed refusing the renewal of licence of the petitioner to carry on certain business, it cannot be said that there is a continuing wrong by deprivation of fundamental right and that an application for the redress of the wrong can be presented at any time. 59 Punj L R 259 : I L R (1957) Punj 1468 : A I R 1957 Punj 220 (222) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB)

——Art. 226—Laches—Effect—Delay held explained —(Limitation Act (1908), S. 14).

Upon an order passed by the Custodian-General on 12-2-1952 a petition under Art. 226 was filed on 14-7-1952 to the High Court at Allahabad. It was rejected on 23-3-1955 on the ground that that High Court had no jurisdiction to set aside an order passed by the Custodian-General of India. Thereupon an application for special leave to appeal under Art. 136 was filed and dismissed. Subsequently, a writ petition under Art. 32 to the Supreme Court was filed on 6-4-1955 and dismissed on 16-12-1955. Present writ petition was filed within one month thereof.

Held, that in the circumstances the delay was explained satisfactorily. 59 Pun L R 399 : I L R (1957) Punj 1146 : A I R 1957 Punj 197 (199) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Laches—Party spending time in going in appeal where none is provided—Held, party would not be penalised because of delay caused by filing appeals. 1957 Raj L W 560 : I L R (1957) 7 Raj 878: A I R 1957 Raj 343 (348) (Pt E) (Pr 18) DB).

——Art. 226—Delay.

Where the petitioner had not given up contesting the case at any time before he came to the High

Court under Art. 226 he could not be deprived of his right to come to the High Court, on the ground of delay of 2 years. 1957 Raj L W 129 : I L R (1956) 6 Raj 982 : AIR 1957 Raj 19 (21) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB)

——Art. 226—Delay in presenting application under, due to applicant's attempt at getting redress by making representations to various authorities—Writ held could not be refused simply on the ground of delay thus satisfactorily explained. 1952 Raj L W 81 : I L R 1951) 1 Raj 888 : AIR 1953 Raj 22 (24) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226— Negligence — Delay in filing appeal under ordinary law entirely due to action of Court itself—This is no negligence as to disentitle applicant to relief under Art. 226. 1952 Raj L W 154 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 815 : AIR 1952 Raj 162 (165, 166) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Negligence—Applicant's appeal under ordinary law dismissed for default No further steps taken for restoration — It is negligence and applicant cannot approach High Court and ask it to exercise its extra-ordinary powers under Art. 226 — But it is no negligence if the default is due entirely to his counsel, who failed to appear on account of his illness which fact had been communicated to the Court — In such case High Court will exercise its powers under Article 226. AIR 1947 Bom 46 Distinguished. 1952 Raj L W 154 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 815 : AIR 1952 Raj 162 (165, 166) (Pt E) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application under — Delay — Grain freezed in March 1949 — Applicant making representation to Government — On 3-1-1951 applicant ordered by Government to sell grain at certain rate to certain person—Applicant taking time to make certain representations and after failure of such representations making application under Art 226 on 28-2-1951 —Under the circumstances held time had really to be counted from 3-1-1951 — Application held could not be dismissed on ground of delay. I L R (1951) 1 Raj 692 : AIR 1952 Raj 79 (80) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Dismissal of public servant——Application under Art. 226 against State — Effect of delay.

In the absence of the plea that on account of the delay the State has been prejudiced in any manner, mere delay cannot be and has not been considered a bar to the entertainment of an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution by a Public Servant against the order of dismissal passed against him. AIR 1956 Trav.Co 35 (41) (Pt D) (Pr 23).

● ——Art. 226 - Laches.

The period available for a civil revision petition is the reasonable time within which an application under Art. 226 should be presented. No hard and fast rule however can be fixed in that regard and the matter should be left to the discretion of the trying Judge or Bench to accept a petition though presented beyond that period and deal with it on the merits. I L R (1953) Trav Co 962; AIR 1954 Trav Co 55, Ref. S. Mahadeva Iyer v. State, 1954 Ker L T 427: I L R (1954) T C 1000 : A I R 1954 Trav-Co 469 (469) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (FB).

● ——Art. 226—Laches—Opposite party barred from pleading delay as ground for dismissal.

Order for dismissal of Govt. servant on 13-8-1949 —Petition under Article for writ of certiorari presented on 17-7-1952—Opposite party though mentioning in counter-affidavit that on account of delay the petition should be dismissed not pressing the same at trial — Ground also not taken by it in the grounds of appeal or argued at the hearing of the appeal—Matter considered on merits both by trial Court and by the appellate Court which remanded case to trial Court—Held that under circumstances the opposite party was not entitled to plead delay as a ground for dismissing the petition when it was before trial Judge after remand. S. Mahadeva Iyer v. State, 1954 Ker L T 427 : I L R (1954) T C 1000 : AIR 1954 Trav-Co 469 (469) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (FB).

36. Demand and refusal of relief.

See also Note 234.

——Art. 226—Prior demand for justice is not necessary where it would be futile to do so.

A prior demand for justice need not be made where it would be utterly futile to do so. Where the precondition to the granting of relief would be the declaration of certain statutory provisions and statutory rules to be bad, a mere demand for justice would be entirely futile and in such cases absence of prior demand for justice, is not essential for invoking writ jurisdiction of the High Court. AIR 1961 Cal 289 (295) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—No demand for relief made—Writ cannot be issued—Division of Union into wards—Right to question — (Bengal Village Self Government Act (5 of 1919), S. 101 (2)—Rules framed under, R. 2)

In an application under Art 226 for a high prerogative writ, a party cannot have relief which he has never asked for and that on a case which he has never made in the course of the actual proceedings before his coming to the High Court. 1963 Cal L J 214 : 59 Cal W N 103 : AIR 1955 Cal 529 (532) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Demand and refusal—Need for.

As to whether there was a demand of justice before filing the application under Art. 226 the Court has to look to the substance of the matter. Where although there was no formal demand of justice on the part of the petition in point of fact there was a resistance on behalf of the petitioner when the opposite party wanted to take possession under the order for requisition made under S. 3 (1) of the West Bengal Act (2 of 1948) it cannot be held that there was no demand of justice on the part of the petitioner and denial on part of the opposite party. AIR 1952 S C 16; 1951 S C J 803, Foll. 58 Cal W N 203 : AIR 1954 Cal 394 (394) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Demand for justice and refusal — Candidate whose examinations were cancelled going individually in deputation to the Faculty—Denial by Head Assistant of Faculty that such demand was made—Denial held not by proper person — It should be either by Secretary to the State Medical Faculty or President of the Governing Body, both of whom were made parties. I L R (1953) 2 Cal 107 : 56 C W N 861 : AIR 1953 Cal 212 (216) (Pt D) (Pr 34) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application for writ — Demand of justice and refusal—It necessary.

There must be a proper demand of justice as required by law preceding an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. This demand of justice is not merely a matter of form but is a matter of substance, and the persons, against whom relief is sought must be specifically required to do the very act in respect of which relief is sought against such persons. There are however exceptions to this general rule. ('52) 56 C W N 846.

——Art. 226 Petition under, for issue of writ—Absence of demand for justice — Effect. AIR 1953 Pepsu 24 (24) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 - Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 46 — Demand of justice. See Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 46. AIR 1953 Punj 137.

—Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57—Applicant for permit making several applications requesting Regional Transport authorities to consider his application —No action taken—Applicant moving High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution— It could not be said that the applicant failed to make a demand for justice from authorities before coming to High Court. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57. AIR 1953 Raj 1.

37. Directions, orders and writs.

See also Note 85.

(a) Power to pass orders that ought to have been passed.

(b) Writ, in nature of.

37. Directions, orders and writs.

See also Note 85.

—Art. 226—Scope.

Though the relief asked for in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution must be one to enforce a legal right and the legal right must be of the petitioner himself who complains of the violation of such a right, the Article is very wide in its scope. It confers a very wide power on the High Court to issue directions and writs of the nature mentioned in that Article. Every citizen has a legal right to file petitions for writs in the nature of habeas corpus or quo warranto as every citizen has the right to approach the Court for relief where the freedom of the individual is threatened or if he thinks that there has been a violation of any statutory provision or rule in making an appointment in which the public at large has some interest. AIR 1965 All 151 (152) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

—Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

Though the powers under Art. 226 are very wide and are not confined to the mere issue of prerogative writs and though the High Courts can pass suitable orders or directions, the said orders or directions must be passed for the same object for which usually the prerogative writs are issued. AIR 1960 All 72 (84) (Pt K) (Pr 45).

—Art. 226—Scope—Powers are very wide — Court can issue any directions to subordinate Courts. A I R 1955 NUC (All) 6046.

—Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Nature of directions that can be issued by High Court—(1963) 1 Andh W R 344 : AIR 1963 A P 339 (343) (Pt C) (Pr 19) (DB).

—Art. 226—Scope of.

Under Art. 226 the powers of the High Court are not confined to the issue of prerogative writ only. Other suitable writs or orders can also issue of and infringement of legal rights other than fundamental rights can also be remedied by suitable writs. The infringement of a legal right may in appropriate cases attract the exercise of the discretionary powers of the Court under Art. 226. 55 C W N 326; AIR 1950 Bom 363 ; AIR 1950 Pat 387 and AIR 1950 M B 46, Rel. on. ILR (1951) 3 Assam 348 : AIR 1951 Assam 163 (166, 167) (Pt E) (Prs 22, 28) (DB).

—Art. 226—Scope—'Directions, orders or writs.'

Article 226 is not limited to writs but speaks of orders and directions as well. It is true that the Article speaks not of orders and directions simpliciter, but only of orders and directions "to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases any Government." In practice, however, actual orders affecting the orders complained of are made and it is not that only orders or directions are issued to subordinate Courts or Tribunals. 61 Cal W N 1: (1957) 1 Lab L J 272 : AIR 1957 Cal 4 (9) (Pt C) (Pr 20) (DB).

—Art. 226—High Court can go beyond contents of writs.

The High Court in issuing directions, orders and writs can travel beyond the contents of the writs which are normally issued as writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari. L R (1899) A C 99 (105), Rel. on. 56 Cal W N 264 : AIR 1952 Cal 610 (612) (Pt C) (Pr 20).

—Art. 226—Declaratory decree that termination of petitioner's services is illegal—Writ cannot issue to restore petitioner to the post.

A mere declaratory decree to the effect that the termination of the petitioner's services was illegal and void, is not executable and no writ directing the State to restore the petitioner to his post can issue. AIR 1960 Him Pra 12 (13, 14) (Pr 8).

—Art. 226—Order or direction—Guiding principle for issue.

The High Court cannot issue any order or direction without being guided by the broad and fundamental principles which regulate the grant of writs It is, therefore, not tenable to say that even if a writ of prohibition or mandamus cannot issue, a direction of order more or less to the same effect may issue. A I R 1951 Mad 249, Rel. on. AIR 1960 J & K 12 (14) (Pt D) (Pr 13).

● —Art. 226—High Court's jurisdiction to entertain application under Art. 226

Per Full Bench (Kaul, C. J dissenting) — Under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India the High Court has jurisdiction to entertain applications with respect to all matters in relation to which the powers conferred by the Article may be exercised. Majority view in AIR 1950 M B 60 (FB), Overruled. AIR 1950 M B 46, Approved.

Per Kaul, C. J. :— In framing Art. 226 the word "Jurisdiction" has been scrupulously avoided and the Constitution has used only the word "power", a word which in Art. 225 is used in a connotation altogether different from that of "jurisdiction." The fact that power to issue orders in the nature of high prerogative writs is conferred upon a court as part of its general authority or capacity does not necessarily carry with it as an incident of that power the jurisdiction to take cognisance of any matter in relation to which any one of those writs could be issued. No doubt this power can be used always but subject to the condition that the High Court has some jurisdiction to implement which this power can be exercised. Thus, apart from the power to pass an order, direction or writ there must exist the authority to take cognisance of the matter in relation to which such order, direction or writ may be issued, otherwise the power remains ineffective or dormant, except in so far as it can be exercised under the existing law. Hence so long as the Madhya Bharat High Court is not invested with any original jurisdiction under Art. 226 or by the Madhya Bharat High Court of Judicature Act (8 of 1949) it cannot entertain an application under Art. 226 Dayabhai Poonambhai Patel v. Regional Transport Authority, ILR (1952) Madh Bha 454 : 52 Cri L J 1305 : AIR 1951 Madh Bha 121 (129, 134, 149) (Pt A) (Prs 48, 49, 77, 157) (FB).

● —Arts. 226 and 32 — Scope — Art. 226 does not provide remedy apart from existing law — High Court has no power to entertain under Art. 226 application for issue of writ of habeas corpus apart from S. 491, Criminal P. C. — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491 — AIR 1950 M. B 46, Overruled.

Per Kaul C. J. and Shinde J., (Mehta J. contra);— The Constitution contemplates two kinds of remedies for enforcement of fundamental rights — (1) Constitutional remedies i. e., expressly given by the Constitution and (2) remedies available under the ordinary law of the land. Article 32 deals with a remedy expressly given by the Constitution and called constitutional remedy, while Art. 226 relates to a different subject altogether. It confers certain powers upon High Courts which they may use in the exercise of any jurisdiction vested in them by virtue of Art. 225 or any other provision of the Constitution. The subject matter of Art. 226 is not any jurisdiction which the High Court can exercise, nor any relief which it can give in exercise of a jurisdiction vested in it. It does not deal with either of those matters. On the other hand, it confers upon High Courts certain powers which they may use for giving relief in exercise of their jurisdiction. The extent of the jurisdiction of High Courts, the cases in which it can be exercised and the procedure by which it can be invoked are matters wholly outside the purview of Art 226. Article 226 does not find place in Part 3 which deals with fundamental rights and the constitutional remedies for enforcement thereof. This article belongs to a set of articles which deal with judiciary in the States.

Unlike Art. 32 of the Constitution, Art. 226 does not provide for any remedy which apart from the existing law could be available to a person for enforcement of any of the rights dealt with in Part 3 of the Constitution i. e., fundamental rights. Article 226 must be read subject to Art. 32 (3).

Article 226 only mentions some of the powers which, if law made by Parliament or other appropriate Legislature so provides, may be exercised by the High Courts under circumstances and conditions prescribed by such law. But so long as this is not done the powers conferred by Art. 226 must remain ineffective except in so far as they can be exercised under the existing law.

Accordingly, the High Court cannot entertain an application under Art. 226 for issue of a direction in the nature of habeas corpus apart from the provisions of S. 491, Criminal P. C. : AIR 1950 M B 46, Overruled.

Per Mehta J.— Article 226 is self-contained providing for the extent of jurisdiction to be exercised by High Court and also indicating the relief which can be granted by issue of appropriate writs. The procedure is indicated by rule-making power under Art. 225. The circumstances under which the powers can be invoked are also indicated. The framers of the Constitution did not contemplate that under Art. 226 only remedies available under the ordinary law of the land should be exercised by High Courts, in view of the provisions contained in Art. 226. It has widened and enlarged the jurisdiction and powers of the High Court and has provided remedy. The framers of the Constitution did not intend that the powers conferred by Art. 226 can become effective only after the necesary provision as to the circumstances and conditions in which they can be exercised and the requisite jurisdiction to exercise them is made by appropriate legislation. The exercise of powers conferred by Art. 226 is not left to the uncertainty of future legislation. Anant Bhaskar v. State, 51 Cri L J 1352 : AIR 1950 Madh Bha 60 (62, 64, 65, 67, 70) (Prs 10, 19, 23, 25, 35, 53) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1951 M B 121 (FB).]

——Art. 226 — 'Orders or writs' — Power of High Court to pass order or writ.

Our Constitution does not incorporate all the severe technicalities of the English law relating to the various forms of writs. It will not do to ignore the significance of the word 'orders or writs including writs in the nature of'. The circumstance that a petitioner has applied for a particular form of writ whereas he should have asked for a different kind of writ or order does not preclude the Court from moulding the remedy to the circumstances of the case. A I R 1954 S C 440, Rel. on. 1956 Mad W N 262 : (1956) 1 Lab L J 29 : AIR 1956 Mad 220 (225) (Pt G) (Pr 21).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 S C 232.]

——Art. 226—Scope.

It is undoubtedly true that the extent of the power conferred on the High Courts under Art. 226 is much larger than they ever possessed before. But it is not an unlimited power. The words 'to any persen' means to any person to whom according to well-established principles writs like these mentioned in the article would lie ; and the words 'any other purpose' must be read in the context in antithesis to the words 'for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III. Obviously, writs like habeas corpus, mandamus and certiorari could be issued not only for the enforcement of any of the fundamental rights, but also for the enforcement of other legal rights, subject however to conditions well established. For instance, the writ of prohibition has always been understood as a writ which could issue only to a judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal or an inferior Court. Surely, it cannot be said that now under Art. 226 a writ in the nature of prohibition could issue even to a private person prohibiting him from doing some act which is likely to injure an applicant. A I R 1952 Cal 315, Rel. on. (1954) 1 M L J 429 : 1954 Mad W N 27 : ILR (1954) Mad 754 : 1954 Andh L J (W) H C 29 : AIR 1954 Mad 549 (551, 552) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court—Power to issue "directions, orders or writs" apart from specified writs.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court has been empowered to issue any "directions, orders or writs" apart from the specified writs. The argument that "directions, orders or writs" can issue only in the circumstances in which the writs named specifically can issue, if accepted, would so restrict the meaning of the words "directions, orders or writs" as to render them otiose. It is common place that effect must be given to every provision of a statute and that no word should be regarded as a surplusage unless that would lead to an absurdity. Again, the power conferred by Art. 226 on High Courts is discretionary. It would, therefore, not be right to read limitations in the wide powers conferred by the general words used therein merely because these words are followed by some specific words which connote a restricted power, more so when the article provides that the power conferred by the specific words is included in that conferred by the general words. ILR (1951) Nag 791 : 1951 N L J 346 : AIR 1951 Nag 33 (35) (Pts B, C) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

37 (a). Power to pass orders that ought to have been passed.

——Art. 226 — Writ of mandamus or prohibition in pending appeal.

Scope of mandamus or prohibition never embraced within its ambit a direction to an inferior Tribunal to decide the appeal pending before it in a particular way, though writ may issue to direct subordinate judicial authority to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it. AIR 1955 All 422 (425) (Pt A) (Pr 16) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Application under S. 13 of Andhra Tenancy Act (18 of 1956), for eviction of tenant — Trial Court not considering at all material evidence on record to determine the main question of default of payment of rent—Appellate Court relying merely on doubtful document and omitting to consider other evidence — Orders of lower Courts must be quashed — Andhra Tenancy Act (18 of 1956), S. 13.

Where in a case for eviction under S. 13 of the Andhra Tenancy Act, the trial Court did not consider at all the material evidence on record to determine the rival contentions, that the amount deposited by tenant was withdrawn by him or was adjusted towards arrears of rent and consequently to that extent the tenant was in fact defaulter or not and the appellate authority also omitted to take into consideration the other material evidence, but relied merely on a document which was not free from doubts :

Held, that the orders of the Appellate Authority as well as the Trial Court must be quashed and the Trial Court should be directed to evaluate the material and give a definite finding as to whether the amount in deposit had in fact been adjusted or not. It was necessary for the Tribunal to evaluate the evidence and reach the conclusion on facts of the case. (1964) 2 Andh W R 279 : A I R 1966 Andh Pra 272 (274) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—"Directions, Orders, writs, etc."

Petition under Art. 226 for getting permit for cement withheld by authorities—Judge while allowing petition also directing non-applicant authorities to issue permit—Direction held meant substitution of discretion of the Judge himself in place of that of authorities concerned — Direction held was beyond jurisdiction and illegal. 57 Cal W N 790 : AIR 1954 Cal 159 (163) (Pt E) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Person asked to leave protected area by Superintendent of Police within 7 days from receipt of notice — Petition for writ for quashing such order—Writ petition dismissed — Petitioner asking for some time to wind up her affairs—Judicial Commissioner has no jurisdiction to grant her time — She may apply to authorities concerned. AIR 1961 Manipur 37 (40) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

■ ——Art. 226—Powers of High Court under—While quashing the order, High Court can pass an order which ought to have been passed — English and American precedents, value of — A I R 1952 Nag 4, Overruled — (Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949, Cl. 13 (9)).

In an application under Art. 226, before the High Court against an order of Additional Deputy Commissioner confirming the decision of the Rent Controller rejecting the application of the landlord for permission to serve a notice of termination of tenancy on his tenant, upon the need of the landlord being established, the question was whether the High Court could only quash the order and send back the case to the Rent Controller or whether an order granting permission to the landlord to send a notice of termination of tenancy could be passed :

Held, per majority that while quashing the order the High Court could pass an appropriate order which ought to have been passed by the authority concerned, and the High Court had jurisdiction to grant permission to the landlord to serve notice of ejectment : I L R (1951) Nag 769 : A I R 1952 Nag 4, Overruled. Case law-discussed.

That the view taken in 'Sagatmel v. M. V. Deo, Addl. Deputy Commissioner, Nagpur', AIR 1952 Nag 4 was too restrictive and that the powers of the High Court under Art. 226 are wider than those envisaged in that decision. In interpreting a constitution or organic statute, that construction most beneficial to the widest possible amplitude of its power must be adopted. This does not connote that High Courts are given unlimited power to do anything by their writs or orders under Art. 226 ; but some limitation must be placed by them on their own powers. At the same time, the power conferred by Article 226 is ample and wider than the power of issuing English prerogative writs. That being so, it would not be correct to limit that power to the Indian law which preceded the Constitution or to the English Common law. Article 226 is, as it stands, an overriding and unfettered article and it is not made subject to any existing laws or to any restrictions imposed by law.

Per Mudholkar, J. ; — Article 226 of the Constitution which confers constitutional remedies is over and above the ordinary law because it is contained in the supreme law of the land. No Act of the Parliament or of a State Legislature can limit or fetter the power conferred by Art. 226. The position is different in England, because the British Parliament, being supreme, can give finality to the decision of a tribunal and take away the powers of the High Court to issue orders in the nature of mandamus, certiorari or prohibition. Even then it has been held by the Courts in England that the King's Bench Division retains power to enquire whether an inferior tribunal has acted within its jurisdiction or not. Therefore the decisions in India prior to the commencement of the Constitution and the decisions from English Courts on this question are of little value in considering the matter. The principles and practices of the Courts in England which are based upon natural justice or upon the ground of expediency (e. g., in order not to oust the jurisdiction of an ordinary tribunal or of a special tribunal created by a statute, or in order to avoid a conflict of jurisdiction with an authority created by the Constitution) should be followed. Where, however, a certain practice is being followed and principle adhered to by the Courts in England for historical reasons or for reasons peculiarly connected with the English legal system, the Courts in India should not follow that practice or adopt that principle.

The English and American precedents may afford us valuable guidance in settling the principles, but they do not control the interpretation of a written Constitution and are not of much assistance in ascertaining the legislative intent of the Constitution-makers. It is proper to interpret Art. 226 as conferring power of the widest amplitude on the High Courts ; and this power must be invoked to redress wrongs and for passing suitable orders to effectuate the decisions of the High Court.

Per Contra. — Article 226 must be taken to have given some concrete and definite powers The power which has been granted must be exercised in accordance with well-established principles. It must stop short with getting rid of orders which are wrong ; but the High Court cannot arrogate to itself the powers of every conceivable tribunal or body in the country and to pass orders in matters which are specially within the competence of those bodies. What is meant by the Article is that sometimes a direction, sometimes an order and sometimes a writ, appropriate to the case, should issue. The words are 'directions, orders or writs' and not 'any direction, order or writ.' Categories are mentioned, but the Article has nowhere said that the High Court can issue any order or direction.

High Court acting under the process of certiorari and mandamus as universally understood, cannot either decide a case itself or compel the inferior legal tribunal to come to a particular decision.

If the High Courts were to decide the matter itself, that would have not only the effect of creating a jurisdiction not existing in the High Court, but also of repealing S. 7 of the C. P. and Berar Regulation of Letting of Accomodation Act (XI of 1946) and Cl. 21 of the C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949. It would also have the effect of giving a finality to the order of the High Court whereas the final order should really be that of the Rent Controller or on appeal of the Deputy Commis sioner. Bhailai Jagdish v. Additional Deputy Commr., Akola, I L R (1952) Nag 839 : 1952 Nag L J 613 : A I R 1953 Nag 89 (91, 98, 101, 102, 105 110, 112, 118, 120) (Pt B) (Prs 1, 49, 64, 65, 72, 91, 92, 117, 118, 119, 130, 160, 170) (FB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court—Direction issued to Regional Transport Authority to give effect to certain order.

The power of High Court under Art. 226 is not limited to the issue of only the well-known prerogative writs under the common law. It extends to issuing directions, orders or writs for any other purposes. F. B. decision in Misc. Petn. No. 5 of 1950 D/- 25 8-1950, Relied on.

The Regional Transport Authority, Raipur, directed to observe and give effect to the Order of the Appellate authority dated 23-1-1951 by cancelling the permit granted by it. ILR (1952) Nag 69 : 1953 Nag L J 339: AIR 1952 Nag 111 (115) (Pt E) (Prs 25, 26) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope — (Matsya Customs Ordinance (1948), S 48).

A writ of certiorari and prohibition may not be available to the petitioners where the Deputy Commissioner, Customs and Excise, Jaipur Division, passing an order under S 48, Matsya Customs Ordinance was not under any legal duty to decide the case judicially or quasi-judicially. But Art. 226 of the Constitution of India is not confined to these writs alone, and the High Court is, therefore, not altogether helpless in giving appropriate relief under Art. 226. (1953) Raj L W 47 : ILR (1952) 2 Raj 511 : AIR 1953 Raj 158 (162) (Pt E) (Pr 10) (DB).

37 (b). Writ, in nature of.

——Art. 226 – Writ of Scire facias — Meaning and nature of, indicated Writ cannot issue to rescind certificate of registration validly granted to company —Duty of Registrar of Companies while granting certificate —Object of company legal —Motive cannot be enquired into Remedy against company lies in winding up — Companies Act (1956), Ss. 33, 12, 234, 235, 237 and 243).

Writ of 'scire facias' is a Latin phrase meaning 'that you cause him to know.' The writ is of two kinds. One is satisfaction of a decree in execution. This has become obsolete. The other is issued for the purpose of rescinding Crown grants. Though it is not abolished it is now out of use even in England, except for recovery of Crown debts, and also for rescinding Crown grants and charters.

It is open to serious doubt whether this can be applied to a company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act or under some special enactment.

If a company is born, the only method to get it extinguished is by resorting to the provisions of enactments, which provide for the winding up of companies. Ample provision is made in the Indian Companies Act in this respect in the shape of Ss. 234, 235, 237 and 243 Remedy by way of a writ of scire facias is misconceived. On the assumption that it was competent for a Court to scrutinise the objects of a company, the Court considered the intent and the purpose of the formation of the company in the instant case and held that there was no foundation for the complaint that the promoters of the company had any evil designs or were actuated by the fraudulent object of defeating the rights and privileges of the workers and working journalists connected with the newspapers by transferring the business of a flourishing going concern to a dummy company I L R (1959) Andh Pra 1210 : (1960) 30 Com Cas 437 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 123 (126, 127, 128, 129, 130) (Prs 10, 11, 15, 24, 27, 28, 30, 32, 33, 34, 43) (DB).

● —Art. 226—Scope—"In the nature of" — Meaning.

Art. 226 of the Constitution provides that the High Court can issue writs "in the nature of" certiorari and mandamus. The employment of the words "in the nature of" can have but two meanings. First, that archaic language is sought to be avoided and secondly the intention is that the power should be patterned on the accepted practice in the matter of these well-known writs though the writs as such need not be copied. It is obvious that though "blind adherence" is not contemplated, the "nature" of the writs must even be borne in mind. Bhailal Jagdish v. Additional Deputy Commissioner Akola, ILR (1952) Nag 839 : 1952 N L J 613 : A I R 1953 Nag 89 (94, 95) (Pt D) (Pr 28) (FB).

● —Art. 226—Power of High Court — Necessary directions, though not conforming to any of the writs, can be given.

Article 226 gives High Court full authority to issue necessary directions for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part 3 and it does not matter even if the direction does not conform exactly to one of the writs specifically mentioned in the Article Where, therefore, High Court declares a particular provision of law by a State invalid under Art. 19 (5) of the Constitution, it can issue a direction upon the State Government prohibiting it and its officers from taking any action for the enforcement of any order under that law. Brijnandan Sharma v. State of Bihar, I L R 29 Pat 461 : 1952 Cri L J 610 : AIR 1950 Pat 322 (325) (Pt G) (Pr 11) (FB).

38. Discriminatory and mala fide orders.

See Notes 42 and 50.

39. Discretionary remedy.

(a) Dismissal of civil servant.

(b) Habeas Corpus.

See Note 195.

(c) Prohibition, writ of.

See also Note 279.

(d) Mandamums.

See Note 236.

(e) Certiorari.

See also Note 185.

39. Discretionary remedy.

● —Art. 32 — Relief under — If discretionary — Right of citizen.

The granting of an appropriate relief under Art. 32 of the Constitution is not discretionary. The citizens are ordinarily entitled to appropriate relief under Art. 32 once it is shown that their fundamental rights have been illegally or unconstitutionally violated. AIR 1959 S C 149, Rel. on. Observations in AIR 1955 S C 3 and AIR 1955 S C 1, held obiter. Daryao v. State of U. P., 1961 S C D 836 : (1961) 2 S C A 591 : (1962) 1 S C J 702 : (1962) 2 Andh W R (S C) 16 : (1962) 2 Mad L J (S C) 16 : (1962) 1 S C R 574 : AIR 1961 S C 1457 (1460, 1461) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

● ——Art. 32—Proper writ not asked for — Effect.

Article 32 gives the Courts very wide discretion in the matter of framing their writs to suit the exigencies of particular cases, and an application cannot be thrown out simply on the ground that the proper writ or direction has not been prayed for. Charanjit Lal Chowdhury v. Union of India. 1951 S C J 29: 1951 Mad W N 111 : (1951) 21 Comp Cas 33 : 1950 S C R 869 : 53 Bom L R 499 : ILR (1951) Hyd 461 : 64 M L W 47 : AIR 1951 S C 41 (53) (Pt F) (Pr 45).

——Art. 226—Another remedy open —[Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 9 (3)].

Award given by Collector under Land Acquisition Act — Person interested challenging its validity and applying under Art. 226 for writ on ground that no proper notice was given to them under S. 9 (3), Land Acquisition Act — Subsequent to proceedings under S. 9 (3) persons interested held could only agitate question of compensation payable to them — No useful purpose held would be served by quashing proceedings already taken. 1953 A M L J 84 : AIR 1954 Ajmer 71 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Writ of quo warranto — Issue of, be vexatious — Writ can be refused in Court's discretion.

Article 226 of the Constitution is discretionary in nature, and the petitioner is not necessarily entitled to the issue of a writ. Where a person was holding a post for a long time, and there was no complaint against him, and the issue of writ of quo warranto would have been vexatious, the High Court refused to issue a writ of quo warranto. AIR 1965 All 151 (154) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

— Art. 226 – Income-tax Act (1961), Sch. II, Rr. 2 and 86—Notice under Sch. II, R. 2 — But 15 days notice not specifically given — No prejudice caused to petitioner by having more than 15 days to arrange for payment — Writ jurisdiction will not be exercised.

Where there is any lacuna in the notice under Sch. II, R. 2 inasmuch as fifteen days notice for compliance is not specifically given but the petitioner has much more than the requisite 15 days notice in which to arrange for the payment of the demand made and no prejudice is shown to have been caused, the High Court would decline to exercise the extraordinary writ jurisdiction in favour of the petitioner. There is also an alternate remedy available in the shape of an appeal under R. 86 of Sch. II. (1965) 2 I T J 704 (All).

——Art. 226 — Interference—Grounds— Nyaya Panchayat empowered under Panchayat Act to try abetment of offence as well as primary offence recording conviction under S. 426 instead of under Ss. 426/109 or Ss. 426/114 of Penal Code, when accused had only abetted offence—It is mere irregularity — High Court did not interfere as no prejudice was caused — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 52. 1964 All W R (H C) 689 : 1964 All Cr R 532 : 1964 All L J 989.

——Art. 226—Equitable jurisdiction — Accommodation vacated by sub-tenant — Order of allotment — Rent Control Officer held had no jurisdiction to make such order under U. P. Act 3 of 1947 — Officer taking proceedings under S. 7-A of Act for eviction —Equitable jurisdiction under Art. 226 held could not be invoked to quash proceedings. See Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7 (1). 1964 All W R (H C) 260.

——Art. 226 — Writ jurisdiction of High Court — Limit within which it is exercised.

The writ jurisdiction of a High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is an extraordinary one and can be exercised only in cases where any improper exercise or non-exercise of jurisdiction has caused manifest, i. e., substantial, injustice to the party. Where no injustice is caused, the High Court can refuse to exercise the jurisdiction under Art. 226 even though some irregularity is committed by the respondent. AIR 1963 All 415 (417) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 —Petitioner must come with clean hands —Petitioner found guilty of copying at examination —Disciplinary action by Board of High School and Intermediate Education — Even though there are irregularities or errors in exercise of disciplinary jurisdiction, High Court will not exercise its writ jurisdiction. AIR 1961 All 290 (292) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court.

Article 226 of the Constitution is not addressed to the Court in the language of an inexorable command. Of necessity it does not enjoin upon the Court to issue writs, orders and directions as a matter of course for the asking. 1960 Cr L J 1176 : AIR 1960 All 559 (561) (Pt C, (Pr 18).

——Art. 226– Exercise of discretion of High Court.

The discretion of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution should not ordinarily be exercised simply to enable a petitioner to make a claim for money in other proceedings. AIR 1960 All 209 (210, 211) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Interference—Grounds.

It is open to the High Court to refuse to interfere in its jurisdiction under Art. 226 where by setting aside an order it might be perpetuating an injustice which has been done to the respondents by an incorrect ex parte order passed against them. AIR 1957 S C 227 and AIR 1957 All 276, Rel. on. 1959 All L J 611 : 1959 All W R (H C) 432 : I L R (1959) 2 All 173 : AIR 1960 All 93 (96) Pt F) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial dispute — Reference to Adjudicator — Periods of unemployment wrongly described in order of reference — Employees not prejudiced High Court will not interfere — (Industrial Disputes Act 1947, S. 10 (1)). AIR 1959 All 639 (641) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Scope—Exercise of—When refused.

If the effect of order of the High Court under Art. 226 would effectuate an injustice, the Court would refuse to grant any relief to the petitioner. 1957 A L J 193, Rel. on. 1957 All L J 891 : 1957 All W R (HC) 820.

——Art 226—Certiorari — Writ of — Discretionary remedy—Submission to jurisdiction.

In deciding whether or not a particular remedy shall be granted, the Court is entitled to enquire into the conduct of the applicant and the circumstances of the case, in order to ascertain whether it is proper or not proper to grant the remedy sought. (1940) 2 K B 33, Rel. on.

Where the party applying for a writ of certiorari was guilty of great laches which was not explained and had also submitted to the jurisdiction of the authority, whose order was sought to be quashed, nor was an appeal filed against the order though permitted under the law Held, that on account of the conduct of the party the High Court in its discretion should not interfere under Art 226. (1940) 2 K B 33, Rel. on. 1957 All L J 509 : 1957 All W R (HC) 573 : A I R 1957 All 561 (575) (Pt P) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 226 Interference—Grounds—Proof of prejudice—Resolution of non-confidence against Chairman of Town Area Committee — Petition against — Maintainability.

The High Court will not interfere in the exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution with the resolution of non-confidence against the Chairman of the Town Area Committee passed at the meeting unless the defects pointed out have prejudiced the case of the petitioner in any manner. 1956 All L J 58, Foll. 1957 All W R (HC) 335 : 1957 All L J 345 : A I R 1957 All 366 (369) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Writ—Issue of—Grounds.

The powers conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution on the High Courts are certainly very wide and confer on them a discretion of a most extensive nature. That discretion, however, must necessarily be exercised in accordance with judicial considerations and well established principles. A I R 1951 All 746 (FB), Rel. on.

Thus the mere fact that an order is without jurisdiction or that there is an error apparent on the face of the record is not sufficient to justify the issue of a writ. In addition to that it must be established that the order has resulted in manifest injustice. A I R 1954 S C 207 and A I R 1952 S C 192, Rel. on. 1957 All L J 193 : ILR (1957) 1 All 189 : A I R 1957 All 276 (278) (Prs 7, 8, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ, a discretionary remedy.

The Additional Commissioner against whom a writ is sought to be issued in an appeal pending before him is a Court subordinate to the Board of Revenue; his decisions can be and are made the subject-matter of an appeal to the Board of Revenue. The Board of Revenue which is no party to this petition will not be bound by any direction or order embodied in a writ issued by the High Court to the Additional Commissioner, and in deciding an appeal from the judgment of the Additional Commissioner it might express an opinion which is in conflict with the decision of the High Court. In such a case it is desirable that the possibility of any such difference of opinion should be avoided. Hence, the High Court will, in its discretion, refuse to issue any writ. 1955 All L J 211 : A I R 1955 All 422 (423) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of general importance.

Where a large number of persons were involved and the question was of general importance, it would be proper exercise of the discretion of the High Court to decide the petition under Art. 226 on the merits. A I R 1952 All 753 (FB). Ref. 1954 All L J 405 : A I R 1954 All 675 (677, 678) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 12).

——Art. 226—Relief when may be refused.

Costs of liquidation—Proceedings for realisation—See Co-operative Societies — Co operative Societies Act (1912), S. 42. 1954 All L J 305 : A I R 1954 All 646.

● ——Art. 226 — Scope — Quo warranto, writ of — Delay in applying.

Per Full Bench :—The powers which the High Court enjoys under Art. 226 are of a discretionary nature, though that discretion has to be exercised in accordance with judicial principles. Hence the High Court is not bound to interfere when the application for the issue of a writ of quo warranto is a belated one.

In this case the High Court refused to interfere as the application was filed nearly one year after the proceeding before the Election Tribunal had commenced and when almost all the evidence had been adduced. Hari Shankar Prasad Gupta v. Sukhdeo Prasad, ILR (1954) 1 All 447 : 1953 All W R (HC) 684 : 1953 All L J 678 : AIR 1954 All 227 (228, 230) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 15) (FB).

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion.

In exercising its discretion the Court must have regard to the general rule that the Court will normally require the applicant to have recourse to his ordinary remedies : ILR 62 Cal 1011, A I R 1942 Mad 348; A I R 1947 Bom 46, Rel. on. ILR (1952) 1 All 880 : A I R 1953 All 739 (741) (Pt E) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Remedy of revision open.

Article 226 of the Constitution makes the issue of directions, orders or writs discretionary and it cannot be urged that any party has a right to any form of order as a matter of course The discretion is a judicial discretion to be exercised according to judicial principles. The principle governing writs of certiorari and prohibition should be that Courts should refuse, normally speaking, to entertain applications for writs directions or orders for certiorari or prohibition where the ordinary remedy of approaching the High Court by an application in revision is available to the party concerned. Case Law referred. Asiatic Engineering Co. v Achhru Ram, 1951 R D (HC) 241 : 1951 All L J 576 : I L R (1952) 2 All 838 : A I R 1951 All 746 (769) (Pt G) (Pr 62) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Article confers very wide discretion on High Court in granting relief appropriate to case irrespective of relief sought for.

Article 226 vests the High Court with a very wide discretion in the matter of framing its writs to suit the exigencies of particular cases. There is no justification for splitting up the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 into three distinct categories, namely, orders, directions and writs. The Constitution empowers a person aggrieved to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court and it is for the High Court to grant the relief which is appropriate to the case. (1964) 2 Andh W R 290.

——Art. 226 — Unauthorised order by Municipal Commissioner — Disobedience of order by person concerned — Conduct does not disentitle person to claim relief under Article—(Municipalities—Hyderabad Municipal Corporation Act (2 of 1956), S. 450).

Where overstepping the statutory limits the Commissioner, issues an order cancelling the permission previously granted by him to the petitioner for constructing a house, the conduct of the petitioner in proceeding with the construction despite the order is not such as to disentitle him to the discretionary relief under Art. 226. (1960) 1 Andh W R 113 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 603 (605) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Decision of Labour Court — Dismissal of employee held wrongful—Interference by High Court—Principles (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1)).

Interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution is discretionary and the High Court will not normally interfere with the decision of the Labour Court or other similar Tribunals, unless there has been a clear want of jurisdiction or manifest error and injustice.

Thus the question whether the dismissal of an employee was wrongful or justified is primarily for the Tribunal to decide It is not for the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution to interfere. A I R 1953 S C 58, Rel. on. (1959) 2 Lab L J 717 : (1960) 1 Andh W R 133 : (1960) Mad L J (Cr) 165 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 526 (535) (Pt F) (Prs 48, 49) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interference — Grounds — Order of statutory tribunal.

Interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution is discretionary. The High Court does not interfere with the orders of the statutory authorities unless it is satisfied that there has been a patent lack of jurisdiction, or an error of law apparent on the face of record, or that some principle of natural justice has been violated. It would not also interfere to correct errors of law, which do not occasion injustice in a broad and general sense. A I R 1955 S C 425, Rel. on. 1960 Cri L J 1061 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 384 (386, 387) (Pt E) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Inferference—Grounds — No writ in furtherance of dishonesty.

Even if any error of law is commited by the tribunal against whose decision a writ petition has been filed that would not be a ground for invoking the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226, when it is not in furtherance of justice but tends to encourage dishonesty. (1960) 1 Andh W R 57 : 1960 Andh L T 102 : I L R (1960) 2 Andh Pra 298.

——Art. 226—Right to relief — Fraud by petitioner to secure admission in medical course—Effect.

Held, on facts that the Rules framed by the Government for selection of candidates for the Pre-professional course contemplated decision by the Selection Committee as to whether a particular candidate belongs to a scheduled caste or a Scheduled Tribe and that there was no warrant for the assumption that the Selection Committee was bound to act on the social status certificate produced by a candidate. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 470: (1958) 1 Andh W R 280, Disting. (2) that the extraordinary jurisdiction conferred on the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution was to be exercised only in furtherance of justice and where the petitioner had not suffered any injustice as a result of an order of any Tribunal, the Court would be reluctant to interfere, even assuming that there was some infraction of certain rules. (3) that no relief would be afforded, if fraud is resorted to, to obtain an advantage. A I R 1959 Andh Pra 426 (427, 428) (Prs 7, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Powers of High Court.

The High Courts do not, and should not act as Courts of appeal under Art. 226. Their powers are purely discretionary and though no limits can be placed upon that discretion it must be exercised along recognised lines and not arbitrarily; and one of the limitations imposed by the Courts on themselves is that they will not exercise jurisdiction in this class of case unless substantial injustice has ensued, or is likely to ensue. (1952) 2 Mad L J 16, Foll. (1957) 2 Andh W R 106 : I L R (1956) Andh Pra 1101.

——Art. 226—Other remedy—Existence of per se no bar.

The issue of various writs or directions is in the discretion of the Court and the Court while exercising its discretion may take into consideration the existence of the alternative remedy as a matter of policy, but the existence of the alternative remedy is not per se a bar to the issue of a writ of certiorari. AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1959 Bom 372, Foll. (1960) 1 Assam L R 35 : (1961) 43 I T R 562 : I L R (1960) 12 Assam 104 : A I R 1960 Assam 162 (165) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Notification under Assam State Road Transport Act—Omission of name of person affected by scheme — No prejudice—Interference — See Assam State Road Transport Act (30 of 1954), S. 5. A I R 1957 Assam 139 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Right to relief under — Party, if has legal right.

Relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution is discretionary for the Court to grant. The petitioners cannot insist on it as though they had a legal right to it. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 160.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Extent of —Failure to comply with provisions of Motor Vehicles Act—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 38)—(Assam Motor Vehicles Rules (1940), R. 84),

The power of issuing a high prerogative writ is enjoyed by the High Court only to be used in circumstances that necessitate issuing of such writs for meeting the ends of justice and where the objection is only technical and as a matter of fact, the petitioner, is at fault, the High Court enjoys the discretion to refuse the writs under such circumstances.

Thus where there was a failure on the part of an owner of a bus to obtain a certificate of fitness as prescribed by S. 38, Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, and the Secretary to the Regional Transport Authority passed an order under R. 84(b) of the Assam Motor Vehicles Rules assessing the composition fee which order was subsequently approved by the Authority:

Held, that the objection to the order passed by the Secretary was only technical and no writ under Art. 226 could be passed. A I R 1953 Assam 199, Ref. 1954 Cri L J 1180 : A I R 1954 Assam 155 (155, 156) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Quo warranto.

The writ of quo warranto is not issued as a matter of right. It is a discretionary relief and the Court has always to ask itself whether under the circumstances of each case the petitioner should be given the relief in the nature of quo warranto which he seeks. 55 Bom L R 882 : I L R (1954) Bom 104 : AIR 1954 Bom 116 (121) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Relief under is discretionary—Protective assessment against firm—Protective recovery—Notices under S. 46 (5-A), Income-tax Act issued to debtors of assessee firm to withhold payment to assessee firm — Assessee firm if entitled to relief — (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (5-A)).

Held, on facts that relief under Art. 226 is discretionary and it ought not to be exercised so as to defeat a lawful claim, particularly that of the State's revenue. Though protective recovery is not permissible in law, and though the notices were defective, on the facts and circumstances of this case the High Court ought not to come to the aid of the petitioner under Art. 226. (1957) 31 I T R 603 : I L R (1957) 3 Cal 496 : AIR 1957 Cal 1 (3) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Discretion of Court — Duty of petitioner—Plea of natural justice when available.

The remedy under Art. 226 is purely discretionary and the High Court is not bound to grant the application of a person who does not come with a clean hand. Where in a case of smuggling of gold the petitioner was heard at length he appeared through counsel, produced witnesses and even got his goldsmith to examine the gold, the contention that there has been any violation of the rules of natural justice was held untenable. AIR 1956 Cal 621 (623) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—Abstract relief.

The jurisdiction under Art. 226 was not given to the High Court for the purpose of its declaring, at the instance of petitioners under the Article, that certain proceedings which they themselves had initiated were grounded in a void law and for quashing all orders passed in the proceedings whether against them or in their favour The jurisdiction can properly be invoked only for the purpose of obtaining relief and not for the purpose of having the validity of Acts adjudged in the abstract. Abindra Kumar Maity v. A. K. Majumdar, 60 Cal W N 299 : A I R 1956 Cal 273 (275) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (FB).

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion.

A Court exercising the equitable and discretionary jurisdiction under Art. 226 cannot ignore a fact which has come to its notice and if such fact makes the grant of relief by way of a writ inappropriate, it should desist from granting such relief. A I R 1955 Cal 541 (543) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 Question requiring further evidence.

Order for requisition of property of petitioner under S. 3 (1) of West Bengal Act 2 of 1948 — Order challenged by petitioner — Settlement of record of rights standing in the name of the vendor of the petitioner — Prima facie, therefore, the petitioner had title — It could not therefore be held that the title of the (petitioner) was disputed and that there was no sufficient evidence before the Court in support of that title - It could not be said that this was not a proper case where the Court should exercise its powers under Art. 226 because the question of title might require further evidence. 58 Cal W N 203 : A I R 1954 Cal 394 (394, 395) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 4) (DB).

——Art 226—Scope.

Applications under Art 226 of the Constitution invoke the equitable jurisdiction of the Court and it is entirely discretionary as to whether the Court should grant any relief.

Order by District Magistrate in appeal under S. 529-A, Bengal Municipal Act, for removal of certain persons from the Final Electoral Roll — Order passed against such persons ex parte — Application under Art 226 for direction to the registering authority to amend and republish the Final Electoral Roll in accordance with that order without making those persons parties to the application — Held, that the High Court ought not to exercise its discretion in support of such action which sought to uphold the order which had been passed without giving those persons an opportunity of being heard. AIR 1954 Cal 285 (288) (Pt B) (Pr 10)

——Art. 226 Petition for writ under—Existence of alternative remedy—Effect.

Alternative remedies are factors which are taken into consideration in the exercise of Court's discretion in issuing Prerogative Writs. But the remedies must be adequate. 87 Cal L J 391: 1953 Cri L J 1745: AIR 1953 Cal 753 (754) (Pt C) (Pr 16).

—Art. 226—Exercise of discretion—(Punjab Land Revenue Act (17 of 1887), S. 16).

Article 226 of the Constitution makes the issue of directions, orders or writs discretionary and it cannot be urged that any party has a right to any form of order as a matter of course. The discretion is a judicial one to be exercised according to judicial principles. AIR 1951 All 746 (FB), Rel. on.

The exercise of that jurisdiction would be definitely refused where the petitioner has admittedly no right in the property in respect of which the extraordinary legal remedy is sought. A I R 1953 Him Pra 74 (75) (Pr 5).

—— Art 226—Successive grant of temporary permits—High Court should not interfere under Article if no injustice to petitioner is done—Motor Vehiches Act (1939), S. 62.

Where there is a successive grant of temporary permits in violation of S. 62, Motor Vehicles Act, the High Court should not interfere in exercise of its extraordinary powers under Art. 226 at the instance of the petitioner who has not suffered any wrong or injustice so as to compel the Court's discretion under Art. 226, but on the contrary has obtained the advantage of illegal grant of permit. 1964 Ker L J 784 : 1964 Ker L T 613.

——Art. 226—Nature and scope of jurisdiction of High Court—Bona fide closure of section of industry—Tribunal holding it as retrenchment and awarding retrenchment compensation — Order in excess of jurisdiction—High Court refused to interfere in exercise of its discretion as there was no manifest injustice.

Article 226 does not make any distinction between writs of course and writs of right on the one hand and discretionary writs on the other. The powers of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution appear to be quite wide and the said powers confer on it an extensive discretion, with the possible limitation that the discretion has to be exercised in accordance with well-established judicial principles and not arbitrarily. AIR 1952 S C 192 and A I R 1953 S C 58 and AIR 1955 S C 425 and AIR 1957 SC 227 and AIR 1960 S C 407 and AIR 1960 S C 1292, Foll.

Where the tribunal recorded a finding that the closure of certain sections of the Mills amounted to retrenchment and, therefore the workers were entitled to retrenchment compensation under S. 23-F, Industrial Disputes Act, the order directing payment of retrenchment compensation though in excess of the jurisdiction of the Tribunal would not be interfered with in the exercise of discretionary powers under Art. 226 when it has not resulted in substantial miscarriage of justice. 1961 Ker L J 613 : 1961 Ker L T 589 : (1962-63) 22 F J R 147 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 84 : AIR 1962 Ker 11 (13, 14) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Discretion of High Court under Art. 226—Petitioner after enjoying right to vend meat under auction (of such right by local body) for full term challenging validity of auction under Art. 19(1)(g) in writ petition—High Court not justified in exercising its discretion under Art. 226 in petitioner's favour. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1961 Ker 289.

—Art. 226—Writs under Art. 226 are discretionary writs. There is no such thing in Art 226 as writ of right or writ of course. 1952-3 S T C 77 : AIR 1952 Mad 814 (816, 817) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

—Art. 226—In exercising discretionary powers under Art. 226, High Court is right to follow generally principles on which prerogative writs are issued in England. ILR (1952) Madh Bha 231: AIR 1950 Madh B 46 (51) (Pt G (Pr 13).

—Art. 226 — Interference — Grounds — (Municipalities—C. P and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 173 (2)).

A suit filed by certain firms for injunction against the municipality to prohibit from demanding the octroi duty having been dismissed they paid the octroi duty and pressed for the refund of a part of that duty. The Additional Deputy Commissioner ordered on appeal refund of the octroi duty. The Municipality agitated the matter under Art. 226 and subsequently under Cl. 15, L. P.

Held that the highest authority appointed under the municipal law to decide the appeals having given its verdict in favour of the firms, if the High Court were to interfere, it would be using the technicalities of the law to cause an unjust enrichment to the municipal committee, which the policy of law is to avoid. Held, further that the Additional Deputy Commissioner having extended the period for filing appeals under S. 173 (2) of the Municipalities Act and that extension of time having been approved by the Board of Revenue, no interference was necessary in the circumstances of the case 1957 M P C 701 : 1957 M P L J 823 : ILR (1957) Madh Pra 622 : 1957 Jab L J 1069 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 308 (309, 310) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mala fides—Issue of writ—Right to relief.

When the petitioner's application challenging the validity of an order does not appear to have been made in good faith and indicates his mala fides, he is not entitled to any relief in exercise of the discretionary power vested in the High Court by Art. 226. 1957 Jab L J 38 : (1957) 8 S T C 313 : 1957 M P C 55 : 1957 M P L J 283 : ILR (1957) Madh Pra 92 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 12 (17) (Pt C) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Art. 226—Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S 152 (4)—Provisions are mandatory—Meeting of Panchayat to express non-confidence in President should be held at Panchayat office—Meeting held elsewhere—President not objecting—He cannot object in writ petition, granting of writ being discretionary. See Panchayats — Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S. 152 (4). AIR 1965 Mad 78.

——Art. 226—Decision of Supreme Court holding that G. O. No. 1298 (under) Motor Vehicles Act, of Madras Government is invalid—Effect of, on decisions of statutory bodies under Motor Vehicles Act given prior to the above decision on the assumption that the G. O. is valid—If can be struck down by issue of writ—Invalidity of G. O. No. 1298 — If can be raisd for the first time in writ appeal.

In (1994) 2 S C J 570 : (1964) 2 M L J (S C) 131 : (1964) 2 Andh W R (S C) 131, the Supreme Court has held that G. O. No 1293 of the Government of Madras, dated 28th April, 1956; is outside the scope of S. 43-A of the Motor Vehicles Act to the extent to which it seeks to issue directions to quasi judicial Tribunals which might fetter their discretion in the grant of stage carriage permits. The effect of this on pending writ appeals against the decisions of statutory bodies given prior to the aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court, when the G. O. was taken as valid by all authorities concerned is this. Where G. O. No 1298 has been directly or indirectly the basis of or one important factor of those decisions there is a manifest error of law which justifies the issue of a writ. If those decisions have been wholly uninfluenced by the G. O., the issue of a writ would be inappropriate. But outside all such cases it will be a matter of fact upon the merits of each case whether the G. O. has been an important operative influence. If such is the case it will certainly be sufficient to vitiate the decisions though they are not entirely and exclusively based upon the directions of the G. O The fact that the party laboured under ignorance of law regarding the validity of the G O. and even invoked the erroneous application of the law cannot preclude him from obtaining relief under Art. 226. This is because the discretion under Art. 226 is not merely the individual right of any party. It can be exercised in public interest, in appropriate proceedings as where the quasi-judicial functions of a statutory body have been affected by an improper invasion of executive directions. The fact that the objection to the invalidity of the G O. was not raised at an earlier stage will not preclude a party from raising it as an additional ground in a pending Writ Appeal. Such a ground could not have been raised at an earlier stage when the parties, statutory bodies and the Courts alike were under a misconception that the G. O. was valid. (1965) 1 M L J 302 : ILR (1965) 2 Mad 62.

——Art. 226—Cashier des Charges—Art. 4 — Scope — Party to auction improperly excluded from auction — Detriment to public revenue - Interference under Art. 226 is imperative—Natural justice.

Article 4 of the Cashier des Charges provides that the person in whose favour the auction was decided, should immediately produce a solvent and well-known surety. This makes it clear that the highest bid has to be settled, before the surety can be demanded by the party holding the auction. The petitioner had no doubt made a bid, but that was not settled as the highest bid, nor was the auction then closed. The auction was in progress, and further bids might well have been made, when the surety was demanded by the Mayor. This the Mayor had really no jurisdiction to do, under the terms governing the auction. Hence, it can be said that the principles of natural justice were contravened in the manner in which the petitioner was excluded from further participation in the auction, and that one of the terms of the auction was definitely infringed because the Mayor demanded the security, not after settling the highest bid, but while bids were still in progress. Even so, it may not at all be clear that the High Court would be justified in interference by virtue of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution, for it is well known that in such matters the party does not claim relief from the Court ex debito justitiae; it is not every irregularity which will be set right by the High Court; and the power is discretionary one vested in Court, not a right to be invariably invoked by a party at his own instance. But interference was necessary upon one important canon of propriety, where the Court is satisfied, not merely that a party to an auction has been improperly excluded, but that conceivably there has been a detriment to public revenue by this act. In the instant case, if the petitioner had not been improperly excluded from the auction, the bids would have gone far higher, and there had been a detriment to public revenue by the exclusion of the petitioner at a stage which was not a final stage of the auction, but a transitional stage. AIR 1958 Mad 572 and A I R 1954 S C 592, Rel. on. (1965) 1 Mad L J 210 : 78 Mad L W 211 : 1965 Mad W N 134 : I L R (1964) 1 Mad 918 : A I R 1964 Mad 437 (438, 439) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Exercise of discretionary powers by High Court — Claim by workman of 50 nP. for good attendance bonus made under S. 33 (c), Industrial Disputes Act — Industrial Tribunal wrongly refusing to entertain claim on ground that remedy lay in ordinary Courts — High Court having decided the question of principle refused to send back the case for investigation of the trifling claim on the principle De minimis non curat lex—Maxims - De minimis non curat lex. (1964-65) 27 F J R 476 : (1963) 2 Mad L J 557 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 207 : AIR 1964 Mad 242 (243) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writs not issued as matter of course — Issue of Writs depends on facts and circumstances of the case and Courts cannot act on mere will.

Ordinarily and normally, in the absence of special facts or extraordinary circumstances, the discretion of the High Court under Art. 226 should not be exercised in granting writs before the special remedies have been availed of and exhausted by the applicant.

The exercise of jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution in granting writs, is purely discretionary and seldom can an applicant ask for it as of right. Prerogative writs are not issued as a matter of course. An arbitrary exercise of power is the very negation of exercise of discretion and therefore what is plainly arbitrary cannot be accepted to be the result of exercise of discretion. 1962 Mad W N 245 : A I R 1962 Mad 372 (376) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226, 311—Exercise of discretion.

It is not for the High Court to substitute its opinion, rule out what was not necessary and decide on the balance of the material available whether the punishment actually awarded by the Government was appropriate.

Held, that the error apparent on the face of the record was only a technical one, and in the circumstances of the case, the High Court was not justified in using its discretion in favour of the petitioner to set aside the order as one vitiated as a whole. (1956) 1 Lab L J 516 : (1956 2 Mad L J 145.

——Art. 226 - Powers of High Court — Government rules of service—Violation of—Issue of writ.

A mere violation of a statutory rule in relation to conditions of service cannot give rise to a claim for redress by the issue of a prerogative right. (1958) 1 M L J 38 : 70 Mad L W 553 : ILR (1958) Mad 158 : AIR 1958 Mad 53 (69) (Pt I) (Pr 58).

——Art. 226 — Bar to issue of writ—Conduct of disentitling party.

The order issuing a writ of certiorari though discretionary, is granted ex debito justitiae, to quash proceedings which the Court has power to quash, where it is shown that the Court below has acted without jurisdiction or in excess of jurisdiction.

Whether the conduct of the party making the application does disentitle him to the relief would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Where the petitioner does not raise the objection before the lower tribunal whose decision he is challenging by the writ proceeding and sits on fence taking chance of its decision in his favour and files the petition only when the order turns out to be unfavourable to him, it is not open to him thereafter to ask for a writ as his conduct disentitles him to the relief. A I R 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on. 38 Mys L J 631 : ILR (1959) Mys 735 : AIR 1960 Mys 281 (282) (Prs 2, 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretion of Court — Granting of partial relief.

Article 226 provides for making orders suited to the circumstances of a case and there is nothing against the grant of partial relief. The principle of separability applied to provisions of statutes found to be invalid may be adopted in petition under Art. 226 if petitioners are not prejudiced thereby. ILR (1956) Mys 299 : 35 Mys L J 88 : AIR 1957 Mys 48 (49) (Prs 2, 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretion of High Court — Issue of writ — Statements made by Prime Minister in individual capacity.

Statements made by the Prime Minister of India, who is also the head of a political organization in the country, at public meetings in connection with elections, are made by him not as the Prime Minister of the country but as the head of the political organization. Even assuming that the High Court has jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to issue directions, orders or writs even to a private individual, the High Court will not exercise its discretion to issue a direction, order or writ to him in connection with what he may have done or said in his individual capacity. For, the power conferred by the Article ought not, ordinarily, to be exercised where other means of redress are available to a party. This provision is not to be so construed as, virtually, to take away the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts of the land. 1954 Nag L J 327 : I L R (1952) Nag 331 : A I R 1952 Nag 301 (302) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Power of Court — Exercise of—Conduct of applicant—If relevant.

The power which the High Court has under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a discretionary one, and when the question before the Court is whether it should exercise its discretion in favour of a party or not, it would certainly bear in mind the conduct of that party. It would refuse to exercise its discretion in his favour, if he makes false statements or suppresses facts in his application to the Court. ILR (1951) Nag 523 : 1951 Nag L J 304 : A I R 1951 Nag 38 (43) (Pt H) (Prs 34, 35) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Powers of High Court—Orissa Service Code (Vol. 1), R. 71 (b) — Nature of right under — Employee must continue to be efficient — Decision as to efficiency—Power of High Court to interfere with. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1958 Orissa 202 (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretion of High Court.

In exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 the High Court cannot sit in judgment over the finding of the Tribunal constituted under Disciplinary Proceedings (Administrative Tribunal) Rules (1951) like an appellate Court where there was some evidence to support the finding. I L R (1958) Cut 11 : AIR 1958 Orissa 96 (97) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Allegation that officers working under Commissioner of Commercial Taxes, Bihar, have been acting illegally and arbitrarily causing hardship to petitioner — Application for issue of writ for directing officers to act according to law — Held, relief sought was too vague — Writ refused. 1962 B L J R 712.

——Arts. 226 and 133 (1) (c) — Grant of writ — Discretion of Court — Refusal to exercise discretion — Leave to appeal to Supreme Court See Ibid, Art. 133 (1) (c). AIR 1952 Pat 463 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Remedy under — Grant of writ — Conditions — High Court if bound imperatively to issue writ when called for — Discretion of High Court.

There is nothing in the language or purpose of Art. 226 of the Constitution which shows that the words were intended to be imperative in every case, that is, as imposing a duty on the High Court when its exercise is called for. The Constitution-makers never intended that the High Court should issue the writ even if the petitioner had an alternative legal remedy which was equally adequate. The remedy given by the Article is an extraordinary one and can be invoked only in exceptional circumstances by those who have no alternative remedy by way of suit or otherwise, or where the alternative remedy, if any, is not equally appropriate, beneficial or convenient. The High Court has a discretion.

Per Sarjoo Prasad J.—There can be no doubt on the clear provision of Art. 226 that the High Court has power to issue writs not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights but "for any other purpose". The words "any other purpose" must mean the enforcement of any legal right and the performance of any legal duty. Although the powers of the High Courts to issue writs under the Constitution are very wide, the remedy provided by the Article must remain an extraordinary remedy to be used where ordinary legal process cannot give adequate and prompt relief. It is always for the Court to find out whether in the circumstances of a particular case the failure to exercise the power would amount to a dereliction of duty. In other words, it would depend upon the facts and incidents of the case under consideration to couple the power with a duty upon the Court to issue the writ prayed for. 50 I A 227; 29 Pat 491, Ref. 30 Pat 735 : AIR 1951 Pat 570 (572, 576) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 32) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court—Discretionary relief when to be refused.

The powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution are of an extraordinary nature, to be resorted to in exceptional cases of an urgent nature and where adequate relief cannot be got otherwise. The discretionary relief can and ought to be refused if the defect is only a technical one and has not resulted in any clear injustice or real injury to the petitioner. ILR (1956) Patiala 234 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 133 (136) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of jurisdiction under.

The principles which must govern petitions under Art. 226 for issue of writs are that the powers given to the High Courts by the Article vest these Courts with an extraordinary jurisdiction of a summary but coercive nature, that the relief under the Article is discretionary with the Court, that even if the proceedings which give rise to an application for writ in some respects are not in accord with law, if no injustice has been done, no writ or direction should be issued, that the powers should be exercised very sparingly and only in cases where refusal to grant any relief would cause great hardship, and that where any specific and adequate legal remedy is open to the applicant, application for a writ should not be entertained. AIR 1953 Pepsu 58, Rel. on. ILR (1953) Patiala 451 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 88 (96) (Pt F) (Pr 28) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Pepsu Ordinance No. 10 of 1950 (2005), S. 60—Relief under—Nature.

The relief claimed under a petition under S. 60 of the Pepsu Ordinance No. 10 of 1950 and Art. 226 of the Constitution is descritionary and will not be granted where the order complained against is not unjust and no wrong has been done to the petitioner. ('51) 3 Pepsu L R 266.

——Art. 226—Scope.

Interference by High Court — High Court would not interfere where no manifest injustice is done. (1965) 2 Lab L J 331 : AIR 1965 Punj 159 (161) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Mortgagees in possession claiming evacuee property under S. 10, Cl. (b) must also be sitting allottees — Scope of Cl. (a) of S. 10 — Competent officer on review refusing to order transfer of evacuee property to mortgagees in possession on ground that mortgagees were not sitting allottees — Mortgagees moving High Court under Arts. 226 and 227 of Constitution — Principles relating to issue of writs under Arts. 226, 227 — Petitioners held not entitled to claim property simply on payment of difference between assessed price and mortgage money, not being sitting allottees—Case held not fit for interference under Art. 226 or 227. See Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951), S. 10, Cl. (b). ('63) 65 Punj L R 1093.

——Art. 226—Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules (1955), R. 31 — Order of allotment of property—No injustice seen to have resulted to writ petitioner — Petition held could not succeed even if the Settlement Commissioner had acted in violation of the Rules or had exceeded his jurisdiction in passing the order. (1962) 64 Punj L R 755.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 Punj 246].

——Art. 226 — Rolls for Panchayat elections — Basis of—Writ petition under Art. 226 to set aside election on ground of invalidity of roll—Held, frivolous. See Panchayats—Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953), S. 5 (3). ('61) 63 Punj L R 840.

——Art. 226—Interference—Grounds—No injustice caused—High Court will not interfere.:

It is well settled that the High Court will only interfere under Art. 226 of the Constitution, if there is any injustice caused to the petitioner.

Where therefore, the allotment of a house to A was justified under the rules framed under Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act, 1954, the High Court refused to interfere on a petition filed by B under Art. 226, though he was entitled to the reliefs prayed for, on the ground that no injustice was caused to him. ILR (1960) 2 Punj 34.

——Art. 226 — Interference — Grounds — Order technically defective but eminently just — Interference.

Grave miscarriage of justice or flagrant violation of law is an essential pre-requisite to justify intervention by the High Court under Art. 226: AIR 1953 S C 58 and AIR 1952 S C 192, Rel. on.

Where in spite of technical defects in the impugned order cancelling conferment of proprietary rights under Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954) it is found to be eminently just, there is no ground for justifying interference under Art. 226 which is after all discretionary. AIR 1957 All 561, Rel. on. AIR 1959 Punj 575 (577, 578) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Discretion of High Court.

The petitioner waited to receive the award of the Collector and also initiated a reference under S. 18 of the Land Acquisition Act before coming to the High Court, and this reference, in which it was possible that the price already fixed might be increased, was still pending.

Held, that the present petition was in fact no more than a second string to the bow of the petitioners. In the circumstances it would certainly appear to be justified to refuse the petitioners the discretionary relief of an order under the extraordinary powers of the Court conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution. 60 Punj L R 302 : ILR (1958) Punj 1104 : AIR 1959 Punj 479 (480, 481) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 — Quo-warranto — Discretion —(Election)—(Municipalities—Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 240).

Writ of quo-warranto is not a writ which the petitioners are entitled to as a matter of right.

Where the Court was convinced that the residents as a whole in a municipal town were not able to express their opinion properly and it appeared that a considerable number of them had been disenfranchised and the defect as to absence of valid delimitation of constituencies was brought to the notice of the election authorities concerned before the elections were held but the objection was ignored:

Held, that the election must be set aside. The objection to the absence of valid delimitation of constituencies was not merely of a technical nature but was of substance. AIR 1958 Punj 128 (132) (Pt F) (Pr 13).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Discretion of High Court.

No party is entitled to claim an order under Art. 226 or 227 of the Constitution as a matter of course. An order under these provisions of the Constitution may be made only to advance justice. It cannot be made on a technical ground which may have the effect to perpetuate a wrong done to the opposite party. ILR (1957) Punj 1682.

—— Art. 226- Powers under—Nature of.

The powers conferred on the High Court under Art. 226 are discretionary and of an equitable nature. Even where a petitioner succeeds in a petition under this Article in showing that his legal right has been infringed, High Court is not bound to grant the petition and may reject it in the exercise of its discretion on various grounds which have nothing to do with the merits of the case. 57 Punj L R 332 : I L R (1955) Punj 1345 : AIR 1956 Punj 1 (3) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art 226 — Order of allotment of land in possession of lessee from evacuee — Petitioner lessee guilty of abuse of process of Court—No manifest injustice caused — Petitioner held not entitled to any relief—(East Punjab Displaced Persons (Land Resettlement) Act (1949), S. 9)—Effect of. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4962.

——Art. 226—Discretion of High Court—Determination of questions relating to rights based on allegations requiring thorough examination after taking full evidence spread over 400 years — It would be proper for High Court to leave petitioner to seek his remedy in competent Court of law and refuse to determine those questions in writ petition. 1962 Raj L W 317 : I L R (1962) 12 Raj 406 : A I R 1962 Raj 196 (203) (Pt B) (Pr 31) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1638].

——Art. 226 — Income-Tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2)—Recovery of arrears of tax — Procedure applicable—Provisions of Rajasthan Public Demands Recovery Act, 1952 and not of Rajasthan Land Revenue Act 1956 apply — Absence of notice under S. 6 of former Act—No prejudice caused to assessee — High Court need not interfere under Art. 226 — Rajasthan Public Demands Recovery Act (5 of 1952), Ss. 4, 6, 13. ILR (1961) 11 Raj 584.

——Art 226—Right to apply—Applicant must come with clean hands.

The High Court will refuse to interfere even in cases where it recognises his right unless the conduct of the petitioner has been fair and honest and free from any fraud. The High Court cannot help those persons who are guilty of practising deceitful means on any person or authority. 1956 Raj L W 384 : ILR (1956) 6 Raj 445 : AIR 1957 Raj 167 (171) (Pt E) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Rajasthan Public Demands Recovery Act (5 of 1952), Ss. 8, 13—Workman's compensation —Realization of — Objection — Collector following wrong procedure — High Court refused to interfere under Art. 226 since objection was dishonest—(Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 31)—Qanoon Mal Mewar Act (5 of 1947), S. 84) — See Rajasthan Public Demands Recovery Act (5 of 1952), S. 8. A I R 1955 N U C (Raj) 2538.

——Art. 226 — Scope — Powers under, when to be exercised.

The extraordinary powers conferred on the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution are not to be ordinarily exercised unless there is no other remedy open to an applicant, or if any remedy is open at all, it is not as convenient, beneficial and effective as the remedy under Art. 226. 1951 Raj L W 389 : ILR (1951) 1 Raj 361 : AIR 1951 Raj 161 (162) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Nature and Scope of High Court's power — Saurashtra Land Reforms Act (25 of 1951), S. 13 — Non-payment of arrears within 15 days—Mamlatdar not making order of ejectment—Appeal —Arrears of rent paid during pendency of appeal—Appeal dismissed and decision confirmed by Revenue Tribunal—Interference by High Court.

Held, on facts that there was no manifest injustice by reason of the Mamlatdar or the higher tribunal not having passed the order of termination of tenancy and the consequent order of ejectment, as the legislature had made manifest its intention underlying S. 13 by enacting S. 13-A which contemplates relief against termination of tenancy when the matter is pending in appeal or even in revision. The amount of rent had been admittedly paid up and therefore, it was not proper in the interest of justice, to interfere with the orders of the Revenue Tribunal in an application for writ under Art. 226. 9 Sau L R 126 : AIR 1956 Sau 44 (46) (Pt D) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretion how to be exercised.

The jurisdiction of High Courts under Art. 226 is essentially one of equity, and by its very nature discretionary. When the jurisdiction is discretionary and equitable, courts are bound to consider whether the applicant has himself been acting in a fair and straightforward manner. When he acts in a patently dishonourable and unjust manner, Courts should refuse to give him any assistance.

Where the applicant was under an obligation to provide maintenance grants to the junior branches, as long ago as 1948 he invited the decision of Maharaja of Panna, and, at all events, tacitly acquiesced in it, and did not question it for nearly 4 years but later wanted to go back on the decision in the hope that because of the political and administrative changes he would be able to show that the revenue Courts under the present set up could not execute an order by Maharaja of Panna in his capacity of highest revenue authority, the Judicial Commissioner's Court will refuse to exercise its equitable jurisdiction to assist the applicant in practising inequity. AIR 1952 Vindh Pra 65 (66) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Applicability—Right to relief under —Conditions of—Application by debtor in bad faith to defeat claims of creditor—Competency.

Art. 226 of the Constitution is intended for the redress of grievances for which either there is no other remedy or the alternative remedy is too slow, costly and uncertain. It is an execptional, equitable relief which can be granted only on very good grounds. Where an applicant comes to the Court in bad faith in order to defeat the legitimate claims of a creditor, the relief has to be refused. A I R 1952 Vindh Pra 18 (19) (Pt C) (Pr 8)

39 (a). Dismissal of civil servant.

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion—Principles.

The High Court should not interfere in a matter relating to discipline concerning the State Police. But the High Court has not been prevented by considerations of discipline to interfere, in suitable cases, with orders passed by the Police authorities in the exercise of disciplinary powers. AIR 1960 All 304 (321, 322, 323) (Pt L) (Prs 73, 77).

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion.

Issuance of writs or orders under Art. 226 is a matter for the discretion of the Court, so that no one can claim the grant of a prerogative writ as a matter of right. Where the right of the party applying for the writ is not clear, judicial discretion is exercised against the grant of prerogative writs even though the alternative remedy is less convenient, beneficial and effective.

Held, that having in view at least the charge of insubordination, the right of reinstatement claimed by the petitioner was not at all clear. AIR 1950 Pat 387, AIR 1952 Pat 23, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Him Pra 1 (4) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

39 (b). Habeas Corpus.

See Note 195.

39 (c). Prohibition, writ of.

See also Note 279.

——Art. 226—Termination of lease—State entitled to resume land—Tenant refusing delivery of possession —Use of force—How far justified—Remedy of lessee—Prohibitory order against Government—Discretion of High Court — See Crown Grants Act (1895), S. 3. AIR 1955 Cal 601.

39 (d). Mandamus.

See also Note 236.

——Art. 226 — Delay in filing writ petitions—U. P. Land Utilisation Act (5 of 1948), S. 3 — If petition is filed after undue delay, without good reason for the delay, it will be dismissed—Since petition was filed within 90 days of the order which was the time for filing revision petitions before High Court, it could not be said that it was belated. See U. P. Land Utilisation Act (5 of 1948), S. 3. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2755.

39 (e). Certiorari.

See also Note 185.

——Art. 226 – Allotment in favour of petitioner cancelled—Person in possession without allotment order is liable to ejectment—Order cancelling allotment in favour of petitioner fair and just—High Court would decline to exercise jurisdiction under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7F. 1965 All W R (HC) 736.

——Art. 226—Certiorari— Inconsistent pleas — Sustainability.

The grant of the writ of certiorari is discretionary and is generally not issued in favour of a person who has not maintained consistent position. Where the petitioner had all along taken one position in his representations to the authorities against the orders, he will not be allowed to take an inconsistent stand in his petition for a writ. 1957 Andh L T 655 : (1957) 2 Andh W R 362 : I L R (1957) Andh Pra 780 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 269 (271, 272) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Import and Export Control Act (1947), S. 3 — Statutory Notification referred to in Appendix H (i) and Appendix H (ii)—Notification No. 2 ITC/478 of Ministry of Commerce, D/- 6-3-1948, setting out conditions and circumstances under which import licence may be refused—Notification does not provide for refusal of license on the ground that the applicant has been declared an evacuee — Such a refusal is bad and in excess of jurisdiction — The matter however being in the discretion of the authority, the Court refused to grant relief under Art. 226. AIR 1953 Cal 591 (593, 594) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Discretionary remedy — Conduct of applicant—Submission to or acquiescence in jurisdiction.

Certiorari, as is well known, goes to the jurisdiction of the authority determining the case. Different considerations would arise where a party seeks to attack the validity of an order on the ground of want of jurisdiction in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution where he had submitted to the jurisdiction of the tribunal. The jurisdiction conferred on the High Court by Art. 226 of the Constitution is a limited jurisdiction and the power exercisable by the High Court under the above Article is an entirely discretionary one and when the question arises as to whether the Court should exercise the discretion in favour of the applicant the Court would take into consideration among other circumstances the conduct of the party applying.

Hence where the petitioner had actually invited the jurisdiction of the arbitrator under S. 42-A, Hyderabad Co-operative Societies Act and had competely acquiesced in the jurisdiction of the arbitrator he cannot subsequently when the decision goes against him challenge the validity of the award of the arbitrator on ground of want of jurisdiction by an application under Art. 226. ILR (1956) Hyd 368 : AIR 1956 Hyd 129 (130) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari.

The grant of a writ of certiorari is discretionary in nature. It is refused if the proceedings appear to be vexatious and the applicant is not bona fide interested in the subject-matter of the application. I.L R (1953) Hyd 412: AIR 1953 Hyd 235 (236, 237) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari.

Power to issue is discretionary — Order of lower tribunal doing substantial justice — Writ need not be issued AIR 1960 J & K 25 (FB), A I R 1957 S C 227 and AIR 1955 S C 425, Rel. on. 1963 Kash L J 234 : AIR 1964 J & K 32 (34) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Proceedings by way of certiorari are not of course and the High Court should not interfere when the justice of the case does not require it. 1965 Jab L J 1087 : 1965 M P L J 990.

——Art. 226 –Wrong decision—Issue of certiorari.

The issue of a writ of certiorari is entirely a discretionary matter, it is used only in cases where it is shown that there has been a failure to exercise jurisdiction vested in a tribunal or an illegal assumption of the jurisdiction not vested in it. The High Court is not sitting as a Court of Appeal against the order of the lower tribunals to test the legality thereof with a view to reach a different conclusion. An error of law does not constitute an error of jurisdiction and a wrong decision on facts or law cannot be questioned by way of a writ of certiorari. The decisions of the Labour Commissioner in Mysore on appeal from the order of the House Rent Controller and of the Government on revision from the order of the Labour Commissioner though erroneous held could not be interfered with by way of writ of certiorari. Case law discussed. 32 Mys L J 152 : ILR (1953) Mys 58 : AIR 1953 Mys 8 (10, 11) (Prs 8, 11) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Certiorari — Exercise of discretion. AIR 1955 N U C (Pepsu) 6024.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Issue of—Grounds—(Estate Duty Act (1953), S. 5).

A writ of certiorari, indisputably, cannot be granted as a matter of course and merely because the amount of estate duty payable is large is by itself, hardly a valid ground to permit the petitioners to bypass the usual statutory provision and to invoke the High Court's extraordinary jurisdiction of granting prerogative writs. (1960) 40 I T R (ED) 26 : A I R 1960 Punj 288 (290, 291) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari when to be issued.

The High Court does not ordinarily issue a writ of certiorari except in special cases. AIR 1952 S C 192, Foll. ('56) 58 Pun L R 564.

40. Discretionary orders.

See Note 79.

41. Dismissal, removal, discharge or reduction in rank.

See also Note 23 and Ibid, Arts. 310 and 311.

——Art. 226 —University of Saugor Act (16 of 1946), S. 14 (4) — Termination of employee's services by Vice-Chancellor acting under S. 14 (4) without reference to Executive Council — Court cannot enquire into propriety of action. See University of Saugor Act (16 of 1946), S. 14 (4). AIR 1960 Madh Pra 208.

——Art. 226 — Deputy Commissioner of Municipal Corporation passing order of suspension of an employee pending enquiry against him— Order of suspension which is not passed as measure of punishment cannot be called in question in proceedings under Article. (1964) 66 P L R 1227, Foll. 1965 Cur L J 380 (Punj).

——Art, 226—Enquiry into misconduct of servant—Previous misconduct for which no action was taken can be enquired into.

Any one incident may not by itself be enough for the purpose of taking a serious notice thereof but the cumulative effect of many matters may amount to a serious misconduct on the part of the servant. The management have a right to enquire into these matters with a view to determine the quantum of punishment to be imposed on the employee in respect of his subsequent misconduct. (1961.62) 21 F J R 93 : AIR 1961 Punj 515 (519, 520) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

42. Domestic tribunals.

(a) Absence of legal evidence.
(b) Mala fides.
(c) Bias.
(d) Enquiry by.
(e) Principles applicable to.
(f) Validity of proceeding.

42. Domestic tribunals.

——Art. 226 — Domestic tribunals — High Court though reluctant to interfere with the autonomy of domestic tribunal and eductional institutions which have to maintain standards, held that it could understand the misgivings regarding what the body would do when his case came up before it for consideration and that this aspect of the matter could not be ignored by the High Court. ILR (1954) 2 All 335: A I R 1953 All 580 (583) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Domestic tribunal — Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere.

It cannot be contended that merely because the disciplinary proceedings are by a domestic tribunal, the High Court has no jurisdiction to interfere under Art 226. 1958 Ker L T 48 : 1958 Ker L J 538 : AIR 1958 Ker 164 (165) (Pt D) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 –Domestic Tribunals– Calcutta University School Code, R. 4—Medical practitioner—Meaning—Requirements of rule stated. A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 5618 (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari against domestic tribunal.

The interpretation of Art. 226 must be considered in the background of English law and so interpreted, it is obvious that the remedy provided under Art. 226 is a remedy for the vindication of a public right. Hence, where the jurisdiction of a domestic tribunal is founded not upon any statutory obligation but upon rules which constitute the contract, implied or expressed, between the members of an association the proper procedure for the party aggrieved is to file a suit and not to apply for a writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. Thus, in such a case a writ of certiorari does not lie to domestic tribunals. (1952) 2 Q B 329, Rel. on. 33 Pat 157 : A I R 1954 Pat 297 (298) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 367 (1) — Domestic tribunal — If person—Issue of writ—Ad hoc managing committee of school whether domestic tribunal — (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (39)).

The position of an ad hoc committee which supersedes the managing committee of a school is that of a domestic tribunal. The definition of person in the General Clauses Act will cover such a domestic tribunal and that definition will apply to the word 'person' used in Art. 226 by virtue of Art. 367 (1). AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (32, 33) (Pt G) (Prs 33, 35).

42 (a). Absence of legal evidence.

——Art. 226—Court's powers to interfere under—Extent and scope—If can interfere with orders of Domestic Tribunals appointed by Board of Education.

Where the students against whom charges are framed are given adequate opportunities to defend themselves, Courts should be slow to interfere with the decisions of domestic tribunals appointed by educational bodies like the Board of Education or University. In dealing with the validity of the impugned orders passed by the Board under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India (1950) the High Court is not sitting in appeal over the decision in question and its jurisdiction is limited. Though, if the impugned order is not supported by any evidence at all, the High Court would be justified to quash that order, the conclusion that the impugned order is not supported by any evidence must be reached after considering the question as to whether probabilities and circumstantial evidence do not justify the said conclusion. The Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U. P. v. Bagleshwar Prasad, (1963) 2 S C J 651 : (1963) 1 S C W R 1 : 1963 S C D 584 : 1963 All L J 676 : (1963) 2 Andh L T 119 : I L R (1963) 2 All 499 : (1963) 3 S C R 767 : AIR 1966 S C 875 (876, 878) (Prs 4, 12).

——Art. 226 — Departmental enquiry — Conclusions recorded in the enquiry based on some legal evidence —High Court cannot interfere with findings under Art. 226. AIR 1963 S C 1723 Ref. 1964 M P L J 432.

42 (b). Mala fides.

——Art. 226—Mala fides — Erroneous conclusion, does not show mala fide.

Even if a Judge or Tribunal may reach an erroneous conclusion either of fact or of law, the mere error of the conclusion does not make the conclusion mala fide. Tata Oil Mills Co., Ltd. v. The Workmen, (1964) 2 Lab L J 113; (1964-65) 26 F J R 199: (1964) 9 Fac L R 142: AIR 1965 S C 155 (159) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 114 and 101 to 104—Malice in law — Not to be easily presumed —Party alleging must prove that there are circumstances on which malice or mala fide could legitimately be found—Non-adherence in departmental inquiry to strict procedure followed by judicial tribunal does not amount to either acting mala fide or acting contrary to law. (Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1 R. 1707 (c)). See Evidence Act (1872), S. 114. AIR 1957 All 671.

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of workman for misconduct — Finality of inquiry by domestic tribunal — Jurisdiction of labour Court to interfere — Scope of.

In cases of dismissal for misconduct, the scope of the jurisdiction of an Industrial Tribunal to interfere with the decision of a domestic tribunal or an action taken by the management is confined to four aspects. It will interfere (i) when there is a want of good faith, (ii) when there is victimisation or unfair labour practice, (iii) when the management has been guilty of a basic error or violation of a principle of natural justice, and (iv) where on the materials the finding is completely baseless or perverse. If the case did not fall within one or the other of them, any interference by the Labour Court would be without jurisdiction and would necessarily justify and require the intervention by the High Court in the exercise of its power under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1958 S C 130, Foll. AIR 1963 Assam 155.

——Arts. 226, 311—Administrative tribunal—Powers and duties of — Must act bona fide and with sense of responsibility.

An administrative tribunal must act in good faith, must have regard to relevant considerations only, must disregard all irrelevant considerations, must not seek to promote purposes alien to the letter or the spirit of legislation that gives it power to act and must not act arbitrarily or capriciously. In other words, an administrative tribunal must act bona fide on relevant considerations and must also act with a sense of responsibility in discharge of its duties. L R (1918) A C 120, L R (1925) A C 578, A I R 1959 S C 308, Rel. on. (1964) 8 Fac L R 31 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 462 : 68 Cal W N 215 : A I R 1964 Cal 503 (510) (Pt A) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — State Medical Council—Jurisdiction to cancel examination of candidates found using unfair means —Must act in good faith and fairly—Mandamus, when can issue.

When the Governing Body of the State Medical Faculty decides that some candidates had used unfair means in answering questions and that the proper punishment was that the examination should be cancelled, it acts within jurisdiction.

The law requires that the State Medical Faculty or the Governing Body, in performing its duty of deciding whether the candidates have been guilty of unfair means and what punishment should be inflicted, must not only act in good faith, but also fairly and reasonably and without violation of the principles of natural justice.

Where the Governing Body gave no notice at all to the candidates of the charges against them and no opportunity whatsoever of showing that the allegation was not true or that even if the allegation was true, the punishment should not be what the Governing Body proposed, and there was not a fair consideration of the cases, as the cases of the different candidates were not individually considered :

Held, that the order cancelling their examination was bad in law. 56 C W N 861 : I L R (1963) 2 Cal 107 : AIR 1953 Cal 212 (214, 215) (Pt C) (Prs 18, 30, 31, 32) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Municipal servant — Misconduct — Servant already punished — Second inquiry and punishment for same charge—Sustainability—Malice —Issue of writ to quash proceedings.

Where a Municipality after an inquiry into the conduct of a municipal employee for having used a service stamp of one and half anna for private purposes punishes him by dismissal from service but he is again re-instated after depriving him of his salary for four and half months, it is outside the competence of the Municipality, when the matter was once closed to conduct another enquiry into the same charges, after about seven years and subject the employee to another penalty for the same act of misconduct for which he had already been punished. High Court has jurisdiction to quash the proceedings of the Domestic Tribunal conducted in violation of the principles of natural justice. AIR 1961 Mys 181 (185, 186) (Pt A) (Prs 23, 24, 32) (DB).

——Art. 226—Criminal charge against public servant —Acquittal on basis of benefit of doubt—Departmental inquiry in respect of same charge is not against natural justice—Standard of proof in criminal case and departmental inquiry. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1963 Orissa 73 (DB).

——Art. 226—Tribunal holding order of dismissal to be mala fide — High Court cannot reverse finding under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33 (2) (b). A I R 1962 Punj 505 (DB).

42 (c). Bias.

——Arts. 226 and 228—Domestic tribunals.

Though the High Court was reluctant to interfere with the autonomy of domestic tribunals and educational institutions which have to maintain standards, held, the High Court could understand the applicant's misgivings regarding what the body would do when his case came up before it for consideration and this aspect of the matter could not be ignored by the High Court. 1953 All L J 518 : ILR (1954) 2 All 335 : AIR 1953 All 580 (583) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Domestic Tribunal — Inquiry — Bias —Effect of. See Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 41 (1). (1965) 1 Mad L J 453 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 221.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Interference—Grounds.

Managing Committee of school granting compulsory leave to teacher and debarring him from coming to school pending decision of committee—Committee superseded by ad hoc committee—Order of termination of service passed by ad hoc committee — No inference held could be drawn that ad hoc committee was actuated by malice. AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (32) (Pt F) (Pr 29).

42 (d). Enquiry by.

● —Art. 226 — Order by quasi-judicial tribunal based on no evidence — High Court will interfere— Enquiry Committee of University cancelling examination result of student — Nature of evidence — Duty of High Court in writ petition — Educational institutions.

An order passed by a Tribunal holding a quasi-judicial enquiry which is not supported by any evidence, is an order which is erroneous on the face of it and as such, is liable to be quashed by the High Court in exercise of its high prerogative jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226.

In dealing with writ petitions against the orders of the Universities or Education Boards cancelling the examination result of candidates who were declared to have been passed, it is necessary to bear in mind that educational institutions like the Universities or the Board set up Enquiry Committees to deal with the problem posed by the adoption of unfair means by candidates, and normally it is within the jurisdiction of such domestic tribunals to decide all relevant questions in the light of the evidence adduced before them. In the matter of the adoption of unfair means, direct evidence may sometimes be available, but cases may arise where direct evidence is not available and the question will have to be considered in the light of probabilities and circumstantial evidence. Courts should be slow to interfere with the decisions of Domestic Tribunals appointed by educational bodies like the Universities. In dealing with the validity of the impugned orders passed by Universities under Art. 226, the High Court is not sitting in appeal over the decision in question, its jurisdiction is limited and though it is true that if the impugned order is not supported by any evidence at all, the High Court would be justified to quash that order. But the conclusion that the impugned order is not supported by any evidence must be reached after considering the question as to whether probabilities and circumstantial evidence do not justify the said conclusion. Enquiries held by domestic tribunals in such cases must, no doubt, be fair and students against whom charges are framed must be given adequate opportunities to defend themselves, and in holding such enquiries, the Tribunals must scrupulously follow rules of natural justice; but it would not be reasonable to import into these enquiries all considerations which govern criminal trials in ordinary Courts of law.

Where no animus is suggested and no mala fides have been pleaded and the enquiry has been fair and the student has had an opportunity of making his defence:

Held, that the High Court was not justified in interfering with the order passed against the student cancelling his examination result by which he was declared to have passed the examination. Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U. P. v Bagleshwar Prasad, 1963 All L J 676 : (1963) 2 Andh L T 119 : 1963 S C D 584: (1963) 2 S C J 651: ILR (1963) 2 All 499 : (1963) 3 S C R 767 : (1963) 1 S C W R 1: AIR 1966 S C 875 (876, 878) (Prs 4, 12).

● ——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal Finding of fact —Dismissal of workman Misconduct — Standing Order including fighting outside factory as misconduct — Fighting must have rational connection with employment of assailant and victim — Finding of domestic tribunal is binding. Tata Oil Mills v. Workmen (1964) 2 Lab L J 113: 26 F J R 199: (1964) 9 Fac L R 142 : 1965 Ker L J 90 : (1965) 1 S C W R 204 : (1965) 1 S C J 281 : (1964) 7 S C R 555 : AIR 1965 S C 155 (157, 158) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

● —Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Inquiry held before — Rules of natural justice — Bombay Police Manual, S. 545, Cl (8) — Statements of witnesses recorded in absence of defaulter — Witnesses called and their statements read out in defaulter's presence —Opportunity to cross-examine witnesses given — Rules of natural justice are not violated — S. 545 (8) held did not contravene such rules.

Domestic Tribunals exercising quasi-judicial functions are not Courts and therefore they are not bound to follow the procedure prescribed for trial of actions in Courts nor are they bound by strict rules of evidence. They can, unlike Courts, obtain all information material for the points under enquiry from all sources. The only obligation which the law casts on them is that they should not act on any information which they may receive unless they give him a fair opportunity to explain it.

In respect of taking the evidence in an inquiry before such Tribunal, the person against whom a charge is made should know the evidence which is given against him so that he might be in a position to give his explanation. Rules of natural justice are sufficiently complied with when previous statements given by witnesses are read over to them, marked on their admission, copies thereof given to the person charged, and he is given an opportunity to cross-examine them. (1911) A C 179 (182) and (1915) A C 120 and AIR 1957 S C 232, Rel. on.; AIR 1954 Bom 351 impliedly overruled; W. P. No. 41 of 1958, D/ 26-3-1959 (Mys), Reversed.

Held, that Cl (8) of S. 545 of the Bombay Police Manual cannot be held to be bad as contravening the rules of natural justice. State of Mysore v. Shivabasappa Shivappa Makapur, (1964) 1 Lab L J 24: 1963 Mah L J 284 : 1963 M P L J 236 : (1963) 2 S C J 104 : (1963) 2 S C R 943 : AIR 1963 S C 375 (377, 378, 379) (Prs 3, 6, 9).

● ——Art. 226 — Departmental Enquiry — Proceedings quashed by civil Court on ground of irregularity in procedure— Fresh departmental enquiry can be held on same facts.

After an order passed in an enquiry against a public servant imposing a penalty is quashed by a civil Court, a further proceeding can be commenced against him if in the proceeding in which the order quashing the enquiry was passed, the merits of the charge against the public servant concerned were never investigated. Where the High Court decreed the suit of the public servant on the ground that the procedure for imposing the penalty was irregular, such a decision cannot prevent the State from commencing another enquiry in respect of the same subject-matter consistently with the provisions of Arts. 310 and 311 of the Constitution. If the State Government is competent to order a fresh enquiry, it would be competent to direct suspension of the public servant during the pendency of the enquiry. AIR 1958 Raj 38; AIR 1955 Assam 240 and AIR 1959 Punj 87, Distinguished. Devendra Pratap Narain Rai Sharma v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1962 Supp (1) S C R 315 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 266 : 1962 All L J 437: ILR (1962) 1 All 636 : (1962) 2 S C J 282 : AIR 1962 S C 1334 (1336) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

—— Art. 226— Principles of natural justice—Duty of domestic tribunals to observe — Chancellor hearing reference under S. 39, Lucknow University Act—

Person affected by decision not given opportunity of being heard—Order is vitiated.

The order of the Chancellor made in a reference under S. 39 of the Lucknow University Act, setting aside the decision of the Executive Committee appointing a professor, on the ground that it was based on the recommendations of the Selection Committee which was not validly appointed, is vitiated by the non-observance of the principles of natural justice where it was passed without giving an opportunity of being heard to the appointee.

It is true that the Chancellor is a domestic tribunal while performing his functions under S. 39 of the University Act. But even a domestic tribunal is also bound to conform to the principles of natural justice. A I R 1961 Cal 31, 1924 A C 764 and 67 Ind App 222, Rel. on.

It cannot be denied that the principle that no one should be condemned unheard and that no decision should be arrived at behind his back without giving him the chance of having his say is an elementary principle of natural justice. The maxim audi alteram partem is a well-known maxim of law.

No doubt the rules of natural justice vary with the varying constitutions of statutory bodies and the rules prescribed by the Act under which they act; and the question whether or not any rules of natural justice had been contravened should be decided not under any preconceived notions, but in the light of the statutory provisions and rules. A I R 1957 S C 232 and A I R 1958 S C 398, Rel. on.

There is nothing in S. 39 of the University Act itself or the statute framed thereunder on the basis of which it can be said that the Chancellor could disregard the rule of natural justice.

It becomes especially necessary, in fairness, to hear the person who has been appointed when the Chancellor has actually given a hearing to the person who was only a candidate for the post and therefore was not interested to the same extent in the reference.

No valid plea can be put forward in extenuation of the failure to hear the person appointed on the ground of any inherent difficulties in such proceedings of ascertaining the interested persons whose number may be large. Apart from the fact that it is not difficult to know that the appointee was an interested person, the Chancellor acting as he does as a judicial or quasi-judicial body is not entitled to ignore any of those fundamental rules which form the foundation of the judicial character of such bodies and get the respect and confidence of the persons whose affairs are dealt with by him. 1961 Andh L T 371, Ref. to.

The fact that the Vice-Chancellor who was heard in the reference took a stand similar to that of the appointed candidate is entirely immaterial when neither the Vice-Chancellor nor the University represented him or held any brief for him. If there are more defendants than one in a suit having similar defences one of them cannot be shut out and put out of Court simply on the ground that the other defendant is raising the same pleas. I L R (1961) 2 All 634 : 1962 All L J 289

——Art. 226—University—Disciplinary action against student on charge of indiscipline—Substance of accusation sufficient — Accusation relating to incidents spreading over months forming parts of same transaction—Reference to incidents not necessary—Reference to transaction enough. A I R 1960 All 579 (582) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Domestic tribunals—Rules of evidence and procedure. See Government of India Act (1935), S. 240 (3) A I R 1954 Bom 351 (DB).

——Art. 226—Domestic tribunal—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33 (2) (b)—Nature of tribunal's jurisdiction — Workers found guilty by domestic tribunal—Statements of witnesses read over and explained in Hindi to workers — Witnesses produced and questioned by enquiry officer and their answers explained to workers — Opportunity to cross-examine witnesses given — Principles of natural justice not violated—Tribunal does not sit as Court of appeal over domestic tribunal—Circumstances under which tribunal may interfere with penalty imposed stated. A I R 1963 S C 375, Foll. (1965) 1 Lab L J 628 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Dismissal for misconduct of workmen—Powers of Labour Courts and Tribunals — Extent of—Works manager could not act both as judge and as witness — Decision by such process and order on such decision was not valid and binding—Introduction of personal knowledge by members — Effect of—Held there was violation of fundamentals of fair play and justice.

Labour Courts and Tribunals can interfere only, (i) when there is want of good faith, (ii) when there is victimisation or unfair labour practice, (iii) when the management has been guilty of basic error or violation of principles of natural justice and (iv) when on the materials the finding is completely baseless or perverse. A I R 1958 S C 130 and (1961) 1 Lab L J 511 Rel. on.

Held, on facts that the works manager could not act, both as a judge and as a witness and that the decision arrived at by such process and the order passed on such a decision could not be regarded as valid and binding. A I R 1958 S C 86, Rel. on. Held further, that in such enquiry the introduction of personal knowledge by the members of the enquiry committee of the nature of which nothing was known and about the correctness of which there was no material to test, made their finding against the workman unworthy of acceptance. Hence, there was violation of "fundamentals of fair play and justice" in the domestic enquiry (1961) 3 Fac L R 119 ; (1962) 1 Lab L J 324 (Cal).

——Art 226 — Departmental enquiry against workman for misconduct — Labour Officer conducting enquiry—Presence of Works manager does not vitiate enquiry. (1962) 2 Lab L J 52 : (1962) 4 Fac L R 307 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Dismissal of workmen — Principles of natural justice — Admission by workmen to be taken into consideration — Ignoring of admission goes to root of finding of tribunal. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 15. A I R 1960 Ker 103.

——Art. 226 — Departmental enquiry — Denial of reasonable opportunity and impartiality of enquiry officer is vitiated by disregard of principles of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2) 1965 M P L J 699 ; 1965 Lab L J 875 ; A I R 1966 Madh Pra 58 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Enquiry by domestic tribunal—Dismissal of employee — Violation of principles of natural justice - What amounts to — Examining witnesses out of order — If opposed to natural justice—Tribunal taking into consideration the earlier findings of a quasi-judicial authority on the same charge—If improper — Power of Court to interfere with findings—Scope of.

Where an order of dismissal in pursuance of a departmental enquiry against an individual is based on several charges even if one or more of those charges are found to be not sustainable, the order of punishment might be supported on the findings on the rest of the charges if they are held to be proved. In such a case it will not be open to the High Court in a writ proceeding to quash the order of punishment. There is no rule prescribing the order in which witnesses should be examined in a domestic enquiry. All that is necessary is that the Domestic Tribunal should consider only relevant evidence and give an opportunity to the person proceeded against for rebutting it.

Where a driver of a vehicle is charged with being guilty of over-speeding, the Domestic Tribunal holding an enquiry will be justified in taking into account the fact that the driver concerned was punished by a quasi-judicial authority after inquiry and determination of the very same issue. Where a Regional Transport Authority has passed an order suspending the driver's licence for the offence of over speeding and the order has become final against him, it will be a relevant piece of evidence which a tribunal conducting a domestic enquiry against the driver on the self-same charge of over-speeding on the same occasion. It will not be a case of the Domestic Tribunal basing its findings on the findings of a different tribunal. When a competent tribunal has adjudicated over the same matter and it has become final, there is no violation of the principles of natural justice if the Domestic Tribunal takes note of such adjudication in respect of an inquiry regarding the same charge against the same persons. (1965) 2 M L J 364.

——Art. 226—Municipal servant—Domestic inquiry—Natural justice—Principles of—Rule as to recording of oral evidence — Copies of depositions already recorded read over and got verified by witnesses in presence of person charged — Witnesses cross-examined—Held there was substantial compliance with rule—There was no violation of principles of natural justice

It is not necessary that in a domestic enquiry the entire oral evidence of the witnesses should be recorded in the presence of the person charged There will be no violation of the principles of natural justice if the copies of statements of witnesses recorded in the absence of the person charged are given to him and the witnesses were also tendered for his cross-examination.

Where the rules relating to the appointment and punishment of the servants of Municipal Committee required that the oral evidence (in case of oral inquiry) should be recorded in the presence of the person charged, but at the enquiry, statements were taken from some of the witnesses, and later on those statements were read over and got verified by those witnesses in presence of the servant charged and the witnesses were cross-examined :

Held, that the procedure adopted by the Municipality was in substantial compliance with the rules and the servant had been given adequate and ample opportunity to meet the charges. No doubt, it would have been better if, as provided for in the rule, the witnesses had been examined in the presence of the person charged. But that omission did not go to the root of the matter. A I R 1957 S C 882 and A I R 1963 S C 375, Rel. on. A I R 1964 Mad 491 (492) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Procedure — Industrial dispute—Misconduct of workman—Enquiry by officer on behalf of management—Personal knowledge of alleged misconduct imported—Misconduct not connected with pending industrial dispute—Post facto approval of dismissal under S. 33 (2) Industrial Disputes Act cannot be refused — Domestic tribunal cannot be prevented, irrespective of circumstances from acting upon facts within personal knowledge of tribunal — Officer holding enquiry into alleged misconduct not connected with pending industrial dispute is a domestic tribunal not governed by strict rules of procedure applicable to judicial bodies. AIR 1963 Mad 315 (DB).

——Art. 226—Industrial dispute—Domestic enquiry—Procedure — Record of evidence — Finding on all charges not necessary. (1961) 1 M L J 366 : A I R 1961 Mad 359 (361, 362) (Prs 4, 5).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Departmental inquiry against delinquent public servant — Rules of natural justice to be followed—Requirements of the rule.

Stating it broadly and without intending it to be exhaustive it may be observed that rules of natural justice to be followed in departmental inquiry against a delinquent public servant require that a party should have an opportunity of adducing all relevant evidence on which he relies, that the evidence of the opponent should be taken in his presence, and that he should be given an opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses examined by that party and that no material should be relied on against him, without his being given an opportunity of explaining them.

If these rules are satisfied the enquiry is not open to attack on the ground that the procedure laid down in the Evidence Act, for taking evidence was not strictly followed. A I R 1957 S C 882 and A I R 1961 S C 1623, Foll. ILR (1962) Cut 125 : A I R 1963 Orissa 73 (78) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

42 (e). Principles, applicable to.

——Art. 226 — Domestic tribunals — Racing club—Decision by stewards on evidence collected by stipendiary steward — Rules of evidence do not apply — Natural justice — Opportunity to plaintiff of answering charges given—Prayer for interlocutory injunction can be granted when plaintiff made out prima facie case — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9 and O. 39, R. 1), (Evidence Act (1872), Preamble) — (Racing — Royal Calcutta Racing Club Rules, Rr. 12, 26 and 49). A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 752.

——Art. 226—Domestic tribunal—Disciplinary action against member—Charge and demand for explanation from subordinate authority. 1958 Ker L T 48 : 1958 Ker L J 538 : A I R 1958 Ker 164 (165) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

42 (f). Validity of proceeding.

——Art 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9 — Decision of domestic tribunal — Jurisdiction of civil Court to set aside.— Principles. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. A I R 1961 Cal 31.

——Art. 226—Domestic tribunals — Calcutta University School Code, Rr. 3, 4 and 6—Election of member to School Managing Committee — Election approved by University Syndicate — Defect, if any, in election must, in view of R. 6, be taken to have been cured. A I R 1955 N U C (Cal) 5618 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of workmen in pursuance of findings in a domestic inquiry — Jurisdiction of Labour Court to interfere.

It is now well settled that the power of the Labour Court to interfere with the findings of management in a domestic inquiry against an employee regarding displicinary action, etc., is limited to see if the management acted mala fide or whether there was victimisation or unfair labour practice or violation of natural justice. Though a Labour Court may not be justified in looking into the sufficiency of the evidence in such inquiries it can certainly interfere if it finds that there is no evidence whatsoever to support the findings. Where, however, the Labour Court feels that the domestic inquiry was unfair in the sense that leading questions were put to the witnesses and the answers required by the management were obtained, the Court can examine the evidence itself and come to its own conclusion. (1963) 1 M L J 330 : (1963) 6 Fac L R 334 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 797.

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal—Managing Committee of private school getting grant-in-aid from Government—Decision of—Interference—Grounds.

The Managing Committee of a private School aided by Government Grant-in-aid is in the position of a 'domestic' tribunal. The decision of a 'domestic' tribunal can be interfered with by the Court under Art. 226 only when tribunal had no jurisdiction, or it did not follow the principles of natural justice, or did not act in good faith or did not act according to its own rules.

Domestic tribunals differ from the Courts of justice in some important respects. The decision of such a tribunal cannot be attacked on the ground that it is against the weight of evidence nor are legal objections permissable, which can be raised against decisions of Courts of justice, when a decision of a 'domestic' tribunal comes before a Court of justice the latter cannot sit over it as a Court of appeal, either as regards the finding or the sentence. AIR 1959 Manipur 1 (7) (Pt A) (Prs 29, 30, 32).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Domestic Tribunal — Interference by Court.

Speaking generally, it is useful to bear in mind that the principles applieable to Courts of Justice are not applicable to domestic tribunals. The jurisdiction of Courts in regard to tribunals is of an extremely limited nature. The only grounds on which the Court may interfere are : (1) lack of jurisdiction, (2) absence of good faith and (3) disregard of principles of natural justice. AIR 1952 Orissa 359 (382, 383) (Pt C) (Pr 63) (DB).

——Art. 226—Award of compensation for loss caused by strike—Arbitrators not considering dominant purpose of Trade Unions combining to strike—Award must be quashed. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10-A. AIR 1963 Pat 170 (DB).

——Art. 226- Domestic tribunal—Proceedings of — Quashing of—Issue of writ—When will issue—Validity of proceedings—Conditions.

The conditions required to validate the proceedings of a domestic tribunal are that the tribunal must not act beyond or exceed its jurisdiction and that the proceedings should not offend against the rules of natural justice. If these conditions are satisfied and are not violated its decisions cannot be held to be ultra vires or illegal and no writ of certiorari will issue to quash the same. 1951 K L T 701 : AIR 1953 T C 26 (30, 31) (Pt E) (Pr 16).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Discretionary orders — Domestic tribunal functioning within letter and spirit of law—Interference with its decision.

Where it is open to the Managing Committee of a school to terminate a teacher's service, only subject to this that the Appeal Committee could set aside that order or award gratuity if it found the grounds of termination to be unsatisfactory or insufficient and R. 32 in Chapter I of the Revised School Code of the Calcutta University, which applies to the case, permits such a termination if the pay of the post is raised with a view to attract a better qualified teacher, the High Court will not examine that order of the Domestic Tribunal in a proceeding under Art. 226. The question whether a trained teacher should be engaged to fill up this post is a question purely within the discretion of the Managing Committee. AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (32) (Pt E) (Pr 28).

——Art. 226—Grounds of interference — Decision of domestic tribunal.

The grounds upon which the decision of a domestic tribunal will be interfered with by a Court of law by certiorari or otherwise are : (1) that the tribunal had no jurisdiction, (2) that it did not follow the principles of natural justice, (3) that it did not act in good faith, and (4) that it did not act in accordance with its own rules, or in other words, that its act was ultra vires. AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (33) (Pt I) (Pr 38).

43. Effect of issue of writ.

——Art. 226—Law declared by High Court—It is binding on lower Courts and Tribunals. See Ibid, Art. 227. AIR 1962 S C 1893.

——Art. 226 (1)—Effect of writ—Order of subordinate Court or Tribunal quashed — Such Court or Tribunal, if has jurisdiction to further deal with matter.

It cannot be held that once an order of a subordinate Court or Tribunal has been quashed by a writ of certiorari that Court or Tribunal has no jurisdiction to deal further with the matter. If the order is quashed the inferior Court or Tribunal is left at large to pass any proper order in the light of the decision of the High Court if, on the other hand, the High Court refuses to interfere on a writ of certiorari and discharges the rule and dismisses the petition, then the order of an inferior Court or Tribunal stands and assumes the necessary finality.

Where an order granting an application by a company for retrenchment of its workmen was quashed by the High Court, held that Labour Appellate Tribunal had jurisdiction to further hear and consider the application by the company on a request made therefor. 57 Bom L R 1148 : (1956) 1 Lab L J 246 : I L R (1956) Bom 37 : AIR 1957 Bom 46 (47, 48) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 228—Contempt-proceedings for breach of writ order—Contemner is entitled to contend that writ is not in conformity with judgment—Contempt is not committed when judgment is complied with. 1965 (2) Cri L J 471 : AIR 1965 Cal 484 (487, 488) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 12, 16, 17).

——Art. 226—Rule issued under Article—Trial Court cannot overlook or ignore terms of rule.

Where a rule issued by the High Court under Art. 226 indicated that the Customs Authorities were to show cause why they should not proceed according to law :

Held, that the trial Court could not stop further proceedings by the Customs Authorities in terms of the rule. The trial Court in disposing of the matter cannot overlook or ignore the terms of a rule. If the rule is to be made absolute a fresh adjudication by the authorities should be directed. ('65) 69 Cal W N 439.

——Art. 226—High Court quashing orders of Tribunal in writ appeal confirming order in writ petition—Reference in appeal that all appeals before Tribunal will get revived—Effect — Directions are extraneous to the subject matter of writ petitions and relate to consequences of the quashing—Decree in appeal is not made one of variance with that of first Court as required by Art. 133 (1) (c). See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1965 Mad 478.

——Art. 226—Writ of mandamus—Transfer of suit to tribunal under Madras Act 30 of 1956 in violation of writ—(Tenancy Laws—Madras Estates Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari Act (26 of 1948), S. 9) —(Tenancy Laws—Madras Estates (Supplementrary) Act (30 of 1956), S. 10).

Where under the order of the High Court in a petition under Art. 226 the Sub-Court has to determine the issue raised in the suit instituted by the petitioner and the Assistant Settlement Officer is prohibited by a writ of mandamus from proceeding with the enquiry under S. 9 of the Madras Act, 26 of 1948, the order of the Sub-Court transferring the suit to the tribunal under Madras Act 30 of 1956 is a clear violation of the order passed in the writ application and the order is not well conceived. ('59) 72 Mad L W 249 : 1959 Mad W N 273.

——Art. 226 — Order of eviction passed by High Court in Writ petition—Execution—See Houses and Rents—Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 9. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 3207.

——Art. 226—Order of removal of copyist — Quashing of — Effect of writ of certiorari — (High Court Rules and Orders — Patna High Court's General Rules and Circular Orders, Civil, Vol. I, Part II, Chap. II, R. 8).

Where the order of the District Judge removing a copyist is quashed, it must follow as a matter of law that all consequential action in pursuance of that illegal order must stand vacated. The effect of the writ of the certiorari would therefore, be that the name of the petitioner would stand automatically restored to its previous position. I L R 35 Pat 312 : 1956 Pat L R 261 : AIR 1956 Pat 257 (268) (Pt E) (Pr 33) (DB).

44. Election dispute.

See also Note 77.

(a) Election to legislature.
(b) Jurisdiction of High Court.
(c) Rejection or acceptance of nomination.
(d) Municipal election.
(e) Panchayat election.
(f) Right of electors.
(g) Rejection of ballot paper.
(h) Interlocutory orders.
(i) Order without jurisdiction or illegal orders.
(j) Miscellaneous.

44. Election dispute.

See also Note 77.

—— Art. 226—Inferior tribunal.

The election tribunal set up under the Representation of the People Act has a limited jurisdiction and authority and as such it is a tribunal inferior to a Court of general jurisdiction, viz., the High Court.

The expression inferior tribunal is now used to denote Courts of special or limited authority constituted "on such principles that their proceedings must show jurisdiction." The inferior or superior character of a Court or tribunal is not determined by the position or the status of the persons constituting it. It depends on the powers and jurisdiction conferred on the tribunal or the Court by the statute establishing it. (1910) 2 K B 859, Rel. on ; A I R 1945 P C 83, Disting. I L R (1954) Madh Bha 76 : A I R 1953 Madh Bha 197 (201) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of Election Tribunal—Jurisdiction to add parties — Necessary parties, addition to after limitation—Addition of proper parties—'Persons duly nominated at election' meaning of — Issue of Writ under Art. 226. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 86 (1). AIR 1954 Raj 145 (DB).

44 (a). Election to legislature.

——Arts. 226, 227 and 329 (b)—Election, meaning of —Petition under Arts. 226 and 227 challenging election on ground of illegality in counting votes—Maintainability — Proper remedy is by election petition—Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 81, 100 (2) (c) 1955 All L J 765 : 1955 All W R (HC) 691 : AIR 1955 All 536 (538) (Prs 7, 8, 10).

——Arts. 226, 329 (b) — "Election" — (Words and Phrases — Election) — (Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 39 (2), 151). A I R 1953 Pat 47 held overruled by AIR 1952 S C 64.

The issue of notifications under S. 151 and S. 39 (2) of the Representation of the People Act is a part of the process of election within the meaning of Art. 329(b) of the Constitution and Art. 329(b) excludes the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ under Art. 226. A I R 1953 Pat 293 (295) (Pt B) (Prs 15, 16) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227, 329(b)—'Election' — (Words and Phrases — Election) — (Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 105, 170).

The election is over as soon as the results are declared by the Returning Officer and the subsequent proceedings before the Tribunal and the conduct of those proceedings by the tribunal are not part of the election. The proceedings before the Election Tribunal and the Tribunal's verdict are matters falling outside the scope of 'election' as contemplated by Art. 329(b). The provisions of the Representation of the People Act are subject to the provisions of the Constitution and they do not override the powers of the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227. (Case law discussed.) 6 Sau L R 258 : A I R 1954 Sau 1 (3, 4) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 and 329 (b)—Decisions of election tribunal — (Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 105).

The constitutional remedies under Arts. 226 and 227 are not taken away by Art. 329(b) for a person who is aggrieved by any decision of the election tribunal. Section 105 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, cannot be deemed to interfere with the supervisory jurisdiction given by Art. 227 or the writ-issuing power of Art. 226. A I R 1952 Madh Bha 29; A I R 1952 Bom 277, Ref. A I R 1953 Vin Pra 51 (53) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 10).

44 (b). Jurisdiction of High Court.

——Art. 226 — Scope of jurisdiction — Certiorari against election tribunal — Order allowing amendment of election petition — Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 83 (3).

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is discretionary and the High Court would not issue a writ of certiorari unless the Tribunal has acted without jurisdiction or the decision is palpably erroneous. The High Courts cannot constitute themselves Courts of appeal either on questions of fact or on question of law. A mere wrong decision cannot be corrected by a writ of certiorari. It must be a patent error before the High Court can interfere. AIR 1954 S C 440, Rel. on.

Where an application for amendment of an election petition is made under S. 83 (3) of the Representation of the People Act, the election tribunal has the right to decide whether it comes within S. 83(3). If the majority of the members of the tribunal hold that the petition should be allowed on the ground that it does not change the nature of the original petition but merely gives further particulars, the order even if wrong cannot be said to be without jurisdiction nor can it be said that it is such a patent error or the decision is so palpably erroneous as to justify interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1955 All 74 (75) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Art 226—Election petition not claiming precise relief. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 90 (4). AIR 1954 All 245 (DB).

——Art. 226—Election dispute—Decision of Tribunal on question of fact - High Court will not embark upon assessment of evidence in light of probabilities and other factors—No interference except in cases where there is no evidence whatever to support finding of fact by Tribunal. (1965) 2 Andh W R 219 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election — Writ petition by rate-payer — Failure to choose proper form of writ — If ground for rejection — Duty of Court — Writs of mandamus and certiorari—Distinction.

Writ petition by rate-payer is maintainable. Failure to choose appropriate writ in itself is not a ground for rejecting the petition. The form of the petition is not material but the substance matters. When the petitioner prays for alternative reliefs, the Court will have to issue the writ which would fit in with the facts established. There is an essential distinction between a writ of certiorari and a writ of mandamus. A writ of certiorari is available for the removal of any judicial act or quasi-judicial act of an inferior Tribunal whereas a writ of mandamus is issued to compel the performance of duties of a public nature. The condition that the act complained of should be a judicial act applies to the former relief and not to the latter. (1958) 1 Andh W R 480 : I L R (1958) Andh Pra 466 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 458 (460, 461) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 329 — Power to entertain writ having effect of interfering with electoral process.

Article 329 provides a complete bar to the High Court entertaining any writ which has the effect of interfering with any part of the electoral process. There can be no doubt that the issue of a writ of mandamus would have the consequence of interfering with the election while it is in progress. Part 15 of the Constitution of India is headed 'Elections' and Arts. 324 to 329 of that part form a separate code by themselves. They create rights and provide for their enforcement through a special tribunal to the exclusion of all Courts including the High Court. The word 'notwithstanding anything in this Constitution' exclude the jurisdiction of the High Court to deal with any matter which may arise while the elections are in progress. A I R 1952 S C 64, Foll. (1955) Andh W R 248 : 1955 A L T 203 : A I R 1955 Andh 180 (181) (Pr 9).

——Arts. 226, 227—Orders of Election Tribunal—Interference under Arts. 226 and 227—Question of applicability of S. 117, Representation of the People Act — Judgment of Election Tribunal involving not only finding of fact but also containing errors apparent on face of record—Case fit for interference.

The High Court can interfere with the orders of Election Tribunals though within the strict limits laid down by the High Courts for themselves in the exercise of their extraordinary jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution and as laid down in several cases of the Supreme Court.

Where the judgment of the Election Tribunal on the applicability of S. 117 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, shows that there is not only a finding of fact involved but there are patent errors on the face of the record (Tribunal insisting on strict compliance instead of substantial compliance with S. 117 as laid down by Supreme Court), it is preeminently a case where a Court exercising supervisory jurisdiction ought to interfere. I L R (1964) Bom 631: 65 Bom L R 612 : 1963 Mah L J 865 : A I R 1964 Bom 107 (108, 112, 113) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 24) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 329 (b) and Part 15 — Order rejecting nomination paper of a candidate for election — High Court has no jurisdiction to issue writ of mandamus — "Election" meaning of — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 36 (2), 80 and 81.

The High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India against an order of a Returning Officer rejecting a nomination paper of a candidate under S. 36 (2) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

The obvious object of enacting Art. 329 (b) was to exclude the jurisdiction of civil Courts with regard to matters enumerated in that sub clause, and the jurisdiction of Courts is excluded notwithstanding anything in the Constitution. Therefore, if the subject falls under Art. 329 (b), then the High Court would have no jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 with regard to that subject-matter, because Art. 226 is controlled by Art. 329, and to the extent that the Constituent Assembly has excluded the jurisdiction of Courts in election matters referred to in Art. 329 (b), the power of the High Court to issue writs has been taken away.

Reading the expression "election" in its context, both in Art. 329 and in juxta-position with Arts. 327 and 322 and in its setting in Part 15 "election" must bear a wider meaning than the very limited restricted meaning of the result of an election or the counting of votes. "Election" has the same meaning as the expression used in Arts. 327 and 328, viz., matters relating to or in connection with election. "Election" is not merely the ultimate decision or the ultimate result. "Election" is every stage from the time the notification is issued till the result is declared and even perhaps if there is an election petition, till the decision of the Election Tribunal. It is one whole continuous integrated proceeding and every aspect of it and every stage of it and every step taken in it is a part of the election, and what is prohibited by Art. 329 (b) is the calling in question and one aspect or stage of the election. The expression "except by an election petition" does not point to the period when it can be called in question; it rather points to the manner and the mode in which it can be called in question; and Art. 329 (b) provides that the only way any matter relating to or in connection with an election can be called in question is by an election petition, which could be presented to such authority and in such manner as may be provided for by law passed by the appropriate Legislature.

Whatever the case may be, when a nomination paper has been improperly accepted as far as wrongful rejection of a nomination paper is concerned, substantially the right of the petitioner is safeguarded under S. 81 of the Representation of the People Act.

The scheme of the Act is to give a sort of finality to different stages of the election and to provide that all matters arising during the election and all disputes relating to the election should be determined and adjudicated upon after the election is over by means of an election petition to be decided by an Election Tribunal.

The whole object of the Constituent Assembly in enacting Part 15 and the whole object of Parliament in putting on the statute book the Representation of the People Act was to set up a machinery whereby elections would take place as far as possible within the time schedule laid down and without interference or interruption by proceedings in a Court of law. I L R (1952) Bom 785 : 54 Bom L R 137 : AIR 1952 Bom 277 (278, 279, 280, 281) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — One seat to be filled contested by two candidates – Election of successful candidate, declared void by Election Tribunal on ground that he was disqualified to be elected – Notification under S. 149, Representation of the People Act, 1951, issued by Election Commission for fresh bye-election — Unsuccessful candidate claiming that he should be declared elected in writ petition filed by him—S. 53 (2), Representation of the People Act, 1951 held inapplicable — Petitioner's claim held untenable on ground that he did not come within S. 101, Representation of the People Act, 1951. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 149. ('64) 68 Cal W N 270.

——Arts. 226, 225, 227 and 329 (b)—Proceedings disputing validity of election—Jurisdiction of High Court Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 80, 81 and 100. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). AIR 1953 Cal 98.

——Art. 226—There is nothing in Art. 226 or in any other provision of the Constitution to show that the High Court has power expressly conferred on it to decide doubts and disputes concerning elections. See Representation of People Act (1951), S. 170. AIR 1953 Cal 98.

——Art. 226—Election — Procedure for election not laid down by statute — Court can examine whether procedure adopted is proper — Acquiescence cannot validate illegal procedure.

When procedure for a particular important purpose like an election is not found in the provisions of the statute, it is the Court which has to see whether the procedure adopted was proper and was properly followed and whether the elections reflected the will of the majority of those present and who voted at the elections. The Court, in election matters is jealous about the rights of a citizen in the matter of the exercise of the right of franchise and to see whether proper procedure that would reflect the correct wishes of the majority was followed or not. If the Court is of the view that the procedure adopted was anomalous as it did not properly elicit the view of the majority, the Court exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution, would, for the protection of the right of franchise of a citizen, certainly interfere in the matter irrespective of the fact that the particular procedure has been adopted by the Presiding Officer. It is not for the Court to speculate what the result would have been had the proper procedure been followed. 61 Bom L R 1326, Rel. on.; AIR 1954 Mad 563; AIR 1956 Nag 278 and AIR 1954 S C 217, Dist. (1962) 3 Guj L R 682.

——Arts. 226, 227—Powers of High Court—Election disputes—Interference.

The intention of the Legislature in enacting S. 19 (1) of the Territorial Councils Act was that the order of the District Judge on an election petition should be final and it would be defeating that intention if an order of the District Judge on such a petition is interfered with lightly. In the exercise of the jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India, a Court should not assume to itself appellate powers when the filing of an appeal has been barred: AIR 1960 S C 137, Ref. AIR 1961 Him Pra 2 (7) (Pt G) (Pr 19).

——Arts. 226, 227, 329 (b) — Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 105 — Order of Election Tribunal is final and conclusive—High Court has no jurisdiction even under Arts. 226 and 227— C. P. Code (1908), S. 9. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh-B) 2378 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of Election Tribunal adopted and notified by Election Commission—Writ Petition against Tribunal's order — Maintainability. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 105. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh-B) 2378 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 and 329 (b)—Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere with decision of Election Tribunal — (Representation of tae People Act (1951), S. 105).

Article 329 (b) of the Constitution excludes the jurisdiction of the Courts with regard to matters forming a part of the whole procedure whereby a candidate is returned to the legislature. But it does not take away the jurisdiction of the High Court in regard to proceedings before the Election Tribunal set up under the Representation of the People Act. The effect of Art. 329 (b) is that so far as calling in question any election is concerned, it can be done only "by an election petition" by presenting to "such authority" and "in the manner" prescribed by a law of the appropriate Legislature. AIR 1952 S C 64 and AIR 1952 Madh Bha 97, Ref. to.

Section 105, Representation of the People Act, which gives finality to every order of the Tribunal cannot be taken as preventing the High Court from setting aside a decision of the tribunal given without or in excess of its jurisdiction. (1951) All E R 268, L R 5 A C 47 and 67 I A 222, Ref. to. I L R (1954) M B 76 : A I R 1953 Madh Bha 197 (199, 200) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—High Court when can interfere with decision of election tribunal.

Though it is not open to the High Court to exercise its powers under Art. 226 or 227 so as to interfere with a decision of the election tribunal merely upon the ground that the decision is erroneous either in respect of facts or in point of law, it has the power to examine and correct any decision of the tribunal on the ground of jurisdiction, fraud or violation of the principles of natural justice. ILR (1954) Madh Bha 76: AIR 1953 Madh Bha 197 (200) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Writ petition — Powers of High Court—Not an appellate Court — Finding of fact, cannot be disturbed — Election challenged on the ground of disqualification under S. 14 (1) (i) read with S. 94 of M. B. Municipalities Act (1 of 1954)—Finding arrived at by the Election Tribunal — Interference with. 1963 Jab L J 795.

——Arts. 226, 329 (b)—Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere with elections. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). A I R 1957 Madh Pra 142.

——Art. 226—Election — Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere with elections. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). 1957 Cri L J 853 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 93 (DB).

——Art. 226 and 329 (b) — Application for issue of writ of certiorari for quashing proceedings of Election Tribunal— Maintainability — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 74, 98 and 105—AIR 1953 Nag 357, Dissented from.

An application for the issue of a writ under Article 226 for quashing the proceedings of an Election Tribunal which had declared the election to be void and set aside the election of the petitioner, is maintainable and is not barred either under Art. 329 (b) of the Constitution or S. 105, Representation of the People Act.

The words 'notwithstanding anything in this Constitution' in Art. 329 (b) make it quite clear that they can apply only to the limited purpose of calling in question the election to either House of Parliament or to the House of the State Legislature. It can have no application to or bearing on the proceedings after the completion of the election. Section 74, Representation of the People Act makes it clear that an election is completed before the Election Tribunal is set up. It does not continue until an Election Tribunal pronounces its order under S. 98 of the Representation of the People Act. Article 329 (b) does not specifically or expressely refer to the proceedings of the Election Tribunal which, come into being only after the completion of the elections. The powers conferred on Courts by Art. 226 are very extensive; there is no proviso to limit its jurisdiction such as the proviso to Art. 227 which excludes the superintendence of the High Courts over tribunals relating to Armed Forces. AIR 1952 S C 64, Rel. on ; AIR 1953 Nag 357, Discussed and dissented from.

The issue of a writ as prayed for by the petitioner may and will result in certain consequences just as an adjudication of a successful candidate in an election as an insolvent may and will produce the same or similar consequences. It does not however follow that because of the effect on the result of the elections the petition for the issue of a writ or the adjudication of the successful candidate as an insolvent can strictly be said to be petition which calls in question an election to a Legislature.

The contention that the Election Tribunal has become functus officio and that as such it cannot be made a party, even if accepted, does not in any way affect the effectiveness of a writ that may be issued to quash the proceedings of the Election Tribunal. The records of the proceedings of the Election Tribunal are lodged before the District Judge of the Division in which the election has taken place and are at present before the High Court. There does not appear to be any specific provision in the Representation of the People Act to support the view that the Election Tribunal becomes functus officio after the pronouncement of the order. AIR 1953 S C 210, Distinguished and AIR 1953 Mys 59, Rel. on. 34 Mys L J 80 : I L R (1954) Mys 33 : AIR 1954 Mys 111 (112, 113) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Article 329 (b) does not exclude petition under Art. 226—Writ can issue to quash proceedings of Election Tribunal. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). AIR 1954 Mys 102 (DB).

● ——Arts. 226, 227 and 329—Writ against decision of Election Tribunal—Decision of Election Tribunal when writ be quashed fully discussed (Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 80, 100)—(Representation of the People (Conduct of Elections and Election Petitions) Rules (1951), R. 47 (1) (c). AIR 1951 Nag 58 (FB), Dissented from. Hari Vishnu v. Ahmad Syed, ILR (1954) Nag 209 : AIR 1954 Nag 166 (171 to 189) (Pt A) (Prs 16 to 20, 28, 46 to 58, 73, 95, 102, 110 to 115) (FB).

——Art. 226—Order of Election Tribunal—Jurisdiction of High Court to issue writ. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). AIR 1953 Nag 357 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Petition under — Questions to be considered.

In a petition under Art. 226 challenging the jurisdiction of an Election Tribunal to deal with certain election petition pending before it, the High Court cannot go into a question which is raised in the election petition. I L R (1953) Nag 863 : 1953 Nag L J 376 : AIR 1953 Nag 237 (238) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of Orissa High Court — Writ by, even if could be issued, in spite of bar under Art. 329, cannot be issued against Election Commission because the Election Commission cannot be regarded as functioning within territorial limits of High Court. ILR (1953) Cut 659 : AIR 1954 Orissa 87 (92) (Pt F) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of superintendence of High Court over Election Tribunal. See Ibid, Art. 329. AIR 1954 Pepsu 118 (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 116-A—Order setting aside election—Stay of—No general rule can be laid down — Each case to be decided on its own facts — General principles as to stay orders in election cases—Election.

No general rule can be laid down in what cases the stay of an order setting aside an election should be granted and in what cases it should be refused. In each case, the question will have to be examined with reference to the facts of that case. However, there are certain general principles which the Court should keep in view while determining, in each particular case, the question of stay. Further, for the purpose of stay, it hardly matters whether the matter has come to the High Court in its appellate jurisdiction or in its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The general principles are: (1) That stay should not be granted as a matter of course, (2) that the right to get elected being merely a legal right, it is not a right to or in property which is protected by Art. 19 of the Constitution. Therefore, the consideration that status quo should not be disturbed during appeal or in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution should not form the basis for the purpose of determining the question of stay. Har Govind v. Paloo Ram, 66 Pun L R 329 : 1965 Cur L J 17 : I L R (1965) 1 Punj 409 : A I R 1965 Punj 22 (23, 24) (Prs 4, 6, 7) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Election Petition dismissed under S. 90 (3)—Representation of the People Act, 1951 — Writ petition challenging order. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 116-A. AIR 1959 Raj 114 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 329 (b)— Petition under Art. 226 against decision of Election Tribunal can be entertained.

The power to issue a writ of certiorari can only be taken away by express negative words. The provisions of Art. 329 will override the provisions of other parts of the Constitution in matters about which Art. 329(b) provides. Under Art. 329 (b) no election to either House of Parliament or to either House of a legislature of a State shall be called in question except by an election petition presented to such authority and in such manner as may be provided for by or under any law made by the appropriate legislature. A writ under Art. 226 with respect to the decision of the tribunal appointed to try an election petition is not covered by the words of Art. 329 (b). The election must be deemed to be over with the declaration of the result by the Returning Officer as it is difficult to conceive that an election can be called in question by an election petition before it is over. What the Election Tribunal does in deciding the election petition is all after the election, and if the decision of the Election Tribunal is challenged under Art. 226 as beyond its jurisdiction or in excess of it, it cannot be said that the election is being called in question. What is really being called in question is the decision of the Tribunal. 1954 Raj L W 192 : ILR (1953) 3 Raj 891 : AIR 1954 Raj 145 (148) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 and 329 (b)—Decisions of election tribunal — (Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 105). A I R 1953 Vin Pra 51 (52, 55) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 12).

44 (c). Rejection or acceptance of nomination.

——Art. 226 — Election — Candidate's nomination paper rejected —Right to vote —Petition to establish right —Maintainability—Failure to appeal against rejection —Effect.

Where the nomination paper of a candidate is rejected, whatever might have been the reason for rejection in this case it was rejected on ground that he was not a voter, the decision only affects his right to stand as a candidate at the election and not his right to vote. He can therefore maintain a petition under Art. 226 in order to establish his right to vote and in that case his failure to appeal against the rejection of his nomination paper cannot be taken notice of. AIR 1956 Ajmer 71 (72) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Arts. 226 and 329 (b)—Election— Acceptance or rejection of nomination paper —Proper remedy is to file election petition — Aggrieved party cannot invoke jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226.

In view of Art. 329 of the Constitution, the High Courts in India should not in exercise of their powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution interfere with elections which term includes the rejection or acceptance of a nomination paper. If, therefore, the petitioner wants to question the correctness of the decision of the Returning Officer rejecting his nomination paper his only remedy lies in an election petition. He cannot invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1952 S C 64 and AIR 1954 S C 520 and 1955 S C J 267 : A I R 1955 S C 233, Foll.

The ground on which the order rejecting the nomination paper is challenged is not material. Whatever may be the ground of challenge the challenge must be made in the way provided by the statute, i. e., in an election petition. AIR 1963 All 363 (365) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8).

——Arts. 226 & 324 & 327 & 328 & 329 — Order rejecting nomination paper of a candidate— Jurisdiction of High Court to entertain petition under Art. 226— Election, meaning of — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss 36 & 80.

The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India against an order of the Returning Officer accepting or rejecting the nomination paper of a candidate under S. 36 of the Representation of the People Act 1951.

The general power to issue high prerogative writs conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution can be controlled and limitations on its exercise can be imposed by a subsequent appropriate provision in the Constitution in that behalf.

Reading Arts. 329 and 324 together, it would seem reasonably clear that the expression "election" used in Cl. (b) of Art. 329 is intended to cover comprehensively the diverse steps involved in the process of selecting a representative from the issue of a notification calling upon all the constituencies (in a general election) or particular constituencies (in bye-elections) to elect their representatives upto the declaration of results.

The use of the words "with respect to all matters relating to, or in connection with" in Arts. 327 and 328 of the Constitution does not indicate that the words "election" does not cover every part of the process of the selection of representatives, A reference to the various provisions of the Representation of the People Act (43 of 1951) will show the wide range that has to be covered before election can actually take place. It was to enable Parliament and the State Legislatures to legislate with regard to all these matters that such a wide phraseology has been used in Arts. 327 and 328.

Art. 329 (b) is co-related to Art. 324. The same word 'election' is used and apart from the preparation of electoral rolls and the appointment of Election Tribunals, it is only the "conduct, of all elections" (and not of all matters relating to or in connection with elections) that is vested in the Election Commission. Art. 329 (b) only forbids that to be challenged, except by an election petition to be disposed of by Election Tribunals appointed by the Election Commission, the conduct of which has by Art. 324 been vested in the Election Tribunal.

It is therefore clear that the disputes relating to elections based upon antecedent happenings are as much included in the prohibition as the happenings on the polling day of which many of them may be the proximate cause. Hence the bar imposed by Cl. (b) of Art. 329 covers the entire field of election and includes the steps through which the final stage of polling is reached. 1952 All L J 270 : A I R 1952 All 511 (513, 514) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 329 (b)—Improper acceptance of nomination —Remedy against —Writ petition—Not maintainable.

The rejection of a nomination and the acceptance of a nomination stand on the same footing and there is no difference in principle between the two cases. If the rejection of a nomination cannot be the subject-matter of a writ petition under Art. 226 the acceptance of a nomination cannot also be the subject matter of a writ petition under Art. 226. Having regard to the fact that the process of nomination is a part of the election, Art. 329 (b) of the Constitution provides a complete bar to Court entertaining a writ petition under Art. 226. Art. 329 (b) has provided this bar for a very good reason, that in a country with democratic Constitution in which the Legislatures have to play a very important role, it will lead to serious consequences if the elections are unduly protracted or obstructed. A I R 1952 S C 64, Rel. on. (1955) Andhra W R 193 : AIR 1955 Andhra 177 (178) (Prs 7, 8).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Election —Wrongful rejection of nomination paper of candidate by Returning Officer— Application for writ of mandamus — Maintainability. See Ibid, Art. 329 (b). AIR 1952 Bom 277 (DB).

● ——Arts. 226, 329 (b) — Rejection of nomination paper — High Court has no jurisdiction to interfere under Art. 226 — Word "election" in Art. 329 (b) means the whole procedure of election, including filing of nomination paper — (Representation of People Act (1951), Ss. 105, 100 (1) (c)).

Where a statute creates a right and provides for the constitution of a special tribunal for determining questions as to that right and the special tribunal functions than except so far as otherwise expressly provided or necessarily implied, that tribunal's jurisdiction to determine those questions is exclusive. (1859) 7 W R 484, Rel. on.

The right of being nominated to stand as a candidate for election to the Parliament or to the State Legislatures is a right conferred by the Constitution, and subject to its provisions. The Constitution, which creates this right, itself contains provisions for the setting up of a tribunal in Part 15 of the Constitution, for trying cases for the infringement of the right and for the exclusion of the High Court's jurisdiction to deal under Art. 226 with such an infringement.

Article 329 (b) of the Constitution prohibits an election being called in question except by an election petition presented to such authority and in such manner as may be provided for by or under any law made by the appropriate legislature. The law contemplated by the clause is clearly the Representation of the People Act, 1951 enacted by the Parliament in the exercise of the power conferred under Art. 327. Part VI of this Act prescribes the procedure for the presentation of a petition challenging any election, for the constitution of a tribunal to try the petition and the procedure to be followed by the tribunal in the trial, and specifies the grounds on which the tribunal may declare the election to be wholly void, or declare the election of the returned candidate to be void. A remedy is provided to a person whose nomination paper has been improperly rejected, to have the election declared void by the special tribunal on the ground of the improper rejection of the nomination. The scheme of the Act is to set up a Special Tribunal for the trial of election disputes, confer a special jurisdiction upon that Tribunal and oust the jurisdiction of ordinary Civil Courts. It is quite true that Ss. 105 and 170 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, or any other provisions of that Act cannot by themselves in any way affect the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue writs under Art. 226 of the Constitution. But the jurisdiction of the High Court to enquire under Art. 226 into the validity of any election is taken away not by the Representation of the People Act but by Art. 329 itself. Article 329 means that notwithstanding anything contained in Arts. 225, 226, 227 and 228 and other Articles of the Constitution, no election shall be called in question by invoking the powers of the High Court under those Articles.

The word "election" in Art. 329 (b) is not restricted to the result of an election or to the actual counting of votes. The meaning of the term must, be determined on a consideration of the whole procedure whereby a person is elected to the Parliament or to a State Legislature in accordance with the provisions of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. The election commences when a nomination paper of the person seeking election is presented to the Returning Officer and ends when the Returning Officer declares the result of the election. The act of the Returning Officer, therefore, in refusing to receive a nomination paper, or in accepting or rejecting a nomination paper, after scrutiny is clearly a matter which forms a part of the election.

The question, in such a case, is not whether the Returning Officer has failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in him by law or has erroneously exercised that jurisdiction. It is whether the High Court has the authority under Art. 226 to correct any action or decision of an erring Returning Officer who fails to carry out his statutory obligations, however, arbitrary and despotic the order or decision may be. As the Representation of the People Act, 1951, prescribes a procedure for the presentation of election petitions on the ground of improper rejection of nomination papers and their trial by a tribunal constituted thereunder, Art. 329 (b) completely shuts out the petitioners from challenging before the High Court by way of a petition under Art. 226, the orders of the Returning Officers rejecting the nomination papers.

Had it not been for the opening words of Art. 329 (b) excluding the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court could not have hesitated in exercising their powers under Art. 226, against the improper rejection of nomination papers and in giving the appropriate relief, on the ground that the petitioner had his remedy under the Representation of the People Act, 1951. It is no consolation and remedy to a person whose nomination paper has been improperly rejected to tell him that he must let the election go on and then have it set aside by an election petition and have a fresh election ordered. It is obvious that such a post-election remedy would be wholly inadequate in seeking the remedy under the Representation of the People Act. The person would necessarily be put to trouble and expense and if he succeeds he would be required to meet the prospect of a fresh election under altogether different conditions and with an array of fresh candidates.

Quaere. — Whether a decision of the election tribunal or any proceedings of the tribunal can be challenged before the High Court by way of a petition under Art. 226 or 227. Shankar Rao v. State, A I R 1952 Madh B 97 (100, 101, 102, 103) (Prs 25, 27, 29, 31, 33) (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 329 (b)—Election disputes—(Election — Representation of People Act (1950), Ss. 80 and 100).

It is not open to the High Court to exercise powers under Art. 226 in a matter of rejection of a nomination paper by the Returning Officer. AIR 1952 S C 64 and A I R 1954 S C 520 and A I R 1952 Bom 277, Foll. A I R 1955 S C 233; A I R 1954 S C 202; AIR 1956 Bom 530; ILR (1953) Nag 245; I L R (1955) Nag 879, A I R 1957 Hyd 27; A I R 1957 Mad 60, Disting. The contention that the petitioner would have no remedy after the election is unsustainable in view of S. 80 read with S. 100 (c) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951. 1957 M P C 254: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 322; 1957 Jab L J 529; 1957 M P L J 284 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 122 (125) (Prs 13, 17, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election proceedings—Issue of writ — Improper rejection of nomination. See Election — Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 100 (1). AIR 1958 Mad 198 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ petition praying to quash the order of the Election Tribunal (District Munsiff) — Election Officer rejecting nomination of respondent on the ground of his non residence in the village for the specified period — Election Tribunal setting aside the decision of Election Officer on the ground that respondent ordinarily resided in the village — But not deciding question of nomination of respondent invalid on the ground that proposer was not elector of the constituency — Writ petitions allowed — Order of Tribunal set aside and election petition returned to tribunal for being disposed of afresh.

The Election Officer rejected the nomination of the respondent on the ground that he did not reside in the village for a period of 180 days during the year of the election. The Tribunal allowed the election petition on the ground that it was enough if the respondent ordinarily resided in the village and it was not incumbent for a candidate to reside in the village during any specified period. But the tribunal did not record a finding whether the nomination of the respondent was invalid, since the person who proposed him was not an elector of the constituency for which respondent was a candidate. It was the clear duty of the tribunal before whom this contention was raised to decide this question. Since it did not do so, the order of the tribunal was set aside and the election petitions presented by the respondent were remitted to the Tribunal for being disposed of afresh. 1963 Mys L J (Supp) 230 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 329 (b)—'Election'—Meaning of—Rejection of nomination paper—Jurisdiction of High Court to issue writs — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 100, 105.

The Constituent Assembly must be deemed to have used the term "election" in Art. 329 (b) in its comprehensive sense, embracing the whole procedure whereby an elected member is returned. The Returning Officer commences his election activities as soon as any person is nominated as a candidate for election and the nomination paper is delivered to him in the prescribed manner. He holds scrutiny to determine the validity or otherwise of the nominations; and when he rejects or accepts a nomination paper he takes a definite step towards the election of the candidate concerned and it cannot be said that such a step does not constitute election. The provision of Art. 329 (b) is mandatory. The petitioner whose nomination paper has been rejected has a remedy by an election petition which he may file, if he so chooses, in accordance with the rules prescribed in that behalf. He is, therefore, not entitled to seek a remedy by means of a writ for the purpose of doing that for which there is a remedy only by an election petition under the provisions of the Act of 1951. The High Court has no power under Art. 226 to issue a writ particularly in view of the fact that the same matter may be dealt with by an Election Tribunal whose order under S. 105 of the Act shall be final. Even if it be assumed that the jurisdiction of the High Court has not been abridged by Art. 329 it is not a case in which the High Court should issue a mandamus, or any other writ, in exercise of its power under Art. 226 of the Constitution, firstly because there is a possibility of a conflict of decisions between the Election Tribunal and the High Court, and secondly because there is another remedy open to the petitioner, Case law discussed. 31 Pat 145 : AIR 1953 Pat 47 (49, 50) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 10, 11, 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Other remedy — Election proceedings —Exercise of writ jurisdiction — Error of law in rejecting nomination paper and inordinate delay in supplying copies of rejection order — Remedy by way of election petition not availed of but Appellate Authority found to support rejection of nomination paper in written statement filed before Court— Respondent not raising objection based on existence of other remedy in preliminary hearing—Error of law on face of record and absence of equally speedy and efficacious remedy entitles High Court to exercise of writ jurisdiction — Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Act (3 of 1961), S. 121(3).

Held, on facts that the determination of the clear-cut question of law raised would be enough in this case to entitle the petitioner to the relief claimed. The grave error of law was apparent on the face of the record and no further enquiry into facts was necessary for redressing the petitioner's grievance. The circumstances of the case more than amply justified sustenance of the petitioner's claim to interference by High Court in its judicial discretion; as delay by resorting to election petition was likely to be inordinate as the appellate authority was busy officer and the case might not have got the priority it deserved. Section 121 (3) of the Act could not detain the Court because that provision however effective in excluding other proceedings could not affect High Court's jurisdiction under Art. 226, though of course, existence or remedy under S. 121 (3) deserved due notice in the exercise of discretion under Art. 226. ('64) 66 Pun L R 1185.

——Art. 226 — Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Act (3 of 1961), S. 121 read with S. 115 (2) (b)—Validity—Section not unconstitutional— 'Failure of justice'—Expression not vague or uncertain in view of R. 3—Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads (Election Petition) Rules (1961)—It provides clear guidance in deciding election disputes under the Act — S. 121 (2) (a) is not void for uncertainty, vagueness or conferment of unguided or uncanalised power. See Panchayats—Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Act (3 of 1961), S. 121. ('62) 64 Pun LR 1110.

——Arts. 226, 227 — Interference with decision of Election Tribunal — [Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 33, 40].

Election Tribunal held that a candidate cannot appoint more than one election agent and whatever may be the number of the nomination papers one and the same person has to be appointed as an election agent in all of them. The Tribunal further held that the appointment of more than one election agent does not invalidate all the nomination papers. In the Tribunal's opinion the first nomination paper filed by the candidate in each case was in order, it being filed in the prescribed form, and that the second nomination paper in which a different election agent had been declared was invalid.

Held, that no writ could be issued under Art. 226 against the decision of the Tribunal, nor could it be interfered with under Art. 227. (Case law discussed.) 6 Sau L R 258 : AIR 1954 Sau 1 (5, 6) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 15, 16, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of Returning Officer rejecting nomination paper of candidate—No petition lies—See Representation of the People Act (43 of 1951), S. 2 (d). AIR 1952 Trav-Co 1 (DB).

44 (d). Municipal election.

——Art. 226—Elections disputes.

If the State or the public officers concerned seek to hold an election contrary to the law, a voter has a right to come to the High Court for the issue of a writ in order to stop the same. AIR 1955 Cal 83, Rel. on. Hence where in the petition under Art. 226 the question is whether the whole election is void because the election officer took action to call upon the voters to elect members even before the Municipal Committee had been validly constituted and whether the elections are held in an illegal manner inasmuch as no separate rolls of Municipal voters had been prepared, these questions go to the very root of the matter and it is essential that the petition be heard on merits. A I R 1956 Ajmer 25 (28) (Pt E) (Prs 11, 13).

——Art. 226—Election Tribunal:— Powers of—Interference by High Court. See U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 25. AIR 1957 All 729 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interference under — Order without jurisdiction. See U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 40 (3). (1957) All L J 166.

● ——Art. 226 — Election case — Municipalities — U. P. Town Areas Act (2 of 1914), S. 8-A — Chairman of Town Area Committee forwarding his resignation — Resignation withdrawn before its acceptance — Resignation still accepted and election ordered—Election held — Writ petition challenging order and election—Maintainability.

A bye election was held on a casual vacancy supposed to have been created by the acceptance of resignation of the former Chairman of a Town Area Committee. The Chairman had, however, before his resignation was accepted by the District Magistrate, withdrawn it. Writ petition was filed by the Chairman, questioning the order of the District Magistrate to hold the bye-election.

Held, that as upon the validity of the acceptance of resignation depended the validity of the order to hold the bye election and the bye-election itself, the petition was maintainable. Bahori Lal Paliwal v. District Magistrate Bulandshahr, 1956 All L J 421 : 1956 All W R (H C) 423 : ILR (1956) 2 All 593 : AIR 1956 All 511 (512, 514, 516) (Pt A) (Prs 1, 27, 32) (FB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Election petition—Objection to its maintainability disallowed—Order affects rights of elected candidate.

If the party filing an election petition has been able to establish that the petition was properly filed any decision on the objection raised by the successful candidate that the petition is not maintainable is a decision which affects the right of the successful candidate and consequently it is a decision which can be the subject-matter of a direction in the nature of a writ of certiorari by the High Court. AIR 1956 All 89 (92) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Powers under—Nature and scope of—Election Tribunal — Decision in exercise of jurisdiction—No error apparent on face of record—No interference — (Municipalities—U. P. Municipal Act (2 of 1916), S. 25 (2) (b) — (Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities (Conduct of Election of Members) Order (1953) R. 22 (4) (5)). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 3548.

——Art. 226 — Election Petition (President of Municipal Board) Rules (1949), R. 4 — Election petition addressed to Election Tribunal—Technical defect—Exercise of writ jurisdiction. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 43-B. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2035.

——Art. 226 — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (1947), S. 50 —Resignation of Sarpanch—Fresh election of member and new sarpanch—Removal of latter on application by former after 2 years without hearing latter is illegal — Order directing opposite party not to remove him passed. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 1731.

——Art. 226 — Rejection of nomination paper — Remedy under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Municipalities — U. P. Town Areas Act (2 of 1914) (as amended by U. P. Act 5 of 1953), S. 6-I (2). AIR 1954 All 234 (DB).

——Art. 226—Election dispute—Municipal elections —Objection that all persons qualified to vote were not entered in the electoral roll — Provision in the Municipal Act for settlement of such objections — High Court cannot enquire — Remedy by person aggrieved is under the Act — Hyderabad District Municipalities Act (18 of 1956), Ss. 10, 11, 12 and 13.

The Election Tribunal or the High Court in writ petitions have no jurisdiction to enquire whether all persons qualified to vote were entered in the rolls. Under the Hyderabad District Municipalities Act the jurisdiction to prepare the electoral rolls is vested in certain authorities under the Act and the Rules and the provisions of that Act and the Rules give finality to the decision of these authorities. It would be, therefore, futile to challenge the validity of the election in a writ petition on the ground that some persons qualified to vote were not included in the electoral rolls. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 458 and 1958 Andh L T 674; Rel. on; AIR 1957 S C 304 and AIR 1958 Pat 149, Explained and Dist. ILR (1964) Andh Pra 995 : AIR 1964 Andh Pra 421 (426, 427, 428, 429) (Pt E) (Prs 11, 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election — Redistribution of wards—Grounds for challenging—Issue of writ. See Election —Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 43. (1958) 1 Andh W R 480 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 458 (DB).

——Art. 226—Municipalities—Assam Municipal Act (15 of 1957), S. 16—Election Petition—Order of the District Judge—Power of High Court under Art. 226 to examine the correctness of—When can be used. See Municipalities — Assam Municipal Act (15 of 1957), S. 16. (1960) 1 Assam L R 139.

——Art. 226 — Order rejecting nomination paper — If can be challenged by a writ petition, See Assam Local Self-Government Act (25 of 1953), S. 12. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 3633 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Wrong acceptance of nomination paper in an election to Municipal Corporation —Writ petition challenging the same — Alternative remedy open — No bar to issuance of a writ under the article.

Ordinarily the High Court will not stay an election or pass any order which will result in the election being postponed. Where, however, the matter is brought before the High Court sufficiently in advance and where the matter can be heard and disposed of before the polling is due to take place and where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, there is no reason why the High Court should not correct the error. If a Returning Officer accepts a nomination paper which has failed to comply with an essential requirement of the election rules it would save public time and money, as well as expense, inconvenience and hardships to the parties, if the Returning Officer's action is corrected before the election takes place. In such a case relief cannot be refused merely because the petitioner can pursue another remedy by filing an election petition, after the election is held.

Though no hard and fast rule can be laid down in this matter, each case should be considered on its own facts and where without staying or postponing the election it is possible to set matters right before the election takes place it would be appropriate and desirable to do so. AIR 1952 S C 64 and AIR 1952 Bom 277, Disting. 65 Bom L R 123 : 1963 Mah L J 351 : ILR (1962) Bom 810 : AIR 1963 Bom 183 (185, 186) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election disputes—Municipal election —Electoral rolls not prepared according to law—Elections held — Writ petition — Maintainability—Elections).

It is the duty of the registering authority in a municipality to draw up proper electoral rolls before holding a general election. Where it fails to do so, a writ can be issued compelling them to do so. Where the election has taken place but there has been a stay of the publication of the names of the successful candidates, the proper order will be that the rule is made absolute and a writ in the nature of certiorari be issued quashing the electoral rolls which have been published and a writ in the nature of mandamus directing municipal authorities not to give effect to the same and also an appropriate writ setting aside the election that has been held on the strength of those electoral rolls and also a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the authorities not to publish the names of the candidates who stood for and were elected in the last election on the strength of the defective electoral rolls. 1960 Cal L J 73.

——Art. 226 — Scope—"Fresh election", meaning of —Incomplete General Election—Supersession—Position of elected members — Election of vacant seats only — Legality. See Municipalities—Bengal Municipal Act (15 of 1932), S. 554. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2899 (DB).

——Art. 226—Election disputes—Hyderabad Municipal Corporation Act (2 of 1956), Ss. 22 (1) (h), 42 (10), 79 (2) (c) — Nomination paper rejected — Remedy of aggrieved party—Issue of writ.

The provisions of S. 42 (10), Hyderabad Municipal Corporation Act, leave no room for interpreting S. 79 (2) (c) in a manner as to confer right to get the matter referred to a tribunal of a person whose nomination paper has been accepted or rejected. Section 42 (10) in express words bars such a remedy. Section 42 (10) though it ousts the jurisdiction of the Court cannot protect the decision of the Returning Officer or the Court of appeal from exercise of the extraordinary powers with which the High Court is invested under Art. 226 of the Constitution for issue of a writ. ILR (1956) Hyd 624 : AIR 1957 Hyd 27 (28) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Declaration does not form part of nomination paper — Failure to specify symbols out of prescribed list in declaration is no ground for rejecting nomination paper — Defect in naming symbols is not a material defect. See Municipalities —M. B. Municipal Election Rules (1954), R. 28 (1). AIR 1955 NUC (Madh B) 3367 (DB).

——Art. 226 — M. P. Municipalities Act (1961), S. 20 and Rr. 15 and 51—Each candidate allotted a symbol—Symbol allotted to a candidate cannot be challenged on the ground that it was different from the recognised ones — Restriction could be made in allotting symbols only to the extent specified in R. 15—Election petition not filed to attack an election—Limitation for filing the same expired—High Court would not interfere in writ proceedings—Rate-payer cannot challenge validity of selection of members by elected councillors.

Held, on facts that R. 15 (1) merely authorised the supervising officer to allot a colour or symbol to each candidate subject to the restrictions embodied in the in the proviso to sub-r. (1). The choice of symbols to be made by candidates at an election under the Act was not restricted to those specified for a Parliamentary or Assembly election. As regards attack on selection of councillors, it was not open to a mere rate-payer to challenge the selection of councillors under R. 51 when S. 20 of the Act laid down that a selection of a councillor could be challenged only by a councillor by filing an election petition. Held, further that no election petition having been filed against any of the councillors under S. 20 of the Municipalities Act and time for that having been expired, their selection had become final. A I R 1954 S C 210, while saying that the statutory requirements of election law must be strictly observed, it had been emphasized that the success of a candidate who had won at an election should not be lightly interfered with. 1965 M P L J (Notes) 127.

——Art 226— Jurisdiction — Petitioner's election to Municipal Board held invalid — Order assailed as being ultra vires. Contentions raised arguable under R. 136 (6) of the Rules framed under the M. B. Municipalities Act — Status-quo-ante maintained. A I R 1955 Andh 17, Rel on. I L R (1962) Madh Pra 490 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 140 : 1961 M P L J 1004 : 1961 Jab L J 1228 : 1962 M P C 88 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 47 (48) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Election dispute — Issue of writ—(Elections—C P. and Berar Local Government Act (68 of 1948), Ss. 22 and 182 (2) (ix).)

(Per Bhutt C. J and Shrivastava, J., Tare J., contra). Where a candidate is elected a Vice Chairman of a Janapada Sabha on rejection of a vote of the rival candidate on the ground that the ballot paper had an imprint of the cross which could disclose the identity of the voter it is open to the aggrieved candidate to file an election petition under S. 22 of the C.P. and Berar Local Government Act. Such a case is not fit for the exercise of the writ jurisdiction of the High Court

(Tare J., Contra). Writs of quo-warranto and mandamus ought to be issued in the instant case. Consideration of an alternative remedy would not be so material. Hariprasad Khadak Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1959 M P C 355 : 1959 Jab L J 414 : ILR (1959) Madh Pra 154 : 1959 M P L J 669 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 343 (345, 347) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 25) (FB).

——Art. 226—Election proceedings—Maintainability of writ petition — Art. 329 (b) — Municipalities — Madhya Bharat Municipalities Act (M. B Act I of 1954), Ss 14 (1) and 34)—(Elections).

The term 'election' embraces the whole process and generally speaking the law of election does not contemplate two attacks on election proceedings; but in the case of Municipal elections, the Madhya Bharat Legislature has broken that process, by providing an interim appeal against the rejection of nomination paper. Hence High Court can entertain a writ petition against an order passed in such an appeal AIR 1952 S C 64 Disting 1960 M P L J 1040 : 1958 M P C 44 : 1958 Jab L J 158 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 181 (182) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Election dispute— Municipal elections —Power of Election Commissioner to determine by lot—Interference. See Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 303 (2) (b). (1957) 1 Mad L J 247.

——Art. 226 - Certiorari—Order setting aside election. See Municipalities, Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), R. 10 of Election Rules Framed under Act—Election Rule. AIR 1958 Mad 969.

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Interference— Election—Vote challenged on ground that person who cast it was a minor — Judge on a consideration of all materials coming to contrary conclusion — Decision cannot be challenged in a writ petition. See Elections —Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901), S. 22 (3). AIR 1958 Mys 184 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Disqualification of councillor — Dispute as to — Who can decide — Dispute if can be raised in writ petition. See Municipalities — City of Nagpur Corporation Act (2 of 1950), S. 19 (b). AIR 1956 Nag 278 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Disqualification of councillor — Councillor taking part in election meeting — Election if can be challenged on ground of disqualification. See Municipalities— City of Nagpur Corporation Act (2 of 1950) S. 15 (1) AIR 1956 Nag 278 (FB).

——Art. 226 - Election matters — Authority committing error of law—Subject is not as matter of course entitled to writ — Question depends on facts — C. P. and Berar Local Government Act providing remedy by election petition — Constitutional remedy is not excluded — Illegality patent — Election yet to take place — It is better that to avoid prolongation of process the High Court should declare correct position — Remedy under Act held not adequate or expeditious. AIR 1955 N U C (Nag) 1579 (DB).

——Art. 226 Election proceedings—Entire elections challenged as invalid—Application for 'writ' —Proper remedy—(Municipalities—Orissa Municipal Act (28 of 1950), Ss. 18 to 21)—(Elections).

Sections 18 to 21 deal with the questioning of the election of an individual Councillor by an election petition. But where the entire elections are challenged as invalid and there is no disputed question of fact to be ascertained by evidence and the only question is the legal effect of the admitted non compliance with the relevant provisions of the Orissa Municipal Act and the rules framed thereund r in such circumstances an application under Art. 226, affords a proper remedy. 25 Cut LT 42 : ILR (1959) Cut 189.

——Art. 226—Municipalities - Bihar Municipal Election and Election Petition Rules (1953), R. 7 — Preparation of Electoral Roll - Hearing objections — Time and place of hearing — (Elections). See Municipalities Bihar Municipal Elections and Election Petitions Rules (1955), R. 7. AIR 1959 Patna 409.

——Art. 226—Election proceedings — Irregularity in holding elections — Defeated candidate cannot challenge it — No writ can issue. See Municipalities— Bihar Municipal Elections and Election Petitions Rules (1953), R. 9. ('58) ILR 37 Pat 688.

——Art. 226 - Election proceedings — Writ Petition Art. 329 (b) — Municipal Elections and Election Petitions Rules (1953), R. 62 —(Election).

Where by a writ petition under Art 226 what is challenged is not the election of a particular candidate, but the validity of the entire municipal election because of the violation of the essential provisions of the Bihar Election Rules and the Act, the writ petition is competent. 1957 B L J R 672 : AIR 1958 Pat 149 (153) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Pepsu Judicature Ordinance (Smt. 2005), S. 60 - Power given by S. 60 to High Court to issue direction or orders in the nature of writs of habeas corpus etc. for enforcement of any right given by any law for time being in force— Illegal order by Deputy Commissioner stopping the election sine die — High Court can issue writ for enforcing right under Municipal Act—Power is irrespective of power given by Art. 226. AIR 1951 Pepsu 141 (147) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Petitioner's election to Municipality set aside on ground that minors voted in election — Plea that minors voted for petitioner not raised in election petition—Yet Election Commissioner going into question whether election was materially affected by irregularities and setting aside election—Writ petition against order — Respondent's claim that fact finding was involved and case must be remitted back to Election Commissioner — Held, no fact finding was involved, but question was of excess of jurisdiction by Commissioner. A I R 1965 Punj 362 (365) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope of article — Order by Government under S 236, Punjab Municipal Act setting aside the election of President - Order whether administrative or quasi-judicial can be quashed by the High Court.

The scope of Art. 226 of the Constitution is comprehensive enough to include challenge to administrative act as well, provided of course the necessary pre-requisites for interference are made out. The Article is not confined to the five categories of writs mentioned therein and the High Court can always in the interests of justice frame its orders and directions to suit the occasion and the contingencies of a given case.

Where the State Government passed an order under S. 236, Punjab Municipal Act setting aside the proceedings of a Municipal Committee in so far as it related to the election of the President:

Held, that the procedure for setting aside election was regulated by the Rules framed under the Act and that the Government had no power under S. 236 to set aside the election. Hence, whether the impugned order was described as an administrative or a quasi judicial order, the High Court had power to quash such an order, as it vitally affected the right of the elected candidate to the office of the President. 64 Punj L R 638 : I L R (1962) 2 Punj 512.

● ——Art. 226—Election disputes — Election, setting aside of — Preliminary electoral roll prepared (in accordance with new rules already known) in anticipation of direction of State Government—Roll published after receipt of direction — Electoral roll not invalid and election held on its basis not liable to be struck down — Use of existing Assembly Roll as basis for preparation of new roll not objectionable. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Election Rules (1952), Rules 8-A to 8-K. A I R 1961 Punj 429 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Applicability of S. 19 — Absence of notification under S. 10 — Constitutes vital pre-election, deficiency — Election can be challenged by writ petition — Remedy under S. 19 no bar. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 19. 1962 Raj L W 57.

——Art. 226 —Writ petition challenging validity of election of Municipal Board — Principles to be followed—Amendment raising new point based on subsequent decision—Amendment cannot be refused on ground of mere delay — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 10.

The general principle is that an election must not be lightly set aside ; but at the same time it is equally important to remember that the purity and the regularity of the election process has to be safeguarded and flagrant breaches of the law relating to election cannot be allowed to go unnoticed or their inevitable consequences glossed over. A I R 1954 S C 210, Rel. on.

Thus where, in a writ petition under Art. 226, challenging the validity of the election of a municipality on various grounds the petitioner sought, by an application for amendment, to raise a new point relating to the failure of the Government to issue a notification under S. 10 of the Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act 1951 relying upon a Full Bench decision of the High Court given after the filing of the petition and the amendment was opposed on the ground of delay :

Held, that mere delay could not be valid ground for refusing an amendment irrespective of all other considerations, (ii) that since the question of the non-compliance with the provisions of S. 10 went to the root of the election and the Court was faced with a Division Bench decision delivered subsequently which in its turn was approved by a Full Bench of that very Court, it could not refuse permission to the petitioners to rely on that decision in support of the petition questioning the validity of the election The amendment was therefore allowed. A I R 1960 S C 1191, Rel. on. 1962 Raj L W 57 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 1144.

——Art. 226—Quo warranto—Election held in breach of mandatory provisions fixing the total number of members of Municipal Board and delimiting constituencies — Breach not covered by S. 19 of Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act — Entire election is vitiated —Application under Art 226 for issue of writ of quo warranto — Cannot be refused on ground of acquiescence — Period of limitation not applicable to writs — Petition cannot be dismissed as time barred. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 10. I L R (1961) 11 Raj 345.

——Art. 226—Delimitation of constituencies — Questions relating to — Nature of — Factors taken into consideration — High Court will not interfere unless discrimination is proved. See Municipalities—Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 10 (d). I L R (1961) 11 Raj 322.

●——Art. 226—Election dispute — Municipal election — Other remedy open — Interference by High Court under Art. 226—Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 19 (5)—Scope—Disregard of S. 7—Relief under Art. 226 can be granted.

The High Court has wide powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution and the jurisdiction of the Court is not affected or reduced because the Court acts with certain amount of restraint, under Art. 226 of the Constitution and refuses to grant relief in cases regarding enforcement of rights created by a statute, which also provides a special remedy for enforcing them.

Section 19 (5) of the Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act affords a remedy for breaches of mandatory provisions of the Act or the rules as well. That however, does not mean that cases of disregard of mandatory provisions of the Act not covered by S. 19 of the Act, cannot be challenged by petitions under Art. 226 of the Constitution. I L R (1960) 10 Raj 540 Overruled. Jaiwant Rao v State of Rajasthan. 1960 Raj L W 687 : I L R (1960) 10 Raj 1 63 : A I R 1961 Raj 250 (266, 267, 268) (Pt E) Prs 52, 54, 55) (FB)

——Art. 226—Municipalities—Rajasthan Town Municipal Board Chairman Election Rules (1951), R. 14—Election—Meaning of Rejection of nomination paper —Remedy under R. 14 not availed of — Writ petition not maintainable—(Words and Phrases — Election)—(Elections). See Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipal Boards Chairman Election Rules (1951), R. 14. A I R 1960 Raj 86.

——Art 226 Setting aside of election without giving reasonable notice - Effect — Principles of natural justice. See Municipalities—Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 14. I L R (1960) 10 Raj 69.

——Art. 226 Election disputes Election to municipal board in Rajasthan Election petition filed before election, challenging entire election — Disputed question of fact and question of territorial limits of municipality agitated — Remedy before Election Board under municipal law open — High Court would not interfere under Art 226 —(Municipalities—Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), Ss. 19 and 19A).

Where the petitioner, who was one of the electors for a municipal board in Rajasthan, filed a writ petition even before the election was held, challenging the entire election raising questions that the electoral rolls were not properly prepared and published and raising a dispute about the territorial limits of the municipality :

Held, that S. 19A of the Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act, 1951, makes it quite clear that the election of the total number of the members of the municipal board could be challenged before the Election Tribunal. The election tribunal was not debarred by any provision in the Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act, 1951 from making an enquiry into and giving its decision upon, the allegations relating to a fundamental deficiency in the election i.e. a deficiency which shakes the very foundation of the election. On the other hand the questions which have been raised by the petitioner can be decided properly by an Election Tribunal, because it can decide both questions of fact and of law.

Therefore it would not be proper for the High Court to decide those matters under Art. 226 at that stage. ILR 1955 Raj 827, Rel. on.

Further S. 19 of the Act provides an appeal to the High Court from the order of the Election Tribunal on a question of law. Once the facts are decided by the Election Tribunal, the High Court would be in a better position to deal with the questions of law and for this reason also, it is not proper to interfere in the matter at this stage in extraordinary jurisdiction.

So also, according to S. 19 one voter alone cannot be permitted to bring an election petition. If the present application is allowed, it would mean that a voter can circumvent the above provision of law and it would become nugatory. A I R 1957 Raj 293, Rel. on; A I R 1955 Raj 818, Disting.; A I R 1956 Raj 185, Ref. 1960 Raj L W 340 : ILR (1959) 9 Raj 1024.

——Art. 226—Municipal election—Terms of office of members — Date of commencement — Government declaring term of municipality to have ended on certain date and ordering fresh election — Order illegal — Order must be set aside. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), S. 15. A I R 1957 Raj 87 (DB).

44 (e). Panchayat election.

——Art. 226:— Reviewing authority acting as appellate authority and restoring elections which had been set aside — Legality — Interference by High Court under Arts. 226 and 227, Constitution of India. See Panchayats—U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules (1947), R. 25 (1), Cl. (8). 1959 All L J 223.

——Art. 226 — Election petition — Disposal of on grounds raised during arguments — Interference. See Panchayats — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 12-C. A I R 1958 All 511.

——Art. 226 — Accepting nomination paper of person not attaining age 30—There is gross failure to comply with Act. See Election—U. P Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 12.C (1) (b) (iii). 1957 All W R (HC) 388.

——Art. 226 —Petition for writ—Alternative remedy —Effect—Setting aside election of sarpanch—Proper remedy — (Election — U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules (1947), Rr. 83B, 26) — (Panchayats — U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules (1947), Rr. 83B, 26).

Under R. 83B of the U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules any dispute relating to the election of a person as Sarpanch or Sahayak Sarpanch has to be decided in a manner provided in R. 26 and the remedy of the applicant is by way of an election petition to the Sub-Divisional Officer of the division in which Sabha concerned was situated. Where no such petition has been filed, there being an alternative remedy open to the applicant, the application in writ jurisdiction is not entertainable. 1957 All L J 212 : ILR (1957) 1 All 70.

——Art. 226 — Election tribunal — Order of — Interference — (Election) — (Panchayats—U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 12 (c)).

Where an election petition is filed it is within the jurisdiction of the Sub Divisional Officer as provided by S. 12 (c) of the U. P. Panchayat Raj Act to decide the question whether a candidate is disqualified being below thirty years and the finding cannot be disturbed by the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution in the absence of any manifest error of law or want of jurisdiction on the part of the subordinate tribunal. 1957 All L J 108.

——Art. 226—Petition challenging legality of election —Election held not illegal — Subject-matter being of election dispute, mandamus would not lie. See Panchayats — Andhra Pradesh Panchayat Samithis and Zilla Parishads Act (35 of 1959), S. 65 (3). AIR 1964 Andh Pra 433 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Mandamus — Who can apply for — Election of members to be co-opted to Panchayat Samithi — Ratepayer not competent to challenge its validity.

(Obiter) A ratepayer in the Panchayat Samithi area who had nothing to do with the election under S. 6 (1) of the members to be co-opted as specified in S. 4 (1) (iii) by the President of the Panchayats in the Block, is not competent to seek the remedy by a writ of mandamus on the ground that the election was not valid. (1964) 1 Andh W R 82 : ILR (1965) Andh Pra 147 : A I R 1964 Andh Pra 433 (436) (Pr B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Scope —Election challenged on ground of corrupt practice — Securing votes through bribery or improper inducement alleged — Offence under S. 171B of I. P. C. — Connection between the offence and the candidate or his agent must be established — Burden of proof — No finding given by the Tribunal about the existence of such connection — Effect — Setting aside of the elections, without such definite finding, is an error apparent on the face of the record —Certiorari issued — Constitution of India, Art. 226— Elections—See Panchayats—Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S. 112. (1962) 2 Andh L T 230.

——Art. 226 — Election disputes — Panchayat elections — Wrong allocation of seats by Panchayat officer—Issue of writ — Art. 14 —(Panchayats — Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), (as amended by Andhra Amendment Act, 1955), S. 9 (2)).

The mere fact that in panchayat election proceedings the District Panchayat Officer has made the allocation of seats contrary to the direction of the Government does not give the petitioner (a voter) legitimate cause for complaint before the High Court under Art. 226. If the allocation is not in conformity with Art. 14 of the Constitution, the matter may require consideration. A I R 1958 Andh Pra 32 (33) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Objections to nomination — Proceedings as to — Nature—Judicial acts—What are—Jurisdiction under Art. 226. See Madras Village Panchayats Act 1950 — Rules under R. 40 (1). A I R 1957 Andh Pra 539.

——Art. 226 — Absence of name in election roll — Nomination — Validity — Error apparent on face of record under Art. 226. See Madras Village Panchayats Act 1950, S. 12. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 539.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Village Panchayat—Election of President—Flagrant breach of election law—Power of High Court to issue writ of certiorari against Election Officer — (Madras Village Panchayats Act (12 of 1948) — Rules for the Election of Presidents of Minor Panchayats, Part II, Rule 11.)

While it is a sound principle of justice that the election of a successful candidate is not to be lightly interfered with, one of the essentials of that law is also to safeguard the purity of the election process and also to see that people do not get elected by flagrant breaches of that law.

Where at an election by show of hands held for electing a President there is no counting at all by the Election Officer, the counting is neither proper nor correct and as the conclusion rests mainly on surmises of the officer, it follows that there was in fact no election in the eye of law. In such a case the High Court has jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari to quash the order of the Election Officer. (1955) Andh W R 471 : 1955 ALT 393 (Cri) : AIR 1957 Andh Pra 339 (342) (Pt D) (Prs 21, 22).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Village Panchayat—Election of President — Flagrant breach of Election Law —High Court has power to issue writ of Certiorari against Election Officer—(Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950)—Rules for the Election of Presidents of Minor Panchayats, Part II, R. 11). AIR 1955 N U C (Andh) 4812.

——Art. 226—Panchayats — Bombay Village Panchayats Act, S. 15—Nomination paper of candidate rejected —Mamlatdar rejecting appeal against order of rejection —Proper remedy is to file election petition challenging election of successful candidate — Writ petition challenging election not maintainable. 1964 Mah L J (Notes) 65.

——Art. 226—Panchayats — West Bengal Panchayat Act (1957), S. 117 — West Bengal Panchayat Rules (1958), R. 30 — A voter, who is not a candidate for office of Pradhan has no right to challenge election of Pradhan under the rule — He can challenge the same by writ petition, having no alternative remedy— Constitution of India, Art. 226—See Panchayats — West Bengal Panchayat Act (1 of 1957), S. 117. A I R 1964 Cal 340.

——Art. 226—Quo warranto — Bombay Village Panchayat Election Rules (1959), R. 7 (2) — Notice under not published one month prior to last date for filing nomination — Validity — Quo warranto — If can be issued. See Panchayats — Bombay Village Panchayats Election Rules (1959), R. 7 (2). (1963) 4 Guj L R 929.

——Art. 226—Village Panchayat elections — According to rules for the conduct of election under Bombay Village Panchayats Act it is the voters' list for each ward that plays an important part in the conduct of election — If elections are conducted in a manner which is contrary to law, a writ must issue. Panchayats —Bombay Village Panchayats Act (3 of 1959), S. 12. (1962) 3 Guj L R 56.

——Art. 226 — Election disputes — M. B. Panchayat Act (58 of 1949), S. 116—Rules under, M. B. Panchayat Rules (Smt 2008), Rr. 18, 41 — Order rejecting nomination paper — Writ petition challenging — Jurisdiction of High Court.

The Legislature in conferring finality upon the order of the election officer under R. 18 (1), intended that there should be no obstruction at the stage of scrutiny of nomination papers and that the validity of the elections, on the material grounds, should be challenged only by a petition under R. 41. This however does not mean that the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain petitions under Art. 226 challenging the order of the Election Officer rejecting the nomination paper of the petitioner but it means that the Legislature did not intend that there should be any interruption in the election at an interlocutory stage and that the matter should be examined only after the election is over and proper proceedings are commenced for challenging its validity. In this view, the petitioner has an alternative remedy under R. 41 and that cannot be held to be either inadequate or inefficacious. He must pursue that remedy and approach the High Court if occasion arises after the remedy is exhausted. AIR 1952 S C 64, Rel. on ; AIR 1955 Madh Bha 179, Discussed. Madh Bha L R 1956 (Civ) 663 : 1957 Jab L J (MB) 19 : A I R 1957 Madh Bha 38 (40, 42) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 34, 34a) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties — Election disputes — Petition challenging order of Election Officer rejecting nomination paper—State, if necessary party.

In a petition under Art. 226, challenging the order of the election officer rejecting the petitioner's nomination paper for election to the Gram Panchayat, passed under R. 18 of the M. B. Panchayat Rules, neither the State nor the Collector are interested in the controversy and there is no reason for impleading them to the petition. Madh B L R 1956 (Civ) 663 : 1957 Jab L J (MB) 19 : AIR 1957 Madh Bha 38 (42, 43) (Pt C) (Pr 37) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope—Electoral roll—Publication of—Validity—Petitioner taking advantage of— Writ Petition against others — Delay in — Maintainability. See C. P. and Berar Panchayat Rules (1948), R. 2 (ix). 1959 Jab L J 665.

——Art. 226—Election—Objection about validity of electoral rolls—Petition lies — Omission to give profession of voters in electoral roll — Result not materially affected — (C. P. and Berar Panchayat Rules (1948), Cl. 8, R. 2).

Relief for grievance connected with the process of election starting from stage of nomination and continuing upto declaration of results can be sought by way of election petition but objection taken about the validity of electoral rolls can be considered in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The omission to give the profession of voters does not vitiate the rolls. At best it is an irregularity which cannot materially affect the result of the election. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 101.

——Art. 226—Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S. 112 — Election Rules under — Non-compliance—Setting aside of election—Result of election not materially affected — Order setting aside election — Quashing of. See Madras Village Panchayats Act (10 of 1950), S. 112. AIR 1956 Mad 512.

——Art. 226 — Mysore Panchayat and Taluk Boards Election Rules, R. 37 — Mysore Village Panchayats and Local Boards Act (10 of 1959), S. 13 — Publication of result of a Village Panchayat Election—Election officer declaring result of election without Election officer giving notice of date, time and place of counting to candidates—Procedure adopted by officer is in direct contravention of R. 37 of Mysore Panchayat and Taluq Boards Elections Rules—Munsiff Court in vacation at the time of declaration of result—Petition for mandamus to direct fresh election or a recount of vote after due notice filed in High Court without filing an election petition under S. 13 of the Mysore Village Panchayats and Local Boards Act, 1957 is maintainable. (1963) 1 Mys L J 358 (DB).

——Art. 226—Mysore Panchayats and Local Boards Act (10 of 1959), S. 13—Mysore Panchayat and Local Boards Election Rules (1959), R 12 (5) — Election Officer rejecting nomination paper of petitioner, after erroneously holding that he holds office of profit—Copy of order not granted in time—Election petition by petitioner dismissed by Munsif as time-barred — High Court would exercise its powers under Art. 226 to quash election.

Where an Election Officer rejects the nomination paper of the petitioner, a candidate for a Gram Panchayat election, after erroneously holding that the petitioner holds an office of profit and also subsequently declines to grant to the petitioner a copy of the order passed by him, although he is bound to do so under R. 12 (5), the conduct of the Election Officer is such as to convince the High Court that his conduct was mala fide and that he was actuated by collateral considerations. Where, therefore, as the result of the delay in supplying a copy of the order, the petitioner is unable to file his election petition within the prescribed period and the Munsiff, before whom the time barred petition is filed, is unable to pass any order in favour of the petitioner, although he holds that the petitioner did not hold any office of profit, the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash the election in exercise of its powers under Art. 226 is still available for that purpose. The dismissal of the election petition by the Munsiff under S. 13 of the Village Panchayats and Local Boards Act cannot constitute any impediment to the exercise of that power. The interest of justice requires the exercise of that power for the preservation of the purity of election process. (1963) 1 Mys L J 288.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Panchayats — Mysore Village Panchayats (Election of the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman) Rules (1959), Rr. 10 (h), 10 (e) — Scope—Ballot paper—Validity of—Putting more than one mark against a candidate's name or affixing a mark dissimilar to one prescribed — Ballot paper not void —Rule 10 (e) directory—See Panchayats—Mysore Village Panchayats (Election of the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman) Rules (1959), R. 10 (h). ('62) 40 Mys L J 283 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Writ Petition — Election officer rejecting nomination paper of petitioners on the ground of disqualification under S. 11 (1) (c) of Mysore Village Panchayats Act, 1959 - Deferring scrutiny of nomination paper beyond prescribed date—No ground for allowing the writ petition

Writ petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India for quashing the order of the Election Officer rejecting the nomination paper of the petitioner on the ground that he was suffering from a disqualification under S. 11 (1) (c) of Mysore Village Panchayats Act, 1959:

Held a person who commits an offence under S. 409, I P. C. commits an offence involving moral turpitude and stands disqualified from membership—Election officer's order rejecting nomination on that ground cannot be quashed.

The mere fact that the Returning Officer deferred the scrutiny of the nomination papers beyond a day for which period alone under the Act he could have deferred is no ground for holding that the order of the officer is liable to be quashed. Writ petition is dismissed. ILR (1961) Mys 1053.

——Art. 226 — Nomination paper filed by A whose name was not on the Electoral Roll — Election officer including his name in the Roll at the time of scrutiny and accepting his nomination paper — B the other contesting candidate not objecting to A's nomination at the time of scrutiny as required by R. 9 of Gram Panchayat Rules —B having failed in the election challenging A's nomination by application under Art. 226—Held, the Court will not interfere with the order of the Election Officer as B who should have objected to A's nomination at the time of scrutiny itself had failed to do so. See Panchayats — Orissa Gram Panchayat Rules (1949), R. 9. ILR (1963) Cut 499.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Election of Mukhiya — Petitioner's nomination-paper wrongly refused—Election of Mukhiya over before representation of petition — Remedy is by way of filing election petition before Election Tribunal and not by writ application — Election. 1965 B L J R 787.

——Art. 226—Panchayat election — Entire election challenged - Election can be quashed by grant of Writ 1965 B L J R 344 : A I R 1965 Pat 459 (462) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election proceedings — Issue of writ—Rejection of nomination paper for wrong dating — Error not material — Rejection illegal — Writ can be issued under Art. 226. See Panchayats — Bihar Panchayat Election Rules (1959), Rule 21 (3). 1961 B L J R 43.

——Art. 226 — Election dispute — Erroneous order rejecting nomination paper — Powers of High Court to quash — Error whether apparent on face of record.

Where the nomination paper of the petitioner for election to the office of a Mukhiya under the Bihar Panchayat Raj Act was rejected on the ground that he was "in the service of the State Government" within the meaning of S. 79 (b) of the Panchayat Raj Act, being interested in the fair price shop run by his relative under a licence granted by the State Government, the relationship not being that of master and servant, the order is erroneous, in law. The error being apparent on the face of the record, the High Court will in the exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution, quash the order. The provisions of S. 84 B of the Act do not prevent such a course being taken. 1960 B L J R 503 : 1960 Pat L R 203 : AIR 1960 Pat 589 (590, 591) (Pt B) (Prs 2, 4, 5).

——Art. 226 — Writ against an order in election petition—Finding of fact by prescribed authority—Interference with — Finding based on no legal evidence—Finding is vitiated. 1965 Cur L J 815 (Punj).

——Art 226—Election of sarpanch — Disqualification for—Decision as to question of fact — No interference in writ petition. See Panchayats—Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953), S. 6. 67 Pun L R 161 : 1965 Cur L J 37.

——Art. 226 — Election of Chairman and Vice-Chairman—Notice to some members about election mentioning wrong place as venue of election—8 out of 23 members unable to participate in election on account of mistake - Election is initially void — Members are entitled to redress under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Chairman and Vice-Chairman (Elections) Rules (1961), R. 3. 1963 Cur L J 251 (Punj).

——Art 226—Rajasthan Panchayat Samitis (Co-operation of Members) Rules (1959), R. 3 — Process of election by co-option — Returning Officer illegally preventing petitioners from casting votes — Petitioners have adequate remedy under R. 3.

The High Court is slow to interfere in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 where the petitioners have an alternative remedy. The existence of an alternative remedy no doubt cannot oust the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art 226 but unless exceptional circumstances exist it is not the practice of the High Court to interfere till the alternative remedy is exhausted.

The process of election by co-option commences with the issue of a notice under S. 11 of the Act. Where it was during the process of election by co-option that the Returning Officer was alleged to have illegally prevented the petitioners from casting their votes.

Held, that the petitioners had adequate remedy by way of an election petition under R. 3 and there were no exceptional circumstances in the case which entitled them to relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1962 Raj L W 197 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 1214.

——Art. 226 —Rajasthan Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules (1960) Rr. 14 and 78 and 50—Process of Election when commences and when ends—Process of co-option is part of process of election—Breach of roles committed during course of co-option — Election petition under R. 78 lies — High Court would not interfere under Art. 226.

The process of co option is a part of the process of election and the process of election in the wider sense commences with the issue of a notification under Rule 14 and only ends with the publication of names of co-opted members in case where such co-option becomes necessary. An election petition under Rule 78 would therefore lie for any breach of the Rajasthan Panchayat Act or the rules committed during the course of co option proceedings including the non-compliance with rule 50. The petitioners thus have an alternative remedy by way of election petition under R. 78. The High Court, therefore, would not interfere in the exercise of its extra-ordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226. 1962 Raj L W 125 : ILR (1961) 11 Raj 1085.

——Art. 226—Notice calling upon Nyaya Panchayat to elect sarpanch – Deficiencies in election after issue of notice—Validity of election challenged by petition under Art. 226—Alternate remedy by way of election petition under R. 78 available to petitioner — High Court would not interfere in its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 — Panchayats — (Rajasthan) Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules (1960) R. 78. 1961 Raj L W 605.

——Art. 226 — Standard of literacy prescribed by section—Not vague — Does not violate Art. 14 of the Constitution of India – Election. See Panchayats—Rajasthan Panchayats Act (21 of 1953), S. 13 (1). I L R (1960) 10 Raj 1600.

——Art, 226—Writ petition for setting aside election of Sarpanch—Whole election set aside on ground of breach of mandatory provision — Failure to implead members of Panchayat as parties — Not an adequate ground for recalling writ — Rajasthan Panchayat (General) Rules (1954), R. 4. 1960 Raj L W 427 : I L R (1960) 10 Raj 845.

——Art. 226 — Tehsildar appointed as Returning Officer under Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules — Whether can be replaced — No contravention of R. 3 —Writ petition whether maintainable. See Panchayats — Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules (1954), R. 3. I L R (1959)9 Raj 461.

——Art. 226 — Election disputes — Panchayat elections — Issue of writ of certiorari — Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules (1954), Rr. 19 and 40 — Defeated candidate — Meaning of — Right to file election petition — (Panchayats — Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules (1954), Rr. 19 and 40).

Where a candidate was never given an opportunity of entering into a contest for election and solicit the votes of the voters, as his name was rejected by the Returning Officer, though he was a candidate at the election, he could not be called a defeated candidate, and it was not possibie for him to file an election petition under R. 19 read with R. 40 as a defeated candidate. Hence, where the applicant was a candidate for the election, but could not by himself file an election petition because he could not be called a 'defeated candidate.'

Held, that he was entitled to apply to the High Court for issue of a writ as it was not possible for him to file an election petition to safeguard his rights which had been invaded by the rejection of his nomination paper. 1957 Raj L W 306 : I L R (1957) 7 Raj 180 : AIR 1957 Raj 163 (164, 165) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Application under, challenging decision of Returning Officer declaring candidate as disqualified—Maintainability.

An application under Art. 226 challenging the decision of the Returning Officer declaring that the applicant was disqualified under S. 11 (g), Rajasthan Panchayat Act to stand as a candidate for the election of sarpanch is maintainable as the applicant has no remedy under R. 19 of the Panchayat Election Rules since he is not a defeated candidate. 1957 Raj L W 118 : I L R (1956) 6 Raj 994 : AIR 1957 Raj 27 (28) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Error in description—Rajasthan Panchayat Election Rules (1954), R. 20 — Election—Misdescription in notification about election being held in M instead of G — None misled—Technical mistake —Election is not invalid. 1956 Raj L W 311 : I L R (1956) 6 Raj 797 : AIR 1956 Raj 188 (190) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

44 (f). Right of electors.

——Art. 226 — Press Note issued inviting electorate to get themselves photographed for purposes of ensuing election, cannot be set aside without declaring rules under which they are issued ultra vires — Representation of the People Act (1950), S. 28— Representation of the People (Preparation of Electoral Rolls) Rules (1956), R. 27-A.

Orders or Press Notes inviting the electorates to get themselves photographed for purposes of identification as required by Rule 27-A of the Representation of the People (Preparation of Electoral Rolls) Rules, 1956, framed in exercise of powers under S. 28 of the Representation of the People Act, 1950 cannot be set aside and/or quashed, without declaring the provisions of the Act or the rules to be ultra vires. AIR 1961 Cal 289 (293, 294) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Valid draft publications of Roll— Petitioner's name not included — His remedy. See Representation of the People Act (1950), S. 23. AIR 1954 Orissa 87 (DB).

44 (g). Rejection of ballot paper.

——Art. 226—Rejection of ballot paper on ground of wrong marking—Principles involved.

Where the only ground for rejection of ballot paper was that the cross mark was put by the voter not entirely in the column for voting against the name of the candidate but was put above the column, Held, that so long as it was wholly outside the column meant for the rival candidate the intention of the voter was clear. In such cases the principle to be followed by the Election Officer was to ascertain the true intention of the voter and so long as it could be unequivocally gathered, merely because the cross mark is not wholly in the proper place, the vote should not be rejected. I L R (1964) Cut 305.

——Art. 226—Election dispute — Rejection of ballot paper — Direction to voters not to put mark against name of more than one candidate—Ballot paper with two marks against name of one candidate or one mark in front of name of candidate instead of within space ruled for marks—Rejection illegal. (1875) L R 10 C P 733 and (1886) 17 Q B D 805 and (1907) 2 K B 313, Rel. on. AIR 1964 Pat 51 (52, 53) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question about validity or otherwise of ballot paper — Is a question of law — High Court has therefore, power to go into the question in writ proceedings. 1964 Cur L J 293 : ('64) 66 Pun L R 681.

44 (h). Interlocutory orders.

——Art. 226—Election petition—Proceedings before tribunal — Interlocutory orders — Interference by High Court under Art. 226—When open.

The object of providing a right of appeal under S. 116-A of the Representation of the People Act is obviously that proceedings before the tribunal should go on with expedition and without interruption, and that any error in its decision should be set right in an appeal under that section. Therefore, it would be proper exercise of discretion by High Court under Art. 226 to decline to interfere with interlocutory orders. But an error in a decision is not the same thing as a decision without jurisdiction. If an interlocutory order is shown to be without jurisdiction and the Court thinks that refusal to interfere will materially prejudice the aggrieved party to such an extent as to make the petition virtually infructuous, it may be necessary to interfere.

Where therefore, in writ petition arising from proceedings before tribunal in election petition the balance of convenience is in favour of interference because it will advance and not hinder the principle of expeditions disposal and where refusal may irretrievably prejudice the interests of the winning candidate and of the electorate, the rule of caution and self-restraint will not restrain the High Court from interfering with interlocutory orders clearly without jurisdiction where refusal will result in injustice. AIR 1965 All 450 (452) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election — Issue of writ — (Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 19).

Any election held to fill up an alleged casual vacancy in the municipal board which has not in fact arisen must be ignored as being void and of no effect. Therefore an election of the kind while the petition against the removal of the petitioner is pending cannot constitute a ground on which the petition should fail for the reason that as the person elected could be removed only by an election petition no effective relief could be given to the petitioner. 1957 All W R (H C) 864 : 1957 All L J 885 : AIR 1959 All 26 (28) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Interlocutory order — Interference by writ—Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 83).

Whether the Election Tribunal rightly decided that certain paragraphs of the election petition failed to fulfil the requirements of S. 83 of the Representation of the People Act, or that certain paragraphs failed to disclose any ground upon which the election could be avoided are the questions which the Tribunal has jurisdiction to decide. If the petitioner considers the decision of the Tribunal to be wrong his remedy is to challenge the decision in appeal from the final order of the Tribunal. The High Court would not ordinarily be justified, in the exercise of its discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution, in reviewing the grounds upon which the Tribunal's decision was founded, unless the decision is on the face of it capricious. The rule that High Court will not issue a writ in an interlocutory matter is, however, not absolute. Where a Tribunal has committed an error of procedure at a stage of the trial, interference is desirable. 1957 ALJ 930 : ILR (1957) 2 All 205 : (1957-58) 13 E L R 310 : AIR 1958 All 858 (860, 861) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Interlocutory orders — Order in election petitions – Issue of writ.

The High Court will not ordinarily be justified in the exercise of its discretion under Art 226 in interfering with interlocutory orders save possibly in those cases in which the order is plainly arbitrary or capricious. It is of the first importance that election petitions should be disposed of speedily— the Representation of the People Act, 1951 itself requires it —and there is no greater obstacle to this end being achieved than by the Court entertaining petitions against interlocutory orders of Election Tribunal save in very exceptional circumstances. 1957 All L J 952 : AIR 1958 All 719 (720) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Error of law in decision of Election Tribunal – Issue of writ — (Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 82).

An error of law in the decision of the preliminary issue whether a candidate who withdrew his candidature was a necessary party to the election petition which the Eletion Tribunal was competent to determine is no ground for quashing the order of the Tribunal in the exercise of powers of issuing a writ of ceritorari. AIR 1952 S C 179, Foll. ILR (1954) 1 All 515 : 1953 All W R (H C) 216 : 1953 All L J 323: AIR 1953 All 633 (637) (Pt D) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election petition—Preliminary objections regarding non-compliance of mandatory provisions relating to copies of election petition — Duty of Tribunal to decide — No decision—Writ under Art. 226 of Constitution should be issued. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 90 (3). AIR 1963 Andh Pra 14.

——Art. 226 – Election Tribunal holding petition not liable to be dismissed for non-compliance with Section 81 (3), Representation of the People Act — It commits error of law apparent on face of record— Writ under Art. 226 of Constitution is called for — Contention in writ merely seeking to restrict scope of trial of petition and objection based on non-compliance of S. 83 — Issue of writ under Art. 226 is not warranted. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 81 (3). AIR 1963 Andh Pra 14.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari—Election petition—Order allowing amendment of petition passed—Question as to propriety of order can be raised in appeal under S. 116-A, Representation of People Act from final decision—High Court will not interfere with interlocutory order allowing amendment. (1960) 1 Andh W R 166 : 1960 Andh L T 416 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 421 (422) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interlocutory order in election petition—Interference.

The High Court will not ordinarily interfere in writ petition under Art. 226 with an interlocutory order passed in the course of an enquiry before an Election Tribunal. Interference can be made against the decision on an interlocutory order, if the order goes to the very root of the case or a reversal of the order is necessary to prevent extraordinary inconvenience and embarrassment in the conduct of the case: AIR 1959 S C 422 and AIR 1960 Andh Pra 421 and AIR 1958 Bom 397 and AIR 1961 Kerala 183 Foll. 1960 Ker L T 1267 : 1961 Ker L J 16 : AIR 1961 Ker 188 (191) (Pt A) (Pr 32).

——Art. 226 — Election petition — Interim order allowing recount—Interference.

Where the recount ordered by the Election Tribunal is not such as can be said to go to the very root of the election proceeding, the High Court will not issue a writ under Art. 226. Moreover, a writ is generally not issued under Art. 226 where the orders asked to be vacated are on interlocutory applications before the lower tribunals. AIR 1959 S C 422 and AIR 1960 Andh Pra 421 and AIR 1958 Bom 397, Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 1252 : 1960 Ker L J 1396 : AIR 1961 Ker 186 (187) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art 226—Interlocutory order—Election disputes—Interference—Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 92.

Should the decision in the interlocutory order be such as to affect the very root of the case the powers under Art. 226 or 227 may well be exercised. Another exception is that should reversal of the interlocutory order be necessary to prevent extra-ordinary inconvenience and embarrassment in the conduct of the case certiorari may be issued.

An order passed by an Election Tribunal rejecting an objection to the examination of a witness summoned by the election petitioner is not an order covered by the exceptions stated above, AIR 1959 S C 422 and AIR 1960 Andh Pra 421, Foll., AIR 1958 Bom 397 and AIR 1958 S C 687 and AIR 1958 S C 698 and (1892) 37 Law Ed. 486, Rel. on. That a party would be required to produce enormous evidence in rebuttal is not such a ground as would cause extra-ordinary inconvenience and embarrassment in the conduct of the case. 1960 Ker L T 1262 : 1960 Ker L J 1519 : AIR 1961 Ker 183 (185, 186) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5, 6, 7).

——Art. 226 — Election disputes — Interlocutory order —Interference under Art. 226— Order of Election Tribunal rejecting petitioner's application asking for dismissal of election petition for non-compliance with S. 90 (3), Representation of the People Act, 1951 — Certiorari to quash order — Not proper —No error apparent on face of record.

Where an Election Tribunal dismisses on merits an application filed by the respondent asking for dismissal of the election petition for non-compliance with S. 90 (3) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, and the respondent files an application under Art. 226 to quash the order, the order being interlocutory it would be a proper exercise of discretion under Art. 226 to decline to interfere with the order passed by the Tribunal. The petitioner can raise the question of the dismissal of the petition under S. 90 (3) of the Act if and when he is required to file an appeal against the order that may be passed by the Tribunal disposing of the election petition. AIR 1959 S C 422, Rel. on.

The fact that the matter decided by an interlocutory order of the Tribunal is such as to affect the very root of the case is not material. Apart from this, it is not a case in which the decision of the Election Tribunal can be quashed on the ground of there being errors of law apparent on the face of the record, since the questions raised by the application under S. 90 (3) of the Act were such on which there could conceivably be two opinions. An alleged error which can be established only by lengthy and complicated arguments and which is not self-evident is not an error apparent on the face of the record. AIR 1960 S C 137, Foll. 1962 Madh Pra L J 1112 : 1962 Jab L J 1026 : 1962 M. P. C 493 : A I R 1963 Madh Pra 140 (142, 143) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election case - Interlocutory orders by Election Tribunal — Issue of writ—Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 116 A.

Respondent No. 2 filed an election petition under S. 81 of the Representation of the People Act challenging the return of the petitioner on several grounds. By an order the Election Tribunal permitted the respondent No. 2 to amend his election petition.

Held, that amended election law provided a right of appeal against a decision of the Tribunal to the High Court under section 116-A and its intention was obviously that any error in its decision should be set right in an appeal under that section. High Court, should therefore, decline to interfere with interlocutory orders while exercising discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1959 S C 422, Rel. on. (1960) M P L J (Notes) 209.

——Art. 226 —Interlocutory orders —Interference— Powers of High Court — Election tribunal—Order allowing amendment—Election tribunal refusing to decide certain issues as preliminary issues —Interference by writ of prohibition—Principles—Existence of another remedy by way of appeal — If bar to interference by writ — Representation of the People Act (1951) (as amended in 1956), Ss. 81 and 90 (1).

The power and jurisdiction of the Election Tribunal constituted under the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (as amended by Act (27 of 1956), are not plenary but limited, and the tribunal has to function within the limits set out by the Act, it being a creation of the Act. The jurisdiction to allow amendment which it has, by reason of the application of the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, to the trial of election petitions, is by S. 90 (1) of the Act, as amended in 1956 "subject to the provisions of this Act," which includes S. 81, which prescribes the period of limitation within which an election petition has to be filed. The power of the Election Tribunal to order amendment by invoking the provisions of O. 6, R. 17, Civil Procedure Code, is, thus subject to this limitation prescribed by S. 81. Where therefore, by amendment, a party applying for it seeks to allege a new fact and not merely to explain or clarify a material fact already stated, as a ground for setting aside the election, the same cannot be allowed if the application is made after period prescribed by S. 81 for filing a petition had elapsed. An order allowing an amendment in such cases would be beyond the jurisdiction of the tribunal and is liable to be quashed by the High Court by a writ of certiorari especially where it is also vitiated by an apparent error. AIR 1957 S C 444, Applied.

The fact that the order is an interlocutory order and that there is another remedy open by way of appeal under S. 116-A of the Act would not be a bar to the issue of a writ.

Similarly where the High Court is satisfied that an order of the election tribunal as to the order in which the issues are to be tried and refusing to try certain issues as preliminary issues, is an erroneous order which, if allowed to continue in force, would enlarge the inquiry by evidence which at a later stage would have to be discarded, the High Court will interfere and issue a direction to the tribunal to try certain issues as preliminary issues before embarking upon an inquiry on the other issues and the merits. The policy of the Representation of the People Act, which is to have an expeditious disposal of election petitions would be frustrated if the erroneous order of the election tribunal in such a case is not set aside. The fact that the determination of the matter covered by the issues to be tried as preliminary issues involve difficulty can be no justification for the tribunal to put off this consideration. It would be improper and illegal for the tribunal to postpone the determination of those issues on such grounds. 71 M L W 25; (1958) 1 M L J 110 : I L R (1958) Mad 257 : A I R 1958 Mad 187 (196) (Pt C) (Prs 24, 25, 26) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election — Writs in pending cases— Order of Election Tribunal allowing amendment of election petition — Issue of writ. (1958) 1 Mad L J 110 : A I R 1958 Mad 187 (195, 197) (Pt B) (Prs 21, 28) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election Tribunal's amending election petition sent to it by election commission, acts without jurisdiction. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 83. AIR 1954 Mys 102 (DB).

——Art. 226 —Election case —Setting aside election— Interference under Art. 226. See Panchayats —C. P. and Berar Panchayats Act (1 of 1947), S. 14. 1958 Nag L J (Notes) 114.

——Art. 226 — Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 97—Election petition—Interlocutory order —Recriminatory petition—Writ against order holding recriminatory petition as time barred—High Court, after holding order of Tribunal as erroneous, cannot refuse to interfere on ground of undue delay or existence of alternative remedy. 66 Pun L R 185, Reversed. AIR 1964 S C 1200, AIR 1959 S C 422 and AIR 1956 Punj 92, Rel. on. S. Gurmej Singh Hira Singh v. Election Tribunal, Gurdaspur, ILR (1964) 2 Punj 243 : 66 Pun L R 589 : AIR 1964 Punj 337 (341, 343, 345, 346) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 9, 10, 21, 22) (FB).

——Art. 226—Election dispute — Other remedy open —Interlocutory orders—Interference. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 90 (3). A I R 1963 Raj 157 (DB).

44 (i). Order without jurisdiction or illegal orders.

——Art. 226 — O. 9, R. 9, Civil P. C. applies to election petition — Election Tribunal does not become functus officio after dismissal of petition for default —High Court will not interfere with order setting aside dismissal for default. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 80. 1964 All L J 155.

——Art. 226—Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 88 (1) — Election petition dismissed by Tribunal—Case remanded by High Court — Appointment of another Tribunal is not contemplated. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 86 (1). AIR 1959 All 697.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Election petition—Allegation of corrupt practice — Lists of particulars — Application for amendment —Rejection of—Interference by High Court—(Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 83 (2) and (3) and 123 (3).

The petitioner filed an election petition challenging the validity of the election of the respondent. The corrupt practice alleged against the respondent was under S. 123 (3) of the Representation of the People Act (1951). By means of an application for amendment under S. 83 (3), the petitioner sought to add new instances by deleting certain instances already mentioned and by transposing the names given in one schedule into another schedule. The Election Tribunal dismissed the application:

Held, Even though some of the reasons given by the Tribunal for rejecting the application were erroneous, it could not be held that the Tribunal acted without jurisdiction or in excess of it or failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in it by law. There was also no error apparent on the face of the record so as to call for interference under Art. 226. (1956-57) 12 Ele. L R 156 (Andh Pra).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Powers of High Court under—Extent - Decision of Returning Officer—Interference with, in writ jurisdiction—Propriety.

It is true that the High Court, while exercising its powers under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution, does not act as a Court of Appeal. But this does not mean that it has no jurisdiction to correct the decision of an Officer, even when it is patently wrong. The powers of the High Court under these two articles are very wide and it is open to the High Court to set aside in appropriate cases the order of an Officer which is contrary to or not in accordance with law. The High Court's power under Art. 226 is not restricted to the writs specifically referred to in that article, but it has also power to issue to any person or authority, directions, orders or other writs for the enforcement of any of the fundamental rights and for any other purpose. The question whether the power should be exercised in any particular case must be decided having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Where, therefore, the decision of a Returning Officer in accepting the nomination paper is patently wrong being in express contravention of a statutory provision, the High Court has jurisdiction to correct it under Arts. 226 and 227. 65 Bom L R 123 : 1963 Mah L J 351 : ILR (1962) Bom 810 : A I R 1963 Bom 183 (186, 187) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Election disputes—Issue of writ — (Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 82, 90 (3)).

In an election petition filed by the respondent against the petitioner, the latter submitted that as the provisions of S 82, Representation of the People Act, 1951, were not complied with, the petition should be dismissed in limine under S. 90 (3) read with S. 82 (a). The Election Tribunal disallowed this objection holding that the provisions of S. 82 were complied with and the election petition could not be dismissed under S. 90 (3). The petitioner challenged the correctness of that order under Arts. 226 and 227, Constitution of India :

Held, that the objection raised by the petitioner went to the root of the matter, and the petition under under Art. 226 was maintainable. ILR (1958) Bom 732 : 60 Bom L R 353 : AIR 1958 Bom 397 (398, 399) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art 226 — Election — Holding of, contrary to law.

If the States or the public officers concerned seek to hold an election contrary to the law, a voter has a right to come to the High Court for the issue of a writ in order to stop the same. 58 Cal W N 443 : AIR 1955 Cal 83 (85) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 226 — Representation of the People Act (1951). S. 83—Election petition— Dismissal for non-appearance of petitioner is contrary to law — Subsequent order of restoration will not be quashed in exercise of discretion under Art. 226. See Representation of People Act (1951), S. 83. AIR 1960 J & K 25 (FB).

——Art. 226—Co-operative society of 33 members—Notice of general meeting for election of new members of managing committee not complying with period prescribed by bye-law — Three members remaining absent—Elections contested—Writ petition challenging elections held on ground of invalidity of meeting - Relief by way of quashing elections can be granted notwithstanding that term of old managing committee had already expired — Old committee can continue till fresh elections are held. 1962 M P C 487 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 231 : 1963 M P L J 35 : 1963 Jab L J 193 : ILR (1963) Madh Pra 1007.

——Art 226 — Election dispute—Interference with interloeutory order of Election Tribunal — Scope of inquiry.

If there is no charge at all in the election petition of the commission of the corrupt practice of bribery and there are no averments in the election petition from which such a charge can be spelled out, but the Tribunal decides to investigate the truth of an allegation advanced at the stage of the trial, that the returned candidate had committed the corrupt practice of bribery, the Tribunal would have no jurisdiction to embark on such an investigation, and on that basis a writ of prohibition can issue to restrain the Tribunal from exercising a jurisdiction it had no right at all to assume. Similarly, if facts are alleged in an election petition, but the facts, even if proved, can never amount to a charge of the corrupt practices of bribery, the Tribunal would have no jurisdiction to investigate the truth of those facts. It is for the Tribunal to decide in the first instance whether the averments are sufficient to disclose a triable issue. It has then to decide whether those averments have been proved. All these will be within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal. 71 Mad L W

481 : (1958) 2 Mad L J 237 : ILR (1958) Mad 810 : AIR 1958 Mad 553 (554, 555) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ against Election Tribunal.

Where the Election Tribunal overrules an objection as to its jurisdiction to entertain an election petition but it is found by the High Court that the election petition is not maintainable against respondents 1 and 2 so far as a particular relief is concerned, the Election Tribunal will have no jurisdiction to proceed with the trial of the petition in respect of that relief and the proper order to be passed by the High Court under Art. 226 in such a case is not an order directing the issue of a writ of certiorari but really an order in the nature of a writ of prohibition prohibiting the Election Tribunal from proceeding with the trial of the election petition so far as that relief is concerned. 1955 Mad WN 741 : 69 Mad L W 481 : ILR (1956) Mad 390 : (1955) 2 Mad L J 629 : AIR 1956 Mad 85 (88) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election — Defect of unsubstantial character — Giving serial number from superseded electoral roll — Speaking judgment — Quashing of. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 36 (4). AIR 1957 Raj 189 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Election—Order of disqualification—Quashing of order. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 98. AIR 1957 Raj 189 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Withdrawal of election petition — Order allowing ex parte respondent to continue application—Legality. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 117. AIR 1954 Raj 158 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 83 (3) and 98—Election petition—Amendment—Setting aside of election—Decision erroneous on face of it. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 83 (3). AIR 1954 V P 44.

44 (j). Miscellaneous.

——Art. 226 — Election under S. 11 (4) (i) (a) of Allahabad University Act (3 of 1921) — Election not held according to system of proportional representation by means of single transferable vote is void and cannot be protected by doctrine of internal management. See Allahabad University Act (3 of 1921), S. 11 (4) (i) (a). AIR 1966 All 45.

——Art. 226 — Bye-law of society prescribing limit of at least 15 days notice for election meeting—Notice sent by post—Time required for posting to be considered while computing 15 days — Provision mandatory — Notice short of 15 days — Meeting vitiated. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 231.

——Art. 226 — Writ in election dispute—Exercise of jurisdiction by High Court — Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (23 of 1961), Ss. 13, 37 and 40 —Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets (General) Rules (1962), R. 21—Rule is directory and not mandatory — Renewal of licence after prescribed period does not invalidate license — Writ petition against acceptance of nomination paper of a candidate on ground that he was not a valid license-holder — Interference by High Court. 1965 Cur L J 488 : ILR (1965) 2 Punj 65 : 67 Pun L R 665.

——Art. 226 — Petition under, for setting aside election to Market Committee under Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act (1961)—Grounds vague—Election will not be set aside. AIR 1954 Bom 116, Rel. on. ('64) 66 Pun L R 1000.

——Art. 226 — Writ petition challenging election proceeding—Proceeding stayed ad interim—Desirability of quick disposal of petition—Petition should not be kept pending for long time. 1963 Cur L J 321 (Punj).

——Art. 226 — Election dispute — Maintainability of writ petition — (Elections — Cantonments Electoral Rules (1945) (as amended in 1954), Rr. 42, 43, Proviso).

The Cantonment Electoral Rules, 1945, contemplate that finality would attach to the roll as prepared and published after following the machinery given in Rr. 6 to 13, and this seems to be particularly so in view of the proviso to R. 43. A voter would therefore be justified in agitating the question of defective and improper rolls even at a preliminary stage by a writ petition and there is no reason why he should wait till the entire election is over and then file an election petition in which he may be completely precluded from taking up the grounds.

Even though there is a provision that election can be challenged only by way of an election petition before a tribunal created by the Rules, the jurisdiction of the High Court which is derived from the Constitution can in no way be affected. The High Court can interfere in a suitable case in exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction conferred by Art. 226. AIR 1957 S C 694, Disting. 60 Punj L R 66 : ILR (1958) Punj 775 : AIR 1958 Punj 356 (360, 361) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 12).

——Art. 226 — Applicability — Elected candidate under disqualification under T. C. Hindu Religious Institution Act on date of nomination and election —Application under Article if the proper remedy of aggrieved candidate. See T. C. Hindu Religious Institution Act (15 of 1950), S. 67 (2). AIR 1955 Trav Co 42 (DB).

45. Election tribunal, writ against.

See Note 5.

46. Eminent persons, writ against.

See Note 5.

47. English law, applicability.

——Art. 226—Powers under, how to be exercised.

The reference, in Art. 226, to English Common Law writs, seems to indicate that in exercising its discretionary powers under the Article, the High Court ought to follow generally the principles on which prerogative writs are issued in England. ILR (1952) Madh Bha 231 : A I R 1950 Madh B 46 (51) (Pt G) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court to issue writs under — Consideration of English principles and decisions.

Article 226 is not confined to the particular forms of writs obtained in England and mentioned in the Article but covers a much wider ground and jurisdiction. It will not, therefore, be proper to understand and interpret the scope and ambit of Art. 226 and the nature, width and content of the powers conferred by that article, in the light or by application of the English principles of the Court's jurisdiction either in actions or writs or other proceedings. Having regard to the language of Art. 226, and the variety of matters which it may comprehend and the purposes, which are not defined, for which directions can be given under the article, no question of maintainability of the petition as such under the article can normally arise and the grant or refusal of a petition under the article will largely be a matter of discretion which undoubtedly vested in the Court. (1963) 2 Lab L J 304 : A I R 1964 Mad 335 (338, 346) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 14).

——Art. 226—English precedents, value of.

In evolving their own case law under Art. 226 of the Constitution, which confers on High Courts far wider powers than those exercised by the King's Bench Division in England, it is neither necessary nor is it possible for the Indian High Courts to follow the precedents in English prerogative writ and other writ case law, in particular the distinction between writs of course or ex debito justitiae and what are known as discretionary writs. The only broad criterion that the Courts in India can apply is whether in view of the nature of the case and the illegality alleged and the wrong complained of, a relief by way of writ is the correct and appropriate remedy. There is no such thing in Art. 226 as a writ of course or a writ by right. The writs which lie under Art. 226 (1) are all discretionary writs which are dependent on the facts of each case, and the nature of the illegality and wrong alleged. 1952 Mad W N 200 : 1952-1 Mad L J 401 : 1952-3 S T C 77 : A I R 1952 Mad 814 (816, 817) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court to issue writs —Nature and ambit of — Power of judicial review — Restrictions voluntarily imposed by High Court on the exercise of that power — Principles of English law in the matter of issue of writs how far applicable.

It is now well established that the essential purpose of Art. 226 as well as Art. 227 is to protect fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution, to correct legislative or executive excesses or abuse of power and generally to see that all persons exercising authority and all tribunals and authorities including in appropriate cases a Government are kept within the bounds of their jurisdiction or sphere of authority or power all of which ideas are compendiously expressed in the term 'judicial review'. That power of judicial review is therefore conferred upon Courts with a view to strike down the purported exercise of power which does not exist or to correct excessive exercise or abuse of power that actually exists and is not intended to enable or empower the Courts themselves to exercise that power.

The correct view to take in the matter of the exercise by High Courts of their power or jurisdiction under Art. 226 is that the restrictions that they voluntarily impose upon themselves in exercising that power or jurisdiction are not derived from the technicalities of English law which govern the issue of writs of a particular description but are those intended to maintain the character of that power as the power of judicial review. While guidance can be taken from the principles of English Law in the matter of issue of writs, recognition of any restriction which may conceivably render the Court helpless to interfere in a case which clearly calls for interference either for the protection of fundamental rights or for upholding the Constitution or to correct a clear or manifest injustice would be an abdication of power which it is not open to a High Court to do. In the last analysis, the discretion whether or not to interfere and if so, what the manner and extent of such interference should be must depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, subject no doubt to principles and considerations appropriate to the idea of judicial review. (1963) 2 Mys L J 383 : A I R 1964 Mys 159 (162, 163) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226, Preamble — Rules of natural justice — Precedents — American decisions on due process — Preference to English decisions in India. ILR (1953) Punj 140 : AIR 1953 Punj 3 (15) (Pt D) (Pr 47) (DB).

48. Estoppel against applying.

——Art. 32 — Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895), S. 6 (1) — Person applying under for appointment to office — If can challenge its constitutionality on ground of violation of his fundamental right.

The petitioner had the right to make an application for the new village office and it was accepted by the Revenue Divisional Officer. Respondents 1 to 3, however, passed orders adverse to him and in favour of respondent 4 acting on the principle of discrimination on the ground of descent only as embodied in S. 6 (1) of the Act.

Held, that it was open to the petitioner to say that S. 6 (1) of the Act in so far as it violates his fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 16 of the Constitution is void and his application for appointment must, therefore, be decided on merits. A I R 1958 Andh Pra 322, Disting. Gazulal Dasaratha Rama Rao v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1961) 2 S C R 931 : 1961 Andh L T 107 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (SC) 63 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (SC) 63 : (1961) 1 S C J 310 : (1961) 2 S C A 410 : A I R 1961 S C 564 (572) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Arts. 226 and 32 — Where the liability of the assessee to pay evaded tax arises under the settlement voluntarily entered into by him with the Central Government, such a settlement cannot be questioned by preferring a petition under Art 32 Baburao Narayanrao Sanas v. Union of India, (1954) 26 I T R 725 : AIR 1955 S C 257 (257, 258) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 226 and 32 — Article has no application to voluntary actions — Voluntary settlment under S. 8-A of the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (1947) — Petitioner cannot assail the settlement on ground that certain provisions of the Act were void (Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (1947), S. 8-A).

Article 32 of the Constitution is not intended for relief against the voluntary actions of a person.

During the pendency of the investigation under Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act, 1947, the petitioner applied for settlement under the provisions of S. 8-A. The Central Government accepted this proposal and the claim for evaded income-tax, was thus finally settled by mutual agreement. Part of this amount was paid in instalments as agreed. When a part remained unpaid, the petitioner preferred a petition under the provisions of Art. 32 of the Constitution alleging that he had been advised that the entire proceedings under the Act which has resulted in the imposition upon him of a liability and in the payment already made were wholly illegal and ultra vires. In the grounds of the petition it was stated that Ss. 5, 6, 7 and 8 of Act 30 of 1947 were invalid and ultra vires in so far as they contravene the provisions of Arts. 14, 19 (1) (f) and 31 of the Constitution. The petition was based on the ruling of the Supreme Court in A I R 1954 S C 545 which was in the meanwhile given:

Held, that the petition was misconceived. Whatever tax the petitioner had already paid, or whatever was still recoverable from him, was being recovered on the basis of the settlement proposed by him and accepted by the Central Government. In this situation unless and until the petitioner could establish that his consent was improperly procured and that he was not bound thereby he could not complain that any of his fundamental rights has been contravened for which he could claim relief under Art. 32 of the Constitution. Gopal Das v. Union of India, 1955 S C J 60 : (1954) 26 I T R 722 : (1955) 1 M L J (SC) 19 : 1955 Andh W R (SC) 19 : 1955 S C A 624 : 1955 S C R 773 : A I R 1955 S C 1 (2, 3) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Estoppel — Admission by petitioner of certain property as waqf property — Subsequently petitioner claiming said property as exclusively his own — Conduct of petitioner disentitles him to any relief under Art. 226. AIR 1965 All 333 (337) (Pt C) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226—Estoppel—Conduct.

Where the petitioner's election was set aside and a fresh election was ordered by the Sub-Divisional

Officer and the petitioner took his chance at the second election without any objection having been filed in the High Court by means of writ petition before the second election took place, he is not entitled thereafter to present a writ petition to the High Court asking the first election to be restored by setting aside the order of the Sub Divisional Officer. If once a party acquiesces to the jurisdiction of an authority who may not have the jurisdiction, then thereafter he cannot be allowed to challenge the authority or otherwise of the proceedings to which he had acquiesced. A I R 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. AIR 1960 All 550 (550, 551) (Prs 1, 2).

——Art. 226 — Estoppel — (U. P. District Board Manual, page 207, R. 1).

A District Board invited applications for the appointment of a Secretary. The respondent was appointed as a Secretary of the Board. But before he was so appointed the Board referred the matter to the State Government because some difficulty was felt about the interpretation of R. 1 prescribing qualifications of District Board secretaries. One of the writ petitioners was a member of the Board and he was one of the members who voted for the resolution relating to the interpretation of the rule. The writ petition was supported on the ground that the Board had no jurisdiction to refer any matter regarding interpretation of the rules to the State Government.

Held, that inasmuch as one of the petitioners had himself invoked the jurisdiction of the Government to interpret the rule, it did not lie in his mouth to say that the reference was incompetent. A I R 1959 All 589 (592, 593) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 All 169.]

——Art. 226 — Estoppel — Application to set aside decision of Election Tribunal — Party accepting decision of Tribunal and making good deficiency in court-fee — Later plea that court-fee originally paid by him was sufficient — If open by a writ.

Held, that it was open to the respondent to contend that the petition which was presented to the State Government was a proper petition and was not deficiently stamped. The decision of the Tribunal being in his favour, it was not necessary for him to have come up to the High Court against the decision of the tribunal on one issue regarding the amount of court-fee paid. A I R 1957 All 729 (731, 732) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability—Estoppel — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 2 and 10).

Where the petitioner itself applied under Cl. (29) of the U. P. Government Order No. 464 dated the 14th July, 1954 which provided that if a concern during the pendency of any dispute wished to retrench any workman it had to apply for permission to the proper authorities and retrench the employee after obtaining the permission :

Held, that it was not open to the employer to challenge the order by taking up the position that the employee was not a workman and therefore there was no industrial dispute which could be referred to an adjudicator. (1957) 2 Lab L J 652 : A I R 1957 All 643 (643, 644) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Conduct of petitioner — Failure to raise objection to jurisdiction of lower tribunal — Effect.

In order that the Regional Transport Authority should constitute a valid Tribunal it should compose of three members as required by S. 44 (2), Motor Vehicles Act. In the absence of any provision prescribing a quorum, the matter should be heard by all the three members and it is not open to two only of them to deal with the matters. A I R 1953 Mad 129, Rel. on. Where the punishment of suspension of permit was imposed only by two of the members of the Regional Transport Authority and the petitioner had not raised any objection to the hearing of the matter by two only of the members, the conduct of the petitioner disentitles him to any relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1957 S C 397 and AIR 1927 Mad 130 (FB). Rel. on. AIR 1951 S C 230, Disting. In such case there is no question of want of inherent jurisdiction. A I R 1954 Mad 103 (FB), Expl and Disting. A I R 1961 Andh Pra 344 (345) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9) (DB).

[Overruled in AIR 1964 Andh Pra 36 (FB).]

——Art. 226 — Constructions within cantonment area — Powers of Secunderabad Cantonment Board — Extension to villages within its limits — Effect of various notifications - Petition under Art. 226 - Submission to jurisdiction — Effect. See Cantonments Act (2 of 1924), S. 181. A I R 1961 Andh Pra 113 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Bias — Rule that no man should be judge in his own cause — Exception to — Petitioner having knowledge of his complainant sitting as Tribunal - Plea of bias not raised — Waiver - It cannot be raised in writ petition.

The principle enshrined in the maxim 'Nemo Debet Esse Judex In Casus Propria Sua' is of the highest importance and any infraction of it would render the proceedings wholly unsustainable. But this rule has certain exceptions such as (1) Necessity, (2) Statutory provision removing the disqualification or making the investigator himself the Judge, (3) Waiver.

Where the Police Officer who checked the petitioner's bus and made a complaint under Motor Vehicles Act was himself a member of the Tribunal which heard the petitioner's case and although the petitioner and his counsel knew that the same Police Officer was functioning as a Tribunal yet no objection was raised at that stage to his participation on the ground of bias.

Held, that the petitioner must be taken to have waived the objection as to the bias and he could not be allowed to raise the plea of bias in writ proceedings. A I R 1957 S C 425 and (1913) 108 L T 270 at p. 271 and (1953) 2 All E R 652, Rel. on. 1961 (1) Cri L J 619 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Certiorari, writ of — Submission to or acquiescence in jurisdiction—Estoppel against applying for writ - Industrial Tribunal — Award — Objection to qualification of Tribunal not raised by petitioner before Tribunal — Petitioner arguing case on merits before Tribunal — Petitioner must be taken to have submitted to Tribunal's jurisdiction and cannot be allowed to repudiate it later by applying for writ of certiorari—Evidence Act (1872), S. 115. 1960 Lab L J 604 (A P).

——Art. 226—Estoppel—Acquiescence—Effect.

When all through the pendency of land acquisition proceedings, the petitioners never questioned the validity of the notifications issued by the Government and the action taken by the Collector, but on the contrary, they acquiesced in the acquisition proceedings, such a course of conduct disentitles the petitioners to challenge the legality of the acquisition proceedings by invoking the special powers of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (1959) 1 Andh W R 206 : A I R 1959 Andh Pra 444 (444, 445) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Income-tax Act — Assessment proceedings — Issue of writ to quash — Interests of justice—Where the petitioner who was a partner in a firm has induced the Income-tax Officer to believe that he could make an assessment provisionally subject to it being reopened when the final assessment of the firm was made, and having succeeded in making the department act upon his assurance he wants to turn round and question under Art. 226 the legality of the order for which he was himself responsible, it would be a perverse exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 to quash the order of Income-tax Officer. See Income-tax Act, Ss. 3, 4 and 35 (1). AIR 1959 Andh Pra 174 (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—Waiver of.

There cannot be a waiver of objection to jurisdiction of the High Court, to issue a Writ for the doctrine of waiver cannot be invoked in a case where there is total want of jurisdiction, such as, when the Authority or Tribunal is beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. 1955 Andh W R 122, Foll. 1955 Andh L T (Civil) 117 : 1955 Andh W R 175 : A I R 1955 Andh 178 (179) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 4).

——Art. 226 — Plier accepting further renewal of temporary permit granted to him for less than three years—Subsequent order cancelling temporary permit challenged by plier — He cannot ask High Court for mandamus directing authorities not to give effect to order cancelling temporary permit and to incorporate in it period of three years. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 56. A I R 1963 Assam 182 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of law—(Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 7).

The parties before the Labour Appellate Tribunal may be expected to assume that the Tribunal is conscious of the limits of its jurisdiction, and they will not be disabled from making a grievance in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution that the Tribunal has entertained an appeal under S. 7, Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, in a case which does not raise a substantial question of law. A I R 1954 Bom 202, Disting. (1958-59) 14 F J R 114 : 59 Bom L R 413 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 37 : I L R (1958) Bom 49 : A I R 1957 Bom 188 (192) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Objection to jurisdiction of lower authority.

Before a question of jurisdiction of a tribunal is raised on a petition under Arts. 226 and 227, objection to jurisdiction must be taken before the tribunal whose order is being challenged. (Underlying principles stated). 1914 K B 608, Rel. on. 55 Bom L R 922 : I L R (1954) Bom 247 : A I R 1954 Bom 202 (203, 204) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Who can apply — Right to challenge proceedings under Land Acquisition Act — Acceptance of award no bar to obtain relief under Art. 226 —Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 11 and 12 —Evidence Act (1872), S. 115.

Mere withdrawal of the compensation awarded will not disentitle the awardee to relief if he is found otherwise entitled to it. Right to hold property is a fundamental right and there can be no waiver of such right. Acceptance of the award cannot be taken as amounting to such waiver as would disqualify the awardee to ask for relief and obtain it under Art. 226 in an appropriate case. ('66) 67 Cal W N 647.

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Estoppel — Life Insurance Corporation Act (31 of 1956), Ss. 11 and 49 — Life Insurance Corporation of India (Staff) Regulations, 1956 —Rules 9 (iii) (c), 20 (2) and 41 (1)—Servant of Corporation—Termination of service by payment of one month's notice pay in terms of contract for unsatisfactory work — Acceptance — Application for writ.

Held, on facts (i) that the petitioner was estopped from challenging the order of termination because he had accepted his dismissal by drawing two months' pay which was offered. After all, an appointment by the Corporation is primarily a matter of contract and if the termination of the contract is accepted by an employee. who takes the benefit offered, it is impossible for him afterwards to challenge the validity thereof.

(ii) That the petitioner's services were regulated by the (Staff) Regulations, 1956, and not by the Life Insurance Corporation Field Officers (Alteration of Remuneration and other Terms and Conditions of Services) Order, 1957. The petitioner's case was not governed by Rule 41 and his services were properly terminated under R. 20 (2) by serving one month's notice. The terms of service themselves contained a term empowering the Corporation to terminate the petitioner's services at any time, if the results were not satisfactory. Under the terms, even a notice of one month was not necessary. A I R 1960 Mad 333, Rel. on.

(iii) That as the Divisional Manager was the appointing authority under R. 9 he had power to terminate the services of the petitioner. A I R 1961 Cal 108 (110, 111) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 226 — Estoppel — Applicant taking part in proceedings without prejudice to right to challenge —Legality—If bar to application for writ.

Where the petitioner took part in the Land Acquisition proceedings after expressly reserving rights to challenge the legality of the acquisition in appropriate proceedings, the conduct of the petitioner is not such which disentitles him from obtaining any relief under Art. 226. ('58) 62 Cal W N 73.

——Art. 226—Benefit of to persons avoiding income-tax—(Income-tax Act (1922), S 34).

While being aware that assessment of taxes and impositions is not a pleasant affair, it would be a dangerous principle to extend the benefits of Art. 226 of the Constitution to those who have transgressed the law and yet are too faint-hearted to speak out the truth and confront the consequences. Under such circumstances, if the authorities and the assessee have come to a working arrangement, it is not for the High Court to interfere and re-open the same. A writ of mandamus or certiorari would be appropriate if the authorities had done something which infringes the law, but within the boundaries of law, the High Court is not called upon to disturb arrangements which parties may have come to with their eyes open and fully cognizant of the consequences of their acts. A I R 1954 Cal 271 (277) (Pt B) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226 — Civil P C. (1908), S. 80 — Scope and object—Notice issued under S. 80—Whether estopped from filing petition. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. A I R 1953 Him Pra 95.

■ ——Art. 226 — Estoppel against application for writ—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115)

The question of estoppel or acquiescence is essentially a question of fact which has to be decided on proper materials before the Court and not in a writ proceeding.

Held, as the conditions for the applicability of the doctrine of acquiescence were not fulfilled in this case, that doctrine could not be invoked. (1880) 15 Ch D 96, Rel. on. Bhagat Rajinder Kumar Sawhney v. State of J. & K., A I R 1960 J & K 50 (52) (Pt D) (Pr 4) (FB).

——Art. 226—Estoppel — Acquiescence or submission — Refusal of temporary permit to applicant— Later temporary parmit granted to State Transport Authority — Writ petition to quash order — R. T. A. found to have disregarded provisions of M. V. Act— Applicant held not precluded from seeking to quash order — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939, S. 62). 1958 Ker L T 1034, Dist.; 1959 Ker L J 549; 1959 Ker L T 601; I L R (1959) Ker 1224 : A I R 1960 Ker 35 (38) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Bar to writ—Submission to jurisdiction of inferior tribunal — Right to apply for issue of writ.

Submission to jurisdiction of the inferior tribunal will foreclose an appeal to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court or Supreme Court. A I R 1957 S C 397, Foll. 1958 Ker LT 1034 : 1958 Ker L J 997.

——Art. 226 — Right to apply — Estoppel against— (Panchayats — T. C. Panchayats Act (2 of 1950), S. 69).

The petitioner purchased the right in an auction held by the Panchayat to vend beef in market for a year. When the period was about to expire the Panchayat held a public auction and sold the right to another. The petitioner challenged the validity of the auction by an application under Art. 226 on the ground that the auction was not warranted by S. 69, T. C. Panchayat Act, 1940, and that the Rules and Bye-laws which permitted the auction were invalid.

Held, that the petitioner was not estopped from questioning the validity of the auction by the fact of his having enjoyed the benefits of the rights by purchasing them at the previous auction in the absence of anything on record to show that he was one of the bidders at the impugned auction or that he had acquiesced in the proceedings or that he did anything in respect of the action. 1957 Ker L T 342 : I L R (1957) Ker 273 : 1957 Ker L J 207 : A I R 1957 Ker 85 (86) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Estoppel — Petitioners agreeing to arrangement embodied in Government order—Legality of order cannot be questioned — (Evidence Act (1872), S 115).

Where the petitioners have agreed to the arrangement embodied in a Government order they cannot contend that the order is illegal or that it was passed in violation of the rules of natural justice, nor can they invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court to quash that order by the issue of a writ of certiorari. 1957 Ker L J 217 : I L R (1957) Ker 59 : 1957 Ker L T 198 : A I R 1957 Ker 22 (24) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Acquiescence — Effect — Bye-laws of co-operative society—Amendment of, by resolutions passed at meeting unanimously — Petitioner member present at meeting—Petition directed against validity of resolutions and their registration—Maintainability (Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 12). 1957 Ker L J 199 : 1957 Ker L T 56 : A I R 1957 Ker 14 (15) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Appellate authority consisting of two members under relevant notification constituting it — Objection to appeal being heard by single member not raised at the time—Appellant will not be permitted to question the jurisdiction of the appellate authority when it has gone against him by invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 58 and AIR 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. 1964 M P L J 289 : 1964 Jab L J 359 : AIR 1965 Madh Pra 113 (114) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Petitioner challenging validity of notification issued under S. 6 of the Land Acquisition Act (1894) nearly after five years — During all these years petitioner participating in acquisition proceedings throughout, including first appeal, in which remand order was made—He would not be entitled to any relief in writ proceedings. 1965 M P L J 208 : 1965 Jab L J 322.

——Arts. 226 and 227— Estoppel against applying — Objection to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal not raised before it—Person taking chance of obtaining favourable decision — He cannot later on urge want of jurisdiction by the Tribunal.

A person who does not raise before a tribunal the objection that it has no jurisdiction to deal with the matter and takes a chance of obtaining a favourable decision cannot be permitted, when the decision goes against him, to subsequently question the jurisdiction of the tribunal. By this conduct, he precludes himself from raising the objection about jurisdiction afterwards and the High Court which exercises a special jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution will not assist him in claiming the writ. (1914) 1 K B 608 and A I R 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 270.

——Art. 226—Applicability— Foreigners Act (1946), S 3 (2) Cl. (c) — Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2)— Citizenship Rules, R. 30—Petitioner coming to India on Pakistani passport and for several years overstaying term of his visa— Deportation imminent — —Petition under Art. 226—Maintainability.

Where a Muhammadan, who had come to India on a Pakistani passport and had for 5 years overstayed the terms of his visa, filed a petition under Art. 226, when his deportation was imminent, for a writ to the appropriate authorities not to deport him and at least to wait till he got an opportunity to move the Government of India under S 9 (2) of the Citizenship Act and R 30 of the Citizenship Rules and the latter disposed of his petition.

Held, dismissing the petition, that the petitioner, who had done nothing for 5 years to move the Government of India to clear the doubt about his citizenship, could not be permitted to stay on for another term just to move that Government on the mere chance of his getting a favourable order. Every State was entitled to protect itself and to turn out a person who had come on a foreign passport, issued for a limited period which he had overstayed. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 241 and AIR 1959 Punj 261. Disting. AIR 1960 Madh Pra 381 (381, 382) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Quo-warranto —Nature of writ—Conduct of relator—Acquiescence—Effect.

The conduct of the petitioner who comes to Court praying for its issue becomes one of the factors which have to be taken into account in this respect, and the writ ought not to be issued at the instance of a person who has acquiesced in or perhaps concurred in the very act which he afterwards comes to complain of. AIR 1953 Nag 81, Rel. on.

Thus, where the person seeking to object to the validity of election not only takes part but waits till he is defeated and then turns round to challenge the validity of that Act he should not be allowed to do so. I L R (1957) Madh Pra 188 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 5 : 1957 Jab L J 170 : 1957 M P C 177 : AIR 1957 Madh Pra 60 (63) (Pt B) (Prs 21, 23).

——Art. 226 — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 3 and 6 (4) — Notification under S. 3 of Madras Act extending provisions of that Act to a charity—Petitioner in suit not objecting to validity of notice on ground that the charity was not exclusively confined to Hindus— Held, petitioner could not agitate that point, after dismissal of even second appeal filed by him, in writ petition. (1965) 1 Mad L J 311 : I L R (1965) 2 Mad 505 : 78 Mad L W 105 : A I R 1965 Mad 416 (417) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4).

——Art. 226—Estoppel against applying.

Before a person aggrieved is refused a relief to which he would otherwise be entitled on the ground of acquiescence in the wrong complained of, it is necessary to establish that he knew, or ought to have known, his right, which he is alleged to have omitted to assert. A person who has no knowledge of his right and is not guilty of culpable negligence in being ignorant, will not be denied a relief to which he is entitled on the ground that he omitted to assert that right. 70 Mad L W 981 : (1958) 1 Mad L J 1 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 22 : A I R 1958 Mad 236 (238) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1960 S C 1191.]

——Art. 226 — Quo warranto —Writ is not issued as matter of course — Relator will not be entitled to information in nature of quo warranto if it is shown that he acquiesced in the election to which he objects or that he is raising objection which might have been put forward against himself at a previous election or that while cognizant of the objection he voluntarily so acted as to enable the respondent to exercise the office. (1954) 1 Mad L J 102 : ILR (1954) Mad 908 : A I R 1954 Mad 563 (568) (Pt E) (Prs 24, 25) (DB).

● ——Art. 226 –Scope –(Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 51).

Where the petitioners objected to the jurisdiction of the Deputy Registrar to decide the dispute relating to the election of Directors of a Bank by its general body, by filing a writ petition to the High Court, and later on filed a revision under S. 51 of the Madras Act (6 of 1932) to the Registrar, the conduct of the petitioners in filing the revision could not be considered as precluding them from agitating the question in the writ proceedings. Madhava Rao v. Surya Rao. (1953 2 M L J 340 : 1953 Mad W N 515 : 66 Mad L W 821 : I L R (1953) Mad 1047 : A I R 1954 Mad 103 (105) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (FB).

● ——Art. 226 –Estoppel against applying –Election dispute—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115) — Election — Validity.

Those candidates, who took their chances at the elections and failed, are not estopped from challenging the election of their opponents on the ground that the electoral rolls were defective. There can be no question of any estoppel because it cannot be said that the position of the other side has in any way altered by reason of something done or not done by the petitioners. Kanglu Baula v. Chief Executive Officer, ILR (1954) Nag 875 : AIR 1955 Nag 49 (58, 59) (Pt C) (Pr 25) (FB).

——Art. 226 – Petitioner stating in writ petition that he did not take part in election at any of its stages— Petitioner is not barred by doctrine of estoppel from filing writ application challenging legality of election on ground of its being violative of R. 17, Bihar Panchayat Election Rules. I L R 33 Pat 905, Disting. 1964 B L J R 455 : ILR 44 Pat 585 : AIR 1964 Pat 500 (502) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Estoppel — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115.)

Where the petitioners knowing of the illegality participated in an election and thus acquiesced or concurred in the election, they would be estopped from challenging the validity of that election after having lost. ILR 33 Pat 905, Rel. on ; AIR 1958 Pat 149 Disting. 1958 B L J R 177 : A I R 1959 Pat 7 (8) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Applicability—Party denying jurisdiction of Tribunal and succeeding in the plea, cannot deny truth of the plea in subsequent proceedings before another Tribunal —Suit for rent –Defendant challenging jurisdiction of Civil Court and succeeding in his plea— He cannot subsequently in suit before Rent Controller say that he cannot pass eviction order — Tenant permitted to raise plea by Rent Controller and declining to exercise jurisdiction vested in it—More appropriate remedy is Art. 227 than Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 227. 1955 B L J R 47 : A I R 1955 Pat 198 (DB).

——Art. 226—Quo warranto — Petitioner acquiescing in election —He will not be entitled to information in nature of quo warranto—(Municipalities—Patna Municipal Corporation Act (13 of 1952), S. 545 (2)). A I R 1955 N U C (Pat) 5971 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 31 and 19 — Conduct acquiescing in order of Government — Order challenged to be ultra vires on ground of contravention of fundamental right —Waiver of fundamental right—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115)—See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1953 Pepsu 9.

● ——Art. 226 –Estoppel against applying –Lack of inherent jurisdiction—Failure of party to raise objection about — Effect of — Exercise of discretion by High Court.

Want of inherent or initial jurisdiction goes to the very root of the matter. Neither consent nor acquiescence of a party can vest a Tribunal with jurisdiction where none exists. Nor can such consent or acquiescence confer validity upon the order of the Tribunal where the order in the very nature of things is a nullity having been made by a Tribunal without any jurisdiction in the matter. Where the lack of inherent jurisdiction in a Tribunal is patent on the record, the failure of a party to raise objection about want of such jurisdiction before the Tribunal would not by itself stand in the way of the High Court granting relief to the party concerned on that score. If, however, because of the failure of the petitioner to raise such an objection there arise certain equities in favour of the opposing party or some other circumstances supervene which make it inexpedient to grant relief to the petitioner, the Court would in the exercise of its discretion refuse to grant such a relief. Davinder Singh Amar Singh v. Deputy Secretary-cum Settlement Commissioner, 66 Pun L R 555 : 1964 Cur L J 243 : ILR (1964) 1 Punj 905 : AIR 1964 Punj 291 (296, 297) (Prs 11, 12) (FB).

——Art. 226—Scope — Award of Industrial Tribunal —Major portion accepted — Continuance of litigation by petition—Permissibility.

It is open to a party to an industrial dispute to accept a major part of the award and still to continue the litigation in certain circumstances and one such circumstance is that the award in so far as it relates to certain workers is in excess of their demand. (1959-60) 16 F J R 152 : AIR 1960 Punj 76 (77, 78) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 –Discretion of Court — Failure to raise objection as to jurisdiction –(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7 (1)).

The Court has always the power and the discretion to grant or refuse to grant the writ and while exercising discretion it will take into consideration all the the relevant factors. The failure to raise objection to defect or lack of jurisdiction of the Tribunal before it is always a material and relevant factor and must be taken into account. Ordinarily such a conduct would preclude the petitioner from claiming the writ unless a cogent explanation is furnished by stating the necessary facts upon affidavit which should satisfy the Court that the failure to raise the objection relating to jurisdiction was not deliberate or that the petitioner had no knowledge of facts on which the objection could be based.

Where a petition under Art. 226 was instituted in which the question of defect of jurisdiction of the Tribunal was raised for the first time,

Held, that such conduct would disentitle the petitioner to the relief by way of certiorari, nor could the petitioner claim any other relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution in the circumstances. 61 Punj L R 597 : ILR (1959) Punj 1602 : AIR 1959 Punj 389 (394) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ Petition to set aside election — Petitioner fighting election in spite of alleged defects —Does not operate as estoppel — Writ petition not barred —(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115).

Held, that firstly, there cannot be any estoppel against the statute and secondly, because it cannot be justly postulated that the position of the respondents was in any manner altered or adversely affected by reason of something done or omitted to be done by the petitioners. 1962 Raj L W 57 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 1144.

——Art. 226—Motor Vehicles Act (4 of 1939), S. 57—Applicant for permit under Motor Vehicles Act not taking objections to applications by others for permit — This would only debar him from subsequently challenging validity of permits granted to them—This cannot stop him from pursuing his own application which is pending — If no orders are passed upon his application he can proceed under Art. 226. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57. A I R 1953 Raj 1.

■ ——Art. 226—Petition for writ of certiorari—Maintainability — Withdrawal of prior petition under S. 45, Specific Relief Act.

The withdrawal of a petition filed under S. 45, Specific Relief Act, without decision on the merits after the coming into force of the Constitution of Mewar, is no bar to a subsequent petition for a writ of certiorari. Lakshmi Lal v. Bhagwat Singh, ILR (1951) 1 Raj 570 : 1951 Raj L W 484 : AIR 1952 Raj 22 (25) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (FB).

——Art. 226—Application for writ, maintainability —[Evidence Act (1872), S. 115].

Applicant taking advantage and benefits under order, cannot complain against the order. 6 Sau L R 534 : A I R 1954 Sau 90 (91) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Decision of Election Tribunal —Right to challenge by writ — Waiver — [Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 98]—(Waiver).

Waiver is the abandonment of a right and is either express or implied from conduct. A person who is entitled to the benefit of a statutory provision may waive it and allow the transaction to proceed as though the provision did not exist.

Tribunal declaring election of applicant to be void —Applicant filing his nomination paper at fresh election — Applicant defeated — Application under Art. 226 against Tribunal's decision filed thereafter — Applicant held had waived his right of challenging decision of Tribunal by acquiescing in it. A I R 1954 Vin Pra 44 (46) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

49. Executive and quasi-judicial decisions—Distinction.

See also Notes 140 and 168.

■ ——Art. 226—Conditions for invoking Art. 136 (1) —Distinction between quasi-judical and executive decisions—'Tribunal' contemplated by Art. 136 (1) — Comparison with Arts. 226 and 227 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10-A — Decision of arbitrator acting under—Appeal under Art. 136 (1) — Not competent —Arbitrator is not a Tribunal, although his decision is quasi-judicial — Position of Industrial Tribunal and private arbitrator under Arbitration Act compared. See Ibid, Art. 136 (1). AIR 1963 S C 874.

——Art. 226—Distinction between quasi-judicial act and administrative or executive act—Consent of Advocate-General under S. 92, C. P. Code — Act of giving consent is merely administrative act.

The act of the Advocate General in giving his consent to the institution of a suit under S. 92, C. P. Code cannot be called a quasi-judicial act. It is merely an administrative or executive Act. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 331, Diss. from. 8 Ind Cas 1160 (1) (Lah), Rel. on.

Section 92, or any other provision, of the C. P. Code does not require the Advocate-General to hold any enquiry or to give an opportunity to the party to be affected of being heard. The rules framed for the guidance of the Advocate-General which are contained in the Legal Remembrancer's Manual, even if they are treated as statutory rules do not make it incumbent upon the Advocate-General in all cases to give an opportunity to the party concerned of being heard. Further, the Advocate-General is not bound by the rules to act upon the report of the District Officer or to give his consent only on the basis of the facts and circumstances as determined upon the enquiry. He is at liberty to act upon his own pure discretion in spite of the reports of the District Officer.

Again a judicial or quasi-judicial act must involve a decision as to the rights of the parties and must affect the interests of one or the other of the parties. In giving his consent under under S. 92, C. P. Code, the Advocate-General is not expected to decide the rights of the contending parties. Even if he has to hold an enquiry he is merely to see whether there is a prima facie case that should be allowed to get to a Court of law. The Court is not to be influenced in deciding the case by the fact that the Advocate-General has given his consent to the institution of the suit. It is therefore not a case in which there is any decision about a dispute or a claim.

It may be that the Advocate-General will always be well-advised to hold an enquiry either himself or through the District Officer as required by the rules after giving notice to the proposed defendants to the suit and to give his consent only when he finds a prima facie case made out for the institution of the proposed suit. But this is merely a directive which can be said to be desirable and cannot be said to be binding as a matter of law. Case-law discussed.

(Distinction between quasi-judicial act and administrative or executive act pointed out.) I L R (1955) 1 All 609 : :AIR 1955 All 372 (376) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act (1949), S. 6 (1), Proviso — Grant of permission to assessee to change method of computation of his income—Board of Revenue acts in its executive capacity. See U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act (3 of 1949), S. 6 (1), Proviso. AIR 1953 All 25.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Jurisdiction—Judicial orders — Magistrate acting under S. 87 of Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951)—Nature of functions—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 435).

Under S. 87 of Act (19 of 1951), the Magistrate is exercising more or less only an executive function; but still the Magistrate is acting in a judicial capacity. He therefore surely is a tribunal. He is only acting as a persona designata. The jurisdiction conferred on him is a special kind of jurisdiction relating to civil rights of the persons who come before him and has nothing to do with his powers or duties as a Magistrate. Therefore he is amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 227 of the Constitution. If he is not a tribunal, he will be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226. His action is thus not revisable under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. AIR 1954 Mad 500, Foll. (1958) 1 Andh W R 263.

[Impliedly overruled in AIR 1959 Andh Pra 129.]

■ ——Art. 226 — Executive acts — Issue of writs against.

The issue of a writ of certiorari or any other suitable writ which the High Court can issue under Art. 226 or order that it can make under Art. 227 cannot be avoided by merely calling a particular order or action as in the nature of an executive order or action.

Though the acts which are purely executive in their nature, that is depending upon the discretion of the authority making it, may not be amenable to correction by the High Court, where the orders are passed or action is taken under a statute or an Act of the legislature by a Court or tribunal which is vested with the power to take and enforce decisions regarding the rights between rival parties who appear before the tribunal or between them and the State, their proceedings, orders and actions cannot be said to be "executive." They would really be in the nature of judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings and orders and where it is shown that the authority or tribunal has acted contrary to or has not observed the provisions of such Act or statute or has during the course of so doing not observed the rules of natural justice, the High Court has ample jurisdiction to issue the necessary writs. Sampu Gowda v. State of Mysore, I L R (1953) Mys 440 : 32 Mys L J 12 : AIR 1953 Mys 156 (165, 166) (Pt J) (Pr 42) (FB).

50. Executive, writs and orders against.

See also Note 140.

(a) Discriminatory, arbitrary and mala fide orders.

(b) Duty to act within law.

(c) Duty of High Court to exercise power with restraint.

(d) Limits on interference by Courts.

(e) Order without jurisdiction and against mandatory provisions.

(f) Discretionary orders.

(g) Orders not justiciable.

(h) Finality of executive and administrative orders.

50. Executive, writs and orders against.

See also Note 140.

——Art. 226 — "Executive action" — Meaning. See Ibid, Art. 118. (1956) 2 Mad L J 430 : AIR 1957 Mad 48 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 and 320 — Applicant high officer of State—Council of Ministers deciding that applicant must take all available leave and retire—Decision orally conveyed to applicant by Chief Secretary—Chief Secretary giving order in writing to that effect—Applicant applying for leave which was granted by Council of Ministers—Applicant before expiration of leave applying for writ of certiorari for quashing order of Council of State—Arts. 311 and 320 held did not apply because there was no order made dispensing with services of applicant — In circumstances of case writ of certiorari held could not be issued. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 409 (411) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — jurisdiction of High Court—Orders against Executive Officer in respect of administrative order—Power to issue.

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is much wider than it was prior to the enactment thereof. The High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution has the duty to see that the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution are not violated by any law or any action taken thereunder. The Court will undoubtedly put limitations upon its powers, and will not exercise its powers under the Article in a matter which cannot be dealt with judicially, nor would it take notice of anything which it cannot judicially take notice, nor interfere with the action of an executive officer unless it is satisfied that the executive officer concerned is under an obligation to do something or to forbear from doing something. The Hgih Court has under the Article undoubted jurisdiction to issue an order even against an executive officer who has issued an administrative order, in order to safeguard the fundamental rights of the citizens. AIR 1950 S C 163; AIR 1950 Bom 363 (FB) Ref. The powers of the Court under S. 18 of the Trav-Cochin High Court Act are the same as under Article. ILR (1951) T C 496 : 1951 K L T 158 : A I R 1951 T C 197 (199, 200) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

50 (a). Discriminatory, arbitrary and mala fide orders.

● ——Arts. 226, 309 — Government servant on leave preparatory to retirement—Leave revoked by Government, Government servant suspended and departmental enquiry ordered against him — Held, no breach of service rules - Petition under Art. 226 by such Government servant alleging mala fides on part of Minister in charge — No counter-affidavit by Minister concerned but affidavit filed by Secretary in the Department having no personal knowledge regarding allegations against Minister — Mala fides held proved—Orders set aside.

Held (i) (Per Full Court): that the impugned orders were not beyond the power of the State Government. The Service Rules, which were statutory, vested the power in the Government to pass the impugned orders.

Per majority:—(ii) The Constitution enshrines and guarantees the rule of law and Art. 226 is designed to ensure that each and every authority in the State, including the Government, acts bona fide and within the limits of its power and when a Court is satisfied that there is an abuse or misuse of power and its jurisdiction is invoked, it is incumbent on the Court to afford justice to the individual.

Taking the present case of the power vested in Government to pass the impugned orders, it could not be doubted that it was vested in Government for accomplishing a defined public purpose viz., to ensure probity and purity in the public services by enabling disciplinary penal action against the members of the service suspected to be guilty of misconduct. The nature of the power and the use of that power for achieving an alien purpose—wreaking the Minister's vengeance on the officer—would be mala fide and a colourable exercise of that power, and would therefore be struck down by the Courts. 1925 A C 338 and 1926 Ch 66 and 1915 A C 872 and (1924) 1 Ch 483 and (1951) 2 K B 284 and 1904 A C 515, Rel. on. Doubtless, he who seeks to invalidate or nullify any act or order must establish the charge of bad faith, an abuse or a misuse by Government of its powers. If bad faith would vitiate the order, the same can be deduced as a reasonable and inescapable inference from proved facts. (1894) 29 Ch D 459, Rel. on. The only question which could be considered by the Court is whether the authority vested with the power has paid attention to or taken into account circumstances, wholly extraneous to the purpose for which the power was vested, or whether the proceedings have been initiated mala fide for satisfying a private or personal grudge of the authority against the officer.

In the circumstances of the case, it would not be proper to brush aside the allegations made by the petitioner, particularly in respect of those matters where they were supported by some evidence of a documentary nature seeing that there was no contradiction by those persons who alone could have contradicted them.

Per Majority, Raghubar Dayal and Mudholkar, JJ., contra.—The impugned orders were vitiated by mala fides, in that they were motivated by an improper purpose which was outside that for which the power or discretion was conferred on Government and the said orders should therefore be set aside. A I R 1963 Punj 298, Reversed. S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1965) 1 S C A 259: A I R 1964 S C 72 (81 to 86, 93) (Pt E) (Prs 5 to 10, 13, 14, 28).

■ ——Art. 32—Mala fide order—Order of Commissioner under S. 39 of Calcutta Police Act (1866).

Petition under Art. 32 on grounds that reason given by Commissioner for refusing licence are not correct and that the Commissioner is annoyed with person applying for licence as the latter want to High Court by means of a writ petition — Are not sufficient for holding order of Commissioner to be mala fide. Kishan Chand Arora v. Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, (1961) 3 S C R 135: (1961) 2 S C A 150: (1961) 2 S C J 309 : (1961) Mad L J (Cr) 541 : A I R 1961 S C 705 (710) (Pt D) (Pr 6).

■ ——Art. 226—Applicability—Selection of Controller—Industries (Development and Regulation) Act—Test of mala fides on the part of Government. See Industries (Development and Regulation) Act (1951), S. 18-A. AIR 1957 S C 676.

■ ——Art. 226 — Applicability — Abuse of power — Remedy of aggrieved party — Section 5(7A) of the Income-tax Act is not violative of Art. 14 and also does not impose any unreasonable restriction on the fundamental rights to carry on trade or business enshrined in Art. 19 (1)(g). If there is any abuse of the power it can be remedied by appropriate action either under Art. 226 or under Art. 32 and what can be struck down is not the provision contained in S. 5(7A) but the order passed thereunder which may be mala fide or violative of those fundamental rights. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1957 S C 397.

——Art. 226—Executive action, mala fide—Duty of High Court — U. P. Police Regulations, Pr. 228 — Direction to close history sheet issued.

It is fundamental to the powers conferred on High Court both under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution to see that 'the rule of law' is strictly adhered to in respect of executive actions which touch either a citizen's way of life or in any other way put his liberty and reputation in jeopardy. Where under the garb of maintaining a history sheet and having surveillance of a citizen, the police has taken action which in any manner affects the citizen's liberties then such action would be struck down.

(A direction to the police to close the history sheet and stop surveillance of the petitioner was issued as the action of Police was mala fide.) I L R (1963) 1 All 289 : 1963 All L J 590 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 241 : A I R 1963 All 408 (411, 412) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15, 16, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Evidence Act (1872), S. 114—Discretion vested in Government Official—Presumption of bona fide exercise — When can be made. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 114. AIR 1961 All 361.

——Art. 226—U. P. Civil Service (Judicial Branch) Rules (1951), R. 14— Considerations involved — Relevancy of political activities of candidate — Opinion based on two grounds — One of them not relevant — Effect — Participation in R. S. S. Satyagraha — Held, was relevant consideration in determining fitness for judicial service. See U. P. Civil Service (Judicial Branch) Rules (1951), R. 14. AIR 1961 All 361.

——Art. 226—Executive decision—Interference—Petition under Art. 226 impugning decision of Government to impose qualifying test—Not discriminatory—High Court held had no jurisdiction to interfere with executive decision of Government. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1960 All 484.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Scope — Power under, when to be exercised.

In a writ petition the fact that the petitioner considers the impugned decisions arbitrary is not enough. The Court has to consider whether the powers have been exercised in an arbitrary manner. 1959 All W R (HC) 218 : 1959 All L J 438 : AIR 1959 All 525 (526) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Mutation proceedings—Order not just—Interference with order—(Mutation).

An order in mutation proceedings cannot be said to be a just order where the father whose name has been allowed to be brought on record by the Sub-Divisional Officer was a party to the mutation proceedings and he never objected to the names of his sons being brought on the record, and therefore the High Court is entitled to interfere with the order even if the writ jurisdiction is discretionary. 1956 All L J 726 : 1956 All W R (HC) 756.

——Art. 226 — Allegation of mala fides in Government — Allegations must be more specific and direct to sustain plea.

In cases in which Government's action is challenged on ground of mala fides, to make general and broad allegations of lack of bona fides or of being influenced by extraneous considerations or other reasons is not sufficient. Something more specific, more direct and more precise is necessary to sustain a plea of this nature. If on a vague and broad allegation devoid of any detail and which does not even specify the individual who was subjected to the alleged vice, the Government are to enter on their defence and affirmatively establish that what they did was perfectly bona fide and unconnected with any improper motives or extraneous considerations, it will indeed be putting the Government in a most difficult and least enviable position. AIR 1962 S C 630 and AIR 1937 P C 146 (147, 148), Foll. (1965) 2 Andh W R 383 : AIR 1965 Andh Pra 425 (430, 431) (Pt E) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Northern India Ferries Act (1878), S. 8, Para 3, R. 19 framed under Act—Order rejecting bid of highest bidder—That the name of the highest bidder is on the confidential list maintained by Government of suspected smugglers of opium — Stated as reason for rejection — Nothing on record to show that officer conducting sale himself came to the conclusion on the point after considering the circumstances and materials placed before him — Source on which Government acted also not disclosed—Order is arbitrary and capricious because reason for rejection is not one in compliance with S. 8 Para. 3 and R. 19 framed under Act—High Court is entitled to interfere with the order by issue of a writ inasmuch as there was no exercise of discretion at all by the conducting officer. AIR 1962 Assam 46 (48) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed in (1962) Supp 3 S C R 503.]

——Arts. 226, 14 — Discriminatory administrative order of individual officer. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1951 Bom 132 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative orders—Issue of writ—Adjudications by administrative Officers — Effect of bias — Penalty imposed by Assistant Collector of Customs under S. 167 (8) — Same officer making preliminary search and report against accused — Effect. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 182. 1958 Cr L J 628 : AIR 1958 Cal 232.

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34—Repeated assessments — If process is repeated mala fide, the High Court can and will always interfere. See Income Tax Act (1922), S. 34. AIR 1954 Cal 564.

——Arts. 226, 14, 19 (1) (g) and (6) — Validity of order directing retail dealers in cloth to carry on business through co-operative societies — (Himachal Pradesh Cotton Cloth Dealers Licensing Order, 1948) —No relief unless it was shown that the power was exercised arbitrarily. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1953 Him Pra 41.

——Art. 226—Bad faith—Proof — Held order passed by Government under S. 4 (1) of the Electricity Act

(1910) was not proved to have been passed mala fide—(Electricity Act (1910), S. 4)— AIR 1964 S C 72 and AIR 1964 S C 364, Rel. on. ILR (1965) 1 Ker 578 : 1965 Ker L J 561 : 1965 Ker L J 548 : AIR 1965 Ker 253 (269) (Pt D) (Prs 63, 64 65, 66) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Grant of licence—Consideration of objections—Exercise of discretion by licensing authority — Plea of mala fide and perverseness on part of authority — When can be sustained. See Kerala Cinemas (Regulations) Act (32 of 1958), S. 5 (1). I L R (1961) 2 Ker 6.

——Art. 226—Municipalities—Madras District Municipalities Act (1920), S. 43 — Division into wards—Mala fides. See Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 43. AIR 1953 Mad 510.

——Arts. 226, 19 and 245 — Notification by Director of Public Instruction prescribing certain copy books for use in schools—Order arbitrary and creating monopoly — Notification quashed. ILR (1953) Mys 625 : 1954 Cri L J 905 : AIR 1955 Mys 81 (83 to 86) (Pt A) (Prs. 4, 6, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order allotting vacant premises under Cl. 23 (1), C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949—Effect of order is to seek to deprive owner of enjoyment of property — Order is illegal if it is arbitrary and in utter disregard of law under which it is passed—Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949, Cl. 23 (1). 1951 Nag L J 146 : ILR (1951) Nag 228 : AIR 1951 Nag 22 (24) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writs against executive — Arbitrary exercise of discretion —Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 14 (B) — Employer not making payment in scheduled time — Government not levying damages — Employer can legitimately presume that damages had been condoned — Levying of damages not immediately after default but after allowing accumulation of defaults for years together is arbitrary exercise of discretion — High Court can interfere.

The purpose of S. 14-B is as much reformative as punitive. A defaulting member is given a chance to amend himself when a penalty up to 25 per cent. becomes leviable and although it is a statutory duty of the employer to make payment of contribution and administrative charge by 15th of every month the power of Government to levy damages being discretionary it is also a legitimate inference for any employer to make that if the delay of two or three days has been condoned in the past it will not be taken account of in the future. Thus where the employer had not made payments within scheduled time but the delay never exceeded five days and in most cases it was of one or two days only and the delayed payments in some cases related to successive months but the Government had not levied damages in respect of those occasional defaults when they occurred but chose to wait for six years to levy damages in respect of all the defaults :

Held, that technically the damages should have been levied immediately after the default and it was legitimate for the employer to have thought that the Government had decided not to exercise its discretion to levy damages. To choose a date to levy damages after six years was arbitrary and had resulted in operation of law very harshly and the Court is entitled to interfere in its writ jurisdiction. 1964 Cur L J 477: AIR 1965 Punj 441 (441, 442) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4, 6, 8).

——Art. 226 — Government order attacked on grounds of want of bona fides—Allegations denied — Court, if can enquire into question of fact—Procedure, to be followed—Punjab High Court Rules and Orders Vol. V, Chap. 4-F (b) — Civil App. No. 36 of 1963 dated 16-9-63 (S C), AIR 1964 S C 962, AIR 1957 S C 354: AIR 1957 S C 82, AIR 1958 S C 36, AIR 1964 S C 449, AIR 1964 S C 72, (1956) 1 All E R 855, AIR 1943 Lah 41 (FB) and AIR 1952 S C 106, Rel. on. Surinder Nath v. State of Punjab, 66 Pun L R 418 : ILR (1964) 1 Punj 722 : A I R 1965 Punj 386 (390, 391) (Prs 13, 15, 16) (FB).

——Art. 226—Urgent grievance of citizens — Representations to Minister and Secretaries to State Government not heeded—Citizens filing writ petition against authorities—Objection that petition was premature and filed with undue haste—Objection held ill advised and repelled as unmeritorious—Attitude of bureaucratic indifference on part of high placed authorities deprecated. ILR (1964) 2 Punj 150 : AIR 1964 Punj 533 (537) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 163 (3) and 166 (2)—Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 238 (1)—Investigation into mala fides of Minister in charge — Order of supersession under S. 238 issued in the name of Rajpramukh—Jurisdiction of Court—Investigation into mala fides of Minister-in-Charge — Jurisdiction of Court. See Ibid, Art. 163 (3). AIR 1957 Punj 100.

——Arts. 226 and 19 (1) (f)—Mala fide order of Government under colour of law—Order cancelling pre-partition tenancy rights without inquiry and reallotting them to another—Illegal and can be terminated. 1956 Raj L W 501 : ILR (1956) 6 Raj 554 : AIR 1956 Raj 139 (141, 142) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 14, 15) (DB).

50 (b). Duty to act within law.

——Art. 226 — Administrative Order — Notification Order, uncommunicated order — Notification dated 28-12-60 under West Bengal Panchayat Act (1957) —Communication — Order when becomes complete and effective — Order is effective only when it is communicated to person concerned — Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 3 — Notice — When person said to have — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80, Contract Act (1872), S. 4 —Natural Justice —Communication of order.

An order to be effective must not only be made by a competent authority but must be completed and it can only be completed when it is communicated to the person against whom or in whose favour it has been made, that is to say, the person who would be affected by that order. Until such communication is made, it could be varied as many times as is necessary : AIR 1963 S C 395 (398) and AIR 1961 S C 493 (512), Foll.

Where an order appointing the petitioner as Supervisor of Panchayat has been made by the Director of Panchayats who was the competent authority, but before it was communicated to the petitioner, it was recalled and cancelled.

Held, the order was never completed and therefore, never became effective. ('64) 68 Cal W N 1109.

——Art. 226—Revenue dispute between parties—Panchayati Adalat declaring petitioner hereditary tenant according to compromise and ordering correction of revenue records— Adalat not acting under S. 72, U. P. Panchayat Raj Act but only under S. 82 under which it only recorded the compromise — S. D. M. setting aside order of Panchayati Adalat in revision entertained beyond time — S. D. M. acts without jurisdiction — Order can be interfered with under Art. 226 — Defence that Panchas' order was obtained by fraud or that they were parties to a conspiracy will not be allowed to be taken in the writ proceedings—(U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), Ss. 82, 85, 70). AIR 1955 NUC (All) 4435.

——Art. 226 — Contribution order including loan—Amounts not recoverable as land revenue under S. 42 (4A), Co-operative Societies Act—Proceedings for recovery quashed. See Co-operative Societies—

Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 42. 1954 All L J 305 : AIR 1954 All 646.

——Art. 226 — Administrative authority — Discretionary power — Exercise of—Order on cyclostyled form.

It is a well-known convention and a well-recognized practice in Government offices that where an officer agrees with an office note, he merely initials and that is enough to indicate his assent to the office suggestion; it does not necessarily indicate that the officer acted mechanically.

It is not unusual to convey orders in printed or cyclostyled forms, specially when the order relates to a matter which frequently comes up before an authority. This saves time and work in the office. From the fact that the disputed order is on a cyclostyled form, it does not follow necessarily that the mind was not applied in passing that order, specially when in the counter-affidavit it is stated that the officer concerned gave full consideration to the merits of the case. 1952 All W R (H C) 517 : 1952 All L J 557 : ILR (1953) 1 All 817 : AIR 1953 All 25 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 33) (DB).

——Art. 226—Application under—Maintainability—Action of District Magistrate requisitioning property under U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act.

As according to the provisions of the U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act, the District Magistrate is not expected to make a judicial approach in the matter of requisitioning, it is very doubtful whether an order of requisition by him can be said to be quasi-judicial. A writ of certiorari is not permissible in such a case. Nevertheless as Art. 226 is so wide, if any authority acts against law then an application under that Article would be maintainable against the authority for the issue of proper directions to act according to law. 1952 ALJ 163 : 1952 A W R (HC) 241 : ILR (1953) 1 All 216 : AIR 1952 All 836 (838) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Appointment of informal committee by chairman for inquiry—Legality. See U. P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 40. AIR 1952 All 681 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Matter left to satisfaction of Government—Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 17 and 5-A—Omission to form opinion as to nature of land or opinion formed on irrelevant reasons — Notification to direct dropping of enquiry under S. 5-A is not according to law and must be set aside. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 17. AIR 1961 Bom 89.

——Art. 226—Mysore Police Act (5 of 1908), S. 40—Notification under — Validity — If can be challenged on ground that proceedings under S 144, Criminal P. C. would have been more appropriate so as to protect rights of petitioners in respect of management of religious institution - Duty of State to protect civil rights—Extent of, in cases of emergency arising out of breach of public peace. 1962 Mys L J (Supp) 411.

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Assam Jail Manual, R. 115—Reduction in rank—Right of appeal—Order passed by Local Government — Right of appeal cannot be taken away—Certiorari. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1956 Manipur 34.

——Art. 226 — Executive bodies — Procedure—Cancellation of license—Procedure—Principles of natural justice. See Bihar and Orissa Excise Act (2 of 1915), S. 42. AIR 1955 Pat 345(DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative agencies created by statutes — Powers of — Have no arbitrary and uncontrolled powers — Powers of Chief Administrator under Building Rules—Not absolute or uncontrolled or immune from judicial scrutiny — Punjab Capital (Development and Regulation) Building Rules (1952), Rr. 117, 7. ILR (1964) 2 Punj 150 : AIR 1964 Punj 533 (541, 542, 543) (Pt E) (Prs 22, 26, 27, 28) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 19 (1) (f), 31 — Person in occupation of land and his name entered in revenue papers — Sub-Divisional Officer cannot restrain person from cultivating and transferring same — He must take legal proceedings if he considers such person's title or possession illegal.

Administrative orders cannot be taken recourse to in such a manner as to interfere with the fundamental or legal rights of the citizens. The Constitution has provided rule of law and the Government Officials are expected to have regard for it. They should not indulge in doing anything contrary to the provisions of law or in disregard thereof. Where a person is in occupation of certain lands and the lands are also entered in the revenue papers in his name the Sub-Divisional Officer cannot pass an order restraining the person from cultivating the lands or from transferring the same. If the officer thinks that the title of the person or his possession is illegal he should take proceedings in accordance with law. ILR (1963) 13 Raj 720 : 1963 Raj L W 480 : AIR 1964 Raj 75 (76) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Who can apply — Writ against executive.

Where an applicant contends that he claims to be an adopted son of 'A' and is thus entitled to succeed to 'A's' property, that that claim is being investigated before proper authorities or in a proper Court and that the State Government cannot in its executive capacity intervene and decide the question of adoption in a manner adverse to him, the applicant has a right to ask the High Court under Art. 226 to issue any appropriate writ or direction. The right which the applicant has, is his claim to the estate of 'A' which he wants to assert under the general law of the land. And the State cannot interfere with that right by a mere executive order passed under the authority of no law. AIR 1953 S C 91 (95), Rel. on; AIR 1952 S C 12; AIR 1953 Assam 12, Ref 1954 Raj L W 553 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 773 : AIR 1954 Raj 193 (194, 195) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Order in excess of jurisdiction.

Dictum : "The executive authority may have wide powers. But it must not swerve from the limits imposed upon it by the law. Equally important is that it should exercise its powers bona fide for the purpose for which they have been conferred and not for any ulterior purposes." 1955 Ker L T 901 : AIR 1957 Trav-Co 209 (212) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

50 (c). Duty of High Court to exercise power with restraint.

——Art. 32—Writ against Executive — Defence of India Rules (1962), Rr. 30 (1) (b), 30-A (6) and 30-A (8) —Order of detention and its review — Both proceed upon subjective determination of prescribed authority — Subjective determination not justiciable. Sadhu Singh v. Delhi Administration, (1965) 2 S C A 147 : AIR 1966 S C 91 (94, 95) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226 — Order for settlement of ferry—Not in accordance with law—'Nature of direction which can be given by High Court.'

Where the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 held that the order of the officer conducting an auction sale of a public ferry, refusing to accept the offer of the highest bidder was not in accordance with S. 8, Northern India Ferries

Act or R. 19 framed under the Act and further held that the offer of the petitioner being the highest should be accepted.

Held, that the Order of the High Court, in so far as it declared the rights of the highest bidder was erroneous and in excess of its authority as it was for the appropriate authorities to deal with the matter and make a fresh settlement and the High Court could not itself decide what is entrusted to the executive authorities under the Act. A I R 1952 S C 192 Foll.; AIR 1962 Assam 46, Reversed. State of Assam v. Tulsi Singh, (1964) 1 S C J 42 : I L R (1962) 14 Assam 269 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 508.

——Art. 226 — Principle of judicial review — Court will not comment on executive acts which do not violate the law or the Constitution. 1961 All L J 927 : AIR 1962 All 301 (306, 307) (Pt F) (Pr 32).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — (Police Act (1861), S. 7).

It is not within the province of the High Court under Art. 226 to interfere in the quantum of punishment awarded to a delinquent Government Officer under Police Act. 1960 All W R (H C) 272 : 1960 All Cr R 192 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 279 : 1960 All L J 310.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Industrial Disputes Act—Existence or not of industrial dispute — Decision of referring authority — High Court's power to go into. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 4-K. AIR 1959 All 369.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Municipality—Removal of member — Opinion of Government as to exceptionable conduct — Justiciability. See Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 40 (3). AIR 1959 All 26 (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Extent of —Administrative orders.

High Court cannot step in in all cases where it finds that there has been unfairness or discrimination in an administrative action. The jurisdiction of the Court is limited to a great extent, in exercising its powers under Art. 226 to some illegalities apparent on the face of the record or direct or indirect violation of some statutory rules or provisions.

Taking the Government as an ordinary party, the High Court cannot force the hands of the Government to sell their goods to anybody in particular, nor can the Court issue a writ directing them to sell them in terms of the notification issued by them when neither the notifications nor the rules they advertised were framed under any statutory provisions or provisions coming under any Act. AIR 1956 Assam 158 (160) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Courts — Municipalities—Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), Sch. 17, R. 5 (4)—Exercise of power by Executive—Constant vigilance by High Court.

The High Court can always determine in an application under Art. 226 whether public officials have kept within their statutory limits. While the High Court is very reluctant to intervene, where experts like the City Architect consider a particular structure to be in imminent danger within the meaning of sub-r. (4) (a) of R. 5 of Sch. 17, Calcutta Municipal Act, 1951, it must deal with such applications with great care and circumspection, inasmuch as the rule is a very stringent one and makes a deep inroad into the rights of property, guaranteed to the citizen. AIR 1956 Cal 410 (413) (Pt C) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Ministerial act — Interference — (Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 30).

The ascertainment of necessary facts as to whether S. 30 (a) or S. 30 (b) of the Sea Customs Act applies, is a duty cast upon the Customs authorities and such duty is ministerial. The High Court under Art. 226 should be very reluctant to disturb the finding of the Customs authorities on such a point, provided, however, that it is based upon a proper conception of the law. ILR (1955) 2 Cal 470.

50 (d). Limits on interference by Courts.

——Art. 226 — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act, S. 3 — Permission of the District Magistrate granted to eject tenant in the exercise of his discretion—Discretion not subject to question in a civil Court — Permission neither mala fide nor capricious—Power of High Court under Art. 226 to go into sufficiency of the reasons given by the District Magistrate.

The U. P. Rent Control Act has left it solely to the District Magistrate to grant or refuse permission for filing a suit for eviction in his discretion and no provision is found in the Act that it is subject to correction by the Court of law. (A I R 1952 All 699, Ref.) Where the District Magistrate has given his reasons, which is not required of him by the Act, and the reasons do not appear mala fide or capricious the High Court cannot under Art. 226 go into the question whether the reasons given by the Magistrate for the exercise of his discretion were sufficient or not. 1952 A L J 536 : 1952 A W R (H C) 516 : AIR 1952 All 916 (916, 917) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power to review executive action — Extent of—High Court cannot go into factual merits of executive order or substitute it by its own.

The jurisdiction of a High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is only supervisory, and not appellate, the consequence of which distinction is that a High Court cannot enter into the factual merits of an order passed by the Government or substitute its own order therefor. A High Court may, on finding an error of jurisdiction or an error of law or bias, review an executive action and quash the same, but has still to leave the exercise of the executive power to the proper authority. Therefore it is not open to the High Court under Art 226, to declare the petitioner to be holding the place of a Professor from the date he approached the High Court when he had in fact not been appointed as Professor by the Government as also the direction to pay him the salary of a Professor from that date. A I R 1952 S C 192, and A I R 1963 S C 1626 Foll. I L R (1964) 1 Ker 564 : 1964 Ker L J 832 : (1964) 2 Lab L J 378 : A I R 1965 Ker 108 (109) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ against executive — Limits of —Interference by Court.

It is not open to the petitioner to ask the Court in writ proceedings to review the evidence recorded by the Enquiring Officer, as if the Court is sitting in appeal over his conclusions. It is enough to state that the findings of the Enquiring Officer as accepted by the State, are based on evidence available in the case. The Court is not concerned in these proceedings with the question whether that evidence is adequate to support the conclusion. (1964) 1 Mys L J 333 : (1964) 9 F L R 98 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil Courts cannot issue directions regulating proceedings of administrative authorities apart from recording finding on rights of parties. 1960 Raj L W 385.

50 (e). Order without jurisdiction and against mandatory provisions.

——Art. 226—The High Court can examine administrative orders when they are made in defiance of the mandatory provisions or without jurisdiction. See Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 5 (2). AIR 1953 Ajmer 65.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Prejudice—Relevancy — Violation of law sufficient — (Land Acquisition Act (1894), Ss. 6, 17 and 39).

Where the action of the Government in issuing the notification under Ss. 6 and 17 was in clear violation of the provisions of S. 39 of the Land Acquisition Act which provisions are mandatory in their nature, and in the writ proceedings initiated by the owners of land, the Company contended that the petitioners were not, in any way prejudiced by the omission to carry out the provisions of Part VII:

Held, that the question was of disobedience of the mandatory provisions of law and the question of prejudice or want of it was only a matter of secondary importance. The owners were therefore, entitled to relief at the hands of the High Court. 1957 All L J 450 : 1957 All W R (HC) 437 : AIR 1959 All 635 (637) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Invalid order—Authority permitted to make order subject to condition—Condition not observed — Validity of order—Quashing of—U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 3.

Where the making of an order by an executive authority is permitted by a statute subject to a condition, the order has the force of law only if the condition precedent to the making of that order has been complied with by the authority making it.

The U. P. Government Order made on 15th March, 1951, by which the State Industrial Tribunal is constituted has no legal force and is not binding as a subordinate piece of Legislation on the persons affected by it, as it is an order which is not passed after complying with the condition precedent laid down under S. 3, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act.

Obiter:—The compliance with the condition precedent must appear on the 'face of the order itself. AIR 1956 All 689 (694) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — (Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 15).

If a Magistrate refused to admit the application under S. 15, Payment of Wages Act, after hearing the opposite party he cannot be said to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in him or to have exercised his jurisdiction wrongly and the High Court has no jurisdiction to issue writ under Art. 226, in such cases. 1953 All W R (HC) 697 : 1953 All L J 732 : AIR 1954 All 198 (199) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Magistrate's order against provisions of S. 85, U. P. Panchayat Raj Act. See U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 85. 1953 Cri L J 1842 : AIR 1954 All 3.

——Art. 226—Any other purpose.

Where an Inspector of Schools passed an order of rustication against a student for his alleged participation in a fracas in front of his school without a report from the head of the institution and without an enquiry as to whether he did take part in the incident:

Held, that the officer had no jurisdiction to pass the order under Para. 96, U. P. Education Code, 1936 Edn. in the absence of report and further the order offended principles of natural justice in that it had been passed without an enquiry and was set aside. ILR (1954) 2 All 36 : AIR 1953 All 623 (624) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1966 All 477 (FB).]

——Art. 226—U. P. Land Utilization Act (5 of 1948), S. 3 — Validity of order of allotment made without proper service of notice. See U. P. Land Utilization Act (5 of 1948), S. 3. AIR 1953 All 585.

——Art. 226—High Court can interfere in administrative orders also.

The powers of the Indian Courts under the Constitution "are much wider and are not confined to issuing prerogative writ only." Article 226 empowers the High Court to issue to any person or authority "any directions, orders or writs." This Court, therefore, has power to interfere even in the case of administrative orders which are made in defiance of mandatory provisions of law or without any jurisdiction. AIR 1950 S C 163, Rel. on. ILR (1953) 1 All 251 : 1952 All L J 319 : 1952 All W R (HC) 323 : AIR 1952 All 752 (753) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2)—Search and seizure under, in excess of powers conferred—Executive action is ultra vires and illegal—Can be set aside under Art. 226. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 37 (2). AIR 1964 Assam 1.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Writ against administrative order—Limits of interference—(Natural justice).

No administrative order should be interfered with by issue of a writ unless the Court is convinced that the order is in violation of the principle of natural justice or in flagrant disregard of any statutory rules or orders. A I R 1957 Assam 108 (111) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Illegality — Assam Settlement of Fisheries Rules, Rr. 8 and 13—Report of auction sale of fisheries aubmitted to Commissioner for approval —Commissioner making recommendation—Jurisdiction.

Per Sarjoo Prasad, C. J., and Mehrotra J.—(Deka, J. contra) : There is nothing in R. 8 which precludes the Commissioner, while examining the report of the Deputy Commissioner, sent to him for confirmation of the sale to consider various matters and to advise the Deputy Commissioner about the manner in which the settlement is to be made. It cannot be said that the Commissioner in making any such recommendation has acted illegally or arbitrarily so as to give power to the High Court to interfere with his order under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Harinath Das v. State of Assam. ILR (1958) 10 Assam 44 : AIR 1958 Assam 70 (73, 74, 75, 76, 77) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 14, 18, 19) (SB).

——Art. 226—Grounds for interference—Collector not carrying out statutory duties—Petition under Art. 226 lies. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 11. ('61) 65 Cal W N 908.

——Art. 226—Scope of—Interference with action of executive—Powers under Art. 226—If restricted by S. 67, Income-tax Act—Income-tax Act 1922, S. 67.

The Court can interfere with the action of the executive if the act complained of does not come within the four corners of authority given him by the Act. It can also interfere if the act complained of is mala fide. But in the absence of either of those two conditions the Court has no authority to interfere with the action of the executive. The Court cannot question the rightness or the wrongness of the order complained of.

On the above principle, where the action of the Income-tax Authorities is not within the four corners of the powers committed to it under S. 46 (5a), Income-tax Act, then the order passed under that section should be set aside.

Apart from this, the powers conferred by Art. 226 of the Indian Constitution are not subject to the resfrictions imposed by the provisions of S. 67, Income-tax Act, and the same cannot override or control the provisions of Art. 226 of the Indian Constitution. (1951) 19 I T R 538 : 87 Cal L J 109 : AIR 1951 Cal 430 (433, 434) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 13).

——Art. 226—Limitations on powers of High Courts —Administrative orders—Writ can issue against.

There is no limitation to the nature of a writ which can be issued by a High Court under Art. 226. Thus where the Collector issues a notification reforming wards in a village for panchayat elections, which is illegal, the High Court can issue a writ to the Collector prohibiting him from enforcing that notification or acting under that notification or conducting the election in pursuance of that notification though the notification issued is not a judicial or quasi-judicial notification : A I R 1960 S C J 223 Rel. on; 53 Bom L R 1, Distinguished. (1962) 3 Guj L R 56.

——Art. 226 — Grant of land by former Indian Ruler —Revocation of—Legality of—Revocation by executive authority is not legal — Writ issued. See Ibid, Art. 31 (1). AIR 1954 Him Pra 84.

——Arts. 226, 31 (1)—Invasion of fundamental right by executive—Duty of Court.

In cases of invasion of fundamental rights it is not merely a power but a duty of the High Court to grant relief by the issue of prerogative writs under Art. 226. AIR 1951 Pat 434, Rel. on.

The High Court will exercise the utmost restraint in interfering with the acts of the executive. But where the High Court is satisfied that the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution have been violated by any act or order of the executive it is the sacred duty of the High Court to set it aside. The High Court has power to do this under Art. 226 by issuing a writ or any appropriate order so that a wrong done by the order of the Government may be remedied. A I R 1952 Hyd 36, Rel. on. A I R 1953 Him Pra 57 (58, 59) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 32—Rights to property — Executive interferences — Powers of High Courts and Supreme Court. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1955 N U C (Hyd) 417 (DB)

——Art. 226 — Corrective function of High Court where executive transgresses limits of Constitution or violates fundamental rights.

The duty to abide by the Constitution and to maintain the rule of law is cast upon all the three branches of the State, i.e., the legislature, executive and the judiciary and if the first two in any way transgress the limits of the Constitution or violate any of the fundamental rights, it is the duty of the Courts to declare it so. Naturally, the High Court will be very reluctant to interfere with an order of the executive unless it is fully satisfied that the action of the executive cannot in any way be supported in view of the provisions of the Constitution. The High Court will exercise the utmost restraint in interfering with the acts of the executive. But where the High Court is satisfied that the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution have been violated by any act or order of the executive it is the sacred duty of the High Court to set it aside. The High Court has power to do this under Art. 226 by issuing a writ or any appropriate order so that a wrong done by the order of the Government may be remedied. A I R 1951 Hyd 1 (FB) and AIR 1951 Hyd 89 (FB), Foll.

Note.—In this case the police authorities, who had dispossessed and deprived the petitioner of his property without any authority of law, were by a writ ordered to restore the property. 1952 Cri L J 340 : ILR (1952) Hyd 180 : A I R 1952 Hyd 36 (37) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Madras Educational Rules—Nature of —Mere executive instructions—Government order in breach of Rules—Issue of writ.

The Madras Educational Rules are only a body of executive orders and instructions. Therefore, orders of Government issued in pursuance of such Rules are merely executive instructions, a breach of which is not amenable to judicial review under Art. 226. The conferment of a right of appeal to the aggrieved party, is not sufficient to import a judicial element into orders which are impugned especially when there is no prescribed procedure for hearing the appeal. A I R 1958 Kerala 290 and AIR 1957 Trav-Co 214, Rel. on ; A I R 1958 S C 398; A I R 1959 Pat 520 and A I R 1958 Andh Pra 470, Disting. 1960 Ker L T 188 : ILR (1960) Ker 410 : A I R 1960 Ker 327 (328) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Executive order of Government — Refusal to pay arrears according to refixation of salary of Government servant — Government servant's right to challenge order. See Ibid, Art. 14. A I R 1959 Ker 338.

——Art. 226—Right to relief—Illegal order of Executive authority — Quashing of—Notification providing for service conditions of Municipal Commissioners — Violation—Writ petition—Maintainability—See Municipalities—Travancore District Municipalities Act (23 of 1116), S. 13 (i). 1958 Ker L J 1070.

——Art. 226 — Executive fiat — Unauthorised sale of property by Collector — Deprivation of property — Writ by High Court. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1954 Kutch 11.

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders—Interference by High Court — Permit granted to applicant under Motor Vehicles Act, cancelled on appeal without notice to applicant — Fit case for interference by High Court—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64.

Though the Court may not control all administrative and executive acts, they can and, in order to see that no injustice is done by authorities that are invested by Legislative enactments with large statutory powers affecting the rights of private citizens, should insist if such insistence is necessary to achieve the object and purpose of the statute—that in passing even administrative orders the well-recognised principle of approach are not ignored. (1880) 24 Q B D 712 and 1915 A C 120, Rel. on.

Where a permit granted to the applicant under the Motor Vehicles Act is cancelled on an appeal without any notice to the applicant, the cancellation is improper and it is eminently a fit case in which the High Court ought to interfere to set right the wrong. A I R 1952 Madh B 128 (130) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — M. P. Abolition of Proprietary Rights Act (1951), S. 6 — Transfers prior to 16.3.1950 — Application for correction of annual papers — Application refused by revenue authorities on ground that transfer was bogus — Order can be challenged under Art. 226 — (C. P. Land Revenue Act (2 of 1917), S. 47 (1). See Tenancy Laws — M. P Abolition of Proprietary Rights Act (1 of 1951), S. 6. A I R 1960 Madh Pra 109.

——Art. 226—Executive acts—Issue of writ.

The executive can only act in pursuance of the powers given to it by law and it cannot interfere with the liberty, property and rights of the subject except on the condition that it can support the legality of its action before the Court. A I R 1931 P C 248 and A I R 1956 S C 479, Rel. on.

Where the action of the executive is wholly unjustified by law and interferes with the fundamental rights of subjects it is unnecessary for the Court to concern itself with the motives which impelled the executive to act. The Court has the power under Art. 226 to give redress to the petitioners against the wholly illegal action of the executive infringing their fundamental rights. ILR (1957) Madh Pra 658 : 1957 M P C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 115 (128) (Pt I) (Prs 21, 22) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 32—Executive order — Relief primarily based upon order, if can be granted under writ jurisdiction.

It is not correct to say that it is not at all open to the petitioner to seek, in the exercise of the writ jurisdiction, a relief based primarily upon an executive order of the Government. Where a public authority has been directed by its higher authority to perform a particular act, the refusal by the subordinate authority to perform that act is capable of correction in the writ jurisdiction of the High Court. (1961) 12 S T C 304 (Mad), Foll. (1965) 16 S T C 664 : 78 Mad L W 482 : A I R 1966 Mad 179 (181) (Prs 9, 10).

——Arts. 226, 352, 358 and 359 — Defence of India Act (51 of 1962), Ss. 44, 45 — Order on detenu imposing restrictions, interfering with ordinary avocations of life and enjoyment of property — Provision in the Act, directory or mandatory — Tests—Order not to be questioned in Court—Extent and ambit of powers of Court — Order in excess of powers or colourable exercise of power - Interference by Court — Writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution — Powers of High Court under — Extent and scope of.

The President had proclaimed a State of Emergency under Art. 352 (1) of the Constitution. Under Art. 358 while a Proclamation of Emergency was in operation, the rights under Art. 19 were subject to executive action. A notification was also in force under Art. 359 suspending the rights to move Courts for the enforcement of rights conferred under Arts. 14, 21 and 22. The petitioner was held in detention under the Defence of India Act of 1962. He applied under Art. 226 of the Constitution praying for a writ of mandamus directing the respondent to cancel the restrictions imposed on him, such as the night lock-up, and to grant him right to have a radio, to receive more letters, etc. On the scope of Ss. 44 and 45 of the Defence of India Act, 1962, whether the enactment allowing imposition of restrictions on the detenu was directory or mandatory, whether he had a justiciable right, whether the High Court could exercise the powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution :

Held (Per Anantanarayanan, J.). — The Legislature did not intend S. 44 of the Defence of India Act (1962) to be mandatory, in the sense that an infringement of it immediately renders the order made under the Act or Rules invalid and void ipso facto. The most important consideration is that the Legistature equally enacted S. 45 in juxtaposition with S. 44, and that provision is meaningless if the intendment had been that non compliance with S. 44 would be per se justiciable in Courts. No logical distinction can really be maintained between the order of detention itself, and any order imposing terms and conditions of detention or specifying the place ot detention. Ordinarily there is no justiciable right of a detenu to question either his order of detention, or the terms and restrictions imposed under the Defence of India Rules, by virtue of any alleged violation of S. 44, in the Courts of the land. But this does not necessarily imply that the Courts are wholly without power, either with regard to a detention order itself, or with regard to the terms and restrictions imposed, the place of detention or other allied matters. These could be canvassed in appropriate proceedings, on two main grounds, that the concerned authority had exceeded the ambit of its power conferred by the Legislature, and that there was a colourable exercise of the power or an exercise of it lacking bona fides, and animated by some ulterior object, shown to the satisfaction of Court.

Article 226 of the Constitution confers upon all the High Courts very wide powers, subject alone to the limitation of territorial jurisdiction and the availability of the person or authority upon whom the writ issues, within such territory. The power conferred under Art. 226, as well as the jurisdiction must be construed as wide and overriding, and could not be affected by the provisions of a specific enactment seeking, in effect, to curtail the exercise of such a power.

This does not immediately imply that the exercise of such power by the High Court under Art. 226 will be in derogation of the intendment of the Legislature in enacting S. 44 as a directory principle, not as mandatory one, and in enacting S. 45 (1) in juxtaposition to S. 44. On the contrary what it implies is that in addition to the two factors upon which the Courts could nevertheless interfere with regard to orders of detention or orders imposing restrictions upon detenus, under the Defence of India Act, namely, acts outside the statutory power or acts lacking bona fides, the High Court would have the power of interference upon the principles of writ jurisdiction, where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, or where a principle of natural justice has been flagrantly violated. But the exercise of writ jurisdiction is always within the limits of the proper recognition by the High Court, of factors relevant to powers delegated to the Executive by the Legislature. Where, for instance, the compulsory disclosure of information by the State even to Court, might imperil security, the High Court will not exercise the writ jurisdiction in a mode that necessitates such a disclosure.

[No grounds were found to exist in the instant case to warrant interference by the issue of a writ.]

The true test to determine whether a particular provision of law is merely directory or is mandatory in character, is, whether the declaration of a particular order as violative of a statutory provision renders it ipso facto null and void, or merely renders the concerned authority subject to correction or discipline for having flouted an enactment. Though the question depends on the intention of the Legislature, as could be gleaned from the language used, it is not the language which is conclusive or all-important. The use of the word 'shall' is not necessarily conclusive. The purpose for which the provision has been enacted, particularly in the context of the other provisions of the enactment and the general scheme thereof may be looked into.

Per Ramamurti, J. — The two main considerations for regarding a rule as directory are : (i) absence of any provision for the contingency of a particular rule not being complied with or followed; and (ii) serious general inconvenience and prejudice to the general public would result if the Act in question is declared invalid for non-compliance with the particular rule. Far from declaring that any act done in violation of S. 44 of the Act would be deemed to be invalid or void S. 45 provides just the contrary, that no order made in exercise of any power conferred by or under the Act shall be called in question in any Court. Such a provision is hardly reconcilable with the view that S 44 is mandatory. On the second consideration, if any act of the Government done in violation of S. 44 is to be declared null and void, it will result in serious prejudice to the public and cause considerable dislocation and seriously interfere with the war efforts taken by the Government in the matter of the defence of India and the public safety besides completely defeating and frustrating the very purpose and object of the enactment. If the action of the authority complies with the directive in S. 44 no protection or saving as in S. 45 at all is necessary in regard to the action. On the other hand, if the authority is guilty of fraudulent exercise of the power or its misuse for a collateral purpose opposed to the object and purpose of the enactment that act will be invalid, and it is settled law that to such a situation the saving in S. 45 will not apply and the legality of such acts can certainly be called in question in any Court. It is only for the intermediate case, where the authority has acted contrary to the provisions of S. 44 that the saving or the restriction in S. 45 really comes into play or serves any useful purpose. ILR (1964) 1 Mad 327 : (1965) 1 M L J 486 : 1965 M L J (Cr) 258 : (1965) 1 Cri L J 714 : A I R 1965 Mad 225 (228, 229, 234, 246) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 7, 23, 24, 66).

——Art. 226 — Breach of service rules framed by executive—Jurisdiction of Courts. See Ibid, Art. 310. AIR 1958 Mad 243.

——Art. 226 (1) — Invasion of fundamental rights — Issue of prerogative writs.

In cases of invasion of fundamental rights it is not merely a power but a duty of the High Court to grant relief by the issue of prerogative writs under Art. 226. The High Court will exercise the utmost restraint in interfering with the acts of the executive. But where the High Court is satisfied that the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution have been violated by any act or order of the executive it is the sacred duty of the High Court to set it aside.

The High Court has power to do this under Art. 226 by issuing a writ or any appropriate order so that a wrong done by the order of the Government may be remedied. AIR 1953 Him P 57 and AIR 1952 Hyd 36, Rel. on. AIR 1955 Manipur 49 (54, 55) (Pt E) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226 — Writ against executive authority — Income-tax Act (1961), S. 148.

While issuing notices under S. 148 of the Act, the Income-tax Officer is not acting judicially or quasi-judicially and consequently no writ of certiorari or prohibition can be issued. But it is well settled that High Court has power to issue in a fit case an order prohibiting the executive authority from acting without jurisdiction, particularly where such an act subjects or is likely to subject any citizen to lengthy proceedings and unnecessary harassment. AIR 1961 S C 372, Rel. on. (1965) 56 I T R 250 : (1964) 2 I T J 654 : (1964) 1 Mys L J 503 : AIR 1965 Mys 255 (256) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court under—Extent of—Administrative Orders.

The powers of the High Court under Art. 226, are wide and not limited to cases for safeguarding fundamental rights as implied from the words 'for any other purpose." AIR 1952 Nag 330 and AIR 1953 Mys 156 (FB), Ref.

Administrative orders may be challenged by a petition under Art. 226 if those involve infringement of constitutional rights or disregard of rules. AIR 1952 All 752 and AIR 1952 All 753, Ref.

Under Article 226, the High Court has ample powers to issue to any person in authority, including any Government, a direction for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose. Interference by the Court will be warranted by the law when even an executive authority is not exercising its powers bona fide for the purpose contemplated by the law or influenced by extraneous and irrelevant considerations and where injustice has resulted. A. I. R. Commentary on Constitution, Art. 226 No. 119, Rel. on; (Distinction between bona fide actions and mala fide actions pointed out). I L R (1955) Mys 203 : AIR 1955 Mys 81 (85, 88) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10, 22, 23) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Fundamental right put in jeopardy by act of executive.

The power of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution for enforcing fundamental rights is very wide and is not restricted to the issuing of only the well-known writs under the common law. Those writs may not prove adequate to deal with every infringement of a fundamental right. A fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution may be put in jeopardy by an act of the executive. The Court has been empowered to issue to any person or authority, and in an appropriate case even to the Government directions, orders or writs for the enforcement of rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution. I L R (1951) Nag 959 : AIR 1951 Nag 138 (140, 141) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope of—Executive act—Demand of excise duty in violation of Art. 265—Power of High Court to interfere.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court is empowered to issue, apart from the well-known writs, orders or directions for the enforcement of fundamental rights or for any other purpose. Even executive acts are not outside the scope of the power of the Court under that article. Where at the risk of his property being put in peril the petitioner is asked to comply with a demand for an excise duty in violation of a principle enshrined in Art. 265 of the Constitution, the case calls for the exercise of the power of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. I L R (1952) Nag 156 : AIR 1952 Nag 139 (144) (Pt H) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order by Maharaja of Jaipur on 6th April 1949, levying fine of Rs. 10,000 on jagirdar for illicit distillation—Order held illegal. AIR 1954 Raj 200 (DB).

——Art. 226 — V. P. Government Rev. Department Order No. 115 dated 8-4-53/22-4-53 — Validity — Executive order depriving property rights of petitioner without adequate reasons. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1955 N U C (Vind-Pra) 767.

50 (f). Discretionary orders.

——Art. 226 — Ejectment suit — Permission for its institution—Exercise of discretion by District Magistrate cannot be challenged in Court of law. See Houses and Rents—U. P. Temporary Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947) (as amended by Act, 44 of 1948), S. 3. AIR 1952 All 699 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative proceedings—Interference with — Appointment of Mauzadars — (Assam) Land Revenue Manual, Ch. VIII, Part II, Para. 115).

The appointments of Mauzadars are made under executive instructions in the exercise of powers of the Provincial Government. By issuing executive instructions as contained in para. 115 of the Manual and permitting the Deputy Commissioner to appoint or dismiss Mauzadar subject to the approval of the Government, the power that vests in the Government has not been surrendered. It remains with the Government.

The executive instructions contained in para. 115 are not rules which have the force of law. A surrender of powers of the Government is possible by legislative enactments or by rules which have the force of law. Mere executive instructions for the guidance of subordinate officers for making provisional appointments do not have the force of such rules as may be enforced against the Government in a Court of law and do not create enforceable rights.

Where no appointment could be finalised without the approval of the Provincial Government and where the whole case is before the Provincial Government for approval of the appointment made by the Deputy Commissioner, it cannot be regarded as having exceeded its power if the Government decided to differ from the Deputy Commissioner and selected another candidate for the office of the Mauzadar, particularly when the whole record is before the Provincial Government and the qualifications of the different candidates which have been considered by the Deputy Commissioner are before it.

Held, that no case for interference under Art. 226 was made out. The proceeding was administrative in character. There was no right of appeal against it. No binding rule of law had been violated. AIR 1953 Assam 155 and AIR 1954 Assam 12, Disting. I L R (1954) 6 Assam 479 : AIR 1954 Assam 261 (263, 264) (Prs 7, 8, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of appointment by Deputy Commissioner — Interference with — (Assam Land Revenue Manual, R. 116).

Article 226, in spite of the plenitude of power which it confers on the High Courts, would not justify interference with the exercise of discretion by the Deputy Commissioner when passing an administrative order appointing a person as a 'Mauzadar. I L R (1953) 5 Assam 447 : AIR 1954 Assam 12 (16) (Pt F) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative Orders — [Assam Forest Manual, Part 2, Chap, 3, R. 3 (ii)].

The Deputy Commissioner or the Sub-Divisional Officer when exercising his power of fixing or refixing the sites under the rules under Assam Forest Regulation (1891) is not bound by any objective standards. He is not bound to give any reasons. There is no provision for appeal against these orders. Fixing of sites or their alteration is left to his discretion. Any erroneous exercise of this discretion cannot be controlled by high prerogative writs: 11 A C 45, Distinguished. AIR 1953 Assam 168 (170) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Interference with administrative order.

It is not that in no case can the High Court interfere under its power prescribed under Art. 226 where the order complained of is an administrative order but where discretion is left to the officer concerned, and it has been exercised by him and the procedure properly followed, the High Court will not interfere in dealing with a petition under Art. 226 even though the order may be considered to be wrong on merits. If certain matters are left to the discretion of the officer, the Court cannot control that discretion unless the discretion is arrived at mala fide or is not a proper exercise of discretion. AIR 1952 Bom 468, Rel. on; AIR 1952 S C 16, Disting. I L R (1953) 5 Assam 263; AIR 1953 Assam 145 (147, 149, 150) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 29, 30) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 19 (5)—Custom in Garo Hills that it is in interest of people there that no Nepali or foreigner should be allowed to live in Garo village without Deputy Commissioner's permission—Deputy Commissioner after due enquiry coming to conclusion that petitioner living in that village was not in the interest of villagers—Expulsion order—Validity—Discretion held properly used. See Ibid, Art. 19 (5). 1953 Cri L J 495 : A I R 1953 Assam 61.

——Art. 226 — Executive act — Calcutta maidan—Police Commissioner—Refusal of permission to circus shows—Issue of writ.

Except for the area comprising the Fort William and the Victoria Memorial, the rest of the Calcutta maidan has been entrusted to the State Government for proper administration, which it is doing through the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta. Permission for a circus show was refused to an Indian citizen, who thereupon applied for a suitable writ against the Police Commissioner.

Held, that the administration of the affairs of the maidan was an executive matter and there was no law by which the administration has to be performed in a particular manner. The petitioner had not established that the public had perfected any legal right against the Union with whom vested the title to the property or that there had been encroachment upon the right of the public. As there was no pleading on behalf of the petitioner that he had been discriminated by reason of 'race', and no sufficient proof that there had been such discrimination, the High Court could not interfere by the issue of a high prerogative writ. A I R 1959 Cal 45, Rel. on. 64 Cal W N 348 : 1960 Cri L J 1432 : A I R 1960 Cal 664 (666, 667, 668) (Prs 5, 6).

——Art. 226—Applicability — Unauthorised expenditure by Chief Minister of a State—Application for writ—Competency.

Where the Chief Minister of a State is alleged to be illegally spending amounts out of the Consolidated Fund, that is not within the scope of an application under Art. 226. The Centre is astute enough to look after its own financial interests and unauthorised expenditures will undoubtedly be disallowed in audit. The interference of the High Court is not called for. 60 Cal W N 555 : I L R (1957) 3 Cal 390 : A I R 1956 Cal 378 (384) (Pt I) (Pr 27).

——Art. 226 — Order of Collector to demolish cattle pound is executive order — This power is not taken away by Chapter V — No approval of State Government is necessary. See Cattle-Trespass Act (1871), S. 4. 1962 (1) Cri L J 39 : A I R 1962 Ker 10.

——Art. 226—Choice of title of newspaper — Magistrate has discretion to authenticate or cancel declaration—Order refusing to cancel declaration not quasi-judicial — No interference by High Court under Art. 226 of Constitution of India. See Press and Registration of Books Act (1867), S. 5 (2). A I R 1965 Madh Pra 128 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Land Records Manual, Vol. II, R. 3 (i).

Confirmation of Revenue Inspectors in the discretion of Collector — No writ can be issued for confirmation. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 159.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Administrative or executive action—High Court will not substitute its own decision on merits.

In proceedings under Art. 226 or even under Art. 227 in regard to administrative authority or tribunal, the High Court will not substitute its decision on merits. It will only see whether the administrative authority or the tribunal was really acting in exercise of the powers it has under the law or rule, and in good faith and in accordance with accepted notions of fairplay and natural justice. If on consideration of the merits it happens to arrive at a decision different from what the authority or the tribunal has arrived at, still, it will not thrust its opinion on them. To do so, would be to frustrate the very purpose with which certain matters are left within the discretion of administrative authorities or within the judicial or quasi-judicial competence of special tribunals. 1960 M P C 492 : 1960 M P L J 1063 : 1960 Jab L J 1160.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Issue of writ—(Gwalior Co-operative Societies Rules (Smt. 1997), R. 52).

If on inspection the Registrar comes to certain conclusions about the manner in which the society or the bank is functioning, it is entirely his look-out and not the business of the High Court. If he is dissatisfied he is empowered to take different steps. Where the Registrar acts under R. 52 certainly the High Court cannot go into merits. 1959 M P C 195 : 1960 M P L J 715 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 618 : 1959 Jab L J 459 : A I R 1959 Madh Pra 218 (220, 221) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — M. B. Secondary Education Act, S. 16 —Regulations under Chap. 11, Regn. 4 — Inspection report—Report purely advisory—Board not bound to accept it while granting recognition to a School—Court cannot interfere with recognition on that ground. 1959 M P C 52.

——Art. 226—Scope of jurisdiction of High Court—Interference with executive direction by Magistrate to police to take action under S. 107, Criminal P. C.

The High Court cannot be called upon to exercise its jurisdiction under Art 226 of the Constitution simply on an executive direction by a Sub-Magistrate to the police to take a particular action under S. 107, Criminal P. C. (1952) 1 Mad L J 471 : 1953 Cri L J 63 : 1952 Mad W N (Cr) 68 : A I R 1952 Mad 880 (880) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders — Matter within discretion of executive—Issue of writ.

The matter of renewal of annual leases of Government lands is purely a matter within the discretion of the executive authority and a writ under Art. 226 will not lie directing that discretion to be exercised one way or the other. In such cases Courts have no power to investigate the grounds or the reasonableness of the decision arrived at in the exercise of that discretion except when mala fides are clearly proved. A I R 1958 Manipur 1 (4) (Pt E) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

The amount of the extra water rate charged under R. 32 of the Sirhind Canal Rules is a matter that solely rests with the canal authorities and is not one that can be questioned in a Court of law or, at any rate, by a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1956 Pepsu 40 (48) (Pt II) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 226—Subjective satisfaction of officer when justiciable. See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), S. 4 (1). A I R 1955 Pepsu 48.

——Art. 226 — Two villages with population of less than 500—Villages contiguous though another village intervening — Absence of relaxation of limit by Government — Villages cannot have separate Sabha areas — Question of relaxation pertains to discretion of Government — High Court cannot interfere. See Panchayats—Puniab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1963), S. 4 (1). ('65) 67 Punj L J 511.

——Art 226 — Although R. 25 of Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules compels authorities to transfer property to claimant, R. 26 empowers them to use discretion in case of non claimant — High Court can neither re-examine nor interfere under Art. 226 of Constitution of India. See Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules, R. 25. ('65) 67 Punj L R 215.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court under—Extent and ambit of — Exercise of its discretion, by a Tribunal or Authority—Interference with—Permissibility — Issuance of writ or directions — When could be issued or given.

The High Court in exercise of its powers under Art 226 of the Constitution cannot interfere with the exercise of discretion by any authority or tribunal provided the authority has not exceeded the bounds of its jurisdiction or acted mala fide or based its order on wholly extraneous grounds. But it is the constitutional duty of the High Court to keep all authorities and tribunals (under the Court's jurisdiction) while discharging their judicial, quasi judicial or statutory functions, within the bounds of their jurisdiction and to compel them, wherever necessary, to perform the duties enjoined on them by law strictly in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions. This is the only way in which the High Court can assist in the maintenance of rule of law which is enshrined in Art. 14 of the Constitution. The High Court would indeed be failing in its duty if it declines, even in a proper case to compel any authority, howsoever high, which is otherwise within its jurisdiction, to conform to the rule of law and to act within the circumscribed limits of their statutory authority. Normally the High Court will give appropriate orders or directions under Art. 226 of the Constitution when it is found (1) that a judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal or a statutory authority has (i) acted without inherent jurisdiction or (ii) acted in excess of its jurisdiction; or (iii) assumed jurisdiction where it had none; or (iv) while exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions passed some order in which some glaring error of law on some material point is apparent on the face of the record and on account of such assumption, refusal or excess of jurisdiction or such error of law, manifest injustice has resulted to the aggrieved party; (2) when a statutory authority passes an order which is tainted with fraud or is actuated by malice or is vitiated on account of being based on some wholly extraneous considerations (3) when the impugned order or action is violative of any of the fundamental rights enshrined in Part III of the Constitution; (4) when the impugned order or action is violative of any statutory right of the petitioner resulting in manifest injustice to him and he has no other adequate alternative remedy to get the wrong rectified; (5) when the life or property of a citizen is being jeopardised by the State and the State is not able to support such an interference with the life, liberty or property of the subject, on the authority of any valid law.

It is neither possible nor proper to fetter the discretion of the High Court in the matter of exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution or to lay down any hard or fast rules for the same. But the jurisdiction of the High Court under the article is to be normally exercised keeping in view the above principles and at the same time keeping in view the fact that it is not for the High Court to interfere in the day-to day work of statutory and other authorities, so long as they remain within their bounds and do their duties as enjoined on them by law. 1965 Cur L J 541 : I L R (1965) 2 Punj 802 : (1965-66) 29 F J R 155.

——Art. 226 — Erroneous decision of Custodian General in extending time for revision — No ground for issue of writ—(Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1956), S. 27.)

Even if it be held that the Deputy Custodian General was in error in extending the time for revision it is not for the High Court to interfere under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1952 S C 319, Relon. 59 Pun L R 52 : I L R (1957) Punj 491.

——Art. 226 — Discretionary power vested in administrative authority—Court when can interfere.

There are well-defined limits within which the exercise of a discretionary power vested by the statute in an administrative authority can be disturbed by the Courts. These principles are—(i) the authority for the exercise of the power depends on its being strictly within the limits of the statute, and the Court would not allow the power to be exercised for any collateral purpose; (ii) there must be observance of the mandatory statutory procedure; and (iii) there is existence of the basic facts with reference to which the power is vested provided that the Legislature does not vest the determination of the basic facts in the authority itself. 1905 A C 426, Rel. on. 1954 Cri L J 1672 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 172 : AIR 1954 Raj 264 (267) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application for re-instatement allowed by Revenue Board — Interference by High Court. See Tenancy Laws — Rajasthan Tenants Protection Ordinance (9 of 1899), S. 7. AIR 1954 Raj 40 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Issue of writs under — Jagir taken under management of Court of Wards, Rajasthan — Jagirdar disqualified under S. 7 (1) (b) (ii) of Marwar Court of Wards Act — Not convicted of any non-bailable offence — Minister's note that Jagirdar should be declared unfit to manage — Thikana — If an order for declaring him unfit — If it amounts to the requisite "declaration by the Durbar" Government of Rajasthan — Arts. 166 and 163 of the Constitution—Validity of taking over.

Superintendence of Thikana N was assumed by the Court of Wards, Rajasthan, under Marwar Court of Wards Act, S. 7 (1) (b) (ii) on the basis of a letter of the Revenue Secretary issued on the note of a Minister of the Government of Rajasthan. The Minister's note was to the effect that in view of the circumstances set forth he was of the view that it is clear the Thakur is liable to be declared unfit to manage his Thikana N and the Thakur should be declared unfit to manage the Thikana N. On this so-called order the Revenue Secretary issued a letter to the Commissioner of Jodhpur Division instancing the various acts of the Thakur rendering him to be declared unfit to and incapable of managing the affairs of the said Thikana and therefore it is necessary to take it under the superintendence of the Court of Wards and the Thakur be declared as incapable to manage his Thikana.

The Thakur applied under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India praying for the issue of a writ in the nature of certiorari, prohibition or mandamus or any other appropriate writ to the State of Rajasthan and the order made under S. 7 (1) (b) (ii) of the Marwar Court of Wards Act be quashed. Allowing the application it was held : The recitals in the order of the Revenue Secretary cannot be questioned as incorrect by the Court and it has only to see whether the order challenged is valid on the said recitals.

The contention of the applicant that the conjunction "and" in S. 7 (1) (b) (ii) should be read in its ordinary grammatical sense cannot be accepted; it should be read as "or". It is not necessary that the Thakur should have been convicted of a non-bailable offence in addition to his being declared unfit because of the facts recited in Rajasthan Court of Wards order, which ground is found in the corresponding provision in Rajasthan Court of Wards Act, which replaced the Marwar Act. (AIR 1951 All 119, Ref.; AIR 1950 S C 265, Dist.)

The assumption of superintendence by the Court of Wards of the Thikana under S. 11 (a) can only be sustained if the Thakur has been disqualified under S. 7 (1) (b).

Section 7 (1) (b) (ii) requires a 'declaration of the Durbar' now "declaration of the Government of Rajasthan" (vide S. 3 (1) of Rajasthan Administration Ordinance I of 1949).

The Ministers under Art. 163 of the Constitution merely aid and advise the Governor (Raj Pramukh) in the exercise of his functions. Hence the so-called order of the Minister is merely a note tendering advice and ordering the Secretary to take necessary steps.

It is not a declaration or an order declaring the Thakur unfit as required by the S. 7 (1) (b); Art. 166 of the Constitution provides that all executive actions of the Government must be taken in the name of the Raj Pramukh and duly authenticated. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 207 : 1952 R L W 291 : A I R 1953 Raj 46 (47 to 49) (Pts A, B) (Prs 9, 11, 13, 16, 17) (DB).

50 (g). Orders not justiciable.

——Art. 226 - Jurisdiction—Order under S. 3, Foreigners Act (1946) deporting petitioner validly passed—There is no power in the High Court to extend time to petitioner to remove his goods. I L R (1963) 15 Assam 279 : AIR 1963 Assam 105 (108) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative or executive orders — Interference — Post Office Act Ss. 9, 7 and Sch 1—Post Office Rules, R. 30—Application for registration or renewal of registration as newspaper—Conditions to be satisfied by the periodical — Question is left to the decision of Post Master General or other authorised officer—It is left to the subjective satisfaction of the executive authority — It is not justiciable by Courts of law — Applicant may be called upon to give such information as required — Rules do not however, give any right of hearing or right to any notice—It is left to executive discretion — The only grounds on which decision will be interfered with will be the ground of mala fide — Petitioner is not entitled to writ of mandamus unless the decision is extraneous to purposes of the Post Office Act. See Post Office Act (1898), S. 9. AIR 1961 Bom 105.

——Art. 226—Executive orders are not law — Settlement of fisheries in West Bengal is by executive orders—Not justiciable under Constitution of India, Art. 226. 65 Cal W N 685 : A I R 1961 Cal 214 (217) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Certiorari and mandamus — Issuance of—Executive act—Futile writ—Manager appointed under S. 10 (2) (b) of Administration of Evacuee Property Act—Cancellation of appointment—Cannot be remedied either by certiorari or mandamus.

If there be sufficient legal justification for passing orders, they cannot be vacated on the ground of their purporting to be under some power that does not confer the jurisdiction. AIR 1958 S C 232 and 1959 Ker L T 636, Rel. on.

Appointment of a manager under S. 10 (2) (b) of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act in respect of properties which have vested in the Custodian under S. 8 being essentially an executive act, the cancellation of such order would also be an executive act and cannot be vacated by a writ of certiorari.

Nor can a writ of mandamus be issued against the Custodian who had cancelled such appointment, since the authorities higher than the Custodian who have a discretion to remove the person from the managership, could nullify the effect of the writ. AIR 1952 Bom 277 and (1777) 98 E R 1220 Rel. on.; A I R 1954 S C 403 and A I R 1957 S C 529, Dist. 1961 Ker L J 382 : 1961 Ker L T 1081 : A I R 1962 Ker 152 (155, 156) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative or executive orders—Issue of writ.

Orders relating to fixation of the rank of a Government servant in the integrated gradation list of the ministerial staff are only executive orders not amounting to law, passed in the exercise of the executive functions of the State. An executive order may be changed at the will of the Government by another executive order. Such orders are not justiciable. ILR (1955) Trav-Co 404 and AIR 1958 Ker 1 (FB), Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 892 : A I R 1961 Ker 52 (53) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—It is not within the province of the High Court to make any suggestion for relaxation of the restrictions placed on a foreigner to the executive authorities when they have taken action under the Foreigners Order, 1948. 1959 Ker L T 1242 : 1959 Ker L J 1361 : ILR (1959) Ker 181 : 1960 Ker L J 821 : A I R 1960 Ker 177 (183) (Pt D) (Pr 36).

——Art. 226 — Executive or administrative rules framed by Government —Infringement of—Justiciability—Art. 31 (2).

The formulation of a proper integration rule governing the services of two former Indian States integrated into one State or the right invocation or application thereof in particular case apart from any question of mala fides or discrimination, is not justiciable under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

Per Koshi, C. J.—In the absence of a violation of constitutional guarantees or an infringement of the rules of natural justice no civil servant will be entitled to redress under Art. 226, against any Government order made against him. A I R 1958 Mad 53, Foll. 1957 Ker L T 938 : 1957 Ker L J 833 : I L R (1958) Ker 48 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 717 : AIR 1958 Ker 85 (87, 88) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 9, 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Executive order — Interference — Arts. 311, 366 and 372 — (Service Regulations and Standing Orders of Cochin—Violation of) — Travancore-Cochin Administration and Application of Laws Act (1125), S. 2).

The Service Regulations and Standing Orders of Cochin constitute no more than executive order, a violation of which cannot be corrected under Art 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1956) Trav-Co 1339, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 693 : 1957 Ker L J 707 : I L R (1957) Ker 884 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 76 : A I R 1958 Ker 79 (79) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative order — Equation of services in matter of integration—It is administrative decision and cannot be interfered with in proceedings under the Article.

The decision of the competent authority about the equation of posts in the matter of integration of services after reorganisation of States is an administrative decision which cannot be interfered with by High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1965 M P L J 825 : 1965 Jab L J 1008: AIR 1966 Madh Pra 134 (135) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Subjective satisfaction — What constitutes — Subjective satisfaction whether can be challenged in Court of law.

Where the exercise of an administrative act is made dependent by the Legislature upon the existence of contingency involving a question of fact about which the authority has to be satisfied, then the satisfaction of the authority in regard to that fact is a subjective satisfaction which cannot be challenged in a Court of Law if the grounds upon which it has been made have a rational probative value and are not extraneous to the scope or purpose of the relevant provision. AIR 1951 S C 157 and AIR 1952 S C 174 and AIR 1954 S C 179 Rel. on. 1961 M P C 225 : 1961 Jab L J 913 : 1961 M P L J 828 : A I R 1961 Madh Pra 356 (360) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Executive orders — Bihar Education Code—Violation of —Issue of writ.

The Bihar Education Code is a mere compilation of executive orders issued from time to time by the State Government for the guidance of the Director of Public Instruction and his subordinates. It is not a collection of statutory rules, and, therefore, no writ can be issued if there has been any violation of those rules. 1957 B L J R 114; Rel. on. 1958 B L J R 212 : I L R 37 Pat 462 : A I R 1958 Pat 653 (654) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ for direction to Jail authorities to permit accused to meet other co-accused for filing joint appeal —Relief outside scope of Art. 226.

Where the petitioner's detention is valid, it is not for the High Court to direct under Art. 226 the jail authorities to permit him to meet with any other accused persons. Such a relief is wholly outside the scope of Art. 226. That is a matter for the internal administration of the jail authorities and the High Court will be disinclined to interfere with those matters. 63 Punj L R 586 : I L R (1961) 2 Punj 693 : 1961 (2) Cr L J 687 (2) : A I R 1961 Punj 524 (527, 528) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 —Revision under S. 64 (h), Motor Vehicles Act — Order by Minister of State — Interference in writ proceedings—Not to judge in own cause — Principle not applicable to an official deciding matter which may affect his own department. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by E. P. Act 28 of 1948), S. 64 (h). AIR 1960 Punj 142.

——Art. 226 — Imposition of punitive police force—It is for Government to decide—Court's cannot interfere under Art. 226. See Police Act (1861), S. 15. 1955 Cri L J 733 : AIR 1955 Punj 103.

50 (h). Finality of executive and administrative orders.

——Art. 226 -Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 5A — Finailty of Government decision — See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 5A. AIR 1954 Assam 81.

——Art. 226—Writs and Orders against executive.

A provision regarding the finality of the decisions of executive officers cannot take away the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 228 to quash a decision which is based on a manifest error of law or which has the effect of the officer exercising a jurisdiction not vested in him. 73 Mad L W 191 : (1960) 1 Mad L J 434 : ILR (1960) Mad 500.

——Art. 226—Infringement of R. 6 (2) (b) of Saranjam Rules—Direction being administrative cannot be enforced by issue of mandamus—Bombay Saranjams, Jagir and other Inams of Political Nature Resumption Rules, 1952, R. 6 (2) (b) — Per Division Bench. Hanumantha Rao v. State of Mysore, (1963) 2 Mys L J 164 (FB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order—Interference — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, Ss. 15 (1) and 22 (2).

The powers conferred on the High Court by Art. 226 of the Constitution are wide enough to enable interference in proper cases with an order under S. 15 (1) of the C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, although such an order is administrative and is given finality by the provisions of S. 22 (2) of the Act. 1952 N L J 682 : I L R (1953) Nag 245 : A I R 1953 Nag 125 (126) (Ft C) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 Madh Pra 274 (FB).]

——Art. 226 — Import Control Policy (from Jan. to June 1956), Part IV, Item 314, Cl.(d) in remarks column

—Interpretation — Customs Authorities have exclusive jurisdiction to interpret—Its interpretation must prevail and same cannot be assailed in writ proceeding. See Imports and Exports (Control) Act (1947), S. 3. AIR 1965 Punj 181 (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Construction of revenue entry—Displaced persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S. 7.

In exercise of its writ jurisdiction, the High Court would not interfere on the question of construction of a revenue entry, for purposes of determination of compensation under Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act. That would be a matter within the jurisdiction of the Rehabilitation authorities. A I R 1964 S C 477, Rel. on. 1965 Cur L J 817 (Punj) (DB).

51. Fundamental rights, contracting out of.

■ ——Art. 32—Contracting out of fundamental rights — Procedure laid down in the Act for settlement of disputes between Patiala State Bank and its customers —No infringement of Art. 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1963 S C 222.

52. Fundamental rights, suspension of.

See Notes 217 and 119 and Ibid, Arts. 358, 359.

53. Futile or unnecessary writ.

(a) Certiorari.
(b) Mandamus.

53. Futile or unnecessary writ.

■ ——Art. 226—Infructuous writ — Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules, Rr. 36 (7) and 59 — Govt. is not bound to accept highest bid — It is not arbitrary to accept bid of co-operative society of mining labourers in preference to highest bid. Contract, however, about to end — Supreme Court will not interfere, even if acceptance of contract was not legal, See Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1959), S. 36 (7). AIR 1965 S C 1992.

■ ——Art. 32 — Infructuous writ—Deputy Commissioner giving liquor contract under Mysore Excise Act to B — Action wrong and running counter to policy of legislature — In ordinary event A would be given the writ but as it would be ineffective due to the expiry of the contract year and as it was not practice of the Supreme Court to issue meaningless writs, no writ was issued. See Mysore Excise Act (5 of 1901), S. 16. AIR 1954 S C 592.

——Art. 226—Futile application — Relief by way of writ is discretionary, and where the purpose sought for is already achieved, the High Court should not move in the matter. A I R 1962 All 574 (576, 577) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 of 1951), Ss. 176, 182-A and 182-B—Division of holding—Appeal against order of Collector under S. 176 not entertained by Commissioner on ground of non-maintainability — Board of Revenue setting aside order of Commissioner in second appeal — Writ petition against order of Board, held not maintainable as even if writ powers were exercised ultimate order that would be passed would not affect rights or position of parties—Useless exercise of writ powers held not appropriate. See Tenancy Laws — U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 of 1951), S. 176. 1962 All L J 11.

——Art. 226—Petition under, against order cancelling petitioner's permit which expired subsequently — Petition does not become infructuous on account of expiry of period of permit — Petitioner has still subsisting interest in result of petition as he would be in a position to obtain renewal of permit if order of cancellation is set aside. AIR 1960 All 247 (249, 250) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Futile writ—Issue of—Art. 311.

A candidate declared successful in a preliminary examination held by the Collectorate for the purpose of recruitment to the post of an apprenticeship in that office does not thereby get a right to any service whatsoever. A declaration, therefore, that he had passed the examination would be futile. The High Court does not interfere by way of writ unless the right of a party is affected in any manner. AIR 1955 All 534, Disting. AIR 1960 All 123 (123, 124) (Prs 3, 5) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226—Futile writ—Issue of.

It is well-established principle that the issue of a writ being within the discretion of a Court, the Court would rarely issue a a writ if the issue of such a writ was to be futile. Mahesh Chandra v. Tarachand Modi, ILR (1958) 2 All 817 : AIR 1958 All 374 (387) (Pt F) (Pr 85) (FB).

——Art. 226—Futile writs.

High Court will not issue a writ, order or direction in a case in which the final authority is not bound by the orders of the High Court and may well flout the directions of the High Court by ignoring them and passing orders as he thought best. I L R (1956) 1 All 622 : 1955 All L J 375 : A I R 1955 All 512 (515) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — The High Court will not issue a writ which will be ineffective—A I R 1954 S C 592, Foll. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2031.

——Art. 226—Futile writs—Issue of.

It is not the practice of the High Court to issue meaningless writs. A I R 1954 S C 592, Foll. 1958 Andh L T 587.

——Art. 226—Temporary permit issued under S. 62, Motor Vehicles Act, 1939—Period of permit expiring on day of hearing of petition — Application made during period of permit for writ questioning legality of issue of permit will still be considered. A I R 1963 Assam 1 (2) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Futile writ—Issue of — Relief against effective order to be sought.

Where the Commissioner of Income-tax does not merely dismiss the revisional application against the order of the Income-tax Officer but modifies that order, it is necessary for the assessee who has filed a writ petition to get the order of the Commissioner of Income-tax set aside before he can hope to get any relief from the High Court. The reason is that the High Court will decline to pass an order which will not be an effective order. (1959) 36 I T R 538 (Bom).

——Art. 226—Expiry of licence under S. 39, Calcutta Police Act — Application under Art. 226 for issue of writ of mandamus against Commissioner of Police for refusal to grant renewal of licence—Held, time of licence having been irretrievably expired it would be useless to issue writs. 1965 (1) Cri L J 679 : AIR 1965 Cal 312 (324) (Pt I) (Pr 47) (DB).

——Art. 226—Futile writ—Writ challenging validity of order of reversion of petitioner — Retirement of petitioner pending disposal of writ — Writ not rendered infructuous since if order of reversion is quashed petitioner would get relief in respect of arrears of any pension on the footing that he had never been reverted. A I R 1964 Cal 265 (276) (Pt F) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Writ to compel authorities to issue import license for period which had long expired—Firm, established importer, dissolved—Applications, by re-constituted firm for import license within prescribed time not made in accordance with rules and regulations — Licensing authority refusing to issue licence—Mandamus to command authority to issue license for expired periods cannot be issued—

Scheme of import trade regulations analysed. A I R 1960 Cal 561 (564, 565) (Pr 4).

——Art 226—Futile or unnecessary writ — License under Bengal Places of Public Amusement Act asked for - Period expiring—Issue of writ - (Bengal Places of Public Amusement Act (10 of 1933), S. 5 (3)).

Where the period for which the license was asked for has expired the High Court will not make any order because such order will be infructuous. A I R 1956 Cal 146 (147) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Futile writs — Application for writs against orders of Collector of Customs — Rule 'nisi' directed against him by name — He ceasing to be Collector of Customs — Application cannot be allowed.

One R who was the Collector of Customs made an order under Sea Customs Act imposing penalty on certain party. That party applied for writs of certiorari and prohibition against the orders of R and the Rule 'nisi' was directed against R by name. The Union of India was not made a party to the proceedings at all. R however ceased to function as Collector of Customs and was transferred to some other post.

Held, that the rule, if it was made absolute, could be made absolute only against R but to do so would be to require him to do what he could not possibly do and to give to him a direction which would be utterly meaningless. In such circumstances the application for writs under Art. 226 could not be granted. AIR 1955 Cal 241 (244) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Futile writ—Issue of.

Under Art. 226 an order is never made which will be ineffective. ILR (1955) 2 Cal 470.

——Art. 226—Scope — Suspension or cancellation of arms licence—Recording of reasons must be by authority — It must appear from order that it was passed for security of public peace—Conditions are mandatory—Conditions not complied with—Order is without jurisdiction and must be quashed—Even if licence expires relief of quashing such order is not infructuous. See Arms Act (1878), S. 18 (a). I L R (1965) Guj 571.

——Art. 226 — Futile writ — Acts done in obedience to higher authority.

A writ of certiorari or mandamus or any writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution, cannot be granted in respect of acts done in obedience to a higher authority. The issue of a writ in such a case will be futile. A writ of mandamus is never issued forcing any authority, officer or tribunal to exercise a doubtful jurisdiction nor a writ of certiorari to quash an order when no object is served thereby. I L R (1955) Hyd 780 : AIR 1955 Hyd 269 (270, 271) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Futile or unnecessary writ.

The duty of a Court consists of deciding a case that comes before it and for doing so, it must adjudicate upon questions which are necessary for the decision. But when conditions came into existence on account of which the relief prayed for by a party cannot serve any useful purpose and even if the relief is granted, it would not be of any avail even to the party itself, the Court must refuse to go into all the matters raised therein and must throw out the application as being infructuous. 1956 Cri L J 1400 : A I R 1956 Kutch 12 (13) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Octroi Inspector temporarily appointed to post of Octroi Superintendent for a period of 6 months—Reversion to original post — Writ petition for quashing order—Period for which petitioner could hold such post expiring — Petition dismissed as infructuous. 1956 M B L J (H C R) 1307.

——Art. 226 — Futile writ — For issue of writ, petitioner must show that in the event of his grievance being remedied he would get some benefit.

Whenever the petitioner complains of a particular act of commission or omission on the part of an authority, he should also indicate that in the event of the particular omission or commission being remedied, he would get some benefit to which he is entitled in all justice. Where the petitioner, who was in unauthorised possession of premises under arrangement with the allottee, challenged the vires of S. 3 of the Madhya Bharat Public Premises Eviction and Recovery of Rent Act (27 of 1951) because that section did not provide for hearing in which he could prove his case:

Held, that hearing the petitioner's story could only result in his story being accepted but even if it was accepted he could not become an authorised person. Hence on this ground the petition was liable to be dismissed. 1961 M P L J 1228 : 1961 Jab L J 256 : ILR (1962) Madh Pra 57.

——Art. 226—Futile writ—Issue.

Where the State in utter violation of the fundamental rights of the petitioners and other members of the Jain community installed a Shivling in a public temple of theirs and also prevented them from entering the temple for worship and contended that even if the High Court issued a writ or direction to remove the 'ling' and allow the petitioners to worship in the temple it would be not only difficult but impossible for them, because of certain reasons, to carry out the orders and therefore the writ would be futile :

Held, in the facts of the case that when the petitioners were prevented from entering the temple for worship of the Shivling which was there, a writ or direction issued by the Court would be effective in the case. ILR (1957) Madh Pra 658 : 1957 M P C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 115 (126) (Pt H) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretion — Exercise of — Validity of time expired Ordinance—It can be agitated.

The remedy provided for in Art. 226 of the Constitution is a discretionary remedy and the High Court will not exercise its discretion about the validity of an Ordinance that expired about 8 years back. 1957 M P C 770 : 1957 Jab L J 1039 : 1958 M P L J 184 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 82 (82,83) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Futile writ would not be issued—Petitioner, a dismissed servant, praying for quashing of dismissal order being forwarded by adopting procedure which was not according to natural justice—Death of petitioner—Continuance of proceedings by legal representatives — Maintainability — Charges against petitioner not likely to be wiped out by issue of writ — Writ not to be issued — Unless person has legal right he cannot apply under Art. 226.

The petitioner was a servant against whom certain charges including that of corruption were framed and after the departmental enquiry he was dismissed from service. He filed a writ petition praying that his order of dismissal be quashed since the procedure adopted by the authorities, he alleged, was opposed to the principles of natural justice. After filing the petition he died and his legal representatives were brought on record. When the maintainability of writ proceedings by the legal representatives was challenged they contended that whether or not the petitioner, the dismissed officer, was dead could make no difference to the relief sought, namely quashing of the offending order on the record.

Held, that the charges against the officer included the charge of corruption. Assuming that the impugned order was quashed on the ground urged in the petition the position would be that the department would be entitled to continue the proceedings afresh against the delinquent officer. What the High Court could do was only to vacate the impugned order. The charges that were framed against the delinquent officer would not stand wiped out by the writ. It was true that if the dismissal of the officer was improper, then the legal representatives would be entitled to recover from the State such emoluments and other monetary benefits which the delinquent officer would have been entitled to during the period he was kept out of office. But it could not be denied that the recovery of such emoluments would not follow as a matter of course by the issue of a writ. The issue of a writ was only sought as a step towards further legal steps which the legal representatives of the deceased officer proposed to take. The relief sought was purely personal to the delinquent officer and such personal right which really involved the continuance in service or otherwise of a person would not survive to the legal representatives. Unless the person had a legal right, he could not seek the exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226. A I R 1962 S C 1044, Rel. on. (1965) 2 Mad L J 302 : A I R 1966 Mad 260 (262) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act (43 of 1961), S. 137 (1), (2), (3), (XXI) — Income tax Act (1922), S. 54 — Relaxation contained in S. 137 (3) (XXI) operates in respect of statements by assessee in assessment proceedings under repealed Act — Party in whose favour statement was made is entitled to certified copy of statement—Writ under Art. 226 of Constitution, however, refused on ground that conditions necessitating its issue did not exist—Jurisdiction of High Court could not be invoked and could not be exercised in favour of the petitioner solely on the ground that conditions making the statement necessary might arise in the future. See Income-tax Act (1961), S. 137 (1). A I R 1964 Mad 305.

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court to quash order which has spent its force.

The High Court may have power to quash an order although it has spent its force but whether or not it would exercise such power would depend on the circumstances of the case. 37 Mys L J 666 : ILR (1959) Mys 19 : 1960 Cri L J 379 : A I R 1960 Mys 57 (59) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Complaint by Additional Deputy Commissioner under S. 177, I. P. C. — Application for withdrawal under S. 195 (5), Criminal P. C., made to Board of Revenue—Application rejected by Board for want of jurisdiction—Petition for writ under Art. 226 directing Board to return application for representation — Order of Board upheld — Direction to Board held unnecessary as there being no question of limitation petitioner could apply to State Government for relief. 1953 Nag L J 126 : 1953 Cri L J 741 : ILR (1953) Nag 668 : A I R 1953 Nag 121 (122) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Relief prayed for not serving useful purpose.

A Court is not a debating society which is bound to consider and determine all the points that the parties may raise. Its duty consists only of deciding a cause that comes before it and of adjudicating upon the questions that are necessary for the decision. When in a particular case conditions come into existence on account of which the relief prayed for by the party cannot serve any useful purpose and if granted it will not be of any avail even to the party itself, the Court can simply refuse to go into all the matters raised therein and must throw out the petition as infructuous : A I R 1933 Oudh 423, Rel. on. ('50) 2 Pepsu L R 621.

——Art. 226—Writ not serving useful purpose.

If the Court is satisfied that the writ applied for is not likely to serve any useful purpose it can reject the application for this reason alone. ('50) 2 Pepsu L R 443.

——Art. 226 — Infructuous petition — Notice under S. 10 (2), Punjab Agricultural Produce Markets Act 1961 by Chairman — Market Committee suspending license of petitioner for period of fifteen days — Writ petition against order—Expiry of period of suspension —Writ petition becomes infructuous. 67 Pun L R 66.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Court will not pass any order which will for all practical purposes be a dead letter. 1965 Pun L R (Sup) 464.

——Art. 226 — Discretion of Court — Court will not grant writs which may be futile. ('62) 64 Punj L R 1014.

53 (a). Certiorari.

——Art. 226 — Futile writ — Issue of — Practice — (Municipalities —Bengal Municipal Act (15 of 1932), S. 529-A).

Where in a petition for writ of certiorari to quash the order of the District Magistrate refusing to entertain appeal filed under S. 529-A, Bengal Municipal Act, 1932, the High Court finds that the District Magistrate had jurisdiction to entertain appeal but the Magistrate could not have granted any relief even if the appeal had been entertained, it would be utterly futile for the High Court to set aside the order of the Magistrate and send the matter back to him, because the only result that will follow is that the appeal would be dismissed. AIR 1956 Cal 393 (395, 396) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Futile writ—Proceeding of inferior tribunal are null and void—No writ.

It is well settled that certiorari does not issue where the proceedings of the inferior tribunal are not merely voidable, but are absolutely null and void, for in such a case, no benefit will accrue from the issue of the writ. It is open to the parties to ignore them, or to have them set aside by the decree of a competent court as and when occasion arises. A I R 1959 Manipur 24 (25) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Futility — Quashing of void proceedings.

A certiorari does not issue where the proceedings of the inferior Court or tribunal are not merely voidable but are absolutely null and void. AIR 1959 Manipur 17 (19) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Writ of—Futile writ — Will not be issued.

Where the petitioner had applied under Art. 226 for the issue of a writ of certiorari for quashing a special resolution of the Municipal Commissioners, but the force of the resolution had come to end long before the petition came for hearing:

Held, that the application had already become infructuous and no useful and effective writ of certiorari could or should be issued in respect of that resolution which had spent its force. Rameshwar Prasad Agarwal v. Sinha, 1965 B L J R 715 : A I R 1966 Pat 6 (7) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — Futile writ — Issue of.

A writ of certiorari will not be issued if it will be futile or unnecessary. Chitaley and Rao, "Constitution of India", Vol 2 (1954 Edn.), Page 2032, Rel. on. AIR 1956 Sau 100 (101) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Discretion of Court — Principles governing —No writ when result of case decided by writ subject to reconsideration by another statutory tribunal having jurisdiction to decide it finally.

The writs of certiorari and mandamus are high prerogative writs and their issue is discretionary with the Court. Once the writ is issued, the result must be final and must not be subject to interference by any other authority or tribunal. Where under the law, the matter decided by the issue of a writ is subject to reconsideration at a later stage by another tribunal constituted for the purpose, who would be competent to finally dispose of the matter, it amounts in fact to that tribunal sitting in judgment over a writ issued by the High Court. Since that is opposed to the very principle on which the issue of the writ is based, the High Court will not in such cases interfere and issue a writ. 1951 K L T 714 : ILR (1951) T C 808 : A I R 1952 T C 1 (4) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226— Certiorari and mandamus — Issue of writs —Principles — Writs not effective to afford relief to party affected—Writ, if can issue—Practice.

A writ of certiorari and mandamus will not be granted when it will not be effective. Where, in a matter, after quashing an order of a subordinate tribunal, the High Court issues a mandamus to that tribunal to do its duty under the law, it would not be open to the High Court to issue any specific directions to that authority as to the manner in which the duty should be discharged, and there would be nothing to prevent that authority from arriving at the same conclusion as before, the remedy and the relief afforded cannot be said to be effective. In such a case the High Court will not issue either writ. ILR (1951) T C 808 : 1951 KLT 714 : AIR 1952 T C 1 (4) (Pt A) (Pr 11).

53 (b). Mandamus.

——Art. 226—Mandamus — Nature of orders which would be passed —Futile writs. See Northern India Ferries Act (1878), S. 8. AIR 1959 Assam 169 (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus — Writ is not to be issued unless Court is certain that its command will be carried out.

A writ of mandamus is a high prerogative writ. The Court issues a command in order to remedy a grave error or to set right injustice and the Court would never issue such a command unless it is certain that that command would be respected and carried out. ILR (1952) Bom 785 : 54 Bom L R 137 : A I R 1952 Bom 277 (281) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226— Mandamus —Petition against Government official by personal name —Transfer of officer —Effect—Proper procedure.

High Court cannot issue a writ which is bound to be infructuous. Where, therefore, a petition for a writ of mandamus is made against a certain Government official in his personal name and he ceases to hold that office by reason of his transfer, no effective order can be passed against him and hence the proceeding must be dismissed as infructuous. On general principles it is not possible to substitute the official who succeeds to the post as respondent in his place.

As transfers of Government Officers are ordinary incidents of their service a petitioner for a writ should implead a public officer by the designation of his office, instead of individually and should strengthen his position further and ensure himself against subsequent defects in the constitution of his proceedings by impleading the relevant State as party. 95 Cal L J 633 : AIR 1955 Cal 534 (534, 535) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Thing not in existence—Order for return will not be passed. See Bengal Foodgrains (Disposal and Acquisition) Order (1947), Cl. 3 (1). AIR 1952 Cal 502.

——Art. 226—Mandamus.

A writ of mandamus will not be issued if the issue of such writ is bound to prove infructuous. AIR 1953 Cal 653 (657) (Pt E) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 19, 31 and 311— Mandamus to restore to office — Removal from office — Person removed not given opportunity — Effect — Futile writ.

The petitioner was appointed as Mahant by the State Government. While he was in office for some years the Government in pursuance of the findings of the Civil Courts in a litigation that the appointment was ab initio void on the ground that the Central Government alone had the power of appointment removed the petitioner from the office and took over administration into its own hands. The petitioner thereupon initiated proceedings under Art. 226 for a writ to the Government to restore him to the office and remove the interim manager who had been appointed.

Held, the petitioner had not established that he had any fundamental right to the office of Mahant. There was no question of his having been 'deprived' of property. There was no question of the application of Art. 311 to the case because the petitioner who was party to the litigation in which it was found that his appointment was invalid was aware of the findings. Further even if the Court set aside the order of removal, still a writ would be futile because the State Government had been by that time delegated with powers of appointment (which included also the power to remove) and it could again pass an order removing the petitioner from the office. A I R 1928 Bom 20 and A I R 1928 Lah 237 (2) and A I R 1955 Pepsu 106 and A I R 1955 Pepsu 172, Disting : A I R 1952 Sau 59, A I R 1956 All 503 and A I R 1952 S C 12 and A I R 1955 Punj 34 and A I R 1957 Him Pra 1 and A I R 1954 S C 119, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Him Pra 49 (51, 52) (Prs 10, 11, 12).

——Art. 226—Issuing of futile writs.

A mandamus will not go when it appears that it would be futile in its result. Accordingly it will not be granted if the party complained of has powers which would enable him to make the writ inoperative. Likewise even though grounds be made out upon which the Court might grant a writ of certiorari, it will not do so where no benefit could arise from granting it. Held, that as the petitioner's services were terminable under his contract of service on a month's notice even if the reliefs prayed for by the petitioner were to be granted to him, the same would be rendered nugatory by the respondent taking action under that term of the contract. AIR 1954 Him Pra 1 (4) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Futile writ.

Held, that the writ of mandamus which the petitioner asked for could not be issued in this case because the period for which the licence had been asked for was over long ago, and the purpose for which amplifier was required might no longer be in existence. So in the exercise of its discretion the High Court would decline to issue the writ of mandamus asked for though the petitioner was able to establish that the rejection of the application he had made under S. 71 (xv), Madras City Police Act on 10-3-1954 was improper and invalid. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 3183.

——Art. 226 — Futile writs — Lease of fishery rights by Government—Lease cancelled on ground of breach of conditions of lease and fresh lease given to another person — Application by former lessee for quashing order of cancellation of lease and asking lessor to forbear from acting in furtherance of order of cancellation — Subsequent lessee not made party to writ petition.

Held, as subsequent lessee was not made party any order passed in proceedings under Art. 226 would prove infructuous and hence writ of mandamus could not issue. A I R 1961 Manipur 28 (31) (Pt F) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Mandamus — Rejection of petitioner's application for import licence and acceptance of others — Interim order by Court to suspend issue of licences to others until further orders—Rejection was proved improper as it was without any power and petitioner was not at fault — Writ could be issued even after expiry of licensing period. (1964) 1 Mys L J 513 : AIR 1965 Mys 143 (149) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Futile writ—Amendment of statutory rules of recruitment — Public Service Commission having no power and statutory duty to make any selection to the posts of Gazetted Probationers—Writ of mandamus will be purposeless. See Ibid, Art. 245. AIR 1963 Mys 263 (DB).

——Art. 226—Laches—Futile writ.

After possession had been taken from the petitioners on 2nd December 1953, the petitioners did not file their petition till 19th January 1954, and thus for a little more than a month and a half they allowed the canal authorities to go ahead with the work of the construction of the canal. The result was that the authorities expended considerable amount of money in that construction and after they had gone a long way then the petitioners came and filed the petition.

Held, that the writ of mandamus directing delivery of possession to the petitioners could not issue for the reasons that the petitioners so delayed the petition as to stand by while major part of the construction work of the canal went on and was carried out before they came to the Court, and the Government had already taken steps to acquire the land of the petitioners under the provisions of the Pepsu Land Acquisition Act, 1953, and the issue of the writ would thus be rendered inoperative and futile as soon as the acquisition proceedings were complete. ILR (1954) Patiala 507 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 174 (179, 180) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Writ of—Refusal, when issue will be futile.

It is a well-known rule that whenever a writ of mandamus would be unavailing, or if granted, fruitless, it will be refused. 58 Punj L R 299 : ILR (1957) Punj 122 : AIR 1956 Punj 201 (203) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Mandamus — (Delhi Cement Control Order (1950)).

It is quite useless to grant the petitioner an order by way of mandamus directing the Director of Civil Supplies to allow him facilities for filing an application for a license under the Cement Control Order, if the license is thereafter going to be justifiably refused. 56 Punj L R 121 : ILR (1954) Punj 958 : AIR 1954 Punj 141 (141, 142) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 8).

54. Government, writ against.

(a) Appropriate cases.

(b) Government of another State.

See also Note 120.

(c) Rajpramukh and Governor.

54. Government, writ against.

● ——Art. 226 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 10, 12—Discretion of Govt. to refer dispute under S. 12 (5)—S. 12 (5) does not confer power on Govt., to make reference independently of S. 10 (1)—Under S. 12 (5) Govt. can consider other relevant facts besides the report of Conciliation Officer — Govt. in considering question of reference taking into consideration extraneous matters — Mandamus can issue requiring Govt. to reconsider its decision. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. AIR 1960 S C 1223.

——Art. 226 — Writ petition against Government — Governor's opinion challenged — Government not bound to disclose reasons for opinion. See Ibid, Art. 16. AIR 1961 All 361.

● ——Art. 226 — Order passed under S. 3, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act on basis of report submitted under S. 14, Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 by a Court of inquiry — Validity. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3. AIR 1954 All 538 (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 420].

——Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 64-A, 57 (7) and 64 — Powers of Government in revision — Refusal of permit by Regional Transport authority—Reasons not given — Defect rectified in appeal — Government cannot interfere with appellate order. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 371 (2).

——Art. 226 — Writ against Government — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A).

"Legality" and "regularity" are terms used in grounds of judicial interference on an appeal or revision. An order is illegal if is is opposed to any enactment or any rule having the force of law. It is irregular if the procedure followed is in violation of the principles of natural justice and fairplay. The term 'propriety' is, however, of wide import. If, after due consideration, the Government has taken a decision on the matter, it is not for the Court to investigate the relative merits or soundness of one point of view as against the other.

If the Government in coming to its conclusion in revision under S. 64-A Motor Vehicles Act has taken into account facts or circumstances irrelevant for a consideration of the question before it or has been influenced by extraneous considerations in reaching its decision or if the order of the Government is mala fide or biased in any manner, it is the duty of the High Court to quash the order of the Government. But so long as the Government exercises its power under S. 64-A bona fide and for the purpose for which the power has been conferred the High Court cannot substitute its own notions for the policies or opinions on which the Government acts and quash the order of the Government as being in excess of its powers. ILR (1956) Andh Pra 726 : 1956 ALT 67 : 1956 Andh W R 85 : AIR 1957 Andh Pra 55 (57) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Northern India Ferries Act (17 of 1878), S. 8, Para. 3 — Rule 19 of rules framed under Act — Order rejecting bid of highest bidder — That the name of the highest bidder is on the confidential list maintained by Government of suspected smugglers of opium stated as reason for rejection — Nothing on record to show that officer conducting sale himself came to conclusion on the point after considering the circumstances and materials placed before him — Source on which Government acted also not disclosed — Order is arbitrary and capricious because reason for rejection is not one in compliance with S. 8, Para. 3 and R. 19 framed under Act — High Court is entitled to interfere with the order by issue of a writ inasmuch as there was no exercise of discretion at all by the conducting officer. See Northern India Ferries Act (1878), S. 8, para. 3. AIR 1962 Assam 46.

——Art. 226—Rules under Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886) — Settlement rules — R. 66 — Interpretation of — Order of Government directing settlement and order of Deputy Commissioner in pursuance of this order—Validity—Settlement if can be set aside under Art. 226. See Tenancy Laws—Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886)—Rules under—R. 66. ILR (1959) 11 Assam 38.

——Art. 226—Writs against Government — Auction sale of right to cut and collect forest produce—Government acting without jurisdiction — Power of Court to interfere.

In undertaking commercial transactions, the Government are in better position than any other individual provided they have some statutory provisions or rules on the point to guide them and subject to which the transactions are to be conducted. Therefore where there were no rules covering the question except the clause in the sale notice itself which provided that the sale was to be confirmed by the conservator of forests if the bid was below Rs. 25,000 and by the Government if it exceeded that amount.

Held, that the discretion to approve or not to approve of the sale lay with the Conservator of Forests, and not with the Government, and the order of Government, therefore, proposing to make a settlement in favour of a person whose bid was not the highest and in derogation of the sale in which the petitioner's bid was the highest has to be set aside and a direction given to the Conservator of Forests to exercise a proper discretion in the matter. A I R 1952 S C 16, Rel. on.; AIR 1954 S C 592, Dist. AIR 1957 Assam 174 (176, 177) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Lease of Government land—Annual Patta— Nature of right of patta holder —Notice of non-renewal — Dismissal of objections — Appeal — Cancellation of patta pending appeal—Approval by Governor—Writ application—Maintainability. See Assam Land Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886), S. 11. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 160.

——Art. 226 — Annual lease under Assam Settlement Rules—Sub-lessee—Right of, against Government — Order of ejectment of sub-lessee — Writ against order —Maintainability. See Tenancy Laws — Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886). AIR 1956 Assam 81.

——Art. 226—Right of ministerial officers to contest election under Assam Municipal Act if subject to Government Servants' Conduct Rules—Refusal of permission by Government—Interference by High Court. See Municipalities— Assam Municipal Act (1 of 1923), S. 13 (vii). AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 5290 (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of the State Government under S. 59, Bombay District Municipalities Act — Order preventing Municipality from imposing tax and from collecting duly and validly imposed tax—Validity. See Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901), S. 59. AIR 1954 Bom 278 (DB).

——Art. 226—Issue of writ causing administrative inconvenience—Duty of Court.

It may be that interference under Art. 226 by the High Court may result in inconvenience or difficulty in administration. But what the Courts have to guard against is a much greater evil. When they find in the modern State wide powers entrusted to Government, powers which affect property and person of the citizen, it is the duty of the Courts to see that those wide powers are exercised in conformity with what the Legislature has prescribed. It is true that in order that the modern State should function the Government must be armed with very large powers; but the High Court does not interfere with exercise of those powers. The High Court only interferes when it finds that those powers are not exercised in accordance with the mandate of the Legislature. Therefore, far from interfering with the good governance of the State, the Court helps the good governance by constantly reminding Government and its officers that they should act within the four corners of the statute and not contravene any of the conditions laid down as a limitation upon their undoubtedly wide powers. Therefore, even from a practical point of view, even from the point of view of the good governance of the State the High Court should not be reluctant to issue its prerogative writ whenever it finds that the sovereign Legislature has not been obeyed and powers have been assumed which the Legislature never conferred upon the executive. ('52) 54 Bom L R 681: AIR 1952 Bom 468 (475) (Pt D) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Matter left to subjective satisfaction of Government — Power of Court to scrutinize. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 40. ('58) 62 Cal W N 73.

——Art. 226—Public body going to be constituted wrongly — Intervention.

Neither the Government nor a public officer can be allowed to exercise statutory duties, in excess of or not in accordance with the law, and if it is brought to the notice of the Court that a public body was going to be constituted wrongly and in violation of the provisions of law, the Court is bound to intervene and put the matter right. 58 Cal W N 443; AIR 1955 Cal 83 (87) (Pt G) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Application under—Procedure to be adopted by respondent Government.

Where an application is filed under Art. 226 of the Constitution impleading Government as respondent, the Government is by no means a favoured litigant and must comply with the normal procedure to be adopted in all legal proceedings. It should answer the allegations in the application by an affidavit copy whereof should be furnished to the applicant in good time before the date fixed for hearing and the applicant will be at liberty to use a reply, also furnishing copies to the respondent. If in showing cause, the Government is of the opinion that disclosure of any fact or document will be injurious to the State, it is its duty to allege so, and it will be for the Court to decide the point. It is not enough for the Government merely to appear at the trial through a lawyer or to write letters to the Registrar showing cause. ('51) 55 C W N 45 : AIR 1952 Cal 798 (798) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art 226—Petition against Collector and Assistant Collector—Whether against State Government—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 79 — Constitution of India, Art. 300.

In view of S. 79 of the Civil P. C. and Art. 300 of the Constitution of India petition for writ of mandamus against the Collector and the Assistant Collectocannot be interpreted as directed against the State Government. AIR 1952 Him Pra 16 (17) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

—Art. 226—Formation of opinion under S. 4 (1) (a) of Electricity Act (1910) is subjective not to be tested by objective standards — Order not to be reviewed by Courts — Validity of order does not depend upon recital of expression of opinion but actual formation of opinion—Electricity Act (1910), S. 4.

When the legislature has left it to the authority concerned to form an opinion on certain matters, the grounds for the formation of the opinion, or the correctness of the opinion so formed by the authority concerned, do not fall for consideration for review at the hands of the Courts so long as the authority has acted honestly and there were materials available before it, on the basis of which such an opinion could be formed. The opinion that is formed by the Government under S. 4 (1) of the Electrity Act is a subjective one which cannot be tested by objective standards. Merely because the order under S. 4 (1), of the Electricity Act does not record the opinion of the Government, as required, in respect of matters referred to in S. 4 (1) (a) of the Act on the basis of which action has been taken, it does not vitiate the order, especially when the records show that the State has formed the opinion before issuing the orders. The validity of the order does not depend upon the recital of the formation of the opinion and the making of the order in consequence : AIR 1949 P C 136 and AIR 1963 Madh Pra 41 and (1891) A C 666 and A I R 1956 S C 446 and AIR 1961 S C 1381 and AIR 1954 S C 1536 and (1943) 2 All E R 546 and A I R 1959 S C 107 and A I R 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1960 S C 468 and AIR 1960 S C 606, Disting ; AIR 1962 S C 1110 and AIR 1962 S C 1217 and A I R 1964 SC 1813, Rel. on. ILR (1965) 1 Ker 578 : 1965 Ker L T 561 : 1965 Ker L J 548 : AIR 1965 Ker 253 (272, 275, 276, 277) (Pt E) (Prs 77, 78, 92, 93, 96, 97, 98, 101) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability—Refusal of government to deal with black-listed contractor—If infringement of fundamental right or rule of law—No remedy available under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1958 Ker 333 (DB).

——Art. 226—Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895) — Appointment of village headman—Board of Revenue confirming — Interference by Government in revision—Quashing of order of Government in writ proceedings — Nature of order of Government, whether judicial — Effect of quashing. See Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895). ILR (1959) Mad 380.

——Art. 226 — Decision of transport authorities — Government's jurisdiction to interfere with, under S. 64-A, Motor Vehicles Act — Power of Court to pronounce on correctness of Government's action — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A).

By enacting S. 64-A, Motor Vehicles Act the legislature clearly intended that the State Government should have the powers to intervene, if it was satisfied that the order in question was either illegal, irregular or improper. AIR 1956 S C 463, Rel. on.

Where it cannot be said that there was no material before the State Government on which they could pass their order it is not the province of the Court to say whether the Government properly construed their earlier order, in applying the principles laid down therein to the case. Whether the fact that the permit holder had transferred his permit should be taken as a circumstance against him, is not a matter for the Court to decide. 70 Mad L W 623 : A I R 1957 Mad 623 (626, 627) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Mysore Revenue Appellate Tribunal Act (24 of 1957), S. 12 — Effect of repeal of S. 6, Mysore Board of Revenue Act — State Government cannot entertain revision against Board's order after its repeal — Refusal to entertain revision is not failure to exercise jurisdiction — (Mysore Board of Revenue Act (7 of 1955), S. 6). See Mysore Revenue Appellate Tribunal Act (24 of 1957), S. 12. AIR 1960 Mysore 87.

——Art. 226—Nature of proceedings — (Mysore Co-operative Societies Act (52 of 1948)).

Order by government upholding the resolution of Co-operative Bank removing member — Proceedings on an application under Art. 226 against the order is not a proceeding in which the reasonableness of the order can be canvassed. The question is one of jurisdiction and not as to how it is exercised. ILR (1953) Mys 508 : 33 Mys L J 137 : A I R 1954 Mys 59 (61) (Pt E) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope — (Mysore Co-operative Societies Act (52 of 1948), S. 59).

Orders of Government, however extensive the power of the Gvernment may be under S. 59 of the Co-operative Societies Act, are liable to be questioned on the ground of want of jurisdiction or failure to apply the principles of natural justice. The question of expulsion of a member is a 'Dispute touching the business of a Society' and the decision which would be protected from review by the Courts are 'constitutional' decisions, i. e, decisions pronounced in conformity with the Act, the rules and the bye-laws and the principles of natural justice. 33 Mys L J 137 : ILR (1953) Mys 508 : AIR 1954 Mys 59 (62) (Pt H) (Pr 8) (DB).

● ——Arts. 226, 227—Issue of writ against Government.

Article 226 does not forbid the issue of writs against Government but only limits it to appropriate cases. Even administrative orders of Government could be interfered with under Art. 226 if these were in defiance of mandatory provisions of law.

So long as, and whenever it exercises judicial and quasi-judicial powers and gives final judgments between two parties which has legal sanction by its own force, the Government or any tribunal within the jurisdiction of the High Court, is subject to the writs which may be issued under Art. 226 and to the superintendence contemplated under Art. 227.

Where, therefore, the State Government set aside the orders as regards the grant of land under S. 58 of the Mysore Revenue Code, purporting to exercise a power of review which the Code did not confer upon the Government and persons concerned applied to the High Court under Art. 226.

Held, that in those circumstances and in order to safeguard stability and security of title to property against interference by means of orders based on consideration shifting from time to time it was appropriate that the orders passed in the application for review should be quashed as being without jurisdiction. Sampu Gowda v. State of Mysore, ILR (1953) Mys 440 : 32 Mys L J 12 : AIR 1953 Mys 156 (161, 165, 166) (Pt H) (Prs 19, 20, 39, 44) (FB).

——Art. 226—Absence of jurisdiction — Proceedings for acquisition of land for extension of abadi — State Government not applying its mind as to whether any unoccupied land was availab'e—Acquisition proceedings for occupied land are without jurisdiction. See Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code (2 of 1955), S. 226. 1961 N L J (Notes) 56.

——Art. 226—Power to issue directions, etc. to Government.

Even if no infringement of a fundamental right is involved the power of the Court extends to issuing to the Government directions, orders or writs for any other purposes. 1955 Nag L J 145 : A I R 1954 Nag 258 (259) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Rules under Reso. 7252, 7581-121, dated 15th September, 1913, regulating grant of mineral leases and prospecting licences — Rights of Government to regrant lease or license — Discretion of Government to regrant leases of licences. See Government of India Act (1935), Seventh Schedule, List 1, Item 36. AIR 1954 Nag 161 (DB).

——Art. 226—Invalid or erroneous order—Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 4 (2)—Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 67 and 68—Rules made under Mines and Minerals Act are mandatory—Lease of mica mining area granted by Government in violation of Rr. 67 and 68 is void—Holder of certificate of approval from Government—Application for issue of writ — Maintainable. A I R 1953 Pat 370 and AIR 1954 Pat 235 and A I R 1954 S C 592 and (1916) 1 K B 595 Rel. on. 1956 Pat L R 458 : ILR 35 Pat 700 : AIR 1956 Pat 506 (507, 508, 509, 511) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Individual dispute — Reference to Tribunal—Validity —Issue of writ to quash proceedings.

See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7 (1). A I R 1956 Pat 274.

——Art. 226—Illegal act of dispossession by Government.

Where a person is in actual possession of land and there is no summary procedure provided by law in the State whereby the executive authorities can dispossess a man of immovable property, the action of the authorities in dispossessing the person of the land by executive action and without recourse to law is illegal and without jurisdiction. The fact that the person has no valid title to the land is not material.

In the case of trespass by a private person, the only remedy that the person dispossessed has is a suit for possession of the land and not by way of petition under Art. 226. But where the Government enters upon a high-handed executive action to dispossess a subject of his property, in such a case a writ petition is a proper and an adequate remedy for the subject against the Government.

(Direction was issued to the Collector to put the person back into possession of the land). AIR 1952 Pepsu 12 and AIR 1952 Hyd 36, Ref. I L R (1954) Patiala 258 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 60 (61, 62) (Prs 5, 6, 8).

——Art. 226 — Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 4—Application for mining lease not in conformity with rules — Grant of lease—Matter for Government to decide—High Court cannot interfere— Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 27, 28, 29, 32 and 57. See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S. 4. AIR 1959 Punjab 589.

——Art 226 — Judicial orders — Mineral Concession Rules, 1940—Rr. 32, 57 and 59 — Review application under R. 59—Decision of Central Government—Interference. See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1948), S 5. ILR (1957) Punj 39.

——Art. 226—Municipalities—Punjab Municipal Act (1911), Ss. 16, 22 — Removal of Vice-President—Discretion of State Government — No interference by civil Court. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 16. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4990.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Nature of function of High Court under Articles.

The function of the High Court is not to sit in appeal on the enquiries held by Governments or their officers. Under Arts. 226 and 227 the Court has only a supervisory function and its powers are confined to canalising the acts of the enquiring officers. 1955 Cr L J 305 : AIR 1955 Punj 3 (4) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

——Art 226 — Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1955), Rr. 30, 33, 39—R. 30, applies to leases under R. 33—Rule 30 makes it obligatory on Government to grant lease initially for period of five years and extension for same period and renewal also. See Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1955), R. 30. 1962 R L W 672.

——Art. 226 — Classification of prisoners — Government alone can do—Trial courts are not authorised to do it — Right of prisoner to move High Court for direction. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 401. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 1212.

——Art. 226—Power under Art. 226 is unfettered by the restrictions given in S. 45 Specific Relief Act—High Court in a proper case can order Government to pay compensation to the applicant especially when there is no other remedy open to applicant —Government freezing and acquiring stocks of grain in possession of applicant under cl. 25, Rajasthan Food Grains Control Order, 1949 — Grain sold away by Government — Action of Government held illegal—Government was ordered to pay to applicant a sum of money in respect of stocks acquired at prevailing market rate as fair compensation. 1952 Cri L J 732 : 1951 Raj L W 467 : ILR (1951) 1 Raj 674 : AIR 1952 Raj 74 : (79) (Pt H) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Issue of writ—Order of Government accepting resignation of membership of Municipal Board after withdrawal of such resignation.

An order of Government accepting a resignation of membership of a Municipal Board after the withdrawal of the resignation is not illegal or ultra vires, in the absence of any law to the effect that the Government had no authority to act upon a letter of resignation after its withdrawal. No writ of any kind under Art. 226 of the Constitution can be issued in such circumstances. 1952 R L W 4 : ILR (1951) 1 Raj 591 : AIR 1952 Raj 53 (54) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 10 (1) (c) and 12 (5)—Meaning of 'may' in S. 10 (1) (c) —No duty on Government to make reference — Issue of Writ. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1) (c). AIR 1953 Sau 46.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Order by Government on review petition—Interference.

Where dealing with the question as to the correct date of birth of the petitioner, the Assistant Secretary to Government stated that the documents produced by the petitioner could not be accepted as proof of his date of birth "against the school register."

Held, that considering the fact that Government was dealing with a review petition the failure on the part of Government to consider the evidentiary value of all the documents produced by the petitioner was not sufficient for the High Court to interfere with the order of Government in the exercise of the jurisdiction vested in the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1956) Trav-Co 879 : 1956 Ker L T 906 : A I R 1957 Trav Co 124 (130, 131) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (DB).

54 (a). Appropriate cases.

——Art. 226—'Authority'—Government, if.

In Art. 226 the clause 'including in appropriate cases any Government' goes with the preceding word 'authority' and on a plain and reasonable construction it means that the word 'authority' in the context may include any Government in an appropriate case. The position, therefore, is that under Art. 226 power is conferred on the High Court to issue to any person or authority or in a given case to any Government, writs or orders there specified for enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose. Khajoor Singh v. Union of India, (1961) 2 S C R 828 : (1961) 2 Andh W R (SC) 46 : (1961) 2 S C J 235 : (1961) 2 M L J (SC) 46 : 1961 M L J (Cr) 498 : (1961) 1 S C A 173 : AIR 1961 S C 532 (537, 538) (Pt A) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—"In appropriate cases against Government" — Illustration — See West Bengal Estates Acquisition Act (1 of 1954), S. 39 (1) (b) and (4). AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5330.

——Art. 226 (1) — Administrative Order — Interference.

In order that the prerogative writ of certiorari may be availed of the act complained of must be a judicial or a quasi-judicial act. A purely administrative order cannot be interfered with by the issue of a writ of certiorari. The expression 'in appropriate cases any Government' only confers on the High Court powers of interference with orders of the Government only in appropriate cases i.e., cases which require the exercise of quasi-judicial powers by the Government, Case law discussed. AIR 1952 Cal 901 (904) (Pt B) (Prs 23, 24).

——Art. 226—Interference—Grounds— Government altering or putting wrong interpretation on Rules—Mere irregularity — No writ application lies—(Government Servants' Conduct Rules, R. 1).

Since R. 1 of Government Conduct Rules reserves to the Government power to add or alter or modify any of the conduct rules, if it alters any of the rules without notice, it is a mere irregularity or even if it gives a wrong interpretation on any of the rules, in either case writ motion will not lie. 1957 Ker L T 891 : 1957 Ker L J 914 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 77 : AIR 1958 Ker 283 (284, 285) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — "Person or authority"—If include Government.

The words 'person or authority' are wide enough to include even Government. The mention of "any Government" as being included in 'person or authority' is not to introduce something which was not already there, but is more by way of abundant caution, so that no question may arise that what was contemplated was not 'Government' but only a person or authority. An authority can only act through the agency of human beings and so also the authority of Government is exercised through the agency of persons. Surajmal Arjundas v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1957 M P C 680 : 1957 M P L J 788 : 1957 Jab L J 1011 : ILR (1957) M P 507 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 103 (112) (Pt D) (Pr 33) (FB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — When can issue—Certiorari where proceeding of inferior tribunal are null and void.

It is well settled that certiorari does not issue where the proceedings of the inferior Tribunal are not merely voidable, but are absolutely null and void, for in such a case no benefit will accrue from the issue of the writ. It is open to the parties to ignore them or to have them set aside by the decree of a competent Court as and when occasion arises. AIR 1959 Manipur 24 (25) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9).

54 (b). Government of another State.

See also Note 120.

● ——Arts. 226 and 230 — Writ to authority outside jurisdiction — (States Reorganisation Act (1956), S. 59).

Under Art. 226 the jurisdiction of the Bombay High Court to issue writs is confined to issuing writs on those persons and authorities which are within the territorial jurisdiction of that Court.

In a case in which a writ was filed by a dismissed Government servant against the State of Madhya Pradesh and admitted by the High Court of Nagpur but subsequennly transferred to the Bombay High Court under the provisions of S. 59 (2), States Reorganisation Act, the Bombay Court cannot issue a writ to the State of Madhya Pradesh to reinstate the petitioner if it finds the petitioner entitled to remedy. Sub-section (5) of S. 59 of that Act introduces only a limited fiction as a result of which the Bombay High Court would be bound to respect only the order admitting the petition passed by the Nagpur High Court.

Section 59 (5) is not an extension of the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 230 so as to permit the High Court to issue writs under Art. 226 to authorities and persons not situated within its jurisdiction. Article 230 deals with the territorial extension of the jurisdiction of the High Court. What it contemplated is that the Parliament may by law confer upon the High Court of Bombay a territorial jurisdiction wider than the territorial jurisdiction of the State. But that is not what S. 59 (5) does. The Parliament purporting to act under Art. 230 of the Constitution cannot confer upon the High Court jurisdiction which it did not possess, to issue writs against the M. P, State which is outside its jurisdiction. AIR 1958 Raj 124, Disting. Dr. Surjuprasad Gumasta v. State of M. P., 60 Bom L R 1468 : 1959 Nag L J 8 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 572 : ILR (1959) Bom 641 : AIR 1959 Bom 122 (124) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (FB).

54 (c). Rajpramukh and Governor.

——Arts. 226 and 361—Acts of Governor—Immunity from process of Court—Issue of writ under Art. 226.

In the case of official acts an absolute immunity from the process of Court is given to a Governor and this immunity extends not only to his official acts but also to acts purporting to be done by him in exercise of the powers conferred on him, so long as he is not guilty of dishonesty or bad faith. But this will not preclude the acts of the Governor from being questioned, if they can be done without a process on him. Indeed Art. 361 itself recognises that this immunity would not restrict the rights of any person to bring appropriate proceedings against the Government.

Where an Assistant Engineer having been served with an order imposing the penalty of compulsory retirement preferred an appeal to the Governor who by order transferred it to the Secretary to the Government and thereupon the Engineer prayed for issue of a writ of certiorari against the Governor for quashing his order.

Held, that the Governor was not answerable for his act of sending the appeal to be disposed of by the Government. The Governor was also not responsible to the Court for the manner of his disposal, for no process could be served on him. The application against the Governor was therefore liable to be dismissed. 1954 Andh L T (Civ) 71 : I L R (1955) Andh Pra 208 : (1954) 2 Mad L J (Andh) 33 : 67 Mad L W 1212 : A I R 1954 Andhra 9 (11) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14, 15).

——Arts. 226, 361 and 171 (3) (e), (5) and 163 (3)—Nomination of members to State Legislative Council by Governor — Application under Art. 226 for suitable writs against Governor and nominated persons —Maintainability — High Court has no power to enquire into validity of nominations.

The Governor of West Bengal purporting to act in exercise of his powers under Art. 171 (3) (e) read with Cl. (5) issued a Gazette notification nominating certain persons as members of the State Legislative Council. The petitioner who had addressed a letter to the Governor a day previous to such notification offering his services for such membership not having been nominated by the Governor applied under Art. 226 for a writ of mandamus directing the Governor, to recall the nominations of those members and for a direction to forbear from giving effect to the notification and also for suitable directions upon the nominated persons preventing them from exercising their rights under the said nominations.

Held, that (i) the application in so far as it sought relief against the Governor was wholly incompetent in view of the absolute bar created by Art. 361.

(ii) The Governor not being answerable to Court by reason of Art. 361, it follows that the validity or invalidity of the nominations cannot be enquired into by the High Court. The Governor not being liable to justify the nominations is not bound to disclose any facts relating to such nominations either by affidavit or otherwise. The other respondents cannot also be properly called upon to support or justify the nominations because they may not know anything about the facts or considerations which led the Governor to make the nominations. The advice tendered by the ministers to the Governor cannot also be enquired into by the Court by reason of the provisions of Art. 163 (3) of the Constitution.

(iii) Even if a writ of quo warranto which was the only writ suitable in the circumstances had been specifically asked for in the application as against the nominated persons, the notification annexed to the petition would have been relied upon by the respondents as their warrants. So long as the notication stood, it will be a complete answer to a writ of quo warranto. The application was, therefore, bound to fail as against the other respondents also. ('52) 56 Cal W N 651 : A I R 1952 Cal 799 (802, 803), (Pt C) (Prs 10, 14, 15).

——Arts. 226 and 361 — Applicability — Act of Raj Pramukh done professedly under Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 361. A I R 1953 Madh B 54 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 361 — Immunity only personal—Actions amenable to scrutiny by Court.

Because the Governor is not amenable to the process of the Court it cannot be said that the High Court cannot examine his action in appointing a person as Advocate-General and pronounce upon its legality. The immunity afforded by Art. 361 is personal to the Governor. That article does not place the actions of the Governor purporting to be done in pursuance of the Constitution beyond the scrutiny of the Courts. It is not the rule that relief cannot be granted in proceedings for a writ of quo warranto in the absence of the authority making the appointment. (1916) 1 K B 595 ; A I R 1945 Cal 249, Rel. on. I L R (1952) Nag 409 : A I R 1952 Nag 330 (333) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 361 — Writ against Governor. See Ibid, Art. 361. A I R 1956 Pat 384 (392, 398) (Pt D) (Prs 16, 35) (DB).

——Art. 226—Satisfaction of Rajpramukh—Grounds of satisfaction — Court's power. See Pepsu Civil Services (Safeguarding of Natural Security) Rules (1954), R. 3. A I R 1956 Pepsu 19.

——Art. 226—Bar to suits—Quasi-judicial tribunal.

Section 3 of the Ordinance (6 of 1955) when it says that the final decision of the Rajpramukh shall not be liable to be called in question in any civil Court, does not bar the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. As the Rajpramukh is to be treated as a quasi-judicial tribunal for purposes of these decisions, the High Court has the power to issue such appropriate writ, direction or order as it may deem fit under Art. 226. I L R (1955) 5 Raj 995: A I R 1955 Raj 203 (207) (Pt I) (Pr 16) (DB).

54A. Habeas corpus.

See Part C (Notes 186 to 223).

55. High Court, writ against.

See Note 5.

56. High Court, power to issue appropriate writ.

See also Note 37.

——Art 226 — Application under S. 491, Criminal P. C — Jurisdiction of High Court to issue necessary writ in absence of prayer. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491. 1963 All L J 894.

——Art. 226 — Only general relief for issuing any writ, order or direction prayed for — Omission to claim specific relief cannot tie down hands of Court —It will formulate the writ, order or direction which ought to be issued. 1951 S C J 29 : A I R 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. 1962 All L J 501 : 1962 All W R (H C) 475: A I R 1962 All 590 (602) (Pt J) (Pr 47) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1966 S C 1164.]

——Art. 226—Writ — Issue and framing of — Jurisdiction of Court—Specific relief not asked—Effect.

The actual framing and the issue of an appropriate writ is within the jurisdiction of the Court. No doubt a petitioner is required to state the reliefs he claims specifically in his petition, but the ultimate duty is of the Court to issue a writ suitable in the circumstances of a particular case. And, therefore, even where the petitioner has not specifically asked for appropriate relief, if the circumstances of the case require it, the Court can issue the necessary and appropriate writ to meet the ends of justice. 1962 All W R (H C) 57.

——Art. 226 — Procedure—Failure to choose appropriate writ—If ground for dismissal of petition.

Failure to choose appropriate writ in itself is not a ground for rejecting the petition under Art. 226. Where the petitioner under Art. 226 has prayed not only for a writ of certiorari but also for any other writ or order in respect of an order under S. 46 (5), Income-tax Act, passed by the Income-tax Officer the petition under Art. 226 cannot be rejected on the ground that order under S. 46 (5) is merely an administrative order and no writ of certiorari can be granted to quash such order. A I R 1952 Cal 601, Dist. ; A I R 1958 Andh Pra 458 ; (1958) 1 Andh W R 480 Rel. on. (1960) 39 I T R 730 : AIR 1961 Andh Pra 165 (169) (Pt B) (Pr 16).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court to issue appropriate writ.

May be that the appropriate writ to ask for against some of the respondents would have been the writ of quo warranto but the omission to ask for such a writ against those respondents does not stand in the way of the High Court granting relief against the other respondents. ('57) 61 Cal W N 341.

——Art. 226 — Contravention of statutory provision — Appropriate writ can be issued though writ prayed for not available.

Where it is clear that the action complained of involves a contravention of the statute, an appropriate writ can be issued even though the writ of the particular kind which the petitioner has asked for may not be available to him. AIR 1960 S C 1223; AIR 1960 Mad 238, Rel. on. (1962) 3 Guj L R 66.

——Art. 226 — Applicant naming wrong remedy — Not sufficient for rejecting claim—High Court has jurisdiction to issue appropriate writ.

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is not limited to the issuing of the types of writs mentioned therein, but extends to granting appropriate writ, direction or order. The applicant, seeking relief, is no doubt bound to name the remedy that he wants, but if he chooses the wrong label or writ, he should not be made to suffer the penalty of the rejection of his claim on that ground. The High Court is not powerless to mould and issue appropriate writ suitable to the occasion. The form of the writ to be issued is only of secondary importance. The primary things to be considered are, broadly, as follows : (1) Whether the applicant is a person aggrieved, having an interest or legal right in the subject-matter ; (2) Whether there has been an infraction or violation of such right or interest; (3) Whether the matter is justiciable. The denial of relief to a suitor, because of his error or judgment in selecting the proper writ, will defeat the very purpose of writs. 75 Mad L W 732 : I L R (1963) Mad 51 : (1963) 14 S T C 94 : A I R 1963 Mad 166 (169) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

It is true that the order of the Government directing fresh elections in contravention of Village Panchayats Act is not judicial or quasi-judicial and therefore a writ of certiorari would not be appropriate. But where it is clear that the action complained of involves a contravention of the statute, an appropriate writ can be issued even though the writ of the particular kind which the petitioner has asked for may not be available to him. (1960) 1 M L J 472 : AIR 1960 Mad 238 (240) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

57. History of writs.

See Note 84.

58. Hypothetical opinion.

——Art. 226—Scope—Opinion on hypothetical and abstract questions and futile and irrelevant declarations not to be given.

The relief by way of writ is a proceeding of an exceptional type. The Court should not allow it to be utilised by a party for the purpose of obtaining its opinion on hypothetical and abstract questions or for seeking declarations. The primary purpose of Art. 226 seems to be the enforcement of legal rights and obligations and not their declaration in vacuo. Sri Furga Gita Vidyalaya v. State of U. P., 1962 All L J 329 : 1962 All W R (HC) 243 : I L R (1962) 1 All 737 : A I R 1962 All 187 (191) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Mandamus — Mere threat of fundamental rights being invaded is not a ground to invite High Court to pronounce upon the legality of any statutory provisions — High Court invited to decide abstract questions of law — High Court would not undertake inquiries. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 501 (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope.

In a petition under Art. 226 the Court will not enter into a mere academic discussion of the legality or otherwise of a Statute unless it is necessary to do so for the purpose of reaching an end.

Hence, where the order sought to be challenged itself provides for compensation to the petitioner for the land taken away from him, the Court will not decide the constitutionality of the statute under which the order was passed where the Act is challenged on ground that no provision was made in it for payment of such compensation. A I R 1951 Nag 58, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Bhopal 1 (2) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 — Academic questions — Decision of — (Practice).

The Court does not express academic opinion when nobody is aggrieved by any action on the part of the legislature or the executive. I L R (1955) Bom 680 : 57 Bom L R 288 : AIR 1956 Bom 1 (20) (Pt S) (Pr 49) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 699.]

——Art. 226 — Writ against executive — Grounds—Party must establish a right and prove its infringement — Relief cannot be claimed by raising academic questions.

In order to invoke extraordinary remedy under Art. 226 of the Constitution a petitioner must in order to entitle himself to get any relief show that manifest injustice has resulted to him as a result of the impugned order or action. He must further prove that he has a right and then allege and prove the infringement thereof. In the absence of a claim of any such right and a complaint of its infringement and resultant manifest injustice to the petitioners, the High Court is not bound to pronounce on a question merely for academic purposes. A I R 1965 S C 632, Rel. on. 67 Pun L R 1082.

——Art. 226 — Abstract propositions of law — High Court in writ proceedings does not pronounce judgment on abstract points of law. 65 Pun L R 1136 : I L R (1964) 1 Punj 607.

——Art. 226 — Powers of Court under—Theoretical questions and practical difficulties in applying Acts.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court will not answer theoretical questions; it can only assist in fit cases the removal of grievance which cannot be otherwise remedied except with disproportionate expense, delay and trouble. But when no grievance is there, the question concerned can be best left open.

Further, there is a distinction between ultra vires of any legislative provision on the one hand, and on the other, the practical difficulty of applying it. In the former case the High Court can be invited to make a declaration but in the latter it cannot do anything. It is for the authorities applying the law to find out a modus operandi consistent with the law. If in evolving the modus operandi that authority violates any provision of the law itself, it can be restrained by a writ from the High Court. A I R 1954 Vindh Pra 24 (30) (Pt G) (Prs 34, 35).

59. Illegal assessment.

(a) Payment of tax, whether operates as estoppel.

(b) Writ against.

59. Illegal assessment.

——Art. 226 — Writ against illegal assessment and levy of tax—U. P. Town Areas Act (2 of 1914), Ss. 14, 15, 15A, 15B, 17 and 18 — Imposition of new tax and revision of assessment of old tax—Procedure pointed out. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 1754.

——Art. 226—Cause of action.

The initiation of assessment under a taxing statute which is ultra vires ultimately results in a levy of tax, and constitutes an actionable wrong which a party is entitled to prevent by an order issued by the Court. The order of the Court would be to the effect that the officers concerned who has initiated the assessment should not complete an illegal and unauthorised act. A I R 1951 S C 23, Rel. on. ('53) 55 Bom L R 246 : 1953-4 S T C 10 (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1953 S C 252.]

——Art. 226—Akola Municipality — Maintainability of petition — Assessment for triennial by M. C.—Order in appeal on the 22nd April 1950 — Assessment becoming final only on appeal—Petition under Art. 226 is competent — Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, S. 83 and Bye-laws 18 and 19 of Akola Municipality.

Under the Bye-laws of the Municipality an assessment was to be final only when appeals were disposed of. A building was built and completed on the 1st April 1948 when the triennial assessment of Municipal Committee was to run for a year more and the Committee by resolution on the 4th March 1949 assessed the building on footing of a certain rental valuation. The order in appeal against this was passed on the 22nd April 1950 and revision dismissed by the Board of Revenue.

Held, that a petition under Art. 226, Constitution of India was competent. M. P. No. 130 of 50, D/- 28-2-51 and M P No 90 of 50, D/- 20-4-51: 1951 N L J Note No 186, Dist. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 63 (DB).

59 (a). Payment of tax, whether operates as estoppel.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders — Interference — Payment of tax pending appeal—Discretion of authorities — Improper exercise of — Application for writ. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 45. AIR 1958 Cal 159.

59 (b). Writ against.

——Art. 226 — Grievance of assessee against order passed by Income Tax Officer—Grievance could be removed by Appellate Income Tax Authority—High Court will not enertain writ petition — Income Tax Act (1922), S. 41 (1), Proviso.

Where an assessee has been wrongly assessed and his liability has been computed and fixed at a higher rate, the appellate authority under the Income Tax Act is competent to deal with his grievance, and give him relief, if he is entitled to any. The writ jurisdiction of the High Court cannot be invoked for agitating matters of this nature. When it is not a case where the jurisdiction of the Income Tax Officer is challenged either on the ground that he has no jurisdiction or on the ground that he exceeds the jurisdiction which the statute has conferred upon him, then to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court is an attempt to by pass the provisions of the Income Tax Act. A I R 1961 S C 809, Rel. on. ('65) 69 Cal W N 984.

60. Illegal taxation.
- (a) Recovery of.
- (b) Writ against.
- (c) High Court's power.
- (d) Refund.
- (e) Constitutionality.

60. Illegal taxation.

——Art. 226—Taxation law—Ground of challenge. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1962 S C 148.

——Art. 226 — Illegal taxation.

Where the proceedings against an assessee were commenced under a repealed law they are liable to be quashed by a writ under Art. 226. I L R (1955) Mys 344 : AIR 1955 Mys 99 (102) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1958 S C 808.]

——Art. 226 — C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act (21 of 1947), S. 11 — Assessment by Additional Sales Tax Officer is without jurisdiction—High Court has power to interfere under Art. 226. Constitution of India — See Sales Tax—C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act, 1947, S. 11. 1951 Nag L J 611 (DB).

60 (a). Recovery of.

——Art. 226—Property attached for default in payment of certain taxes takabi and other dues—Property auctioned by Tehsildar before receipt of stay order issued by Board of Revenue — Held, realisation and recovery of tax having been stayed, any recovery made after stay order would not be in accordance with law and could contravene provisions of Art. 265—Hence it would be fit case for exercise of writ jurisdiction. See Ibid, Art. 265. 1965 All L J 277.

60 (b). Writ against.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Scope of inquiry — Levy of surcharge for supply of electrical energy—Petition for writ—Maintainability—(U. P. Electricity Supply (Licensed Undertaking War Cost) Order, Cl. 4).

In 1944 a licensee for the supply of electrical energy with the consent of the Government, had introduced "war costs surcharge" under Cl. 4 of the U P. Electricity Supply (Licensed Undertaking War Cost) Order. In the 1955 the Government issued a Notification causing an amendment in Cl. (2) (b) of the Fourth Annexure, allowing the licensee to impose a minimum charge from consumer. The consumer filed petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution contending that the war having terminated many years ago no justification remained for the levy of war cost surcharge :

Held, that the duty of the High Court was merely to see whether or not the surcharge was authorised by law, and besides, as the consumer had been paying the surcharge without demur since 1944, it was too late in the day for him to complain after the enforcement of the Constitution in 1950 that the charge was improper. AIR 1959 All 220 (221) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Taxing Statute — Bar of 'alternative remedy' will not apply.

The powers under Art. 226 are very wide. In cases where taxing statute is challenged, the High Court will not refuse relief to the petitioner on the mere ground that an alternative remedy is available to him. A I R 1952 All 753 (FB), Rel. on. 1955 All L J 735 : A I R 1956 All 324 (324, 325) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2) — Arrears of income-tax—Recovery of - Certificate issued under S. 46—Collector forwarding it on to Tahsildar for recovery — Tahsildar trying to collect arrears from transferee of property of assessee — Without filing objections before Tahsildar transferee petitioning High Court to issue writ of mandamus against Tahsildar—Held (i) that Collector need not be joined as party : (ii) that there was no provision of law permitting filing of objections before Tahsildar; and (iii) that even though suit could be filed still in circumstances of the case High Court would entertain the writ petition. 1956 All W R (HC) 34 : (1956) 29 ITR 54 : AIR 1956 All 179 (180, 181) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 12)

——Arts. 226 and 286 (1) (a) — Order imposing sales tax in contravention of Art. 286 (1) (a)—Order quashed under Art. 226. 1955 All L J 19 : ILR (1955) 1 All 107 : (1955) 6 S T C 77 : A I R 1955 All 99 (101, 103, 104) (Pt C) (Prs 1, 7, 8)

——Art. 226—Right to relief—Writ need be against operative or enforceable order only.

Where in a writ petition the relief sought by the petitioner is in respect of three orders and notices of the Income-tax Officer as well as the order passed in revision by the Commissioner of Income-tax, but there was no ground mentioned in the petition for any writ being issued in respect of the order passed by the Commissioner which was one of merely dismissal of revision application :

Held, that there was no ground for any writ being issued in respect of the order passed in revision as the only operative or enforceable order which the petitioner challenged was that of the Income-tax Officer and hence the petition was not maintainable. (1959) 36 I T R 527 (Bom).

——Art. 226—Delay—Other remedy open — Principles of taxation adopted by authorities being wrong — Matter being recurring one — Writ not to be refused.

The matter of assessment under the C. P. and Berar Panchayat Act is a recurring one and if one of the principles adopted by the taxing authority is wrong, then it would not be proper for the High Court to refuse to quash the decision of the taxing authorities based on a wrong principle merely on the ground of delay or the existence of an alternative remedy. 1960 M P C 82 : 1960 M P L J 265 : 1960 Jab L J 369.

——Art. 226 — Road Transport Corporation is not State Department—It is taxable as 'individual' under

S. 3, I. T. Act — Corporation has not been established for any religious or charitable purpose — Writ jurisdiction cannot be invoked as regards claim in regard to remainder of net profits which have to be made over to State Government for road development —Interpretation of exemption provisions of I. T. Act. See Road Transport Act (1950), S. 3. AIR 1964 Punj 178 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 265 and 286 - Constitutional remedies for illegal taxation.

Where there is infringement of the rights of a citizen by levying a tax which is ultra vires of the Legislature the remedy under Art. 226 is available to the citizen. A I R 1954 S C 403 and A I R 1955 S C 661, Rel. on. (1956) 7 S T C 586 : 58 Punj L R 399 : AIR 1956 Punj 177 (181) (Pt B) (Pr 28) (DB).

——Art. 226—Bar of alternative remedy.

Where a Municipal Board is acting without due authority of law and without any jurisdiction or in excess of its legitimate jurisdiction in recovering the municipal taxes, the High Court is not fettered, by the circumstance that an alternative remedy exists, in issuing an order in the nature of prohibition. A I R 1951 Raj 94 (2); A I R 1952 Raj 144, Rel. on. 1954 Raj L W 43 : ILR (1953) 3 Raj 664 : A I R 1954 Raj 162 (166) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 265—Delay in making application against illegal levy of tax.

In a case where an illegal tax is being levied, mere delay in making an application against the illegal levy should not deter the High Court from passing an order under Art. 226, if it is proved that the tax is being levied illegally without any authority of law. 1953 Raj L W 335 : ILR (1953) 3 Raj 52 : AIR 1953 Raj 180 (181) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Other remedy open.

Where the levy of tax itself is illegal, or where the law imposing the tax is ultra vires, the High Court will pass an order under Art. 226, even though there may be another remedy open to the applicant. 1951 Raj L W 58 Foll. ILR (1953) 3 Raj 150 : 1953 Raj L W 15 : A I R 1953 Raj 170 (173) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 265 — Scope — Infringement of right under Art. 265 — Relief under Art. 226 if can be granted.

The scope of the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India is much wider than the scope of functions of the Supreme Court under Art. 32 of the Constitution of India. It is competent for the High Court to issue a proper writ or direction not only in cases where fundamental rights of a subject are threatened or infringed but also in other cases as well.

Where a municipality imposes property tax on the petitioner without following the procedure prescribed by law, the right of the petitioner under Art. 265 of the Constitution not to be subject to any tax without the authority of law is infringed and he would be entitled to relief under Art. 226. A I R 1951 Raj 139 (144) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — Order of assessment to profession tax — Interference—(Travancore District Municipalities Act (33 of 1116), S. 133 and Sch II, R. 18 (2)).

Where the petitioner was assessed to profession tax by the Municipal Council and the order was confirmed in appeal by the Appellate Authority relying upon the proviso to R 18 (2) of Sch. II of the Travancore District Municipalities Act which was the appropriate provision.

Held, that in the circumstances of the case interference by the High Court by a writ of certiorari would not be justified. It may be that the assessment authorities were wrong in their calculation or in their interpretation of the provision but that was in itself no ground for interference. A I R 1952 S C 192, Applied. A I R 1955 Trav-Co 85 (87) (Pr 3).

——Arts. 226 and 265 — Illegal levy or collection of tax.

When a levy or collection of tax unauthorised by law under Art. 265 is made, relief may be given to the citizen in appropriate proceedings, not as a violation of fundamental right to property under Art. 31 but as an ultra vires act of the State. Proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution are appropriate. A I R 1951 S C 97, Rel. on. ILR (1952) Trav Co 960 : AIR 1953 Trav Co 146 (155, 156) (Pt G) (Pr 27) (DB).

60 (c). High Court's power.

● ——Art. 226 — Works contract — Sale of goods — Contract for installation of coke oven battery and by products plant for all inclusive price—Whether entire and indivisible — Materials supplied in execution of contract if amount to sale and liable to sales tax : Initiation of proceedings by issue of notice under S. 13 (5) — Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere by appropriate writ — Held, as proceedings before Sales Tax Officer had gone on footing that liability of appellant arose under the contract, proceedings for imposition of sales tax on supplies of materials pursuant to the contract were illegal and must be quashed. 1958 9 S T C 639 (Pat), Reversed. See Sales Tax —Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 2 (g). A I R 1961 S C 1615.

——Arts. 226, 31 and 13—Taxing statutes—Point of hardship—Consideration of.

The point whether a particular tax is burdensome and whether it would cause hardship to the tax-prayer cannot be decided by Courts, if the taxing statute is constitutional, and its legality cannot be questioned. (1962) 1 Andh W R 56 : ILR (1962) Andh Pra 853 : AIR 1962 Andh Pra 415 (416) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Petition under, objecting to assessment of tax as irregular and illogical—Matter is of merits and not of jurisdiction — Petition is not maintainable. 1959 S C J 250, Rel. on. (1960) 11 S T C 782 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Remand of case to give opportunity to party to adduce evidence.

When it is clear that the taxing authorities were not in breach of any duty cast on them, nor guilty of any contravention of law or form of procedure so that their order may be vitiated there is no justification for quashing the order. Nor does the writ jurisdiction extend to giving direction to the taxing authority by remanding a case to finalise the assessment after giving an opportunity to adduce evidence on the ground that the assessee had failed when the case was before the taxing authority to adduce evidence on the mistaken impression that the onus did not lie on him. (1959) 10 S T C 394 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 198 (203) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application for writ on ground that demand of certain sum from applicant was not warranted by S. 23, Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act — High Court cannot decide as to what exactly is the rent payable— (T. L. Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act (XXVI of 1948), Ss. 23 and 6 (2)). 1955 Andhra W R 902.

——Arts. 226 and 286 (2) — Powers of Court — Coercive provisions of law held to be illegal— Issue of writ against said provisions being utilised to petitioner's prejudice — Sales Tax — Assam Sales Tax Act (XVII of 1947), S. 15 (1) (b) (as amended by Assam Act (IV of 1950)— (Sales Tax — Assam Sales Tax Rules (1947), R. 90 (inserted in 1941).)

The High Court while holding thatthe amendment to S. 15, Assam Sales Tax Act and R. 80 are illegal, can give relief to the petitioner by issue of an appropriate writ against the said coercive provisions being utilised to his prejudice by the taxing authorities where the petitioner has been compelled, by virtue of R. 80, to give a declaration that he has to purchase the tea for re-sale in the State, and there are not adequate materials to pronounce finally whether the transactions carried on by him come within the purview of the expression "in the course of inter-State trade or commerce." ILR (1956) 8 Assam 384: AIR 1956 Assam 177 (179, 180) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 SC 107.]

——Art. 226 — Wealth Tax Act (XXVII of 1957), S. 19—Tax levied on executors of deceased owner illegally — Wealth Tax Officer overruling objection — In revision Commissioner also rejecting objection —Objector's writ petition was opposed on ground that order was administrative order and it was not permissible for High Court to strike it as illegal in writ petition relying on 64 Bom L R 201.

Held, that High Court had jurisdiction to make the order as it was without jurisdiction. AIR 1961 S C 372, 58 Bom L R 184, Rel. (1965) Mah L J (Notes) 55.

——Arts. 226 and 265—Another remedy open against illegal levy of tax.

Where a tax is being illegally levied, the High Court should not deny relief under Art. 226, even though there may be another remedy open to the applicant. It is of the utmost importance that the High Court should intervene at the earliest stage to stop illegal exactions. The prayer for refusal of the amount already paid cannot, however, be granted in proceedings under Art. 226: AIR 1952 Raj 112, Distinguished. ILR (1953) 3 Raj 52 : 1953 Raj L W 335: AIR 1953 Raj 180 (181, 182) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 276 — Licence fee — Validity — Determination of—Question whether levy is reasonable — Cannot be gone into in writ petition.

The question whether the levy of a particular licence fee is valid or not depends not so much upon whether it is a tax intended for meeting the general revenues of the Municipality or for meeting the expenses of regulating the trade, but, provided the levy is reasonable it must be upheld if it has been validly prescribed under the powers conferred upon the Municipality by the Act after following the procedure prescibed for it. The question whether the levy is reasonable or not is one which cannot ordinarily be conveniently gone into in a writ application for it would mean embarking upon an inquiry into the receipts and expenses of the Municipality and its budget allocations. (1956) 9 Sau LR 159.

——Art. 226—Proceedings for recovery of sales-tax—Exports outside India as also other items assessed to sales-tax—Assessment on exports being illegal proceedings could be quashed and recovery of tax prohibited to the extent that they related to exports. See Sales-tax—Travancore-Cochin General Sales Tax Act (XI of 1125), S. 26. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 531.

60 (d). Refund.

——Art. 226—Amount realised in excess of those leviable under Act — High Court cannot direct refund under Art. 226.

It is not the function of High Court in exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to direct refund of the amounts realised in excess of those which are leviable under the Act. ILR (1963) 1 Andh Pra 296.

——Art. 226—Relief—Writ Petition against Sales Tax Authority to forbear from proceeding further in the matter of assessment — Claim for refund of amounts paid by petitioner by way of sales tax not tenable in such proceedings. (1958) 9 S T C 295 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226 — Interference under, to restore time barred claims — Refund of sales-tax subsequently declared ultra vires — Claim against Government recoverable by suit, but time barred — High Court will not direct refund under Art. 226.

Assessees who have paid sales tax to the Government which is subsequently declared to be ultra vires cannot invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 if their claim against Government which is recoverable by suit, is time barred under the Limitation Act. Subject to limitation and equitable principles, the High Court can even under Art. 226 direct the State to refund the amounts which the petitioner before it can recover by suit. But the High Court cannot allow its powers under Art. 226 being exploited by a party whose claim against Government is time barred under the Limitation Act. AIR 1959 S C 135, Rel. on.

A writ or direction under Art. 226 is always equitable and the High Court will not grant it, as a matter of course simply because there had been an illegality committed. It will see whether for one thing, it is an appropriate remedy in the circumstances, and for another, a party who could bring a suit is seeking a writ simply to evade limitation or other bar. A petition under Art. 226 is not subject to limitation as such; but can if granted as a matter of course have the result of evading limitation; that should be carefully guarded against. 1963 Jab L J 79 : AIR 1963 Madh Pra 173 (174) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 304 (a)—Illegal recovery of tax — Refund by writ petition is maintainable — Sales Tax —M. B. Sales Tax Act (30 of 1950), S. 17.

Where the imposition of sales tax upon the petitioners was found to be illegal being repugnant to Art. 304 (a), High Court can in a writ petition issue writ enjoining the Government to return the same: AIR 1958 M P 220, Foll. Case Law Ref. 1960 M P L J 601 : 1960 Jab L J 656 : 1960 M P C 804 : (1960) 11 S T C 511.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Mandamus for refund of sales tax illegally levied — Competency—(Sales-Tax —Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 18-A).

A petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution contained a prayer for the issue of an appropriate Writ, Order, etc., for refund of sales tax illegally exacted from the petitioner in respect of his works contracts turnover.

Held, (i) that the prayer for refund of tax collected on the basis of orders impugned as invalid necessarily involved a prayer for a declaration of the invalidity of the orders before the main prayer for refund could be granted. Secondly, the illegal orders of assessment could not be allowed to stand especially when the petition was not merely under Art. 226 but also under Art. 227 of the Constitution; (ii) that the High Court should not by the issue of a writ of mandamus immediately deprive the State of the liberty of raising such pleas as may be available to it under the law; (iii) that in the instant case the orders of assessment were clearly unsustainable and under S. 18-A of the Madras General Sales Tax Act it was doubtful whether he could take any other proceedings to get the orders set aside. While refusing, therefore, to issue a Writ of Mandamus it was necessary in the interest of justice to quash the assessment orders. AIR 1958 S C 560, Rel. on. A I R 1959 S C 135, Disting. and Expl.

88 Mys L J 384 : I L R (1959) Mys 351 : (1960) 11 S T C 312: AIR 1960 Mys 93 (94, 95) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Tax paid under mistake of law—Refund to assessee — Sum payable as sales tax on earth work and carriage — Project authorities withholding payment to contractor under prohibitory order under O. 21, R. 52, Civil P. C. — Subsequent decision by Supreme Court holding such tax as not legally leviable — Contractor held entitled for refund. See Contract Act (1872), S. 72. AIR 1962 Orissa 136 (DB).

——Art. 226—Sales tax case — Sales tax under Bihar Sales Tax Act in respect of works contracts — Certificate issued by authorities for realisation of such tax—In the meantime, Supreme Court decision on liability to sales tax on works contracts delivered—Certificate authorities have no jurisdiction to enquire into petitioner's liability in view of the Supreme Court decision—Petitioner can claim refund under S. 15 of the Bihar Sales Tax Act of paid tax — In the event of refund being time barred, remedy lies in a civil suit—If tax unpaid, cancellation of certificate under S. 44 (1) (b) of Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act has to be sought. AIR 1962 S C 1320, Foll. (Sales Tax — Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1959), S. 15) (Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act (4 of 1914), Ss. 441 (b), 10 and 62.) 1965 B L J R 314 (DB).

——Art. 226—Relief against illegal taxation—Assessee not liable to sales tax and paying it by mistake — Application for refund dismissed — Application under Art. 226—Fact that assessee realised the tax from his customers and then paid it to the taxing authorities, is no ground for not interfering under Art. 226. (1956) 7 S T C 336: AIR 1956 Punj 222 (223) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Writ petition under—High Court can order refund of money illegally recovered by Government—Rajasthan Passengers and Goods Taxation Act (18 of 1959), Ss. 6 and 8.

In a petition under Art. 226 the High Courts have power for the purpose of enforcement of fundamental rights and statutory rights to give consequential relief by ordering repayment of money realised by the Government without the authority of law. But the question whether refund should be ordered or not in a particular case is a matter of discretion which would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and it is neither easy nor desirable to lay down any universal rule in this connection. Such relief should however not be allowed where it has been asked for after unreasonable delay. A I R 1960 S C 1006, Foll.

Applying the above principle held that an order as to refund of the penalties paid to or recovered by the State should be made in these cases. 1965 Raj L W 118 : ILR (1965) 15 Raj 285.

——Art. 226—Delay in making petition.

Where the levy of taxes is without any authority of law, Art. 265 makes the levy or collection of such taxes absolutely unwarranted after the Constitution came into force and the High Court is bound to take notice of the illegal exaction, and give the necessary relief under Art. 226 to the petitioners to which they are entitled. The fact that the petition is made after great delay does not disentitle the petitioner to a relief from the High Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction. I L R (1953) 3 Raj 664 : 1954 Raj L W 443 : A I R 1954 Raj 162 (165, 166) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

60(e). Constitutionality.

●—— Art. 226—Sales Tax—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (1941) as amended by Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) (Delhi Amendment) Act (17 of 1956), S. 8-A, as in force in Delhi — Powers conferred on Commissioner are not unlimited and unrestricted — Provision for demanding security is not arbitrary or unreasonable restriction — Amount of security — Power to demand is not constitutionally invalid. See Sales Tax—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (1941) as amended by Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) (Delhi Amendment) Act (17 of 1956), S. 8 A. (1962) 1 S C R 283.

——Arts. 226, 19 and 265 — Sales tax imposed illegally—It infringes fundamental right—It also violates Art. 265.

There is an infringement of the fundamental right of an assessee to carry on his trade or business when sales tax is imposed illegally in an arbitrary and capricious fashion. Moreover, in such cases, Art. 265 of the Constitution is also violated, inasmuch as there is no collection of tax by the authority of law when assessments are made in an arbitrary fashion. 1965 Ker L T 803 : I L R (1965) 2 Ker 240 : 1965 Ker L J 866 : AIR 1966 Ker 55 (59) (Pt D) (Pr 21).

— Arts. 226 and 265 — Relief against illegal taxation—Assessment of double sales tax on same transaction— (Sales Tax — Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 3).

The petitioners were wholesale consignees as also wholesale dealers in piecegoods. As wholesale consignees they obtained goods from mills at Ahmedabad during the year 1949-50 for sale to dealers according to their allotments. Certain goods indented for by them were sold directly to wholesalers, i.e., wholesalers clearing the goods allotted to them by the Provincial Textile Commissioner; but goods of the value of about 11 lakhs of rupees were not cleared by the wholesalers with the result that the petitioners had to sell them to retailers. The total turnover of the petitioners for the year was a sum of Rs. 33 lakhs odd, and out of this Rs. 11 lakhs odd represented sales to the retailers. The Deputy Commercial Tax Officer not only levied assessment on the footing of a sale to the extent of Rs. 33 lakhs odd by the petitioners but held that in respect of the sale of goods to the extent of Rs. 11 lakhs odd there was first a notional sale to wholesalers and then a further sale by the petitioners themselves to the retailers with the result that the tax due upon Rs. 11 lakhs odd was duplicated. The matter was taken up by the petitioners to the Commercial Tax Officer, and when they got no relief, they applied to the Board of Revenue in revision and here also their petition was dismissed. They now filed a petition for a writ of certiorari to quash the assessment.

Held, on the facts that there being only one sale involved in the transaction of sale by the petitioners to the retailers and not two sales, one notional and another actual, as construed by the Deputy Commercial Tax Officer the assessment in question could not be sustained on the merits and was illegal.

Held, further, that even if a limited construction of the scope of Art. 226 of the Constitution were to be adopted, the petitioners were entitled to relief under Art. 226 as the petition really involved the ultra vires nature of the tax and further the petitioner's right to property was affected by the illegal imposition of sale tax. The petitioners having exhausted all the remedies which were available to them the General Sales Tax Act, as it then stood, there could be no technical objection to the High Court interfering to quash the assessment. A I R 1954 S C 403, Applied; A I R 1947 P C 78, Disting. 1955 Mad W N 59 : (1955) 1 Mad L J 227 : (1955) 6 S T C 200 : 68 Mad W N 92 : AIR 1955 Mad 363 (364, 365) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

61. Industrial Tribunal.

See Notes 5 and 146.

62. Informal committee, writ against.

See Note 5.

63 Interim relief.

● ——Art. 226—Right to relief—Income-tax Officer issuing notice on petitioner under S. 34, Income-tax Act — Petition under Art. 226 for issue of writ of certiorari and prohibition — High Court permitting Income tax Officer to assess petitioner, during pendency of petition under Art. 226, on the distinct understanding that the orders would be without prejudice to the contentions of the parties on the several questions raised in the petition and without prejudice to the orders that may ultimately be passed by the Court — Fact that assessment orders have been made does not affect assessee's right to obtain relief under Art 226. Calcutta Discount Co., Ltd. v. Income-tax Officer, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C R 241 : (1963) 1 S C J 741 : (1961) 1 S C A 661 : (1961) 41 I T R 191 : AIR 1961 S C 372 (382) (Pt E) (Pr 39).

● ——Arts. 226 and 132 — "For any other purpose" —Meaning of — Interim relief without decision on rights — Final order.

The issuing of writs or directions by the High Court is founded only on its decision that a right of the aggrieved party under Part III of the Constitution (Fundamental Rights) has been infringed. It can also issue writs or give similar directions for any other purpose. The concluding words of Art. 226 have to be read in the context of what preceeds the same. Therefore the existence of the right is the foundation of the exercise of jurisdiction of the Court under this Article.

The Government of Orissa having passed an order cancelling the temporary permits and having directed the respondents to remove their assets appertaining to the mines within a fortnight, the respondents filed an application for a writ of mandamus. The High Court declined to investigate and pronounce on the rights of the parties and expressly kept the determination thereof in abeyance in the suit proposed to be filed by the respondents but held that at the moment the respondents had no alternative legal remedy, equally convenient, beneficial and effectual because the respondents could not file a suit till after the expiry of the period of sixty days required for the purpose under S. 80 of the Civil P. C., and unless protected by the Court in the meanwhile the respondents would undergo irreparable and irremediable loss of possession of the mining leases involving a huge waste of labour, machinery and other resources, of equipments of immense value hardly capable of being remedied by payments of money as compensation. The High Court therefore passed an order that till three months from the day of the order or one week after the institution of their contemplated suit, whichever was earlier, the Government of State of Orissa should refrain from disturbing the petitioners' possession over the mining areas in question and that thereafter the order would cease to have effect.

Held, that (1) with the passing of the order by the High Court the applications of the respondents were completely disposed of and as the directions embodied the final order passed by the High Court an appeal against the order to the Supreme Court was maintainable. The fact that the operation of the order was limited to three months or a week after the filing of the intended suit did not prevent the order being final.

(2) Article 226 cannot be used for the purpose of giving interim relief as the only and final relief on the application. The directions had been given here only to circumvent the provisions of S. 80 of the Civil P. C., and that was not within the scope of Art. 226. An interim relief can be granted only in aid of and as ancillary to the main relief which may be available to the party on final determination of his rights in suit or proceeding. If the Court was of opinion that there was no other convenient or adequate remedy open to the petitioners, it might have proceeded to investigate the case on its merits and come to a decision as to whether the petitioners succeeded in establishing that there was an infringement of any of their legal rights which entitled them to a writ of mandamus or any other directions of a like nature; and pending such determination it might have made a suitable interim order for maintaining the status quo ante. But when the Court declined to decide on the rights of the parties and expressly held that they should be investigated more properly in a Civil Suit, it could not, for the purpose of facilitating the institution of such suit, issue directions in the nature of temporary injunctions, under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The language of Art. 226 does not permit such an action : ILR (1951) Cut 398, Reversed. State of Orissa v. Madan Gopal, 1951-2 Mad L J 645 : 1952 Mad W N 13 : 1951 S C J 764: 1952-18 Cut L T 45 : ILR (1951) Cut 637 : 1952 S C R 28 : AIR 1952 S C 12 (13, 14) (Prs 3, 5, 6).

——Art. 226 — Interim relief — Vacation of interim order on dismissal of writ petition cannot have retrospective effect — Judgment and decree of Broome, J., in Civil Misc. Writ. No 1506 of 1959, Dated 13-8-1963. (All.) Reversed. 1964 All L J 1073: AIR 1965 All 370 (372) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Appeal — Powers of High Court in — Rules framed by High Court, R. 26 — Scope of R. 26—High Court has power to give interim relief such as issue of temporary injunction pending appeal.

The wordings of R. 26 of the Rules framed by the High Court relating to application under Art. 226 of the Constitution, make it quite clear that apart from the power of issuing a Rule nisi or summarily rejecting the application, the trial Court is also given power of making such order upon the application as it thinks fit unlike R. 9 of O. 35 of the Supreme Court Rules which limits the power of the Supreme Court in application under Art. 32 of the Constitution, to grant interim relief only after it decides to issue a Rule nisi in such application. Rule 26 of the Rules of the High Court confers a wider power or discretion upon the trial Court. The trial Court can make any order as it thinks fit in the ends of justice, in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution, and if an appeal is nothing but a continuance of the original proceeding there is no reason why the same wide power as is vested in the trial Court cannot be exercised by the appellate Court. Pending therefore, determination of the rights of the parties in a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court has power to make a suitable interim order for maintaining the status quo ante Thus, pending disposal of the appeal from an order dismissing in limine an application to issue a Rule nisi under Art. 226 the appellant can be granted any interim relief such as a temporary injunction on the ground that if such interim relief is not granted the appeal will become infructuous. AIR 1963 Cal 152 (156, 157) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 13, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interim injunction — Balance of convenience — Writ petition against grant of licence for cinema—Grant of injunction during pendency of writ rule amounting to some financial loss to licensee —Refusal of injunction in case of ultimate success of writ rule amounting to permitting contravention of provisions of West Bengal Cinemas (Regulation) Act (39 of 1954) — If petitioner succeeded ultimately in writ rule and if in the meantime temporary licence was granted under the Act petitioner suffering irreparable injury not measurable in money—Balance of convenience held lay in favour of petitioner and not in favour of licensees. 64 Cal W N 861 : ILR (1961) 1 Cal 317 : AIR 1960 Cal 582 (589) (Pt E) (Pr 32) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 107 — Discretionary Order—Discretion may be interfered with in exceptional cases — Interim injunction in writ proceeding — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 107. AIR 1960 Cal 582.

——Art 226 — Interim relief — Power to grant injunction.

When the Court has declined to decide on the rights of the parties and expressly held that they should be investigated more properly in a civil suit, it cannot, for the purpose of facilitating the institution of such suit, issue directions in the nature of temporary injunctions, under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The language of Art. 226 does not permit such an action : AIR 1952 S C 12 : (1951) 2 Mad L J 645 : 1951 S C J 764, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 402 : AIR 1957 Ker 113 (114) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Scope.

An application for getting an interim relief independent of any adjudication of the right to that relief as a kind of step in-aid to enure during the period of notice under S. 80 of the Civil P. C., is not maintainable in law : AIR 1952 S C 12, Applied. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 557 (558) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Duty of respondent.

When an application is made for a writ or directions for prohibiting anything being done, and the Court admits the petition and issues notice the respondent should not after getting notice do the very thing sought to be prevented. There need not be any separate order of injunction restraining the doing of it. In cases of urgency, the order of the Court should be taken for the duration of the proceedings or a prayer made for expeditious disposal of the proceedings themselves.

If a party, knowing that his opponent has either approached the Court or is taking steps to approach it for a certain specific relief, does anything to make the grant of the relief, by way of prevention, ineffective, the Court has always jurisdiction to pass orders even in ordinary cases in a mandatory form and to direct restoration of the status quo ante in the manner and to the extent possible. It will be an "a fortiori" case when the relief claimed is for grant of any of the writs or directions contemplated by Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. AIR 1951 Trav-Co 226 (2), Foll. I L R (1952) Trav Co 960 : AIR 1953 Trav-Co 146 (158) (Pt H) (Pr 28) (DB).

64. Interlocutory orders.

See Note 88.

65. Joint application.

See Note 11.

66. Judicial and quasi-judicial authorities.

See Notes 147 and 168.

67. Judicial proceedings, writ in respect of.

(a) Jurisdiction of High Court.

See Notes 68 and 69.

(b) Criminal Court proceedings.

(c) Court or tribunal not duly constituted.

67. Judicial proceedings, writ in respect of.

——Art. 226—Decision of Judge of High Court cannot be challenged in writ petition. AIR 1965 Cal 3 (10, 11) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

—Art. 226 — Proceedings under S. 4 of Agency Tracts Interest and Land Transfer Act are judicial and writ can issue—(Agency Tracts Interest and Land Transfer Act (11 of 1917), S. 4). AIR 1955 N U C (Orissa) 1122.

67 (a). Jurisdiction of High Court.

See Notes 68 and 69.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari—Nature of jurisdiction of the High Court — U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (V of 1954), S. 12.

In exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court does not act as a Court of appeal but only sees that the inferior Court has acted within the limits of its jurisdiction and has not refused to exercise jurisdiction vested in it.

Thus, where the Consolidation Officer refused to consider an application under S. 5 of the Limitation Act, for extending the period of limitation for filing objections under S. 12 of U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, solely on the ground that it was not filed along with the statement but sometime later and in appeal the settlement officer after going into the merits held that it was not a fit case, to extend the period of limitation.

Held, that the order of the Settlement Officer could not be quashed by certiorari because it was not patently illegal. 1962 All W R (H C) 114 : 1962 All L J 145.

——Art 226 — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 85, Partial cancellation of Panchayat Adalat's Order—Magistrate has no such power under S. 85—There is no such restriction on powers of High Court under Art. 226. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 1736.

67 (b). Criminal Court proceedings.

——Art. 226 — Scope — Prosecution by Magistrate having jurisdiction—No proceedings under Art. 226 can be taken.

A person cannot claim that he is immune from any prosecution. Where a person is being prosecuted for offence under S. 366, Penal Code by a Court having jurisdiction, the question whether he has committed the offence, being a question of fact, cannot be investigated in proceedings under Art. 226. If and when proceedings in respect of any offence are instituted against him he will have a right to defend himself, take the plea of want of jurisdiction and avail himself of the remedy provided by the Cr. P. Code itself. Madh B L R 1954 Cr 160 : 1955 Cr L J 276 : Madh B L J 1954 H C R 1070 : A I R 1955 M B 20 (21) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art 226—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107—Proceedings under S. 107 — Magistrate embarking upon enquiry to adjudicate upon questions of title or possession — Proceedings not covered by S. 107 — Order quashed. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 107. 1953 Cr L J 1843 : I L R (1953) 3 Raj 189 : AIR 1953 Raj 202 (DB).

67 (c). Court or tribunal not duly constituted.

● ——Art. 226 — Defective constitution of Bench — —Objection does not go to root of jurisdiction—Point not open in writ petition See Panchayats—U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 49 (2). 1955 Cri L J 296 : AIR 1955 All 113 (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Power of High Court—(Panchayats — Bihar Gram Panchayat Raj Act (VII of 1948), Ss. 70 and 73).

The High Court will not compel the trial Court necessarily to divest itself of jurisdiction on the view that the facts make out an offence of a graver nature not triable by the Court in seizin of the case, unless the offence disclosed is necessarily a distinct one. Where, however, the facts on behalf of the prosecution are such that the offence may fall under a section triable by the Court on a reasonable view of the matter, the High Court will not order that Court to be divested of jurisdiction.

Where the accused, who were on trial before a Gram Cutcherry on complaint that they stealthily entered the complainant's room and committed theft, applied under Ss. 70 and 73 of Bihar Gram Panchayat Raj Act and on rejection of that application, moved the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution for quashing the trial and directing transfer of the case, the application was held not maintainable. 1959 Cr L J 1099 : AIR 1959 Pat 423 (424, 425) (Pr 2).

68. Jurisdiction and power conferred by Art. 226.

See also Notes 69 and 79.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of Judicial Commissioner's Court, Bhopal to entertain and decide application under Art. 226.

The Judicial Commissioner's Court, Bhopal declared as a High Court, under the Judicial Commissioners' Courts (Declaration as High Courts) Act, 1950, has jurisdiction to entertain hear and decide an application under Art. 226, Constitution of India. AIR 1950 M B 60, Dissent; Misc. Cases Nos. 78 & 79 of 1950-51, D/- 4-10-50 (Bhopal), Approved. 1952 Cri L J 683 : AIR 1952 Bhopal 6 (8) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Judicial Commissioner's Court of Bhopal — Power to issue writs, orders and directions—Judicial Commissioner's Court (Declaration as High Courts) Act, Ss. 5 and 6.

By reason of the enactment of the Judicial Commissioners' Courts (Declaration as High Courts) Act, 1950, the Judicial Commissioner's Court of Bhopal is on the same level as a High Court and has jurisdiction to issue writs or directions contemplated by Art. 226 of the Constitution. The combined effect of Ss. 5 and 6 of the Act is that so far as the issue of the high prerogative writs or directions or orders mentioned in Art. 226 is concerned a Judicial Commissioner's Court in a Part C State has been treated on the same level as any other High Court. 1952 Cr L J 660 : AIR 1952 Bhop 1 (4, 5) (Pt C) (Pr 18).

69. Jurisdiction of High Court.

(a) Appellate or revisional.

(b) Nature of.

See Note 79.

(c) Under Art. 226.

(d) Visitorial and supervisory.

69. Jurisdiction of High Court.

● ——Art. 226 — Scope — Nature and effect of jurisdiction under. See Ibid, Art. 225. AIR 1953 Cal 433 (SB).

——Art. 226—Nature of Art. 226.

Art. 226 is of a remedial nature; it does not relate to procedure, but confers on the High Court powers to interfere in certain cases. Case law referred. ILR (1955) Hyd 370 : AIR 1955 Hyd 168 (170) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction under — Scope of. See Madras Estates Land (Reduction of Rent) Act (30 of 1910). ILR (1953) Mad 47 : (1952) 1 M L J 206 : AIR 1952 Mad 589 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court under Article. See Bihar Bakasht Disputes Settlement Act (13 of 1957), S. 3. 1956 B L J R 346.

——Arts. 32 (3), 225, 226 — Powers of High Court under Art. 226.

It cannot be said that Art. 226 is to be read with and subject to Art. 225. The subject of Art. 225 is jurisdiction of existing High Courts, and that of Art. 226, powers of High Courts to issue certain writs. The power of High Courts to issue writs under Art. 226 is not in any way governed by the provisions of Art. 32 (3), which in any case, does not even refer specifically to High Court, but seems to indicate that Parliament may give powers to issue writs, orders and directions even to subordinate Courts. Power and jurisdiction are not two quite separate matters but merely different aspect of the same thing. Hence in Art. 226 the power given to the High Courts to issue writs and similar orders also includes jurisdiction. Majority view in A I R 1950 Madh B 60, Diss. from. ILR (1951) Punj 438 : 53 Pun L R 391 : AIR 1952 Punj 70 (72, 73) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

69 (a). Appellate or revisional.

● ——Arts. 226 and 227—Findings in departmental enquiry—High Court has no power to re-appreciate evidence.

In proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227 the High Court cannot sit in appeal over the findings recorded by a competent tribunal in a departmental enquiry so that if the High Court has purported to re-appreciate the evidence for itself that would be outside its jurisdiction. However, if it is shown that the impugned findings recorded by the Administrative Tribunal are not supported by any evidence the High Court would be justified in setting aside the said findings. ILR (1959) Cut 425, Reversed. State of Orissa v. Murlidhar Jena, AIR 1963 S C 404 (405, 408) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 14, 15).

——Art. 226—Powers of the High Court—Objection to scheme of nationalisation of road transport under S. 68-D, of the Motor Vehicles Act (1939) — Objection on public grounds raised under allegation of certain facts — Objection specifically dealt with by the officer and rejected—High Court; while exercising writ jurisdiction does not sit in judgment over the officer and cannot go into the question whether the conclusion arrived at by bim was or was not correct —High Court cannot arrogate to itself the function of an appellate Court in such matter. ILR (1963) 2 All 448 : AIR 1964 All 329 (336) (Pt D) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

High Courts do not usurp the function and power of a Court of Appeal while entertaining petitions under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. They merely exercise jurisdiction to correct any error in the exercise of jurisdiction by the subordinate authority. They, therefore, merely consider whether the order which is being challenged was within the jurisdiction of the subordinate authority or that authority had exceeded the jurisdiction or committed an error in the exercise of jurisdiction which is apparent on the face of the record. AIR 1960 All 247 (250) (Pt C) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Court — Extent of.

In a writ petition, the High Court is not sitting as a Court of appeal over the decision of the Tribunal and can interfere with that decision only if there is any patent or manifest error in it. AIR 1957 All 719 (722) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of proceedings.

In a writ petition under Art. 226, the High Court does not sit in appeal over the order of the competent officer under the evacuee law sought to be quashed and has no power to set aside his findings of fact. 1957 All WR (HC) 573 : 1957 All L J 509 : AIR 1957 All 561 (574) (Pt N) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Art. 226—Questions of fact.

In a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution for the issue of a certiorari the High Court does not function as a Court of Appeal. In a petition filed by a public servant against the punishment (of compulsory retirement) imposed upon him, the High Court cannot go into questions of fact or review the evidence : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 15, Foll.; (1952) 1 K B 338, Rel. on. (1960) 2 Lab L J 285 : AIR 1961 Andh Pra 289 (292) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 11).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

In a petition under Art. 226 where the High Court is asked to quash the orders of quasi-judicial authority like an education authority, the High Court does not sit as a Court of Appeal reviewing the evidence and the probabilities of the case. The scope of the High Court's interference is limited to cases where that authority has clearly exceeded its jurisdiction or has committed an error which is patent on the record or has done something which is manifestly opposed to the principles of natural justice. The High Court will not substitute its decision on the ground that the basis upon which the authority proceeded, is not a correct or proper basis. The High Court ought to be slow to interfere with the discretion and the autonomy of statutory bodies unless it is established that the decision of the authorities is capricious, arbitrary or influenced by extraneous consideration and oblique motives. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 46 (49, 50) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 15, 16).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari, writ of — Powers of High Court — Nature of — Circumstances in which High Court will interfere with decision of subordinate tribunals.

In an application under Art. 226 the High Court does not exercise the powers of a Court of Appeal. It is not its function to review the facts and the evidence and to investigate whether the conclusions to which the tribunal had come are sustained by cogent evidence. The jurisdiction of the High Court is confined to cases where the subordinate tribunals exceed their jurisdiction, or act without legal authority or perpetrate an error of law patent on the record or violate some principles of natural justice. Where none of these circumstances is present, the High Court will not interfere with the award, which the tribunal had made after a fair survey of the material placed before it. 1960 Lab L J 604 (AP).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—If Court of appeal—Error of law.

It is true that the High Court, while exercising its writ jurisdiction, does not act as a Court of appeal. It is equally true that a writ will issue only in aid of justice. Certiorari does not issue as a matter of course. If the High Court is satisfied that the order that it sought to be removed has not resulted in any injustice to any of the parties, it would be very slow to interfere with it. It is not every error of law that should be a ground for the issue of a writ of certiorari. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 487 (492) (Pt G) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Decision of District Judge under S. 51, Madras District Municipalities Act—Interference with—High Court cannot assume powers of an appellate Court and decide whether the evidence is sufficient in quantity to support a finding of fact arrived at by the District Judge—(Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 51). 1955 Andh WR 972 : ILR (1956) Andh 127: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 900 (903) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of High Court's power.

Howsoever wide the powers of High Court under Art. 226, may be, it should not constitute itself as an appellate Court and sit on judgment over the decision given by the Regional or State Transport Authority. It has only to see whether the Authorities concerned have acted in accordance with law and according to the principles of natural justice and that there is no want of jurisdiction in those bodies in making the orders impugned. The High Court cannot therefore interfere with the merits of their orders or the reasons given by them in refusing to grant permits to the petitioners. ILR (1955) 7 Assam 23 : AIR 1954 Assam 219 (221, 222) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands (Vidarbha Region) (Amendment) Act (44 of 1963), S. 6 — The jurisdiction that the High Court exercises or is called upon to exercise when its jurisdiction under Art. 226 or 227 is invoked, is not an appellate jurisdiction. It is an extra-ordinary jurisdiction, and if powers under Art. 227 are invoked, it has also the superintending jurisdiction. See Tenancy Laws — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands (Vidarbha Region and Kutch Area) Act (99 of 1958), S. 38. AIR 1965 Bom 76 (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court.

The High Court has, in an application under Art. 226, Constitution of India, no jurisdiction to hear the application as if it were an appeal. 59 Bom L R 413 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 37 : (1958-59) 14 F J R 114 : ILR (1958) Bom 49 : AIR 1957 Bom 188 (192, 193) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 and 313—High Court exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226—Does not sit as a Court of appeal — Power to go behind order impeached—Violation of rules made by Government—Accrual of cause of action—Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules.)

If there is no error patent on the face of the order the High Court is not entitled to go behind it and look into the departmental enquiry and weigh the evidence and say that the judgment arrived at by the officer was wrong. As long as there is no violation of a constitutional safeguard, but merely violation of Rules made by Government, no cause of action accrues to a petitioner and that would be so especially where a party comes before the Court for a writ of certiorari. AIR 1955 Mad 182, Dissented from. AIR 1956 Bom 483 (485 to 488) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 8).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under, is supervisory and not appellate—Tribunal committing errors in appreciation of evidence and in drawing inferences therefrom — Writ — Court cannot correct those errors which are not errors apparent on face of record.

The Court issuing a Writ of Certiorari acts in exercise of supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. As a consequence of this the Court will not review findings of fact arrived at by the inferior Court or Tribunal, even though they be erroneous unless the error is a manifest error apparent on the face of the proceedings. While a finding based on no evidence is an error of law apparent on the face of the record, errors in appreciation of documentary evidence or in drawing inferences are not such errors and cannot be corrected by a Court acting under Art. 226. AIR 1955 S C 233 and AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1960 S C 1168 and AIR 1964 S C 477, Foll. Therefore, the High Court while exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226, would exceed its powers in pronouncing upon the merits of a controversy which the Legislature has thought fit to leave it to the tribunal to decide if it corrects what are mainly errors in appreciation of oral and documentary evidence and errors in drawing inferences of a tribunal. Order of Banerjee, J. in (1964) 2 Lab L J 172 (Cal), Reversed. AIR 1966 Cal 31 (39) (Pt A) (Prs 44, 46, 48) (DB).

——Art. 226 — High Court does not sit in appeal over decision of tribunal in dealing with application under Art. 226 — Powers of Tribunal cannot be taken away in application under Article.

The High Court in dealing with an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution does not sit in appeal over the decision of the Tribunal which is impugned, nor is it for the High Court to appreciate evidence on which the Tribunal acted in arriving at the decision. The correctness of the decision of the Tribunal cannot be rectified merely on the ground that there is an error of fact on the records or that the decision has been vitiated by an incorrect appreciation of the evidence by the Tribunal. The Sea Customs Act has imposed a duty on the Customs authorities to deal with question of misdeclaration, confiscation of goods and impositions of fine by way of penalty for violation of the provisions of the Statute. It is for the Customs authority to adjudicate on such matters and this Court does not sit in appeal over the decision of the Tribunal. The Court cannot substitute its own decision for that of the Tribunal, unless there is an error of law apparent on the face of the records or there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice. But even if the decision is vitiated by an error of law on the face of the record or by the violation of the principles of natural justice, the Tribunal's power and the duty to adjudicate, cannot be taken away by the High Court in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 440; AIR 1952 S C 192; AIR 1961 S C 264; AIR 1964 S C 477; AIR 1964 S C 1519 and AIR 1963 S C 405, Rel. on. ('65) 69 Cal W N 439.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari — Jurisdiction of High Court to issue—Nature of.

The Court issuing a Writ of Certiorari acts in exercise of a supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. Consequently, the High Court will not review findings of fact reached by the inferior Court or Tribunal even if they be erroneous. The principle is, that a Court or Tribunal which has jurisdiction over a subject-matter has jurisdiction to decide wrongly as well as rightly and when the Legislature has not thought fit to confer upon any Court a right of appeal against that decision, the Superior Court exercising only a supervisory jurisdiction will not be justified in rehearing the case on the evidence and substitute its own findings in certiorari proceedings. AIR 1964 Cal 486 (489, 490) (Pt B) (Prs 15, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari—Extent of exercise of jurisdiction—High Court does not sit as Court of Appeal.

The scope of review of certiorari has its own limitations. In the name of such review the appellant in a writ appeal cannot ask for and obtain reappraisal of the evidence. The High Court does not sit as a Court of Appeal from the decision of the officer or Tribunal. AIR 1963 Cal 26 (36) (Pt E) (Pr 45) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ Petition — Writ Court is not Court of appeal — Cannot go into truth or falsity of charges—Extent of jurisdiction.

Writ Court is not a Court of appeal and does not go into the truth or falsity of charges, unless of course the findings on the charges are based on no evidence whatsoever or are highly perverse. (1963) 1 Lab L J 708 : (1963) 6 Fac L R 26 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Petition under — Court does not function as Court of Appeal nor can enquire into sufficiency of evidence for particular findings by lower Court. (1951) 1 K B 711, Rel. on. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 401.

——Art. 226—Petition under—Court does not function as Court of Appeal—Nor can enquire into sufficiency of evidence for particular findings by lower Court. (1951) 1 K B 711, Rel. on. ('53) 57 Cal W N 157 : AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 40.

——Art 226 — Proceedings for prerogative writs—Extent of Court's powers.

In proceedings for Writs of Mandamus or Certiorari the Court does not constitute itself a Court of appeal and it cannot go into the merits of the conclusion of the inferior Court or Tribunal. Where therefore the lower Court or Tribunal has not acted in an arbitrary manner or has not exceeded its jurisdiction, the High Court cannot interfere with its decision on the ground that it is erroneous on the merits. 87 Cal L J 391 : 1953 Cri L J 1745 : AIR 1953 Cal 753 (754) (Pt A) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Issue of writ—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The High Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution does not function as a Court of appeal. It is only when the order of the inferior Tribunal or body is a Speaking Order and there is an error of law on the face of the record that the High Court has power to quash it by certiorari. 1952 Cr L J 1651 : AIR 1952 Cal 789 (794, 795) (Pt D) (Prs 29, 30, 31, 34, 35).

——Arts 226 and 227 — High Court's power — Its extent.

The High Court in exercising its powers under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution is not entitled to sit in appeal over the decision of an Industrial Tribunal. It is not entitled to act as if it had appellate jurisdiction in the matter. It has to see whether there is any illegal exercise of jurisdiction or whether there is any error of law apparent on the face of the record. An error of fact, however apparent, is not one which calls for interference at the hands of the High Court. Where the finding of a Tribunal is not supported by any evidence then it could be regarded as an error of law and if such error of law is apparent on the face of the record the High Court would have a right to interfere in the exercise of the powers conferred upon it. (1963) 2 Lab L J 527 : (1963) 4 Guj L R 622 : AIR 1963 Guj 283 (290) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — High Court cannot convert itself into Court of appeal. ILR (1956) Hyd 630 : AIR 1957 Hyd 19 (21) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — High Court does not act as Court of appeal.

The Writs under Art. 226 can only be issued in very grave cases. If any irregularity in procedure is relied upon it must be shown that it affects the jurisdiction or results in manifest, and grave injustice. But the powers do not enable the Court to constitute itself a Court of appeal, and examine the correctness of the decision or act challenged.

Note.—It was held in this case that in conducting an enquiry against the subedar (the dismissed applicant in the case) under the Public Servants (Departmental Enquiry) Regulation (XI of 1358F), the Regulations were not infringed and the Board of Departmental Enquiry did not exceed the jurisdiction, or act contrary to the principles of natural justice. ILR (1955) Hyd 370 : AIR 1955 Hyd 168 (170, 171) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature and extent of jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction exercised by High Court under Art. 226 is both of revisory and superintending nature—It is not appellate and it is doubtful whether it has power to remand the proceeding—Nature and scope of proceedings distinguished from that of appeal and revision: Case law referred. I L R (1953) Hyd 191 : A I R 1953 Hyd 209 (211, 212) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Departmental inquiry against Government servant—Order made in—Writ petition against order — Nature of proceedings in Court.

Proceedings in Courts canvassing the legality of disciplinary actions of administrative tribunals should not be treated as appeals from or rehearings of trials held by the disciplinary authorities, rather than as invocation of the limited jurisdiction of the Courts to restrain the abuse of quasi-judicial proceedings, where the sole issue is whether the result, be it right or wrong, was arrived at with due regard to the principles of natural justice. I L R (1961) 1 Ker 153: 1961 Ker L J 315 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 50 : 1961 Ker L T 486 : A I R 1962 Ker 43 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — High Court does not act as appellate Court. 1956 M B L J 1284 : A I R 1957 Madh B 15 (17) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1981 S C 1070.]

——Art. 226 — M. B. Panchayat Act (53 of 1949), S. 20—Writ of certiorari — High Court is not Court of Appeal.

The Government has under S. 20, Panchayat Act, jurisdiction to decide the question whether there was sufficient reason for the dismissal of the Panchayat. The High Court cannot convert itself into a Court of Appeal and enter into the question of sufficiency or adequacy of the ground for the dissolution of the body. M B L J 1955 H C R 569 : A I R 1955 Madh B 173 (176) (Pt E) (Pr 8) DB).

——Art. 226—Petition under—Powers of High Court —Remand — High Court not an appellate Court. See Houses and Rents—C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 13 (3) (i). 1959 M P C 140 : 1959 M P L J 440 : 1959 Jab L J 525.

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Power of High Court to take notice of facts not appearing on face of record —Industrial dispute — Delay on part of workers or union to raise dispute — Employer raising specific plea of laches —Labour Court not dealing with same —Power of Court to consider question of laches on facts outside record and to grant relief irrespective of laches and to direct payment of back pay up to time of raising of dispute — Industrial dispute— Laches — Delay on part of workers or union to raise dispute — Relevancy in considering relief to be granted —Function of Labour Court.

The High Court in certiorari proceedings cannot take notice of any fact which does not appear on the face of the order sought to be quashed. Where in an Award of the Labour Court under the Industrial Disputes Act there is no specific treatment of a question of laches on the part of the workers in raising a dispute, though the employers in their statement before the Labour Court specifically pleaded that the delay and laches on the part of the workers and the union in raising the dispute disentitled the workers to any relief it is not within the jurisdiction of the High Court in certiorari proceedings to dispose of that ground on facts outside the award itself and not specifically adverted to therein. It is the Labour Court that has to be directed to deal with that point upon the merits. Unreasonable and unjustifiable delay in raising dispute would no doubt be a relevant factor for the consideration of the Court and might even entitle the Court to decline relief altogether; but the mere circumstance that the workmen did not raise a dispute for a long time cannot be a sufficient ground for declining relief. The true position is that while the time that subsequently elapses once the industrial dispute has been raised, would, of course, be quite irrelevant on the consideration of relief; the delay that might have occurred between the occasion for the dispute and the agitation or complaint by labour which leads to the reference would be a relevant circumstance in shaping the relief. Everything would depend on the period of delay, the facts which occasioned the delay and the degree of negligence with which organised labour could be rightly taxed. But that is entirely a matter for the Labour Court to decide, upon the facts and in the light of the guiding principles governing the matter. When this ground was raised in the averments of the record; but the Labour Court did not deal with this ground, the High Court has really no jurisdiction to proceed with it in a matter of certiorari and to hold that laches did not disentitle the concerned party to relief or to direct payment of back wages up to the time that the dispute was raised, as that is a matter primarily for the decision of the Labour Court. 78 Mad L W 252 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 298 : A I R 1965 Mad 454 (456, 457) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Nature of jurisdiction of High Court—It is corrective and not appellate and is confined to errors of law or of jurisdiction on face of record.

The jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is not appellate in character and it will not, therefore, review evidence as in appeal and come to its own findings on the materials on record. Its jurisdiction under certiorari is corrective and is confined to find if the proceedings or order sent up before it suffer from any error of law or of jurisdiction on the face of the record.

Once the High Court finds that the Labour Court has informed its mind of the correct tests and has properly applied them to the facts of the case, its conclusion cannot be successfully assailed in a writ of certiorari. I L R (1965) 1 Mad 379 : (1965-66) 28 F J R 122 : (1964) 2 Lab L J 413 : A I R 1965 Mad 364 (368) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — High Court's jurisdiction under — Order of subordinate civil Court susceptible to appeal or revision cannot be quashed in certiorari—Writ of prohibition cannot be issued to restrain it from exercising jurisdiction.

Article 226 does not clothe the High Court with jurisdiction to quash the orders of a subordinate Court. An order of the Assistant City Civil Judge, susceptible of an appeal or revision cannot be quashed by a writ of certiorari and a writ of prohibition restraining or forbearing it from proceeding to exercise jurisdiction in any matter before it cannot be issued.

For the jurisdiction to issue writ it does not matter whether it is the Supreme Court exercising its powers under Art. 32 or whether it is the State High Court exercising its powers under Art. 226 is not the cloak of an appeal in disguise. The exercise of jurisdiction is only an original jurisdiction quite distinct and separate from the exercise of appellate jurisdiction. The Constitution has not in any way enlarged the scope and content and nature and operation of the prerogative writs. The phraseology adopted in Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution would seem to indicate that judgments of subordinate Courts should not form the subject-matter of writs under Art. 226 presumably because the suitor or party aggrieved by such judgments and orders has got remedies by way of appeal and revision as efficacious as the remedy by way of writs. 1961 Mad W N 808 : 75 Mad L W 316 : I L R (1962) Mad 744 : A I R 1962 Mad 458 (469, 470) (Pt A) (Prs 26, 28, 30, 31) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court — Function of Industrial Tribunal — Nature of — Award based on minimum living wage for workman — Quantum of wages if within the purview of High Court's jurisdiction. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7 (1). (1957) 2 Mad L J 135 : A I R 1957 Mad 688.

——Art. 226—Certiorari, writ of—Power of enquiry.

It is not for the High Court in certiorari to embark on an enquiry and find whether particular charges have or have not been made out. 1951-1 M L J 285 : AIR 1951 Mad 775 (777) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — Jurisdiction of High Court to issue—Finding of fact — Writ in respect of — When can be issued.

The tribunal is the final authority for deciding questions of fact and law arising under the Motor Vehicles Act. The conclusion reached by the Tribunal on the basis of the material before it is not open to review by the High Court. The Certiorari jurisdiction of the High Court is a reasonably well defined jurisdiction. While exercising that jurisdiction the High Court does not act, as a Court of appeal. It merely exercises a supervisory jurisdiction. In exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction the High Court cannot examine the correctness of question of fact and law decided by the inferior Courts or Tribunals. A Writ of Certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior Courts or Tribunals, namely, where orders are passed by inferior Courts or Tribunals without jurisdiction, or in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise its jurisdiction. A writ can, similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the Court or Tribunal acts illegally or improperly as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a Writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunals, a Writ of Certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding the Tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a Writ of Certiorari. An error of law which can be corrected by a Writ of Certiorari must be one which is apparent on the face of the record. AIR 1964 S C 477, Applied. (1964) 2 Mys L J 373 : (1965) 1 Law Rep 219 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Powers of High Court.

A petition under Art. 226 cannot be made to serve the purpose of a regular appeal, nor can the High Court be called upon to sit as a Court of appeal to correct every error which a statutory authority might have committed while functioning within the limits of its jurisdiction. 37 Mys L J 228 : ILR (1959) Mys 135 : (1959) 1 Lab LJ 531 : AIR 1959 Mys 235 (235, 236) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of jurisdiction under.

Article 226 does not mean that any party who thinks that a wrong order has been passed under any of the statutes can come up to the High Court and ask that it should convert itself into Court of Appeal sitting in judgment over such orders. If the authority had jurisdiction to pass those orders and those orders fell within the ambit of such jurisdiction and powers the mere fact that the order is wrong in the opinion of the Court would not justify the High Court to issue writs. But where jurisdiction is totally wanting or is not exercised or is exercised without reference or contrary to the statute under which such jurisdiction is given the High Court can and ought to interfere. Sampu Gowda v. State of Mysore, I L R (1953) Mys 440 : 32 Mys L J 12: AIR 1953 Mys 156 (166) (Pt k) (Pr 42) (FB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Function as appellate Court.

The High Court when it exercises the functions under Art. 226 of the Constitution does not function as an appellate Court. But the powers granted by Art. 226 are intended to enable the High Court to issue the writs mentioned in that article when there is an error apparent on the face of the record, and any act, omission, error or excess committed by subordinate tribunals, bodies or officers has resulted in manifest injustice. A I R 1952 S C 192, Foll. 1956 Nag L J 66 : A I R 1956 Nag 235 (237) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 232.]

——Arts. 226 and 227—Scope—Decision of Appellate Authority constituted under R. 73, Motor Vehicles Rules—High Court acting under Arts. 226 and 227 cannot exercise appellate jurisdiction—(Motor Vehicles Rules, R. 73).

Both under Art. 226 as also Art. 227 the jurisdiction whatever its extent, has not to be confused with an appellate jurisdiction which is normally co-extensive with the jurisdiction of the inferior tribunal. What the High Court has to find out is that there has been an error of jurisdiction or an error of law apparent on the face of the record or the decision is otherwise manifestly unjust. If there has been a substantial error of law resulting in a miscarriage of justice, or the order is manifestly unjust, then interference can be made by the High Court, but not otherwise. AIR 1952 S C 192 : AIR 1954 S C 440 : AIR 1955 S C 223, Rel. on. ILR (1955) Nag 977 : 1955 Nag L J 590 : A I R 1955 Nag 199 (201) (Prs 8, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Extent of High Court's jurisdiction under Article.

The High Court sitting under Art. 226 cannot function as a Court of appeal and thus look into the correctness of the decisions of the Courts particularly created by the statute. Its jurisdiction extends only to seeing that the statute is being properly administered and that the Courts created by the statute did not exceed their powers. 1954 Nag L J 120: ILR (1954) Nag 169 : AIR 1954 Nag 81 (82) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of Rent Controller and of Appellate authority ignoring specific provisions of statute — Writ of certiorari — If can issue — Proper form of order —C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949, Cl. 13 (3).

Where the order of the Rent Controller and of the appellate authority, in rejecting an application made by the landlord, ignored the specific provisions of Cl. 13 (3) (vi) (a) of the C P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, 1949, the High Court can issue a writ of certiorari under Art. 226 of the Constitution quashing the order.

When exercising its extraordinary powers under a writ of certiorari the proper order for the High Court to pass is to quash the order and to leave the authorities to pass the right order and not for that Court to substitute its own orders, because the High Court does not exercise the jurisdiction of an appellate Court which has always the authority of substituting its own operative orders for those of the lower Court. The function of the High Court in its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution must be confined to pointing out the true legal position and either quashing the orders or letting those orders stand, as the case may be. It is not for the High Court to exercise such powers as are ordinarily exercisable in its appellate or revisional jurisdiction. The Court, while entertaining application for a writ of certiorari, does not act either under its appellate or its revisional jurisdiction. 1951 Nag L J 566 : ILR (1951) Nag 769 : AIR 1952 Nag 4 (6) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Whether a particular act is wilful or not depends upon facts of each case and onus is on person who asserts that that is not so. It is to be inferred from circumstances—Nothing on record to show that acts of omission and commission alleged against petitioner are mere acts of inadvertence — Matter requiring investigation of facts — High Court in its writ jurisdiction cannot take upon itself function of appellate Court and scrutinise materials and substitute its own discretion and judgment. Cass law discussed. ILR (1965) Cut 677 : 32 Cut L T 272.

——Art. 226 — Order in revision under S. 26 (1) Administration of Evacuee Property Act — Interference by High Court — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 26 (1)).

Where the Additional Custodian interferes under S. 26 (1), with the order of the Assistant Custodian even when there is no illegality or impropriety in the order, that would not justify interference by the High Court under Art. 226, because when exercising powers under that Article the High Court is not a Court of appeal. I L R (1955) Patiala 529 : A I R 1955 Pepsu 142 (143, 144) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226— Powers of High Court — C. P. Code (1908), S. 115.

The power of the High Court under Art. 226 under which writs are issued is different from the powers of revision given to it by S. 115 of the C. P. Code.

The High Court when exercising jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari does not act either as the Court of appeal or that of revision and it has no power to correct either findings of fact or even errors of law except where the error of law is patent on the face of the record. A I R 1951 Bom 303; A I R 1952 Nag 4, Rel. on.

Where the decision of the Appellate Authority on the question of limitation is not only erroneous but there is a mistake apparent on the face of the record inasmuch as the Authority failed to take notice of the provisions of S. 4, Limitation Act, with the result that the appeal is dismissed as barred by limitation, it is a proper case in which relief by way of writ of certiorari should be granted. ILR (1952) Patiala 242 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 76 (77, 78) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 6).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Writ jurisdiction, nature of —It is not appellate jurisdiction — Decision of subordinate tribunals not reviewable to find out whether they are based on substantial evidence as against absence of legal evidence — American and English law compared.

Writ jurisdiction is not appellate jurisdiction and it is not possible for a High Court on writ side to appraise or evaluate the evidence for itself. Under the "substantial evidence" rule of American administrative law, decisions can be reviewed to discover whether or not they are based on substantial evidence. There is no counter part of this rule in English laws. In India unless it can be established that the impugned decision is based on no evidence or has been given upon irrelevant considerations, the High Court would normally be bound by the conclusion on fact arrived at in the impugned order however, erroneous on merits it may be. 1965 Cur L J 561 : ILR (1965) 2 Punj 348.

——Arts. 226 and 227— Notaries Rules (1956), R 13 (12) —Infraction of — Quantum of punishment for— Government alone is competent to decide — Court cannot act as Court of Appeal for determining quantum, in petition under Arts. 226, 227. See Notaries Act (1952), S. 15. AIR 1965 Punj 220.

——Art. 226 -Certiorari — Jurisdiction — Industrial Disputes — Award — Powers of High Court under Art. 226.

High Court does not function as a Court of appeal over the awards made by the Industrial Tribunals. It can only examine the awards to find out whether the Tribunal has acted within its jurisdiction or if there is any error patent on the face of the award. In other words, the jurisdiction of High Court is limited to what it can examine under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, High Court cannot pronounce on the merits of the award.

Held, on facts that there was no merit in the contention that there was no evidence on which the Tribunal could go against the report of the assessor appointed to decide as to under which category the particular type of workers should be put. A I R 1960 S C 985, Dist. (1963-64) 24 F J R 30 (Punj).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Powers of High Court — In the proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227 the High Court does not act as a Court of appeal and would not interfere where the subordinate tribunal had acted within its jurisdiction. (1961-62) 21 F J R 29 : 1961 Cur L J 15 : ILR (1962) 1 Punj 1 : 64 Punj L R 400 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 568 : AIR 1962 Punj 93 (94) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court under.

The High Court cannot possibly take the place of a Court of appeal nor can the powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution be regarded such as to give a right to an aggrieved party to approach a superior authority and ask for review of the decision appealed against on the merits. 64 Punj L R 213 : I L R (1962) 2 Punj 74 : 1962 Cur L J 49.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Extent of.

The writs referred to in Art. 226 are obviously intended to enable the High Court to issue them in grave cases where the subordinate tribunals or bodies or officers act wholly without jurisdiction, or in excess of it, or in violation of the principles of natural justice or refuse to exercise a jurisdiction vested in them, or there is an error apparent on the face of the record, and such act, ommission, error, or excess has resulted in manifest injustice. However extensive the jurisdiction may be, it is not so wide or large as to enable the High Court to convert itself into a Court of appeal and examine for itself the correctness of the decisions impugned and decide what is the proper view to be taken or the order to be made : A I R 1952 S C 192, Rel. on. 63 Punj L R 327 : A I R 1961 Punj 275 (277) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311—Power of High Court — Interference.

The High Court in an application under Art. 226 is not sittting in appeal over the findings of the Inquiry Officer in a departmental inquiry and as long as it is satisfied that he has acted within his jurisdiction and has given reasonable opportunity to the petitioner to defend himself, it cannot upset his findings. It is for the Government to accept or reject his findings. AIR 1960 Punj 646 (652) (Pt K) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Setting right technical mistakes.

Under Art. 226, the High Court is not to act as a Court of appeal or revision so as to set right technical mistakes or mere errors of law. One of the limitations imposed by the Courts on themselves is that they will not exercise jurisdiction unless substantial injustice has ensued or is likely to ensue. 59 Punj L R 251 : ILR (1957) Punj 1334 : A I R 1957 Punj 155 (158) (Pt G) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of High Court's power — Court can only examine order and cannot look into evidence to show that conclusion was arrived at by erroneous reasoning or by admission of inadmissible evidence. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4999.

——Art. 226—High Court is not Court of appeal.

Under Art. 226, High Court is not a Court of appeal against the administrative Tribunal. A I R 1952 S C 192 : 1952 S C J 261 : (1952) 1 M L J 806 (S C), Rel. on. ILR (1955) Punj 459 : 57 Punj L R 63 : A I R 1955 Punj 161 (164) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature and scope of proceeding under —Procedure.

The High Court exercising powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India is not concerned with the weight of the evidence. The judicial review goes no further than to ascertain whether there is evidence to support the findings, and the question of the weight of the evidence in determining issues of fact lies with the statutory authority. (1935) 298 U S 38, Ref. I L R (1955) Punj 639 : 56 Punj L R 449 : AIR 1955 Punj 5 (11, 12) (Pt G) (Pr 29) (DB).

[Reversed on other points in AIR 1962 S C 646].

——Art. 226— Powers of High Court — Nature of jurisdiction.

High Court in an application for writ cannot sit as an appellate body scrutinizing every detail of the question in the light of the materials produced by the parties. 1961 Raj L W 326 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 206.

——Art. 226— Nature and scope of High Court's power under —High Court does not sit in appeal over Board of Revenue—Finding of fact based upon consideration of evidence will not be interfered with. AIR 1955 N U C (Raj) 3451.

——Art. 226—Extent of jurisdiction under.

In the extraordinary proceedings under Art. 226, the High Court cannot turn itself into an appellate Court in respect of the proceedings before the lower Court. 1954 Raj L W 268 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 274 : AIR 1954 Raj 117 (121, 122) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Exercise of powers under.

Where the Revenue Board in revision having taken into consideration all the relevant provisions and decided the matter of reinstatement of tenants under U. P. Act (10 of 1947) the High Court cannot exercise its powers under Art. 226 as a Court of appeal and decide whether the evidence was sufficient or not. 1952 R L W 374 : AIR 1954 Raj 40 (41) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—Nature of.

The jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ of certiorari is a limited jurisdiction. The Court is not a court of appeal nor is it a Court of revision. It has no power to correct either findings of fact or even errors of law. Its sole function is to correct persons or tribunals exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions when they do not possess or when in the exercise of their jurisdiction, they violate principles of natural justice. But when the court has been empowered to determine certain questions and jurisdiction has been conferred upon it to determine those questions, then the determination by the Court of those questions, however erroneous in fact or law, cannot call into question the jurisdiction of the High Court under its high prerogative of issuing a writ of certiorari. There are two well-recognised exceptions to the above limits. The superior Court will interfere (1) when an error of law is patent on the face of record, and (2) when the determination is arrived at mala fide in which case it will not be a determination at all. Fraud or mala fides will vitiate any decision however arrived at. AIR 1951 Bom 303, Rel. on. 1952 Raj L W 154 : ILR (1951) 1 Raj 815 : AIR 1952 Raj 162 (163, 164) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Suit for declaration of occupancy rights — Mistake in computation of period, if affects jurisdiction of revenue court—High Court does not sit as a court of appeal while exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226—It cannot correct every mistake committed by Courts or tribunals. See Bharatpur Land Revenue Code, S. 30 (2). 1951 Raj L W 409 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 323.

——Art. 226—Scope of petition for writ of certiorari —Finding of the Tribunal—Interference.

The scope of a petition for a writ of certiorari is limited and the High Court cannot be treated as a Court of appeal and called upon to determine whether the findings of the Tribunal concerned have been correctly arrived at. It is well established that a writ of certiorari is a corrective remedy used for re-examination of some action of an inferior Tribunal and is issued where the body of persons constituting it has either usurped jurisdiction or authority beyond that possessed by it. A great difference exists between the findings of a Court of law and those of a domestic Tribunal. The decision of a domestic Tribunal cannot be attacked on the grounds on which the decision of a Court of justice can be. All that is required is that there must be due enquiry and the person proceeded against must have had notice of the proceedings and an opportunity of being heard. 1950 R L W 351 : A I R 1951 Raj 51 (54, 55) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Nature of —Weighing of evidence before lower Court—(Saurashtra District Police (Amendment) Act (23 of 1951), S. 47).

The proceedings under S. 47 of the Saurashtra Act (23 of 1951) are initiated by a very responsible officer and the petitioner must remain satisfied with his decision. All that the High Court is entitled to consider is whether the authority entrusted with the duty of making the order has followed the procedure laid down by law and has applied its mind to the materials produced before it. The High Court cannot sit in appeal against its order and entertain the objection that the evidence produced before it was perjured evidence. 1955 Cr L J 267 : 6 Sau L R 507 : AIR 1955 Sau 16 (18) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Certiorari—Nature of jurisdiction.

In issuing writ of Certiorari, the High Court does not act as a Court of appeal. Its only object is to prevent usurpation of jurisdiction by the inferior tribunal, and to ensure observance of the rules of natural justice. It exists only to quash the order or decision if there is an error apparent on the face of it or where absence or excess of jurisdiction is shown. AIR 1958 S C 398, Rel. on. AIR 1959 Tripura 16 (17, 18) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9).

69 (b). Nature of.

See Note 79.

69 (c). Under Art. 226.

See also Note 68.

● ——Art. 226—Scope of proceedings under Art. 226.

Art. 226 confers on High Courts power to issue appropriate writs to any person or authority within their territorial jurisdiction, in terms absolute and unqualified. Election Tribunals functioning within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Courts fall within the sweep of that power. If the High Courts are to recognise or admit any limitation on this power, that must be founded on some provision in the Constitution itself. Hari Vishnu v. Ahmad Ishaque, 1955 Mad W N 449 : (1955) 1 M L J (SC) 157 : 1955 S C ——Art. 226—Interference—Grounds—Hardship.

J 267 : 1955 Andh W R (SC) 157 : 1955 All W R 839 : 1955 S C R 1104 : 1955 Nag L J 1 : 1955 S C A 105 : AIR 1955 S C 233 (238) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

If the High Court has no jurisdiction it cannot interfere merely on the ground of hardship. I L R (1957) 1 All 278.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Powers of High Court — Extent and scope of.

Except for the territorial limitation placed upon it by the Constitution, there is no limit upon the right or the power of the High Court to issue a writ under Art. 226 or Art. 227. Undoubtedly, the Courts for their own guidance have put limitations upon their very wide power, but those are self-imposed limitations, they are not legal or constitutional limitations. There are only two limitations placed upon the exercise of such powers by High Court :

(i) The writs issued by the Court cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction.

(ii) The other is that the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue writs must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories.

Apart from those two limitations, it is for the High Court to decide whether in a particular case it will or it will not issue a writ. AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll. 58 Bom L R 184 : (1956) 29 I T R 856 : ILR (1956) Bom 374 : A I R 1956 Bom 530 (533) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1356.]

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction and scope of powers under—Orders of Sea Customs authorities. See C. P. Code (1908), S. 9. AIR 1955 Mad 187 (DB).

——Art. 32 — Discrimination in assessment of land revenue on similar lands — Classification— Power of High Court under Constitution. See Ibid, Art. 14. (1954) 2 M L J 636 : AIR 1954 Mad 1078 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Power is much wider than that of King's Bench Division and old chartered High Courts — Administrative or executive orders can be dealt with — Rights other than fundamental can be enforced.

The jurisdiction of the High Courts is much wider than that of the King's Bench Division and even when none of the specified writs can issue, the High Court has power to make a direction or order appropriate to the circumstances of the case. A I R 1951 Nag 33; A I R 1950 Bom 363 (FB); A I R 1950 Pat 387 (FB); A I R 1951 Orissa 863 and A I R 1951 Bom 25 (FB), Foll.

Article 226, Constitution of India, aims at enforcement of rights no matter whether the necessity for such enforcement arises out of an action of executive or of the legislature. Rights other than fundamental rights will also be enforced under Art. 226 if the necessity for doing so arises out of the action of the executive. A I R 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. 53 Bom L R 1, Dist.

The powers conferred upon the High Court by Art. 226 are very wide and matters which could not be reached even by the old Chartered High Courts can now be brought up before the High Court under this provision. So excessive a power has necessarily to be exercised with the utmost care and circumspection. The power itself is discretionary and a few limitations on the exercise of the power have already been indicated in cases decided so far. In doing so the High Court has accepted some of the principles of general applicability laid down by the King's Bench Division, the Court of Appeal and House of Lords. 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 182 (DB).

●——Art. 226 — Power and jurisdiction under — Relative position of Art. 226—Effect—High Court has jurisdiction to issue writs.

Per Hidayatullah J : — When power is unconditionally granted by the people to certain legislative and other bodies, in a solemn constitution, the power is to be used eo instanti, unless otherwise provided, for the purpose for which it is granted. Every grant of power carries with it a jurisdiction to exercise that power.

The fact that Art. 226 is sandwiched between Arts. 225 and 227 has not much relevance. The collocation of articles in the Constitution is not decisive, though it has some relevance in the matter of amendment thereof. In any event the position of Art. 226 has not the same quality as the placing of Art. 32 in the Chapter on fundamental rights.

Held, that the High Court is invested with a jurisdiction as well as a power to issue writs, directions or orders as laid down in Art. 226 in appropriate cases.

Per Mangalmurti and Mudholkar JJ :—Article 225, which is subject to the other provisions of the Constitution, does not restrict the jurisdiction of the High Court but merely preserves its existing jurisdiction and Arts. 227 and 228 confer some additional jurisdiction on it. Article 226 which finds place in between Art. 225, on the one hand and Arts. 227 and 228 on the other hand, cannot reasonably be regarded as having nothing to do with jurisdiction. It clearly states that the territorial limits of the exercise of the powers conferred by it on the High Court are those within which the High Court exercises jurisdiction. The power to do a thing necessarily implies jurisdiction to do it, otherwise the conferral of such power is pointless. There is nothing in Art. 226 which warrants the limitation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to act only on the appellate or revisional side. Furthermore, if the power to issue a writ, direction, etc., can be exercised only on the appellate or the revisional side, it seems difficult to appreciate how at all it could be so exercised because no law confers upon subordinate Courts the power to issue writs, orders, etc.

Held, that the Nagpur High Court has original jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Art. 226. A I R 1950 Pat 387; A I R 1951 All 1 (FB); A I R 1950 Bom 363 (FB) and A I R 1951 Mad 70, Rel. on. Majority view in A I R 1950 Madh B 60 (FB), Dissented. Sheoshankar v. State Government of Madhya Pradesh, 52 Cri L J 1140 : ILR (1951) Nag 646 : A I R 1951 Nag 58 (65, 77, 78) (Pt B) (Prs 37, 41, 129, 130, 141) (FB).

——Art. 226—Exercise of statutory powers — (C. P. Code (1908), S. 9).

The exercise of the statutory power is open to challenge broadly on three grounds : (1) non-observance of mandatory statutory procedure, (2) non-existence of the basic facts with reference to which the power is vested, and (3) an abuse of the discretion for collateral purpose or an arbitrary exercise thereof. Grounds 1 and 3 are always open to examination by Courts. But so far as the second ground is concerned, if the decision of the collateral facts with reference to which the power is vested in the authority concerned is vested in that authority itself by the statute, the Court will be precluded from canvassing the correctness of that decision except for the purpose of satisfying itself that there has been a fair and judicial determination of these facts. Occasionally, however, the statute by its very terms indicates that the existence of the basic facts which give the power is left to the subjective satisfaction of the authority concerned and not to the judicial determination thereof by the said authority. In such a case, unless there is material on which the factum or the bona fides of that subjective satisfaction can be challenged, the Court is not in a position to canvass the existence of the basic facts which give rise to the statutory power. Case-law Rel. on. ILR (1952) Cut 529 : A I R 1953 Orissa 121 (127, 128) (Pt A) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

It is not open to the High Court to try to justify an order made by a Tribunal on the ground that it could have been made under some other provision of law when the Tribunal concerned had not decided the case on the basis of that provision of law. Though the label given to a decision is not final and it is open to the High Court to look at the substance of the order and to determine under which provision of law it is made where the Deputy Custodian General has not purported to hold that the transaction is not to be confirmed for any other reason as given in sub-s. (4) (c) of S. 40 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot uphold the order under sub-cl. (a) on the ground that it could have been made under sub-cl. (c). 63 Punj L R 57 : ILR (1961) 1 Punj 20 : A I R 1961 Punj 472 (475) (Pt D) (Pr 16).

——Art. 226—Scope.

Such writs as are referred to in Art. 226 are obviously intended to enable the High Court to issue them in grave cases where the subordinate tribunals or bodies or officers act wholly without jurisdiction, or in excess of it, or in violation of the principles of natural justice, or refuse to exercise a jurisdiction vested in them, or there is an error apparent on the face of the record, and such act, omission, error or excess has resulted in manifest injustice. ILR (1952) Trav-Co 923 : 1952 Ker L T 652 : AIR 1953 Trav-Co 102 (103, 104) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

69 (d). Visitorial and supervisory.

——Art. 226 — Remedy by way of certiorari open for quashing conviction — Petition under Art. 227 is not maintainable — Supervsiory jurisdiction of High Court will not be invoked. A I R 1963 All 585 (587) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of writ jurisdiction — Is supervisory and not appellate—Question of fact—No interference. A I R 1961 Manipur 28 (30) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art 226 — Abuse of process of law — Power of High Court to intervene. See Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 24. A I R 1954 Nag 107 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9 — Ouster of Civil Court's jurisdiction — Suit for refund of stamp duty and penalty paid under Stamp Act — Maintainability—Jurisdiction whether ouster because of Arts. 226 and 227 of Constitution — Burden of proof — (Stamp Act (1899), Ss. 40, 45, 56 and 57)—(Evidence Act (1872), Ss. 101 to 104). See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9. A I R 1959 Orissa 144.

——Art. 226 — Criminal P. C (1898), S. 96 (1) (iii)—Warrant for general search before investigation under Code—Magistrate should reasonably be satisfied that search is likely to be a link in chain normally leading to inquiry under Code — Writ petition — High Court has to see whether as a fact there were sufficient grounds for issue of search warrant and whether Magistrate has applied his mind judicially and whether he had relevant and adequate material for the purpose and that the warrants were not arbitrarily asked for and issued — High Court will not sit in judgment over his opinion. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 96 (1) (iii). AIR 1953 Orissa 153.

——Art. 226—Civil Courts—Powers of—Civil Courts cannot issue directions regulating proceedings of administrative authorities apart from recording finding on rights of parties.

In dealing with writ applications, the High Court exercises a sort of supervisory jurisdiction over the administrative proceedings. The High Court's jurisdiction is recognised even where the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is barred. The position of a Civil Court is fundamentally different. The Civil Court does not sit in appeal over the judgments of the administrative authorities. It is mainly and primarily concerned with the determination of the legal rights and a civil Court cannot issue directions regulating proceedings of the administrative authorities apart from recording findings on the rights of the parties. AIR 1954 Raj 207 ; AIR 1956 Raj 28, Dist. 1960 Raj L W 385 : ILR (1960) 10 Raj 952.

——Art. 226—Nature and scope of High Court's power—Writ of certiorari.

Where the High Court issues a writ of certiorari, it acts in the exercise of a supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction so that broadly speaking it is not for the Court issuing the writ to review findings of fact reached by the inferior Court or tribunal. 1959 Raj L W 571 : ILR (1959) 9 Raj 625.

70. Laches.

See Note 35.

71. Legal right.

See also Notes 8 and 237.

(a) Right to vote.

See Note 44.

71. Legal right.

See also Notes 8 and 237.

● ——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction under — Not confined to invasion of only fundamental rights—But existence of right alleged to be invaded must be established —Government resuming grant resumable under its terms—Grantee not entitled to a writ to protect his mere right of possession against the grantor.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the jurisdiction of the High Court is undoubtedly very wide. Appropriate writs can be issued by the High Court under the said article even for purposes other than the enforcement of the fundamental rights and in that sense, a party who invokes the special jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is not confined to cases of illegal invasion of his fundamental rights alone. Though the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is wide in that sense, the concluding words of the Article clearly indicate that before a writ or an appropriate order can be issued in favour of a party, it must be estalisbhed that the party has a right and the said right is illegally invaded or threatened. The existence of a right is thus the foundation of a petition under Art. 226. Thus, ordinarily, where property has been granted by the State on conditions which make the grant resumable, after resumption it is the grantee who moves the Court for appropriate relief, and that proceeds on the basis that the grantor State which has reserved to itself the right to resume may after exercising its right, seek to recover possession of the property without filing a suit. Where, therefore, in such a case the grantee moves the High Court under Art. 226 for a writ against the State and the High Court comes to the conclusion that the question of title cannot be tried in the writ proceedings, it follows that no right can be postulated in favour of the grantee on the basis of which a writ can be issued in their favour under Art. 226.

Further, in such a case the High Court is not justified in issuing a writ to protect the right of possession of the grantee, because mere possession of the property for however long a period it may be, will not clothe the possessor with any legal right if it is shown that the possession is under a grant from the State which is resumable. Such long possession may give him a legal right to protect his possession against third parties, but as between the State and the grantee, possession of the grantee under a resumable grant cannot be said to confer any right on the grantee which would justify a claim for a writ under Art. 226 where the grant has been resumed. AIR 1957 Orissa 80, Reversed; AIR 1952 S C 12, Rel. on. State of Orissa v. Ram Chandra Dev, (1964) 1 S C W R 186: 1964 S C D 278: 30 Cut L T 213: (1964) 2 S C A 356; AIR 1964 S C 685 (688, 689) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 11, 12, 13).

● ——Art. 226—Article 320 (3)(c) is not mandatory—Irregularity in consultation with Public Service Commission does not entitle him to relief under the special powers of a High Court under Art. 226 or of the Supreme Court under Art. 32. See Ibid, Art. 320 (3) (c). (1958 Mad L J (Cr) 85 : (1958) S C J 150 : A I R 1957 S C 912.

——Art. 226—Existence of right is basis of application—Petition by allottee against order in favour of owner under R. 6, U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Rules (1949) — By allottee's petition cause of action accrues to owner of house and his petition can also be maintained. Owner need not wait till the result of allottee's petition. 1964 All W R (H C) 732.

● ——Art. 226—Writ under when can be issued—There must be infringement of legal right—Law cannot take note of mental injury—Orders of recommendatory nature cannot constitute infringement of legal right.

Relief by way of writ is a discretionary one. Under the second part of Art 226, a writ is usually issued only if the applicant has a legal right, and that legal right is found by the Court to have been infringed. With certain exceptions, as in the case of habeas corpus or quo warranto, a Court exercising writ jurisdiction would be disinclined to grant relief unless the petitioner is able to make out that he is an aggrieved party, i.e., his own rights are affected. This principle would be particularly applicable in a case, where the question of the validity of a piece of legislation is raised. The only injury that law can recognise is legal injury. AIR 1952 S C 12 and AIR 1951 S C 41, Rel. on.

Held, on facts that the orders in question were merely of a recommendatory nature and had obviously no binding effect on the institution. The latter was at perfect liberty to ignore or disregard them. The orders did not affect the legal right of the institution to dismiss the Principal. The orders did not also constitute any threat to the legal right of the institution. Merely because the orders were hurtful to the feelings of the institution no relief could be granted under Art. 226. Sri Durga Gita Vidyalaya v. State of U. P., 1962 All L J 329 : 1962 All W R (H C) 243 : ILR (1962) 1 All 737 : A I R 1962 All 187 (190, 191) (Pt C) (Prs 10, 11, 13) (FB).

——Art. 226—Practice—Mutation—Order of Board of Revenue entering name of certain person in record of rights—Petition under Art. 226.

It has been the consistent practice of Allahabad High Court not to interfere with orders made by the Board of Revenue in cases in which the only question at issue is whether the name of the petitioner should be entered in the record of rights. .Such an entry does not ordinarily confer upon the person in whose favour it is made any title to the property in question. 1956 All L J 807 (1) : AIR 1957 All 205 (205, 206) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Grant of mining lease — Administrative rules, framed by Government, governing the grant contained in Madras Mining Manual — Infringement of rules does not afford any legal basis for seeking redress — AIR 1960 S C 606, (1962) 1 Andh W R 263, AIR 1955 Mad 805 (FB), Distinguished; AIR 1953 Mad 583, AIR 1952 S C 16, Rel. on. (1964) 2 Andh W R 155.

——Art. 226 — Relief refused — (Municipalities — Assam Municipal Act (1 of 1923), S 291)

Where the petitioner seeks under Art. 226 removal of the ban imposed by the order of the Deputy Commissioner passed under S. 291, Assam Municipal Act, suspending the operation of the resolution of the Municipal Board approving of the settlement of the Market with the petitioner, the High Court will not be justified in issuing a writ in view of the fact that the petitioner's right to such relief is not beyond dispute, even if not non-existent. Case-law Ref. I L R (1953) 5 Assam 263 : AIR 1953 Assam 145 (148, 149) (Pt D) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Civil servant officiating in higher post—Reversion to substantive post by way of penalty for certain period—No right to be promoted to higher post after expiry of period — Mandamus to direct promotion cannot issue. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Madh Pra 216 (DB).

——Art. 226—Rules under Bar Councils Act by Madras Bar—Rule 28—Refusal of Bar Council to give permission under R. 28 — Advocate has no grievance — He can practice — There is no sanction behind Bar Council Rules — They embody only sound advice — Non-compliance with them does not affect status or legal right of Advocate. See Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 10. AIR 1954 Mad 400 (DB).

——Art. 226—"Any other purpose"—Interpretation.

The words "any other purpose" in Art. 226 of the Constitution have been interpreted to mean "a legal right". Therefore, before the High Court can issue directions, orders or writs, it must be satisfied that a fundamental right of the petitioner has been infringed. I L R (1953) Nag 110 : 1953 Nag L J 33 : AIR 1952 Nag 353 (353) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1966 S C 156.]

——Art. 226—Words "any other purpose mean "legal right"—Before issuing writ, order or direction, High Court must be satisfied that a fundamental right or any other legal right has been infringed. I L R 1953 Nag 110 : 1953 Nag L J 33 : AIR 1952 Nag 353 (353) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—"For any other purpose" — Right of private person to question legality of appointment of Advocate General.

The power under Art. 226 is given not only, for the enforcement of the fundamental rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution but also for any other purpose. The enforcement of legal right and the performance of legal duty cannot be exhaustive of the purposes for which the Court may issue any order, direction or writ under Art. 226. The words "for any other purpose" must receive their plain and natural meaning, namely, for any other object which the Court considers appropriate and calls for the exercise of the powers conferred upon it. Though the power of the Court under Art. 226 is ordinarily exercisable for enforcement of right or performance of duty, it cannot necessarily be limited to only such cases. Such a limitation cannot be reconciled with the power to issue a writ in the nature of quo warranto which power has been expressly conferred on the Court. In proceedings for a writ of quo warranto the applicant does not seek to enforce any right of his as such, nor does he complain of any non-performance of duty towards him. What is in question is the right of the non-applicant to hold the office and an order that is passed is an order ousting him from that office. There is no reason to refuse a citizen under a democratic republican Constitution to move for a writ of quo warranto for testing the validity of a high appointment under the Constitution. The office of the Advocate-General is of a public nature. From every point of view, it is a matter of grave public concern that the legality of the appointment to a high office under the Constitution is not left in doubt. AIR 1950 Pat 387 (FB), Dissent. (1916) 1 K B 595, Rel. on. ILR(1952) Nag 409 : A I R 1952 Nag 330 (334, 335) (Pt G) (Prs 14, 18, 19, 21) (DB).

——Art. 226—Petitioner must show that he has legal right—This cannot be decided in proceedings under Art. 226 — [Constitution of India, Arts. 311 (2) and 320].

Seriously disputed questions of fact cannot be satisfactorily determined in the summary proceedings where the only evidence relied upon consist of pleadings of the parties, their affidavits and certain documents produced by them. Use of the words "shall have power" in Art. 226 emphasises the fact that the issue of writs, directions and orders in question is entirely a matter for the discretion of the Court. And one of the grounds against the exercise of this discretion may be that the right claimed by the petitioner is not capable of being established in summary proceedings under the said article.

The petitioner failed affirmatively to establish that he was substantively appointed in Class 1, Grade 1 and had therefore, failed to prove his indefeasible right, as put forward in the petition, to demand notice of reasonable time under Art. 311 (2) and the corresponding duty of the respondent State to consult the Public Service Commission under Art. 320 of the Constitution of India, before his alleged reduction to Class I, Grade 2 service. I L R (1954) Patiala 105 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 98 (102, 103) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10).

■ ——Art. 226 (1)—Infringement of legal right.

The High Court will not take action under Art. 226 unless it is completely satisfied that the petitioner has a legal right which has been infringed or is about to be infringed or some illegal wrong has been inflicted upon him or is about to be inflicted upon him. Harnam Singh v. State of Punjab, 55 Punj L J 257 : ILR (1953) Punj 655 : A I R 1953 Punj 176 (176) (Pr 4) (FB).

——Art. 226—Appointment of temporary Khateeb for Idgah by Wakf Board — Fundamenal or legal right of the members of the congregation of Muslims entitled to offer prayers at Idgah not infringed—High Court will not issue writ under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 26. ILR (1964) 14 Raj 497.

71 (a). Right to vote.
See Note 44.

72. Legislature, writ against.
See Note 5.

73. Letters Patent Appeal.
See Note 10.

74. Limitation.
See Note 35.

75. Mandamus.
See under Part D (Notes 224 to 275).

76. Military authorities.
See Note 5.

77. Municipal election.
See Note 44.

78. Natural justice.
See also Notes 5, 23 and 45.

(a) Right to be heard.
(i) Disciplinary proceedings against students.
See also Note 5 (g).
(ii) Disciplinary proceedings against servants.
(iii) Labour disputes.
(iv) Hearing and decision by different bodies.
(v) Defence.
(vi) No infringement.
(vii) Miscellaneous.
(b) Right to cross-examine.
(c) Enquiry by person having interest.
See also Note 129.
(d) Right to know charge.
(e) Bias.
See Note 129.
(f) Notice.
(g) Evidence and procedure, rules of.

78. Natural justice.
See also Notes 5, 23 and 45.

■ ——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Contravention of principles—Cancellation of licence on ground that it was obtained by fraud — Reasonable opportunity to be heard—There is no invariable standard of reasonableness, except that Court's conscience must be satisfied that the person had fair chance to convince the authority that the grounds for the action are non-existent or that they do not justify the proposed action — Decision of this question would depend on facts — Held that the opportunity given to licensee was reasonable one. See Imports Control Order (1955), Cl. 10. AIR 1960 S C 415.

● ——Arts. 32 and 226—Natural justice.

The rules of natural justice vary with varying constitutions of statutory bodies, and the rules prescribed by the legislature under which they have to act, and the question whether in a particular case they have been contravened must be judged not by any pre-conceived notion of what they may be but in the light of the provisions of the relevant Act. AIR 1957 S C 232 and AIR 1958 S C 398, Foll.; Gullapalli Nageswara Rao v. Andhra Pradesh Road Transport Corpn., (1959) 2 Mad L J (SC) 156 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (S C) 156 : 1959 S C J 967 : 1958 Andh L T 1014 : (1959) 1 S C R (Sup) 319 : AIR 1959 S C 308 (326) (Pt G) (Pr 29).

■ ——Arts. 226 and 227—Natural justice—Violation of—Test.

The rules of natural justice vary with the varying constitutions of statutory bodies and the rules prescribed by the Act under which they function. The question whether or not any rules of natural justice had been contravened should be decided in the light of the statutory rules and provisions. Where no such rule is brought to the notice of the Court there is no ground for interference either under Art. 226 or 227 simply because the tribunal had reviewed the matter in a light which is not acceptable to the Court. Nagendra Nath Bora v. Commissioner of Hills Division and Appeals, Assam, 1958 S C A 572 : 36 Mys L J 389 : 1958 S C J 798 : 1958 S C R 1240 : AIR 1958 S C 398 (409) (Pt D) (Pr 17).

——Arts. 226 and 208 (1) — U. P. Legislative Assembly — Rules of procedure and conduct of Business, R. 74 — Cannot be challenged on ground of violation of principles of natural justice.

Rules of natural justice only apply when the statute or statutory rules are silent as to the procedure but no statutory provision or statutory rule can be struck down where it makes a provision excluding the application of rules of natural justice. Rule 74 has been framed in pursuance of the power conferred by Art. 208 (1). It cannot be challenged on the ground of violation of the principles of natural justice. 1965 (2) Cri L J 170 : ILR (1965) 2 All 281 : 1965 All W R (HC) 286 : 1965 All Cr R 213 : AIR 1965 All 349 (355, 356) (Pt F) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Grounds of interference — Inquiry — Inquiry held with all fundamentals — High Court will not intervene—See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (II of 1916), S. 69-A (1). AIR 1960 All 273.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principles — When can be invoked under Indian Law.

The principles of natural justice are those rules which have been laid down by the Courts as being the minimum protection of the rights of the individual against the arbitrary procedure that may be adopted by a judicial or quasi-judicial authority while making an order affecting those rights.

(1) That every person whose civil rights are affected must have a reasonable notice of the case he has to meet. (2) That he must have reasonable opportunity of being heard in his defence. (3) That the hearing must be by an impartial tribunal. (4) That the authority must act in good faith, and not arbitrarily but reasonably. Under the Indian Law, the principles of natural justice can be invoked generally in three classes of cases: (a) When it is alleged that a certain person or class of persons have been unreasonably discriminated against, and that the law violates the provisions of Art. 14; or that the restrictions imposed upon the freedoms guaranteed under Art. 19 are unreasonable. (b) When a rule or regulation or order made in the exercise of a statutory power is attacked on the ground that it is unreasonable and (c) When the procedure adopted by a judicial or quasi-judicial authority not being one prescribed by law is challenged on the ground that it is unfair and unjust. 1956 All W R (HC) 643 : 1956 All L J 878 : AIR 1957 All 297 (301) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act—Procedural provisions of the Act—Violation of principles of natural justice —(Tenancy Laws — U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (5 of 1954)).

The U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (1954), is not invalid on the ground that its procedural provisions are against principles of natural justice. The order of the Consolidation Officer upon receipt of the report of the Assistant Consolidation Officer directing him to proceed with the correction of maps and records, etc., is merely a preliminary proceeding and does not affect anybody's rights. The parties are fully heard later. No principles of natural justice require an enquiry to be held in all cases at a preliminary stage. Again, there is no principle of natural justice violated when the order of a particular judicial or quasi-judicial authority is made final and no appeal is provided therefrom The bar to the civil Court's jurisdiction in S. 49 of the Act cannot be said to be unreasonable. 1956 All W R (HC) 643 : 1956 All L J 878 : AIR 1957 All 297 (301, 302) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Applicability.

There are no rules of natural justice in abstract. The principles of natural justice have to be determined with reference to statutory provisions or rules and not under any preconceived notions. ILR (1961) 2 Andh Pra 540.

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — No exhaustive rules can be laid down.

Each case will depend upon the nature of the tribunal which is constituted to decide the matter and the circumstances in which they are to act. But undoubtedly if a serious allegation is made and that is the decisive factor, the party concerned should be given an opportunity to meet the allegation and failure to do so is a violation of the principles of natural justice. AIR 1965 Assam 106 (108) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Principles of — Applicability to proceedings under S. 33-B of Income tax Act (1922). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 33-B. AIR 1966 Cal 73.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of — When violated and when not. A I R 1964 Cal 184 (189, 190) (Pt B) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Income-tax Officer making assessment under — Nature of his function — Non-observance of principles of natural justice—Effect. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 18 (7). AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 5917.

——Art. 226 — Order of suspending Small Towns Committee without giving opportunity to show cause — S. 49, Punjab Small Towns Act does not say that before a Committee is suspended, an enquiry should be held and an opportunity be given to committee to clear its position. A I R 1955 Him Pra 11 (12) (Prs 5, 7).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Revenue minister refusing permission for alienation — Order is not in quasi-judicial capacity — No certiorari can issue — Principles of natural justice not applicable. See J. & K. Alienation of Land (Temporary Restriction) Act (21 of 1959), S. 3 (2). A I R 1961 J & K 47 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — What amounts to its violation.

Principles of natural justice require that there should be a fair determination of a question by quasi-judicial authorities. Arbitratriness swill certainly not ensure fairness. The judicial process does not end by making known to a person the proposal against him and giving him a chance to explain. It extends further to a judicial consideration of his representations and the materials and a fair determination of the question involved. If the quasi-judicial authority disregards the materials available to it or refuses to apply its mind to the question and if he reaches a conclusion which has no relation to the facts before him, to allow those decisions to stand would be violative of the principles of natural justice. Thus arbitrary decisions can also, result in violation of the principles of natural justice which is a fundamental concept of Indian jurisprudence. In certain cases, where an authority refuses to apply its mind to the question and makes a decision as it likes, it may amount to even a mala fide decision. AIR 1964 Cal 265, Rel. on. 1965 Ker L T 803 : I L R (1965) 2 Ker 240 : 1965 Ker L J 866 : A I R 1966 Ker 55 (58, 59) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14, 15).

——Art. 226 — Decision of Reserve Bank being subjective cannot be challenged as violative of principles of natural justice. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 35-B (1) (b). AIR 1966 Ker 6.

——Arts. 226 and 311(2)—Procedure of quasi-judicial body — Principles of natural justice — Requirements of.

The requirements of natural justice to be observed in a departmental enquiry held against a Government servant are that the person proceeded against should know the nature of the accusation made, that he is given an opportunity to state his case and that the tribunal should act in good faith. (1958) 2 All E R 579 and (1960) 1 W L R 228, Rel. on. I L R (1961) 1 Ker 153 : 1961 Ker L J 315 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 50 : 1961 Ker L T 486 : AIR 1962 Ker 43 (45, 46) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Rr. 13 (2) (vii) and 14 in Part II under Madras Elementary Education Act (3 of 1920) — Appellate authorities under R. 13 (2) (vii) and Director of Public Instruction under R. 14, are domestic tribunals — Canons of natural justice not complied with inasmuch as no opportunity was given to the school management against which orders were passed, to be heard — Orders are liable to judicial review. See Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920), S. 56. AIR 1961 Ker 303 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Requirements — Refusal of Government to deal with blacklisted contractors — There is no fundamental right or rule of law to insist upon Government to do business with particular individuals — No remedy under Art. 226 is available to blacklisted contractors, when Government refuses to do business with them — Considerations of natural justice cannot be imported into the consideration of purely statutory orders — Applicability of Arts. 14 and 226 and of principles of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 13. A I R 1958 Ker 333 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — S. 16-A, Madras General Sales Tax Act—Is not void as being contrary to principles of natural justice. See Sales Tax — Madras General Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 15 (b). 1958 Cri L J 381 : AIR 1958 Ker 55 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Rules of natural justice are attracted only when the function is quasi-judicial and not administrative. 1965 Jab L J 161 : 1965 M P L J 108.

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—What is.

The rules of natural justice vary with varying constitutions of statutory bodies and the rules prescribed by the Legislature under which they have to function. The question whether in a particular case they have been contravened must be judged not by any preconceived notion but in the light of the provisions of the relevant Act. A I R 1957 S C 232 and A I R 1958 S C 398 and A I R 1959 S C 308, Rel. on. I L R (1963) Madh Pra 1021 : 1962 M P L J 1049 : 1962 Jab L J 829 : 1962 M P C 441 : AIR 1963 Madh Pra 41 (46) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Central Excise Rules, R. 151—Proceedings for contravention of, are of quasi-judicial nature involving an objection to follow rules of natural justice, which require that the party should have opportunity to adducing all relevant evidence, that the evidence of the opponent should be taken in his presence, that he should have an opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses of the party and that no material should be relied upon against him without giving him opportunity to explain the same. See Central Excise Rules, R. 151. A I R 1962 Madh Pra 112 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 (2) — Change in seniority rules of public officer — Not a judicial function — Rules of natural justice do not apply. A I R 1959 Mad 1 (7) (Pt B) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — By natural justice is meant that which is founded on equality, on honesty and right; and its principles are (1) a person must not be condemned unheard (2) a person must not be a Judge in his own cause and (3) decision must be made in good faith. (1956) 2 Lab L J 347 (Mad).

——Art. 226 — Principle of natural justice and good conscience cannot override express provisions of law. See Panchayats — U. P. Panchayat Raj Election Rules, R. 66. AIR 1965 Manipur 37.

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice.

The question whether and in what manner the rules of natural justice have to be observed in a particular case must itself be judged in the light of the constitution of the statutory body which is to function in accordance with the rules laid down by the statute. AIR 1957 S C 232, Rel. on. 39 Mys L J 552 : I L R (1961) Mys 349 : A I R 1962 Mys 31 (35) (Pt E) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Non-observance of rules of natural justice—If vitiates decision.

The essence of natural justice is rendering justice. By no means it is a mere dogma or ritual to be adhered to and observed irrespective of the consequences. It cannot, unless it has been laid down as a statutory requirement or otherwise made binding, be urged as a ground by itself to invalidate a decision irrespective of its merits. If the Court is satisfied that the impugned decision is essentially just, then the same cannot be set at nought on the excuse that no respect to principles of natural justice had been shown in arriving at the decision. 1915 A C 120, Rel. on. 38 Mys L J 1048 : I L R (1960) Mys 1100 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 472 : A I R 1961 Mys 49 (52, 53) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—What is natural justice.

The following may be mentioned as some of the essential requirements of natural justice: (1) the tribunal should be impartial and have no personal interest in the controversy; (2) it should give a full and fair opportunity to every party of being heard; (3) it should act in good faith; and (4) it should not do anything contrary to the essence of justice. Finally the very important rule of natural justice is that justice should not only be done but should be seen to be done. 1956 Nag L J 66 : A I R 1956 Nag 235 (237, 238) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10, 12) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1957 S C 232.]

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Order under R. 24 of Orissa Gram Panchayat Rules (1949) — Order is judicial and must comply with principles of natural justice. See Panchayats—Orissa Gram Panchayat Rules (1949), R. 24. AIR 1966 Orissa 12 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice — Violation of — Bihar Panchayat Raj Act, 1948, S. 16 (1) and (2) prior to amendment by Act 21 of 1959—Imposition of fine by executive committee on person without trial is invalid. See Panchayats—Bihar Panchayat Raj Act (7 of 1948), S. 16 (1). AIR 1964 Pat 90 (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ against University—Principles of natural justice—Estoppel — (University of Bihar Act (1951), Ss. 10 (5) and (12), 20 (2), 22 (1) and 58) — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115)—Admission on matter of law).

The petitioners, students, who had joined I. Sc. class in 1952 were not allowed to appear by the University on the ground that the University had not granted to their college an affiliation in Intermediate Science with effect from 1952 so as to enable the Intermediate Science students of this college to sit at the examination to be held in February, 1954.

Held, on facts of the case, that the power of affiliation vested only in the Senate. Under no regulation or rule could the Vice-Chancellor exercise that power. The correspondence or the conversation which the Principal had with the Vice-Chancellor was therefore of no consequence and the understanding given by the Vice-Chancellor would be no step-in-aid of the affiliation and would not entitle the petitioners to sit at the examination in 1954.

A representation or admission on matters of law cannot constitute any basis for estoppel. When the statute says that it is only the Senate which can grant affiliation, recommendation by Inspectors and correspondence and personal talks with the Vice Chancellor and even the careless issue of Admit cards which is only a ministerial act cannot be taken into consideration for the purpose of granting a writ under Art. 226. It may be a very high degree of administrative inefficiency if the University authorities issue the Admit Cards to the students of this college, though there had been no affiliation but the mere issue of the cards could not be a ground for contending that the principles of natural justice had been violated. A I R 1954 S C 217, Rel on ; (1954) 1 K B 171; (1952) 2 Q B 413; (1920) 2 K B 523; (1909) 93 E R 698; A I R 1952 Cal 594; AIR 1952 Cal 656 Disting. 1954 B L J R 369: AIR 1954 Pat 486 (488, 489) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Gram Panchayats — Principles of natural justice must be observed in Gram Panchayat activities.

The rule of natural justice, also described by some as 'rational or universal justice' and which is only fairplay in action conceiving justice as the supreme human good and a self-sufficient end, also extends to the activities of the Gram Panchayat affecting the property and interest of citizens. 67 Pun L R 134: AIR 1965 Punj 232 (235) (Pt F) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Natural justice — Use of unfair means at examination — Inquiry proceedings —Proceedings are of quasi-judicial nature—Regulations of University not prescribing any procedure—Principles of natural justice should be followed.

The following principles may be laid down with regard to proceedings taken against a candidate charged with having used unfair means at an examination: (1) The order made by an educational authority while dealing with a charge of unfair means against a candidate is not an administrative order but a quasi-judicial order. (2) The educational authority has to follow such procedure while determining the correctness of those allegations as is prescribed by the regulations or bye-laws. (3) In case the regulations or bye-laws prescribe no procedure, it would be for the authority to devise the procedure as it considers necessary to satisfy itself with regard to the correctness of the charge. (4) The procedure so adopted should be fair and not violative of the principles of natural justice. It need not, however, be the same as governs trials in ordinary Courts of law. (5) The candidate concerned must be informed of the charge and an adequate opportunity should be given to him to defend himself. (6) In case such an opportunity has been given to the candidate, and there is some material before the prescribed authority about the use of unfair means and the prescribed authority accepts that material and is not actuated by any hostile animus, the Court would not interfere with the decision of the aforesaid authority even if the Court disagrees with the conclusion of the authority.

Held, on facts, that there was nothing violative of the principles of natural justice in the procedure adopted. Further, as there was material before the Members of the Standing Committee on the basis of which they could have come to a conclusion about the use of unfair means by the petitioner, the High Court could not sit as a Court of appeal on that decision and hold that even though the members of the Standing Committee were satisfied about the use of unfair means they should not have been so satisfied. 66 Punj L R 674 : A I R 1964 Punj 327 (331, 332) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226 – Rules of natural justice, are relevant only when action is judicial or quasi-judicial. Joginder Singh v. State of Punjab, 65 Punj L R 267 : 1963 Cur L J 98 : I L R (1963) 1 Punj 588 : AIR 1963 Punj 280 (286, 287) (Pt A) (Pr 18) (FB).

■ ——Art 226—Quasi-judicial authority—Principles of natural justice to be observed by — Requirements of natural justice vary according to intendment of particular provisions.

Per Tek Chand, J. — Courts in India have been acting as vigilant sentinels on the qui vive to see that the principles of natural justice, are not violated by a judicial or quasi-judicial authority. In the case of the latter, the requirements of natural justice vary according to the provisions and intendment of the particular provisions. One of the broad principles of natural justice is that a quasi-judicial authority cannot make any decision against a party without giving him an effective opportunity of meeting the allegations made against him. This requires that a person whose civil right is affected must have a reasonable notice of the case he is to meet and, further, to have a reasonable opportunity of being heard in his defence. Of course, opportunity of being heard does not necessarily mean an oral hearing in person or by a lawyer. There, however, are exceptional cases where a public interest may be of such an imperative nature either by reason of a sudden and unforeseen emergency coming into existence or because of some other pressing exigency of the State which may weigh against such an opportunity being granted. A I R 1962 S C 1110 and A I R 1950 S C 222, Rel. on. Bhikhan Bobla v. Punjab State, 65 Pun L R 368 : ILR (1963) 1 Punj 660 : 1963 Cur L J 169 : AIR 1963 Punj 255 (273) (Pt F) (Pr 53) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Seat of member ordered to be vacated under S. 14 (e)—Punjab Municipal Act, 1911—Action under S. 14 (e) is of administrative nature—Rules of natural justice should be followed—Rule of fair play. See Municipalities—Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 14 (e). ('62) 64 Punj L R 685.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Quasi-judicial orders —Duty to act judicially.

In the exercise of quasi judicial function the doctrine of natural justice must be observed and complied with by the tribunal, if no procedure is laid down in the statute. The doctrine of natural justice in substance only means that the interested parties should have a fair and reasonable chance of putting their case before the authority or in other words they should have a fair and reasonable hearing. This doctrine is not concerned with the form of the proceedings taken but with the substance of the matter. ILR (1957) Punj 1728 : AIR 1958 Punj 35 (36, 37) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principles of — Applicability of, to proceedings under Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151. ILR (1957) Punj 611.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Violation of principles of natural justice — Order can be set aside under Art. 226. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) (c). AIR 1961 Raj 130.

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice when should not be introduced—[Arms Act (1878), S. 18 (a)].

Where, an authority exercising administrative powers under a statute [e. g., under S. 18 (a), Arms Act] acts within the four corners of the statute, and does not exceed or abuse its powers, it is unnecessary to introduce into the statute the principles of natural justice. Thus, if in a particular type of statute it is thought unnecessary to provide for notice of hearing in an administrative matter, the Courts should not introduce that in the law on the basis of principles of natural justice. AIR 1953 Raj 149, Ref. AIR 1953 Nag 125, Criticised. 1954 Cri L J 1672: ILR (1954) 4 Raj 170 : AIR 1954 Raj 264 (268) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Principles. See Saurashtra Restoration of Dispossessed Land Ordinance (No. 16 of 1948), S. 7. ('55) 8 Sau L R 373.

——Art. 226 — Good faith — Test of — Parallel proceedings under S. 47, Travancore Income-tax Act and Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act, 1124, if repugnant to good faith and natural justice. See Travancore Income Tax Act (1921), S. 47. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 303 (DB).

78 (a). Right to be heard.

(i) Disciplinary proceedings against students. See also Note 5 (g).

(ii) Disciplinary proceedings against servants.

(iii) Labour disputes.

(iv) Hearing and decision by different bodies.

(v) Defence.

(vi) No infringement.

(vii) Miscellaneous.

78 (a). Right to be heard.

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice—Authorities which are expected to apply these principles in dealing with matters entrusted to them.

Authorities or bodies which are given jurisdiction by statutory provisions to deal with the rights of citizens, may be required by the relevant statute to act judicially in dealing with matters entrusted to them. An obligation to act judicially may also in some cases, be inferred from the scheme of the relevant statute and its material provisions. In such a case, the authority or body must act in accordance with the principles of natural justice before exercising its jurisdiction and its powers; the obligation to follow the principles of natural justice need not be expressly imposed. Power to determine questions affecting the rights of citizens, would impose the limitation that the power should be exercised in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Whether or not such an authority or body is a tribunal, depends upon the nature of the power conferred on it, the nature of the rights of citizens, the decision of which falls within the jurisdiction of the said authority or body and other relevant circumstances. 1964 A C 40 and AIR 1965 S C 1595, Rel. on. Lala Shri Bhagwan v. Ram Chand, (1965) 2 S C A 844 : 1965 All L J 353 : 1965 All W R (HC) 304 : (1965) 2 S C W R 318: AIR 1965 SC 1767 (1770) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226— Certiorari — Natural justice — Opportunity to parties to be heard.

Certiorari will be issued when the Court or Tribunal acts illegally in the exercise of its undoubted jurisdiction, as when it decides without giving an opportunity to the parties to be heard, or violates the principles of natural justice : AIR 1955 S C 233, Foll. Sangram Singh v. Election Tribunal, Kotah, 1955 Mad W N 844 : (1955) 2 Mad L J (S C) 13 : 1955 Andh W R (S C) 267 : 1955 S C A 545 : (1955) 2 S C R 1 : 1955 S C J 431 : A I R 1955 S C 425 (428) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity and right to be heard before being condemned — What amounts to. AIR 1960 All 579 (583) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Order under U. P. Municipalities Act, S. 221—Declaration of street as public street—Nature of proceedings — Objections to declaration— Duty of administrator — Issue of writ — Nature of proceedings under S. 221, although not judicial, if fundamental rights are to be affected, and where evidence has to be recorded and provisions of Civil P. C. and Evidence Act have to be followed, the person whose fundamental right has to be affected must be given a right to substantiate his objections —He should be given opportunity to be heard before passing orders. See Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 221. AIR 1958 All 209.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Audi alteram partem —Principle applies to quasi-judicial determinations but not to purely administrative orders which do not create any legal right in petitioner. A I R 1960 S C 606, Disting. A I R 1965 Andh Pra 425 (432) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Essential requirements —Reasonable opportunity— What is —Charges should be levelled with sufficient paticularity and preciseness.

The essential requirements of natural justice are: firstly, that the person accused should know the nature of the accusation made; secondly that he should be given an opportunity to state his case; and thirdly, that the tribunal should act in good faith. A reasonable opportunity means an adequate opportunity and it presupposes that the person against whom a charge is levelled should be told with sufficient particularity and preciseness what the charge is and what the allegations are.

Action was taken by the authorities against malpractices committed by certain students during the examination. None of them was informed in what subject and in what manner he had copied or allowed some one else to copy from him. Further, they were asked to answer vague and indefinite charges : Held, that the procedure adopted by the authorities did not satisfy the requirements of natural justice. 1943 A C 627 and (1958) 1 W L R 762, Relied on. 1961 Andh L T 890 : AIR 1962 Andh Pra 187 (191, 192) (Pt B) (Prs 17, 18).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Reasonable opportunity to show cause — Meaning of. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1960 Assam 141 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Audi alteram partem. See Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 140. ('59) 61 Bom L R 1638.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Requirements — Hearing party.

It is the ordinary rule of natural justice that before a Court or a tribunal or an authority exercising judicial functions passes an order which prejudicially affects a party, the Court, tribunal or the authority must hear the party in his defence and give him an opportunity to show cause against the order that it proposes to pass. 59 Bom L R 1 : ILR (1957) Bom 157 : (1957) 32 ITR 344 : AIR 1958 Bom 459 (460) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Opportunity to be heard — What amounts to. See Municipalities — City of Nagpur Corporation Act (2 of 1950), S. 49. ('58) 60 Bom L R 760.

——Art. 226 — Railway Establishment Code (1951), App XIII, Part B, R. 1—Withdrawal of recognition— Opportunity to show cause—Means reasonable opportunity— Colourable compliance with R 1 — Vitiates order of withdrawal.

Rule 1 of the Code simply requires 'opportunity' and does not mention that such opportunity must be reasonable'. But the concept of adequacy or reasonableness not only follows from the Dictionary meaning of the word 'due but is inherent in the requirement of 'opportunity' being given, for the object of R. 1 is to afford the association sought to be affected by the withdrawal of recognition an opportunity to meet the charge or cause upon which the recognition is sought to be withdrawn. If the opportunity is given in such circumstances that the union gets no proper time or no chance of referring to the requisite materials, for meeting the charges it, would be only a 'colourable' compliance with the Rule. The very word 'opportunity' requires a reasonable opportunity to be afforded. AIR 1954 S C 170, Rel. on Further, what opportunity would be proper or adequate in a given case would depend upon its circumstances. Having regard to the circumstances of this case it must be held that the impugned order has been made without giving proper opportunity to show cause as required by R. 1, and hence the impugned order has been vitiated by want of jurisdiction. It also contravenes the principles of natural justice in so far as they are implicit in the Rule itself. The impugned order of withdrawal of recognition was therefore ultra vires and void in toto. AIR 1965 Cal 389 (393, 397, 398) (Pt G)(Prs 29, 42).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Opportunity of being heard — Includes disclosure of information received by Commissioner on inquiry, See Income tax Act (1922), S. 33. AIR 1964 Cal 367.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Audi Alteram Partem. See Calcutta Police Act (1860), S. 39. AIR 1962 Cal 556 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Natural justice — Fair hearing — Elements—Quasi-judicial orders—Orders under Sea Customs Act — Denial of opportunity to inspect documents held up in evidence against petitioner—No fair hearing — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8).

A fair hearing has two elements. The first is that an opportunity to be heard must be given; the second is that this opportunity must be reasonable. Both these matters are justiciable. Whether a person has had a fair hearing can be gone into by the Court; and the Court's conscience must be satisfied that an Administrative Tribunal charged with the duty of deciding a dispute has conformed to fundamental principles of natural justice.

Held, that even if no injustice had resulted, the proceedings did not exclude the possibility of denial of opportunity of fair hearing to the petitioner and the order of adjudication must, therefore, be held to be bad on that ground. AIR 1959 Cal 533, Reversed. 1962 (2) Cri L J 342 : AIR 1962 Cal 460 (466) (Pt A) (Prs 33, 35) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Certiorari, writ of —Administrative Tribunal — Natural justice — Fair hearing does not include right of personal hearing. AIR 1962 Cal 411 (414) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Opportunity to be given to appellant to be heard—See Tenancy Laws — West Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act (20 of 1949), S. 72 (1). AIR 1956 Cal 357.

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — Requirements of, whether met in a case—Question depends upon factors involved in case.

There are certain basic principles relating to the requirements of natural justice which must be followed in all cases by those who hold any judicial inquiry unless of course the statute in express terms or by necessary implication absolves them from the obligation to do so. Very broadly expressed, the first principle is that the party to the controversy must know with reasonable certainty the nature of the case against him. Secondly, he should be given a fair and proper opportunity to meet the case against him and to state his own case. Lastly, the tribunal must conduct the inquiry and reach its conclusion in good faith.

The question whether the requirements of natural justice have been met by the procedure adopted in a particular case must depend to a great extent on the facts and circumstances of the case in point. The requirements of natural justice are not such as can be reduced to any formula which can have universal application to every kind of inquiry. The procedure also need not be analogous to judicial procedure or procedure of Courts of justice but would depend upon the subject-matter, etc. (1949) 1 All E R 109 and (1915) A C 120 and AIR 1918 P C 67 and (1958) 2 All E R 579 and AIR 1958 S C 398, Rel. on. (1963) 4 Gui L R 326: AIR 1963 Guj 50 (59, 60) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Natural justice—Audi alteram partem — Administrative orders — Order under S. 39, Sea Customs Act.

The application of the principle founded on the maxim audi alteram partem does not reach executive or administrative orders. Its application covers orders which are judicial or quasi judicial. A I R 1958 S C 578 and (1915) A C 120, Rel. on.

The action taken by the Customs authorities under S. 39 is an administrative or executive action and, therefore, in doing so, they cannot be regarded as acting in any quasi judicial manner. Before making the order the Customs authorities are not bound to hear the assessee. (1960) 1 Gui L R 267 : AIR 1961 Guj 51 (56, 57) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Audi alteram partem — Scope and applicability, indicated. AIR 1962 Him Pra 59 (64, 65, 66, 67, 68) (Pt B) (Prs 19, 21, 22, 31, 32, 33, 42, 43).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Audi alteram partem —Act of executive bodies — Order against person passed without notice to him and without hearing him in the matter — Error held fundamental —When executive is given power to decide something in its discretion, the Courts would still keep it in the leading strings of fair procedure — Rule applies to every tribunal or body of persons invested with authority to adjudicate on matters involving civil consequences — It is not confined to legal tribunals alone. 1963 Ker L T 1051.

——Art. 226 — Grant of lease for certain term subject to earlier termination on certain contingency — Lessee whether must be heard before order terminating lease — Lessee heard by revising authority —Illegality committed by tribunal of first instance whether cured — Public orders — Construction — Quashing of — (Administrative law).

The Government by order sanctioned the grant of a Kuthakapattom lease to the petitioner. The Tahsildar issued a notice to the petitioner to give possession of the site to the Village Officer, Berumbavoor within 3 months from the date of notice.

Held, (i) that in addition to the essentials expressed in the lease, that the lessee must be heard before final order was passed, must also be implied; (ii) that it failed to give the three months notice under clause 9 of the lease; (iii) that public orders, cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order; (AIR 1952 SC 16, Followed); (iv) that the fact that petitioner was later heard by Government as revising authority, could not in any way mend the matter; (v) that this was a case where it fairly appeared that some prejudice might likely to have resulted from disregard of established rules. In such circumstances the High Court would readily set aside the administrative determination of the lease. 1959 Ker L R 142 : 1959 Ker L J 305 : AIR 1960 Ker 88 (89, 90) (Prs 5, 5a, 6).

——Art. 226 — Scheme of road-transport service — Objections to be heard by 'Public Works Secretary — Order overruling objections and approving scheme passed by Minister for transport—Such procedure defeats object of personal hearing and is clearly unsustainable — Resultant scheme should be quashed under Art. 226. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 D. ILR (1959) Ker 1058.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Meaning—Expression embodies principle of audi alteram partem—It contemplates a reasonable and fair opportunity to person concerned to prove his innocence — Question of procedure becomes unimportant if these basic requirementt are fulfilled.

Natural justice would broadly mean firstly, the principle of audi alteram partem, meaning that no person should be condemned behind his back. So far as disciplinary action of any sort, whether under the service rules or under the University or the School Education Board Acts, is concerned, a charge of adopting unfair means in the examinations, would be more or less of a quasi-criminal nature involving the reputation and career of the student. Before a person is condemned, he must be given an opportunity to be heard to explain the materials and circumstances, appearing against him. It will depend on the facts of the case, as to, what is a sufficient or a reasonable opportunity. It would, however, mean an opportunity to prove his innocence. Where statutes and ordinances have been framed by University their requirements must be met, in addition to the requirements of the principle of natural justice. For this purpose the person concerned is not entitled to invoke any statutory provision of the Civil or the Criminal Procedure Code or the Indian Evidence Act. But what might be permissible would be broadly speaking a fair opportunity to be heard and to prove one's own innocence. If these two essential requirements are satisfied the question of procedure is not very material, because the procedure as applicable to the Courts of law can, in no event, be insisted upon by the person concerned. The enquiry need not be elaborate like the one in a law Court. The enquiry may as well be summary. But the basic principles ought not to be ignored namely, that the authority taking disciplinary action has some material before it, which can be the foundation for arriving at a conclusion of the guilt of the person concerned and any reasonable man would arrive at such conclusion. The principle further requires that the person concerned, should not only be given a hearing but also that it must not be given to one side in the absence of the other. The opportunity to be heard ought to be given before action is taken against person concerned. What is required is only a fair opportunity to the person concerned to state his case and to prove his innocence. If after such opportunity the person concerned does not avail of it and if the conclusion is against him, it cannot be said that the principles of natural justice are violated. AIR 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1962 S C 1110 & 1958 (2) All E R 579 and AIR 1960 S C 992 and (1920) 3 K B 334 and (1935) 1 K B 349 and 1915 A C 120 and 1940 Ch D 70 and (1944) 1 All E R 179 and AIR 1962 S C 646, Rel. on.

In the case of a University unless the statutes and the ordinances framed under the University Act so require, the principle of natural jnstice would not imply a right to be heard in person or representation through a counsel or a right to cross-examine every witness examined in support of the charge. AIR 1963 S C 375 and 1911 A C 179 and AIR 1957 S C 232 and AIR 1957 S C 882 and AIR 1959 S C 1111 and AIR 1954 Bom 351, Rel. on. 1965 Jab L J 912 : 1966 M P L J 16 : AIR 1966 Madh Pra 136 (141, 142, 143) (Pt A) (Prs 19 to 23) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Opportunity of being heard not given—Duty of Courts—Legal maxims—Audi alteram partem.

It is a fundamental principle which is firmly rooted in English jurisprudence that no one shall be condemned or punished or deprived of property in any judicial proceeding unless he has had an opportunity of being heard. The maxim audi alteram partem (hear the other side) is one of those principles of natural justice which has always been followed in our country, and superior Courts are jealous to enforce this basic requirement of procedure and feel themselves duty-bound to intervene in case of its infraction. 1960 Jab L J 1016 : 1961 M P L J 963 : ILR (1961) Madh Pra 792.

——Art. 226—Use of emergency powers—Opportunity of owner to make representation can only be deprived of for proper reasons. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 17 (4). AIR 1965 Mad 328.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of—What are—Do not necessarily involve giving of oral hearing—Question of oral hearing depends on facts of each case — Bombay Primary Education Act (61 of 1947), S. 56.

It is not easy to define by any neat combination of words, the exact or precise requirements of the rules of natural justice. The two principles of natural justice are that no man should be a Judge in his own cause and that an opportunity should be afforded to the person likely to be affected by the proceedings to make his defence.

The words "to make a defence" do not necessarily include an oral hearing. The question as to whether an oral hearing should or should not be given, is one which depends upon the facts of each case. If an oral hearing in certain circumstances is unnecessary and superfluous, the statutory body whether it is either a quasi-judicial tribunal or an admistrative tribunal or some other kind of tribunal, is not bound to give such oral hearing. But if the proceeding is such and the circumstances make it imperative that there should be an oral hearing and the presentation of a case in writing is likely to be inadequate, an oral hearing would be indispensable.

It is thus clear that the requirement that the person who is likely to be affected should be heard means that he should have an adequate opportunity of presenting his case and not that in all cases he should be afforded or given an oral hearing. Case law referred to.

Thus, where it was clear that the order dissolving a school board under S. 56 of the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1947, was made by the State Government honestly and in good faith; that the State Government afforded to the school board a full and adequate opportunity to present its case and to make its defence against the charges which were brought against it; that the school board itself at no stage considered that any enquiry into those charges was necessary and left it to the option of the State Government to decide whether any such inquiry was or was not required and that the procedure adopted by the State Government in making the impugned order had not resulted in any prejudice to the school board nor had produced any unjust results:

Held, that the order was incapable of being assailed on the ground that it was not preceded by a fuller enquiry or an oral hearing. 1962 Mys L J (Sup) 227 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Audi alteram partem.

Rule of natural justice is not a rule of law that can override the laws of the land. It cannot also be made a touchstone to find out the validity of any piece of legislation. But if a given statute can be interpreted both consistently with the principles of natural justice as well as de hors those principles, it should be construed in accordance with the principles of natural justice. Similarly unless there is something in the contract either specifically or by necessary implication negativing the application of that rule, it is proper to read into the terms of that contract, if it deals with the civil rights of a person, the rule of 'audi alteram partem' as an implied term. 38 Mys L J 1048 : ILR (1960) Mys 1100 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 472 : AIR 1961 Mys 49 (52, 53) (Pr C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Maxim Audi alteram partem — See Bombay Land Revenue Code (5 of 1879), S. 211. ILR (1958) Mys 414.

——Art. 226 — Grounds for issue of writ — Failure of quasi judicial tribunal to give personal hearing.

In all cases of quasi judicial tribunals, what is required is that sufficient opportunity should be given to the parties who approach them for relief. Whether a personal hearing should be given or not will depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Where petitioner's objections as to acquisition proceedings in respect of his lands were considered by the State Government and the order of dismissal of the petitioner's application for dropping the land acquisition proceedings was made, the said order cannot be said to be vitiated merely because no oral hearing was given to the petitioner's advocate. I L R (1956) Mys 146 : AIR 1957 Mys 12 (13, 14) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial orders of appellate authorities — Principle of natural justice should be observed.

Quasi-judicial orders of appellate authorities should be passed only after the parties concerned are given a reasonable opportunity of being heard. It may be that the question of maintainability is a preliminary issue but even in respect of this preliminary question, the appellant is entitled to be heard before the appellate authority makes up its mind. Otherwise it offends the well-known principle of natural justice. Virendra v. Sada, 1965 B L J R 839 : (1966) 12 Fac L R 137 : AIR 1966 Pat 143 (143) (Pr 3) (FB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Opportunity to be heard. See Bihar Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1964), R. 34. AIR 1965 Pat 491 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Denial of opportunity to show cause against impugned order—Order stopping grant-in-aid of a school without giving any opportunity to Managing Committee of the School to show cause against it is illegal and liable to be quashed. 1965 B L J R 357.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles.

Natural justice does not imply unfettered liberty to the litigants to determine and direct the course of the hearing or their cause, nor does it make the hearing dependent upon the convenience of the litigants. The principle of natural justice does not connote unqualified indulgence on the part of the Court towards the litigants. Once a person affected is given a reasonable opportunity of being heard, there is sufficient compliance with the fundamental principle of natural justice. If the party does not avail of that opportunity and fails to place his case before the Court or Tribural, either personally or through a lawyer, there is no denial of justice to him. ILR 36 Pat 1264 : AIR 1958 Pat 71 (73, 74) (Pt D) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari—Principle of audi alteram partem — Order of Deputy Commissioner cancelling licence under S. 42 (1) (c), Bihar and Orissa Excise Act (1915) without hearing licensee—Writ of certiorari if can issue.

Per Ramaswami, J.: The principle of audi alteram partem only means that the party affected should be given sufficient opportunity to meet the case against him and not that he is necessarily entitled to an oral hearing. The principle is satisfied if the party adversely affected is given sufficient opportunity to know the case he has to meet and to answer that case at some stage and not at all the stages of the administrative proceeding. No general test can be formulated which would be applicable to all conditions. There is, however, authority for the view that the principle would be satisfied if the statute provides for an appeal to higher authority, or for making any formal representation to the authority before the order becomes finally operative. Though S. 42 (1) (c), Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, does not prescribe what is the procedure to be followed by the Collector for cancellation of a licence, there is an implication as a matter of law that some form of enquiry must be made and the Collector is bound to give a fair opportunity to the licensee of stating his view point. 1956 Pat L R 120 : I L R 35 Pat 268: 1956 B L J R 549: A I R 1956 Pat 212 (219, 220, 221) (Prs 21, 22, 25) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Opportunity to be heard — No standard of reasonableness — Question depends on facts and circumstances of each case. AIR 1964 Punj 15 (19, 20) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

● ——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — Concept of natural justice — Its connection with maxim "audi alteram partem".

Per Tek Chand J. — The concept of natural justice is bound up with the maxim "audi alteram partem" (hear the other side). The cardinal characteristic of a judicial or quasi-judicial process is the impartiality of the tribunal giving rise, as a corollary, to juridical qualities between the parties before it, and the latter is apt to be gravely imperilled when one of the parties has not been given opportunity to appear before it thus disturbing the equilibrium betweem them. The essence of the rule is notice, adequate opportunity to be heard, consideration and solemn judgment. Bhikhan Bobla v. Punjab State, 65 Pun L R 368 : ILR (1963) 1 Punj 660 : 1963 Cur L J 169 : AIR 1963 Punj 255 (268 to 273) (Pt E) (Prs 38 to 52) (FB).

——Art. 226—The question whether a fair opportunity has or has not been given to the party adversely affected depends on the particular facts of each case. The rule does not require that the party adversely affected should be heard at every stage of the administrative proceedings. 59 Pun L R 251: I L R (1957) Punj 1334 : AIR 1957 Punj 155 (158) (Pt F) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Right to be heard—Tenancy Laws — Punjab Tenancy Act (16 of 1887), S. 45 (5) — (Tenancy Laws — Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (8 of 1953), S. 7).

When powers are conferred by the legislature which are to be judicially exercised, the person against whom they are to be exercised has a right to be heard; and if this right be not expressly conferred by the statute, the common law will supply that omission. 32 L J (N S) C P 185 : 24 Q B D 703 and (1893) 3 Ch D 482, Foll.

Where a landlord seeks eviction of a tenant-at-will by following the procedure laid down in Ss. 43 and 45 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and no suit by the tenant contesting his liability to be ejected is filed within 2 months of the service of notice of ejectment, since the enactment of S. 7 of the Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act of 1954, the revenue officer is bound to make an enquiry whether the grounds specified in S. 7 of the 1953 Act exist or not before an order for eviction under S. 45 (5) of the 1887 Act is made. ILR (1957) Punj 1682.

——Arts. 226, 311 (2) — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause — What is — Meaning of reasonable (Words and Phrases). See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1956 Punj 58 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative tribunal—Procedure — Person exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions—Duty to hear parties—Practice.

Natural justice is founded in equity in honesty and right and the two broad rules which must be observed by every person exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions are (1) that there must be no bias and (2) that no party should be condemned unheard. The distinguishing feature of the judicial power is that an interested party must come to the Judge and require him to determine a matter in controversy; and the party to whom the order of the Judge may prove detrimental must have the right to oppose. Both sides should be heard and one side should not be heard in the absence of the other. If these conditions are not fulfilled, the decision is almost certain to be quashed. 53 Pun L R 115 : AIR 1951 Punj 401 (404) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Quasi judicial tribunal — Opportunity to be heard by — Right whether exists.

All that quasi-judicial tribunals like the Board of Revenue have to do, is to give sufficient opportunity to persons who approach them for the exercise of their jurisdiction to state their case. In the case of an executive authority like the Member of the Board of Revenue, there is no rule which requires that he should listen to oral contentions of parties or their advocates It is enough if the contentions are put in writing and the order is passed on perusal of these objections. That is sufficient hearing for the purpose of disposing of the matter. AIR 1951 Mad 276, Foll. AIR 1951 Trav Co 197, Affirmed. 1951 Ker L T 329 : AIR 1952 Trav-Co 287 (288, 289) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—(V. P. Gram Panchayat Ordinance (1949), S. 49).

The decision of Gram Panchayat constituted under Gram Panchayat Ordinance is vitiated if all the Panchas who decided the case did not hear it and if six Panchas decided it instead of five. A matter affecting the constitution of the tribunal is a matter involving jurisdiction. AIR 1956 Vindh Pra 6 (7) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

78 (a) (i). Disciplinary proceedings against students.

See also Note 5 (g).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard — University — Disciplinary jurisdiction — Reluctance of High Court to interfere — University when it finds a student guilty of misconduct, if acts as an administrative or disciplinary body — It may observe principles of natural justice — One such principle is to give opportunity to the student to be heard. A I R 1961 All 301 (305, 306) (Pt B) (Prs 21, 24).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Disciplinary action by Board of High School and Intermediate Education against student for copying during examination—Student asked to answer in writing questions during inquiry.

Held, there was reasonable opportunity to meet the charges—Special App. No. 174 of 1955 (All) Rel. on. AIR 1961 All 290 (292) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Natural justice — Use of unfair means in university examination.

Summary inquiry by Academic Council and debarring of examinee—Examinee given opportunity to explain conduct but had no explanation to offer—Held no violation of principles of natural justice — Examinee when to be allowed to cross-examine stated. AIR 1960 All 642 (646, 647) (Prs 17, 19).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Even an administrative or disciplinary authority is expected to observe the ordinary rules of fair play and act keeping in view the principles of natural justice.

An examinee at University Examination was found with a piece of paper with writing thereon, and both the invigilator and the Superintendent wrote their report on a printed form and the examinee wrote his explanation, and when the matter was put before the Academic Council in due course, the Academic Council passed a resolution, rusticating the examinee for one year. The Academic Council in the present case is not acting in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity. It is functioning more as a disciplinary body than an administrative one. All the requirements of natural justice were fulfilled in the present case. (1940) 1 All E R 109 and AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1957 S C 232, Relied on. There is no warrant for the proposition that in every case in which action is taken by an administrative or disciplinary authority it must itself give the person concerned an opportunity to be heard and that it cannot act on the basis of the materials submitted by a subordinate enquiring body which had given an opportunity to the examinee when the facts were enquired into. AIR 1956 All 539 and 1957 All L J 213; AIR 1958 All 792 Distinguished; (1953) 2 All E R 717 and (1954) 2 All E R 118 and AIR 1956 All 46, Relied on; AIR 1959 Orissa 196, Expl. and Disting. I L R (1960) 2 All 205 : 1960 All L J 348 : AIR 1960 All 531 (532, 533, 534) (Prs 6, 8, 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Examinee using unfair means—Inquiry by delegate on spot — Cancelling of result by University—Order held not contrary to natural justice — 1957 All L J 213, Dissented from. AIR 1963 All 198 (199) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226—Cancellation of student's examination —Opportunity to explain couduct not given—Principles of natural justice violated —(Natural justice).

If a student's examination is cancelled without giving him an opportunity to explain his conduct such an order is in violation of the principle of natural justice. AIR 1956 All 539, Foll. 1957 All L J 213.

——Art. 226—Regulation under S. 15, U. P. Act 2 of 1921, Chap 6, Para 1 (1) —Students using unfair means at examination — Cancellation of results by examination committee in ex parte proceedings—Failure to provide opportunity of being heard — Effect on order of cancellation—Penalty imposed if within power of committee —Infringement of students' rights under Art. 19 (1) (f) of Constitution—See U. P. Intermediate Education Act (2 of 1921), S. 13. A I R 1956 All 539.

——Art. 226—Administrative Bodies—Procedure to be followed—Select Malpractice Committee of Board of Secondary Education — Enquiry into alleged malpractices by students during examination — Principles of natural justice should be observed.

The Select Malpractice Committee of the Board of Secondary Education and the Commissioner for Government Examinations when conducting enquiries into cases of alleged malpractices at examinations, exercise quasi-judicial functions and not mere administrative functions notwithstanding that they are administrative bodies. That being so, and in the absence of any prescribed procedure, it is incumbent on them to observe the principles of natural justice in conducting such enquiries. (1960) 1 W L R 223, Rel. on. 1961 Andh L T 890 : AIR 1962 Andh Pra 187 (190) (Pt A) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Judicial and quasi-judicial body — Andhra Pradesh Secondary School Examination Board—Disciplinary proceedings against examinee for using unfair means—If there are rules governing the procedure they must be followed — In their absence, requirements of natural justice are to be observed — Principle of audi alteram partem has to be observed—A person cannot be condemned without having notice of charge against him and without an opportunity to meet the charge. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 46 (48, 49, 50) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 14, 17).

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — University debarring candidate from examination for misconduct — Opportunity not given for explanation — Interference—Legality of order—(Maharaja Sayajirao University Act (17 of 1949), S. 47).

The University in holding examination and in seeking to punish misconduct of a candidate in the examination is acting as an administrative body. The decision of the University authorities to declare a candidate unsuccessful, and to impose penalties is not open to review by the Courts unless it is shown to be arbitrary, capricious or mala fide.

Under Ordinance 278 framed by the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda it does not appear to be obligatory upon the Syndicate of the University to hear a student before imposing a penalty upon him for misconduct. The High Court exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226, in the absence of any claim on the part of the candidate for the protection of any fundamental right or an allegation that the action of the University is either arbitrary, capricious or mala fide, is incompetent to review that decision on the ground that the candidate had not been given an opportunity to explain the charge of misconduct. But having regard to the nature of the enquiry being administrative, with no statutory obligation to give opportunity to the candidate, the action taken by the University cannot be assailed on the ground of absence of notice. 59 Bom L R 569 : ILR (1958) Bom 60 : A I R 1957 Bom 246 (249, 250, 251) (Prs 6, 8, 10, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial bodies — University Authorities — Procedure — Disciplinary action—Enquiry by Examination Board— Opportunity to candidates to defend themselves. See Calcutta University Regulations, Ch. 25, Reg. (5). AIR 1957 Cal 428.

——Art. 226 — Writ against University — Duty of Board of Examiners to act judicially — Candidate appearing for examination found guilty of misconduct or adoption of unfair means at examination —Candidate disqualified from obtaining degree — Decision reached in violation of principles of natural justice — Jurisdiction of Court to interfere.

One of the functions of the Board of Examiners brought into existence under Chap. XXV of the Regulations framed under the Indian Universities Act, is to consider all cases of breaches of discipline arising in connection with the examination but there is no detailed procedure laid down as to how the Board will discharge this function.

In cases where breaches of discipline are detected by the invigilators or other officers present in the examination hall and candidates concerned are expelled from the hall or are otherwise dealt with, question of any enquiry or investigation upon notice to the candidates may not arise. But where no case of breach of discipline is actually detected but subsequently upon examination of the answer papers the Examiners come to entertain suspicion about adoption of unfair means by particular candidate or candidates and the Examination Board has to consider such cases and come to a determination as to the nature of the offence committed and has to apportion the penalty which can properly be inflicted upon the delinquents, it is only fit and proper that the party arraigned should have an opportunity to defend himself and to offer an explanation, if any. To brand a candidate with the stigma of adoption of unfair means at the examination or in other words finding her guilty of dishonesty or misconduct and thereby causing an irreparable injury to the character and reputation of such candidate, without giving him or her any opportunity to explain, is contrary to all notions of justice and good sense.

It is true that the Board of Examiners is an Administrative Body but when they are conducting enquiries or investigations into cases of misconduct of the candidates they are exercising quasi-judicial functions. They are a body of persons invested with authority to adjudicate upon matters involving civil consequences to individuals.

The words "consider" in Chap. XXV, Reg. 8 (VI) (c) must necessarily involve and import a decision not merely depending upon opinion but depending upon inquiry or investigation.

The question whether a particular power is to be exercised judicially or quasi-judicially or merely in an administrative capacity depends on the nature, scope and effect of the particular power. A mere provision for enquiry or notice does not furnish any conclusive test. Even where there is no provision for enquiry or notice in relation to discharge of certain statutory duties, Courts have spelt out an obligation to act judicially or quasi-judicially in the discharge of such duties.

Where the decision of the Board of Examiners has merged in the order of the Syndicate which is the confirming authority under Reg. 8 (VIII) of Chap. XXV and it is the order of the Syndicate which has been communicated to the petitioner as the final order which has cancelled the examination of the petitioner, and the Board of Examiners have acted in breach of their duty to follow the principles of natural justice, a writ directed against the Syndicate will give effective relief to the petitioner. But whether it is the decision of the Board or the decision of the Syndicate these different bodies are discharging the different functions of the University and their acts are the acts of the University. These different bodies are part and parcel of the University which is a body corporate. So a writ can be properly directed against the University.

Even assuming that the act of confirmation of the Syndicate was in the nature of an executive act the mere confirmation cannot legalise the proceedings of the Board of Examiners which were conducted in violation of the requirements of the Statute or in breach of their duty to follow the principles of natural justice. Both the decision and its confirmation remain tainted with illegality. There has not been any proper determination according to law and so mandamus can issue directing the University to reconsider the case of the petitioner according to law.

A candidate by the very act of presenting himself for an examination by the University, submits himself to the decision of the authorities appointed by the University for conducting the examination and it is inconceivable that a Court of law will declare a candidate to have passed an examination when the University authorities empowered to adjudicate upon the results of the examination, declare him to have failed. But where, a candidate who has admittedly obtained pass marks in all the subjects and has qualified herself for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, is declared to be disqualified from obtaining the degree because the University authorities have arrived at the conclusion that the candidate has been guilty of misconduct or adoption of unfair means at the examination, and it appears that the decision is reached in violation of the principles of natural justice or in other words by a process contrary to the spirit and intendment of the statutory regulation governing the matter, the Court has undoubtedly the jurisdiction to interfere.

The decision of the University authorities affects not only the rights of the petitioner as an examinee but also her right to reputation. Moreover the injury that is caused to her fair name is an irreparable injury. If she sues for damages for libel she will at once be met by the defence of qualified privilege and unless she proves malice (which will be difficult if not impossible for her to prove) she gets no relief in suit. Hence, the petitioner is entitled to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226, Constitution of India.

The Board of Examiners and the Syndicate in considering cases of breaches of discipline must act reasonably and with due care and caution. 56 Cal W N 278 : AIR 1952 Cal 594 (596, 597, 599, 600, 601) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 23, 28, 29, 30, 33, 35, 37).

——Art. 226—Calcutta University Regulation, Chap. XXIII, S. 26A—Action against student under Ss. 26A and 33 — Student getting opportunity of representation — He has no right to be heard by Governing body or syndicate — Disciplinary action by college authority — Jurisdiction of Courts of law in the matter. See Calcutta University Regulation, Chap. XXIII, S. 26A. AIR 1952 Cal 238.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — When violated — University taking action under Regulation 18 of the Punjab University Regulations against certain candidates without affording them opportunity of showing cause — It cannot be said that it has acted against principle of natural justice. See Punjab University, Regulations, Regulation 18. AIR 1957 Him Pra 31.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard — Disciplinary action by University against student — Opportunity of being heard or notice to show cause before awarding punishment must be given to delinquent student although no such notice is contemplated under University statutes — Requirements of notice—Mere assertion that student's father was asked through messenger to bring student on day of inquiry does not satisfy requirements of valid notice. AIR 1955 S C 233; AIR 1955 S C 425 and AIR 1961 J & K 56, Foll.; (1885) 10 A C 229 and AIR 1956 Cal 114, Rel. on. 1965 Kash L J 23 : AIR 1965 J & K 23 (27, 28) (Pt B) (Prs 31, 33).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Proceeding of head of college in relation to exercise of his disciplinary jurisdiction and resulting in expulsion or suspension of student—Contention that order was administrative in character and therefore not liable to be corrected by certiorari, not sound—Even if ultimate decision is administrative in character, process of arriving at decision requires quasi-judicial approach at some stage, and if there is failure to conform to principles of natural justice at that stage, court has right to interfere with decision. AIR 1952 Mad 152, Rel. on., English case law Ref. — Institution — Educational. 1964 Ker L J 1201.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Disciplinary action against student for misbehaviour — Charge of using abusive language towards lecturer and disturbing class — Show cause memo given and student's statement sent to Enquiry Committee — Facts and materials on which action was taken explained to student by Enquiry Committee — Statement of lecturer also recorded — Student given oral hearing and allegations as corroborated by statement of lecturer explained — Statement of some students also recorded — Order of suspension from college passed by Principal on basis of finding of Enquiry Committee challenged—Held, that although principles of natural justice must be followed in such enquiries, it did not mean that hearing conducted must have all characteristies of judicial proceedings and contention that contents of statements made by students should have been revealed to petitioner and opportunity given to cross-examine them was not entitled to much weight — That in the circumstances procedure adopted by Committee was not violative of principles of natural justice and Committee was justified in refusing to disclose contents of statements of students as that would have created disharmony among students of the class. Case law Ref. 1964 Ker L J 1201.

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial tribunal — Syndicate of University, when asked to consider question of malpractice practised by examinee, functions quasi-judicially — Principles of natural justice — Violation of, by Syndicate.

A Syndicate of a University, though an administrative body, functions quasi-judicially when it is asked to consider the question of malpractice practised by a candidate at the time of answering question paper at an examination held by the University. The principles of natural justice, which require that the other party (namely, the examinee) must be heard, will apply to the proceedings before the syndicate. Where, therefore, the examinee candidate is informed that he has copied answer books and is asked as to why disciplinary action should not be taken as against him and the candidate controverts the allegation that has been made against him by the authorities (Syndicate), then there is an obligation on the part of the authorities concerned, before passing the order debarring the candidate in question, of placing before him the materials that were available before the authorities and give an opportunity to the candidate to place his objections and also to controvert any materials that are sought to be used by the authorities as against him. Where such an opportunity is not made available to the candidate, an order debarring the candidate from appearing at an examination of the University for a period of two years will be in violation of the principles of natural justice. AIR 1962 S C 1110, Foll. 1963 Ker L T 257.

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial and administrative orders — Executive Council of University — Order disqualifying examinee for misconduct — Action is administrative — Opportunity to examinee of being heard not obligatory.

There is no obligation on the University authorities to give any opportunity of hearing, before imposing a penalty upon an examinee for his alleged misconduct. The question of giving an opportunity cannot be decided solely on the consideration that the penalty imposed would expose the career of the candidates to serious consequences. In some cases it may be necessary to give an opportunity to a party to have his say before an administrative action is taken against him but this is quite different from an enquiry and hearing necessary in the case of a quasi-judicial action which can be corrected by a superior Court by means of a writ of certiorari. AIR 1957 Bom 246 and AIR 1953 Cal 212 and AIR 1952 Cal 594 and AIR 1956 All 539, Rel. on; (1960) 1 All E R 631, Dist. 1961 M P C 225 : 1961 Jab L J 913 : 1961 M P L J 828 : AIR 1961 Madh Pra 356 (359, 360) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of Vice-chancellor directing student not to resort to any propaganda for or against university — Order contravened — Vice-chancellor acting under S. 14 (5), Sagar University Act read with Ordinances Nos. 12 and 13 debarring student from appearing in any examination of university for two years — Order held administrative — Object of disciplinary action would be defeated if in such cases the giving of notice, an opportunity of hearing and regular enquiry were held to be essential — Where however, administrative action affected fundamental rights opportunity to explain conduct would be necessary — Here there was no question of fundamental right. 1961 M P L J 371.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Disciplinary action against candidates for a university examination — Charge of malpractice — Language of the charge not specific but vague — Prejudice is caused to the candidates in that they did not know what case they had to meet and consequently they had no reasonable opportunity of being heard against charge levied —Order thus having been passed without observing the principles of natural justice quashed.

Answer papers of two candidates having consecutive seat numbers at the examination were found to tally word for word in respect of answers to some questions. The matter was reported for action. Thereupon the Registrar of the said University issued an official memorandum to both the candidates containing identical charges of malpractice.

On receipt of replies from the candidates the matter was referred to the Disciplinary Committee of the University which on considering the cases recommended debarring of the candidates for next two examinations and cancelling the result of the examination. The candidates filed writ petitions for quashing the proceedings of the University.

Held, that the candidates in both the cases have suffered a serious prejudice, because of the vagueness of the charge, and the absence of a proper enquiry. The charge framed was so defective that no proper opportunity should be deemed to have been given to the candidates to meet it.

The University authorities ought to have made an adequate preliminary enquiry into all the circumstances implied in the charge of copying before framing the charges. The order by the University thereby violated the principles of natural justice, and deserved to be quashed. 76 Mad L W 760 : I L R (1964) 1 Mad 244 : (1964) 2 Mad L J 336 : AIR 1964 Mad 460 (461) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial order — University — Disciplinary matters — Misconduct by students at University Examination — Orders of rustication by University authorities—Nature of—Whether open to scrutiny by Court — Natural justice—Meaning of — Karnatak University Act (Bom. Act 20 of 1949), S. 49.

Universities are autonomous statutory bodies and Courts generally refrain from interfering with their actions except in cases where they clearly act in excess of their powers or act in disregard or in violation of their duty to act justly and fairly in cases where exercise of power is likely to prejudicially affect persons in respect of whom they exercise that power. Even in matters of the latter category, they do not in all respects resemble Courts of law nor are they required to follow strictly the procedure of Courts. Their actions cannot fully bear the character of judicial acts and all of them may rightly be described as being purely administrative in nature.

Nevertheless, the nature of the power, the circumstances in which it is exercised or required to be exercised, the object with which the law entrusts an authority with such power and the relationship between the authority exercising the power and the person or individual against whom it is sought to be exercised, may be of such a nature as to impose upon the authority the duty to adopt a particular type of approach and apply certain standards resembling in essential particulars the approach and standards which a judicial tribunal ordinarily adopts. Those are circumstances in which it could properly be stated that the authority is required by law to act judicially. This duty to act judicially cannot be ignored for reason only of the fact that the particular act or function of the authority is purely administrative in nature. Likewise, although the exercise of a certain administrative power may have to be done in a manner simulating judicial standards, such power nonetheless continues to be administrative in character. The function of the administrative authority in the circumstances of this nature is described as quasi-judicial for want of a better term.

The expression 'natural justice' commonly used by Courts and lawyers clearly connotes two distinct but closely related ideas. It comprises or suggests certain principles which may be described as immutable and which require an authority exercising power likely to affect others prejudicially to act justly to reach just ends by just means. It also has reference to the form of rules of procedure to be observed by the authority exercising that power. In this regard, the essential point to note is that no man should be condemned without being given an opportunity to meet the case sought to be made against him and render his explanations. The exact procedure to be followed has to be ascertained from the conditions governing the constitution of the body or authority exercising that power and the statute and statutory rules governing that body or authority and regulating its actions and procedure. But if the statute or the rules themselves do not indicate or lay down any particular procedure, the duty to act judicially in the manner stated above also involves the duty of determining the proper procedure to be followed such as will enable the authority fairly and justly to exercise its power.

When power is conferred to lay down the rules of conduct to be observed by others which define and provide for punishment of misconduct or misdemeanours, the exercise of that power necessarily imports a duty to act justly and fairly.

In the light of the express purpose of establishing Universities and the objects they are intended to achieve, in exercising their power of enforcing discipline and meting out punishment for that purpose, Universities are under a clear duty to act justly and fairly.

From the point of view of the University or authorities which exercise the powers of the University in proceedings against a student for an alleged delinquency, (in this case malpractice at the university examination) it is thus clear though they may not be required to function exactly in a manner in which ordinary Courts of law function and they may mould their procedure according to the circumstances of each case, they are not free to proceed in a manner which cannot be supported in Courts as just and fair in the circumstances of the case. From the point of view of a student, he should have such notice or information about the facts and circumstances on the strength of which action is sought to be taken against him as to afford him a full and fair opportunity of meeting that case.

There is certain difference between cases where the alleged malpractice takes place and is detected in the examination hall itself and cases where the University subsequently comes to entertain a suspicion that a student has resorted to such practices in relation to an examination. In the former case it is open to argue that any formal or further enquiry beyond the immediate detection of the malpractice in the examination hall may not be necessary. Where the student is caught in the very act of committing the malpractice or misconduct and is at once confronted with the facts and circumstances constituting such malpractice or misconduct, the position in a majority of cases would be one in which he has a fair and full opportunity of explaining himself and in the absence of his being able to furnish any satisfactory explanation he may be said to stand self condemned.

However, there is one important aspect of this matter which should not be lost sight of. The peculiar atmosphere of an examination hall when an examination is in actual progress which keeps students answering the examination in a state of tension or anxiety, the temptations to which they may conceivably lay themselves open of seeking some source of assistance to their memory to be able to answer the questions fully and correctly, and the mental attitude of the invigilators or supervisors which cannot but be coloured to some extent at least by the natural human difficulty of completely clearing an attitude of vigilance from a trace of suspicion may in some cases lead to a consequence in which a really innocent student appears like a culprit. This possibility taken along with the fact that in such circumstances an invigilator exercising the power of the Syndicate may at once expel a student from the Examination Hall places upon the invigilator the heavy responsibility of approaching such cases with a clam and dispassionate attitude and affording the suspected student a full and fair opportunity of dispelling the suspicion. 1963 Mys L J 408 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—University debarring candidate from appearing at degree examination—Order quashed.

Where the University comes to entertain suspicion about the candidate having adopted some malpractice in respect of the answer papers submitted by him at a degree examination, it is only fit and proper that the candidate who is so suspected should have a full and fair opportunity to defend himself and offer explanation, if any, which might succeed in dispelling the suspicions entertained against him. Without any such reasonable opportunity being given, to brand the candidate with the stigma of having adopted unfair means which casts a slur on his character for the rest of his life is a serious matter. If the enquiry committee instead of enquiring and coming to certain conclusions of fact proceeds to subject the candidate to a memory test without telling him why he was being subjected to such severe test it is a negation of the ideas of justice. Held that the order of the University of Mysore debarring the candidate from appearing for the B. Sc. Degree Examination for a period of two years commencing from April 1960, should be quashed as what the committee had reported was not a finding of fact but a statement of suspicion in the form of an opinion. 39 Mys L J 202: ILR (1961) Mys 114 : A I R 1961 Mys 164 (166) (Prs 8, 9, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—College Principal—Authority in disciplinary matters — If absolute — Aggrieved student should get opportunity of being heard.

A review of the Indian decisions shows a divergence of view from the English and American authorities as to whether an order of expulsion or restriction passed by the head of an educational institution against an offending pupil would be a quasi-judicial act or purely administrative act. The majority view which is based on the judgment of Bose J. (in A I R 1952 Cal 594) seems to be that it is a quasi-Judicial act. But whether it is a quasi-judicial act or administrative act, the majority view of the High Courts seems to be that the student concerned should get a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the proposed punishment. Even in respect of such administrative acts the rules of natural justice embodied in the maxim audi alteram partem should be complied with. (1959) 1 O J D 195 : I L R (1959) Cut 311 : AIR 1959 Orissa 196 (202, 203) (Pt D) (Prs 20, 24) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Expulsion of student from college—Opportunity of being heard—Duty of principal—(Orissa Education Code, Art. 107).

Art. 107 of the Orissa Education Code requires that the guardian is under an obligation to withdraw his ward if the Principal decides that such withdrawal is necessary. While passing an order expelling the pupil, there should be a decision to that effect by the Principal. The order of expulsion is in the nature of a quasi-judicial act and the Principal must hear the student concerned and give him an opportunity to defend himself. ILR (1959) Cut 311 : (1959) 1 O J D 195 : AIR 1959 Orissa 196 (203, 204) (Pt E) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Expulsion of students from college — Rules of natural justice not observed —Interference.

The High Court is justified in interfering with an order of expulsion passed as a disciplinary measure by the Principal of an Educational Institution against a student. The Principal who is a quasi-public officer did not observe the rules of natural justice when he passed a drastic order of punishment on the pupil concerned. In such a case that order of punishment may be quashed and a direction prohibiting him from giving effect to his order, is permissible under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1954 S C 207 and AIR 1954 S C 440 and AIR 1959 S C 107, Rel. on. ILR (1959) Cut 311 : (1959) 1 O J D 195 : AIR 1959 Orissa 196 (204) (Pt F) (Prs 26, 27) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability—Statutory body—School Examination Board — Order punishing candidate for misconduct without notice—Power of High Court to interfere—(Bihar Act (7 of 1952), S. 6).

The Bihar School Examination Board in holding an examination under the statutory powers given by S. 6 of Bihar Act 7 of 1952 and in punishing the misconduct of candidates in the course of examination is acting as an administrative body and is not acting in a quasi-judicial capacity. There is no question of any lis between the parties and the principle of audi alteram partem does not apply in this case. Hence the Board is not bound as a matter of law to give notice to a candidate before coming to a finding that he is guilty of misconduct and thereafter taking action for punishing him for this misconduct. But this proposition is subject to the petitioner showing that the Board has acted arbitrarily, capriciously, mala fide or from any extraneous consideration. AIR 1957 Bom 246 and AIR 1958 All 503 and AIR 1952 Mad 151, Rel. on. 1958 B L J R 712 : AIR 1959 Pat 224 (224) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Expulsion from college.

The authority of the head of an educational institution to expel a scholar is not unfettered or uncontrolled but it is subject to the limitations (a) that he is not to exercise his power of expulsion arbitrarily and on grounds that are not reasonable, and (b) that a solitary instance of misconduct would ordinarily not merit summary expulsion from the institution. This second condition should depend upon the nature of the misconduct in the circumstances of a particular case because a solitary instance of misconduct may be of such a grave and serious nature that it by itself may be a complete justification for the expulsion of a scholar from the institution.

Held, on the facts of the case, that the principal was not justified in expelling the petitioner on the solitary instance of misconduct that the petitioner wrote the letter to a girl-student, and that the principal did not act in a reasonable manner but rather acted contrary to the principles of natural justice in condemning the petitioner unheard. In this dealing with the case and ordering expulsion of the petitioner the principal not having acted on reasonable grounds did exceed his authority to expel the petitioner. In this view the order of expulsion of the petitioner was liable to be quashed by the issue of a writ of certiorari. ILR (1954) Patiala 414 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 151 (152, 153, 156) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 13).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Standing Committee of University finding petitioner guilty of using unfair means in examination—Report of expert relied on by Standing Committee — Petitioner not informed of existence of report — Order of Standing Committee disqualifying petitioner for two years- Order held could not be allowed to stand and must be set aside. 67 Pun L R 693 : AIR 1966 Punj 152 (155) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ against educational institution—Expulsion of school-boy for alleged misconduct and refusal to allow him to appear at annual examination —Principles of natural justice—Applicability—Order of expulsion passed without giving opportunity of hearing—Order quashed. AIR 1959 Orissa 196; AIR 1950 S C 222; AIR 1962 S C 1110 and 1964 A C 40, Rel. on; AIR 1956 All 46, Held Overruled impliedly by AIR 1962 S C 1110. 67 Pun L R 901 : ILR (1965) 2 Punj 826 : 1965 Cur L J 620 : AIR 1965 Punj 507 (508, 510) (Prs 4, 7, 8, 11, 13, 14) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226—Natural justice—Educational institution—Malpractice by examinee—Enquiry into—Procedure to be followed by University authorities—Right of examinee to be heard—Statement of examinee obtained first—Statements of Superintendent and supervisor at examination centre obtained subsequently—No opportunity to rebut subsequent prejudicial statements of superintendent and supervisor given to examinee — Decision prejudicial to examinee taken on basis of supervisor's and superintendent's statements—Rules of natural justice violated—Order quashed.

Per Full Bench : It will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case whether the rule of natural justice has been complied with by the University authorities by affording an adequate opportunity to a candidate to present his case against the charge or allegation of malpractice at the examination made against him. In the absence of any regulations having been framed by the University prescribing the procedure to be followed in such cases, it can certainly prescribe and follow its own procedure so long as the fundamental rule mentioned above is complied with. It is always open to the examinee to ask for more information or details with regard to the material or evidence which may be sought to be used against him and normally if he makes a request in that behalf the University authorities, in order to inform him adequately of the case he has to meet as also to afford him proper opportunity of presenting his case, would supply him the necessary particulars or details of the evidence. In the very nature of things no hard and fast rule can be laid down and so long as the Court is satisfied that the opportunity which was afforded to the examinee at all times and all stages was adequate and sufficient, it will not interfere with any orders prejudicial to him which may have been made by the University authorities. (1960) 1 All E R 631, Rel. on. Unless there is justification to do so, Courts should be slow to interfere with the decisions of domestic Tribunals appointed by educational bodies like Universities. AIR 1966 S C 875, Foll.

Held, that the order of the University must be quashed as rules of natural justice were violated in the case. The opportunity that was to be given to the candidate was to be a reality and before he could meet his case and give a proper explanation, he should have been told not only what was going to be considered against him but also the persons who were giving information against him. He might have been able to show to the authorities concerned that the statement made by a particular person was not worthy of credence for certain reasons, besides showing that the statement was incorrect. As the statements were recorded behind the back of the appellant, which were prejudicial and which were not brought even to his notice, he could not be said to have got this adequate opportunity : Civil Writ No. 1332 of 1963, dated 24-10-1963 (Punj), Reversed. Ramesh Kapur v. Punjab University, 1964 Cur L J 560 : ILR (1964) 2 Punj 954 : 67 Pun L R 101 : AIR 1965 Punj 120 (126, 127, 128) (Prs 12, 15, 16, 17, 25, 26) (FB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation—Disqualification of University student — Disqualification on basis of statement made by student himself—Disqualification challenged on ground of violation of rules of natural justice, alleging that statement was not voluntary and that no opportunity was given to establish that it was involuntary — Facts disclosing that allegation was not true and that opportunity was never claimed—Held, there was no violation of rules of natural justice — No interference in writ proceedings. ('65) 67 Punj L R 518.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard—Petitioner examinee not given any opportunity to be heard nor was case against him explained, before disqualification — Rules of natural justice completely violated—Disqualification, held illegal. 1965 Cur L J 182 (Punj).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Using unfair means in examination — Suspected candidate not given opportunity to show cause against action to be taken against him on basis of report submitted by Superintendent in charge of examination — Controversy about facts reported by Superintendent — Action in disqualifying candidate held not valid — Punjab University Calendar, Part I, (1961), Rr. 10, 11.

Held, on facts, that the action of the Committee in disqualifying the candidate as provided in Regulation 11 of the Punjab University Calendar without giving an adequate opportunity to him to show cause against the action to be taken against him, was not valid. A I R 1962 S C 1110, Foll ; 64 Punj L R 944, Dist. 65 Punj L R 632 : A I R 1963 Punj 480 (481, 482, 483) (Prs 5, 7).

78 (a) (ii). Disciplinary proceedings against servants.

■ ——Art. 226—Administrative Tribunal — Disciplinary proceedings for terminating services of employee — Procedure in proceedings must conform to principles of natural justice — Procedure cannot be short-circuited on considerations of expediency not permitted by law. See Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act (9 of 1948), S. 4 (1). (1965) 2 S C A 226 : (1965) 11 Fac L R 72 : (1965) 2 Lab L J 112 : (1965) 2 S C W R 1142 : 1966 Cri L J 189 : A I R 1966 S C 282.

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice — Reasonable opportunity — Requirement of oral enquiry under R. 55 of Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules is mandatory. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2) (prior to Constitution (Fifteenth Amendment) Act, 1963). (1965) 2 S C W R 667 : 1965 M P L J 941 : A I R 1966 S C 269.

● ——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Natural justice — Rules of — Procedure — Employee charged with misconduct — Elaborate cross-examination of employee at commencement of enquiry constitutes infirmity—Desirability of intimating employee about date of inquiry — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1) (d). (1963) 2 Lab L J 396 (SC).

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation of principle of — (U. P. Town Improvement Act (8 of 1919), S. 19)—(Constitution of India, Art. 311).

Where an employee of an Improvement Trust was dismissed from service by the Chairman of the Trust and the plaintiff was aware of the charges which had been laid against him and he submitted written explanations in regard to them and further he was given an opportunity to make any oral submissions that he wished to make before the Chairman in the presence of his main accuser, the Trust Engineer and there was nothing to indicate that the plaintiff sought any opportunity to call any evidence in his defence and that opportunity was denied to him.

Held, that the plaintiff had that opportunity to which he was entitled, to show cause against the charges made against him under the rules of natural justice and the power which was exercised in the case by the Chairman in dismissing him from service was in no way open to challenge. Mohammad Ahamad Kidwai v. Chairman Improvement Trust, Lucknow, 1958 All L J 160 : 1958 All W R (H C) 242 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 281 : I L R (1957) 2 All 280 : A I R 1958 All 353 (356, 359, 360) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 28) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Opportunity to show cause, meaning of — Case under Art. 311 — It does not only mean to permit an employee to file his explanation but implies power to give opportunity to employee to summon his witnesses and to produce evidence and to cross-examine witnesses — If when changes were initially investigated and employee had been given full opportunity he will not be entitled to a further opportunity to recall witnesses or to have second opportunity to cross-examine witnesses. See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1957 All 634.

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of public servant—Powers of Government—Enquiry—Stages—Reasonable opportunity, is question of fact. See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 414.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Preliminary enquiry before charge sheet — Right of police officer charged to demand enquiry. See U. P. Police Regulations, R. 490. A I R 1957 All 217.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Madras Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules — Non-compliance—Effect—Issue of writ. See Madras Civil Services (Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal) Rules, R. 8. A I R 1961 Andh Pra 289.

——Art. 226 — Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920)—Rules under, R. 13 (2) (ii) (b)—Termination of services of teacher — Procedure to be followed indicated—Improper order of termination—Executive ratifying order—Essentials of justice and fair play held denied. See Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920). A I R 1961 Andh Pra 178.

——Art. 226—Administrative Tribunal — Quasi-judicial proceedings—Police Official — Disciplinary proceedings — Punishment confirmed in appeal—Denial of opportuniy by appellate authority to appellant to be heard in person — Appellate order being quasi-judicial cannot be upheld. AIR 1963 Assam 183 (184) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative body—Board of Examiners—Board investigating cases of misconduct—Functions are quasi-judicial - Candidate to have reasonable opportunity of explanation — Procedure and penalty are within Board's jurisdiction. AIR 1955 N U C (Andhra) 5823.

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Municipal employee—Dismissal on account of mala fide conduct — Relief under Art. 226.

With a view to gaining an advantage to himself, the petitioner a municipal employee, without an order from his superior officer, entered his name in the register of permanent employees which he had no right to do. A charge in this respect was duly framed against him and he was served with a copy of the charge. He was given an opportunity to explain his conduct. An enquiry was duly held in the presence of the petitioner. The matter was gone into again by the two appellate authorities and the final appellate authority, namely the Deputy Commissioner, held that the conduct of then petitioner was mala fide.

Held, that, the petitioner having had fair and reasonable opportunity to show cause against the action which was proposed to be taken against him, no case was made out for any relief under Art. 226. 1958 Nag L J 111 : 60 Bom L R 767 : I L R (1960) Bom 225 : A I R 1958 Bom 260 (262) (Pt F) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Domestic Tribunal—Departmental proceedings against Government servant — Reasonable opportunity of showing cause — Scope of reasonable enquiry. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1966 Cal 42 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Adequate opportunity — Enquiry against Railway servant — Prayer by servant to examine material witnesses — Refusal of, on ground of non-disclosure of points on which he wanted to examine them — Held, servant was not bound to make such disclosure before hand—Servant was, therefore, prejudiced by refusal. (1965) 10 Fac L R 263 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Departmental inquiry—Natural justice—Violation of—Time of 48 hours given to delinquent to submit his explanation to charges — Petitioner not asking for more time nor complaining about it — It is too late for him to contend in writ proceedings that rules of natural justice were violated—Personal hearing not necessary again in the matter of proposed penalty. (1962) 5 Fac L R 57 : 67 Cal W N 361 : A I R 1963 Cal 116 (121) (Pt C) (Pr 31).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari, writ of — Administrative Tribunal—Natural justice—Fair hearing does not include right of personal hearing — Calcutta Dock Labour Board — Disciplinary procedure affecting registered dock worker — Dock worker proceeded against cannot insist upon being personally heard in terms of Cl. 45 (6) of Calcutta Dock Workers Scheme of 1956—Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act (1948), S. 4 (1)—Calcutta Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Scheme (1956), Cls. 45 (5) and (6)—Administrative Tribunal — Natural justice. AIR 1962 Cal 411 (414) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Suspension of servant of Sabha — Administrative Committee acts as quasi-judicial body —Must follow rules of natural justice — Hearing not given — Order of suspension affecting emoluments held invalid. See C. P. and Berar Local Government Act (38 of 1948), S. 70 (2). 1961 Jab L J 980.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Enquiry against Railway servant—Servant expressing satisfaction with manner of enquiry, on being questioned by enquiry authority—Held, enquiry would not be characterised as being violative of principles of natural justice, in writ petition — Disciplinary authority could consider whether it was fair or not. I L R (1965) 1 Ker 536.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Railway servant — Charge-sheet calling upon servant to show cause against punishment and also granting oral enquiry if desired by him—Held, calling upon servant to show cause against punishment did not amount to prejudging of the issue and oral enquiry could not be termed as mere farce. I L R (1965) 1 Ker 536.

—— Arts. 226 and 311—Order of punishment—Order by Public Service Commission debarring clerk from service — Validity — Principles of natural justice — (Travancore-Cochin Public Service Commission Business Rules, R. 5). See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1958 Ker 352.

——Art. 226 — Domestic tribunal — Disciplinary action—Right of hearing.

Even a quasi-judicial tribunal is not bound to give an oral hearing to a person before it proceeds to pass an order adverse to him. It is enough if it affords him sufficient opportunity for stating his case. 1958 Ker L T 48 ; 1958 Ker L J 538 : AIR 1958 Ker 164 (165) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — Non-applicability.

Where an order of discharge of an employee is in fact an order terminating his services under the general law of master and servant after due notice the rules of natural justice do not apply. I L R (1960) Madh Pra 550 : 1961 Jab L J 1103 : 1962 M P C 105 : 1962 M P L J 835 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 239 : AIR 1961 Madh Pra 351 (353) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Punishment in departmental enquiries —High Court cannot interfere with—Personal hearing not permissible at every stage of enquiry.

In departmental enquiries, in the matter of punishment, High Court cannot substitute its own judgment for the judgment of the authority competent to impose appropriate punishment.

When the applicant was given a personal hearing before the enquiring Officer, there is no rule or regulation under which he would be entitled to a personal hearing at every stage. There is no rule of natural justice also that at every stage a person is entitled to a personal hearing. A I R 1957 S C 648, Rel. on. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 249.

——Art. 226—Master and servant—Natural justice—Employee convicted of an offence by criminal Court —Employer dismissing employee in conformity with relevant rule on subject—No failure of natural justice —Separate enquiry before dismissal not necessary. (1964) 2 Mad L J 349.

——Art. 226—Master and servant — Extreme penalty of dismissal inflicted on servant — Rule laying down punishment of dismissal when not mandatory — Employer would be well advised to give opportunity to employee to prove past good conduct—But in such matter it was doubtful whether jurisdiction of High Court could be invoked under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. (1964) 2 Mad L J 349 : I L R (1964) 1 Mad 589 : 77 Mad L W 348 : 1964 Mad L J (Cr) 579.

—— Art. 226—Natural justice — Reasonable opportunity to defend — Meaning of — Enquiry into misconduct of employee — Employee not apprised of material on which charges framed — No reasonable opportunity for defence — Time for preparation of defence — Insufficiency — Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 41 (1).

An employee against whom an enquiry is conducted on charge of misconduct does not get a reasonable opportunity to defend himself where no indication is given to him that the statements of witnesses recorded behind his back are going to be relied on against him. He cannot ask for cross-examining the witnesses in respect of their statements. Reasonable opportunity means not only framing of charges and asking for explanation but much more. He must be apprised of the material on which the charges were framed so that he could have a proper opportunity of testing or challenging that material so far as would be possible for him.

Similarly, the employee would not get a reasonable opportunity to prepare himself for his defence if he is informed at 12 noon that an enquiry would be held into the charges at 6 P. M. on the same day.

Such an enquiry also does not conform with the requirements of S. 41 (1) of the Madras Shops and Establishments Act. Section 41 (1) contemplates an enquiry at which evidence is recorded and not the investigation stage at which ex parte statements are recorded from possible witnesses behind the back of the person charged with misconduct. The sub-section contemplates that any material gathered outside the enquiry, or not at the enquiry cannot be the foundation for finding a charge to be proved. (1962) 2 Lab L J 482 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 193 : AIR 1963 Mad 76 (78) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8).

——Art 226 —Natural justice — What is — Effect of contravention of—Non-compliance with Rr. 5 and 5A of Madras District Boards Rules, 1920 — No opportunity given to employee for being heard upon charges on basis of which he was removed—Even if Rules did not apply, principles of natural justice were violated. See Madras District Boards Rules (1920), R. 5. (1957) 2 Mad L J 406 : AIR 1958 Mad 211.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of—Railway servant — Termination of services except as punishment is not covered by Art. 311 or S. 240 of Government of India Act, 1935—To such matters civil Court does not sit in appeal over decision of departmental authorities — Strict laws of evidence do not apply—Public servant can file suit where there is violation of constitutional right, or statutory provisions of law or rules of natural justice — General rule is that the service is during the pleasure of the Government, that it is protected only to the extent and within limits prescribed by relevant statutes while the Courts will take care to see that the cardinal requirements prescribed by the statute are fulfilled and the principles of natural justice have not been violated and the public servant has had a fair deal. Equally the Court will have discretion to refuse in suitable cases a declaration based on the well-settled principles applicable to specific relief. See Ibid, Art. 311. ('57) 70 Mad L W 965.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Departmental enquiry against Municipal servant — Principles of natural justice—Violation of —Effect. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1957 Orissa 222 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Reduction of Government servant—Proceedings in contravention of R. 55, Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules — Finding arrived at in violation of natural justice inasmuch as no reasonable opportunity for defending was given to delinquent officer — Statement of witnesses recorded behind back of Govt. servant both before and after framing charge — Government servant demanding opportunity to adduce defence evidence — Show cause notice under Art. 311 (2), not giving date, hour or place of enquiry — In fact no notice of enquiry given — Finding that charges were proved — Whole proceeding held was in violation of the rules codified in R. 55, C. S. (C. C. & A.) Rules, 1930 and also the principles of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1957 Orissa 184.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1612.]

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of Government servant without giving personal hearing—Order held illegal. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1956 Orissa 103.

—— Art 226—Order transferring services to original post prejudicial—Servant must be heard, before passing such order. AIR 1965 Pat 417 (421, 422, 423) (Prs 7, 8, 9, 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Departmental enquiry—Police Manual, Rule 851 (b) — Appellate Authority can pass orders which the original authority could have passed—Original authority reverting petitioner though he could have ordered dismissal — Appeal to State Government — State Govt. can order dismissal—But before doing so, it must give notice to petitioner that it proposed to inflict higher penalty — In the absence of any provision in this respect in Police Manual, general principles of natural justice, namely giving opportunity to be heard before passing adverse order, has to be observed—No fresh show cause notice given—Order of dismissal is ultra vires and illegal. See Police Manual, R. 851 (b). AIR 1962 Pat 276 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Practice prevailing in District Board under B. & O. Local Self-Govt Act is that charges are framed and employee concerned is asked to explain them within specified period and after consideration of explanation action resulting in punishment or acquittal is taken — In the absence of statutory rule, the practice is consistent with rules of natural justice. See Bihar and Orissa Local Self-Government Act (3 of 1885), S. 32 (g). AIR 1957 Pat 333 (DB).

——Art 226 — Power of removal of copyist, exercised by Dist. Judge under R. 8, Patna H. C. General Rules and Circular Orders (Civil) Vol. 1, Part. II, Chap. II, is not purely administrative but quasi-judicial — Though R. 8 is silent as to procedure to be followed, notice has to be given to party affected — Audi alteram partem — Violation of principle — Issue of writ of certiorari — See High Court Rules and Orders — Patna High Court General Rules and Circular Orders, Civil Vol. I, Part II, Chap. II, R. 8. AIR 1956 Pat 257.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard — Petitioner refusing to comply with direction of University — University passing orders in writing disqualifying petitioner from examinership for three years—Petitioner not given opportunity to defend himself—Held, that the action of the University involved exercise of quasi-judicial function and that the petitioner should have been given opportunity of being heard. See Punjab University Act (1961) Regulation VII, Cl. 1. ILR (1965) 1 Punj 704 : 1965 Cur L J 197.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Disciplinary action against employee — Reasonable opportunity calling upon delinquent employee to show cause forthwith is not reasonable opportunity.

Where an employee, against whom disciplinary action is proposed to be taken is asked to put forth his defence and show cause against the proposed punishment forthwith after the report of the Enquiry Officer is received, without giving him reasonable time to consider the report and, if necessary to consult his friends and advisers it cannot be said that the employee was given a reasonable opportunity of being heard and it must be held in such a case that there was a violation of the rules of natural justice. Statutory opportunity according to law has to be reasonably afforded to the employee at both the steps i. e. when the charge sheet is given and before the proposed disciplinary action is taken. The punishing authority has to apply its independent judicial mind in considering whether the opportunity claimed on the facts and circumstances of a particular case is reasonable. 1965 Cur L J 104 (Punj) : AIR 1965 Punj 342 (345, 346) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Government coming to conclusion behind back of employee that a particular employee is unfit for municipal employment — Effect. See Municipalities Act (3 of 1911), S. 41. AIR 1960 Punj 554 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2) — Discretion — Interference — Railway Establishment Code, R. 1721-A — Appellate authority — Discretion to give personal hearing.

Rule 1721-A does contemplate a personal hearing, but it merely permits the appellate authority to give the Railway servant concerned either at his (authority's) discretion or if so requested by the appellant, a personal hearing, before disposing of the appeal. In so far as the exercise of discretion by the appellate authority is concerned it is idle to contend that the High Court can, under Art. 226 of the Constitution, control the exercise of discretionary power at the instances of the petitioner. AIR 1959 Punj 643 (645) (Pt C) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Removal of municipal member on ground of his abusing position as member — Member is entitled to be informed of reasons of his proposed removal and to be afforded opportunity of tendering explanation. See Municipalities Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 14 (a). AIR 1960 Punj 186 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Removal of servant — Applicability of principle of natural justice. AIR 1958 Punj 402 (406) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Saurashtra District Police (Amendment) Act (23 of 1951), Ss. 47-B and 47-E—Notice to petitioner under S. 47E containing allegation—No evidence before District Magistrate who passed order under S. 47-B against petitioner—Held that the petitioner had no reasonable opportunity of tendering an explanation in respect of the same and hence the order was not justified—See Saurashtra District Police (Amendment) Act (23 of 1951), S. 47-B. AIR 1953 Sau 92.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Panch of Gram Panchayat removed by Collector without giving him opportunity to explain facts — Order set aside — (Vindhya Pradesh Gram Panchayat Ordinance (1949), S. 48). AIR 1955 N U C (Vin.Pra) 5785.

78 (a) (iii). Labour disputes.

● ——Art. 226 — Enquiry by management — Representation — Workmen entitled by standing order to representation only by representative of recognized Union — Workmen insisting on assistance of representative of their unrecognized Union with a view indirectly to obtain recognition to Union—Principle of natural justice is not violated by refusal of such request.

In holding domestic enquiries, reasonable opportunity should be given to the delinquent employees to meet the charge framed against them and it is desirable that at such an enquiry the employees should be given liberty to represent their case by persons of their choice, if there is no standing order against such a course being adopted and if there is nothing otherwise objectionable in the said request. But where the standing orders of a company provide that at domestic enquiries only a representative of a union which is registered under the Indian Trade Union Act and is recognized by the company can assist, there can be no denial of natural justice if the request of the workmen who insist to be assisted by a representative of their own unrecognized union with the object of indirectly obtaining recognition to their union is rejected. AIR 1960 S C 914 and (1961) 2 Lab L J 417 (S C), Foll. Dunlop Rubber Co. (India) Ltd. v. Their Workmen, (1965) 1 Lab L J 426 : (1964-65) 27 F J R 321 : (1965) 1 S C W R 885 : AIR 1965 S C 1392 (1395, 1396) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10).

■ ——Art. 226 — Natural justice –Industrial dispute — Misconduct of worker — Enquiry by management — Requirements as to. Meenglas Tea Estate v. The Workmen, (1963) 7 Fac L R 106 : (1963) 2 S C W R 102 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 392 : (1963-64) 25 F J R 150: (1964) 1 S C J 98 : 1964 S C C 142 : (1964) 2 S C R 1965 : AIR 1963 S C 1719 (1719, 1720) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Industrial dispute relating to appointment to higher post on officiating basis — Worker appointed not heard — Management defending his case – No violation of principle of natural justice. See U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 19 (1). (1965) 10 Fac L R 199 (All).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principles of — Applicability — Industrial dispute — Inquiry. See C. P. and Berar Industrial Disputes Settlement Act (23 of 1947), S. 22 (4). AIR 1959 Bom 473 (DB).

——Art. 226 –Evidence Act (1872), S. 3 — Industrial Tribunal is a "Court" and must observe the rules of natural justice. AIR 1950 Mad 834, Overruled and held no longer good law in view of decision in AIR 1950 S C 188. A I R 1966 Cal 504 (507, 508) (Pt A) (Prs 22, 23) (DB).

——Art. 226 –Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 12— Award by Industrial Tribunal refusing reinstatement of a dismissed workman and allowing compensation — Principles of natural justice and of law not followed in deciding the matter—Award held properly quashed. 1965 Ker L J 1151.

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunals—Natural justice.

Where a labour officer, by virtue of directions in an award passed in terms of compromise between parties, is authorised to do something which he is not bound to do under the statute, he becomes a domestic tribunal and as such he is under an obligation to observe principles of natural justice, and the non-observance thereof (absence of notice to parties likely to be affected) is fatal to the legality of the parts of the report by the labour officer affecting such parties. Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. IX, pp. 580 and 581, Ref. 1960 Ker L J 999: (1960) 2 Lab L J 523 : 1961 Ker L T 223 : AIR 1961 Ker 265 (268) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice — Industrial dispute—Preliminary issue—Notes of arguments received behind back of party — No opportunity given to that party to meet contentions advanced in notes — Principles of natural justice vitiated.

Where a labour Court received written arguments on the preliminary issue from one party, but without notice to the other party, and no opportunity was afforded to the other party to meet the contentions advanced in the notes of arguments, in spite of an application by the other party in that behalf, the order of the labour Court on the preliminary issue was clearly vitiated for non-observance of the principles of natural justice. In matters like this, the true principle is, not whether the Labour Court was really influenced by the notes of arguments submitted to it, but whether there was possibility of its being influenced. (1963-64) 26 F J R 324: (1963) 1 Mys L J 200 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 235 (1963) 7 Fac LR 301 : AIR 1963 Mys 206 (207) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability — Direction by Central Government to comply with provisions of Employees Provident Funds Act—Opportunity to employer not given — Remedy of employer. Section 19-A does not provide for any enquiry into the matter before the Central Government and does not lay down that the employer is to be given an opportunity to present his case before Government. It only enables the Central Government to issue certain directions in case of any difficulty or doubts and such directions are to be considered final. Employer can defend himself when proceedings are taken against him under S. 14 of the Act; writ of mandamus against Government cannot be issued. (1957-58) 12 F J R 115 (Punj).

78 (a) (iv). Hearing and decision by different bodies.

■ ——Art. 226 –Natural justice—Scheme proposed by Transport undertaking under S. 68C, Motor Vehicles Act—Hearing by State Government under S. 68D (2) of the Act — Minister in charge, directing Secretary to Government to hear objections under S. 68D (2) —Secretary giving personal hearing to parties—Entire material received by him put before the Minister in charge, who made his order approving the scheme —Order issued in name of Governor, authenticated by the Secretary in charge — It must be held the State Government gave hearing to parties — But such hearing given by Secretary offends principle of natural justice that authority empowered to decide dispute must be one without bias and proceedings and hearing given in violation of that principle are bad. 1959 SCJ 967 : (1959) 2 MLJ (SC) 156 : (1959) 2 An W R (SC) 156: AIR 1959 SC 308 (322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 333, 334, 338, 339, 340, 341) (Pt E) (Prs 21, 22, 27, 30, 31, 47, 49, 50, 61, 63, 67).

■ ——Art. 226 –Natural justice –Appellant taxed by assessing authority on instructions from superior authority — Failure to give opportunity to meet opinion of superior authority — Validity of assessment.

Held, that the order which the Commercial Tax Officer ultimately passed showed that he was merely voicing the opinion of the Assistant Commissioner without any conviction of his own. It was clear that the Commercial Tax Officer did not exercise his own judgment in the matter and faithfully followed the instructions conveyed to him by the Assistant Commissioner without giving the appellant an opportunity to meet the points urged against him. The whole procedure was contrary to the principles of natural justice. The procedure adopted was unfair and was calculated to undermine the confidence of the public in the impartial and fair administration of the sales tax department concerned. Mahodayal Premchand v. Commercial Tax Officer, 1959 S C R 551: (1958) 9 S T C 428 : 1958 SCJ 728 : (1958) 2 Andh W R (SC) 93 : (1958) 2 Mad L J (SC) 93 : AIR 1958 SC 667 (670, 671) (Pt A) (Prs 18, 19).

——Art. 226—Order of Commissioner setting aside sale under U. P. Z. A. and L. R. Rules, R. 285-I, on ground of irregularity in sale proclamation—Order, however, failing to record finding that party had suffered substantial injury—Order reversed by Government under S. 219 of Land Revenue Act without hearing petitioner —Held order of Government contravened para 913 of Revenue Manual read with R. 119 of Revenue Court Manual and also violated principles of natural justice and omission of Commissioner to record finding as to substantial injury was not sufficient for not interfering with impugned order—See U. P. Land Revenue Act (3 of 1901), S. 219. 1965 All W R (HC) 826.

—Art. 226 — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 11— Award prepared and filed — Land Acquisition Officer revising award at direction of his superior officer—

Second award is illegal—Principles of natural justice —Violation of — Observation on couduct of superior officer : See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 11. AIR 1962 All 61.

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice—Hearing petitioner—Proceedings under Motor Vehicles Act—Petitioner not heard — Full opportunity for redress available at appellate stage—If there was any defect in proceeding it was curable by procedure prescribed before Appellate Authority. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 3589.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Rejection of review petition without hearing petitioner — Principles of natural justice. See Tenancy Laws—U. P. Tenancy Act (17 of 1939), S. 273. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 1517.

——Art. 226 — The rule of natural justice that the parties should be heard.

U. P. Act 30 of 1953 is not invalid because a member of the Board of Revenue who has not heard the parties can sign concurrence to the judgment written by another who has heard the parties. See U. P. Board of Revenue (Declaration of Procedure and Validation) Act (30 of 1953). AIR 1954 All 660 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 215—Judgment of concurrence of one of members of Revenue Board quashed on ground that he did not hear parties—Case sent back to Board for disposal according to law—State Legislature Passing Act 30 of 1953, authorising Member who had not heard the parties to sign concurrence with judgment written by another member who had heard the parties — Judgment in case signed by another member purporting to act under the new Act — There is no disregarding the decision of the High Court—U. P. Board of Revenue (Declaration of Procedure and Validation) Act (30 of 1953).

Appeal before Revenue Board—One of the Members hearing parties writing judgment and sending it to another member for concurrence—The other member concurring and signing judgment without hearing parties — High Court in petition under Art. 226, quashing the judgment of the other member who had not heard the parties—Case going back to the Board for disposal according to law — Three days after the High Court decision, State Legislative passing U. P. Board of Revenue (Declaration of Procedure and Validation) Act, 1953—Under Act, hearing of parties by both Members of Board not necessary—Purporting to act under the Act, the judgment of Member who heard the parties sent to another Member for concurrence—Other member signing concurrence without giving opportunity to parties for being heard—In the circumstances of the case, held, that the Board could not be said to have disregarded the decision of the High Court upon the writ petition—This would have been the case had the new Act not intervened. 1954 All L J 656 : A I R 1954 All 660 (661) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Revenue Board setting aside sale without hearing auction-purchaser — Government directing Board to hear parties—Government order passed without hearing petitioner — Violation of — Principles of natural justice — Power of High Court to issue writs. See Hyderabad Land Revenue Act (8 of 1317-F), S. 166. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 7.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal of two members — After recording of evidence one retiring and another taking his place — Judgment on evidence recorded — No fixed quorum prescribed for Tribunal—Principle of natural justice held not violated, specially when no objection was raised before Tribunal. (1951) 1 Lab L J 621, Disting. (1959) 2 Lab L J 261 (Andh-Pra).

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial orders — Certiorari to quash—When will issue.

The State Government when making a declaration under S. 6, Land Acquisition Act, does not act in a quasi-judicial capacity. There is no duty cast upon the Government under the provisions of the Act or any rules framed thereunder to act judicially. There are no indications in the provisions of the Act to show that the Government while making up its mind to issue the declaration has to give opportunity to the parties concerned to produce evidence before it and decide the matter on consideration of the evidence before it. Hence no writ of certiorari can issue quashing the said declaration for non-observance of the principles of natural justice.

Under S. 5-A of the Act, the Legislature itself provides that the hearing is to be given by the Collector and the satisfaction is to be of the State Government after taking into consideration the report made by the Collector and if the hearing has been given by the Collector, there can be no violation of the principles of natural justice in the State Government not giving any hearing to the petitioner before making a declaration.

The Government acts judicially under Ss. 5-A and 6 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act and hence such an action must conform to the principles of natural justice. One of these principles is that a party whose civil rights are affected must have a reasonable opportunity of presenting its case. This principle is based on the maxim audi alteram partem, i.e., hear the other party. The requirement to give an oral hearing will depend on the circumstances of a particular case. In the instant case, the petitioner gets no opportunity of rebutting the Collector's report if it is against him or of supporting it, if it is in his favour unless he is given an opportunity of being orally heard. Where no opportunity was given a writ of certiorari should be granted for quashing the notification under S. 6 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act so that the same may be issued again if the objections of the petitioner are still rejected after he has an opportunity of being heard. M/s. Tinsukia Development Corporation, Ltd. v. State of Assam, AIR 1961 Assam 133 (141, 143, 144, 147, 148) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 21, 22, 39) (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 227— Principles of natural justice —Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 182.

Where it was the Assistant Collector of Customs, who gave a personal hearing to the party heard the arguments, but it was the Deputy Collector of Customs who passed the order of confiscation and imposition of penalty under the Sea Customs Act, without giving any further hearing to the party, it cannot be said that there has been proper compliance with the principles of natural justice. If one person hears evidence and arguments and another person decides, then such a procedure is destructive of the concept of a judicial hearing and defeats the object of a personal hearing. Personal hearing enables the authority concerned to watch the demeanour of the witnesses and clear up his doubts during the course of the arguments and the party appearing to persuade the authority by reasoned argument to accept his point of view. But if one person hears and another decides then personal hearing becomes an empty formality and such a procedure offends the basic principle of judicial procedure. A I R 1959 S C 308; 59 Cal W N 969, Foll. Even if there has been no actual prejudice caused to the person by reason of the principles of natural justice being violated still if it is established that there has been in fact any non-compliance of the principles of natural justice, the Court will have no hesitation in setting aside the act or order which is made in violation of natural justice. 1961 A C ——Art. 226—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 182 — Imported goods — Confiscation of — Adjudication proceedings—Personal hearings in — Hearing given by one officer — Order of confiscation passed by another officer — Principle of natural justice is not observed—Order can be challenged.

956, Appeal from Original Order No. 15 of 1959, Foll. (1964) 68 Cal W N 974.

Where a personal hearing is given in an adjudication, the person who hears cannot allow an enquiry to be held or evidence to be taken by another person and then pass the order on reading the records. The person to be heard is deprived of an opportunity of satisfying the person who passes the order. The words "personal hearing" connotes personal aspect both as regards the person heard and the person hearing. That is the principle of natural justice which indicates that personal hearing is not an empty formality.

Where, therefore, a personal hearing is given in an adjudication of confiscation of imported goods under S. 182 by the Assistant Collector of Customs and the order of confiscation is passed by the Deputy Collector who did not hear the importer in person, his order is impeachable on the ground of violation of the principle of natural justice. A I R 1959 S C 308, Foll ; App. No. 375 of 1956, dated 5-10-1956 (Bom), Not foll. (1963) 1 Cri L J 749 : A I R 1963 Cal 331 (335, 336) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226 — Controller has implied power of termination of appointment of registered stockist — Or of cancellation of declaration of controlled source — But in passing such order he must observe rules of natural justice. See Iron and Steel (Control) Order (1956), Cl. 4. ('63) 67 Cal W N 36:

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Hearing by one person — Decision by another not proper — Computation by Agricultural Income Tax Officer — Assessment by successor — Rule stated — Bengal Agricultural Income-tax Act (4 of 1944), S. 25 (3).

In the case of judicial proceedings, or proceedings which are in the nature of judicial proceedings, the ordinary rule is that one person cannot hear evidence and another person decide the case. But there may be special provisions made by statute dealing with exceptional cases. The very fact that it has been found necessary to make statutory provisions in exceptional cases shows that the normal rule is to the contrary. Normally, where we are to apply only the rules of natural justice, the procedure of one person hearing the party concerned and another person passing a judgment cannot be supported. So far as the Agricultural Income Tax Officer is concerned, he cannot be said to act judicially for all purposes. Apart from hearing evidence of certain description, he has also administrative duties. Mere computation of liability to pay tax is not a judicial act but an administrative act. If one officer has made a computation and left such exhaustive notes that a further computation was merely a mechanical process, that is say, a matter merely of arranging figures or computing them, then such a procedure should not be struck down. A computation of that description would merely be an administrative process and not judicial. But it the process involves not merely computation but the exercise of discrimination or the evaluation of any evidence, whether that of witnesses or documents, or a determination of issues upon which two views may be expressed, one in favour of the assessee and another against him, then it can no longer be called a mechanical computation, and in that event, no assessment is possible by a person who has not looked into the evidence or heard arguments. It is but obvious that there is a statutory duty to hear the assessee. Where there is involved a determination as to whether certain claims should be allowed or disallowed and even a determination as to the genuineness of the books of account. This cannot be considered as a mere computation. It may be that the procedure adopted by the succeeding officer was irregular but that cannot make his order a nullity, when he had jurisdiction both territorial and pecuniary to assess the assessee. 1962 Cal L J 18.

——Art. 226—Natural justice rule — Compliance — Delegation of authority — (Rules and Regulations of the State Medical Faculty of West Bengal, S. 6, R. 1).

Rule of natural justice demands that a person should not be condemned unheard. There is however no hard and fast rule governing such an enquiry. As long as it can fairly be inferred that the person charged with some omission or commission has been able to place his case before the enquiring authority, the rule is satisfied. Where statute provides that an individual or a body shall hear a dispute, it might be said that the hearing cannot be delegated. But where there is no such statutory provision, and a body which has to hear the disputed point is an unwieldy body, it is not illegal for it to appoint a smaller enquiry committee out of its members to go into the question and make its recommendation. The whole point is that the person involved must have a hearing. As long as he can fairly represent his case, the rule of natural justice is satisfied. Of course the enquiry committee cannot straight-away make an order. The recommendation must be made to the larger body and considered by them and the order must be their order.

Held that upon the facts of the case, the petitioner was given a full hearing and his case was adequately considered, not only by the enquiry committee but also by the Governing body of the State Medical Faculty and the order was made by the Governing body. The rules of natural justice were therefore satisfied. 58 Cal W N 730 (SB); 1911 A C 179; 54 Cal W N 883, Rel. on. ILR (1955) 2 Cal 252 : AIR 1954 Cal 193 (194, 195) (Prs 5, 6).

——Art. 226—Writ for quashing order— Arguments heard by Additional Collector — Order passed by Collector.

It is an accepted principles of law that it is only that authority who can pass the final order who hears the argument. There is no procedure of one authority, hearing the case and expressing his opinion and sending it for formal sanction by a higher authority. Such a procedure may probably be prevalent and in force on the executive or the administrative side but not at any rate on the judicial side.

Held that the order passed by a Collector in a case where the arguments were heard not by him but by the Additional Collector was improper and was quashed. ILR (1952) Hyd 525 : 1952 Cri L J 1297 : AIR 1952 Hyd 146 (147) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311—Dismissal by superior authority on evidence recorded by subordinate officer is not bad, provided the superior authority has applied his mind to the evidence.

In the administrative matters (dismissal of a Police constable), when dealing with right of a party, the deciding authority must himself consciously and satisfactorily deal with the records on which the order is being passed. What is meant by the rule that 'he who decides must hear' is that the administrative agency, making the findings, must address itself to the evidence; and, upon the evidence before it, must conscientiously reach a conclusion which it deems such evidence to justify. The rule does not mean that the evidence should be taken by the authority who makes the final decision. The aggrieved party would only succeed should he establish that the order chal-fenged was without any directing of the mind to the evidence by the deciding functionary. AIR 1959 S C 308, Expl.: AIR 1956 S C 285, Foll.; 62 SE 780 (790), Rel. on. 1961 Ker L T 35: (1961) 1 Ker L R 56: AIR 1961 Ker 299 (301) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Domestic tribunal — Disciplinary action—Formalities.

In taking disciplinary action against a member of a domestic tribunal, it is not necessary that the charge and the demand for an explanation must proceed from the very authority competent to inflict the punishment and, on principle there is no reason why these should not proceed from some subordinate authority. 1958 Ker L T 48 : 1958 Ker L J 538 : AIR 1958 Ker 164 (165) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Concurrence by other member of Revenue Board with opinion given by single member, without hearing party affected—Decision not opposed to principles of natural justice. See M B. Revenue Administration and Ryotwari Land Revenue and Tenancy Act (66 of 1950), S. 18. A I R 1955 Madh B 185 (187, 188) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 14, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Appeal by dismissed teacher to the President, Board of Secondary Education — Appeal heard by President's nominee — Order passed by President — Both legal — No violation of principles of natural justice. See Bihar High Schools (Control and Regulation Administration) Act (13 of 1961), S. 8 (2). 1963 B L J R 880.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Hearing by Collector—Final decision by his successor without giving any hearing to the appellant—Word 'adjudged' in S. 182, Sea Customs Act shows that the matter should be approached judicially—Principles of justice violated—Order vitiated. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8). A I R 1965 Punj 84 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Judicial or quasi-judicial matter heard by an authority — Decision given by some other authority — Held procedure violated principles of natural justice.

Held on facts, that the matter before the Minister was a quasi-judicial matter. The deciding authority, i.e., the Minister, must have decided it judicially or by a judicial approach. The Deputy Minister who heard the cases was not authorised to decide then and the Minister who alone had the authority to decide them never heard the parties. The order of the Minister could not be supported in law. 1915 AC 120 and AIR 1959 S C 308 and AIR 1955 Raj 203 and AIR 1952 Raj 46 and AIR 1960 SC 606, Rel. on.; AIR 1957 S C 648 and AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1958 S C 578, Dist. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 619 : AIR 1966 Raj 50 (53, 54) (Prs 13, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Quasi judicial tribunal — Hearing parties' — (Rajasthan Jagir Decisions and Proceedings (Validation) Ordinance (6 of 1955), Ss. 3, 4 (d)) —AIR 1948 Bom 63, Disst. from.

The minimum requirement that the Rajpramukh as a quasi judicial tribunal acting under S. 3 of Ordinance VI of 1955 should fulfil is to give a hearing to the parties before it. If there is any evidence to be taken, that evidence may be taken by some authority designated by the Rajpramukh, but thereafter the Rajpramukh should give a hearing to the parties. In the absence any rule or law which provided that the Rajpramukh would appoint some subordinate officer to hear the representations and make the report upon which he would pass such orders as he thought proper, it seems necessary that the Rajpramukh as a quasi judicial tribunal should have given a personal hearing to the party.

In the absence of a rule or law to that effect the hearing by the Minister is not the same thing as the hearing by a quasi-judicial tribunal like the Rajpramukh by virtue of S. 3 of the Ordinance. Held that the case of the applicant should now be heard in the manner provided by S. 4 (d) of the Ordinance, Case law discussed AIR 1948 Bom 63, Disst. from. I L R (1955) 5 Raj 995 : AIR 1955 Raj 203 (207, 208) (Pt J) (Prs 17, 22) (DB).

78 (a) (v). Defence.

——Art. 226—Domestic Enquiry—Natural justice—Enquiry by management—Representation—Workmen entitled by Standing Order to representation only by representative of recognized Union—Workman insisting on assistance of representative of their unrecognized Union with a view indirectly to obtain recognition to Union—Principle of natural justice is not violated by refusal of such request. AIR 1965 S C 1392.

——Art. 226—Enquiry into charges of misappropriation against municipal servant—Servant declining to examine witnesses—Enquiring officer holding no hearing on date fixed for examination—No complaint can be made.

Where in an enquiry against a municipal servant on the charges of misappropriation, a date was fixed for him to examine witnesses, but the servant informs the presiding officer that he does not propose to examine any witnesses, no complaint can be made, if the presiding officer holds no hearing on the date to which the enquiry was adjourned for examination of the witnesses. 1960 All L J 409.

——Art. 226—Natural justice. Even if their is no specific provision in the statute, the judicial order should not be passed against a person unless he is heard in self-defence—Order proposed to be based under S. 14, Bombay Money-lenders Act—Notice to offending money lender calling upon him to show cause why appropriate order should not be passed against him is essential—Notice should be followed by enquiry in which the money lender should get clear idea of allegations against him and he should be given opportunity to meet them. See Debt Laws—Bombay Money-Lenders Act (31 of 1947), S. 14. AIR 1957 Bom 12.

——Art. 226 — Disciplinary action against public servant for alleged misconduct — Public servant not given reasonable opportunity to defend himself — Order quashed under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1964 Cal 503.

——Art. 226—'Natural justice'—Audi alteram partem—Scope and applicability of rule—Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act (18 of 1925), S. 28 (2)—Appeal by Councillor to State Government against order of Collector — No notice — Effect—Appellate order of State Government is vitiated.

It is the duty of a quasi-judicial officer to act jucicially, and give each of the parties an opportunity of adequately presenting his case. 1915 App Cas 120, Relied on. If any person alleges that the rule of natural justice was not intended by the Legislature to be followed, the burden of proof is on that person.

The functions which the State Government has to perform in a appeal under sub-s. (2) of S. 28 of the Acts against the orders of the Collector are quasi-judicial functions. Though a quasi-judicial officer acting in his appellate jurisdiction is not bound to give a personal hearing to the appellant he is bound to give an opportunity to the appellant to state his case. 1911 A C 179 and 1915 A C 120 and AIR 1960 S C 606 and AIR 1957 SC 648, Rel. on. (1960) 1 Guj L R 53 : (1960) 1 Guj H C R 76 : AIR 1960 Guj 19 (20, 21, 22, 23) (Prs 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Master and Servant — Head clerk of University — Dismissal of — Opportunity given to produce defence —Opportunity not availed of—No violation of natural justice.

The petitioner-respondent was appointed a Head clerk in the University in May, 1958. A complaint was made against him on 16th May and on the basis of the complaint he was suspended by the Registrar of the University on the 17th May. On 9th June, 1958, a detailed charge sheet was delivered to the petitioner and he was given an opportunity of producing the defence, if he had any. When he did not produce any defence he was called by the Registrar at his office and the evidence was read over to him and he was given opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses on 6th August, 1958. On 9th August the Registrar wrote to the respondent in which he was informed that the inquiry against him had been completed and that he was given another opportunity to produce defence if he liked, and show why he should not be punished in the manner indicated. The respondent did not produce any defence in spite of various opportunities given to him and the final order was passed on 21st November, 1958, dismissing the respondent from service.

Held, that the principles of natural justice were not violated and the punishment of dismissal awarded to him was in the circumstances, fair and just. AIR 1960 J & K 80 (82, 83) (Prs 11, 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act, S. 45 — Interlocutory order suspending hereditary trustee—Disregard of rules of natural justice — Notice is necessary.

Any interlocutory order of suspension of hereditary trustee under S. 45 (3) is bad, if it has been made in disregard of rules of natural justice. A trustee is entitled to a fair opportunity of making relevant statements and of controverting the grounds on which immediate action of his being suspended from his hereditary right of managing the trust, is contemplated. 1960 Ker L T 1007 : I L R (1960) Ker 1259 : 1960 Ker L J 1445 : AIR 1961 Ker 87 (91) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order by Labour Judge disallowing particular lawyer to appear for party after granting permission to party to be represented by counsel — Petition under Art. 226 challenging such order — Power of High Court to quash such order — Per Dixit J.: — Course adopted by Labour Court was neither dignified nor fair—To call lawyer obstructionist because he made application for adjournment or for transfer or for further and better particulars was an erroneous conception of position he occupied — Per Chaturvedi J.—In such matters High Court does not sit in appeal under Art. 226, over Labour Court—(M. B. Industrial Relations (Adaptation) Act (2000 Smt.) S. 83-A). AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3755.

——Art. 226—Opportunity to rebut evidence not given—Effect. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1962 Madh Pra 15 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Order dissolving Board of Directors—Opportunity to file objections given—Order not justiciable. See Co-operative Societies Act (2 of 1912), S. 38-A (1) (M. P. Amendment). 1960 Jab L J 88.

——Arts 226 and 311—Natural justice—Dismissal of servant—Charge of criminal nature—No opportunity given to explain or rebut charges—Order not maintainable. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 99.

[Reversed in 1960 M P L J (Notes) 207.]

——Art. 226 — Practice — Writs by candidates debarred by a University from appearing at subsequent examinations on their being found guilty of copying at the examination — Charge did not specifically say who copied whom — Same counsel appearing for both the candidates — Interests of candidates conflicting — Taking up the defence of both the candidates by the same Advocate, in the circumstances, was not proper. 76 Mad L W 760 : ILR (1964) 1 Mad 244 : (1964) 2 Mad L J 336 : AIR 1964 Mad 460 (461) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Rules of Natural Justice—Opportunity to defend must be given to member of club whose conduct is impugned. AIR 1955 N U C (Manipur) 4546.

——Art. 226 — Principle of natural justice — Patna University Act (25 of 1951) — Statutes under—Ordinance IV, Para 21 — Syndicate of University acting under — It acts judicially — It should observe principle of natural justice.

The Syndicate of the Patna University exercises quasi-judicial duties while acting under the provisions of Para. 21 of Ordinance IV of the Statute. It therefore follows that the Syndicate must follow the principle of natural justice while acting in this capacity and adequate opportunity must be given by the Syndicate to the examinees for presenting their case. This principle of natural justice is denied when the Unfair Means Scrutiny Committee refuses to give the examinees the materials upon which the allegation about using unfair means at University examination is based and also refuses to give them an effective opportunity of defending themselves against such allegation. AIR 1962 S C 1110 and M J C No. 777 of 1959, D/- 10-5-1960 (Pat), Rel. on. AIR 1964 Pat 291 (291, 292) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Quasi-judicial orders — Denial of reasonable opportunity — Interference — Orders under S. 3 (1) of Madras Restrictions On Habitual Offenders Act (6 of 1948) (as applied to Union Territory of Delhi).

It is incumbent on every quasi-judicial authority to inform the person concerned about the materials that are sought to be used against him and to give him an opportunity of explaining or rebutting the same. Order passed under S. 3 (1) of the Madras Restrictions on Habitual Offenders Act (as applied to Delhi) without informing the person, the materials from which the due verification was sought to be made, is bad. ('65) 67 Pun L R 1234.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Foreign judgment dismissing suit at preliminary stage — Refusal to adjourn case — Effect — If violation of principles of natural justice. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13. AIR 1959 Punj 306 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principles of — Departmental proceedings — Principles of natural justice — Right to be represented by a lawyer. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1963 Tripura 20.

78 (a) (vi). No infringement.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Proceedings under Delhi and Ajmer Merwara Rent Control Act — Landlord not appearing in spite of repeated notices and adjournments — Ex parte proceedings—No violation of rules of natural justice. See Houses and Rents — Delhi and Ajmer Merwara Rent Control Act (19 of 1947), S. 7-A. AIR 1982 S C 646.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Appeal dismissed without hearing appellant — (Sea Customs Act (1878), Ss. 188 and 191).

There is no rule of natural justice that at every stage a person is entitled to a personal hearing. Moreover when the appeal against the orders of the Customs Authorities was filed beyond limitation, and the Appellate authorities dismissed the appeal as barred by limitation without hearing the appellant, there is no violation of the rule of natural justice,

Roy, F. N v. Collector of Customs; Calcutta, 1957 SCR 1151 : 1957 SCA 764 : 1957 Cri L J 1026 : 1957 S C J 734 : (1957) Mad L J (Cri) 684 : AIR 1957 S C 648 (652) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Removal of Pradhan of Gaon Sabha under S. 95 (1) (g) (iii) of U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947) — Regular enquiry not contemplated in Act — Petitioner had not demanded opportunity to be heard and to defend himself — Explaining to petitioner, charges framed against him was sufficient compliance with principles of natural justice and provisions of Act — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 95 (1) (g) (iii). AIR 1963 S C 375, Foll. 1964 All L J 1073 : AIR 1965 All 370 (371) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 10— Short levy — Limit of three months prescribed for making demand — Delay in issuing show cause notice likely to frustrate purpose of action — Principles of natural justice not applicable.

It is well settled that when immediate action is required to be taken and the delay which the right of hearing may involve is likely to frustrate the very purposes of the action, the principles of natural justice would not apply. In such a case all that is required is that the authority taking action must keep an attitude of impartiality and fairness.

Where the only dispute between the parties was whether the bottles could be treated as laboratory glassware or other glassware during a period of two months and ten days the Department officials erroneously considered the bottles to be laboratory glassware and after realising their mistake they asked for the recovery.

Held, that the case clearly fell within R. 10 and the demand was rightly made. Rule 10 gives the limit of three months for making the demand. The period of three months would have been over in the process of issuing a show cause notice and receiving a reply and deciding it. The version of the assessee was already known to the assessing authorities and show cause notice was not necessary. AIR 1965 All 305 (308, 309) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Principle not applicable to compulsory retirement.

Compulsory retirement is not a punishment and does not involve the servant's being deprived of any property. The principle of natural justice is that a person should not be punished or deprived of his property without being heard. It does not apply to retirement in accordance with the rules of service. It does not apply to compulsory retirement any more than to retirement on reaching the age of superannuation or discharge on completing the term of appointment. Abdul Ahad v. Inspector-General of Police, U. P. (1965) 1 Lab L J 110 : ILR (1964) 2 All 959 : 1964 All L J 791 : 1964 All W R (HC) 467 : (1964) 9 Fac L R 197 : AIR 1965 All 142 (150) (Pt E) (Pr 14) (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Natural justice—Examinee using unfair means — Inquiry by delegate on spot— Cancelling of result by University — Validity.

The rule of natural justice merely requires that no person shall be condemned unheard. In a case where an examinee used unfair means in his examination it no where requires any questioning of the offending examinee by the 'University' or the Executive Council, it is sufficient for the University's agent or delegate on the spot to give him a reasonable opportunity of explaining his position. In such a case, there is no rule of natural justice which enjoins a procedure like that laid down in Art. 311 of the Constitution. 1957 All L J 213, Diss. from; AIR 1956 All 539, Disting. and Expl. AIR 1960 All 198 (199) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act does not give party right to appear and be heard — Right not given — No violation of natural justice — Opportunity afforded at appellate stage — Regional authority has discretion in granting permit — Act does not require him to act judicially. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3589.

——Art. 226 — Temporary assignment of lands to political sufferers — Subsequent order for permanent assignment to others — Order passed without hearing temporary assignees — Still order is not invalid — It cannot be quashed by a writ of certiorari on the ground that it has been passed in violation of the principle of audi alteram partem. AIR 1961 Andh-Pra 123 (125, 126) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 15, 16) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Pensions Act does not contemplate any elaborate inquiry—No foundation for the grievance that principle of natural justice was violated and that maxim audi alteram partem was not given effect to. See Pensions Act (1871), S. 5. AIR 1959 Andh-Pra 487 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Order passed by State Authority under Motor Vehicles Act in disposing of appeal under S. 64 of Act, without giving opportunity for oral hearing — Principle of natural justice is violated — Sufficient opportunity given to state the case — Party is not entitled as of right to be heard — Order passed without hearing in such case is not contrary to principles of natural justice. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64. 1958 Andh L T 627.

——Art. 226 — Right to carry on business in cement — Reasonable restriction — Cancellation of licence under Cl. 14 and the petitioner distributing agency in respect of Government stock — Reasonable opportunity against cancellation of licence only necessary. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1962 Assam 80 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order—Natural justice —Petitioner not heard—Effect—Interference.

The order of settlement of forest Mahal issued by Forest Department is an administrative order and unless there be violation of any statutory rules or principles there is no scope for issue of any writ of mandamus.

The Government is not obliged to give a party a hearing and there is neither any violation of the principles of natural justice if the party is not heard before rejecting his application for review of the order rejecting his tender. AIR 1961 Assam 123 (124) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act (21 of 1947), S. 11 (4) — C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Rules (1947), R. 32 — Reasonable opportunity — Notice— Sufficiency of — 'Ordinarily' meaning of — Discretion — Interference with under the extraordinary constitutional powers—Propriety.

The word 'ordinarily' in R. 32 clearly indicates that the Legislature did not intend that 30 days' notice shall be the invariable rule. It also points out clearly what the Legislature had in view when it provided in S. 11 (4) of the C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act that the assessee shall be afforded reasonable opportunity of being heard, before being assessed to tax under the section.

What is reasonable within the meaning of the section however, is by statute and the Rules entrusted for determination by authorities concerned and unless the view taken by the authorities is erroneous or perverse, the High Court will not interfere with the discretion exercised, in its extraordinary, constitutional powers.

Where, therefore the assessee was served with two notices, before making best judgment assessment under S. 11 (4) and the first of the two notices allowed him a time of 11 days and the second one 27 days, only 3 days short of the ordinary period prescribed by R. 32 and by the first notice served on him the assessee well knew that the Sales Tax Officer was proceeding to assess him and intended to do so.

Held, that there was sufficient compliance with the proviso to S. 11 (4) and R. 32; the assessee had more than adequate notice and also had a very reasonable opportunity of being heard. (1962) 13 S T C 477 : 1962 Nag L J 312 : 64 Bom L R 476 : ILR (1962) Bom 606.

——Art. 226—W. B. Secondary Education Act, 1950, S. 30 (3) — Proceedings in appeal are proceedings before administrative tribunal — Appellant is not entitled to oral hearing, apart from any provision made in the Regulations — Regulation 7 conferring discretion on the appellate committee to allow such hearing or not is not invalid — D. P. I's report relied on by committee, in favour of appellant — Non-disclorure of same to appellant does not offend principles of natural justice — Constitution of India, Art. 226. See West Bengal Secondary Education Act (37 of 1950), S. 30 (3). ('62) 66 Cal W N 75.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Persons failing to appear even after repeated notices—Effect.

If persons notified to appear fail to appear after repeated opportunities are given then the proceeding has to be conducted in their absence and in such a case it is not violation of the principles of natural justice at all. AIR 1957 S C 82, Rel. on. (1959) 1 Lab L J 605 (Cal).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — (Administration of Evacuee Property) Act (1950), S. 40.

Where the applicant himself sought the confirmation of the sale under the provisions of the Regulation similar to S. 40, Administration of Evacuee Property Act, and this provision conferred jurisdiction on the Custodian in his discretion to confirm or refuse the sale, the order upon the application cannot be held either in excess of jurisdiction or to be without jurisdiction. Similarly, if the authorities in reaching the conclusion against the applicant gave the petitioner every opportunity to urge his case and they proceeded in a manner laid down for the hearing of such applications, if their conclusions are against him, it does not follow that any error in them, assuming that there are such errors, can be corrected by issuing a writ of certiorari. For, every error is not necessarily of natural justice and it cannot be corrected as if the High Court sits as an appellate authority over the decisions of Custodians of Evacuee Property. AIR 1952 S C 319, Ref. I L R (1953) Hyd 147 : AIR (1953) Hyd 157 (158) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope—Non-compliance with proviso to S. 12 (2) (b), T. C. General Sales Tax Act — No reasonable opportunity to dealer—No damage to petitioner — No writ can issue — Issue of writ. See Sales Tax—Travancore Cochin General Sales Tax Act (11 of 1125), S. 12 (2) (b), Proviso. AIR 1957 Ker 76.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Order under S. 5, Rice Milling Industry (Regulation) Act, 1958 is administrative and not quasi-judicial — Government not bound to hear applicant before rejecting application for permit. See Rice Milling Industry (Regulation) Act (21 of 1958), S. 5. AIR 1965 Madh Pra 247 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Rules of natural justice — Observance of, by Arbitrator — Presumption as to — Violation of principles of natural justice, when justifies interference — Both parties heard — Minor grievance — No ground for misconduct. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 30. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 15 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — M. B. Municipalities (Adult Franchise) Act, 1951, S. 16 (2) — Declaration of ineligibility of office-holder, following order of removal — Show cause notice is not necessary — Absence of notice — Not opposed to principles of natural justice. See Municipalities — Madhya Bharat Municipalities (Adult Franchise) Act (9 of 1951), S. 16 (2). 1961 M P L J 13.

——Art. 226 — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (3) — Petitioner not informing Superintendent of Excise within the time allowed by show cause notice his desire to be heard in person—Request made only later on to Collector for such hearing — Collector not bound under the rules to give him such hearing — Refusal to give personal hearing under the circumstances does not render his order opposed to principles of natural justice. 1962 Mad W N 302 : 1962 Mad L J (Cri) 659 : 75 Mad L W 276 : (1962) 2 Mad L J 499 : AIR 1962 Mad 366 (367) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Industrial dispute — Dismissal of worker in contravention of standing orders — No prejudice—No contravention of principles of natural justice — Natural justice. AIR 1957 S C 38, Rel. on. 72 Mad L W 676 : (1959) 2 Lab L J 635 : AIR 1960 Mad 131 (133) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice —Application for no objection certificate under Madras Cinemas (Regulation) Act, 1955 — There is nothing in provisions of Act or Rules thereunder which makes it incumbent on the Collector to take into consideration any representation of a competent applicant. See Madras Cinemas (Regulation) Act (9 of 1955) (as amended by Act (21 of 1956), S. 3-A). ('59) 72 Mad L W 235.

——Art. 226 — Madras Medical Registration Act (4 of 1914), S. 18 — Appeal by medical practitioner suspended from practising—Written representation made — Personal hearing not given — Principle of natural justice not violated.

Nowhere in the Madras statute is there any statutory obligation upon the Government to follow any specified procedure in disposing of appeal preferred to it under S. 18 of the Madras Medical Registration Act. Hence, the Court has to see if any principle of natural justice is violated by the Government when it happens to dismiss the appeal.

Where a medical practitioner, suspended for a period of one year by the Medical Council after his being found guilty of infamous conduct in a professional respect, is allowed to make his representation, and the written representation in the memorandum of appeal he submits to the Government is taken into consideration along with the evidence on record and the order of the Medical Council before the Government rejects his appeal, it cannot be said that the petitioner is given no opportunity at all to make any representation to the Government. That the petitioner is not given a further opportunity to make personal representations to supplement the written representations he made, may not be enough to prove that any principle of natural justice has been violated by the Government.

Further mere failure to give reasons, even though an appeal under S. 18 of the Act is a matter of great importance to the medical practitioner, whose whole professional reputation is at stake, may not by itself suffice to invalidate the order. 1955 Cri L J 1507 : 1955 Mad W N 90 : (1955) 1 Mad L J 155 : AIR 1955 Mad 628 (629) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 6).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice—Violation of — (Tenancy Laws — Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal Protection Act (14 of 1952), S. 13 (2)).

Where in an appeal under S. 13 (2) the petitioner is given an ample opportunity, which he avails himself of, to participate in the further enquiry ordered by the revenue Court and held by the conciliation officer, the order directing that further evidence be taken cannot be held to violate principles of natural justice. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 3197.

——Art. 226 — Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 43 — Order of supersession under — Nature of proceedings—Procedure to be followed—Order if can be challenged by a writ of certiorari—Held, that the order was passed after giving ample opportunity to the committee to state its objections and there was nothing wrong in the procedure followed by him, and therefore, the order could not be quashed by writ of certiorari. See Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 43. AIR 1951 Mad 1003 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — When to be issued.

Where opportunity is given to the party making a revision petition to the Board of Revenue to state all his grounds of objection to the order of the Revenue Divisional Officer, a writ of certiorari cannot be issued to quash the order of the Board merely because the petitioner is not orally heard. AIR 1951 Mad 276 (276) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (DB).

[Impliedly Overruled on another point in A I R 1950 S C 218—Ed.].

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Violation of — Departmental enquiry—Non-observance of rules — When amounts to violation of natural justice — Constitution of India, Arts. 309 and 226—Civil Services (Central) (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1957, R. 15.

In a departmental enquiry, it is not every non-observance of a rule that will constitute violation of natural justice. It is only if the non-observance has prejudiced a person in his defence that it can be said that the principle of natural justice was not observed. Non-observance of R. 15 of the Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules in giving a Government servant only 11 days as against 3 weeks provided by R. 15 to submit his explanation to the charges against him would not vitiate the enquiry when it is not shown that such shorter duration prevented him from giving his explanation. A I R 1963 Manipur 51 (56) (Pt B) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Maintainability — Deliberate mis-statement of facts in seeking admission to college — Revocation of admission by college authorities—Denial of opportunity to petitioner to explain his mis-statement — Principle of natural justice not violated. 40 Mys L J 823 : ILR (1960) Mys 1146 : AIR 1962 Mys 104 (106) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Opportunity of being heard — Notice by Excise Authorities to petitioner (Distillery Company) to carry out certain directions—Date fixed for giving company personal hearing — Company praying for change of date twice which was granted — Company failing to present case on those dates — It cannot be said that no sufficient opportunity to be heard was given to company — Order against company cannot be quashed on that ground — Punjab Excise Act (I of 1914), Ss. 38 (c) and 80 (2). 1964 Cur L J 519.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Bihar State Universities (Amendment) Act (13 of 1962), S. 4 — Earlier order by Chancellor disapproving appointment of petitioner as Principal passed on recommendation of University Service Commission, without hearing petitioner—Later order, on representation by college, giving time to petitioner to acquire requisite qualification to act as Principal, passed after giving full hearing to petitioner, by University Service Commission, in pursuance of show cause notice — Held that later order must be taken to be the only order governing the case and there was no question of violation of principles of natural justice on ground of failure to give hearing— Defective wording of show cause notice not sufficient to render entire notice void. AIR 1964 Pat 41, Disting. AIR 1965 Pat 11 (14, 15) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Opportunity to show cause — Right of employee to second notice — (Constitution of India, Art. 311 (2).)

On the question whether a fair opportunity has been given to the servant, in cases to which Art. 311 (2) does not apply, no general test can be formulated which would be applicable to all conditions. The question would depend very much on the particular facts of each case. AIR 1955 Pat 345, Foll.

Where the petitioner, a clerk in the service of a District Board, submitted his explanation in which he gave a detailed explanation regarding the charges against him, and, after a consideration of the same, the District Board at its meeting resolved to ask the petitioner to submit his resignation by a certain date and, on his failure to do so, it authorised its chairman to dispense with his services, and to pass an order to that effect.

Held, that it could not be said that the petitioner was not given an ample and reasonable opportunity to show cause against the charges which were served on him. If, therefore, the principles of natural justice were not violated, and the petitioner was given an effective and reasonable opportunity to show cause against the charges against him, it could not be said that he was entitled to a second notice against the action proposed to be taken by the District Board. Held, further, that even assuming that the petitioner should have been given a second notice against the action proposed to be taken against him after the Board had found his explanation unsatisfactory the resolution of the Board would be tantamount to such a second notice, and it was open to him to make representation against the decision of the Board to dispense with his services, if he did not tender his resignation. Therefore, in any view of the matter, the petitioner could not take advantage of his own lapse and negligence and carelessness and make any grievance that the order of his discharge was invalid, because he was not given a second notice. 1957 B L J R 397 : AIR 1957 Pat 333 (337) (Pt C) (Prs 24, 25, 26, 30) (DB).

——Art. 226—Sales Tax—Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1947), S. 13 (4)— Natural justice—Principle of 'audi alteram partem' — Assessment of sales-tax based on Inspector's report—Legality.

As a matter of law it is not correct to state that the party adversely affected should be heard at each and every stage of the administrative process.

Where an assessee has been assessed to sales tax on information supplied under S. 13(4), Bihar Sales Tax Act, by the Inspector, the assessee has opportunity to argue on the questions raised by the Inspector's report at the appellate stage. He cannot be heard to complain that because at the initial stage of assessment by the Sales Tax Officer he was not shown the Inspector's report there has been violation of any principle of natural justice. AIR 1956 Pat 212, Foll., AIR 1955 S C 65, Disting. 1956 B L J R 631: (1957) 7 S T C 666 : AIR 1957 Pat 21 (23, 24) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Applicant having opportunity of defending himself or showing cause— Principle of natural justice is not violated even if personal hearing is not given — See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64A. AIR 1956 Pat 437.

——Art. 226 Principles of natural justice — Domestic tribunals — Bihar Education Code (1944), R. 182 (f) — Mismanagement by Managing Committee of private recognized High School—Appointment of an ad hoc Committee under R. 182 to assume management — Principles of natural justice —Applicability of— Opportunity to be heard before action by Board.

Where the Board of Secondary Education, Bihar, in a case falling under R. 182 of the Bihar Education Code, under Cl. (f) of that rule, appoints an ad hoc Committee in place of the Managing Committee of a private recognized High School, without giving an opportunity to the members of the Managing Committee of being heard and answering the charges levelled against them, there is no violation of the rule of natural justice. The Managing Committee of a High School under private management is not a creature of any statute. The rules as embodied in the Bihar Education Code have no statutory force, but are only domestic rules for the management of the internal affairs of the school. If rules have been strictly followed and there is no proof of bad faith, the Court cannot intervene even if it thinks that the penalty is too severe or that too strict a standard has been applied. (1929) 1 Ch 602 and AIR 1949 P C 313, Rel. on. 1956 B L J R 33 : AIR 1956 Pat 81 (85, 86) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice—Doctrine of audi alteram partem.

Where there is no doubt that the petitioners who were bidders at public auction held under the Bengal Ferries Act (1885), had notice not only of the fact of the enquiry made in connection with the financial stability of the bidders, but also of the date of the enquiry, and, that they were represented at the enquiry by their lawyers, who was their appointed agent, an aid of the doctrine of audi alteram partem cannot be had in a petition under Art. 226 as it has not been violated. 1956 B L J R 592.

——Arts. 226, 227 — University — Misconduct by college student — Disciplinary proceedings — Principles of natural justice—Principal recording student's statement admitting allegation—Tutor, who witnessed incident, identifying student — Student not demanding cross-examination of witnesses or permission to produce witnesses — University ordering cancellation of result on basis of Principal's report — Student alleging violation of principles of natural justice — Held, there was no violation — Observations of Lord Shaw and Lord Parmoor in (1915) A C 120, regarding natural justice cited with approval; AIR 1960 S C 415, Foll.; AIR 1957 S C 882 and 1943 A C 627, Dist. 66 Pun L R 992 : AIR 1964 Punj 456 (459, 460, 461) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Procedure by quasi-judicial bodies — Audi alteram partem — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 60 (1) proviso—Scope — Suspension of permit — Duty to give fair opportunity to state case.

The proviso to S. 60 (1), Motor Vehicles Act, cannot apply where the permits have not been cancelled but only suspended. Where before suspending the permits of the owners of the buses they were asked to show cause why their permits should not be suspended and they practically admitted the fact of their buses being overbooked and it was not their case that they wanted to give evidence or to have an oral hearing and that the Road Traffic Board refused to take evidence or to give an oral hearing.

Held, that the Road Traffic Board could not be said to have denied them a fair opportunity to state their case. 1956 Ker L T 792 : ILR (1956) Trav.Co 1293 : AIR 1957 Trav. Co 141 (144) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 9a) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Natural justice—Violation of—Executive authority (Member of Board of Revenue), deciding matter on perusal of written representations—Failure to hear party or advocate orally —If violates natural justice.

There is no rule that an executive authority, e. g., a member of the Board of Revenue should hear or listen to the oral contentions or arguments of parties to a proceeding for him or their advocates. If the contentions are put in writing and the order is passed presumably on a perusal of the representations made in writing that would be sufficient hearing for the purpose of disposing of the matter. It cannot be said that in such case the principles of natural justice are violated, and therefore no writ of certiorari will issue to quash the order. (1915) A C 120 ; AIR 1951 Mad 276; AIR 1951 Trav-Co 197, Foll. 1951 Ker L T 329 : A I R 1952 Trav-Co 287 (288, 289) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Grounds for issue— Executive Officer passing administrative order not hearing advocate for applicant—If renders order invalid and liable to be quashed.

The fact that in passing an administrative order the executive authority did not give a hearing to the applicant's counsel, whould not render the order invalid and render it liable to be quashed so long as the order is within the authority of the officer concerned and sufficient opportunity was given to the applicant to state his case. No writ of certiorari will issue on that ground. A I R 1951 Mad 276, Rel on. I L R (1951) Trav-Co 496 : 1951 Ker L T 158 : A I R 1951 Trav-Co 197 (199, 200) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

78 (a) (vii). Miscellaneous.

●——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Principle of — Applicability — Defect in draft scheme—Final scheme in accordance with provisions of S. 68-C, Motor Vehicles Act (1939) after hearing objections — There is no violation of principle of natural justice. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68D. AIR 1965 SC 1848.

●——Art. 226—Natural justice—Quasi-judicial order —Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 57 (2) and 59 —Central Government acts quasi-judicially in disposing of review petitions and must hear applicant on materials which order is based. A I R 1964 S C 1643 (1644, 1645) (Prs 4, 6).

●——Art. 226—Advance payment of tax not made — Assessee is liable to penal interest — But before levying penal interest he is entitled to notice and reasonable opportunity of being heard. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 18-A. AIR 1963 SC 1456.

●——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Cancellation of licence — State Government's duty to afford reasonable opportunity to licence — Doctrine of bias — Applicability. See Bihar Mica Act (10 of 1948), S. 25 (1) (c) 2nd Proviso. AIR 1960 SC 468.

●——Art. 226—Natural justice — Powers and duties of statutory bodies — (Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 53-A).

S. R. Das C. J. :—Action to be taken under S. 53-A of the C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act may be an administrative action but that does not absolve the State Government from observing the ordinary rules of fair play. Even when administrative action is taken it may be necessary to give an opportunity to a party to have his say before an order is passed. For the breach of the rules of fair play in taking administrative action a writ of certiorari will not lie.

Radeshyam Khare v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1959 S C R 1440 : (1959) 1 Mad L J (SC) 5 : (1959) 1 Andh W R (S C) 5 : 1959 S C J 6 : 1959 Nag L J 49 : 1959 MPLJ 185 : AIR 1959 SC 107 (119, 131) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 57).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Cancellation of licence under Arms Act without giving opportunity to licensee of being heard—Breach of first principle of natural justice. See Arms Act (1878), S. 18. 1965 All L J 994 : AIR 1966 All 265 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Lucknow University Act (5 of 1920), S. 39 — Dispute as to who is Head of Department referred to Chancellor — Jurisdiction of Chancellor is quasi-judicial — Person interested in dispute and affected by order to be passed must be given opportunity to be heard. AIR 1961 All 401 (408) (Pt D) (Prs 24, 25).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Revocation of licence to carry on cinema house under S. 9-A of the U. P. Entertainment and Betting Tax Act—Opportunity of being heard must be given to proprietor — Rule of natural justice applies. See Ibid, Art. 19. 1960 All L J 894.

——Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1) and (3) — Person already providing passenger transport facilities—Representation by — Necessity of consideration—Opportunity of making representation—See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1). AIR 1958 All 390.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—(U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules, R. 95 A (2))—(U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 85).

In a dispute concerning mutation of name which was referred to the Panchayati Adalat, the adalat passed an order in favour of A. The Sub-Divisional Officer in a revision set aside that order without giving any notice to A on the ground that the order was signed only by 4 and not by 5 panchas. That order was passed before the enactment of S. 77-A, U. P. Panchayat Raj Act.

Held, that the proceedings in question were judicial proceedings and that being the position, an order passed by the Pachayati Adalat in favour of A could not be quashed without giving an opportunity to him of being heard in the case. That was the rule of natural justice which had been made applicable to all judicial proceedings and also to quasi-judicial proceedings. Further R. 95-A (2), U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules provides that a notice of the application filed in revision along with its copy should be issued to the opposite party and before passing any order on the revision, the Court must give a reasonable opportunity to both the parties of being heard. That being so the view that since S. 85, U. P. Panchayat Raj Act gave power to the Sub-Divisional officer to set aside the order on his own motion also there was no necessity of giving notice to A of the date of hearing and that he was not, in any way, prejudiced by the omission because a pure question of law was only involved in the revision was incorrect, being opposed both to the provisions of R. 95-A and the rule of natural justice. AIR 1955 All 366 (367) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Order reducing life pension granted to widow of Government servant without assigning any reason — Validity —As Regulations were made by Nizam in whom supreme executive power of State and also plenary legislative powers then vested, granting extraordinary pension to widow of Government servant under R. 4 has force of law — Order reducing life pension is not valid since R. 2 does not make any provision for cutting down life pension—Order violates principles of natural justice is not giving reasonable opportunity to show cause against proposed action of reducing pension — Since Government has not till time of issuing impugned order taken power by suitable legislation or under valid statutory rules to terminate, reduce or suspend life pension granted by erstwhile State of Hyderabad, impugned order has exceeded powers of jurisdiction. I L R (1965) Andh Pra 759.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Requirements of—Income-tax — Assessment to the best of judgment — Powers and duties of Income-tax Authorities—Opportunity to assessee—Duty to give. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 13. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 166 (DB).

——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial orders — Grant of land under Darkhast Rules — Power of Government to revise orders of Board of Revenue—(Darkhast Rules (Hyderabad) Rr. 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 17 and 18).

The grant of the Government lands under the Darkhast Rules to persons on satisfaction of certain conditions amounts to discharge of judicial function. (1922) 1 A C 202 : A I R 1921 P C 234, Rel. on. The several paragraphs of the Rules clearly indicate that the officers are to perform their duties conscientiously no proper feeling of responsibility and the decisions in the exercise of powers under the rules are judicial. (1915) A C 120, Rel. on. The Government is not authorised under the rules to interfere with the orders passed by the Board of Revenue. It follows that where the Government interferes with such order of the Government is passed arbitrarily and without jurisdiction. (1902) 12 Mad L J 453 and A I R 1955 Mad 305 (FB), Rel. on. Where no opportunity to be heard was afforded to the petitioner before the Government passed the order the order is vitiated by the failure. L R (1885) 1 A C 229, Rel. on. (1957) 2 Andh W R 123 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 376 : I L R (1957) Andh Pra 35 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 140 (142, 143) (Pt C) (Prs 7, 9, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice — Violation of — First order under para. 7 of Foreigners Order (1948) —Second order under S. 3 (2) of Foreigners Act (1946) — Opportunity to explain case not given before passing second Order —Effect.

If the authority has got power to act under S. 3 (2) (a) of the Foreigners Act and in the exercise of that power it acts and the exercise by implication has the effect or overriding order passed under the Foreigners Order (1948) it cannot be said that any principles of natural justice are violated if no opportunity is given by the authority before passing the second order to the petitioner to explain his case. It is a question mainly depending upon the extent and the ambit of the power which an authority can exercise under S. 3 and not a question of passing any judicial or quasi-judicial order which can be tested on the ground of violation of the principles of natural justice, ILR (1963) 15 Assam 279 : AIR 1963 Assam 105 (107) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Sea Customs Act (1878), Ss. 167 (8) and 182—Equiry under—Natural justice—Reasonable opportunity—Denial of—Secret information obtained against person charged — Opportunity to test it not afforded—Natural justice violated—Certiorari—Quasi-judicial orders. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8). AIR 1962 Assam 145 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Railway Establishment Code—Para. 1721—Scope—Power to give personal hearing if discretionary—Non-compliance—Whether vitiates entire proceedings See Railway Establishment Code, Para. 1721. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order revoking license — Breach of condition not shown — Opportunity to hear licensee not given— Legality. See Cinematograph Act (1918), S. 3. AIR 1957 Assam 47 (DB).

——Art. 32—Order by Executive Member affecting petitioner's right to sell his commodities on land — Opportunity to be heard should be given—See United Khasi-Jaintia Hills Autonomous District (Management and Control of Markets) Act (5 of 1953), S. 9. AIR 1956 Assam 162.

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Employees transferred to different place not joining at place of transfer—Notice to show cause for misconduct—Enquiry held at place of transfer—Employees refusing to attend——Dismissal—Enquiry held at place different from place of employment is against principles of natural justice — Orders of dismissal illegal — Absence of standing orders immaterial. See C. P. and Berar Industrial Disputes Settlement Act (1947), S. 16. 1961 Nag L J (Notes) 61.

——Art. 226 — Municipalities — Bombay Municipal Corporation Act (1888), S. 354 — Authority acting under S. 354 — Whether acts judicially — Right of hearing of party affected by notice — Right if can be claimed on principles of natural justice—(Quasi-judicial orders—Orders under municipal laws)—(Natural Justice) — I L R 33 Bom 334, Doubted. See Municipalities—Bombay Municipal Corporation Act (3 of 1888), S. 354. AIR 1959 Bom 332.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard not afforded— Effect.

The appeal before the Board of Revenue was dismissed in default and petitioner applied for its restoration with an affidavit supporting the application. The Board asked for an additional affidavit but as there was delay in filing the same, application for restoration was dismissed. The petitioner was only informed about the dismissal, and no opportunity was given to petitioner to represent his case.

Held, that it was obligatory to give an opportunity to the petitioner to represent his case for restoration of his appeal before decision was taken in that proceeding and that the order passed by the Revenue Tribunal was against the principle of natural justice and deserved to be quashed. ('60) Bom L R 760 : 1958 Nag L J (Notes) 19.

——Art. 226— Principles of natural justice — Applicability of to proceedings under S. 33-B of Income-tax Act (1922). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 33-B. 69 Cal W N 66 : AIR 1966 Cal 73.

——Art. 226—Application for public examination by Liquidator — Denial of right of being heard to concerned party — Offends principles of natural justice. See Companies Act (1956), S. 478 (1). AIR 1965 Cal 372.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Building rules of the Calcutta Municipality— Sch. 16, Rr. 23, 30 and 91 (2) — Violation of rules — Adjoining owners affected by breach of rules are entitled to object and must be given opportunity of being heard—Resolution passed in presence of objector subsequently amended ex parte — Amendment is invalid—Relaxation of rules—Relaxable rules cannot be relaxed unless specified conditions are proved. See Municipalities—Calcutta Act (33 of 1951). ('64) 68 Cal W N 1049.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of natural justice denied by Transport Authorities — Application under Article — Maintainability — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64).

Where the Appellate Sub-Committee of the State Transport Authority and the higher Appellate Authority have denied the principles of natural justice by not allowing the petitioner to look into the copy of the police report before they made their orders, an application of the petitioner under Art. 226 attacking the validity of the said orders is in order and is maintainable. ('57) 61 Cal W N 779.

——Art. 226 — Reasonable opportunity — Refusal to allow professional help. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1957 A P 414.

——Art. 226—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167— Assistant collector acting under Ss. 167 and 183 acts in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity and must observe the rules of natural justice and should give the party proceeded against a fair opportunity of being heard—Rules of natural justice not observed—Order demanding fine — Order can be quashed by issue of writ under Art. 226—S. 198 held no bar—Remedy under S. 188 or of suit not availed of —It is no bar to issue of writ. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167. A I R 1952 Cal 656 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction under — Quasi-judicial enquiry under S. 178-A of Sea Customs Act (1878) — Petitioner denied opportunity to controvert information arrived at in enquiry made against him — High Court can entertain petition as there is violation of principles of natural justice. (1964) 5 Guj L R 633 : AIR 1965 Guj 135 (142, 143) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Refugee allotted land by Joint Rehabilitation Board—Provincial Rehabilitation Officer cancelling allotment on ground that it was obtained by dishonest means — No opportunity given to refugee to be heard before cancelling allotment order—There is gross violation of principles of natural justice sufficient to attract certiorari jurisdiction of the High Court. A I R 1955 S C 233 and A I R 1955 S C 425, Rel. on ; A I R 1957 Punj 155 and A I R 1954 S C 150, Distinguished. A I R 1961 J & K 56 (57, 58) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Estate Duty Act (1953), S. 58 (4)—Best judgment assessment — No opportunity given to petitioners to state their case — Assessment order offends the rules of natural justice — Writ of prohibition issued against the Department from enforcing the order against petitioners. 1965 Ker L J 1161 : A I R 1966 Ker 100 (104) (Pt C) (Prs 18, 20).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Opportunity of being heard.

Income tax Act (1922), S. 23 (4) and (3) — No distinction between assessments under the two clauses—No distinction between the assessments — Assessment based on information obtained—Opportunity to show cause not given to assessee—Assessment violates principles of natural justice. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23 (4). 1965 Ker L T 1050.

——Art. 226—Natural justice, principles of—Quasi-judicial Tribunals — Board of Revenue — Revision petition—Dismissal of — Denial of right of personal hearing — Failure to state reasons in its order of affirmance — No violation of principles of natural justice—(Kerala) Board of Revenue Standing Orders, O. 156-A.

Where a petitioner in his revision petition to the Board of Revenue under O. 156-A has set out the several grounds on which he impeached the orders passed against him, it is not incumbent on the Board to hear the petitioner in support of his petition before dismissing the petition. A I R 1951 Trav-Co 241; AIR 1951 Mad 276 ; A I R 1952 Trav-Co 287 ; 1956 Mad L T 792 and A I R 1957 S C 648, Rel. on ; A I R 1950 S C 27 and A I R 1959 S C 308, Disting.

Nor are the rules of natural justice violated by the failure of the Board of Revenue to state reasons where it affirms in revision the orders passed by the subordinate authorities. 1960 Ker L J 1332 : 1960 Ker L T 1020.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation of—Travancore-Cochin Agricultural Income-tax Act (22 of 1950), S. 18 (3)—Assessment without giving opportunity to assessee to show cause — Effect — Interference.

The assessing authorities are bound to proceed in a judicial manner and come to a judicial conclusion upon ascertained facts. Where, therefore, the petitioners complain that the rule of natural justice of being given an opportunity to show cause against the case has not been observed in assessing them under S. 18 (3) of the Travancore Cochin Agricultural Income-tax Act, 1950, and that complaint is not challenged, the petitions should be allowed unless there be other grounds for dismissing them. A I R 1955 S C 65 ; A I R 1959 S C 1238 and (1960) 38 I T R 112 (Mys), Rel. on. 1960 Ker L J 1019 : (1960) 2 Ker L R 361 : 1960 Ker L T 930 : I L R (1960) Ker 1153.

——Art. 226—Government dismissed appeal relying on report made without enquiry—No opportunity to answer allegations in report — Order dismissing appeal held invalid—Principles of natural justice.

The Director of Local Bodies refused to cancel a resolution, passed by a Gram Panchayat accepting a letter of resignation of the President of the Panchayat. President appealed against the order of the Director and the State Government, dismissed the appeal. Held, that the rules of natural justice demanded that the President ought to have been allowed an opportunity to answer the allegations against him in the report. Therefore, the order of the Government dismissing the appeal of the President was quashed. 1951 A C 120, Disting.; A I R 1955 S C 65, Rel. on. (1961) 1 Lab L J 437 : (1960) 2 Ker L R 255 : 1960 Ker L J 1031 : 1960 Ker L T 871.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Action without giving opportunity to meet case—Competency. See Revenue Recovery Act (1890), S. 5. A I R 1958 Ker 288 (DB).

——Art. 226—Proceedings upon application for permission to remove cut trees and to cut trees under licence—Nature of — Duty of Collector to hear petitioner. See Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act (27 of 1949), S. 3. 1958 Ker L T 691.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Interference—Order prohibiting performance of drama — Author not heard — Legality. See Travancore Dramatic Performance Act (2 of 1115), S. 2 (1). A I R 1957 Ker 75.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Certiorari—Issue of —Violation of principles of natural justice—Travancore-Cochin Paddy (Acquisition and Movement Control Order, 1950, R. 16 — Appeal under—Rejection without hearing appellant—Quashing of.

Under R. 16 of the Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950, a right of appeal is conferred upon the subject by the Government, and in disposing of an appeal from the orders of the Commissioner of Civil Supplies, the Government, in justice, equity and good conscience, is bound to conform to the provisions of natural justice in hearing and disposing of the appeal. No man is to be condemned without or before giving him an opportunity to present his case. When this elementary rule of natural justice is violated in any case, e. g., without hearing any arguments, on a mere reading of the petition of appeal, that is most unsatisfactory and irregular way of disposing of the appeal and the High Court, in the exercise of the powers conferred upon it by the Constitution, is competent to quash the proceedings and the order passed on appeal by the Government will be quashed. 1950 Ker L T 617.

——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial decision — Opportunity of hearing to parties concerned is imperative.

Where the license-holder preferred an appeal to the State Government against the order of the Excise Commissioner revoking or suspending a licence under R. 87 of the Medicinal and Toilet Preparation (Excise Duties) Rules, (1956) the dismissal of that appeal by the State Government without giving the licenseholder any hearing is illegal, because in making an order for the revocation or suspension of a licence in the exercise of powers under R. 87, the authority acts in a quasi-judicial capacity. It follows, that the proceedings in an appeal against that order are also quasi-judicial proceedings and it is imperative to give a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the appellant before deciding the appeal. A I R 1960 S C 606, Rel. on. 1961 M P C 706 : 1961 Jab L J 1148 : I L R (1962) Madh Pra 191 : 1962 M P L J 71 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 131 (133) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Alteration of entries in land records — Tahsildar passing order without previous enquiry — No opportunity of being heard given — Order quashed by certiorari. See Tenancy Laws — Madhya Bharat Tenancy Act (66 of 1950), S. 50. 1961 M P L J 963.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Action under S. 39 (4) M. P. Accommodation Control Act, 1955 is quasi-judicial—Opportunity to be heard should be given to the tenant. See Houses and Rents —M. P. Accommodation Control Act (XXIII of 1955) (As Amended by M. P. Act VIII of 1961), S. 12 (1) (b). 1964 M P L J 411.

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial orders — Orders regarding assignment of lands are disposed of in quasi-judicial manner — Revision disposed of by Board of Revenue without relevant data — No adequate opportunity furnished to petitioner to meet contentions against them — Order of Board quashed.

The petitioners had been in permissive occupation of the land since 1942. They were landless poor persons. Wet cultivation was going on, on this land since 1944 under Grow More Food Campaign. In 1955 Board of Revenue treated this as an encroachment. Proceedings in eviction were taken. Board instructed Collector to assign some unobjectionable land to the petitioners. This proceeding led to filing of writ petition, pending which Board was moved to examine the matter afresh. This writ petition was not pressed and was dismissed. A further petition was presented to the Board, but finally the Board declined to interfere. The petitioners complained in subsequent writ petition that having regard to the circumstances under which the occupation of the land by S and subsequently by them had been permitted, the order of the Board, which was made without giving an adequate opportunity to the petitioners was arbitrary, unjust and opposed to natural justice.

Held, (1) that the order of the Board was not an administrative order. Orders regarding the assignment of lands are disposed of in a quasi-judicial manner and even the rules contained in the Board's Standing Orders directed the disposal of applications for assignment in such manner. An order which disposed of the revision petition of the petitioners without considering any of the relevant data could hardly be accepted as complying with the normal requirements of a quasi-judicial disposal ; (2) that there had been a failure to examine the applicability of the relevant Government orders in relation to the case. There had also been a failure to furnish an adequate opportunity to the petitioners to meet the contentions brought forward against their occupation of the lands. The order of the Board was quashed. 77 Mad L W 293 : 1964 Mad W N 266 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 95 : ILR (1965) 1 Mad 526.

——Art. 32—Violation of rules of natural justice — Fact that R. 6, Bengal Sales Tax Rules says that the commercial officer can make "any enquiry that he may think necessary" does not necessarily mean that rules of natural justice are to be violated. See Sales Tax — Bengal Sales Tax Rules (1941), R. 6. AIR 1956 Mad 596 (Pt E) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — Foreign judgment against natural justice is not enclosure — Full Bench hearing appeal almost ex parte inasmuch as no adjournment was granted to enable senior counsel to appear — This is denial of justice. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 13. ('54) 67 Mad L W 147.

——Art. 226 — Order passed without giving opportunity to petitioner to put forward his case — Municipalities — Madras City Municipal Act (4 of 1919), Ss. 287, 365, 366.

Issuing an order or refusing to issue a license is of quasi-judicial nature and the Commissioner will have to comply with the provisions of the Act and also shall give reasons for his refusal. Against the order of refusal, a statutory right of appeal is given to the Standing Committee. If the order of the Standing Committee is against the view expressed by the Commissioner he can refer the matter to the Council whose order will be final. When a tribunal is entrusted with quasi-judicial functions affecting the rights of parties, it is the elementary principle that the said tribunal should give an opportunity to the person affected to put forward his case. Any decision made by such a tribunal without giving that opportunity is contrary to the principles of natural justice and is liable to be set aside. But the procedure which a tribunal is to follow depends upon the functions, the character and the administrative convenience of the tribunal. It is not possible to equate the council to a Court of law, and insist upon that tribunal to follow and adopt the rules of judicial procedure adopted and followed by Courts. Where the Council set aside the order of the Standing Committee without giving an opportunity to the petitioner to put forward his case, the order of the Council is liable to be quashed. 65 Mad L W 467 : 1952 Mad W N 500 : 1952-1 Mad L J 655 : AIR 1952 Mad 778 (778, 779) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Madras District Municipalities Act (1920), S. 252—Power under, is quasi-judicial—Setting aside order of Municipality without giving any opportunity to applicant for explanation—Order of Government is liable to be set aside. See Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (6 of 1920), S. 252. AIR 1952 Mad 555.

——Art. 226— Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard — Integration of services upon reorganisation of States — Preparation of provisional inter-State seniority list — List prepared considering all relevant factors— Representation of all affected servants not considered — Such revision is whimisical and arbitrary. See States Reorganization Act (1956), S. 115 (5). AIR 1966 Mys 31 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice—Resolution of company increasing remuneration of director—Approval of Central Government under S. 310, Companies Act, 1956 — Approval subject to conditions — See Companies Act (1956), S. 309. (1965) 2 Mys L J 520.

——Art. 226—Writ petitions for quashing demands on petitioners for cost of police force stationed in village declared as disturbance area — Demands in the nature of penalties — Petitioners not afforded opportunity to show cause — Demands not legal —Writ petitions allowed.

The State Government required the Dy. Commissioner to recover from the petitioners the proportionate cost of the employment of an additional police force stationed in their villages which was declared as "disturbance area". The amounts sought to be recovered from the petitioners are in the nature of penalties imposed in them on the ground that they were responsible for the various acts of lawlessness in the area. No such penalty could have been imposed unless preceded by an opportunity to them for establishing their innocence. That not having been done, the impugned demands were quashed and writs granted. ('62) 40 Mys L J 341 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative Tribunal should act according to essence of justice.

Every administrative tribunal in India which is required to decide upon the rights of parties must act in a manner conformable to the essence of justice. One cardinal factor in the administration of justice is that every litigant must be given a fair and proper opportunity of being heard and allowed to state his case to the utmost.

(Note — It was held that the Appellate Authority constituted under R. 73 of the Motor Vehicles Rules Madhya Pradesh erred in rushing through without giving a proper and effective chance to the appellant (a Transport Company) to state its case and that its order deserved to be quashed) 1956 Nag L J 66 : AIR 1956 Nag 235 (238) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

[Reversing the case on this point, it was held by the S C in AIR 1957 S C 23, that there was no failure of justice in the case.]

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Order in election petition alleged to have been passed against petitioner without hearing petitioner on his contentions — Contentions found to be untenable — Even assuming non-compliance with principles of natural justice High Court will not interfere in writ jurisdiction 31 Cut L T 128, Rel. on. 31 Cut L T 708 : ILR (1965) Cut 411 : AIR 1966 Orissa 12 (15) (Pt E) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Rule of—Admission by legal adviser—Party appearing as witness — Opportunity of explaining admission should be given—See Evidence Act (1872), S. 145. ILR (1963) Cut 901.

——Art. 226—Violation of — Orissa Gram Panchayat Rules (1949), R. 38A (b) — Removal of member for absence from three consecutive meetings — Member must be given opportunity to show cause against removal and the cause shown must be held to be insufficient by District Magistrate — Denial of opportunity vitiates order of removal. See Panchayats — Orissa Gram Panchayat Act (XV of 1948), S. 114. AIR 1963 Orissa 170 (DB).

——Art. 226—S. 30 of the Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, 1957 read with Rr. 54 and 55 Mineral Concession Rules confer wide powers of revision on Central Government—In exercise of this power, Central Government acts as quasi-judicial authority and must give parties concerned a reasonable opportunity of being heard— Revisional jurisdiction of Central Government. See Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (XLVII of 1957), S. 30. AIR 1962 Orissa 183 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Recovery proceedings for sales tax arrears — Order issuing a distress warrant passed ex parte by certificate officer without giving a hearing, on a date not fixed in the case — Order is illegal, ultra vires and without jurisdiction. AIR 1964 Pat 157 (157) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Objection under Bihar Panchayat Election Rules 1959, R. 23 (4)—It is against principles of natural justice to pass order to the prejudice of a party without giving him opportunity to be heard — S. D. M. cannot pass order under R 23 (4) against party without giving him some form of a notice so as to enable him to meet the objection raised against him. See Panchayats—Bihar Panchayat Election Rules (1959), R. 23 (4). 1963 B L J R 24.

——Art. 226 — Removal of President and member of Municipality — Right to be orally heard. See Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 16. AIR 1954 Pepsu 186 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 31 (1) — 'Property', meaning of— Principle of natural justice — Pensioner not given opportunity to meet basis for cancellation of pension granted to and enjoyed by him for many years — Order cancelling pension cannot be sustained — Provisions of S. 6 of T. P. Act and Ss. 11 and 12 of Pensions Act does not derogate from pension being a property, if it otherwise is so — Transfer of Property Act (1882), S. 6 — Pensions Act (1871), Ss. 11 and 12.

On a report of Medical Adviser (Pensions) the pension given to and enjoyed for many years by A, a person in army employment, was cancelled without giving him an opportunity to meet the basis for cancellation of his pension. The original record of the report of the Medical Adviser had not been available and was missing. It was contended that the cancellation of the pension was not in pursuant to any law, it being a gift or a bounty as the pensioner had not right to it. That the Government has full power to withdraw it when misapprehension or mistake in grant is discovered at later date as was the case of A. It was also contended that the pension granted to A was not property or right in property and hence Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution had no application and civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain suit regarding pension and it is not property within meaning of T. P. Act and Pensions Act.

Held, that the pension of A was property and according to Art. 31 (1) he could only be deprived of it by authority of law which had not happened in the case. That the order of cancellation of pension had been contrary to principles of natural justice.

If he had been given an opportunity of hearing he might have convinced the appropriate authority that there was no ground for the cancellation of his pension. The consequence of the order being deprivation of the pension, the act cannot be said to be administrative and is at least quasi-judicial. Case law discussed.

The word 'property' in Art. 31 has to be construed in the widest sense as connoting a bundle of rights exercisable by the owner in respect thereof and embracing within its purview both corporal and incorporal rights.

Merely because assignability of pensions is barred by statute that is no ground that it is not property if it is otherwise so. The list of rights and properties that are not assignable in S. 6 of T. P. Act itself speaks that but for such negative express provisions, those properties and rights would have been transferable. A restriction imposed by S. 12 of Pensions Act is of the same nature as negative provisions in S. 6 of T. P. Act on the transfer of certain properties or rights in properties and the immunity or exemption provided by S. 11 of Pensions Act does not derogate from a pension being property if it otherwise is so. ILR (1965) 2 Punj 1.

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

An order passed by the Deputy Collector, Customs, is invalid, where it is passed without giving any hearing to the petitioner. AIR 1963 Cal 331 and AIR 1965 Punj 84, Rel. on. 1965 Pun L R (Supp) 132.

——Art. 226—Natural justice— Cancellation of registration certificate of dealer — No fair opportunity to dealer to be heard given— Dealer is entitled to writ to quash the order. See Sales Tax — Punjab General Sales Tax Act (46 of 1948), S. 7 (4). (1963) 14 S T C 549 (Punj).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — Order proposed to be made against petitioner — Order affecting his fundamental right — No opportunity of showing cause given to petitioner — Rule of natural justice is violated — Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act (1955), S. 6.

Where an order proposed to be made is to the prejudice of the petitioner (in this case, cancellation of his licence in the form prescribed by the Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act, 1955 and the rules made thereunder) and if made affects his fundamental right such as one relating to carrying on his trade, the petitioner must be given a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the proposed action. And if such an opportunity, though requested to be given, is refused and the petitioner is not heard, the authority making such an order violates the rules of natural justice. In consequence, the order deserves to be quashed in a writ petition made under Art. 226 against the order. ('62) 64 Punj L R 478.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Rules of— Panchayats —Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953), S. 102 — Office of elected Panch and Sarpanch constitutes valuable right — Suspension and removal without show cause notice — Rules of natural justice violated. See Panchayats — Punjab Gram Panchayat Act (4 of 1953), S. 102. 1962 Cur L J 32.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Cancellation of licence for selling cement—Opportunity to licensee of being heard—Failure to afford—Effect — Art. 19 (1) (g)—Pepsu Cement Control Order (1949), Cl. (3) —(Patiala State Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Ordinance (2003 Bk.)).

Revocation of a licence to sell cement deprives the licensee of the right to carry on this trade which has been guaranteed to him as a fundamental right by the Constitution. An authority cannot condemn a citizen to this extent without giving him some opportunity to refute the allegations made against him and to explain his conduct. The power to cancel licence is to be exercised in accordance with the fundamental doctrine of natural justice. This doctrine is applicable in all cases in which a citizen of India has to suffer pecuniary loss in consequence of that order.

Where the Director never called upon the licenceholder to explain the allegations of blackmarketing which are alleged to have been made against him to that extent the Director did not follow the practice which he had adopted relating to the matter of realisation of advance prices from customers and the petitioner's licence was revoked under a misapprehension of the true situation by the Director. I L R (1958) Punj 36.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation of—Denial of hearing — (Displaced Persons (Supplementary Claims) Act (1954), S. 5 (3).)

Where the Settlement Commissioner in the revision under the Displaced Persons (Verification of Claims) Act passed an order relying on the verified claim of another person but that decision was not produced in the proceedings and the applicant was not asked any questions about that claim even in the interrogatories which were put to him on certain affidavits and also on the decisions of other claims which he produced.

Held, that the omission amounted to denial of hearing to the applicant and it violated the principles of natural justice as well as it was contrary to the provisions of S. 5 (3) of the 1954 Act. 1911 A C 179 and (1940) 4 All E R 132 and (1947) 2 All E R 395, Rel. on. ILR (1957) Punj 348 : 59 Punj L R 27 : AIR 1957 Punj 186 (190) (Pt E) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice. Cancellation of permit — Principles of fair play require that party should be given opportunity of being heard before decision is made. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64. AIR 1957 Punj 35.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Necessity to give opportunity to show cause against valuation — Proceedings involved in fixing value of property under R. 34-B, Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules, 1955 (as amended in 1960) are quasi judicial and not administrative — Even if they are not quasi-judicial it is necessary to give an opportunity to the person whose statutory rights in property are likely to be affected in those decisions, to be heard. This is for the maintenance of rule of law enshrined in Art. 14 of the Constitution — Ex parte orders are vitiated by error apparent on face of record. A I R 1965 Punj 484 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard—Application for special leave to appeal barred by limitation provided by S. 417 (4) Cr. P. C.—Application for condonation of delay under S. 5, Limitation Act —Leave granted to appeal in absence of respondent and without giving him opportunity to contest—Respondent can raise preliminary objection in appeal that the leave could not have been granted— Nobody should be bound by order passed in his absence. See Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 417 (3). 1965 (1) Cr L J 338 : AIR 1965 Raj 70 (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Rajasthan Panchayat Act (1953), S. 77 (f)—Scope of—Powers under S. 77 (f) are not unfettered—Order of dissolution of panchayat without giving it opportunity of hearing is not valid —Express provision of giving hearing was made in S. 73—Omission in S. 77, was not to give unfettered power to Government but only to avoid repetition. See Panchayats —Rajasthan Panchayat Act (XXI of 1953), S. 77 (f). AIR 1958 Raj 119 (DB).

——Art. 226 —Order for removal of ukardi (rubbish) passed behind back of petitioners—Violation of principles of natural justice. See Panchayats—Rajasthan Panchayat Act (21 of 1953), S. 26 (xi). 1959 Raj L W 29.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court— Order by Government in appeal under R. 16, Travancore-Cochin Paddy Control Orders, 1950—Disposal without hearing arguments of appellant—If illegal or ultra vires—Inquiry into merits of the case— Permissibility. See Travancore Cochin Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950. R. 16. AIR 1951 Trav-Co 241 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order—Validity challenged—Matter to be considered in such case.

Where the Board of Revenue, while functioning in a pure administrative capacity passes an order regarding the selection of site for a liquor shop under the powers vested in it by virtue of Abkari Rules and the person aggrieved by the order challenges its validity by a petition to the High Court, the question for the High Court to consider is whether the order is intra vires the powers of the authorities concerned and whether it had been rendered in a manner not offending the rules of natural justice. In such a case it is enough if an opportunity to state his case is given to the person concerned. He is not entitled as of right to be heard : AIR 1951 Mad 276, Ref. ILR (1951) T C 496 : 1951 Ker L T 158 : AIR 1951 Trav-Co 197 (202) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Opportunity of being heard not given—Effect—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64)—(Natural justice).

P and R were permit-holders running stage carriages on certain route. On variation in timings of P's buses R filed appeal and applied for stay of operation of the order. Notice was issued to P and on the date of hearing, parties were heard on the question of interim stay. The appellate Tribunal however passed the judgment on merits in favour of R. :

Held, that the decision was against the principles of natural justice and against the express provision of S. 64, Motor Vehicles Act and was liable to be quashed. AIR 1956 Vindh Pra 44 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

78 (b). Right to cross-examine.

●——Art. 226 — Domestic Tribunal — Enquiry by— Natural justice — Enquiry against workman's conduct —Enquiring officer not examining any witness—Only the workman against whom the enquiry was, examined — Report of officers against workman not read out — Officers though present not examined before workman nor allowed to be examined by the workman — Rules of natural justice held not followed— Industrial tribunal cannot rely on the finding of the domestic tribunal in order to decide whether permission should be granted to management under S. 33 to dismiss the workman pending the proceedings before the tribunal — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33. Bharat Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shri Jai Singh, 1962 (3) S C R 684.

● ——Art. 226—Reasonable opportunity to defend at the stage of departmental enquiry — Principles of natural justice—Violation of — Denial of opportunity to public servant to cross-examine witnesses who give evidence against him - Copies of documents to which public servant was entitled not supplied — Enquiry not in accordance with principles of natural justice and Art. 311 (2) violated—High Court, if can consider under Art. 226 propriety or validity of decision of enquiry officer. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1961 S C 1623.

●——Art. 226—Natural justice—Misconduct of cadet under training — Enquiry and expulsion from College —Cadet has no right to cross-examine witnesses at enquiry. See Police Act (1861), S. 46 (2) (c). 1964 (2) Cri L J 625 : A I R 1964 All 540 (FB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Statements written out by witnesses themselves merely handed over to Deputy Superintendent of Police who did record them — Reliance on such statements held contrary to provisions of rule contained in R. 490 — Rule is mandatory and not directory—Departure from general rule — Reasons for, must be recorded. See Police Act (1861), S. 7. 1964 All L J 576.

——Art. 226—Fair opportunity to defend — Enquiry under S. 7, Police Act—(Police Act (1861), S. 7).

It is certainly desirable that departmental enquiries should be conducted without any unnecessary delay, but the person whose conduct is being enquired into must be given a reasonable opportunity of defending himself not merely by calling defence witnesses but by testing the value of the prosecution evidence by cross-examination.

Held, on facts of the case that the petitioner did not have a fair hearing, and that the conduct of the enquiry might have proceeded on the assumption that the petitioner was guilty and could have no answer to the charges The petition under Art. 226 could therefore be allowed on these grounds.

Important as the discipline of the poli :e force is and desirable as it is for the High Court not to interfere lightly with orders of disciplinary action against police officers, there is no escaping the position that the procedure adopted in disallowing all leading questions in cross-examination was such as could prejudice a fair hearing of the case against the petitioner. 1954 All W R (HC) 138 · ILR (1954) 2 All 325 : 1954 Cri L J 874 : 1954 All L J 316 : A I R 1954 All 438 (439, 440, 441) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of workmen — Domestic tribunal, enquiry by—Charge of gross misconduct — Opportunity given to submit his written explanation — Right to cross-examine witnesses — No request that he should be given opportunity to cross-examine two officers whose evidence was against him — Standing orders made under S. 9 (c) of the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946 as amended—Principles of natural justice not violated. A I R 1963 Assam 155 (159) (Pt A) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Proceedings under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act.

Proceedings under the provisions of S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act are quasi-judicial proceedings. The rules of natural justice in quasi-judicial proceedings require that an opportunity should be furnished to a person to cross examine those who have made statements which are to be used against him A I R 1957 S C 882 and A I R 1959 S C 1111 and 61 Bom L R 1230, Rel. on.; AIR 1922 Bom 30 and App. No. 75 of 1956 (Misc. Appln. No. 184 of 1956), D/- 5-10-1956 (Bom.) Not. foll. 62 Bom L R 634 : 1961 (1) Cri L J 229 : AIR 1961 Bom 48 (50, 53) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 15).

——Art. 226 —Natural justice—Audi alteram partem —Right of cross-examination — Denial of—Effect— It is not denial of natural justice — Formal cross-examination is procedural justice governed by rules of evidence — Proceedings before Collector of Land Customs—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 182.

There is a good deal of misconception on the question of the right of cross-examination as part of natural justice. Ordinarily the principle of natural justice is that no man shall be a judge in his own cause and that no man should be condemned unheard. This latter doctrine is known as audi alteram partem. It is on this principle that natural justice ensures that both sides should be heard fairly and reasonably. A part of this principle is that if any reliance is placed on evidence or record against a person then that evidence or record must be placed before him for his information, comment and criticism. Formal cross-examination is procedural justice. It is governed by rules of evidence. Natural justice certainly includes that any statement of a person before it is accepted against somebody else, that somebody else should have an opportunity of meeting it. So long as the party charged has a fair and reasonable opportunity to see, comment and criticise the evidence, statement or record on which the charge is being made against him, the demands and the test of natural justice are satisfied. Natural justice must not be strained to become artificial justice. Procedural justice according to statutes or under statutory rules are different from the concepts of natural justice. There the procedure, under the statute or the Rules must govern A I R 1957 S C 882 and AIR 1963 S C 375, Disting ; A I R 1981 S C 1623, Rel. on. ('65) 69 Cal W N 864.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Disciplinary proceedings against petitioner — Petitioner not allowed to cross-examine witnesses — Copies of previous statements of witnesses not supplied—Confessional statement not brought on record — Enquiry against petitioner held was in violation of principles of natural justice—Enquiry held contravened Art. 311 (2). See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1966 Him Pra 13.

——Art. 226 and Art. 311 (2) — Quasi-judicial body —Departmental inquiry against Government servant —Procedure—Principles of natural justice—Servant not asking for opportunity to cross-examine witnesses—No violation of natural justice.

Where in an enquiry held against a Government servant, after the servant is given notice of the evidence gathered against him detailing the addresses of the witnesses and their respective statements against him, he is invited for a personal hearing on the matter before the tribunal and if with all the information he has he does not request the tribunal to give him an opportunity to cross examine the witnesses who spoke against him, the abstention from tendering the witnesses for the servant's cross examination without his asking for the same cannot be said to be violative of any rule of natural justice. (1960) 1 W L R 228, Rel. on. ILR (1961) 1 Ker 153 : 1961 Ker L J 315 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 50 : 1961 Ker L T 486 : A I R 1962 Ker 43 (47) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Opportunity to cross-examination not given — Rules of natural justice held violated. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). A I R 1962 Madh Pra 15 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Witnesses during departmental enquiry examined in presence of petitioner and on conclusion he was asked to cross-examine immediately — Petitioner declining and asking for time to file written statement — Time allowed —His demand for examining two more defence witnesses turned down—Dismissal ordered —No adequate opportunity — Dismissal quashed. See Ibid, Art. 311. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 57.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice —Domestic inquiry— It is not necessary that oral evidence should be recorded in presence of person charged — If copies of statement of witnesses are given to him and witnesses tendered for cross examination, there is no violation of principles of natural justice—Rule providing for recording oral statement in oral inquiry before person charged—But statements taken of some witnesses and later on read over to person charged and got verified before him by witnesses who were cross-examined—There was held substantial compliance with the rules. (1965) 2 Lab L J 66 : AIR 1964 Mad 491 (492, 493) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — 'Showing cause'—Interpretation of—Opportunity to cross-examine not afforded — Principles of natural justice held sacrificed — (Words and Phrases — 'Showing cause'). See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1956 Manipur 34.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Enquiry by Customs Authority in adjudging confiscation or penalty—Sea Customs Act (1878), Ss. 167 (8), 168, 182 — Issue of writ.

In the case of an enquiry conducted by a statutory body, the rules of natural justice require that evidence of the opponent should be taken in the presence of the party and that he should be given an opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses examined by the opponent. Where in proceedings under the Sea Customs Act, the Customs Authority passed an order of confiscation and penalty against the petitioners after taking the evidence of the witnesses for the opponent behind the back of the petitioners and without giving the petitioners an opportunity of cross-examining them, the enquiry must be held to have been conducted in a manner violative of all principles of natural justice and the order of the Customs Authority cannot be allowed to stand. A I R 1958 S C 86 and A I R 1957 S C 882 and A I R 1959 S C 1111, Rel. on ; A I R 1957 S C 232, Disting ; A I R 1919 Bom 30, Foll. 39 Mys L J 313 : ILR (1960) Mys 534 : A I R 1961 Mys 203 (204, 206) (Prs 5, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of—Violation of. R. 55, of Civil Services (C C A) Rules was expressly made with a view to ensure that principles of natural justice are complied with before any public servant is held guilty of misconduct—Finding based on inadmissible evidence—Charge must be supported by evidence adduced during enquiry and tested by cross-examination at the said enquiry. See Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R 55. ILR (1958) Cut 1.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Proceeding under Sea Customs Act (1878)—Accused and his counsel present at time of hearing to show cause notice — Copies of statements of witnesses supplied— No objection taken that evidence was recorded in absence of accused — No request for re-examination of witnesses or for permission to cross-examine though witnesses present — No violation of rules of natural justice 64 Pun L R 496 and AIR 1963 All 94 and AIR 1957 S C 882, Disting.; AIR 1963 S C 734 and AIR 1964 S C 477, Ref. 1965 Pun L R (Supp) 316.

78 (c). Enquiry by person having interest.
See also Note 129.

●——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal—Natural justice — Rules of — Procedure — Employee charged with misconduct—Officers claiming to have seen misconduct are disqualified from holding enquiry—Elaborate cross-examination of employee at commencement of enquiry constitutes infirmity — Desirability of intimating employee about date of enquiry, pointed out. Bharat Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shri Jai Singh, (1964) 3 S C R 652.

■——Art. 226—Section 59 of the Bombay Police Act —Validity — Natural justice—Externment order can only be passed by Commissioner of Police, District Magistrate or Sub Divisional Magistrate specially empowered—Satisfaction is not that of the person prosecuting, though proceedings are not prosecutions for offences or judicial proceedings though the officer or authority charged with duty has to examine the information laid before him by police—Proceedings cannot be said to have been initiated by police—Police is not the judge and the provisions of the Act do not militate against one of the accepted principles of natural justice, that the prosecutor should not also be the judge. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (d). AIR 1956 S C 559, ——Art. 226 —Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 43 —Ajmer Rules, R. 18 (a) and (b) — Embezzlement in Co-operative bank — Dispute referred to Registrar— Responsibility of Registrar's department for embezzlement—Competency of Registrar to act as tribunal— Natural justice— See Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 43. AIR 1956 Ajmer 63.

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — One having bias against another not to try him—Exception—Doctrine of necessity and statutory authorisation.

It is one of the accepted principles of natural justice that no one should be a judge in his own cause and that a person who has a bias against another person should not try him. This principle applies not only to Courts of justice or judicial tribunals but also to other authorities who have to act judicially in deciding the rights of others i. e., authorities who are empowered to discharge quasi-judicial functions. AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1959 S C 1376, Rel. on.

This general rule, however, has an exception, namely, that a Judge who would otherwise be disqualified may act in a case of necessity where no other Judge has jurisdiction. So also, if the statute itself confers a power on an authority and imposes a duty on it which may have the effect of making him a Judge in his own cause or to decide a dispute in which he has an official bias, the doctrine of bias stands qualified to the extent of the statutory authorisation. (1877) 2 Q B D 558, Rel. on. AIR 1962 All 117 (119) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Bias — Relation of presiding officer brought into controversy—Presiding officer is not disqualified — (Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 76.)

There is no rule of natural justice by which a person may be disentitled to hold an enquiry or adjudicate on any matter simply because some relation of his is directly or indirectly brought into the controversy. He does not thereby become his own judge nor can he be said to be biased.

The president of municipality can hold an enquiry into the charges of misappropriation brought against a servant of the Board and the fact that the servant raises a plea that the money was given to the son-in-law of the president does not disqualify the President from holding the inquiry. 1960 All L J 409.

——Art. 226 — Dismissal of employee—Reference to Labour Court—Considerations—Principles of natural justice—What are—Departmental enquiry by General Manager—Bias—General Manager examined as witness —Held, enquiry was vitiated. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1). AIR 1960 Andh Pra 526 (DB).

——Art. 226 —Natural justice — Principles — Citizenship Act, S. 18—Rules under—R. 30—Constitutionality —It is not opposed to natural justice—Though Central Govt. can appoint independent tribunal to investigate the question of acquisition of citizenship of a foreign country, the power is wide and comprehensive enough to enable it to appoint itself as authority to determine the question. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2). AIR 1957 Andh Pra 1047 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Natural justice—Principle that no person shall be judge in his own cause— Applicability — Disciplinary proceedings against delinquent for his action in making allegations against superior authority — Departmental enquiry held by superior authority through one of his subordinates — Likelihood of bias — Opportunity to be heard given to delinquent in such case held not reasonable — Principle of natural justice violated—Objection as to existence of alternative relief not available in such case.

The cardinal principle of administration of justice is that no person shall be a judge in his own cause. This principle applies not only to the regular Courts which administer justice, but it applies also to quasi-judicial tribunals which are also required to act judicially. It applies not only in a case where the judge or the adjudicator is himself the prosecutor or the suitor, but it applies also to all those cases where the judge or the adjudicator is so situated with reference to the lis that there is a real likelihood of bias taking place in the final decision of the case. The principle extends even to those cases where, though the Judge or the adjudicator is not personally interested in the matter, he is so situated with reference to the matter of any of the parties to the dispute that a reasonable apprehension is likely to arise in the mind of any one of the disputants that he is not likely to get justice at the hands of the judge or the adjudicator. The decision having been arrived at by a disqualified person is no decision in the eye of law and even if it happens to be a correct decision in the opinion of the Court before which the decision is brought, the same deserves to be set aside because a disqualified person has no jurisdiction to pass even a correct order or record a right decision.

Held, on facts (i) that the principle of law that no person shall be a judge in his own cause or in a cause in which he is personally interested applied to the facts of the instant case. Although the Divisional Engineer could not be put in the position of either a prosecutor or a suitor, having regard to the fact that he had taken upon himself and was required to determine the truth or otherwise of allegations which were made against himself, he was so situated with reference to the departmental enquiry that he forfeited his qualifications to be an adjudicator therein. There was a real likelihood of bias being exhibited by him and therefore he was disqualified to hold the enquiry; (ii) that looking from another standpoint Art. 311 requires not merely that an opportunity to show cause against action to be taken, should be given to the delinquent but that the opportunity must be reasonable: (iii) that since a rule of natural justice, was violated the ordinary principle of law that the extraordinary relief should not be granted when an alternative relief is available could not be applied. ILR (1964) Guj 45 : (1964) 5 Guj L R 175 : AIR 1964 Guj 139 (143, 144, 145) (Prs 11, 12, 14, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Violation of — Principles of—What amounts to—Enquiry under S. 57 (a), Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951)—Initiation by Inspector—Is not opposed to principles of natural justice — Fact that a departmental subordinate is one of the parties to a quasi-judicial proceeding before his official superior does not necessarily involve a hazard — Apart from this, the interest of the party are sufficiently protected by reservation of right of suit and appeal from decree therein to the High Court. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 57 (a). 1958 Ker L J 720.

——Art. 226—Collector acting as authority competent to award punishment—Collector subsequently appearing as witness in enquiry on basis of facts which had come to his knowledge before commencement of enquiry — There is violation of the rules of natural justice and disregard of all canons of fair play. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1962 Madh Pra 15 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

The officer appearing as a witness in enquiry against the petitioner on a very material point, heard the appeal and dismissed it.

Held, that the officer was clearly disqualified from hearing the appeal. It was an elementary proposition that a person giving evidence in a case acquired an interest in the case and was consequently disqualified from trying it. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 154.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation of—Statutory bodies—Combination of functions of a prosecutor and Judge—Validity—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 60 — Mysore Motor Vehicles and Road Traffic Rules (1957), R. 10.

Although it is opposed to the principles of natural justice for a person to function as a Judge in his own cause, if a statute permits or requires the authority or functionary to discharge both the functions of a prosecutor and of a Judge, it must be held that the statute considers that the combination of two functions in the same authority or functionary is necessary for giving effect to the purposes of the Act and such combination is not open to objection on the ground that it amounts to a breach of one of the principles of natural justice. While dealing with statutory bodies or other authorities or functionaries functioning under a statute, the principles of natural justice in relation to the functioning of those bodies, authorities or functionaries have necessarily to be ascertained from or in the light of, the provisions contained in that statute itself.

In the matter of cancellation or suspension of permits for the breach of any of the conditions contained in the permit the Motor Vehicles Act not only tolerates but for its due enforcement actually requires a combination in the Regional Transport Authority of the two functions, one of ascertaining the circumstances accusatory of a permit-holder and other of punishing him under S. 60 on the strength of those circumstances. Such exercise cannot be held to be violative of principles of natural justice. There is nothing in S. 60 or in any other provision of the Act which provides that the power to cancel or suspend a permit for the breach of any of the conditions contained therein can be exercised only if that breach is brought to the notice of the Regional Transport Authority by some third party and not if the Authority itself discovers or otherwise acquires knowledge of any such breach by a permit holder. All that the section requires is that when the power to cancel a permit is sought to be exercised, opportunity should be given to the holder of the permit to furnish his explanation The Regional Transport Authority which has the power to grant a permit and the power to enforce the observance of the conditions thereof is not deprived of the latter power for reason only of the fact that the knowledge of the circumstances in which that power can be exercised is acquired directly by it and not upon information furnished by some other person. (1963) 1 Mys L J 131 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Principles of—Bias—Complaint against accused under Panchayat Act—Panchayat cannot be the judge in its own cause—Panchayats — Punjab Gram Panchayats Act (4 of 1953), S. 109.

A complaint under S. 109 (1) of the Act for damage to Panchayat property cannot be tried and decided ex parte by the Panchayat itself, as the Panchayat itself is the complainant and the Judge and the principles of natural justice are violated in the case. The decision of the Panchayat and the resulting convictions of the petitioners thereon, cannot therefore, be upheld. AIR 1959 S C 1376: AIR 1960 S C 468, Foll. ILR (1960) 2 Punj 772.

—Art. 226—Superintendent of Police insulted by Sub. Inspector—Superintendent suspending Inspector and enquiry against him ordered—Enquiry entrusted to Subordinate Official — Held, Superintendent being aggrieved party should not have entrusted enquiry to his subordinate — He could not assume the role of prosecutor and Judge also. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1959 Punj 402.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Person interested in dispute not to be appointed as arbitrator to decide it.

An employee of an auditors' firm which had been responsible for checking the accounts of the Bank from year to year should not, on principles of natural justice be appointed as one of the members of an arbitration Tribunal for deciding the dispute with regard to certain defalcations made by the director of the Bank. If he is so appointed, the tribunal so constituted cannot be allowed to function. 1960 Raj L W 561 : I L R (1960) 10 Raj 1070.

78(d). Right to know charge.

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64—Motor Vehicles Rules, R. 73—Applications for permit for certain route by S and P — P's application rejected on ground of adverse police report — Appeal by P — Further report by police — Appellate Authority reading out second police report to parties – No objection by parties and no request for adjournment—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64) —(Motor Vehicles Rules, R. 73).

The question whether the rules of natural justice have been observed in a particular case must itself be judged in the light of the constitution of the statutory body which has to function in accordance with the rules laid down by the Legislature and in that sense the rules themselves must vary.

Held, on facts (1) there was nothing in the rules requiring a copy of the police report to be furnished to any of the parties, nor were there any circumstances necessitating the adjournment of the hearing of the appeal particularly when no request for such an adjournment had been made. The rules framed under Chap. IV for "the conduct and hearing of the appeals that might be preferred under the Chapter (S 68(2)(b)) did not contemplate any such facilities being granted to the parties. (2) It was more for the information of the authorities concerned with the granting of permits than for the use of the several applicants for such permit that the revised Police report was made. Hence there was no failure of natural justice. A I R 1956 Nag 235, Reversed. New Prakash Transport Co., Ltd. v. New Suwarna Transport Co., Ltd. 1957 M P C 205 : 1957 S C A 178 : 1957 Jab L J 344 : 1957 S C J 236 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 157 : 1957 S C R 98 : AIR 1957 S C 232 (236, 237, 241, 242) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 19).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Order of Vice-Chancellor of University debarring student from appearing in examination on ground of his having used unfair means at examination—Ex parte order—Merely calling for explanation from student without telling the nature of it and without telling him of the report against him did not meet the requirements of Natural justice. AIR 1958 All 792 (793, 794) (Prs 2, 3).

——Art. 226—Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895) S. 7 (1-A) (as introduced by Andhra Act (23 of 1955) Expression 'Collector' includes Revenue Divisional Officer—Order of suspension passed without serving charge sheet—Violation of principles of natural justice—Order held illegal. See Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895), S. 7 (1-A) (as introduced by Andhra Act (23 of 1955). 1961 Andh L T 725.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Madras Co-operative Societies Act, 1932—Transitory bye-law authorising Registrar to nominate and cancel nomination of director—Registrar cancelling nomination at behest of Government on confidential communication—The procedure offends not only the bye-law but also the rules of natural justice, inasmuch as secret communication sent behind the back of the Director was acted upon by the Registrar without giving the Director an opportunity of knowing its nature and meeting the allegations therein. See Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932). (1959) 1 Andh W R 400.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Principles of natural justice—Order merely dispensing with services of temporary servant without any charges.

When an authority is constituted a domestic Tribunal and has got to hold an inquiry into the conduct of a person, it must observe the rules of natural justice. The Government would only be a domestic Tribunal if it is inquiring and investigating into any charge levelled against a temporary servant. But where Government has not levelled any charges against him but has simply dispensed with his services, it is not a case where any inquiry has to be held against him, and therefore neither the question of a domestic Tribunal nor the question of following the rules of natural justice can arise in such case. (1957) 2 Lab L J 189 : ILR (1956) Bom 767 : 58 Bom L R 673 : AIR 1956 Bom 455 (459) (Pt F) (Pt 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Quasi-judicial orders—Failure of natural justice—Confiscation of bettlenuts seized from petitioner—Order based on reports of experts—Reports not disclosed to petitioner — Order must be quashed in certiorari proceedings—Collector of Customs is administrative tribunal of quasi-judicial nature—He must observe rules of natural justice. See Land Customs Act (1924), S. 5 (3). 1965 (1) Cri L J 292 : AIR 1965 Cal 156.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Proceedings under—Motor Vehicles Act—Appellant not given opportunity to look into contents of police report — Effect See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64. ('57) 61 Cal W N 779.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Requirements — Income tax—Assessment on best judgment— Assessment based on comparable cases — Information made available by department not disclosed to assessee—Effect of. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23 (4). AIR 1958 Ker 44 (DB).

——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial tribunal—Syndicate of University—Consideration of discipline of students by—Its jurisdiction in such matter is quasi-judicial—Student rusticated without framing charges—Order of rustication deserves to be quashed.

The final authority in matters of discipline among students is vested in the syndicate, but no particular procedure to be followed in dealing with cases of discipline has been prescribed either by the statutory provisions or regulations made thereunder. Even so, Syndicate, when it exercises its jurisdiction in disciplinary matters, functions in a quasi-judicial capacity. It is, therefore, bound not only to arrive at a conclusion or finding on the facts and proof of the charge but also give reasons therefor. The jurisdiction of the syndicate to inflict punishment on candidates for misconduct is quasi-judicial in character. AIR 1962 S C 1110, Rel. on.

Held, on facts of this case that as the syndicate had reached a conclusion on the guilt or otherwise of an examinee student without reference to the charges framed against the student, in the absence of any conclusion expressed by the syndicate in its resolution or the order of the University, the order of rustication of the student was vitiated and had to be set aside. 75 Mad L W 591 : (1963) 1 Mad L J 24 : ILR (1963) Mad 177 : AIR 1963 Mad 31 (31, 32, 33) (Prs 2, 3, 6).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Termination of employee's service in accordance with terms of contract of employment—But termination in substance for misconduct by employee — Specific charges of misconduct not framed and employee not given reasonable opportunity of rebutting them—Termination of service amounts to colourable exercise of power by employer. 1965 B L J R 947.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Standing Committee of University finding petitioner guilty of using unfair means in examination — Report of expert relied on by Standing Committee—Petitioner not informed of existence of report—Order of Standing Committee disqualifying petitioner for two years — Order held could not be allowed to stand and must be set aside.

The petitioner, a student, appeared in the Matriculation Examination held by the Punjab University from a certain centre. It was found that some students were using unfair means. The Assistant Registrar was deputed to hold an inquiry and the petitioner appeared before him. He was put questions with reference to the English paper contained in the questionnaire, which he answered. After perusal of the report of the Head Examiner in the English paper and the statements of the petitioner, the matter was referred by the Assistant Registrar to an expert for his considered opinion. After comparing the various answer books in the English Paper, the expert gave an opinion, which was adverse to the petitioner. The petitioner, however was never informed of the existence of report. It was after the receipt of the report that the Standing Committee found the petitioner guilty of using unfair means. The question was whether the Standing Committee was justified in relying on the report of the expert, which was prejudicial to the petitioner, without giving any indication to him of the existence of such report.

Held, that since the petitioner at no stage was informed of the expert's report the order of the university disqualifying the petitioner for two years could not be allowed to stand and must be set aside. AIR 1965 Punj 120 (FB), Foll. AIR 1964 Punj 327, Disting. 67 Punj L R 693 : AIR 1966 Punj 152 (155) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Standing committee debarring candidate from sitting at future examinations for unfair practice—Committee finding candidate guilty of unfair practice relying on expert's report the existence of which report was never brought to the notice of candidate at any stage of enquiry—Held order of committee debarring candidate must be set aside as the use of the report had prejudiced the candidate. AIR 1965 Punj 120 (FB), Rel. on. AIR 1966 Punj 152 Followed. ('65) 67 Pun L R 1162.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Examinee disqualified for use of unfair means in examination—Examinee not adequately informed of the case he had to meet nor afforded full opporunity of meeting it—Disqualification order nor supported by any evidence—High Court would be justified to quash the order. AIR 1965 Punj 120 (FB), Foll ; AIR 1962 S C 1110 and AIR 1966 S C 875, Rel. on.; 64 Pun L R 944, Disting. 1965 Cur L J 182 (Punj).

78 (e). Bias.

See also Note 129.

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principles — Personal bias — What constitutes — Quasi-judicial officer or tribunal — Disqualification of, to try a cause on ground of personal bias — Effect of on validity of order.

If a person has a pecuniary interest in the case brought before him, or is hostile to a party whose cause he is called upon to try, that would introduce the infirmity of bias and would disqualify him from trying the cause. In dealing with cases of bias, it is necessary to remember that 'no one can act in a judicial capacity if his previous conduct gives ground for believing that he cannot act with an open mind.' The broad principle which is universally accepted is that a person trying a cause even in quasi-judicial proceedings, must not only act fairly, but must be able to act above suspicion of unfairness. The proper significance of 'Bias' is to denote a departure from the standard of evenhanded justice which the law requires from those who occupy judicial office or those who are commonly regarded as holding a quasi-judicial office, such as an arbitrator.

Five writ petitions were filed by different persons who were affected by the common order passed by the Minister under S. 68-D (2), Motor Vehicles Act. The validity of the order was challenged on various grounds, but in one of them the petitioner, even though he had not raised the objection before the Minister passing the order challenged the order on the ground of personal bias.

Held, that the elementary rule of natural justice that a person trying a cause, though in a quasi-judicial proceeding should not suffer from a personal bias, is of such great significance that its application cannot be controlled by considerations which are confined to a particular writ petitioner against whom bias of the quasi-judicial authority is alleged and the fact that he failed to raise the objection as to bias before the authority itself would have no relevance in regard to the complaints raised by other writ petitioners in challenging the validity of the impugned order. Andhra Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation, Hyderabad v. Sri Satyanarayana Transports (P.) Ltd., Guntur, (1965) 2 S C W R 186 : (1965) 2 S C A 305 : AIR 1965 S C 1303 (1306) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10).

——Art. 226 — Principles of natural justice — President of Municipal Board alleged to have bias against Executive Officer himself holding enquiry against officer under S. 69 A, U. P. Municipalities Act — Recommendatory powers of President, he having no power to punish officer — Enquiry by him does not infringe principles of natural justice—AIR 1956 S C 559, Rel. on — It is the Government alone that can punish the Executive Officer—Unless it is shown that the Government has a bias, it cannot be precluded from deciding the matter. AIR 1962 All 117 (121, 122) (Pt D) (Prs. 13, 16).

——Art. 226 —Previous offences taken into consideration, while awarding punishment — Natural justice, principle of, it violated. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1959 All 624.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice, what is not.

Where the Sessions Judge while setting aside the conviction under S. 409, Penal Code, of the accused who was an employee of a Co-operative Union observed that it was possible that the accused might be liable departmentally or in the Civil Court though he may not be criminally liable and on this ground if the Union dispensed with the services of the accused, it could not be said that the Union had done anything which was against the principles of natural justice or amounting to an error of law on account of which the High Court would have jurisdiction to interfere in the matter. (1956) 1 Lab L J 242 : AIR 1956 All 43 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Principles of — Rule of bias — Exceptions.

The rule as to bias of the deciding authority has certain exceptions. One is necessity. The second exception is where the statute itself provides that notwithstanding the presence of pecuniary or other interest the members of a tribunal are not disqualified from participating in the proceeding. The question of the bias is a relevant factor in the case of a tribunal discharging judicial or quasi-judicial functions where there is a triangular situation, of two parties to a dispute and a third person to decide.

Where on the complaint of a sanitary overseer against the sanitary inspector in the service of a Cantonment Board, charges are framed by a sub-committee against the latter and the entire Cantonment Board is investigating into the charges it cannot be said that the dispute is one between one of the members of the Board and the employee. Further, under R. 11 of the Cantonment Fund Servants Rules, it is the Board that should take the disciplinary action, against the Sanitary Inspector in accordance with the procedure prescribed under R. 12. In such a case the fact that one of its members is presumed to have previous knowledge of the facts of the charge cannot disqualify him from sitting on the Board or invalidate the proceedings. If, the enquiry is not conducted in strict conformity with the rules of procedure laid down in the Cantonment Fund Servants Rules or other principle of natural justice, it is open to him to seek such remedies as he has under the rules or seek for such reliefs as he may be entitled to under the general law: (1882) 9 Q B D 454, Rel. on ; AIR 1959 S C 308, Dist. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 37 (42, 43) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 19, 21, 22, 23).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice — Violation of — Judge sitting in appeal over his own judgment.

A Judge who has rendered a judgment in any judicial proceeding before him should not hear an appeal therefrom. It is in violation of an essential principle of natural justice and opposed to all canons of judicial propriety. 1906-1 K B 362, Rel. on. 1960 Andh L T 424.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Proceedings under Art. 311 (2) — Administrative Tribunal — Bias — Effect.

Proceedings before administrative tribunals need not be according to the procedure familiar to law Courts. But the tribunals must conform to principles of natural justice and cannot act contrary to canons of fair play. Bias of the enquiring authority, is, therefore, fatal to its decision and the position is not different where only one of those constituting the tribunal is shown to have prejudged the issue. The defect goes further where it constitutes infringement of the constitutional right conferred on the public servant by Art. 311 (2). The enquiry by a Committee, whose member had prejudged the issue, is, therefore, no compliance with the constitutional direction. (1958) 2 Lab L J 298 : 1958 Andh L T 766 : (1958) 2 Andh W R 281 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 636 (637) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principle of — Appointing biased person to hold enquiry under Art. 311. See Ibid, Art. 311. (1957) 1 Andh W R 172: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 414 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Co-operative Society — Deputy Registrar holding inquiry — Registrar coming to findings thereon — Appointment of Deputy Registrar as arbitrator — Validity—If opposed to natural justice. See Co-operative Societies — Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 51 (2). (1957) 2 Andh W R 22.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Bias — Enquiry against Station Master—Enquiring officer proceeding on basis of his personal knowledge about general State of affairs in railway stations — No particular attempt was made to enquire whether that state of affairs was in existence at that particular station — Held, servant was prejudiced. (1965) 10 Fac L R 263 (Cal).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Domestic tribunal —Contractual domestic tribunal procedure — Principles of natural justice including rule of bias, applicability—Cochin Devaswom Board feeling aggrieved by false denials of their statements by Principal of College managed by them, themselves holding inquiry into misconduct and dismissing principal—Inquiry is by biased judges in violation of principles of natural justice and dismissal order is illegal. (1924) 1 K B 256 and (1919) 2 Ch 276 and AIR 1956 Cal 662 and AIR 1951 S C 86; AIR 1958 Andh Pra 636 ; AIR 1959 S C 308; AIR 1959 S C 1376 and (1929) 1 Ch 602, Rel. on. (1961) 2 Lab L J 562 : ILR (1961) 1 Ker 447 : 1961 Ker L T 290 : 1961 Kar L J 389 : AIR 1961 Ker 282 (285, 286) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Misconduct by Police officer in investigation of crime — Enquiry into misconduct entrusted to Deputy Superintendent of Police under whose supervision delinquent officer was working during investigation—No allegation that the officer holding the enquiry was in any way biased or prejudiced against delinquent officer—No violation of the principles of natural justice — Constitution of India, Art. 311. 1964 Mad W N 295 : 77 Mad L W 586 : I L R (1964) 2 Mad 526 : A I R 1965 Mad 103 (107) (Pt F) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Enquiry by—No rule prescribed for order in which witnesses should be examined — Person proceeded against, should be given opportunity to rebut evidence — Evidence Act (1872), S. 135—Natural justice (1965) 1 Lab L J 88 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 364 : (1966) 12 Fac L R 219.

——Art. 226 — Bias — Proof of—Misconduct of employee of Company — Enquiry by Tribunal consisting of Board of Directors—Some Directors giving statements earlier in support of charges—Order of Board dismissing employee biased.

An order terminating the services of an employee of a Company, passed after an enquiry by the Board of Directors, in which two of the Directors gave statements earlier in support of the charges against the employee, is liable to be set aside. Having given statements against the employee in relation to the charges framed, they could not form part of the Tribunal to sit in judgment over those very charges.

Where a person who discharges a quasi-judicial function has by his conduct shown that he is interested or appears to be interested, that will disentitle him from acting in that capacity. No Tribunal can be a judge in its own cause and any person who sits in judgment over the rights of others should be free from any kind of bias and must be able to bring to bear an impartial and objective mind to the questions in controversy.

In such a case, it is not required that bias should be actually proved. This is because justice must not only be rendered but must appear to be rendered. It is no doubt true that a distinction is made between pecuniary interest and other kinds of interest. In the case of the former, pecuniary interest would at once disqualify a person from acting as a judge. But in the other kind of alleged bias, it may be necessary to consider whether there is a reasonable ground to consider the possibility of bias and whether it is likely to produce in the minds of the litigant or the public at large a reasonable doubt about the fairness of the administration of justice. AIR 1957 S C 425. Foll. (1962) 2 Lab L J 482 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 193 : AIR 1963 Mad 76 (77) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 6).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Rules of—Departmental enquiry—Inquiry Officer gathering evidence against accused — It violates principles of natural justice.

In departmental disciplinary proceedings, it is certainly not necessary that there should be a separate prosecutor and in the nature of things, no objection could be taken to an Inquiry Officer himself getting and gathering all the material against the accused officer so long as he conforms to the juridical norms and holds all the proceedings in the presence of the accused official and informs him of any material which he is likely to use against such an official. ('66) 68 Pun L R 174.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Investigation into affairs of company — Investigating Inspector, an employee in Company Law Administration — Natural Justice if violated. See Companies Act (1956) (as amended by Act 53 of 1963), S. 240 (5). I L R (1965) 2 Punj 339 (DB).

78 (f). Notice.

● —Art. 226—Natural justice—Reasonable opportunity of being heard — Absence of notice — Not necessarily fatal.

If a reasonable opportunity of being heard cannot be given without the service of a notice, the omission to serve the notice would be fatal. Where, however, proper hearing can be given without service of notice, it does not matter at all, and all that has to be seen is whether, even though no notice was given, a reasonable opportunity of being heard was given. Fazal Bhai v. Custodian-General Evacuee Property, A I R 1961 S C 1397 (1399) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Deciding appeal without notice to opposite party is against rule—Natural Justice. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64. A I R 1956 Ajmer 41.

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice—Income-tax recovery proceedings — Order granting or vacating stay—Ex parte order vacating stay, passed on extraneous considerations and incorrect information—Order is violative of principles of natural justice. (1965) 2 I T J 85 : AIR 1966 All 176 (180, 181) (Pt B) (Prs 20, 21, 24).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Order imposing penalty without prior notice and opportunity to assessee to be heard is bad in law. See U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act, 1948 (3 of 1949), S. 31. 1965 All L J 1102.

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Section 8, U. P. (Nagar Kshetra) Bhumi Aur Bhawan Kar Adhiniyam (XII of 1962), Ss. 8 and 4—Providing only general notice for cases not covered by Cl. (2) of S. 4 — No violation of principles of natural justice. See U. P. (Nagar Kshetra) Bhumi Aur Bhawan Kar Adhiniyam (12 of 1962), S. 8. 1965 All W R (HC) 35 : 1965 All L J 201 : I L R (1965) 1 All 427.

——Art. 226—U P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950 (1 of 1951), Ss. 46, 47 and 343—Only when State appears in response to notice under S. 46, that it is entitled to notice under S. 47—Second part of S. 343 (1) provides the manner in which the notice is to be sent—State not appearing under S. 46, is not entitled to notice on basis of natural justice. See Tenancy Laws — U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (1 of 1951), S. 46. AIR 1962 All 590 (DB).

——Art. 226—Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended in 1956), S. 64-A — Notice to show cause why permit should not be revised — Ambiguity as to whether issued under S. 64-A or S. 60 (1) (d)—Effect—Writ to quash notice, issued See Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended in 1956), S. 64-A. A I R 1959 All 495.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Violation — (U. P. Excise Act (4 of 1910), S. 11).

No rules had been prescribed which made it obligatory for the Excise Commissioner to give any notice to a party interested in the subject matter of the appeal. In making his order the Excise Commissioner acted only, at best, in a quasi-judicial manner.

Held, that the basis of the order of the Appellate Authority was administrative convenience, and there had been no violation of any rule of natural justice in regard to notice. I L R (1959) 1 All 529 : 1959 All L J 514 : 1959 All W R (H C) 380 : A I R 1959 All 460 (462, 463) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election petition dismissed for default—Petitioner not getting information of dates of hearing of his petition — Power to restore petition under Art. 226. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 9, R. 13. A I R 1958 All 587 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Opportunity to be heard — Bihar State Universities (University of Bihar, Bhagalpur and Ranchi) (Amendment) Act (13 of 1962), S. 4 — First order by Chancellor, disapproving appointment of petitioner as lecturer but allowing him to continue as lecturer only for certain period, passed without notice to petitioner — Subsequent order disapproving appointment passed after issuing show-cause notice — Held, second order must govern petitioner's case as first order though illegal and void was superseded by second order. A I R 1966 Andh Pra 11 (13) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice — Auction sale set aside without notice — Auction sale for very low value—Special Deputy Tahsildar conducting sale alleging collusion and fraud among auctioners in his report to Revenue Divisional Officer — Auction sale set aside after three years without giving reasonable opportunity to auction-purchaser to represent against allegations of collusion and fraud — Orders setting aside auction sale quashed as there was violation of principles of natural justice. (1965) 1 Andh L T 65 : (1965) 1 Andh W R 118.

——Art. 226—Rules of natural justice—Order under S. 8 (3) (d) of Rice Milling Industry (Regulation) Act (1958)—No provision for notice to aggrieved parties and for hearing objections — Order held not opposed to principles of natural justice.

The rules of natural justice have to be inferred from the nature of the Tribunal, the scope of its enquiry and the statutory rules of procedure laid down by the law for carrying out the objectives of the statute. Since there was no rule under the Rice Milling Industry (Regulation) Act which required that before any order under S. 8 (3) (d) is passed, notice should be given to the parties affected and their objections heard and considered before a final order is made, only because the objections were not heard and considered before granting the expansion of a rice mill, the order cannot be held to be opposed to the principles of natural justice. 1915 A C 120 and (1943) 2 All E R 337 and (1949) 1 All E R 199 and A I R 1957 S C 232 and A I R 1958 S C 398 and A I R 1961 S C 705, Rel. on. (1962) 2 Andh W R 156 : I L R (1963) Andh 595 : (1962) 2 Andh L T 268 : A I R 1962 Andh Pra 363 (367, 368) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Partnership firm of C and B — Assessment completed — Notice of demand served — Non-compliance — Certificate under S. 46 (2) issued — B died thereafter — Proceedings pursuant to certificate continued—Properties in hands of B's son attached—S. 29 not violated though B's son was not served with notice — Certificate under S. 46 (2) was valid—Hence, not interfered under Art. 226 of Constitution.

See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 29. (1962) 46 I T R 882 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Quasi-judicial orders by administrative authority — Audi alteram partem — Andhra University—Election dispute—Appeal against election — Absence of provision requiring appellate authority to give notice to affected person — Order passed without notice violates principles of natural justice — Andhra University Act (2 of 1926), S. 27— Andhra University Code, Vol. 1, R. 4. (1961) 1 Andh W R 437 : 1961 Andh L T 371 : A I R 1961 Andh Pra 465 (466, 467) (Prs 8, 15, 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari, writ of — Sales-tax assessment order behind back of petitioner — Denial of natural justice—Order may be quashed.

A sales-tax assessment order passed against a person without an opportunity being given to him to attend the hearing must be held to be void on the ground of denial of natural justice and may be quashed by the High Court by the issue of a writ of certiorari in spite of the fact that other remedies are available. (1960) 11 S T C 804 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Order directing payment of compensation—Appeal — Notice not given to accused — Effect — Legality of order. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 250 (3). 1958 Cri L J 726 : A I R 1958 Andh Pra 335.

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial order of Government relating to assignment on Darkhast of Sivoijama land, setting at naught the order of Revenue Board, without notice held illegal and ought to be set aside. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 447 (450) (Pt E) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226—Notice of hearing—Requirements of—Though issuing of notice on other operators is not obligatory under R. 268, the principle of natural justice require that they should be given notice before alteration is made. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A—Rules under R. 268. I L R (1956) Andh 319.

● ——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — Principles of natural justice — Confiscation of goods under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act, 1878 — Enquiry held behind back of petitioner — There is violation of principles of natural justice — (Per Majority — Nayudu, J. Contra).

The Collector of Customs, when adjudging confiscations and imposing penalties under S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, acts judicially. Under S. 182, the authority has to adjudge the confiscation and the penalty to be imposed. There is no fixed definition of the term 'natural justice' and what is natural justice will depend on the circumstances of each individual case. But there are certain cardinal principles of law which must be followed in every trial. Thus, a man must not be condemned without being given a reasonable opportunity to meet the case against him. Again the prosecution must prove the guilt of an accused beyond reasonable doubt and this burden never shifts. These are two of the cardinal principles which if not observed lead to complete failure of justice At the hearing of a writ petition filed against an order of confiscation of goods passed under S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, it is not correct to contend that as soon as the result of any inquiry made behind the back of the petitioner is brought to the notice of the petitioner, the only opportunity which he is entitled to is to give his explanation and if such an opportunity is given, the principles of natural justice have been complied with and the petitioner cannot complain of any violation of such principles. The inquiring officer has to adjudicate whether the goods under reference are liable to be confiscated and an order of confiscation cannot be passed unless the authority is satisfied that the goods have been imported without licence. The adjudication required under S. 182 is necessarily the satisfaction of the inquiring officer on the inquiry made by him and not on materials which were before the verifying officer or to act on the decision of the verifying officer. Sanwarmal Purohit v. Collector of Central Exise and Land Customs, Shillong, 1964 (2) Cri L J 507 : A I R 1964 Assam 121 (124, 127, 134, 135, 136) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 15, 16, 42, 50) (FB).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice— Respondent exporter of Molumma refuse lac — Customs Authorities contending that lac content was more than 80% — Dispute regarding test to be applied whether direct or indirect — Authorities also consulting experts on matter of dispute—Opinion not taken in presence of respondent nor was he informed — Held, that there had been violation of principles of natural justice.

The respondent was an established exporter of various forms of lac including refuse lac. He entered into a contract for sale and export of Molumma refuse lac to West Germany and was granted an export licence for the same. The Customs Authorities took two samples for chemical examination out of the two lots purported for shipment and according to them the lac content of both the lots was above 80%. The authorities also consulted experts on the disputed question of the test to be applied whether direct or indirect, and had acted upon the advice given by them. The opinion of the experts was not taken in the presence of the respondent nor was he informed about such opinion.

Held, that there had been a violation of the principles of natural justice. AIR 1963 S C 375 and A I R 1957 S C 648, Rel. on. (1963), 1 All E R 66, Disting; It is true that a party is not entitled to a hearing at every stage of an investigation. But it is equally true that he must get an opportunity to offer his explanation to the case made against him. That explanation may or may not be acceptable to the adjudicator, but the opportunity cannot be denied to him. In so far as the opinion of the experts was not communicated to the respondent and an opportunity to deal with such opinion, or give his explanation regarding the same, was denied to him, there had been a violation of the principle of natural justice. If it was necessary for the adjudicator to take the opinion of the experts, and if the weight of the opinion was such as to enable him to come to the decision which he recorded, the respondent should have been given the opportunity to give his explanation to the opinion in so far as it was against his contentions.

However, the mere fact that the Customs Officer had affirmed an affidavit in which he had contested the case of the respondent did not create such grounds as to raise a doubt as to the fairness of the conduct of the Officer as the adjudicator. He could not have any interest in the matter except the discharge of the statutory duty imposed upon him under the Sea Customs Act. If he had held against the respondent on the question of the test to be applied, he had done so on expert advice which he sought and obtained. That is not such evidence of bias as to preclude all possibility of the respondent's getting justice from the Customs Authorities. The Customs Officer was one of the Officers prescribed to deal with the matter and whatever he had done, was in discharge of his duties as a Statutory Officer. If in discharge of his duties he had acted contrary to law or had violated the procedure prescribed by law, his decision was liable to be set aside in the High Court or in the other proceedings prescribed by the Sea Customs Act. ('65) 69 Cal W N 439.

——Art. 226 — Partnership Act (1932), S. 63 (1) — Notice of dissolution of firm dated 30-8-1961 from M received by Registrar — Entry in Register showing that M had retired on 14-3-1958 — Registrar without giving any notice to other partners dissolving firm by entering word 'dissolved' in Register—M held was not person who was authorised to give notice of dissolution under S. 63 (1). Partnership Act (1932) — Registrar held acted illegally and in violation of S. 63 (1) and of all principles of natural justice by making entry without notice and without hearing other partners—Appeal from Original Order No. 212 of 1963, Reversed. See Partnership Act (1932), S. 63 (1). ('65) 69 Cal W N 929.

——Art. 226—Natural Justice — Statutory right of appeal—Right of hearing.

Where there is a statutory right of appeal, there is an inherent right given to the parties to be heard in support of the appeal. Where there is a violation of a rule of natural justice, an application for a high prerogative writ will always lie. 1962 Cal L J 18.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Opportunity of hearing—Exercise of powers under S. 51—Electricity Act—Notice to party affected—Necessity. See Electricity Act (1910), S. 51. AIR 1960 Cal 311.

——Art. 226 — Order of confiscation — Failure to consider relevant documents — Violation of principle of natural justice. See Land Customs Act (1924), S. 5. 1959 Cri L J 700 : AIR 1959 Cal 356.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Service of notice — Presumption. See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 11. AIR 1958 Cal 171.

——Art. 226 — Criminal P. C. (1898), Ss. 436 Proviso, 230, 259 and 437—Prosecution on Police report — Magistrate passing order of discharge of accused in absence of complainant and without going into evidence — Resummoning of accused by Magistrate — Jurisdiction to do so — Notice before resummoning not necessary — S. 436 not applicable — Principles of natural justice not offended — S. 259 also not applicable See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 436 Proviso. ILR (1958) 1 Cal 411.

——Art. 226—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act, 1941, S. 16 — Authorities have no duty cast on them to send notices to any other address other than the registered address—In facts, in law there is no duty to send notices of adjournment at all — Initial notice being served, it is duty of assessee to be present at hearing and on adjourned dates. See Sales Tax — Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 16. AIR 1957 Cal 463.

——Art. 226 — Building in imminent danger of collapsing — Power of Commissioner to order its demolition — Notice to occupier— Exception to rule of natural justice. See Municipalities—Calcutta Municipal Act (33 of 1951), S. 415 (c). AIR 1956 Cal 410.

——Art. 226—Customs Act (1962), S. 124 — Quasi-judicial tribunal—Decision violating rule of natural justice—Effect — Notice under S. 124 — Petitioner asked to appear before authority who was not the adjudicating authority — Petitioner held was not given reasonable opportunity to be heard—Decision set aside—(Natural justice).

Where a domestic tribunal fails to act in accordance with natural justice, the persons affected by its decision can always seek redress in the Court. Denial of justice to a man is causing prejudice to him. He will not however, be entitled to damages if he suffered none. But he can always ask for the setting aside of the decision against him. In the case of an adjudication by a quasi-judicial authority also the same principle would apply. (1961) 3 All E R 621, Rel. on.

Section 124 of the Customs Act requires that the petitioner should be given an opportunity of being heard before the Collector who has made the adjudication. If the notice under S. 124 is defective in this respect inasmuch as it only indicated that the petitioner should appear with his evidence before the Assistant Collector of Customs and not before the Collector, such opportunity cannot be said to be given to the petitioner and thus there would be a miscarriage of justice. The question whether that denial resulted in any substantial prejudice to the petitioner is irrelevant.

Held, that as the complaint of the petitioner that he had been denied an opportunity of being heard before the Collector was well founded, the order should be quashed. 1965 Ker L T 53 : 1965 Ker L J 198 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 773 : AIR 1965 Ker 286 (287) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Fixation of advertisement tax by municipality — Notice and hearing if necessary. See Municipalities — Kerala Municipalities Act (1961), S. 126. AIR 1965 Ker 237.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — 'Audi Alteram Partem'—Act of executive bodies—Natural justice.

A was appointed Headmaster of a Primary School. B contended before D. P. I. that he was legitimate claimant to that. The contention was not accepted. B took up the matter before the Government. The order was passed in his favour. The Government gave no notice of the petition to A and he was not heard in the matter.

Held that, the error was, fundamental; it involved a violation of natural justice, and the order had to be quashed.

Even when an executive body is given the power to decide something in its discretion the Courts would still keep it in the leading strings of fair procedure. The rule is not confined to the conduct of strictly legal tribunals but is applicable to every tribunal or body of persons invested with authority to adjudicate upon matters involving civil consequences to individuals. 1963 Ker L J 1200 : (1963) 2 Ker L R 305 : 1963 Ker L T 1051 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 528.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Kerala Cinemas (Regulation) Act (1958), S. 5 (7) — Grant of licence — Appeal against — Appellate authority acts as quasi-judicial body — Notice to licensee not given — Principles of natural justice held violated — Order of appellate authority setting aside order granting license quashed. See Kerala Cinemas (Regulations) Act (32 of 1958), S. 5 (7). I L R (1961) 2 Ker 6.

——Art. 226—Public safety — M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a)— Validity — Imposing of restriction without notice of hearing—Unreasonability of procedure does not affect validity of S. 3 (1) — Doctrine of natural justice—Applicability—Order not quasi-judicial — Action under, is preventive in nature — Therefore exception to rule of natural justice. See Public Safety—M. P. Public Security Act (25 of 1959), S. 3 (1) (a). 1964 (2) Cri L J 160 : AIR 1964 Madh Pra 175 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Natural justice, rule of, requiring prior notice of hearing to party affected —

Rule is attracted when authority making order acts judicially or quasi-judicially. The rule does not apply when the power to make order is exercised subjectively. 1964 Jab L J 242 : 1964 M P L J 238.

——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial order—Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, 1957, S. 13—Rules under—Mineral Concession Rules (1950), R. 54—Revision application — Application barred by time—Still applicant is entitled to notice of hearing of application and opportunity to represent his case. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 155.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 12—Dismissal of workman — Investigation by Conciliation Officer — Notice to workman not necessary. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 12. AIR 1961 Mad 58.

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Principles of—Member of Advisory Board appointed under scheme — Absence from meetings—Order of removal by district Court without notice—Order is illegal. ('59) 72 Mad L W 80.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Order of confiscation or penalty under Sea Customs Act without notice and enquiry—Legality—Interference—(Sea Customs Act (1878), Ss. 167 (8), 182 and 183).

Where the Collector of Customs passes an order of confiscation or penalty without notice and without enquiry, the order contravenes every principle of natural justice and must be deemed to be a nullity. But where the proceedings of the Collector were properly initiated after notice to the respondent, the mere circumstance that the order was vitiated by a wrong assumption that the respondent had a branch within the jurisdiction of the High Court would not make the order a nullity. 1957 Mad W N 256 : I L R (1957) Mad 642 : 70 Mad L W 328 : (1956) Mad L J (Cr) 283 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 41 : AIR 1957 Mad 496 (503, 504) (Pt C) (Prs 21, 22, 23) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Order for delivery of possession under S. 87, Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act — Notice to persons affected not given — Order should be set aside as it offends the principles of natural justice. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 87. AIR 1954 Mad 500 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order—Lease of fishery rights by Government—Order of cancellation of lease—Interference.

Where in the case of a lease of fishery rights by Government the Rules provide for the Deputy Commissioner, who is a servant of the lessor, to cancel the lease in favour of the lessee without even a notice to him, if the Deputy Commissioner is satisfied that any terms of the lease have been infringed, it is a matter for the subjective satisfaction of the Deputy Commissioner. It is not a matter where the Deputy Commissioner acts as a tribunal and decides a case between two parties in which he is bound to give opportunity to both the parties to be heard and to hold an enquiry in accordance with the principle of natural justice. The order of cancelling the lease on such satisfaction, therefore, is purely an administrative order. It is not a quasi-judicial order in any sense and cannot be questioned in proceedings for a writ of certiorari. Proper remedy for the lessee is by way of a civil suit for damages. AIR 1961 Manipur 28 (30, 31) (Pt C) (Prs 8, 9, 10).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Labour Commissioner setting aside election to Works Committee without notice to elected candidates — Principles of natural justice violated.

No order can be passed affecting a person without hearing him. The person who is duly elected acquires certain rights of which he cannot be deprived without due notice to him. A notice to a particular Union of which the elected candidate happens to be a member, cannot be said to be a notice to the successful candidate. (1965) 10 Fac L R 12 : (1963-64) 25 F J R 332. (1964) 2 Lab L J 451 : AIR 1965 Mys 39 (41) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Master and servant—Termination of services of college lecturer without previous notice — Provision for notice not made in statute — Termination held violated principles of natural justice and was therefore illegal—Bihar State Universities (University of Bihar, Bhagalpur and Ranchi) (Amendment) Act (13 of 1962), S. 4. See Master and servant — Termination of services of college lecturer. AIR 1964 Pat 41.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Natural justice—Petitioner's name struck off from certificate proceeding — No notice given to him of appeal — No hearing given to him in appeal—Additional Collector's order in appeal making him liable for certificate demand is illegal. 1961 B L J R 442.

——Art. 226 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23 (4) — Order refusing registration of firm—Notice not necessary — Administrative proceedings — Principle of natural justice satisfied by giving hearing at some stage. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 23 (4). AIR 1960 Pat 516.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Violation of principles—Decree or final order without previous notice to party affected — Minor not represented in suit or execution—Defect if one of form—Civil P. C. (1908), O. 32, R. 3 (4).

One of the elementary rules of natural justice is that no decree, or order finally deciding a question between parties should be made absolute ex parte, without previous notice to the party affected by it. A party has a right to appear and plead his cause on all occasions when that cause comes on for hearing, and a party should not be deprived of that right, and in fact the Court has no option to refuse that right, unless the Civil P. C. deprives him of it. No forms or procedure should, therefore, ever be permitted to exclude the presentation of a litigant's defence. A Court has no jurisdiction to sell the property of persons who were not parties to the proceedings, or properly represented on the record. As against such persons, decrees and sales purporting to be made could be a nullity and might be disregarded without any proceeding to set them aside. If, therefore, a minor is not effectively represented in a suit, or in an execution proceeding, such a defect is not one of mere form, but of substance; and, it goes to the root of the jurisdiction of the Court, and therefore, such a minor in the eye of law is not a party to such a suit, or an execution proceeding, and, as such no order passed, or decree made against him in such a suit, and no proceeding taken, or sale held in execution proceeding against him ex parte in his absence will bind him or his estate at all. AIR 1957 Pat 260 (263, 264) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 14, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Suspension pending enquiry — Show-cause notice is not necessary. See Panchayats—Punjab Gram Panchayat Act, 1952 (4 of 1953), S. 102 (1) (As amended). ('65) 67 Punj L R 698: I L R (1965) 2 Punj 472.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Amount due from directors of Co-operative Society, on account of their misconduct, cannot be unilaterally determined by Registrar without show cause notice. See Punjab Co-operative Societies Act (25 of 1961), S. 67. 67 Punj L R 268 : 1965 Cur L J 162.

——Art. 226—Order under Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, S. 18-A for taking over management of company passed without giving opportunity to company to show cause against action — Order is illegal. See Industries (Development and Regulation) Act (1951), S. 18-A. AIR 1964 Punj 368.

——Art. 226—Natural justice— Order suspending resolution of no confidence —Whether the fundamental rule of natural justice of giving a hearing to parties affected by order is attracted even though S. 102 (3), Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Act, 1961, does not expressly provide for giving such hearing. See Panchayats — Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zilla Parishads Act (3 of 1961), S. 102 (3). 1964 Cur L J 333.

● ——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial authority—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (50 of 1948), S. 36 — Work of consolidation under Act—Officer functioning under S. 36—Function is of judicial nature — Observance of rules of natural justice by officer is required—Order passed under S. 36 without notice to interested right holders quashed.

Per Full Bench —The proceedings under the East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, with a view to affect consolidation of holdings and determine ancillary matters, the procedural provisions touching the preparation of the draft scheme, the filing of objections appeals and revisions, partake of judicial character. The functions of a Settlement Officer acting under S. 36 involves the review of property rights and other civil rights in respect of areas allotted to the individual proprietors, the consideration of the claims of their creditors and tenants and also of certain rights vesing in the Gram Panchayat with respect to particular areas with reference to a scheme of consolidation of tholdings which is already in operation. Essentially, this function is of a judicial nature and can, therefore, fitly be styled as quasi-judicial requiring the observance of rules of natural justice. The authority is not entrusted with an unfettered discretion permitting it to transgress the principles underlying "audi alteram partem" rule. Nothing contained in the provisions of S. 36, read singly or along with the cognate provisions can lend support to a construction in favour of the exculsion of the rule of natural justice by necessary implication. A I R 1962 S C 1110 and AIR 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1962 S C 1217, Rel. on.; AIR 1959 S C 107, Dist.

When, therefore, exercising powers under S. 36, it is incumbent upon the authority to give a prior notice to the parties concerned and an opportunity to present their case for its consideration. The hearing may not necessarily be oral. Where the authority in proceedings under S. 36 revoked the scheme of consolidation without notice to the respective right-holders who were the parties interested, without giving any opportunity to them to submit their objections against the proposed change long after they had entered into possession in accordance with the scheme after the preparation of the new record of rights:

Held, that the proceedings taken under S. 36 deserved to be quashed as also any proceedings taken in pursuance of the orders of the Director, Consolida- of Holdings. Bhikhan Bobia v. Punjab State, 65 Pun L R 368 : ILR (1963) 1 Punj 660 : 1963 Cur L J 169 : A I R 1963 Punj 255 (274, 275, 277, 278, 280) (Pt G) (Prs 56, 57, 65, 68, 70, 76) (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Property notified as evacuee property denotified by Government—Sale of property by owner after denotification — Government assuring purchase and that order restoring property to the vendor will not be cancelled and that the sale in favour of the purchaser would remain unaffected—Subsequent order passed by Government cancelling the order of restoration without notice to the purchaser.— Order must be quashed on the ground of non-issue of notice to purchaser—As the rights of the purchaser in the property were being adversely affected by the impugned order principles of natural justice required that the purchaser should have been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard against the proposed order: AIR 1960 S C 606, Rel. on. ('61) 63 Punj L R 893.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Order rejecting objection—Appeal—Record not traceable—Failure to give proper notice—Effect — Principles of Natural Justice not followed—Issue of writ. See Punjab Urban Immovable Property Tax Act (17 of 1940), S. 10. A I R 1960 Punj 278.

——Art. 226 — Displaced Persons (Claims) Supplementary Act (1954), S. 5 — Displaced Persons (Verification of Claims) Supplementary Rules (1954), R. 19A —Substituted service through newspaper against claimant along with several others regarding hearing on different dates before different authorities — Claimant not subscriber to newspaper — Claimant not aware of date of hearing — Service held not due service — No reasonable opportunity of making defence. See Displaced Persons (Claims) Supplementary Act (1954), S. 5. AIR 1960 Punj 153 (DB).

——Art. 226—Principles of — Applicability—Person appointed on temporary basis for fixed period—Continuance even after expiry of period—No order as to confirmation—Subsequent suspension and dismissal—Notice to show cause and hearing — Necessity. See Municipalities— (Punjab) Small Town Appointment Suspension and Dismissal Rules (1925), S. 3 (1). ILR (1957) Punj 731.

——Art. 226—Application under for issue of writs—Controller of Insurance issuing notice under S. 52A Insurance Act to companies— On facts relief held could not be granted.

The Controller of Insurance, New Delhi, issued a notice under S. 52A, Insurance Act, on 17-2-51 to the three applicant companies viz. (i) Jupiter General Insurance Company Ltd. Bombay (ii) Empire of India Life Assurance Co. Ltd. Bombay and (iii) Tropical Insurance Co. Ltd. New Delhi to the effect that he had reason to believe that the said companies were acting in manner likely to be prejudicial to the interests of the holders of life insurance policies of those companies and informing them that he would hear them on 26-2-1951 at his office at New Delhi and unless satisfactory cause was shown he would make a report to the Central Government for the appointment of an administrator to manage the affairs of the Companies. Grounds for action under S. 52A were stated in the notice. On the same date i.e. 17-2-51 the companies were informed that the hearing would be at Bombay instead of New Delhi. The Companies applied to the Controller Delhi, twice for postponement of the date of hearing but the applications were refused. On the date of hearing i.e. 26-2-51 the companies appeared before the Controller in Bombay and again applied in writing for postponement of the date of hearing for at least fifteen days. Each of the companies complained that the grounds for action under S. 52A were vague and indefinite and refused to show any cause unless more particulars were given. The Controller neither adjourned the proceedings nor did he give particulars of the grounds. The companies thereupon applied under Art. 226 Constitution of India for writs against the Controller and the Union of India.

Held on the facts and circumstances of the case that a writ of certiorari or prohibition was not the appropriate remedy. It could not be maintained in the circumstances that the Controller had failed to give an opportunity to the companies to be heard on the points arising under S. 52A of the Act or that the grounds for action given in the notice were not sufficient and as such even a writ of mandamus could not be issued at that stage against the controller.

Held further that the Union of India was wholly unnecessary party as no case had been made out against it. 22 Comp Cas (Ins) 33 : I L R (1952) Punj 11 : AIR 1952 Punj 9 (20, 21, 34) (Pt N) (Prs 74, 80, 82, 146) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Constitution of market committee for first time—Nomination of certain members by Government — Grievance of writ petitioners that members were not properly qualified—Members not impleaded as parties to writ petition—Decree about validity of their nomination would not be justified. See Rajasthan Agricultural Produce Markets Act (38 of 1961), S. 7 (2) (b). AIR 1966 Raj. 142 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice — Audi alteram partem —Appellate authority under Motor Vehicles Act must give notice of appeal not only to appellant and to Regional Transport Authority but also to persons whose interests are likely to be adversely affected. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64. A I R 1960 Raj 201 (DB).

——Art. 226—Rectification of permit—Notice to party affected. See Rajasthan Minor Mineral Concession Rules (1955), R. 56. AIR 1959 Raj 220 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Tenancy laws—Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating (Second Amendment) Act (1953), Ss 4A, 4B — Proceedings against several tenants — Each case to be separately dealt with—Notice to each is essential — Natural justice. See Tenancy Laws - Rajasthan Produce Rents Regulating (Second Amendment) Act (22 of 1953), S. 4A. AIR 1957 Raj 343.

——Art. 226 — Natural justice—Grant of permit—Notice—Hearing parties — Procedure not followed—Certiorari. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57. AIR 1959 Tripura 35.

78 (g). Evidence and procedure, rules of.

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Domestic enquiry—Enquiry into conduct of workman—Finding of misconduct - Enquiry not in accordance with principles of natural justice — No reasonable opportunity to lead evidence in support of defence — Tribunal will discard finding of domestic enquiry and consider matter on merits. Tata Oil Mills Co. Ltd. v. The Workmen. (1964) 2 Lab L J 113 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 199 : (1964) 9 Fac L R 142 : AIR 1965 S C 155 (158) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal—Natural justice —Appearance of witnesses — It is for parties to produce them—Refusal to adjourn hearing to enable charge-sheeted workman to call witnesses — It may introduce element of infirmity in enquiry.

In a domestic enquiry, the officer holding the enquiry can take no valid or effective steps to compel the attendance of any witness. The parties themselves should take steps to produce their witnesses. It would be unreasonable to suggest that in a domestic enquiry, it is the right of the charge-sheeted employee to ask for as many adjournments as he likes. It is true that if it appears that by refusing to adjourn the hearing at the instance of the charge sheeted workman the Enquiry Officer failed to give the said workman, a reasonable opportunity to lead evidence that may, in a proper case, be considered to introduce an element of infirmity in the enquiry but the Enquiry Officer goes out of his way to assist the workman in writing to the witnesses to appear before him and if the witnesses do not turn up to give evidence in time it is not his fault Tata Oil Mills Co., Ltd. v. The Workmen, (1964) 2 Lab L J 113 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 199 : (1964) 9 Fac L R 142 : AIR 1965 S C 155 (158, 159) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice—Rules of—Procedure —Employee charged with misconduct — Elaborate cross examination of employee at commencement of enquiry constitutes infirmity — Desirability of intimating employee about date of inquiry— Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1) (d)—Constitution of India, Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Natural justice.

Although it is true that domestic enquiries need not be conducted in accordance with the technical requirements of criminal trials, yet they must be fairly conducted and, in holding them, considerations of fair play and natural justice must govern the conduct of the enquiry officer, Domestic enquiries must be conducted honestly and bona fide with a view to determine whether the charge framed against a particular employee is proved or not and care must be taken to see that these enquiries do not become empty formalities. Where the officers holding an enquiry into the misconduct of an employee claim that they themselves had witnessed the alleged misconduct of the employee, that fact, by itself, disqualifies them from holding the enquiry and vitiates the entire proceedings of the enquiry. In such a case steps should be taken to see that the task of holding the enquiry is assigned to some other officers who are not likely to import their personal knowledge into the proceedings. Where it is obvious that in coming to the conclusion that the employee was guilty of misconduct the enquiry officers have plainly relied on their own knowledge, that fact is reasonably calculated to create an impression in the mind of the employee that the enquiry is nothing more than a sham or empty formality. So also, it is not fair in domestic enquiries against industrial employees that, at the very commencement of the inquiry, the employee should be closely cross-examined even before any other evidence is led against him, It cannot be overlooked that in a large majority of cases the employees are likely to be ignorant and so, it is necessary not to expose them to the risk of cross-examination of this nature. In domestic inquiries the employer should take steps first to lead evidence against the employee charged, give an opportunity to the employee to cross-examine the said evidence and then should the employee be asked whether he wants to give any explanation about the evidence led against him. Where this procedure is not followed and the employee is elaborately cross-examined at the commencement of the enquiry it constitutes an infirmity in the enquiry. It may be that failure to intimate to the employee concerned about the date of the enquiry may, by itself, not constitute an infirmity in the enquiry, yet it is necessary to bear in mind that it would be fair if the employee is told as to when the enquiry is going to be held so that he has an opportunity to prepare himself to make his defence at the said enquiry and to collect such evidence as he may wish to lead in support of his defence. It would not be right that the employee should be called on any day without previous intimation and the enquiry should begin straightway. Such a course should ordinarily be avoided in holding domestic inquiries in industrial matters. Associated Cement Companies, Ltd. v. Workmen, (1963) 7 Fac L R 269 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 396 (S C) : (1964-65) 26 F J R 289 : (1964) 3 S C R 652.

● ——Art. 226—Natural justice—Rules of—Procedure —Enquiry against employee charged with misconduct—Reasons for disbelieving evidence adduced by employee in defence held to be infirmities — Final conclusion held unacceptable— Enquiry held not in accordance with principles of natural justice— Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S 10 (1) (d) — Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Domestic Tribunal — Natural justice.

In an enquiry held against an employer for misconduct, the reasons which led the enquiry officers to disbelieve the evidence adduced by the employee in his defence were as follows. The first reason was that the version of the defence witnesses could not be believed as some of them were absent from duty on the date of the incident. This fact appeared to have been ascertained by the enquiry officers from the attendance register without notice to the employee. The second reason was that. while the incidents took place at 7 a. m. on the day in question, one of the defence witnesses was on duty at 3 p. m but he mentioned only in his cross examination that he came to duty between 6 45 a. m. and 7 a. m. The witness was not asked to explain the discrepancy. The third reason was based on the evidence recorded by the enquiry officers in a separate enquiry against another employee. The evidence in that enquiry was not recorded in the presence of the employee whose defence evidence was disbelieved and he had no opportunity to test the said evidence by cross-examination.

Held, that (1) all the three reasons on which the final conclusion of the enquiry officers was based constituted serious infirmities which introduced an element of unfairness in the whole inquiry and the report made by the enquiry officers against the employee could not be accepted as a report made after holding a proper inquiry in accordance with the principles of natural justice; (2) the second reason was open to serious challenge inasmuch as in disbelieving the particular witness on a ground not put to him, the enquiry officers had acted unfairly against the employee. The rule that a witness should not be believed on the ground of inconsistency between his statement and another document, unless he is given a chance to explain the said document, could not be treated as a technical rule of evidence and the principle on which the said rule was based was one of natural justice ; (3) As regards the third reason, it was unfair to rely upon the evidence in the enquiry against the other employee when the enquiry officer was dealing with the case of the employee whose evidence was disbelieved. Associated Cement Companies, Ltd. v. Workmen, (1963) 7 Fac L R 269: (1963) 2 Lab L J 396 (S C) : (1964-65) 26 F J R 289 : (1964) 3 S C R 652.

● —Art. 226—Natural Justice—Domestic Tribunal — Enquiry by — Natural justice — Enquiry against workman's conduct—Enquiring officer not examining any witness—Only the workman against whom the enquiry was, examined — Report of officers against workman not read out—Officers though present not examined before workman nor allowed to be examined by the workman—Rules of natural justice held not followed—Industrial tribunal cannot rely on the finding of the domestic tribunal in order to decide whether permission to should be granted to management under S. 33 to dismiss the workman pending the proceeding before the tribunal—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33. Bharat Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shri Jai Singh, 1962 (3) S C R 684 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 118.

● —Art. 226—Hearing before tribunals—Applicability of Evidence Act. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 1. AIR 1957 SC 882.

—Art. 226 — Natural justice—Election—Kshettra Samiti—Election of Pramukh by preferential voting — Indication of preference — Finding of returning officer that in particular ballot papar the voter had marked figure 1 showing first preference vote—Finding held based on evidence and observation and not on conjectures—No violation of rules of natural justice or of evidence—Finding cannot be interfered with in writ jurisdiction. ILR (1964) 1 All 701.

—Art. 226—Natural justice—Criminal P. C., S. 512 (1) — Rule in S. 512 (1), Criminal P. C.—If one of natural justice—General rule as to taking evidence against accused is that it must be taken in his presence—Section engrafts exception on general rule—Rule in section is one of natural justice, in asmuch as evidence can be recorded in absence of person affected who by his conduct has chosen to be, absent, when it was being tendered—Natural justice must take account of both sides of the picture because it is essentially a rule of fair play. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 512 (1). 1958 Cri L J 324 : AIR 1958 All 214 (DB).

—Art. 226—Natural Justice—Administrative Tribunals — University — Enquiry into charge of malpractice at examinations by Board of examiners—No rules or regulations in University Code — Failure to tender witness for examination — No violation of natural justice — Mandamus — Jurisdiction of High Court—Exercise.

The requirements of natural justice depend upon the character of the Tribunal, the nature of the enquiry and the effect of adjudication. The question whether or not any rules of natural justice have been contravened would be decided in the light of statutory rules and provisions under which statutory body functions. (1943) 2 All E R 337 and AIR 1957 S C 232 and AIR 1958 S C 398, Rel. on.

In cases, however, where no rules or regulations have been framed in regard to the matter in which the tribunal passes certain orders, natural justice could only mean that the person accused should know the nature of the accusation made; secondly, that he should be given an opportunity to state his case;, and thirdly, that the tribunal should act in good faith. (1958) 2 All E R 579, Foll.; 1919 A C 606 and (1949) 1 All E R 109 and (1960) 1 All E R 631, Rel. on.

Petitioner, a student in the University was rusticated for a period of two years for having adopted malpractice at the examination. The petitioner filed a writ petition contending that the witnesses on whose statements University relied were not examined and that he was not allowed to cross-examine them.

Held (i) that as no form of procedure was prescribed, it was for the Vice-Chancellor to determine the procedure to be followed, as he thought best, subject to the obvious implication that some form of inquiry must be made such as would enable him fairly to determine whether he should hold himself satisfied that the charge in question had been made out. Beyond that, there was no obligation on the part of the University to have witnesses examined in the presence of the petitioner so as to enable him to cross-examine them. Thus, the failure of the Tribunal to tender witnesses for examination did not constitute any violation of natural justice. (1960) 1 All E R 631, Rel. on. ; AIR 1961 Mys 164, Dist. (ii) that the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 would interfere and issue a writ of mandamus only if the statutory tribunal in question has refused to do what in law it is bound to do, or is attempting to do something which in law it has no power to do. It would not go into the question of disputed facts and review evidence and come to its own conclusions on facts. (1962) 2 Andh L T 106 : AIR 1963 Andh Pra 83 (85, 86, 87) (Prs 9, 11, 16, 19).

—Art. 226 — Natural justice—Material regarding delinquency of person gathered behind his back—No violation of natural justice. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 378 (383, 384) (Pt E) (Prs 26, 28) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation—Effect — Central Excises and Salt Act, S. 35.

Whether in a case the refusal of a document has in fact caused prejudice or not, will depend upon the nature of the Tribunal, the character of the enquiry, the contents of the document asked for and all other relevant circumstances. Even in cases where there are certain statutory rules governing the procedure of enquiries, the mere violation of such rules will not give a party a cause of action unless there has been, in consequence, prejudice caused. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 197 and AIR 1958 Andh Pra 240, Rel. on.

Where the petitioner did not make any attempt before the primary authority, either to ask for a certified copy of the deposition of a witness or to examine him orally which he had a right to do, it cannot be said that the petitioner is prejudiced merely because he was refused a certified copy of the statement of a witness at the time of filing the appeal. In such a case it cannot be said that the principles of natural justice have been violated. AIR 1961 Andhra Pra 350 (353, 354) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Constitution of India, Art. 311—Disciplinary proceedings—Inquiries conducted by Tribunals — Rules of evidence not applicable. See Ibid, Art. 311. 1960-2 Lab L J 464 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Administrative Tribunal—Quasi-judicial orders — Violation of principles of natural justice—Interference—Order under S. 167 (8) of Sea Customs Act—Reliance upon statements taken in absence of person charged—Gross violation of natural justice — Order liable to be quashed—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8).

An order of a Collector passed in an enquiry in the matter of confiscation of goods and imposition of penalty under Sea Customs Act is not an administrative order and is amenable to a writ of certiorari. The Collector in such an enquiry has got to adjudicate which necessarily implies determination based on principles of natural justice. One of the principles of natural justice being that a person cannot be convicted on the evidence taken behind his back, it is a gross violation of principles of natural justice to allow in an enquiry under S. 167 (8) of the Sea Customs Act certain alleged statements made by witnesses behind the back of person concerned to prejudice the mind of the enquiring officer without giving an opportunity to such person to cross-examine those witnesses. The order of confiscation passed in such circumstances can be quashed by a writ of certiorari. AIR 1957 S C 882 and AIR 1959 S C 1111 and AIR 1961 Mys 203, Rel. on. I L R (1962) 14 Assam 305 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 174 : AIR 1962 Assam 108 (109) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of.

The Rules of natural justice require that a party should have an opportunity of adducing all relevant evidence on which he relies that the evidence of the opponent should be taken in his presence and that he should be given an opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses examined by that party and that no materials should be relied on against him without his being given an opportunity of explaining them. AIR 1957 SC 882, Rel. on. AIR 1961 Assam 56 (62, 63) (Pt C) (Prs 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (VI of 1941), S. 11 (1)—Best judgment assessment—Decision is quasi-judicial—Violation of principles of natural justice — Disregard of evidence, oral or documentary led by assessee — Assessee not disclosed material on which assessment is being made — Order referring only to "other collateral circumstances"—Assessment can be quashed—Principles relating to such assessment—Non-compliance with — Order held invalid. AIR 1965 Cal 498 (501, 502) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 11, 14, 15).

——Art. 226—Petitioner's case was that tax on goods was not payable and not that it was paid—No violation of the principles of natural justice by not summoning Excise Officials to prove fact of payment of duty. AIR 1965 Cal 203 (206) (Pt D) (Pr 9 (vi)).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Certiorari and Mandamus — Order of dismissal under Railway Rules for taking bribe—No evidence adduced legal or otherwise to prove guilt of petitioner—Order based on conjecture and surmises violates principles of natural justice. AIR 1958 Cal 633, AIR 1956 Cal 662, Appellate Decree No. 939 of 1956, D/- 8-4-1960. AIR 1951 Cal 179, Ref. 1964 Cal L J 89.

——Art. 226—Dismissal of petitioner from service relying on case diary without granting inspection thereof by him—Order of dismissal quashed in writ application with direction that if further enquiry was to be held and it was intended to rely on the case diary inspection thereof and cross-examination of witnesses if demanded by petitioner must be granted —Direction by High Court does not amount to a prohibition against reference to evidence on record — Second enquiry held—Though evidence of witnesses contained reference to case diary enquiry officer specifically stating that he relied on other evidence on record and not on the case diary—Held, that the omission to allow petitioner to inspect the case diary or to cross-examine witnesses during second enquiry did not amount either to a violation of principles of natural justice or the direction given by the High Court, on the writ application. (1964) 8 Fac L R 227 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Natural Justice—Fair hearing — Elements — Quasi-judicial orders — Orders under Sea Customs Act—Denial of opportunity to inspect documents held up in evidence against petitioner — No fair hearing. 1962 (2) Cri L J 342 : AIR 1962 Cal 460 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34 (1-A)—Initiation of proceedings under — Income-tax Officer not bound to disclose source of his information prior to filing of return and inquiry — No violation of natural justice — Quashing of proceedings — See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34 (1-A). AIR 1960 Cal 619.

——Art. 226—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 — Opportunity to examine documents—Held on facts and evidence that applicants objection to an order imposing penalty under Sea Customs Act that he did not get an opportunity to examine documents on which he has been found guilty under Sea Customs Act, S. 167, was a mere after-thought and that he had ample opportunity for the same—See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167. AIR 1959 Cal 533.

[Reversed in AIR 1962 Cal 460.]

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Denial of — Review of Sales Tax Assessment—Demand for adjournment to produce evidence—Refusal—Interference—(Bengal Sales Tax Rules (1941), R. 79).

It is true that the question of granting adjournment of a proceeding is entirely in the discretion of the tribunal or the authority concerned and the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot interfere with the exercise of the discretion unless it is arbitrarily exercised by the lower Court. 55 Cal W N 667. Rel. on.

Held, on facts that the refusal of the Commercial Tax Officer to give an opportunity to examine a wit-bess on the ground that he was satisfied as a result of an ex parte enquiry made by him the evidence of the witness would serve no useful purpose was an arbitrary exercise of the discretion. Further it was clear law that if any finding was based on his personal knowledge or mere guess work such finding would not be warranted by law. Thus there can be no doubt that the petitioner had been prejudiced by non-disclosure of the sources of such information and there was thus violation of the principles of natural justice. 61 Cal W N 953 : AIR 1958 Cal 289 (293, 294 295) (Pt D) (Prs 12, 13, 15).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Affidavit allowed to be filed—Opposite party also should be allowed to file affidavit—No notice taken of affidavit in deciding case—Decision will not be set aside. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2060.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Employee for breach of discipline under S. 25, of Bombay Police Act (22 of 1951) Section contemplates subjective satisfaction of removing authority—Quantum of punishment held no ground for holding breach of principle of natural justice. 1965 (2) Cri L J 743 : AIR 1965 Guj 283 (292, 293) (Pt F) (Prs 25, 26) (DB).

——Art. 226—Co-operative Society granting loan to workers in Mill - Default in repayment — Deductions from wages—Petition under Payment of Wages Act—Authority holding deductions illegal — Society not party to findings Order held not bad on ground of breach of principles of natural justice. See Bombay Co-operative Societies Act (7 of 1925), S. 24A. (1965) 6 Guj L R 539 : A I R 1966 Guj 67 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Government servant — Departmental enquiry against—Procedure to be followed in—Principles of natural justice—Evidence taken in absence of servant—Procedure not violative of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1962 Ker 43.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of—Compliance of.

After the charge was read out in Malayalam, to the petitioner evidence was let in by examination of five witnesses. The questions and answers were explained to the petitioner in Malayalam as the examination went on and were recorded in both the languages. At the end of the examination of every witness in chief, the petitioner was asked to cross-examine but he refused and this refusal was also recorded. On 27-8-58, after the witnesses' examination was over, the petitioner put in request for copies of all the depositions in Malayalam. But this was refused on the ground that the proceedings were all conducted in petitioner's presence and were explained to him finally and it was not also the practice to give such copies.

Held that in the circumstances, it could not be said that any principle of natural justice had been violated so far the petitioner's enquiry was concerned. AIR 1957 S C 882, Rel. on. 1958 Ker L J 1066 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 153.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Decision under Industrial Disputes Act, S. 25A(2)—Quasi-judicial — Party must be given opportunity to produce evidence in rebuttal of information got by Government. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25A (2). AIR 1957 Ker 30 (DB)

——Art. 226—Punishment awarded to public servant in departmental proceedings — High Court setting aside punishment after investigating into charges on merits and not upon jurisdictional or other ground—Commencement of fresh proceeding against the public servant upon same allegations offends the principles of natural justice. See Ibid, Art. 310. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 155 (DB).

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice—Absence of statutory provision governing procedure — Substantial compliance with rules of natural justice is enough — Removal of Municipal President by State Government.

Where the petitioner (Municipal President who had been removed by State Government) not only had a full opportunity of cross-examining witnesses produced in support of the complaints but also that he had a like opportunity of adducing evidence both oral and documentary and when subsequently he was called upon to furnish an explanation, he referred to the same evidence it cannot be said that there was a violation of the principles of natural justice only because, upon the formulation of charges against him, he was not afforded a fresh opportunity to meet those charges. Rules of natural justice vary with the varying provisions of statutes and the rules made thereunder. AIR 1958 S C 398 Rel. on.

Where there is no provision in an Act or the rules made thereunder governing the procedure to be followed in the matter a substantial compliance with the principles of natural justice should be regarded as sufficient. 1960 Jab L J 678 : 1960 M P C 325 : 1960 M P L J 633 : ILR (1960) Madh Pra 216.

——Art. 226—Natural justice.

Petitioner was confirmed manager of the Co-operative Agricultural Association. He was suspended by the managing committee under direction from Assistant Registrar, Co-operative Societies who during inspection found instances of defalcation, shortage and misconduct committed by the petitioner.

Held, that since there was no procedure prescribed for punishment, the proceedings must be regulated by principles of natural justice. 1952 Nag L J Note No. 219, Foll. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 90.

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Rules as to—Abrogation of—When amounts to—Principle of waiver — Evidence Act (1872), S. 115.

There can be no infringement of the rules of natural justice for the mere reason that the officer who ultimately decided the case did so on the evidence recorded by his predecessor. Conduct of trials by a succeeding Judge from the stage at which it was left by his predecessor, is recognised by the Civil P. C. It is not unknown in the trial of criminal cases also. It cannot be otherwise in departmental enquiries. In matters where the administrative enquiry is of a quasi-judicial nature, what the person would be entitled to is that the enquiry should be conducted with due regard to the rules of natural justice. There are no rules which require that the officer ultimately passing the final order as a result of the departmental enquiry should have himself examined all the witnesses. The rule of natural justice does not require that the evidence recorded in one part of the enquiry by one officer cannot be used by his successor who completes the enquiry, so long as such evidence was taken in the presence of the person charged after giving him a fair opportunity to cross-examine those witnesses.

An administrative enquiry on certain charges was made against a subordinate. Part of the evidence was recorded in his presence by one officer and the rest of it was recorded by another officer. Both sets of evidence were recorded in the presence of the person charged. Every opportunity was given to him to cross-examine the witnesses. Nothing more was required to be done under the rules or under any principle of natural justice.

Held, that allowing the succeeding officer to continue the enquiry from the stage it was left by his predecessor, would mean that the person against whom the enquiry was conducted deliberately took the chance of the enquiry being continued from where it was left culminating in his favour. It should not be open to such a person after the inquiry is over, to complain that the witnesses must have been examined de novo by the officer. Secondly the mere fact that the previous officer might have gathered certain impressions about the witnesses examined by him and those impressions would not be available to the second officer, could not by themselves amount to an abrogation of any principle of natural justice. 77 Mad L W 659 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 98 : I L R (1965) 1 Mad 242 : (1965) 1 Fac L R 318 : A I R 1965 Mad 316 (317, 318) (Prs 2, 3, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Domestic Tribunal — Enquiry by — Driver charged for overspeeding — Driver's licence suspended by Regional Transport Authority on finding of overspeeding — Finding conclusive and in subsequent domestic enquiry for overspeeding can be relied upon—Officer on whose report the finding was based need not be examined — No violation of principle of natural justice—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 16—Natural justice).

A charge against a driver of a transport before a domestic tribunal was that he was guilty of overspeeding and the Tribunal for proof of the charge relied on the fact that the driver was punished by a quasi-judicial authority, viz., the Regional Transport Authority, on the same charge.

Held, when the order suspending the driver's licence for overspeeding was passed by the Regional Transport Authority, it was exercising quasi-judicial powers, and it was also an appealable order. There being no evidence that the driver appealed against the order of the Regional Transport Authority suspending his licence, the position of the driver was that his driving licence had been suspended by a quasi-judicial authority on a finding that he had overspeeded, which had become conclusive against him. The substance of the charge was really that he had been guilty of overspeeding and to prove that charge, the fact of his being punished by a quasi-judicial authority which had the duty to determine the very same issue would be a relevant piece of evidence on which the domestic tribunal was entitled to rely. There was no violation of the principle of natural justice, because the tribunal did not examine the officer who was alleged to have actually detected the overspeeding and on whose report the finding of the quasi-judicial authority was based. (1965) 1 Lab L J 88 : (1965) 2 Mad L J 364 : (1966) 12 Fac L R 219.

——Art. 226 —Master and servant—Enquiry into conduct of municipal servant — Rule as to recording of oral evidence—Copies of depositions already recorded read over and got verified by witnesses in presence of person charged — Held there was substantial compliance with rule—There was no violation of principles of natural justice. A I R 1964 Mad 491 (492, 493) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Natural Justice — Employee convicted of an offence by criminal Court—Employer dismissing employee in conformity with relevant rule on subject —No failure of natural justice — Separate enquiry before dismissal not necessary. A I R 1952 Mad 853, Rel. on. ILR (1964) 1 Mad 589 : 77 Mad L W 348 : (1964) 2 Mad L J 349 : 1964 Mad L J (Cr) 579.

——Art. 226—Natural Justice Principles—Postponement of payment—Time granted till specified day — Imposition of penalty in advance of the day—Principles of natural justice violated—Immunity from penal provisions — When available. See Estate Duty Act (1953), S. 70. AIR 1963 Mad 235.

——Art. 226—Principles of natural justice—Violation of—Appeal under — Tanjore Tenants and Pannaiyal Protection Act (14 of 1952), S. 13 (2) — Petitioner given ample opportunity which he availed of, to participate in the further enquiry ordered by Revenue Court and held by the conciliation officer—The order directing that further evidence be taken cannot be violative of the principles of natural justice. A I R 1955 N U C (Mad) 3197.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Violation of principles — Conviction without hearing evidence—Imposition of fine jointly and severally — Judgment must be set aside. See Criminal P C. (1898), S. 537. 1957 Cri L J 1426 : AIR 1957 Manipur 34.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Enquiry into conduct of employee—Charges should be framed—Extraneous matter should not be considered See Bombay District Municipal Act (3 of 1901), S. 46 (e), Rules under. AIR 1961 Mys 181 (D B).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Enquiry against public servant before Tribunal—Writ petition against the decision — Jurisdiction and powers of High Court — Nature and scope of enquiry before Tribunal—Principles of natural justice.

Where in an enquiry of a public servant before the Administrative Tribunal the previous statements of some of the witnesses were proved in the presence of the delinquent who was given full opportunity for cross-examination, there was nothing illegal in treating those previous statements as substantive evidence and there was no denial of reasonable opportunity. It is within the jurisdiction of a Tribunal of fact to draw adverse inference from the omission as much as from the commission The High Court has no jurisdiction, if the findings of the Enquiring Officer or the Tribunal prima facie make out a case against the delinquent, to direct the authority to reconsider that order, on the ground that in respect of some of the findings, but not all, it appears that there had been violation of the rules of natural justice. A I R 1963 S C 779, Relied on ; A I R 1964 S C 334. Considered and Distinguished. AIR 1963 S C 404 and AIR 1961 S C 1623, Rel on. (1965) 1 Lab L J 173 : (1965) 7 O J D 147 : A I R 1964 Orissa 241 (245, 246) (Pt D) (Prs 9, 10, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 —Natural justice — Cases of preventive detention — Procedure before Advisory Board. See Public Safety—Preventive Detention Act (1950), S. 10. AIR 1965 Punj 270 (DB).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Principles of—Law as to service of summonses—Personal service. See Civil P. C. (1908), O 5, R. 12. 67 Punj L R 643 : I L R (1965) 2 Punj 274.

——Art 226—Natural justice—Rules 69. (2)(b), 39 of the Rules made under Act—Return filed before appropriate Assessing Authority and tax paid — Notice by other Assessing Authority authorised to tax requiring dealer to appear before it—Held, order of transfer of assessment proceedings operates to serious prejudice of assessee's rights. See Sales-tax—East Punjab General Sales-tax Act (46 of 1948), S. 21. 67 Punj L R 465 : 1965 Cur L J 259.

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Seizure of contraband gold — Onus to show that it is smuggled — Secret enquiry during hearing — Breach of rule of natural justice. See Sea Customs Act (1878). S. 178-A. 1964 (1) Cri L J 68 : AIR 1964 Punj 23 (DB).

——Art. 226—Educational authority — Enquiry Proceedings—Power to interfere — Quasi-judicial order by standing committee of University — Use of unfair means in examination by student—Student disqualified without any supporting material on record — High Court can interfere in writ jurisdiction. 1964 Cur L J 348 : 66 Punj L R 852.

——Art. 226—S. 96, Motor Vehicles Act — Proceedings under. do not violate principles of natural justice. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 96. AIR 1959 Punj 297 (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 476-B — Appeal against filing of complaint — No limitation is prescribed—In consonance with principles of natural justice, time would be taken to start from the date of appellant's knowledge of filing of complaint and in every case he should be entitled to extension of time on score of sufficient cause. — (Limitation Act (1908), Art. 154). See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 476B. A I R 1957 Punjab 134 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari—Tribunal constituted under Act—Classification of Tribunals—Natural justice — Writ not issued — [Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act (1949), S. 6].

The Tribunal constituted under S. 6, Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act, 1949, falls within Cl. (2) of the classification made by Lord Esher, M. R. in (1888) 21 Q B D 313. The Act has given to the Tribunal the power to determine facts and to exercise jurisdiction, and the mere fact that wrong decision has been given on those facts is not a question which goes to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal. Hence, the High Court cannot issue a writ of certiorari for the purpose of quashing the order made by the Tribunal holding that certain persons (in this case two women) are abducted persons. A I R 1952 S C 319, Ref. Note.—It was held in this case that there has been no infringement of the concept of natural justice because (1) the Rules made under the Act themselves prescribe a procedure which has been followed ; and (2) reasonable opportunity was given to petitioners to appear and lead evidence. Case-law Ref. 1954 Cri L J 1056 : ILR (1954) Punj 857 : AIR 1954 Punj 145 (148, 149) (Pt C) (Prs 18, 27, 28) (DB).

79. Nature and scope of proceedings under.
See also, Note 69.

(a) Question of fact.
(b) Judicial.
(c) Matter not justiciable.
(d) Original proceedings.
(e) Presidency High Courts, powers of, before Constitution.
(f) Special jurisdiction.
(g) Summary.
(h) Decision on merits.
(i) Appreciation of evidence.
(j) Discretionary orders.
(k) Proceeding, whether suit.
(l) Conversion of proceedings.
(m) Whether civil proceedings.
See also, Notes 10 and 79.
(n) Error of law.
(o) Constitutional issue.
(p) Question of title.

79. Nature and scope of proceedings under.
See also, Note 69.

● ——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of jurisdiction of High Court.

The High Court can issue writs in the nature of prerogative writs as understood in England, but the scope of those writs also is widened by the use of the expression 'nature', which expression does not equate the writs that can be issued in India with those in England, but only draws an analogy from them. That apart, High Courts can also issue directions, orders or writs other than the prerogative writs. The High Courts are enabled to mould the reliefs to meet the peculiar and complicated requirements of this country. To equate the scope of the power of the High Court under Art. 226 with that of the English Courts to issue prerogative writs is to introduce the unnecessary procedural restrictions grown over the years in a comparatively small country like England with a unitary form of Government to a vast country like India functioning under a federal structure. Such a construction would defeat the purpose of the article itself. But this does not mean that the High Courts can function arbitrarily under this article. There are some limitations implicit in the article and others may be evolved to direct the article through defined channels. A I R 1961 S C 1731 and A I R 1954 S C 440 Foll. Dwarka Nath v. Income-tax Officer, Special Circle, D Ward, Kanpur. (1965) 2 S C A 868 : (1965) 2 I T J 218 : (1965) 2 S C J 296 : (1965) 57 I T R 349 : (1965) 2 S C W R 391 : AIR 1966 S C 81 (84, 85) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of proceedings under Art. 226.

Article 226 confers a very wide power on the High Court to issue directions and writs of the nature mentioned therein for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III or for any other purpose. Persons other than those claiming fundamental rights can also approach the High Court seeking a relief thereunder. Calcutta Gas Company (Proprietary) Ltd. v. State of West Bengal. (1962) 2 S C A 147 : (1963) 1 S C J 106 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 1 : AIR 1962 S C 1044 (1047, 1048) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 226, 32 and 133 — Proceedings for enforcement of fundamental rights are civil and not extraordinary in nature.

The rights conferred under Part III of the Constitution are ordinary civil rights which were enjoyed by the citizens before 1950. The Constitution merely raised them to the status of fundamental rights which means that the State cannot infringe them. In England the proceedings for the enforcement of these rights are civil in nature, and the position in India is not different. AIR 1965 All 106 (116) (Pt D) (Pr 44) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Exercise of writ jurisdiction only in interest of justice and cannot be invoked for obtaining unfair advantage — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57 (8).

The writ jurisdiction of the High Court can be exercised only in the interest of equity and justice. Hence where a petitioner wants to continue to take advantage of an order made in her favour under S. 57 (8) of Motor Vehicles Act extending her route, and comes up to challenge another order by which a more equitable arrangement has been brought into existence so as to do away with the hardship of the other bus operators, which is the result of the order earlier made favouring the petitioner :

Held, that the ground by itself was sufficient to throw out the writ petition. 1963 All L J 909.

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Court — Can be invoked only when there is infringement of petitioner's right or alleged threat to it — Mere declara- tion of intention to requisition house for residence of High Court Judge — Not per se illegal — Remedy by way of writ petition misconceived. AIR 1962 All 8.

——Art 226—Proceedings under—Nature of—When civil proceeding, stated. See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1960 All 84 (DB).

——Art. 226—Proceedings under—Nature of—Whether civil proceedings — Tests indicated. See Ibid, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1958 All 621 (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of proceedings under — Whether civil proceedings.

A proceeding under Art. 226 for a writ is not a civil proceeding.

Article 225 retains the civil, criminal testamentary intestate and matrimonial jurisdictions conferred upon the High Court under the Letters Patent and Art. 226 confers additional jurisdiction. Since it is additional jurisdiction, it must be different from the jurisdiction mentioned above. The nature of a proceeding under Art. 226 does not depend upon the nature of the earlier proceeding before the inferior Court or tribunal. Nor is there any connection between the nature of the proceeding under Art. 226 and the fact whether a civil suit would lie or not.

The Allahabad High Court has framed rules regulating the procedure in petition under Art. 226. If the test of a civil proceeding is that it is governed by the Code of Civil Procedure, a proceeding under Art. 226 is not a civil proceeding under these rules. It is well established that even when the jurisdiction of a civil Court is barred, the High Court's jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 is not barred. this again points to a proceeding under Art. 226 being different from a proceeding in a civil Court.

Per Beg J., Contra. — A proceeding which deals with right of a civil nature and is otherwise civil does not cease to be so just because a party chooses to resort to Art. 226 for the enforcement of such a right.

No doubt, Art. 226 has carved out a new area of power for the High Court. The High Courts exercise these new powers as part of their ordinary general jurisdiction. 1957 All W R (HC) 268 : A I R 1957 All 505 (511, 512, 514, 515, 522, 523, 524) (Pt E) (Prs 7, 8, 11, 14, 33, 35) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope.

The power given by Art. 226 of the Constitution is of a very wide nature. In the exercise of this power the High Court can issue a mandamus order or direction for the enforcement of any legal right and the performance of any legal duty. I L R (1954) 1 All 582 : A I R 1954 All 393 (411) (Pt M) (Prs 90, 91) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Exercise of the power to issue writs under—Duty of courts.

The terms of Art. 226 of the Constitution are very wide. The fact that the High Court has been vested with such vast powers imposes a heavy responsibility upon it to use them with circumspection. But it does not mean that either the High Court will be hesitant in issuing the appropriate writ, order or direction or that there is any universal or general principle which governs the grant or refusal of the writs, orders or directions. Asiatic Engineering Co. v. Achhru Ram, I L R (1952) 2 All 838 : 1951 A L J 576 : AIR 1951 All 746 (768) (Pr 54) (FB).

● ——Art. 226—Scope.

Malik C. J. — Powers under Art. 226 which are very wide should be sparingly used, only when there is no other adequate remedy, and an application under Art. 226 is the only convenient, beneficial and effectual means of the getting redress.

Further, power of issuing directions and orders, than writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari, are intended to enable Court to secure inter alia, the enforcement of any rights conferred by Part III, in cases where one or more named writs is or are not justified.

[Notion and theory of fundamental rights and directions discussed by Sapru J.]

Agarwala J —(Malik C. J. contra).—The condition that there ought to be a demand and refusal before an application for mandamus is made ought not to be considered as an absolute legal bar, so as to deprive the applicant of redress to which he is otherwise entitled.

[In view of the undertaking given by the Advocate-General that the Regional Transport Authority will consider applications made in future for the issue of permanent permits under Motor Vehicles Act in accordance with law, Malik C. J. and Mootham and Wanchoo JJ. did not consider it necessary to issue any directions in this respect. But Sapru J. held that there was no reason why the direction should not issue even when the Advocate General has given an undertaking.] Moti Lal v. Govt. of Uttar Pradesh, ILR (1951) 1 All 269 : AIR 1951 All 257 (265, 274, 284, 285, 298, 317, 333) (Pt J) (Prs 35, 84, 134, 135, 194, 203, 310, 473) (FB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court.

A writ, order or direction under Art. 226 of the Constitution will issue to remedy a wrong not to promote one. It will not issue where it is likely to work a public or a private mischief. (1964) 1 Andh L T 403 : (1964) 2 Andh W R 342 : AIR 1965 Andh 20 (25) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Nature of jurisdiction under.

Under Art. 226, the High Court does not sit in appeal over the decision of the tribunal, its powers under Art. 226 being restricted and confined to cases of excess of jurisdiction or want of jurisdiction or there being a palpable abuse of the process of the Court or an error apparent on the face of the record. Where none of these is established, the High Court will not interfere with the Tribunal's finding of fact. (1959) 2 Lab L J 261 (AP).

——Art. 226 — Extent of jurisdiction of High Court —Grounds of interference.

The jurisdiction of the High Court in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution is very much limited. Not all matters which can be canvassed before an appellate Court can be urged before the High Court in these proceedings. The essential grounds on which the order of a quasi-judicial tribunal can be sought to be quashed are: (1) on the ground of there being an error apparent on the face of the record; (2) the order being manifestly against the principles of natural justice. (1959) 1 Lab L J 235 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226 — Nature of proceedings under. See Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), S. 79 (2). AIR 1958 Andh Pra 60 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court—Decision of District Judge under S. 51, Madras District Municipalities Act — Interference with — (Municipalities —Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 51).

Under S. 51 of the Act the Legislature has constituted a responsible judicial officer of the rank of a District Judge for deciding questions of disqualifications of councillors and has also constituted him as a persona designata. Section 51 provides that his decision shall be "final" that is to say, not subject to appeal. This provision does not, however, bar petitions for writs under Art. 226 of the Constitution. In hearing these petitions the High Court cannot assume the powers of an appellate Court and decide whether the evidence is sufficient in quantity to support a finding of fact arrived at by the District Judge. 1955 Andh W R 972 : ILR (1956) Andh Pra 127 : AIR 1957 Andh Pra 900 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interference under.

The tests laid down for interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution are whether there has been violation of any principle of natural justice or violation of any statutory principles or any malice in fact or law. ILR (1958) 10 Assam 108 ——Arts. 226 and 227—Jurisdiction of High Court —Nature and extent of.

The High Court is not a Court of Appeal and, it cannot under Arts. 226 and 227 convert itself into an Appellate Tribunal with a view to examining on merits the correctness of the order impugned.

The jurisdiction exercised by the High Court under the above provisions is a supervisory jurisdiction with the result that it cannot review findings of fact arrived at by an inferior Court, Body or Tribunal even if such findings were erroneous.

But, where a subordinate Tribunal or body of officers acts without jurisdiction or in excess thereof or acts with illegality in the exercise of its jurisdiction or in disregard of the principles of natural justice or where there is error apparent on the face of the record, the High Court is not only entitled, but bound to act in the exercise of its constitutional powers to avoid mischief and injustice. The power of judicial superintendence conferred by Art. 227 of the Constitution can be exercised by the High Court in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate Courts or Tribunals within the bounds of their authority. AIR 1957 Assam 182 (184, 188) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interference — Grounds.

Generally the necessary pre-requisites for interference with decisions arrived at by Tribunals whose conclusions on questions of fact are final, can be classified as, (1) where the Tribunal acts in excess of the jurisdiction conferred upon it under the statute or regulation creating it or where it ostensibly fails to exercise a patent jurisdiction; (2) where there is an apparent error on the face of the decision and (3) where the Tribunal has erroneously applied well-accepted principles of jurisprudence. It is only when error of this nature exist, that interference is called for. AIR 1957 S C 78, Foll. (1959-60) 16 FJR 7 : (1959) I Lab L J 565 : AIR 1957 Assam 111 (113) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939) S. 47).

If writ petitions the High Court has got no appellate powers. It can interfere only if there is a defect of jurisdiction in the orders or if there is a patent illegality which results in a failure of justice. To allow stage carriage permits is in the discretion of authorities under Motor Vehicles Act. Therefore where the order of such authority is not illegal, the High Court even if it felt that some injustice has been done to the petitioner for no fault on his part, can give no relief to him. ILR (1956) 8 Assam 507.

——Art. 226—Power to interfere—Considerations in the exercise of.

In an application made under Art. 226, all that High Court is concerned with is to see whether the appellate authority (in this case acting under the Motor Vehicles Act) had jurisdiction to make the order it did. And if it is satisfied that there was no want of jurisdiction in making the order and that there was no violation of principles of natural justice then the High Court would refuse to interfere in the order made. AIR 1954 Assam 17 (18) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — High Court does not act as Court of appeal.

When acting under Art. 226 the High Court does not act as a Court of appeal particularly where the law confers no right of appeal Even if the High Court could come to a different conclusion on facts, interference with the order would not be justified. ILR (1953) 5 Assam 447 : AIR 1954 Assam 12 (16) (Pt E) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Duty of petitioner — Petitioner to satisfy Court that justice lies on his side.

It is not sufficient that a party should come to the High Court and make out a case that particular requisition order is not valid. In order to get that relief from the Court on a writ petition, not only must he come with clean hands, not only must he not suppress any material facts, not only must he show the utmost good faith, but he must also satisfy the Court that the making of the order will do justice and that justice lies on his side. 61 Bom L R 318 : ILR (1959) Bom 990.

——Art. 226 — Proceedings under — Nature of proceedings — Applicability of O. 27-A, Civil P. C. — Notice to Attorney-General — Necessity. See Civil Procedure Code (1908), O. 27-A, R. 1. AIR 1957 Cal 702.

——Art. 226—Beneficial construction.

Being a provision contained in a written Constitution, the article must receive a construction which is most beneficial to the widest possible amplitude of its powers. 56 Cal W N 264 : A I R 1952 Cal 610 (612) (Pt B) (Pr 18).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

The powers given to a High Court under Art. 226 are to be exercised in accordance with the principles which governed the high prerogative writs prior to the Constitution. 87 Cal L J 149 : AIR 1952 Cal 315 318 (Pt B) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Proceedings under — Nature of. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33-A. A I R 1959 Ker 291.

——Art. 226—Powers under—Extent.

(Per Mack J.)—Art. 226 confers on the High Court extremely wide powers of interference and a corresponding extremely heavy burden of responsibility. The framers of the Constitution could never have contemplated High Courts constituting themselves on applications by all sorts of aggrieved persons into inquisitorial tribunals supervising, criticising, modifying or cancelling the actions and orders of different departments of executive authority, institutions, public bodies and last but not least of the Legislatures as regards their internal affairs which are controlled by the Speaker and the House and its committees. It is only in exceptional cases that writs under these wide powers "for any other purposes" can be issued, such as for instance when there has been a clear violation of statutory law, when principles of natural justice have been violated or perhaps where there has been mala fide discrimination against an individual to the detriment of his rights It is impossible to define with exactitude the cases in which Art. 226 of the Constitution can be rightly invoked. They should be comparatively exceptional and very few. ILR (1953) Mad 93 : 64 Mad L W

1031 : 1951 Mad W N Cri 258 : 1951 Mad W N 838 : 1952-1 Mad L J 1 : A I R 1952 Mad 117 (118) (Pt D) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Duty of High Court — Protection of rights of Indian citizens.

It must be emphasised that according to our Constitution, Courts are the ultimate authority to restrain all exercise of absolute or arbitrary power by subordinate tribunal. It is the duty of the High Court to protect the Indian citizens from having their personal rights and property taken away by any means which are not strictly legal. 61 Punj L R 905 : A I R 1960 Punj 278 (280, 281) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

79 (a). Question of fact.

● ——Arts. 226, 286 (1) (b)—Assessment of sales tax — Assessee claiming exemption under Art. 286 (1) (b) —Burden of proving facts is on assessee — Nature of jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 — Should not determine questions of fact—Rajasthan Sales Tax Act (29 of 1954), S. 3 ; A I R 1964 Raj 5, Reversed. Sales Tax Officer, Jodhpur v. Shiv Ratan G. Mohatta, 1965 Kant L J 90 : (1965) 16 S T C 599 : (1965) 2 S C W R 243 : AIR 1966 S C 142 (144, 145) (Prs 11, 13, 14).

● ——Art 226 — Scheme validly framed under Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, 1927—Executive Officer seeking to take over administration after repeal of Act of 1927 — Court will not examine in writ proceedings whether the scheme is consistent with Act of 1951 - See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 103, (d). A I R 1965 S C 502.

● ——Art. 226 - Certiorari—Inquiry into merits—In a petition for a writ of certiorari it would normally not be open to the employer petitioner to challenge the merits of the findings made by the authorities under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act (1946). Associated Cement Co., Ltd. v. P. D. Vyas, (1961-62) 20 F J R 59 : (1961) 2 Fac L R 569 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 563 : 1960 Nag L J 473 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 204 : 1960 S C J 1269 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (SC) 107 : 62 Bom L R 563 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 107 : (1960) 2 S C R 974 : A I R 1960 S C 665 (668, 669) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

● ——Arts. 226, 133, 227 — Question of fact—Interference. See Ibid, Art. 133. A I R 1957 S C 264.

——Art 226—Interference with findings of facts.

There is no law which prevents High Court from investigating a pure question of fact while exercising its writ jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. No such limitations as are imposed under Ss. 100 and 101 of the Code of Civil Procedure in a second appeal have been imposed by the Constitution on the High Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1962 All 439 (443) (Pt F) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 - Order under S. 60, Motor Vehicles Act cancelling permit - Findings of R. T. A. that charges against petitioner were proved not manifestly wrong, perverse, grossly erroneous or such as which no one would reasonably arrive — Court will not function as a Court of appeal and examine the question whether the findings were based on a proper assessment of the probative value of the evidence. 1962 All L J 116.

——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Finding of fact by industrial tribunal - Interference by High Court.

A finding of fact recorded by an Industrial Tribunal, which is sole judge of facts arising in an industrial dispute referred to it for adjudication, cannot ordinarily be interfered with by the High Court in exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution (1961) 3 Fac L R 178 ; (1962) 1 Lab L J 455 (All).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact—Court normally not to go behind findings of fact—But Court is entitled to examine questions of fact on which jurisdiction to pass orders, depends. 1961 All W R (HC) 86 : 1961 All L J 36.

——Art. 226—Evidence.

It is not possible for the High Court to take notice of alleged events which are not proved by the record. AIR 1960 All 304 (309) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact - Except in exceptional cases, finding of fact of the subordinate authority entitled to decide the question is usually accepted by High Court in writ application. 1960 All L J 409.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — High Court will not determine.

The question whether the ballot papers were valid, or whether they were invalidated because the voters had voted for more candidates, is a question of fact for determination by the Tribunal. The High Court in the exercise of its writ jurisdiction is not an appellate Court and it can only quash the order of the tribunal if it is satisfied that the tribunal has misdirected itself on a question of law. 1960 All L J 12 : 1960 All W R (HC) 40.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry - Comment on merits.

It is not the normal function of the High Court, in proceedings under Art. 226 to comment upon the findings of the tribunal on merits. A I R 1959 All 795 (798) (Pt D) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 - Questions of fact—High Court, if can investigate.

It is not open to the petitioner to ask the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 to enter into investigation of those questions of fact which are really the concern of the Tribunal concerned. So far as the High Court is concerned, it will in those proceedings refrain from making an enquiry, holding the fact one way or the other, unless the complaint is that the finding itself was arrived at by the tribunal without any evidence, etc. 1958 All L J 863 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 227 : A I R 1959 All 369 (372) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

There is no bar to the decision of a question of fact in writ proceedings. Of course when it cannot be conveniently decided the High Court will not decide a question of fact. 1959 All L J 477.

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1965 All 382 (F B).]

——Art. 226—Finding of fact.

A finding of fact cannot be allowed to be questioned in writ proceedings. 1958 All W R (HC) 97 : 1958 All L J 37 : 1958 Cri L J 984 : 1959 All Cr R 79 : A I R 1958 All 575 (577) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Finding of fact.

A finding of fact based upon evidence cannot be challenged in petition under Arts. 226 and 227. 1957 All L J 325 : 1957 All W R (HC) 388.

——Arts. 226, 227 — Question of fact—No interference—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 115).

In the case of cumulative votes the question whether a voter has cast votes separately in favour of the three different candidates or he has cast more than one vote in favour of one of the candidates, is a pure question of fact and the finding of the Election Tribunal which is not vitiated by any error of law must be accepted in the proceedings under Art. 226 or 227 of the Constitution. AIR 1955 All 163 (163, 164) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—High Court s power under - High Court is not Court of appeal - Finding of Court of Revenue based on evidence will be accepted. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 3303.

——Art. 226—Mandamus.

Sanction to build granted by Executive Officer, subsequently revoked by Municipal Committee—Municipality urging that revocation was justified because the officer had sanctioned plan without applying his mind to the matter, that the plan was not in accordance with by-laws and that the petitioner had obtained sanction by fraud and misrepresentation — Held, High Court would not examine these matters in the proceeding for mandamus under Art. 226 ILR (1954) 2 All 41 : 1953 All W R (HC) 431 : 1953 All L J 386 : AIR 1953 All 681 (682) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under Article.

It is well settled that the determination of disputed questions of fact or law, and the consideration of the reliability or sufficiency of evidence, are matters which are outside the purview of a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution and the High Court will not arrogate to itself a function which belongs elsewhere. (1965) 2 Andh W R 102 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 602 : AIR 1965 Andh Pra 415 (418) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Finding of fact based upon appreciation of relevant evidence—High Court has no jurisdiction to review the evidence under Art. 226. (1965) 2 Andh W R 179 (DB).

——Art. 226 — High Court sitting in writ petition will not interfere with finding arrived at on evidence on record. (1963) 2 Andh L T 421.

——Art. 226—Employee whether a workman—Finding is of fact—Finding by labour Court—Interference under Art. 226. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (s). (1960) 1 Andh W R 133 : (1960) M L J (Cr) 165 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 526 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — It is difficult to determine a question of fact in a writ petition on merely affidavits and counter affidavits. (1959) 2 Andh W R 565 : 1959 Andh L T 938 : 1959 Mad L J (Cri) 970 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 55 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 147 (149) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Writ proceedings—Disciplinary tribunal's finding — High Court's power to examine sufficiency of evidence for. See Ibid, Art. 311. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 15 (DB).

——Art. 226 — No interferfence with conclusion of fact. (1959) 2 Lab L J 712 (AP).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact arrived at on evidence cannot be interfered with. (1959) 2 Lab L J 271 (Andh-Pra).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Finding of fact — Interference.

Decisions on facts are not interfered with in exercise of powers under either of Arts. 226 and 227 if the finding is supported by evidence. Where some evidence does exist to support the conclusions reached by the inferior tribunal, the probability of a different conclusion by the High Court on the material is no ground for interference by a writ of certiorari. Where the writ petitioners had a fair opportunity of meeting the case the other party was putting against them, any decision on the evidence produced can hardly be treated as vitiated by surprise. (1959) I Lab L J 563 (Andh Pra).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

It is not possible to determine a question of fact within the limited scope of an application under Art. 226. (1958) 2 Andh W R 580 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 773 (778) (Pt B) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Inquiry into—Permissibility.

Questions of fact requiring evidence cannot be enquired into or determined in a writ petition under Art. 226. (1958) 33 I T R 457 : (1958) 1 An W R 322.

——Art. 226—Additional evidence — Power of High Court to admit.

No order of an inferior tribunal can be quashed in exercise of the High Court s jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution on the basis of evidence not put before the inferior tribunal and not considered by it. At all events, the additional evidence sought to be adduced does not go to establish the total lack of jurisdiction of the tribunal. When the question raised is one of fact properly determinable by the tribunal and when so determined it is not open to attack. ILR (1958) Andh Pra 183 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 17.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Matter involving questions of fact — Determination in writ petition—(Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act XIX of 1951). S. 38.

Where the ground for setting aside the appointment of additional trustees is that their interests are adverse to the institution, the ground involves the determination of questions of fact which is not possible within the limited scope of a writ petition. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 108 (109) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

It is not open to the High Court to reassess the evidentiary material in order to reach an independent conclusion of fact. ILR (1956) Andhra 448.

——Art. 226—Writ petition under—Court cannot embark upon an elaborate consideration of question of fact based on evidence. ILR (1963) 15 Assam 366 : AIR 1963 Assam 186 (188) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Nature of inquiry—Questions of fact.

Where on an application under Art. 226 for quashing a particular order the Court is required to decide several questions of facts which cannot be decided without examining voluminous documentary evidence and hearing oral evidence the Court would not embark upon such enquiry to decide if writs, which are entirely discretionary should be issued. The Court should not do so as the writs are considered to be speedy remedies in order to save the petitioner from a possible injury and the object cannot be achieved if a long inquiry is involved.

Where the existence of a legal right, or even a fundamental right rests upon facts which have to be proved, remedy by way on a writ under Art. 226 is highly inappropriate. Facts which give rise to such a right or duty must ordinarily be proved by the person alleging the right in the ordinary civil Courts of first instance having jurisdiction. AIR 1951 Assam 163, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Bhopal 1 (2 3) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 10, 11).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Labour Commissioner or Industrial Court acting on consideration wholly irrelevant under S. 16, C P. and Berar Industrial Tribunal Settlement Act—Finding is perverse -Order liable to be set aside. See C. P. and Berar Industrial Disputes Settlement Act (23 of 1947), S. 16. 1960 Nag L J (Notes) 72.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Rent Control proceedings —Issue of writ. See Houses and Rents—C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 13 (3). 1959 Nag LJ (Notes) 64.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Departmental inquiry — Inquiry officer accepting testimony of superior officer — Case turning on appreciation of evidence—High Court's power to interfere — Art. 311.

There is no rule of evidence which compels a tribunal to disbelieve a superior officer if that superior officer comes to give evidence before it, and an inquiry officer in a departmental inquiry cannot be convicted of partiality merely because he prefers the testimony of the superior officer to the other circumstances on which the petitioner relies. If the case ultimately turns on the appreciation of the evidence, as in these matters the High Court exercises a limited jurisdiction, it is not for it to say whether the inquiry officer is right in accepting the testimony of the superior officer. 59 Bom L R 22 : ILR (1957) Bom 120 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 23 : A I R 1958 Bom 167 (176) (Pt H) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Investigation—Bona fide requirements—Question of extent is one of fact—Present needs are to be considered, See Houses and Rents —C. P. and Berar Rents Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 13 (3) (vi). 1957 N L J (Notes) 140.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Company whether bogus or real.

The qestion whether a certain company is a bogus Company or a real one, is a question of fact and cannot be decided upon in a writ petition. 58 Bom L R 20 : ILR (1956) Bom 51 : AIR 1956 Bom 749 (752) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Other remedy open—Finding not shown as tainted with any error of law apparent on record or vitiated for contravention of rules of natural justice or want of jurisdiction—Relief under Art. 226 is barred. A I R 1965 Cal 203 (204) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

■ ——Art. 226 — Disputed question of fact — It is discretionary with High Court to consider — It is matter of convenience and not of jurisdiction.

In many reported decisions it has been repeatedly pointed out that where there is a question on which there is a serious dispute that cannot be satisfactorily decided without taking evidence, it is not the practice of the High Courts to decide it in a writ petition filed under Art. 226 of the Constitution. A I R 1957 S C 529 ; AIR 1957 S C 733 and AIR 1957 S C 882; A I R 1959 S C 942 ; AIR 1961 S C 1526, Rel. on.

Assuming that there are seriously disputed facts disclosed in petition for issue of writ, the Supreme Court in AIR 1959 S C 725 has however held that an application under clause (2) of Art. 32 cannot be refused merely on the ground that it involves determination of disputed questions of fact. The observations of the Supreme Court in : AIR 1959 S C 725 have given rise to serious controversy as to whether an application under Art. 226 for issue of a writ should be thrown out only on the ground that disputed questions of fact have to be gone into.

Per P. N. Mukerjee and S. P. Mitra, JJ.—The matter is really one of discretion or convenience and not of jurisdiction. Even if a dispute of fact is to be held sufficient to disentitle the applicant to relief by way of a writ it must be such a dispute as will require detailed investigation into serious and complicated questions of fact, which would not be possible without going into elaborate evidence, Where the materials do not prima facie involve a dispute of fact of such magnitude or complication, the application, as it stands cannot be thrown out in limine on the ground that it involves any such dispute.

Held that it would not be proper in the circumstances of the case to refuse a rule nisi inasmuch as the application involved investigation of disputed questions of fact as to the age of the applicant. Jyoti Prokash Mitter v. Hon'ble Mr. Justice H. K. Bose, Chief Justice of High Court, Calcutta, 67 Cal W N 662 : AIR 1963 Cal 483 (487, 492, 493, 499) (Pt D) (Prs 22, 52, 54, 55, 89) (SB).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact —Finding as to sufficient cause under S. 15 (2), Proviso (2), Payment of Wages Act—Finding based on facts and circumstances of the case—No interference under Art. 226 — Limitation Act (1908), S 5—Payment of Wages Act (1936), S. 15 (2), Proviso 2.

When the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act considers all the facts and circumstances of a case and finds that sufficient cause has been made out for condonation of the delay in making the application under S. 15, the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution would not interfere with the finding as to sufficiency of cause for the delay. (1963) 2 Lab L J 473 : (1963) 7 Fac L R 193 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Question of fact —High Court will not generally go into question of fact. AIR 1960 Cal 740 (741) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art 226—Findings on facts by the Subordinate Court —High Court will not interfere with such findings in revision or under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Civil P C. (1908), S. 115 I L R (1960) 1 Cal 643.

—Art. 226 — Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) (f) —Order mentioning purchasers — Power of Court to go behind order and determine the real purchaser. See Essential Commodities Act (1955), S. 3 (2) f). AIR 1958 Cal 257.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Interference
The High Court cannot sit as a Court of appeal on facts. ('58) 62 Cal W N 397.

——Art. 226—Scope — Question of facts cannot be decided. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 4499.

——Art. 226 — Scope — Article is not designed to abrogate suits altogether —When controversy requires facts to be decided parties should be relegated to suit. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 1789.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact — Investigation of facts cannot be done by High Court. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34. AIR 1954 Cal 564.

——Art. 226—Question involving inquiry into facts.
Question involving inquiry into facts cannot be gone into in the petition under Art 226. I L R (1955) 2 Cal 28 : 58 C W N 18 : A I R 1954 Cal 60 (66) (Pt M) (Pr 106) (DB).

——Art. 226—Questions of fact — Question not entertainable in writ jurisdiction unless total want of evidence or unreasonableness of inference is patent on record. 1965 (2) Cri L J 743 : A I R 1965 Guj 283 (292) (Pt E) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Application for writ to set aside order of Accommodation Officer requisitioning for public purpose the additional room constructed by petitioner on the terrace of his bungalow — Held, relying on affidavits of Accommodation officer, that the room was capable of being let out and was 'premises' within the ambit of Bombay Land Requisition Act, 1948 and that it was not a fit case in which evidence should be recorded as to the facts alleged by petitioner—But there will be cases where it would be desirable, in the interests of justice, that evidence should be recorded to determine the disputes raised in the petition under Arts. 226 and 227. (1960) 1 Guj L R 89 : (1960) 1 Guj H C R 140.

——Arts. 226, 227—Finding of fact—Interference.

The scope of Art 227 is not wider than that of Art. 226 and if anything it is narrowed. Where there was evidence in support of the finding of fact recorded by the lower Court, the finding is not liable to be interfered with in the exercise of writ jurisdiction. AIR 1961 Him Pra 2 (5) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226 — Question of title to property — Decision of questions of facts—Writ application will not be entertained. AIR 1955 N U C (Hyd) 2364.

——Art. 226 —Finding of fact —Evidence not considered at all.

Where the custodian of evacuee property has not at all taken into consideration the evidence and has not weighed the same his finding that payment of certain amount as earnest money has not been proved is not merely a matter of appreciation of evidence and cannot be called a mere finding of fact but is a question of law. AIR 1952 S C 319, Disting. I L R (1952) Hyd 1036 : AIR 1953 Hyd 64 (65) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Questions of fact — Complaint of certain charges against P — On enquiry, P exonerated by Government — Another complaint against P—On investigation, charge against P framed — Suspension of P—P filing writ contending that charge framed against him is in substance the same from which he was exonerated — Respondent contending that two charges are different — Held, that Court would be travelling beyond scope of writ petition if it went meticulously into the details of factual aspects of the charge — Petition rejected. 1965 Kash L J 171: 1965 (2) Cri L J 505 : AIR 1965 J & K 91 (93) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 —(Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, S. 103)—Certiorari—Writ of—Power to review findings of fact.

Certiorari may and is generally granted when a Court has acted without or in excess of its jurisdiction. The Court issuing writ of certiorari acts in exercise of supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. It will not, therefore, review findings of fact reached by the inferior Court or tribunal even it they be erroneous. AIR 1955 S C 233 and AIR 1954 S C 440; AIR 1957 S C 804, Foll. A I R 1960 J & K 115 (116) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Oral evidence—If can be taken.

It is unusual to take oral evidence in a writ petition for the purpose of ascertaining facts. Such a practice is inconvenient and alien to writ proceedings, and has been discountenanced in the authoritative decisions of Courts. AIR 1959 J & K 83 (85) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Question of fact — High Court can scan material to ascertain whether there was evidence before authority for coming to the conclusion.

In a writ application the High Court is not a Court of fact and is not entitled to draw inferences or to assess the evidence or to sit in judgment on the findings of fact entered by the respondent authorities. The High Court certainly can scan the material which is supposed to exist and on which reliance has been placed by the respondent authority to come to the conclusion, with a view to ascertaining whether there was any material or evidence at all before the authority for coming to that conclusion AIR 1963 S C 822, Rel. on. 1964 Ker L J 149 : 1964 Ker L T 1109 : 1965 (2) Cri L J 279 (281) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Powers of High Court to interfere. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2(s). 1959 Ker L T 611.

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

It is impossible to resolve a pure question of fact in writ proceedings under Art. 226. 1957 Ker L T 739 : (1957) Ker L J 712.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Question of fact—No interference.

Whether the opportunity given in a particular case is sufficient or not, is a question of fact and can ordinarily be no ground for interference of the High Court under Art. 226 A I R 1952 S C 192, Rel. on. Madh B L R 1956 Civ 819: AIR 1957 Madh B 26 (30) (Pt B) (Prs 46, 48) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 —Finding of fact—Interference in proceedings under, is not permitted. AIR 1955 N U C (MB) 4312.

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Question can be properly determined in suit and not in writ proceedings. 1965 M P L J 690 : 1965 Jab L J 892.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Finding of fact — Interference—Grounds—Miscarriage of justice.

A finding of fact cannot be disturbed in proceedings under Art 226 of the Constitution. Under Art. 227 the High Court has a right to interfere with the decisions of Courts and Tribunal under its power of superintendence. But that power has to be exercised most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate Courts and Tribunals within the bounds of their authority and not for correcting mere errors, and for seeing that they do what their duty requires and that they do it in a legal manner. The power of superintendence under Art. 227 cannot be exercised to disturb a decision of a Court or a tribunal merely because it has misconceived a point of law or come to a wrong decision on facts; that this power is not restricted to cases of non-exercise or illegal exercise of jurisdiction but extends also to cases where there has been an obvious miscarriage of justice because a Court or tribunal has approached a matter entrusted to it in an arbitrary or despotic way and against all rules of natural justice. AIR 1954 S C 215, Rel. on. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 111.

——Art. 226—Question of fact—No interference under Art. 228. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64-A. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 157.

——Art. 226—Finding of fact. See Sales Tax — C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act (21 of 1947), (As Extended to Vindhya Pradesh, s. 2(h)). 1960 M P L J 150

——Art. 226 —Question of fact — Question of fact in controversy—Petition for writ of quo warranto is not maintainable. See Municipalities C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 15(1). A I R 1957 Madh Pra 88.

——Art. 226—D trafficking in permits forming company - Entire interest in company possessed by D—Disqualification attached to company also — Scope of enquiry under S. 59 — Previous recognition of transfers does not bar consideration of the bona fides of transfers when considering company's application for permit along with other applications—Whether transfer of stage carriage permit amounts to trafficking is question of fact—No interference with finding in writ proceeding. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. (1964) 1 Mad L J 140 : AIR 1965 Mad 305 (DB).

——Art 226—Jurisdiction of Labour Court — Reference made by Government under—Questions whether employees are workmen and whether industrial dispute exists — Labour Court can decide — High Court cannot examine them in writ proceedings. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 15. AIR 1964 Mad 192.

——Art. 226–Petition under – Finding of fact by lower tribunal—Finding to be accepted in such petition. (1962) 1 Lab L J 94 : 1961-62) 22 F J R 12 : AIR 1963 Mad 79 (79) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 926—Construction of statute by Tribunal – Construction found wrong — High Court will interfere with finding.

Where a question of construction of a statute arises, there can be only one view, the view that is ultimately accepted by the superior Court. If, as a result of interpretation, it is found that the inferior tribunal has erred, it will really be a case of the tribunal not administering the law which it is bound to administer and the High Court will interfere with the finding of Tribunal. A I R 1961 S C 970, Rel. on. (1961) 2 Lab L J 771 : (1962) 4 Fac L R 429 : (1961-62) 21 F J R 387 : (1961) 1 Mad L J 285 : I L R (1962) Mad 345 : 75 Mad L W 500 : A I R 1962 Mad 327 (335) (Pt F) (Pr 20) (DB).

——Art. 226—Procedure—Additional evidence.

On the question whether fresh evidence could be admitted before the High Court in order to test the correctness of the conclusion of the inferior Tribunal, Held, the scope of enquiry under Art. 226 for the purpose of issuing a writ of certiorari is limited to the question whether the findings of fact arrived at by the Tribunal are warranted by the material placed before it. It was, however, held that in the interests of justice an opportunity should be given to the petitioner to prove his case especially when he had a piece of clinching evidence which he had not put before the Tribunal either because he had not been assisted by counsel or because he took an erroneous view that the document already produced would be sufficient. 1960 Mad W N 835 (2) : (1961) 2 Fac L R 94 : (1960-61) 18 F J R 289 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 430 : AIR 1961 Mad 285 (287) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—No interference.

A finding of fact based on the appreciation of the evidence and to some extent oral evidence which the lower Court has heard, cannot be set aside in writ proceedings. The quantum of sufficiency of such evidence is not a matter for investigation in the exercise of the limited jurisdiction under Art. 226. (1960) 1 Lab L J 485 : (1960) 2 Mad L J 254 : 1960 Mad W N 423.

——Art. 226 – Question of fact.

When exercising writ jurisdiction, the High Court will not investigate disputed questions of fact. 1959 Mad W N 387 : 72 Mad L W 434 : ILR (1959) Mad 770 : (1959) 2 Mad L J 402 : AIR 1959 Mad 548 (553) (Pt B) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Art. 226–Question of fact.

A question of fact cannot be investigated in writ proceedings. (1959) 1 Lab L J 520 : (1959-60) 16 F J R 106 : 72 Mad L W 386 : (1959) 2 M L J 173 : 1959 M L J (Cr) 627 : I L R (1959) Mad 891 : AIR 1959 Mad 441 (444) (Pt D) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Questions of fact cannot be determined –Proper course— Determination of question whether land was estate on the basis of statement in affidavit and documents filed in writ petition—Not proper — (Madras Estates Lands Act (1 of 1908), S. 3 (2).) 70 Mad L W 84 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 185 : AIR 1957 Mad 361 (362) (Prs 1, 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Petition for—Procedure — Question of fact — High Court cannot go into the question. (1956) 26 Com Cas 431 : 70 Mad L W 28 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 254 : ILR (1957) Mad 383 : A I R 1957 Mad 309 (319) (Pt j) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Question of available surplus profits for distribution as bonus.

Held, on facts that in a writ petition it would not be open to the employers to challenge the statement filed on their behalf. Nor will it be open to the High Court to verify within the scope of the limited jurisdiction vested in it by Art 226 of the Constitution whether the computation of the surplus profits available to each of the employers, made by the employers themselves and accepted by the Appellate Tribunal, was correct. 69 Mad L W 1020 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 282 : (1957) 1 M L J 11 : A I R 1957 Mad 223 (225) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 – Question of fact—High Court's power to re-examine facts and decide whether order was correct or wrong on facts—(Madras Places of Public Resort Act (2 of 1888), S. 14—Rules under—Rule 18 (a)).

It is for the licensing authority under the Madras Places of Public Resort Act to come to a decision on the question whether the condition laid down in the proviso to Rule 18 of the Rules framed under that Act is or is not satisfied to any particular case. It is not the province of High Court to re-examine the facts and decide whether the condition is actually fulfilled that is, whether the order of a licensing authority was correct or wrong on the facts. In the case of exceptional perversity or when mala fides is established, High Court will be inclined to interfere. 69 M L W 883 : (1956) 2 M L J 556 : AIR 1957 Mad 221 (222) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47— Finding of fact arrived at by Government under— High Court will be reluctant to interfere except under circumstances, which establish that no reasonably minded tribunal could have reached the conclusion it did. (1956) 1 M L J 324 : 69 Mad L W 58.

——Art. 226–Proceedings under–Finding of fact— Court cannot decide its correctness.

It is not open to the High Court in an application under Art. 226 to canvass the correctness of a finding of fact arrived at by an inferior tribunal. ILR 1955 Mad 972 : (1956) 1 M L J 93 : AIR 1955 Mad 75 (78) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial disputes—Illegal lock-out or unfair labour practice–Jurisdiction of Tribunal to determine—Decision that closure of industry amounted to unfair labour practice — Writ of certiorari cannot be issued. 1952 Mad W N 731 : 65 Mad L W 947 : (1952) 2 Mad L J 547 : (1952) 2 Lab L J 587 : AIR 1953 Mad 30 (31, 32) (Prs 3, 4).

——Art. 226–Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 64—Grant of permit – Findings of fact—Interference in writ proceedings not permissible. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. (1965) 2 Mys L J 30 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Nature and scope.

High Court dealing with an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution does not and cannot constitute itself a Court of facts. It is only when facts are either admitted or established to the satisfaction of the Court and when the question to be decided is one of law that a High Court will make up its mind to consider the matter. Disputed questions of fact cannot satisfactorily be decided in a summary proceeding as the one under Art. 226. ILR (1956) Mys 274 : AIR 1957 Mys 16 (18) (Pt D) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226–Finding of fact–Interference.

The High Court in dealing with writ matters does not enquire into facts and must take the findings as good. 1955 Nag L J 735 : ILR (1956) Nag 60: A I R 1956 Nag 174 (175) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 100 (1) (c). AIR 1956 Nag 67.

——Art 226—Determination of basic rent—Findings of Rent Controller if can be challenged in writ proceedings. See Houses and Rents—C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 7. AIR 1955 Nag 158 (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ — Certiorari—Correction of findings of fact—Certiorari does not issue for correcting findings of fact of inferior Courts. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 62 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact cannot be agitated in writ proceeding. (1965) 2 Lab L J 691 : (1966) 13 Fac L R 89 : AIR 1966 Pat 330.

——Art. 226 — Finding of facts—High Court cannot interfere. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33 (3) (b). (1965) 2 Lab L J 530 : AIR 1966 Pat 197 (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Question of fact—Absence of material for passing order under S. 5-A of Bihar Private Irrigation Works Act before the tribunal alleged—Question raised for first time in writ petition — Question being essentially one of fact will not be entered into in writ petition — Adequacy of reasons for orders under S. 5-A cannot be challenged in writ petition. Braj Kishore Bahadur v. State of Bihar, 1963 B L J R 701 ; A I R 1963 Pat 314 (315, 316) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (FB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Interference. 1958 B L J R 343 : A I R 1959 Pat 72 (73) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—High Court will not entertain question of fact for first time and determine it. (1959) 10 S T C 601 (Pat).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Interference — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64).

In a proceeding under Art. 226 against the order of State Transport Authority under S. 64, Motor Vehicles Act refusing to renew permit, the High Court is not sitting in appeal over the State Transport Authority and hence it is not open to the High Court to go into the facts. ILR 34 Pat 429 : AIR 1956 Pat 437 (439) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Questions of fact can be agitated in writ petitions. A I R 1955 N U C (Pat) 2151 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope—Proceeding under, for investigating question of fact.

A proceeding under Art. 226 is not a proper machinery for investigating questions of fact. Such questions should properly be agitated in civil suit. 1953 B L J R 656 : A I R 1954 Pat 279 (279) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—High Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction cannot reappraise evidence recorded by Enquiry officer to determine whether his finding of fact are correct or not. 68 Pun L R 174.

——Art. 226—Question of fact —Interference—A dispute on a question of fact is outside the purview of the writ jurisdiction of High Court. 1965 Cur L J 582 : ILR (1965) 2 Punj 747.

——Art. 226— Disputed question of facts — Original order allotting certain land in lieu of property left by displaced person in Pakistan—Subsequent cancellation of that order on ground that according to entries in Jamabandi prepared for 1946-47 in Pakistan, the area in question was mostly Gair munkin land value of which would be treated as zero for the purpose of any allotment against it —Writ Petition against order of cancellation — Question whether jamabandi for 1946-47 was latest held was not a disputed question of fact of kind which disentitles petitioner to claim relief under Art 226—Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S. 19. 1965 Cur L J 817 (Punj) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question of fact—Question whether petitioner had or had not stood surety for repayment of certain loan—Held question could not be gone into in proceedings under Art. 226. 1965 Cur L J 726 (Punj).

——Art. 226— Writ petition under—Disputed questions of fact—Not considered.

It would be quite inappropriate to go into the disputed questions of fact as regards in individual petitioners under Art. 226 of the Constitution particularly :when the Act concerned provides ample machinery for the redress of those grievances, to which recourse has not been taken by the petitioners, A I R 1962 Punj 32, Disting. 65 Pun L R 754 : I L R (1963) 2 Punj 773 : A I R 1964 Punj 90 (99) (Pt C) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Powers under — Scope of — Conclusions of lower Court — Interference on writ side.

Conclusions drawn by the lower Court are binding and unassailable when these conclusions are not shown to be tainted by any such serious infirmity as would justify exercise of the discretionary power of a high prerogative writ for re-evaluating the material on which these conclusions are based. (1963) 65 Pun L R 157 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 405 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 231.

——Arts. 226, 14—Disputed question of fact — Discretion of High Court to decide question — Duty of Government officials opposing petition to give correct facts — Petitioner can request High Court to decide petition on basis of respondent's allegation of disputed fact—Amendment of petition not necessary — Question whether concession granted by railway in freight rates is discriminatory against petitioner—High Court acting under Art. 226 not appropriate venue for deciding question.

It is in discretion of the High Court to decide or not to decide a disputed question of fact in a particular case and the exercise of this discretion depends on the circumstances of each case. If the dispute about an essential fact can be determined only after a lengthly and elaborate enquiry, then it is for the High Court to decide whether or not to hold such an enquiry. In this context the existence of alternative remedy is an important factor. If the alternative remedy is available then the High Court will more readily refrain from holding the enquiry than otherwise.

It is duty of the Government officials to give correct facts in clearest possible terms with a view to bring correct position before the High Court and not to file a reply with the sole purpose of defeating the petition. AIR 1959 S C 725, Rel. on.

The question whether the concession granted by the Railway Authorities in the matter of freight rates to certain mills is discriminatory against the petitioner so as to violate Art. 14 of the Constitution, is of a technical and complicated nature, and necessitates an elaborate enquiry to decide it. Proceedings under Art. 226 are not suited to decide it. ILR (1960) Punj 763. Rel. on. 63 Punj L R 206 : A I R 1961 Punj 268 (269, 270, 271, 272) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 12) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227– Question of fact –Interference. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 98. A I R 1959 Punj 309 (DB).

——Art. 226– Question of fact.

Where decision depends on facts and circumstances of the case it is not open to scrutiny by the High Court in the proceedings under Art. 226. 61 Pun L R 140 : AIR 1959 Punj 54 (58) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 –Finding of fact –Interference. 60 Pun L R 272 : A I R 1958 Punj 212 (213) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8).

——Art. 226–Question of fact.

The petitioner cannot be allowed to raise questions of fact for the first time in proceedings under Art. 226. I L R (1958) 8 Raj 1161 : 1959 Raj L W 3.

——Art. 226–Question of fact.

For the purpose of deciding an application under Art 226, the High Court cannot enter into matters of fact. I L R (1958) 8 Raj 311 : A I R 1958 Raj 140 (142) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226–Question of fact.

It is not for the High Court to determine a question of fact in its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art 226. 1958 Raj L W 286 : I L R (1958) 8 Raj 320 : A I R 1958 Raj 96 (98) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

Complicated and disputed question of fact.

● ——Art. 226–Question of fact — Investigation in writ proceedings.

The questions whether the trusts are public or private trusts or the properties are private or trust properties are questions which involve investigation of complicated facts and recording of evidence and such investigation could not be done in writ proceedings. Moti Das v. S. P. Sahi, (1959) 2 S C A 432 : I L R 38 Pat 639 : (1959) Supp (2) S C R 563 : 1959 S C J 1144 : A I R 1959 S C 942 (951) (Pt I) (Pr 17).

● ——Art. 226–Scope of inquiry — Disputed questions.

Where there is a question on which there is a serious dispute, which cannot be satisfactorily decided without taking evidence, it is not the practice of Courts to decide it involving much time and expense in a writ petition. Union of India v. T. R. Verma, (1957) 13 F J R 237 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 123 : 1958 All W R (H C) 165 : 1958 M P C 61 : 1958 All L J 126 : 1958 S C R 499 : 1958 S C J 142 : 60 Punj L R 126 : 1958 S C A 110 : (1958) 1 Mad L J (S C) 67 : (1958) 1 Andh W R (SC) 67 : I L R (1958) Punj 274 : A I R 1957 S C 882 (884) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226–Disputed question of fact.

It is not for the Judicial Commissioner to decide a disputed question of fact in the summary enquiry under Art. 226 particularly when the documents relied on by the petitioner do not lead to a clear inference in his favour. 1956 Cri L J 358 (1) : A I R 1956 Ajmer 40 (2) (40) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226–Writ jurisdiction–Scope of–Disputes on facts — Interference in — Dispute cannot conveniently be resolved upon in a petitioner under Art. 226. 1965 All L J 886 : (1965) 11 Fac L R 97.

——Art. 226–Finding of fact will not be interfered with–Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere.

While exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226, High Courts do not usurp the functions of a Court of Appeal and for that reason can interfere with an order passed by subordinate authorities only if there exists any error in the exercise of jurisdiction or there exists an error apparent on the face of the record. Where two opinions are possible and the subordinate authorities adopted one, that would not be a case for interference by the High Court, though it shall be open for the parties to seek such other remedy as they may be advised. Where the question was whether the accomodation was new or old and the subordinate authorities were of opinion that it was old and that U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act applied, the High Court will not interfere with such finding under Art. 226. A I R 1964 All 395 (403, 404) (Pt D) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226 — Whether an alleged partnership is a real or fictitious one is a question of fact–Finding on such question cannot be set aside in a writ proceeding. 1964 All L J 20 : 1964 All W R (H C) 36 : A I R 1964 All 221 (225) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Whether A and B were President and General Secretary of a Labour Union are disputed questions of fact — High Court cannot go into such questions in petition under Art. 226. (1964) 2 Lab L J 65 : (1964) 8 Fac L R 306 (All).

——Art. 226–Finding of fact cannot be challenged.

The fact whether A was or was not in cultivatory possession is a pure question of fact. On that finding of fact, certain rights accrue to him. That is not a question of law. Whether the Marfat entry should have been interpreted to mean actual cultivatory possession in the particular circumstances of the case is not a finding that can be challenged in a writ petition. A I R 1964 S C 477, Foll. 1964 All W R (H C) 716 : 1964 All L J 906.

——Art. 226–Scope of writ proceeding — Controversial questions of fact cannot be decided — Evidence Act (1872), S 124–Official communications between superior authorities with regard to confirmation or non-confirmation of a Government servant in a particular post–Privilege claimed by State Government in respect of — Procedure — Controversial question left upon for final decision in a regular suit. A I R 1963 All 415 (419) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226–Writ jurisdiction — Disputed questions of fact–Writ to quash notice under S. 34, Income tax Act — Dispute about facts on which legal status of assessees could be determined — Quashing of notice under Art. 226 held premature. I L R (1960) 2 All 671 : A I R 1962 All 291 (295, 296) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226–Controversial questions of fact–Cannot be decided in writ petition — Proper remedy is a separate suit. A I R 1957 S C 882, Rel. on. A I R 1962 All 166 (168) (Pt A) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226–Disputed questions of fact–Termination of private service–Proper remedy is by way of suit–No certiorari.

In a writ petition if there are controversial questions of fact the proper jurisdiction is not by way of a writ petition, but by way of a regular suit. In a private institution a person whose services have been wrongfully terminated is entitled to institute a suit to vindicate his rights and the High Court will not decide such questions in a writ petition. A I R 1957 S C 882, Relied on. A I R 1961 All 282 (284) (Pt C) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226–Question of fact — Complicated question of fact.

The question whether a person has voluntarily acquired the citizenship of Pakistan is a complicated question of fact and a writ proceeding is hardly appropriate for an elaborate factual inquiry. The onus of proving that he has not voluntarily acquired the citizenship of Pakistan is on him. Again, the question of citizenship is essentially political in nature, and the Central Government should be permitted to decide the matter in the first instance. The Court should not ordinarily take the matter into its own hands until it is absolutely necessary for protecting the liberty of person. 1960 Cri L J 1176 : A I R 1960 All 559 (561) (P B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Disputed question of fact.

It is not the practice of the Courts to decide serious disputes on questions of fact which could not be satisfactorily decided without taking evidence, in a writ petition, where no evidence can be taken and the matter has to be decided simply on affidavit. A I R 1957 S C 882 Rel. on. (1960) 1 Fac L R 477 : 1960 All L J 288 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 146 : A I R 1960 All 551 (555, 556) (Pt C) (Pr 26).

——Art. 226 - Question of fact—In proceedings under Art. 226 High Court does not usually enter into controversial questions of facts and forms an opinion on consideration of broad features of the case. A I R 1960 All 382 (383) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Difficult and complicated questions of fact — Liquidation proceedings — Writ to quash — Maintainability — Relationship between Court and official liquidators in liquidation proceedings — (Companies Act (1913), S. 179) — (Companies Act (1956), S. 457).

Held, on facts that before the lease could be cancelled or quashed on any ground, difficult and complicated questions of fact and law would have to be gone into; and a proceeding under Art. 226 was not appropriate for this purpose.

Liquidators might be officers of the Court but strictly speaking they represented not the Court but the company which was being wound up. A I R 1936 Lah 152, Expl. and Disting. The lease in favour, of the appellant could not be considered to be a judicial or quasi-judicial order or decision of the Court so as to be the subject of a writ of certiorari. So far as the sanction under S. 179, Companies Act, 1913, was concerned, it was in the discretion of the Court either to refuse or to grant it; it obviously could not be compelled by a writ to exercise that discretion in a particular manner. A writ of certiorari could not be used for the purpose of compelling a tribunal to exercise its jurisdiction in a particular manner. That was so also in the case of a writ of mandamus. AIR 1957 S C 529, Rel. on.

It was not possible, in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution, either to order dispossession of the appellant or to direct that the respondent be put in possession of the mills. A I R 1955 All 501 and A I R 1956 All 511 (FB) and A I R 1956 Nag 34, Disting. Nor could the liquidators be directed under Art. 226 of the Constitution to execute a lease in favour of the respondent.

A writ of mandamus could not be issued to enforce a contractual obligation : A I R 1947 Cal 307 and AIR 1952 Raj 151 and A I R 1953 Punj 239 and A I R 1954 Mad 549, Rel. on. On the basis of the facts in this case it was not open to the respondent to say that if a writ could not be granted a direction or order should be made. It was not possible for the High Court in summary proceedings under Art. 226 to grant any order or direction such as was sought by the respondent. ILR (1958) 1 All 549 : (1958) 28 Com Cas 587 : A I R 1958 All 447 (453, 454, 455, 456) (Prs 15, 16, 18, 19, 20, 22, 23, 25, 29) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Grounds for issue of writ — Facts in controversy—Petitioners are not entitled to any relief under Art. 226. A I R 1958 All 141 (147) (Pt B) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Disputed facts—No interference.

In writ proceedings the High Courts usually do not go into questions of disputed facts but accept the findings reached on them by the Courts concerned. 1958 All L J 491 : 1958 All W R (HC) 643.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Controversial questions of fact raised — High Court will not go into. A I R 1957 All 375 (376, 377) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court — Controversial questions of fact.

Where there is a controversy between the parties on the question as regards the nature of the road and the right of the public, the High Court in writ petitions will not enter into these controversial questions of fact dependent on evidence. The petitioner, if he has any right which has been infringed by the Cantonment Board, has his remedy by means of a regular suit. 1957 All L J 288 : 1956 All W R (HC) 771.

——Art. 226 — Petition under—Contention requiring consideration of facts—Maintainability. See Civil P.C. (1908), O. 27, R. 1. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 3595.

——Art. 226—Petition under—Disputed question of fact involved — Other appropriate remedy open — Maintainability.

Where the petitioners for writ, who are tenants of certain land claim a right to cultivate that land they would have a right under the general law to go to the appropriate Court for relief which would be in a better position to decide the question of fact in dispute as to whether the land was brought under cultivation before a particular date or afterwards. 1954 All W R (HC) 540 : A I R 1954 All 753 (754) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Computation of compensation under Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act — Extent of land in dispute—Court will not decide the controversy in writ proceedings—Tenancy laws—(Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari Act (26 of 1948)). (1965) 2 Andh L T 290 (DB).

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact—Hyderabad Opium and Intoxicating Drugs Act (IV of 1333 F), S. 2 (iv)—Chloral Hydrate — Whether narcotic substance—Notification declaring it as intoxicating substance—Cannot be challenged.

The contention that 'Chloral Hydrate' is not a narcotic substance within the meaning of S. 2 (iv) of the Act and as such the State Government had no power to declare it as such by the impugned Notification cannot be entertained in writ proceedings. The reasons are: firstly, that controversial questions of fact are not within the purview of these proceedings and secondly, that the Intoxicating Drugs Act contemplates a subjective satisfaction on the part of the Government to notify a substance having regard to its effects on the human body. ILR (1964) Andh Pra 1092: (1964) 1 Andh L T 285 : A I R 1964 Andh Pra 430 (432, 433) (Pt B) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

In a writ petition the High Court cannot adjudicate upon the truth or otherwise of the relative assertions as it is not within the province of the High Court to go into the question of fact. 1959 Mad L J (Cr) 788 : (1959) 2 Andh W R 426 : ILR (1959) Andh Pra 620.

——Art. 226—Decision of question of fact.

In an application under Art. 226, it is not open to the High Court to come to any finding on a question of fact. 1955 Andh W R 909.

——Art. 226 — Disputed question of fact—Power of High Court to remit issue.

The High Court under Art. 226 is empowered to remit an issue on a disputed question of fact and get a decision by a competent Court after giving opportunity to the parties to adduce evidence and dispose of the petition on the findings given by such Court. 1962 Mad L J (Cr) 84 : AIR 1961 S C 1526, Dist. ILR (1962) 14 Assam 313 : A I R 1962 Assam 103 (104) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 115 — Exercise of jurisdiction—Disputed questions of fact — Question as to interpretation of notification—No interference in absence of patent mistake of law or error of jurisdiction.

The Government of Assam in exercise of powers under S. 3 sub-s. (1), sub-cl. (b) of the Minimum Wages Act (11 of 1948), issued two notifications prescribing the minimum wages. The Authority under the Act having held that the latter notification was in supersession of the first notification the decision was challenged in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution and under S. 115 of Civil P. C.

Held, that in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India or even under S. 115 of the Civil P. C., it is not obligatory on the High Court to find out the correct interpretation of the notification after examining the surrounding circumstances in which the impugned notification was issued, unless the error is patent and one of jurisdiction. (1962) 2 Lab L J 211 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 248 : A I R 1961 Assam 154 (156) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — High Court will not go into any controversial questions of fact. Parbananda Das v. Executive Engineer, Assam, I L R (1960) 12 Assam 356 : (1960) 1 Assam L R 150 : AIR 1961 Assam 101 (111) (Pt D) (Pr 30) (FB).

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact.

In an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court should not go into disputed facts to ascertain which version is correct. Hiranmoy v. State of Assam, A I R 1954 Assam 224 (253, 254) (Pt O) (Pr 64) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Question requiring further investigation of facts—Question will not be decided. A I R 1953 Assam 137 (141) (Pt D) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 226 (1)—Facts stated by petitioner disputed by opposite party—High Court will decline to issue writ under Art. 226. AIR 1953 Assam 12 (13) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Dispute relating to existence of custom—Held, dispute involved, detailed investigation of facts which could not be done in proceedings under Art. 226. 67 Bom L R 234 : AIR 1966 Bom 70 (91, 92) (Pt G) (Pr 38) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability—Petition under—Certain statement annexed to petition—Accuracy of the statement not accepted by other side—It would not be possible for the High Court to consider such a statement in petition under Art. 226. 63 Bom L R 323 ; (1961) 1 Lab L J 702 : (1961) 3 Fac L R 122 : 1961 Nag L J 384 : ILR (1961) Bom 491 : A I R 1962 Bom 97 (101) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Finding of fact—Court not entitled to determine complicated facts in petition under Art. 226. See Income-Tax Act (1922), S. 34. AIR 1961 Bom 5.

——Art. 226—Disputed question of law and fact—Issue of writ.

An order for refund of moneys paid pursuant to a voluntary settlement under S. 8-A of the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act, 1947, which has been declared to be ultra vires the Union Parliament, cannot be claimed in a petition under Art. 226.

Against the claim made by the petitioner for refund of the amount if the Central Government is entitled to set up agreement evidently disputed questions of law and fact will fall to be determined; and normally a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution is not an appropriate proceeding for adjudicating upon disputed questions of fact. AIR 1959 S C 149, Expl. and Distinguished; AIR 1955 SC 1 and AIR 1955 S C 257, Relied on. (1960) 40 I T R 624; 62 Bom L R 11; AIR 1960 Bom 353 (360, 361) (Pt A) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Art. 226 cannot be resorted to, to decide disputed questions of fact. 61 Bom L R 764 : ILR (1959) Bom 1175 : (1959) 2 Lab L J 578 : AIR 1960 Bom 299 (308) (Pt F) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Scope of proceedings—Disputed question of fact cannot be gone into. 60 Bom L R 624 ; (1958) 2 Lab L J 692 : A I R 1960 Bom 9 (10, 11, 12) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact—Court will refuse to determine question upon a writ. ('55) 57 Bom LR 938.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact—Cannot be decided in writ jurisdiction. AIR 1965 Cal 380 (386) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Person whether foreigner or Indian citizen is disputed question of fact—Such question cannot be decided in Writ Jurisdiction. AIR 1961 S C 1526, Foll. AIR 1965 Cal 160 (162) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order illegal on merits and on procedure adopted by Registrar—— High Court will not go into disputed questions of fact

Where the order passed by a High Court Judge under Art. 226 is illegal both on merits as well as on the procedure adopted by Registrar of firms, it is not necessary for the High Court in appeal to go into the disputed questions of fact on which the Judge dismissed the petition under Art. 226. ('65) 69 Cal W N 929.

——Art. 226—No dispute as to factual state of affairs —Can be resolved in writ petition. ('65) 69 Cal W N 203.

——Art. 226—Proceedings under — Disputed questions of fact — Question whether conditions in R. 9, Citizenship Rules have been satisfied — Cannot be enquired into in writ proceedings—Citizenship Act, 1955, S. 18—Citizenship Rules, R. 9.

A disputed question whether a person is a foreigner is a question of fact requiring a detailed examination of evidence and a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution is not appropriate for its decision : AIR 1961 S C 1526, Rel. on.

Question whether a person has satisfied all the conditions under Rule 9 of the Citizenship Rules is a question of fact and cannot be enquired into in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1964 Cal 324 (326) (Pt C) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Disputed questions of fact in petition under Art. 226—Cannot be resolved on affidavits only.

(1962) 2 Lab L J 541 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 147 : AIR 1963 Cal 359 (363) (Pt C) (Pr 18).

● ——Art. 226—Question of fact—Whether petitioner is Indian national cannot be decided in writ petition —Foreigners Act (1946), S. 8—C. P. Code (1908), S. 9.

If a case raised disputed questions of fact as to whether or not a person is an Indian national a decision of that question cannot properly be rendered in a writ application. The matter ought to be decided by a suit. AIR 1961 S C 1526, Rel. on.

Where there is a dispute as to the fact of a person being a foreigner or an Indian national, the jurisdiction of the Courts is not ousted. The Courts have authority to decide the dispute. It is only in a given, set of circumstances that that jurisdiction has been taken away as has been pointed out clearly by the Supreme Court in AIR 1961 S C 1467. (1963) 2 Cri L J 210 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Application by person ordered to leave India under S. 3 (2), Foreigners' Act Question arising for decision whether petitioner had migrated to Pakistan in 1949 and had never become a citizen of India under the Constitution—Bar of S. 9 (2) Citizenship Act does not apply and hence Court of law and not the Central Government has to decide question—But writ application is not maintainable where all facts in case are disputed. AIR 1961 S C 1526, Rel. on; AIR 1961 S C 1467 : AIR 1962 S C 70 and AIR 1961 S C 1522, Distinguished—Foreigners Act (1946), S. 3 (2); Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2). ('62) 66 Cal W N 108.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Existence of alternative remedy—Effect.

In a petition under Art. 226, the High Court will not go into questions, which are primarily questions of fact, when there is a clear alternative remedy available, in which evidence can be taken and a complete adjudication can be made of the points advanced. ('61) 65 Cal W N 908.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact—If can be gone into — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1)).

Where the validity of a reference under S. 10, Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 was called in question by a writ petition which raised issues involving disputed questions of fact which could not be satisfactorily decided without taking evidence.

Held, that the application was premature and should be dismissed. 64 Cal W N 191 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 472.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Question of disputed facts.

The facts being disputed, it is not possible for the High Court under Art 226 to decide the point finally. 63 Cal W N 101 : AIR 1959 Cal 402 (406) (Pt D) (Pr 18).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.:

Questions of highly disputed facts that whether certain dekhilas (rent receipts) create a title cannot be entertained by the High Court in writ jurisdiction. ('59) 63 Cal W N 933.

——Art. 226—Facts disputed—Refusal to issue writ.

That it was impossible to decide the question without determination of facts which were disputed is a good ground for refusing to issue a writ. (1959) 10 S T C 68 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Matters of the internal administration of a College involving disputed questions of fact are not proper matters for enquiry by the Courts under Art. 226. 62 Cal W N 259 : ILR (1959) 1 Cal 28 : AIR 1958 Cal 131 (134) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Complicated questions of fact.

A proceeding under Art. 226 is entirely unsuitable for determination of the title of a party, specially when it depends on disputed questions of fact. The Court cannot take evidence or resolve the disputed questions of fact in this jurisdiction. 62 Cal W N 49 : AIR 1958 Cal 114 (115, 117) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 11).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

Held, that the High Court could not decide on affidavits whether there actually occurred any parental favouritism or not which depended on controversial facts stated in the affidavits. 61 Cal W N 414 : AIR 1957 Cal 656 (657) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Complicated questions of fact.

Held, that the question whether the petitioner was functioning as the Headmistress or as the Assistant Headmistress of the School and whether she was entitled to pay on the scale claimed by her and as to what amount was actually due to her if at all, and whether the appeal of the petitioner against the decision of the Managing Committee was competent or not were disputed questions of fact which could not be gone into in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 61 Cal W N 110: AIR 1957 Cal 182 (184) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Scope—Controversial question requiring expert evidence.

Where a controversial question cannot be decided in the absence of expert evidence, adjudication on that point becomes impossible in an application under Art. 226 and for such an adjudication the petitioner will have to institute proceedings where evidence can be taken. ILR (1957) 3 Cal 187 : (1956) 7 S T C 527 : AIR 1956 Cal 299 (302, 303) (Pt D) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226—Controversial questions.

When the subject-matter of the contest is not any question of principle, but a question of the merits of the division actually made of a Union into wards under the powers vested by the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, it is a matter hardly to be agitated on an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1963 Cal L J 214 : 59 Cal W N 1031 : AIR 1955 Cal 529 (532) (Pt D) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

In an application under Art. 226, the Court does not (except in exceptional circumstances) go into disputed questions of fact. Where the matter involves disputed questions of fact a suit would be the proper remedy. ILR (1956) 1 Cal 247 : 58 Cal W N 457 : AIR 1955 Cal 189 (191, 192) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 18).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

In an application under Art. 226, the High Court cannot go into the disputed questions of fact. 58 Cal W N 617 : AIR 1955 Cal 72 (74) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Complicated or extended questions of fact such as mala fides, service of notice, knowledge of facts and questions of title, depending on futher evidence, cannot be entered into. AIR 1955 N U C (Cal) 1789.

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact.

It is not right that the High Court should deal with a disputed question of fact in an application under Art. 226 and the petitioner ought to have preferred an appeal before the Tribunal provided for by the West Bengal Food Grains (Intensive Procurement Order (1952). AIR 1953 Cal 756 (757, 758) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Determination involving complicated questions of fact cannot be undertaken in proceedings on Habeas Corpus petition. See Ibid, Art. 7. 1964 (2) Cri L J 24 : AIR 1964 Guj 128 (DB).

——Art. 226—Petitioner's right to possession of land in substantial dispute — Determination of disputed questions of fact depending on taking of evidence—Petitioner should seek his remedy under ordinary law—High Court will not interfere in writ proceedings. AIR 1964 S C 1419 and AIR 1958 Madh Pra 115, Rel. on AIR 1965 Him Pra 53 (54, 55) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 10).

——Art. 226 — Serious dispute on question of title which cannot be decided without taking evidence—Question will not be decided in writ petition. AIR 1957 S C 882 and AIR 1960 All 551, Relied on. AIR 1964 Him Pra 19 (22) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

A Court exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226 does not ordinarily allow evidence to be led before it on disputed questions of fact: AIR 1960 Raj 86, Foll. AIR 1980 Him Pra 30 (31) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Disputed questions of fact.

The question as to whether the petitioner was guilty of an attempt to cheat at the examination or not is, obviously, one which cannot be gone into in summary proceedings like writ proceedings. AIR 1953 Him Pra 33 and AIR 1952 Cal 757, Rel. on. AIR 1958 Him Pra 8 (9) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Complicated questions of fact.

The High Court cannot deal with disputed questions of fact in an application under Art. 226. AIR 1953 Cal 756, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Him Pra 31 (32) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of High Court's power under—Order suspending Small Towns Committee without giving opportunity to show cause—Validity—(Municipalities—Punjab Small Towns Act, 1921 (II of 1922), S. 49)—(Municipalities — Punjab Municipal Act (III of 1913), S. 16).

The Judicial Commissioner's Court of Himachal Pradesh can issue a writ under Art. 226 for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution or for any other purpose. Part 3 deals with Fundamental Rights. If the petitioner is unable to show which particular Fundamental Right has been infringed, the expression, 'for any other purpose', may cover a case, but then a particular case may not be disposed of in a summary proceeding as in a writ petition.

An order was passed by the Lieutenant-Governor, Himachal Pradesh, purporting to be under S. 49, Punjab Small Towns Act, as applied to Himachal Pradesh, suspending the Small Town Committee of Bilaspur on the ground that it had persistently made default in the performance of its duties and abused its powers. The members applied under Art. 226 on the ground that they were not given an opportunity of showing cause against the suspension order.

Held, that S. 49, Punjab Small Towns Act, does not say that before a Committee is suspended, an enquiry should be held and an opportunity be given to the Committee to clear its position.

(ii) The case could not be disposed of in a summary proceeding under Art. 226 because although the order did not indicate which particular duty was neglected by the Committee or which power was abused by it, that fact alone was not sufficient to invalidate the order. The real dispute between the parties was whether the Committee was or was not guilty of the sins of commission or omission, attributed to it. This could be decided only after recording evidence of the parties and, obviously, that could be done only in a regular suit. AIR 1952 Punj 176; AIR 1954 Madh B 161; AIR 1952 All 753 (FB), Disting. AIR 1955 Him Pra 11 (12) (Prs 5, 7).

——Art. 226—Scope of.

Proceedings under Art. 226 being of a summary nature, no writ will issue where the right to it depends on proof of complicated questions of fact which are not capable of establishment in such proceedings. But where the disputed questions of fact are easily provable, as for example, by the filing of originals or certified copies of incontrovertible documents, relief will not be disallowed in such proceedings on the mere ground of the facts stated by the petitioner being disputed by the opposite party. AIR 1953 Assam 12; AIR 1953 Cal 172, Ref. AIR 1953 Him Pra 95 (100) (Pt F) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226 — Nature of jurisdicton of the High Court.

While exercising its writ jurisdiction the High Court does not constitute itself a Court of facts and ordinarily it is only where facts are admitted or clear on affidavits and the only question to be decided is one of law that the High Court condescends to take up matters for disposal under Art. 226 of the Constitution assuming of course that the other essentials necessary for the passing of an appropriate writ are present. This is because if the suitor can get an equally adequate and speedy remedy by recourse to the normal process of law where both parties can produce their evidence and complicated questions of fact can be more satisfactorily gone into, it would be unfair and risky to determine the dispute in a summary manner by permitting resort to the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court. Where parties are in disoute on several questions of fact and in order to get at the truth it is necessary that each of them should be given ample opportunity of examining its witnesses and canvassing its respective assertions, they should be left to the ordinary remedy for resolving the differences between them since a Court of facts would be in a better position to judge between the two conflicting versions. Judicial investigation should on principle not be allowed to be sacrificed for the convenience of the petitioners. Case-law referred. I L R (1954) Hyd 350 : AIR 1954 Hyd 203 (204) (Pt A) (Pt 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ petition under — Construction of conflicting documents involved — Not a fit case for interference — Complicated question of fact — Effect of.

Where an order is sought to be quashed under Art. 226 by construing, comparing, contrasting and accepting one version against the other in two documents, it is not at all a fit case in which the extraordinary writ jurisdiction should be exercised. AIR 1960 S C 137, Rel. on. Furthermore, where the contract is rather complicated and raises many legal issues, and where contradictory statements of fact are made, deciding of such cases is clearly beyond the scope of writ petition. 1964 Kash L J 306 : AIR 1965 J & K 39 (42) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Disputed question of fact — High Court, when will enquire into.

The Court is not powerless to embark upon an enquiry into the disputed questions of fact where such an enquiry can be made and resolved on the basis of documents and affidavits filed in the Court. More particularly when an infringement of a fundamental right is involved in a case, the Court should normally resolve the disputed question of fact unless the disputed question is very complicated. A I R 1959 S C 725, Rel. on. AIR 1962 J & K 48 (58) (Pt C) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact cannot be gone into in writ proceeding. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, S. 103. A I R 1959 J & K 136 (DB).

——Art. 226—Relief against proceedings under Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952 — Question whether management employs 20 or more persons — Finding recorded by authority functioning under statute, without collecting materials — Court not justified in adjudicating upon question.

Where a writ petition is filed by the management of certain factories challenging the proceedings taken by the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner under the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952, by way of demanding contributions, and the question arises whether, in the cases under consideration, it could be held that the management employs 20 or more persons, so as to attract the applicability of the Act, if both the parties, namely, the management and the authorities concerned, are in a position to place before the High Court agreed facts from which the question of the nature of the relationship between the management and the workers, as a point of law, can be decided by the High Court, it may be that the High Court can embark upon that enquiry. Or if an authority competent under the statute to adjudicate upon facts, has investigated the facts and recorded findings one way or the other, on the basis of findings so recorded, the High Court may proceed to adjudicate upon the legal relationship that exists between the parties concerned.

Where neither of the circumstances indicated above is present, the High Court is not justified in going into the question and adjudicate one way or the other regarding the existence or non-existence of a relationship of employer and employee. Where materials have been collected and a finding has been recorded by an authority functioning under the statute, it will then be open to a Court to consider whether the essential conditions for the application of the statute exist in a given case or not.

The mere registration of a factory under the Factories Act and the further circumstance that the factory is having a muster roll and the workers working in the factory are by themselves not enough to prove a relationship of employee and employer. 1963 Ker L J 885 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 528 : I L R (1963) 1 Ker 261 : A I R 1963 Ker 219 (235, 236) (Pt B) (Prs 132, 135, 139).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Proceedings under Art. 226 are particularly inept to investigate complicated questions of fact — Petition challenging land acquisition proceedings on allegations showing mala fide object of Government — Allegations denied or challenged by Government — Allegations cannot be inquired into in writ proceedings. (1960) 2 Ker L R 547 : 1960 Ker L T 630 : 1960 Ker L J 1185 : A I R 1960 Ker 355 (355) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact — Disputed questions of fact.

Whether the person who conducted the auction had the right to confirm the sale and whether he, as a matter of fact, did so, are disputed questions of fact which it is impossible to resolve in proceedings on a petition. The person aggrieved has to seek remedies in ordinary suit. 1957 Ker L T 1000.

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act, S. 34—Question whether all material was or was not disclosed by petitioner is one of fact—Facts disputed — Writ will not issue—Orders by Taxing authorities—No interference in writ proceedings ordinarily — Remedy by way of appeal should be pursued. (1962) 44 I T R 726, Foll. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 178.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of facts could not be investigated for relief in writ proceedings — Administrative orders are outside the purview of correction by writ of certiorari.

Held on facts, that it was obvious that there were disputed questions of facts which could not be investigated or made the foundation for relief in the writ proceedings. A I R 1957 S C 882, Rel. on. The orders challenged were administrative orders which were outside the purview of correction by certiorari. The petitioner's case was grounded on facts which were seriously disputed, in a situation in which the petitioner has another alternative and efficacious remedy of a suit. In such a case, as laid down in A I R 1957 S C 882, it would be a sound exercise of discretion to decline to interfere. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 121.

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

The purpose of directions, orders or writs under Art. 226 of the Constitution is to enforce a right which had already been established and is not to establish a legal right. That being so, the right sought to be enforced under Art. 226 must be clear and undisputable. If the right which is intended to be enforced is in substantial dispute or is one which admits of reasonable doubt or controversy and depends on facts which are disputed and which have to be established, then it would not be proper for the High Court to enter into an investigation of facts which have to be established before any writ, direction or order can be issued under Art. 226. In case in which facts have to be established, it would be proper for the High Court to refer the applicant to a suit. AIR 1958 M P 115 and A I R 1957 S C 529, Ref.. 1961 M P C 368 : 1961 Jab L J 437 : 1961 M P L J 508 : I L R (1959) Madh Pra 873.

——Art. 226 — Discretion of High Court — Other remedy open — Disputed questions of fact — High Court not bound to exercise powers under Art. 226 simply because violation of fundamental right is alleged — Distinction between Art. 32 and Art. 226.

The High Court unlike the Supreme Court under Art. 32 of the Constitution, is not bound to exercise its discretionary powers under Art. 226 when there is an equally efficacious remedy by way of a Civil suit. Article 32 is placed in Part III dealing with fundamental rights and, therefore, it can be plausibly contended that an approach to the Supreme Court in the event of a denial of the right conferred by this Part is itself a fundamental right. But such a contention cannot be made in regard to the High Court's power under Art. 226. Where there is controversy in regard to facts, and where at least some of the rights concerned are contractual, a civil suit is more appropriate than an application under Art. 226. 1961 M P L J 138 : 1960 M P C 570 : 1960 Jab L J 1028 : AIR 1960 Madh Pra 282 (285) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Disputed question of fact—Cannot be gone into in a writ petition. 1960 M P C 22 : 1960 Jab L J 158 : 1959 M P L J 771 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 377 (379) (Pt A) (Pr 16).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Investigation into disputed facts.

The object of Art. 226 of the Constitution is the enforcement of fundamental rights and other rights and not the establishment of a legal right. That being so, the right to be enforced must be clear and undisputable. If the right which is intended to be enforced is in substantial dispute or is one which admits of reasonable doubt or controversy and depends on facts which are disputed and which have to be established, then it would be proper for the High Court to refer the applicant to a suit. AIR 1957 S C 529, Rel. on.

The above rule cannot however apply where the doubt or dispute is as to the construction of a document or a judicial order or as to the effect and meaning of a record. When the right sought to be enforced is clear and undisputable and is a fundamental right, the petitioner cannot be directed to avail himself of the remedy of a suit. AIR 1954 S C 403 : 1964 S C J 445 : (1954) 1 Mad L J 690 & A I R 1957 Madh Pra 109, Rel. on. ILR (1957) Madh Pra 658 : 1957 M P C 725 : 1957 Jab L J 1088 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 115 (122) (Pt A) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Remedy under—If could be invoked to decide controversial questions of fact — Madras Village Panchayats Act (35 of 1958), Ss. 27 and 28 — Disqualification of members — Matter in controversy—If could be raised in a writ proceeding challenging the validity of a no-confidence motion passed at a meeting.

The Madras Village Panchayats Act provides for a machinery to decide questions relating to disqualification of members of a panchayat. Where a controversy is raised relating to a matter of this character such controversial facts should be decided only by the machinery provided under the Act. The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot be invoked to investigate into disputed questions of fact and give relief on that basis.

Where a 'no-confidence' motion has been passed by a Panchayat against its President, it is not open to the aggrieved President to challenge the validity of the resolution in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution on the ground that the members of the Panchayat who voted for the resolution were disqualified, especially when the controversy was raised at the meeting and it was found against. 78 Mad L W 196 : (1965) 2 M L J 375 : AIR 1965 Mad 431 (432) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Disputed questions of fact — Discretion.

As regards the disputed question of facts it is a matter of discretion with the High Court to consider or not. It is a matter of convenience and not of jurisdiction. AIR 1965 Manipur 39 (42) (Pt C) (Pr 23).

——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of High Court's power—Disputed questions of fact.

Proceedings under Art. 226 are of a summary nature where issues are decided on affidavits, and are not appropriate for deciding disputed questions of fact or of title, and therefore in such cases, other remedies that may be open must be sought. AIR 1953 All 477 ; AIR 1956 Cal 257, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Manipur 4 (7) (Pt B) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 –Power of High Court—Disputed questions of fact.

Where the disputed questions of fact are easily provable, as for example by the filing of originals or certified copies of incontrovertible documents, relief will not be disallowed in proceeding under Art. 226 on the mere ground of facts stated by the petitioner being disputed by the opposite party. AIR 1953 Him Pra 95, Foll. AIR 1956 Manipur 4 (6, 7) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 — Disputed question of fact — Question cannot be raised for first time in writ proceedings. ILR (1965) Cut 653 : (1965) 2 ITJ 826 : AIR 1966 Orissa 124 (129) (Pt B) (Pt 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Investigation of disputed facts in writ proceedings — Petitioners challenging election and alleging that provisions of Orissa Municipal Act and Rules as to preparation and publication of electoral roll were contravened — Facts controverted in affidavits filed by opposite parties—Held, the application was liable to be dismissed. AIR 1959 S C 942, Foll. ILR (1965) Cut 765.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

In a writ application the High Court cannot enter into disputed questions of fact, such as of relative merits of the candidates who were seeking admissions to a Medical College. I L R (1963) Cut 281 : (1963) 5 Orissa J D 203 : AIR 1963 Orissa 173 (174) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Election—Validity of election challenged on the ground of serious irregularities committed by the Election Officer - Petitioner alleging that voters whose names were on the election roll, were prevented from voting—Question involves facts and cannot be decided by the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226—Proper remedy of petitioner is to claim relief from the Sub-divisional officer under R. 24 of Gram Panchayat Rules. See Panchayats — Orissa Gram Panchayat Rules (1949), R. 24. I L R (1963) Cut 499.

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact—Petitioner making certain statement in his affidavit — A vague reply in counter-affidavit to the effect that there is nothing on record to show that the statement of the petitioner is correct will not amount to a denial of the facts alleged in that statement—Hence there is really no disputed question of fact in such a case. AIR 1931 All 423 and AIR 1956 Nag 27, Rel. on. 27 Cut L T 266 : I L R (1961) Cut 373 : (1961) 3 Orissa J D 174 : AIR 1962 Orissa 78 (82) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 226, 227—Finding of fact—Election tribunal—No error apparent on the face of record — Finding will not be disturbed. Panchayats — Orissa Grama Panchayats Act (15 of 1948), S. 10 (9) (c). (1962) 4 Orissa J D 148 : I L R (1962) Cut 217 : 28 Cut L J 446.

——Art. 226 — Finding of lower Appellate Court based on evidence — Cannot be interfered with in exercise of writ jurisdiction. ILR (1962) Cut 195.

——Arts. 226, 227—Certiorari, writ of — Disputed questions of fact—Writ proceedings to quash certificate proceedings to recover arrears of sales tax—Dispute as to facts for deciding whether sales tax was payable—Interference by High Court.

The powers of the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution are very limited. It cannot enter into disputed questions of fact and come to an independent finding of its own. Where the necessary facts for deciding whether sales tax is payable or not were not admitted and the petitioner, by his own negligence, refused to lead any evidence regarding these facts, it will not be proper for the High Court, at a belated stage to examine this disputed question and come to a finding of its own as against the finding of the Sales Tax Officer. AIR 1956 S C 137 and AIR 1957 Orissa 240, Rel. on. (1961) 12 S T C 649 (Orissa).

——Art. 226—Application under—Disputed questions of fact cannot be decided. ILR (1959) Cut 63.

——Art. 226 — Nature of jurisdiction—Question of fact.

Where an elaborate investigation on facts will have to be made with a view to adjudicate on the rights of the parties the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 cannot obviously adjudicate the question. The appropriate forum in that case is the Civil Court. AIR 1957 Orissa 219 (221) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 –High Court, if will decide questions of fact.

It is not the function of the High Court in an application under Art. 226 to decide questions of fact and to determine the liability of of a dealer for assessment on that basis. All that it can do is to determine whether, on the facts admitted or proved, the assessment has been correctly made. ILR (1955) Cut 529 : (1956) 7 S T C 36 : 21 Cut L T 531 : A I R 1956 Orissa 7 (9) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 SC 284].

——Art. 226 — Complicated questions of fact—Writ jurisdiction cannot be invoked where a disputed question of fact on the basis of which title to property has to be decided arises for consideration. Proper remedy is a civil suit. 1965 B L J R 744 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

Where the allegations of the petitioners are controverted by the opposite parties, and when the facts are in dispute and an appropriate writ cannot be granted without investigation of complicated facts, a writ petition is not an appropriate remedy. A I R 1959 Pat 409 (412, 413) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Question of fact.

The question whether the petitioners who were discharged from service were made permanent or not is a question of fact and it is not possible for the High Court to go into disputed questions of fact in a writ application especially when there is no material on the point for coming to a decision. 1958 B L J R 593 : AIR 1959 Pat 192 (193) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Scope of inquiry – Question of fact—Determination of — Question whether proviso to S 85 (1). Factories Act, applies or not to particular person or persons — (Factories Act (1948), S. 85 (1), Proviso).

The question whether the proviso to sub-s. (1) of S. 85 of the Factories Act applies, or not, to a particular person or persons, or to a particular establishment owned by such person or persons, is a mixed question of fact and law both, and it is a matter of enquiry by the appropriate tribunal created by the Statute upon evidence to be adduced, pro and con, specially when that fact is denied on behalf of the other party. (1956.57) 11 F J R 96 : 1956 B L J R 717 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 536 : I L R 35 Pat 877 : A I R 1957 Pat 247 (250) (Pt B) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Controversial question of fact—Determination of — (Bihar Premises Requisition (Temporary Provisions) Act (15 of 1950), S. 3 (1)).

A High Court will not determine a controversial question of fact, such as whether notice under S. 3 (1), Bihar Premises Requisition (Temporary Provisions) Act, should have been given to all joint owners of the premises in question, in a proceeding under Art. 226—AIR 1954 Pat 266. Rel. on. 1957 B L J R 562 : A I R 1957 Pat 109 (109, 110) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Interference.

Where on fundamental facts there is considerable amount of disagreement and unless there be some very special reasons, it is not open to the High Court to take evidence for the purposes of coming to any findings on these facts. AIR 1956 Pat 384 (390, 393, 394) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 20) (DB).

——Art. 226—Controversial questions of fact—Issue of writ—Practice.

Pure questions of fact, if they are controversial, cannot ordinarily be gone into by the High Court on a writ application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. It is only where the facts are undisputed that the High Court exercises its jurisdiction under the above article if those facts attract the exercise of such jurisdiction. 1956 B L J R 270 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 84 : (1956-57) 10 F J R 255 : I L R 35 Pat 292 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 84 : A I R 1956 Pat 294 (296) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Nature and scope of High Court's power — Complicated questions of facts and law — Question cannot be gone into. AIR 1955 NUC (Pat) 5696.

——Art. 226 — Question involving investigation of facts.

Whether the properties belong to a public or private endowment, is a question which involves investigation of complicated facts and involves recording of evidence, a proceeding under Art. 226 is not a proper machinery for investigating such complicated question of fact. If the petitioners contend that the properties are not trust properties they are at liberty to institute a properly framed suit claiming the reliefs they seek in a Court of competent jurisdiction. 32 Pat 1148 : AIR 1954 Pat 266 (278) (Pt N) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Exercise of discretion — Disputed questions of fact.

The remedy given by Art. 226 is an extraordinary one and can be invoked only in exceptional circumstances by those who have no alternative remedy by way of suit or otherwise. The petitioner's disputed questions of fact cannot be satisfactorily determined in these summary proceedings. A I R 1952 Pat 194 (199) (Pt E) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact.

Controversial points of fact which cannot be decided without elaborate enquiry and without reference to evidence which the parties may have to lead, cannot be taken up and decided in a petition under Art. 226. A I R 1956 Pepsu 14 (16) (Pt F) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Consolidation of holdings under S. 14, E. P. Act (L of 1948)—Dispute regarding fragmentation of holdings cannot be considered in writ proceedings under Articles – In proceedings under Articles High Court would ordinarily refrain from holding an enquiry into disputed facts. See Tenancy Laws—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (L of 1948), S. 14. ('65) 67 Pun L R 310.

——Art. 226 — Proceedings under E. P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (L of 1948) S. 42 — Director, Consolidation of Holdings passing order of adjustment on basis that encroachment in plots allotted to petitioners was made during consolidation operations — Petitioners contending encroachment after termination of consolidation operations — Case was held not fit for interference in writ proceedings on disputed question of fact See Tenancy Laws—East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (L of 1948), S. 42. ('65) 67 Pun L R 176.

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court – Disputed questions of fact—Interference – Permissibility.

The High Court, in proceedings for a writ of certiorari under Art. 226 of the Constitution is not a fact finding tribunal and consequently cannot go into disputed questions of fact in such proceedings. AIR 1960 S C 137 : AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1961 Punj 366, Foll. A I R 1959 S C 725, Dis. ('62) 64 Pun L R 155.

——Art. 226—Disputed question of fact.

In proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution it is not open to the High Court to hold an elaborate enquiry into disputed and complicated questions of fact. More so, when the right in question is created by a statute and the mode of redress is also provided therein. I L R (1959) Punj 212 : A I R 1959 Punj 638 (642, 643) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 -Mixed question of fact and law.

It is not open to the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 to hold a detailed enquiry into a complicated and mixed question of fact and law. A I R 1959 Punj 575 (577, 578) (Pt D) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Disputed facts — Existence of another remedy—Effect—(Specific Relief Act (1877), S 9).

It is not proper for the High Court in a petition under Art. 226 to decide the disputed questions of the fact and law particularly when it is still open to the petitioner, in spite of the decision in the proceedings, to go to a Civil Court under Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act. ILR (1958) Punj 210 : AIR 1959 Punj 220 (222) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Disputed questions of fact — Other remedy open—Jurisdiction of High Court.

Where the petitioner under Art. 226 sought to challenge the vires of the East Punjab General Sales Tax Act, 1948, but the substantial dispute was not the validity of the Act but the application of that Act to disputed questions of facts in the case :

Held, that the High Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction would not go into disputed questions of fact and interfere with the assessment proceedings especially when the Act itself provides a complete machinery for settlement of such disputes. (1959) 10 S T C 194 (Punj).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

There should be no interference under Art. 226 where facts are in dispute or are contested. AIR 1957 Punj 191, Rel. on. 60 Punj L R 66 : ILR (1958) Punj 775 : AIR 1958 Punj 356 (361) (Pt C) (Pr 16).

——Art. 226 -Disputed question of law and fact — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1))

The contention that the dispute relating to an employee could validly not be referred to the Tribunal on the ground that he is not a workman within the meaning of the Act is a matter which can be and ought to be raised before and decided by the Tribunal itself rather than in a Writ petition in the High Court, since it is a disputed question involving both law and fact which can only be decided after evidence. (1957-58) 13 F J R 425: (1958) 2 Lab L J 107 : AIR 1958 Punj 14 (15) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry— Disputed questions of fact.

The object to be accomplished by a writ of mandamus is not to determine controversies; it is simply to enforce a clear and specific legal right when such right depends solely on questions of law. When the question whether the petitioner was appointed to the service in a substantive provisional capacity or in some other capacity is a doubtful and disputed question of fact and it cannot be determined in these proceedings. 59 Punj L R 213 : ILR (1957) Punj 1222 : AIR 1957 Punj 191 (193) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1962 S C 1711.]

——Art. 226—Application for writ—Facts in dispute —Effect.

Where in a petition for a writ under Art. 226, the facts themselves are in dispute, the High Court will not issue any writ or order. A I R 1953 Punj 137, Rel. on; (1915) 3 K B 768 and (1925) 2 K B 250, Ref. 56 Punj L R 14 : AIR 1954 Punj 117 (118) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Facts in dispute—Exercise of jurisdiction.

The High Court cannot turn itself into a Court of original jurisdiction and proceed to enquire into the various issues which arise on the pleadings of the parties. Therefore, when the facts are disputed, it would not exercise its jurisdiction. ILR (1953) 3 Punj 472 : AIR 1953 Punj 137 (144) (Pt G) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Question of fact —Whether firm has dissolved is question of fact and cannot be entertained - Income-tax Act (1922), S. 44.

It is a question of fact, whether the firm has or has not been dissolved and when the fact is disputed by the Income tax department the High Court is not in a position to determine this controversy in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 555 : (1965) 2 I T J 682 : 1965 Raj L W 530 : AIR 1965 Raj 205 (206) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Scope —Controversial questions of fact cannot be gone into in writ jurisdiction. 1965 Raj L W 188 : ILR (1965) 15 Raj 375 : AIR 1965 Raj 162 (166, 167) (Pt B) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226— Disputed question of fact — Writ to challenge order of deportation —Vital question whether petitioner was Indian citizen or foreigner on 26th January, 1950— Remedy by suit more appropriate than by writ—Foreigners Act (1946) (as amended in 1957), Ss. 9 and 8 —Determination of nationality — Burden of proof — Citizenship Act (1955), S. 9 (2) —Determination of citizenship.

Where in a writ petition under Art. 226, seeking to challenge an order of deportation passed against the petitioners by the Superintendent of Police, directing them to leave India, the most vital question for consideration was whether the petitioners were Indian citizens on 26th January, 1950, when the Constitution came into force, and where there was a dispute on the question of fact, the matter cannot properly be determined in exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226. The question will be best decided by a suit : AIR 1963 S C 1035 and AIR 1961 SC 1526 and AIR 1962 S C 70 and AIR 1962 SC 1778 and AIR 1963 S C 645, Rel. on. 1964 Raj L W 591.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — High Court will not permit elaborate enquiry into disputed questions of fact and to determine them especially where a party can resort to the remedy by way of a suit. 1964 Raj L W 380.

——Art. 226—Questions of fact.

The High Court will not ordinarily decide disputed questions of fact in its extraordinary jurisdiction. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 1255 : 1960 Raj L W 306 : AIR 1960 Raj 86 (90) (Pt E) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—Disputed facts — If there is no alternative remedy the Court has to determine even after recording evidence. ('60) ILR (1960) 10 Raj 540.

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 Raj 250 (FB)].

——Art. 226— Questions of fact— Disputed question relating to service of notice — Court will not investigate—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 114). 1958 Raj L W 255 : ILR (1958) 8 Raj 364.

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

The High Court will not grant relief to the petitioner in its extraordinary jurisdiction by going into disputed questions of fact. 1955 Raj L W 411 : ILR (1955) 5 Raj 950 : AIR 1956 Raj 33 (34) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Finding on question of fact — Industrial Disputes—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1)).

Where the question is whether the petitioner had closed down his mills temporarily or whether he had resorted to a lock-out to coerce the labour to come down to their knees, it is difficult to come to correct finding on such a question of fact in proceedings under Art 226. The matter can very well be enquired into by the Industrial Tribunal. I L R (1953) 3 Raj 862 : 1953 Raj L W 569 : AIR 1953 Raj 188 (190) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Impliedly Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 1811].

——Art. 226—Question of fact —Issue of writ.

The High Court, in a proceeding under Article 226, will not embark upon an enquiry into a disputed question of fact. That the remedy of a civil suit is open to the petitioner is an additional reason, why the High Court will not go into that question. AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (29) (Pt A) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Disputed questions of fact.

It is well settled that proceedings under Art. 226 are of a summary and discretionary nature and the Court will not enter into those facts which are in dispute. AIR 1957 Tripura 15 (17) (Pt A) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226—Case involving complicated questions of fact — Writ of mandamus may not be issued.

Where the case involves complicated questions of fact and these facts cannot properly be decided without taking evidence such questions should not be tried in mandamus proceedings. Issue of the writs, directions and orders is entirely a matter for the discretion of the Court And one of the grounds against the exercise of that discretion is that the right claimed by the petitioner is not capable of being established in the summary proceedings under Art. 226. Case-law Ref. AIR 1955 Tripura 33 (34) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

Finding based on evidence.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — State Government has to apply its mind to decide such question —High Court has jurisdiction to decide whether State Government has done so.

The question whether or not the premises in dispute were vacant is a question of fact rather than a question of law and a Single Judge of the High Court, upon a writ petition filed by the aggrieved party, has the jurisdiction to decide whether or not the State Government passed the order without applying its mind to such a question. 1965 A L J 740 : 1966 Cri L J 320, Disting. 1965 All W R (HC) 782.

——Art. 226—Question involved pure question of fact —Subordinate authority arriving at finding of fact on evidence produced—High Court will not interfere in writ jurisdiction. A I R 1961 All 299 (300) (Pt D) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226— Question of fact — Disputed facts — Investigation.

As a rule, High Court does not enter into an investigation of disputed facts in the proceedings under Art. 226 which are decided on the basis of affidavits. 1958 All L J 539 : ILR (1959) 1 All 176.

——Art. 226—Finding of fact by Tribunal—Interference —Error of law —(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 60 (c)).

The Regional Transport Authority and the State Transport Tribunal are administrave bodies exercising quasi-judicial functions as regards the issue and cancellation of permits.

The High Court is not, in the exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution, entitled to usurp the jurisdiction vested in those bodies or to constitute itself a Court of appeal from their decisions The High Court would have no power, save possibly in very exceptional circumstances, to interfere with the decision of the State Transport Tribunal on a question of fact in any case in which there is conflict of evidence.

But where the Regional Transport Authority and the State Transport Tribunal have arrived at a finding to the effect that the permit was obtained by fraud and misrepresentation which is not only unsupported by any evidence but is contrary to such evidence as there is, it amounts to an error of law if not to a violation of the principles of natural justice. An error of law apparent on the face of the proceedings is recognised as good ground for the issue of an order of certiorari. (1952) 1 All E R 122; A I R 1952 S C 192; Relied on.

Writ of certiorari was issued, quashing the orders cancelling the permits, of the Regional Transport Authority. 1954 All L J 278 : 1954 All W R (H C) 352 : AIR 1953 All 641 (643) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 13, 15 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Finding of fact—No interference — (Tenancy Laws — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (62 of 1948), S. 29).

Where the proceedings under S. 29 read with S. 34 of the Bombay Act (62 of 1948). the question was whether the applicant wanted the lands for his bona fide personal cultivation and the Revenue Tribunal having considered the evidence in the case came to the conclusion that it was not so proved:

Held, that it was a finding of fact and it would not be open to the High Court in proceeding under Arts. 226 and 227 to interfere with that finding. AIR 1956 Bom 128 (129) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial dispute — Application by workmen to summon a party which was not a party to the reference to appear in the proceedings on the ground that it was the employer—Tribunal on consideration of the evidence holding that the party was not the employer and rejecting the application on the ground that it was not a necessary party—High Court will not interfere with the finding under Art. 226—Industrial Disputes Act.(1947), S. 18(2).(b). (1964) 1 Lab L J 134 : (1963) 7 Fac L R 121 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Appreciation of evidence by disciplinary tribunal — High Court cannot constitute itself into Court of appeal. 1963 Ker L J 463 : (1963) 1 Ker L R 455 : 1963 Ker L T 503 : ILR (1963) 1 Ker 622 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 211 : AIR 1964 Ker 227 (230) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226 — Questions of fact—Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (16 of 1959), S. 11 (3).

When exercising powers under Art. 226, the High Court does not act as though it were an appellate authority deliberating on the correctness or otherwise of conclusions on facts by the lower tribunals. A writ of certiorari would not be issued unless the decisions sought to be vacated are vitiated by error of jurisdiction, by legal error apparent on the face of the record, or by failure to observe principles of natural justice. The factual sufficiency of the ground, on which the lower tribunals acting under the Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act have directed eviction, would not be scrutinised by the High Court in writ proceeding, the correctness of such findings being justiciable by proper authorities in exercise of their appellate powers. 1961 Ker L J 425 : (1961) 1 Ker L R 260 : 1961 Ker L T 114.

——Art. 226 — Industrial dispute — Award by Tribunal—Interference—Grounds.

In proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution it is not within the province of the High Court to find out whether a particular award given by an Industrial Tribunal works hardship or not, if the award as passed is within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal and is not opposed to any principles of natural justice.

Held, that taking the award as a whole and considering the nature of the dispute referred to the Tribunal and the evidence adduced before the same, it could not be said that the finding was in any way, not supported by the evidence on record. (1959) Ker L R 1219 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 316.

——Art. 226—High Court has no jurisdiction under Art. 226 to interfere with a finding of fact — Order of State Transport Appellate Authority granting stage carriage permit after evaluation of merits of applicants—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 48 (1).

It is not open to the High Court to interfere with the valuation of the merits of the petitioner and the respondent made by the State Transport Appellate Authority for the grant of permit when the decision of the appellate authority does not suffer from any infirmity justifying the issue of a writ of certiorari. It cannot be said of the decision of the appellate authority that it is based on irrelevant considerations or on considerations which are invalid in law. AIR 1964 S C 477 and Civil Appeal No. 1015 of 1963 of High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Rel. on. 1964 Jab L J 491.

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction to interfere — Claim for retrenchment compensation — Evidence of employer to show that employee himself stayed away — Decision of Labour Court based on appreciation of evidence held could not be interfered in writ petition. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 101. AIR 1964 Mad 255.

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Fair rent fixed by authorities — High Court will not interfere unless it is case of no evidence — (House and Rents — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cls. (4) and (5)). 1958 Nag L J (Notes) 62.

——Art. 226—Enquiry officer following correct procedure — Civil Court cannot question findings on appraisal of evidence. See Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, R. 55. AIR 1960 Pat 116 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope and object.

In dealing with an application for a writ it is usually unnecessary for the High Court to go beyond the findings arrived at by the lower Courts which are based upon evidence. AIR 1953 Pat 235 (235) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Scope and object.

Whether a person is a resident of India or Pakistan is a pure question of fact, and if after a consideration of the relevant materials, the authorities have come to a definite conclusion that the petitioner was resident of a place now forming part of Pakistan, it is not for the High Court to interfere with that decision which is entirely within the jurisdiction of those authorities, and hold to the contrary. AIR 1953 Pat 235 (235) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Finding of fact reached on evidence cannot be disturbed—Interference permissible only when error of law is apparent on the face of the record and not when the error is of fact howsoever grave it may be. See Ibid, Art. 227. 67 Pun L R 1143 : AIR 1966 Punj 365.

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact by Tribunal based on legal evidence — High Court has no power to interfere with.

The question as to what was the value of property left in Pakistan by the displaced person is one of fact. Where the finding of the Settlement Commissioner on the valuation of the property is based on legal evidence, the Single Judge, even if he is of the view that the finding was erroneous, has no jurisdiction under Art. 226 to interfere with it. If certain documents had been rejected by the Settlement Commissioner, may be on wrong grounds, the Single Judge cannot go into it, because the matter pertains to the realm of appreciation of evidence. 67 Pun L R 550 : AIR 1965 Punj 307 (309, 310) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Industrial dispute—Finding by Labour Court on considering evidence produced by both parties, that certain so-called piece-rated workers are independent workers is one of fact — Finding cannot be challenged in writ proceeding. 1963 Cur L J 442 (Punj).

Absence and non-consideration of evidence.

● ——Art. 226 — Findings in departmental enquiry under Madras Civil Services (Disciplinary Proceedings Tribunal) Rules, 1948 — High Court can only enquire whether finding is based on no evidence but cannot re-assess evidence.

A High Court, in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution, cannot sit in appeal over the findings of fact recorded by a competent Tribunal in a properly conducted departmental enquiry except when it be shown that the impugned findings were not supported by any evidence. It cannot consider adequacy of that evidence to sustain the charge: AIR 1963 S C 404 and AIR 1963 S C 1723 and AIR 1964 S C 364, Foll.; Writ Appeal No. 54 of 1956, dated 28-11-1959 (Madras), Reversed.

Held, that High Court was in error in quashing the order of the State Government retiring the respondent compulsorily on the ground that the evidence during the enquiry proceedings by the Tribunal was not sufficient to establish the charges against him beyond reasonable doubt. State of Madras v. Sundaram, (1965) 2 S C J 662 : (1965) 2 Andh W R (S C) 140 : (1965) 2 Mad L J (S C) 140 : AIR 1965 S C 1103 (1105, 1107) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 8, 20)

● ——Art. 226 — Finding by Labour Court that management's action amounted to victimisation — Interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

When the Labour Court came to the conclusion on a consideration of the evidence that the Management's action was not bona fide but amounted to victimisation of the employee it would not have been open to the High Court in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution to disturb that finding except on the ground of an error apparent on the face of the record or on the ground that there was no evidence at all to support it. Where the High Court has not only found no such error but has gone further and indicated its support of that finding, it is not open to the Management to challenge the High Court's conclusion on this point. Management of the Express Newspapers (Private) Ltd. Madurai v. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Madurai, (1964) 1 Lab L J 9 : (1964) 8 Fac L R 289 : (1964-65) 26 FJR 121 : AIR 1964 S C 806 (807) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Finding of fact based on no evidence — Writ in respect of, can be issued. AIR 1964 S C 477 Foll. 1965 (1) Cri L J 547 : AIR 1965 Cal 248 (251, 252) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2)—Disciplinary proceedings — Findings of enquiring authority — High Court has jurisdiction to question whether there is no evidence in support of findings.

The High Court will not, in a writ proceeding go into the question whether the evidence adduced before the enquiring authority in disciplinary proceedings was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the findings of the authority. The Court, however has jurisdiction to go into the question whether there is no evidence at all to support the findings. AIR 1964 S C 364, Foll. A I R 1966 Him Pra 13 (16) (Pt B) (Pr 16).

——Arts. 226, 227—Powers of High Court — Industrial Tribunal's failure to consider piece of evidence — Award will be quashed and direction to reconsider evidence will be issued under Art. 227.

In a petition under Arts. 226 and 227, against the award of the Industrial Tribunal, the High Court will not scrutinise the appreciation of the evidence by the Tribunal. But where the High Court finds that the Tribunal has committed an error of not taking a certain piece of evidence into account in arriving at its finding, though under Art. 226 it can merely quash the award, it can under Art. 227 besides quashing the award, direct the Tribunal to reconsider the matter by taking into consideration the piece of evidence, which it had omitted to consider. A I R 1955 S C 233, Rel on. 1960 Ker L T 764 : 1960 Ker L J 913 : (1960) 2 Ker L R 507 : AIR 1961 Ker 92 (93) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact by labour Court — Court not acting entirely without material — High Court will not assess sufficiency of material in petition under Art. 226. (1962) 1 Lab L J 493 : 1962 Mad W N 197 : (1963) 2 Mad L J 184 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 242 : A I R 1962 Mad 335 (338) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Power of High Court to consider evidence and decide question itself — Labour Court not exercising jurisdiction vested in it — Holding employee not to be 'workman' without considering requisites of statute — High Court refused to consider evidence in case and decide question itself. (1965) 1 Lab L J 357 : (1965-66) 27 F J R 418 : AIR 1965 Mys 121 (124) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Questions of fact.

The High Court will not take upon itself the determination of questions of fact which must depend upon evidence. The contention that any of the candidates for election as councillor for the Janapada Sabha had incurred a disqualification for the reason that he had not paid up all arrears of municipal taxes is a matter of enquiry by the appropriate tribunal created by the statute upon evidence to be adduced 'pro' and 'con', specially when that fact is denied on behalf of the other party. Wamanrao v. Chief Executive Officer, Chandur, ILR (1954) Nag 915 : 1954 Nag L J 678 : A I R 1955 Nag 110 (111) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Finding based on no evidence — Finding is arbitrary—Order should be quashed. See Houses and Rents— C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order, Cl. 13 (3) (vi) (a). 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 114.

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Taxation matters — Question of fact—Challenge to—Resort to Art. 226—If open.

In taxation matters, normally a party should be left to have its grievance redressed in accordance with the machinery provided by the taxing statutes. Normally the High Court is not an appellate authority on facts under the Punjab General Sales Tax Act, and, therefore, challenge to questions of fact before High Court is not to be encouraged by too readily permitting resort to Art. 226 which may have the effect of by-passing the machinery set up by the Legislature in its wisdom for enquiry and scrutiny into and decisions on questions of fact. Jurisdiction conferred by this Article is not intended to supersede the jurisdiction and authority of the assessing hierarchy to deal with the merits of all the contentions that the assessee may raise before them. It would accordingly be inappropriate to permit an assessee to move the High Court under this Article and contend that on appraisal of the evidence on the record, the conclusion of the Assessing Authority is wrong. The assessee must in the first instance be required to proceed in accordance with the statutory machinery provided for relief, and more so when the question raised is one of pure fact to be determined on all the evidence and circumstances of the case. (1965) 16 S T C 553 : AIR 1965 Punj 391 (394) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

A High Court cannot in a petition under Art. 226 decide a matter where the decision rests upon a question of fact depending upon evidence to be led by the parties for and against their contentions. (1959) 1 Lab L J 64 : (1958-59) 14 F J R 96 : A I R 1958 Punj 330 (331, 332) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Exercise of jurisdiction under—Extent of — Order in conformity with law—Failure to produce material evidence at proper time — High Court will not perform, function of appellate Court by admitting evidence and test validity of order on such evidence. AIR 1953 Sau 20 (21) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

Fact in issue.

—Art. 226 — Mandamus — (M. B. Police Regulations, Part VI, Chap. VIII, S. 3).

Allegations that under the pretext of the surveillance order police authorities insist the petitioner's staying at home and also interfere with his customers, being the facts in issue, no mandamus can issue on them. I L R (1953) M B 162 : A I R 1954 Madh B 63 (64) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

Jurisdictional fact.

● ——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — High Court can investigate existence of conditions for exercise of jurisdiction under S. 34, Income-tax Act, by Income Tax Officer.

Per S. K. Das, Das Gupta and N. Rajagopala Ayyangar JJ :

Under S 34, Income-tax Act, both the conditions, (i) the Income tax Officer having reason to believe that there has been under-assessment and (ii) his having reason to believe that such under-assessment has resulted from non-disclosure of material facts, must co-exist before the Income-tax Officer has jurisdiction to start proceedings after the expiry of 4 years. In proceedings under Art. 226 the High Court can investigate the existence of one of these conditions viz., that the Income-tax Officer has reason to believe that under-assessment has resulted from non-disclosure of material facts.

Per J. C. Shah J.—If the conditions precedent do not exist, the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue high prerogative writs under Art. 226 to prohibit action under the notice may be exercised. But if the existence of the conditions is asserted by the authority entrusted with the power and the materials on the record, prima facie support the existence of such conditions, an enquiry whether the authority could not have reasonably held the belief which he says he had reason to hold and he did hold, is barred. Calcutta Discount Co., Ltd. v. Income-tax Officer, Calcutta, (1961) 2 S C R 241 : (1963) 1 S C J 741 : (1961) 1 S C A 661 : (1961) 41 I T R 191 : A I R 1961 S C 372 (379, 380, 385, 386) (Pt B) (Prs 26, 53).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court — Scope of — (Houses and Rents — U. P. Government Premises (Rent Recovery and Eviction) Act (39 of 1952), S. 7).

The condition for the exercise of the power to issue notice under S. 7, U.P. Act 39 of 1952, depends upon the existence of the fact that the subletting had been done without the permission of the State Government or the authority appointed in that behalf by the State Government. The fact whether such a permission was obtained can be examined by the High Court in a writ petition. 1957 All W R (HC) 25.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Scope—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9).

Application under against order of Tribunal reviewing its own decisions, on ground that it had no such jurisdiction — Tribunal found to have such jurisdiction — High Court will not consider whether the facts which have to exist in order to entitle the Tribunal to review its own decision existed or not — That would be a question of merits and not a question of jurisdiction and it would be for the Tribunal itself acting within jurisdiction to decide whether a case has been made out for the exercise of its jurisdiction to review its own decision. 55 Bom L R 298 : ILR (1953) Bom 827 : AIR 1953 Bom 284 (285) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Question whether employee is workman within S. 2 (s) of Industrial Disputes Act (1947) — High Court's power to go into—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (s))

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution the scrutiny of facts found by the Tribunal should be no more and no less than what the High Court will undertake in the case of an appeal where appeals are competent. All this, of course, is subject to the overriding principle that the issue of writs and directions under the article is in the discretion of the Court, and cannot be claimed as a matter of right. As the question as to whether an employee is a "workman" within the meaning of S. 2 (s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is a collateral fact the evidence on which the Industrial Tribunal founded its conclusion should also as a natural corollary, be the subject of scrutiny by the High Court. 1959 Ker L T 470 : 1959 Ker L J 579 : ILR (1959) Ker 974 : A I R 1959 Ker 326 (328, 329) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 16) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari and mandamus, when to be issued — Question under S. 4 (a) of Bihar Land Reforms Act.

The determination of a question arising under S. 4 (a) of the Bihar Land Reforms Act with regard to the character of a building, namely whether it is used primarily as office or cutchery for the collection of rent, is not a question of pure fact but is a question of jurisdictional fact. Where the authorities have decided such question wrongly, the aggrieved party is entitled to a writ of certiorari for quashing the order in question and to a writ of mandamus prohibiting interference with possession. AIR 1956 Pat 104 and AIR 1957 Pat 94, Foll. 1960 B L J R 425 : AIR 1961 Pat 91 (91, 92) (Pr 1) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Question of fact — Power of High Court.

Where the jurisdiction of an administrative authority depends upon a preliminary finding of fact the High Court is entitled in a proceeding for a writ of certiorari to determine upon its independent judgment whether or not that finding of fact is correct. Under S. 4 (g) of the Bihar Land Reforms Act, the collector gets jurisdiction to take possession of a building on existence of the fact that it was primarily used for collection of rent. If it is not used primarily for the purpose, he does not get jurisdiction to take possession of it even though rent may have been casually collected therein.

The determination of such a question is not an issue of pure fact but an issue of jurisdictional fact. The High Court can determine such questions of fact the existence of which could alone give jurisdiction to the collector. AIR 1957 Pat 94 (96) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Art. 226—Certiorari—Question of fact — Conditions laid down in S. 33-A Industrial Disputes Act—Conditions, whether established — High Court's power to determine question — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss 33 and 33A).

The questions whether a person is a workman and therefore, competent to complain under S. 33-A to the Industrial Tribunal are not questions of pure fact but questions of 'jurisdictional fact'. The conditions laid down by S. 33-A are preliminary or collateral conditions upon which the jurisdiction of the Industrial Tribunal depends and the High Court is entitled in a proceeding for writ of certiorari to determine upon its independent judgment whether or not those conditions have been established. AIR 1955 S C 258, Foll., AIR 1953 All 260, Doubted and not Foll. (1956) 1 Lab L J 278 : (1956-57) 10 F J R 89 : A I R 1956 Pat 518 (520, 521) (P C) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art 226—Writ of certiorari — Finding of fact—Interference with—Wrong decision regarding jurisdictional fact — Decision of Collector under S. 4 (h) of Bihar Act, (30 of 1950) — (Bihar Land Reforms Act (30 of 1950), S 4 (h)).

It is well established that where the jurisdiction of an administrative authority depends upon a preliminary finding of fact the High Court is entitled, in a proceeding for a writ of certiorari, to determine upon its independent judgment whether or not that finding of fact is correct. (1910) 2 K B 859 and (1939) 2 K B 838, Rel. on. The condition imposed by S. 4 (h) of the Bihar Land Reforms Act is a condition upon which the jurisdiction of the Sub divisional Officer depends and by wrongly deciding a question as to the fraudulent intention of the outgoing proprietor the Sub-divisional Officer cannot give himself jurisdiction to cancel or annul the Khorposh grants. 1956 BLJR 24 : AIR 1956 Pat 104 (106, 107, 108) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 8) (DB).

——Art 226 — Objection about jurisdiction of Tribunal—Whether can be allowed in proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227 before High Court. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. ILR (1963) 2 Punj 28.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact—(Tenancy Laws—Rajasthan (Protection of Tenants) Ordinance (9 of 1949), S. 4).

Where a question of fact has to be decided before a provision of law can be applied it is the duty of the party seeking relief by a writ to have the question of fact decided by the Courts having jurisdiction by raising the plea. Section 4 of the Ordinance 9 of 1949 requires a decision of one fact before it can be applied, namely whether the person to be ejected is a tenant. If the applicant failed to raise this plea in the revenue Court and no material was thus placed before the Court on which the application of S. 4 could be decided, High Court will not be prepared to decide the point in extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226. 1954 Raj L W 385 : ILR (1959) 4 Raj 1 : A I R 1954 Raj 236 (237, 238) (Pt C) (Pr 10) (DB).

Erroneous finding.

● ——Art. 226—Finding of fact— Writ cannot issue even if finding is erroneous. Pioneer Traders v. Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, Pondicherry, (1964) 1 S C J 595 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 349 : (1963) 2 S C A 243: AIR 1963 S C 734 (742) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Appraisement of facts.

It is not possible nor is open to the High Court in writ proceedings to enter upon an appraisement of facts which was really the jurisdiction of the authority which made the orders. The fact whether the authority making the order applied its mind to the matters before it, whether it came to the same conclusion as some other Court or authority will come is not necessary. What is relevant is whether the conclusion reached by it is not an impossible conclusion on the material that was before it. 1958 All L J 915.

——Art 226—Finding of fact by Tribunal—Interference—Error of law — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 60 (c).) AIR 1953 All 641 (643) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 13, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Powers of High Court — Question of fact — Industrial dispute — Dispute in respect of matter relating to firm of chartered accountants — Dispute referred to Industrial Tribunal—Jurisdiction of Industrial Tribunal — High Court may go into question of fact giving jurisdiction.

Where a question is referred to an Industrial Tribunal in respect of the matter relating to a firm of chartered accountants, it is necessary for the Industrial Tribunal to determine first of all the jurisdictional fact as to whether the firm carried on an industry, so as to assume jurisdiction over the issues referred to it. The question, therefore, whether the business of a Chartered Accountant is an industry or not is one of jurisdictional fact and if in deciding such a fact the Tribunal goes wrong the High Court may in exercising the writ jurisdiction, go into the question of fact and correct the wrong decision. A I R 1957 S C 512, Rel. on. 67 Cal W N 232 : (1963) 24 F J R 163 : (1963) 6 Fac L R 45 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 567 : A I R 1963 Cal 310 (313) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

● ——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Finding of fact.

The High Court in exercising jurisdiction over inferior tribunals under Art. 226 does not function as a Court of appeal but its control extends to seeing that the inferior tribunals keep within their jurisdiction and that they observe the law. The High Court acts in a supervisory capacity and does not substitute its own views for those of the tribunal as a Court of appeal would do.

The High Court will not review findings of fact reached by the inferior Court or tribunal even if they are erroneous. (1922) 2 A C 125 (156) and A I R 1955 S C 233, Rel. on., Nripendra Nath Bagchi v. Chief Secretary, Govt of West-Bengal, 65 Cal W N 361 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 312 : AIR 1961 Cal 1 (15, 19) (Pt I) (Prs 65, 92, 93) (SB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Errors of fact cannot be considered in writ proceedings. AIR 1961 S C 970, Rel. on. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 254.

——Art. 226 — High Court would not interfere with findings of facts in writ proceedings — Question of jurisdiction not raised before the tribunal—Question cannot be permitted to be raised in the High Court.

On exercise of its jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution, High Court will not interfere with findings of fact even though the tribunal might have proceeded upon erroneous appreciation of oral or documentary evidence or inferences drawn from them or even with mere formal or technical errors of law. AIR 1954 S C 440, AIR 1955 S C 233 and A I R 1958 S C 398, Rel on. In the matter of issue of a writ of certiorari, a question of jurisdiction could not be allowed to be raised in a petition where no objection to the jurisdiction had been taken before the tribunal whose order was challenged. 1961 M P L J 761, Foll. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 300.

——Art. 226—Grant of stage carriage permit — Preference amongst several applicants on basis of marks allotted under different heads under Government orders—Viable unit—Misconstruction of Government orders — No reason for issue of writ under Art. 226. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47. AIR 1964 Mad 401 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—No interference.

The Court issuing a writ of certiorari acts in the exercise of supervisory and not appellate jurisdiction. Even if the findings of fact by an inferior Court were erroneous, the superior Court will not review the said findings or substitute its own findings in place of the findings of the inferior Court. AIR 1955 S C 233 and AIR 1960 S C 137, Relied on. AIR 1961 Manipur 28 (30) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), S. 18 (3) — Special Tribunal—Jurisdiction of rent controller and Commissioner — Extent — Wrong decision on question of fact—No interference.

The Bihar Act empowers the Controller alone to decide whether or not there is non-payment of rent, and it expressly makes his order final, subject only to the decision of the Commissioner. Therefore, even if the Commissioner may be assumed to have wrongly decided the question of non-payment of rent, his order cannot be questioned. His decision is final under S. 18 (3) of the Act, and therefore, it cannot be questioned even by a writ of certiorari. AIR 1954 Pat 24, Rel. on. 1956 Pat L R 528 : AIR 1957 Pat 160 (161, 162) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Court acting under Art. 226 is not Court of appeal and finding though erroneous is not open to review. 1965 Pun L R (Supp) 316.

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Court in its writ jurisdiction would not interfere with finding of fact, even if it be wrong — AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1961 Punj 386, Foll. 65 Pun L R 746 : ILR (1963) 2 Punj 685 : AIR 1964 Punj 87 (88) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — High Court will generally not interfere.

The language of Art. 226 does not in terms rule out interference with questions of fact in proceedings thereunder but as a general rule, the High Court does not interfere with finding of fact erroneously arrived at by the subordinate tribunals, for they have jurisdiction and power to decide both right as well as wrong. AIR 1958 S C 398 and AIR 1960 S C 137, Foll.; AIR 1961 Punj 366 and 1962 P L R 155, Rel. on. AIR 1955 S C 65 and AIR 1962 Punj 32, Ref. 66 Pun LR 474.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Finding of fact — Two views possible — Where either of the two views can be correct — High Court would decline to interfere by certiorari, 66 Pun L R 374 : I L R (1964) 1 Punj 736.

——Art. 226—Interference with decision on facts

High Court will not interfere under its supervisory jurisdiction with the decision of a tribunal on the ground that it has wrongly decided a question of fact. AIR 1952 S C 192, Rel. on. 55 Punj L R 416 : AIR 1954 Punj 4 (5) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

When interfered with.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Ordinarily not investigated — Exception.

Ordinarily in exercise of its writ jurisdiction, the High Court does not investigate questions of fact, but where the point was raised at the very first stage, in the second appeal and the point was not enquired into resulting in Court's failure to do duty properly then it becomes necessary to examine this question. 1962 All W R (H C) 26 : 1962 All L J 229 : I L R (1962) 1 All 843.

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Additional evidence, if can be entertained.

In exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court does not usurp the functions of a Court of appeal. It cannot interfere with an order of a subordinate authority where it rests purely upon facts unless, of course, the order passed is perverse and the error amounts to a defect in the exercise of jurisdiction. So also additional evidence cannot be entertained by High Courts while entertaining petitions under Art. 226. 1960 All L J 682 : 1960 All W R (H C) 519 : AIR 1960 All 399 (402) (Pt D) (Prs 13, 14).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Interference — A finding of fact may be quashed by certiorari if on an examination of all the relevant facts on the record, the superior Court holds that no reasonable person could have arrived at it. (1957) 1 All E R 796 and (1955) 3 All E R 48, Rel. on. AIR 1960 All 304 (320) (Pt K) (Pr 67).

——Art. 226—Finding of facts.

It is not open to a petitioner in a writ petition to challenge findings of fact recorded by a Court or a Tribunal unless it is shown that those findings of fact are not based on any evidence or that in arriving at those findings any of the principles of natural justice have been infringed. On the basis of a ground that the evidence has not been correctly appraised and the inferences drawn by the Court from the evidence on the record are not correct, no notice can be issued. 1959 All W R (H C) 595 : 1959 All Cr R 497 : 1959 All L J 365 : 1959 Cri L J 912 : AIR 1959 All 467 (468) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Interference — (Madras Sales of Motor Spirit Taxation Act (6 of 1939), S. 4 (4)).

The power of registration under S. 4 (4) of Madras Act 6 of 1939 is entrusted to the departmental authorities and it is for them to consider an application for registration on its merits. If the officer concerned does not bring a mind to determine "what is fair and just in respect of the matter under consideration" it could be treated as exercise of no discretion at all and may be interfered with by the High Court. But, so long as the officer acts fairly and squarely and in a judicial spirit, there will be no ground to go behind the finding of fact arrived at by him. ILR (1960) Andh Pra 232 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 246 (253) (Pt D) (Pr 36) (DB).

——Art, 226—Dismissal of workman — Enquiry by management — Labour Court, when will interfere—Finding by Labour Court — Interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution,

The High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution would only interfere with the order of the Labour Court if it is without jurisdiction or if in the exercise of its jurisdiction the tribunal has committed any manifest error of law. If the finding is based on no evidence, it may be said that the Labour Court has committed a manifest error of law, but, where it was only a matter of assessment of the evidence by the Labour Court, the High Court under Art. 226 will not interfere with that finding. If the finding of the Labour Court that there was no enquiry by the management before dismissing its workman on ground of misconduct is correct, the Labour Court has ample jurisdiction on the evidence to determine whether the charges had been prima facie proved or not by the management. If on consideration of the evidence, the Labour Court has come to the conclusion that the charge has not been proved, it is a finding of fact and the High Court cannot under Art. 226 interfere with that finding.

On the finding that no enquiry was held, two courses are open to the Labour Court. Either it can hold that the dismissal order being without enquiry was not justified and set aside the order of dismissal or it can itself, after giving opportunity to the parties to adduce evidence, decide whether a prima facie charge has or has not been established against the workman. (1961) 2 Lab L J 644 (SC) and AIR 1963 S C 295, Disting. ILR (1963) 15 Assam 332 : AIR 1963 Assam 162 (163, 164) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Court — Question of fact when can be decided — Proceedings under Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands (Vidarbha Region and Kutch Area) Act (99 of 1958) — Decision of Revenue Tribunal — Writ petition against — Question of waiver raised for first time in writ petition — Decision on point necessary for disposal of petition — High Court could decide question of waiver though it was a question of fact. 1962 Nag L J 453:64 Bom LR 541;ILR (1963) Bom 629 : AIR 1963 Bom 179 (181, 182) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

On questions of fact in matters under Art. 226 the Court will not investigate into the facts unless compelled to do so for some compelling reasons. (1960) 39 ITR 182 : 62 Bom L R 823 : AIR 1961 Bom 5 (9) (Pt E) (Pr 18).

——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Findings of fact by tribunals — When can be interfered with.

Generally when a fact finding Tribunal arrives at its own conclusions of fact after due consideration of the evidence before it the High Court will not interfere. It is necessary, however, that every fact for and against the person proceeded against must have been considered with due care and the Tribunal must have given its finding in a manner which would clearly indicate what were the questions which arose for determination, what was the evidence pro and contra in regard to each one of them and what were the findings reached on the evidence before it. The conclusions reached by the Tribunal should not be coloured by any irrelevant considerations or matters of prejudice and if there are any circumstances which required to be explained by the person charged, he should be given an opportunity of doing so. On no account whatever should the Tribunal base its findings on suspicions, conjectures or surmises nor should it act on no evidence at all or on improper rejection of material and relevant evidence or partly on evidence and partly on suspicions, conjectures and surmises and if it does anything of the sort, its findings even though on questions of fact will be liable to be set aside by the High Court. AIR 1959 S C 1295, Rel. on. (1964) 8 Fac L R 31:(1964) 1 Lab L J 462: 68 Cal W N 215 : AIR 1964 Cal 503 (511) (Pt B) (Pr 24).

——Art, 226 — Procedure — Findings by tribunal—Interference by High Court — When open.

In a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution, a High Court cannot sit in appeal over the findings recorded by a competent Tribunal and revise findings of fact arrived at on evidence. But if it be shown that the impugned findings by a tribunal are not supported by any evidence, the High Court would be justified in setting aside such findings. If the findings are patently wrong, High Court has jurisdiction to interfere with the findings. (1964) 2 Lab L J 172 : (1964) 8 Fac L R 183 (Cal).

[Reversed in AIR 1966 Cal 31.]

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Interference—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (s).

Under Art. 226, the High Court interferes if there is a plain excess of jurisdiction. Where the question of jurisdiction turns upon the disputed questions of fact, the Court generally declines to interfere. A I R 1961 Cal 315, Foll.

Where, on the question whether car salesmen were workmen, the Industrial Tribunal came to the conclusion that on the evidence the work which the car salesmen had to do was nothing but manual and clerical combined and that they were workmen, the decision could not be interfered with. (1961) 2 Lab L J 25 : (1961-62) 20 F J R 125 : 65 :Cal W N 495 : AIR 1963 Cal 275 (276) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Interference—Sales-Tax—Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) Act (6 of 1941), S. 5 (2) (a) (ii)).

In a proceeding under Art. 226, the Court can and should certainly examine and scrutinize the recorded facts and see if the impugned decision is justified by any substantial evidence. It can set aside the decision not supported by any evidence. But that is very far from saying that the writ proceeding must itself become an institution for recording new facts for the first time. The record for facts found by the Sales Tax Authorities with special and express provisions made for finding of facts and investigation and enquiry should not be lightly interfered with by constitutional Writs. The proceedings in Certiorari or Prohibition under Constitutional Writs in their nature are not appellate or fact-finding but only supervisory. ILR (1959) 1 Cal 106 : 62 Cal W N 123 : (1958) 9 S T C 121 : AIR 1958 Cal 125 (127) (Pt B) (Prs 15, 16).

——Art. 226 — Decision of question of fact under Motor Vehicles Act has been left to Transport Authorities — Decision should not be interfered with in writ proceedings unless it is based on irrelevant or invalid consideration. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 169.

——Art. 226 — Interference — Grounds — Landlord and tenant — Finding about sub-letting — Absence of direct evidence — Interference. See Houses and Rents — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 13 (3) (iii). 1958 M PL J (Notes) 126.

——Art. 226 — Power to decide question of fact—Question can be decided in case of undisputed material.

Although where facts are disputed, the High Court would be reluctant in proceedings under Art. 226 to give any decision with regard to them there can be no bar to determining a question of fact for the purpose of granting relief under Art. 226 where it is possible to arrive at a conclusion on documents and other material, the genuineness and authenticity of which cannot be doubted. 63 Punj L R 593 : I L R (1961) 2 Punj 595 : AIR 1962 Punj 32 (36, 37) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

Miscellaneous illustrative cases.

● ——Art. 226—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8) — Importation of Components of prohibited articles — Components of no use other than as components of prohibited article—Offence held committed—Court if will interfere under Art. 226 of the Constitution with finding of guilt. See Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 167 (8). 1964 (2) Cr L J 462 : AIR 1964 S C 1519.

● — Art. 226 — Order under S. 3 (2) (c), Foreigners Act asking respondent to leave India challenged—Question whether respondent was foreigner or Indian Citizen—Burden of proof—Question disputed—Proper remedy is institution of suit and not proceeding under Art. 226. See Foreigners Act (1946). S. 3 (2) (c). 1961 (2) Cr L J 703 : AIR 1961 S C 1526.

● ——Art. 226—Question of fact—Finding of Industrial Tribunal that an employee is "workman" — High Court will not interfere — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (s).

When a labour Court has on a consideration of the evidence come to the conclusion as regards the functions that were actually being performed by an employee that he came within the definition of workman in S. 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act the High Court will not interfere under Art. 226 except in cases where there is a clear error on the face of the record. What functions were actully being performed by the employee is a question of fact. The Andhra Scientific Co. Ltd. v. A. Seshagiri Rao, (1961) 2 Lab L J 117 (S C) : (1961-62) 21 F J R 253 (S C) : A I R 1967 S C 408 (410) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — The decision of the District Magistrate both about the purpose and the need for which a house is being requisitioned is in the absence of any proof of mala fides on his part a final one. Hence the High Court cannot go behind his finding that the house is required for a public purpose. A I R 1954 Ajmer 1 (2) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Finding of Civil Court in proceeding under S. 146 (1 A) Criminal P. C cannot be challenged in writ proceedings. 1964 All W R (HC) 550 : 1964 All Cr R 412 : 1965 (2) Cr L J 337 : A I R 1965 All 442 (444) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Question of fact— Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 7A (inserted by amending Act of 1954) — Question as to when notice under S. 7A was issued is one of fact — Question cannot be permitted to be raised for first time in writ proceeding —Held that notice was in fact issued on 25-3-1955 and 25-4-1955 was clerical mistake for 25-3-1955. 1965 All L J 1104.

——Art. 226—Industrial Dispute—Finding of Tribunal that employer had unjustly dealt with a workman and had acted in a manner which was not conducive to industrial peace — Finding is one of fact and not open to challenge in writ petition. A I R 1963 S C 1756 Rel. on. (1965) 10 Fac L R 199 (All).

——Art. 226—Houses and Rents—U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3—2nd proviso — Scope — Decision of Administrative authorities as to sufficiency of accommodation at disposal of occupier — Question of sufficiency of accommodation is question of fact—Interference in writ proceedings—Permissibility. See Houses and Rents—U P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3. AIR 1963 All 592 (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ against an order setting aside an election—Finding about residence of a candidate is a finding of fact —such a finding cannot be challenged in writ proceeding — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), Ss. 11-B, 5-A (a). ILR (1963) 2 All 819.

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 18 (3-B) read with S. 18 (7) — Order under S. 18 (3-B) read with S. 18 (7) — Findings of fact recorded by Income-tax Officer cannot be challenged in petition under Art. 226. (1962) 46 I T R 466 (All).

——Art. 226 - Finding of fact - Board of High School and Intermediate Education holding petitioner guilty of copying during examination— It is finding of fact —No mala fide alleged — Finding based on facts — High Court will not interfere even if finding is erroneous. A I R 1961 All 290 (291, 292) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Finding of fact — Interference.

A finding of fact of a tribunal in quasi-judicial proceedings can be quashed by a writ of certiorari if the Court holds that it could not reasonably have been founded on the material before the enquiry tribunal. Whether the finding of the Commissioner that the charge of accepting illegal gratification was proved against the petitioner is regarded as a pure finding of fact or as a pure question of law or of mixed law and fact the decision will be quashed when there is no evidence to support the Commissioner's conclusion. AIR 1960 All 323 (332) (Pt E) (Prs 41, 42).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Finding that there was no genuine partnership — Finding is one of fact and will not be disturbed in proceedings under Art. 226—Partnership Act (1932), S. 6. AIR 1959 All 440 (447) (Pt D) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Scrutiny by High Court — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47).

Whether the State buses are or are not more comfortable and roomy is a question of fact and the High Court will not, in proceedings under Art. 226, arrogate to itself the duty to scrutinise the conclusions about facts. AIR 1959 All 197 (203) (Pt F) (Pr 43).

——Art. 226—Election disputes—Panchayat elections — Order by District Magistrate declaring election void after declaration of results under R 19F, U. P. Panchayat Raj Rules — Validity — Power of High Court to interfere with finding — See Panchayats — U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 12-C. AIR 1957 All 213.

——Arts. 226, 227—Finding of fact—Objection to.

Where in proof of his age the person himself relies on a copy of the birth register of the village where he was born and the date of birth given in it is accepted, he cannot subsequently challenge the finding based on it. 1957 All L J 325 : 1957 All W R (H C) 388.

——Art. 226—Application for writ of prohibition — Investigation into question of fact as to nature of work done by employee, cannot be made — Question as to employee being a workman cannot be entered into — (U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1947), S. 3—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (5)). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2664.

——Art. 226—Finding of fact—Observation in Lower Court's judgment that admission by party was or was not correct — High Court will not in writ application go into the question. AIR 1955 N U C All 1690.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Proper representation of employee before Industrial Dispute Tribunal —Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 36).

Whether a person representing the employee in proceeding before Industrial Tribunal was proper person to represent him is a question of fact. Where the point was raised before the Industrial Tribunal and decided by it, it cannot be raised in writ application against the decision of the Tribunal. In any case, where the order of the Industrial Tribunal has merged in the order of the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India and there is no grievance at all that there was any irregularity in the procedure before the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India and it is that order which has now to be given effect to and that order is valid and without any defect, the contention that there was no proper representation, cannot be raised before the High Court hearing the writ application. 1954 All W R (H C) 502: AIR 1954 All 516 (520) (Pt D) (Pr 18).

——Arts. 226, 227 — Scope of proceedings — (Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act (1949), S. 7).

The question whether the petitioner is or is not a citizen of India is a question of fact. Where the criminal Court has already examined the position, evidence cannot be recorded and the question whether or not the petitioner migrated from India cannot be gone into detail in proceedings under Art. 226, especially where there was no assertion that, after migration, the petitioner again acquired Indian citizenship in accordance with the proviso to Art. 7 of the Constitution. 1954 All W R (H C) 312 : 1954 Cr L J 962 : AIR 1954 All 458 (459) (Pr 2).

——Art 226—Andhra Pradesh (Andhra Area) Estates Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari Act (26 of 1948), S. 11 (a) — Tribunals vested with jurisdiction to deal with grant of Ryotwari Pattas, finding on evidence that lands in dispute are tank-bed lands—Question whether lands are tank-bed lands or not is a question of fact—Finding is not open to challenge under limited jurisdiction vested in High Court under Art 226. (1965) 2 Andh W R 286.

——Art. 226— Finding of fact — At time of termination of services of journalist, Andhra Provincial Working Journalist Association in existence—Association subsequently converted into Andhra Pradesh Union of Working Journalists — Journalist represented by new Union since it was the same union which was in existence at time of termination of his services — Tribunal therefore holding that the dispute was not an individual dispute — Being a finding of fact based on materials could not be interfered with in writ jurisdiction — The sufficiency or otherwise of the evidence in support of a finding could not be considered in writ jurisdiction. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (k). AIR 1961 Andh Pra 528 (DB).

——Art 226—Nature of survey number—High Court cannot investigate.

It is not for the High Court exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to investigate into the nature of survey numbers and determine whether they are porambokes or communal lands or ryotwari lands validly granted to a cultivator on patta of which he had been in possession for a long time. ILR (1961) 2 Andh Pra 630.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Interference — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10).

The question as to whether the dismissal of a workman is justified or not is essentially one of fact, and where, on a consideration of the facts, both the Industrial Tribunals have concurrently held that the order of dismissal of the worker is an act of victimisation and that he is entitled to be reinstated in service with back wages and there is no error in this conclusion, the High Court will refuse to interfere under Art. 226. (1957) 2 Andh W R 335 : 1957 Andh L T 921 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 20 : AIR 1958 A P 276 (278) (Pt D) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

When the question arises as to whether the petitioner was an Indian citizen at the commencement of the Constitution the only Court which can determine the question is a civil Court inasmuch as the question for determination is one of fact and the High Court in a writ petition will not go into the disputed question of fact, but if the point raised by the opposite party is that the petitioner has lost his Indian citizenship or his Indian citizenship has terminated on account of his acquiring citizenship of some other State, it is a matter which can be decided under S. 9 of the Citizenship Act by the Central Government. ILR (1981) 13 Assam 174 : AIR 1981 Assam 50 (52) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Reasonable opportunity to show cause — Meaning of—Finding of inquiry officer cannot be challenged under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 310. AIR 1960 Assam 141 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope of inquiry — (Assam Land Requisition and Acquisition Act (25 of 1948), S. 3 (1).)

Where a land is requisitioned for the opening of a market and the requisition order comes within the ambit of S. 3 of Assam Act, 25 of 1948, what should be the extent of the market and whether a particular land is suitable for the purpose or not are not matters which the High Court can examine under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1959) 11 Assam 287 : AIR 1960 Assam 18 (20) (Pt D) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Power of High Court to go into.

Whether the petitioner's behaviour was rude or not is a question of fact which was within the exclusive competence of the Enquiry Committee to investigate and find out. The High Court cannot go into that question in a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Assam 112 (116, 117) (Pt D) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Disputed question of fact — Plea that there was structure on land which brought case under S. 3 (1) of Assam Act 25 of 1948 cannot be entertained — (Assam Land (Requisition and Acquisition) Act (25 of 1948), S. 3 (1)). AIR 1955 N U C (Assam) 3311 (DB).

——Art. 226 — C. P & Berar Industrial Disputes Settlement Act (23 of 1947), S. 2 (10) — Finding that a person is an "employee" within S. 2 (10) — It can be challenged in petition under Art. 226 — When a person is said to be a supervisor or acting in supervisory capacity — Test. See C. P. & Berar Industrial Disputes Settlement Act (23 of 1947), S. 2 (10). AIR 1965 Bom 24 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Reasonableness of fees charged for market stalls— Writ proceedings — (Municipalities—City of Nagpur Corporation Act (2 of 1950), S. 70).

The question whether the fees charged by the Corporation for the use and occupation of its stalls in the market are exorbitant or reasonable can only be decided on recording elaborate evidence. It would not therefore be possible to decide the question in the proceedings, under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 61 Bom L R 468 : ILR (1959) Bom 1047 : 1958 Nag L J 625: AIR 1959 Bom 112 (120) (Pt D) (Pr 35) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Finding as to misconduct —Interference.

While there is no fixed rule of law defining the degree of misconduct, which will justify dismissal from service, the question of misconduct being sufficient or otherwise to justify dismissal is itself one of fact. Where both the tribunals found that a particular act amounted to a misconduct which would justify a dismissal that is a finding of fact and cannot be challenged. 1958 Nag L J 478: 60 Bom L R 1422: I L R (1959) Bom 413 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 365: AIR 1959 Bom 61 (63) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 114.]

——Art. 226—Notice of termination of award— Need not be in writing — Finding by Tribunal that award is not terminated— No interference under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 19 (6). AIR 1962 Cal 649.

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Interference — Whether authority to act was given to a person as required by S. 15 (2) of the Payment of Wages Act (1936) is question of fact— High Court will not go into such matter. (1961-62) 20 F J R 380 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 297 : (1961) 3 Fac L R 334 : A I R 1960 Cal 603 (605) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Industrial Tribunal — Award — Bonus — Available surplus— Interest on working capital — Finding of fact by tribunal that working capital was not utilised throughout the year — High Court will not interfere with such finding in application under Art. 226. 64 Cal W N 979 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 508: (1960) 1 Fac L R 425.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Damages.

In an application under Art. 226 the High Court is not concerned with any question that may arise in the nature of payment of damages. I L R (1955) 2 Cal 470.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact — Question whether employee is 'workman' — Power of High Court to examine. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 2 (5). AIR 1958 Ker 202 (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Municipalities— Travancore District Municipalities Act (1116), S. 281 — License fee under —Fee or tax— Question of fact — Question is not one which can properly be considered in proceeding under Art. 226 — See Municipalities — Travancore District Municipalities Act (23 of 1116), S. 281. A I R 1958 Ker 149 (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Whether assessee had paid sales tax amount in Treasury, is a question of fact which cannot be enquired into in proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227. 1965 Jab L J 744: (1964) 15 S T C 233 : 1964 M P L J 419 : A I R 1964 Madh Pra 214 (218) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Interference with findings of fact —Workmen's Compensation Act (1923), S. 2 (1) (n) —Question whether casual labourer is employed for purposes of employer's trade or business is one of fact—No interference under Art. 226 or Art. 227.

The question whether a casual labourer is employed for the purposes of the employer's trade or business is a question of fact. There can be no interference in a finding of fact in proceedings under Art. 226 or Art. 227.

When the decision of the Commissioner for workmen's compensation directing payment of compensation based on a finding that the casual labourer is employed for the purposes of the employer's trade or business is not without jurisdiction or is not in excess of jurisdiction and there is no error apparent on the face of the decision the power under Arts. 226 and 227 cannot be invoked on the ground of an error in the said finding. AIR 1954 SC 215 and A I R 1960 S C 137, Ref. 1963 Jab L J 587 : 1963 M P L J 562 : (1963) 7 Fac L R 296 : I L R (1963) Madh Pra 222.

——Art. 226—Refund of Octroi duty — Wrong practice followed by party — Finding of acquiescence on part of Municipality for fairly long time— Finding is one of fact — No interference in the extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 — (Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 85—Rules under—Rr. 29 30). 1961 M P L J 1473 : 1962 Jab L J 18: ILR (1960) Madh Pra 425.

——Art. 226—Findings of fact—Status of a person.

Whether certain persons were living in certain premises as tenants or as guests or as licensees is essentially a question of fact, which cannot be agitated in a writ matter. It has been well settled that a finding given even on no evidence is not capable of being interfered with by a certiorari and that a finding of fact must be taken as final however erroneous it may be. 1958 M P C 234 : 1958 Jab L J 285: 1958 M P L J 438 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 221 (222) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact—Rent Control Authorities holding that repairs could be carried out without tenant vacating house—No interference— Petition did not involve any question of law or jurisdiction — Houses and Rents—C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. 13 (3) (vii)). 1958 M P L J (Notes) 59.

——Art. 226 - Scope—Findings of fact cannot be reviewed in writ proceeding — Question of closure or transfer of business by lease—Finding on — Is one of fact — Industrial dispute — Transfer of business — Closure.

The question whether there was a real closure or not or whether the lease deed was a genuine document or not is a question of fact and a finding thereon cannot be reviewed in certiorari proceedings. It cannot be assumed that merely because the Labour Court failed to specifically refer to evidence adduced for the workmen, the factual finding is vitiated and can be reviewed in certiorari. The jurisdiction of the High Court in certiorari is not appellate in character. 77 Mad L W 393 : (1964) 2 Mad L J 202 : (1964) 2 Lab L J 162.

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Determination of need of additional service on route by Mysore Revenue Appellate Tribunal under S. 47 (1) (c) of Motor Vehicles Act (1939)—Question of determination is question of fact and finding of Tribunal thereon is final — Finding not open to review under Art. 226. (1965) 2 Mys L J 187 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Appointment of Chief Engineer and Suprerintending Engineers — Whether Public Works Minister had been consulted in making such appointments is not a matter which the High Court can investigate into. 1963 Mys L J (Sup) 302 : A I R 1963 Mys 219 (232) (Pt I) (Pr 71) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 5A — Acquisition of lands for formation of residential extension for Harijans—Objection of landholders — Decision of Government — If open to be questioned in writ proceedings — Whether there was need for such formation — Question is one of fact. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 5A. (1963) 2 Mys L J 378.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 and 64 — Finding that there exists need for bus service on particular route recorded by Revenue Appellate Tribunal being essentially on question of fact cannot be discussed in writ petition. (1963) 1 Mys L J 93 (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact ordinarily not entertained in writ petition.

The question whether a person is an employee or a sub-contractor is one of fact and under its writ jurisdiction, ordinarily, the High Court does not go into questions of fact, unless the question involved is one of jurisdictional fact. 1965 B L J R 702 : AIR 1966 Pat 127 (129) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court—Questions of fact — Whether members nominated to State Legislative Council under Art. 171 (3) (e) possess required qualifications is question of fact — High Court cannot decide it under Art. 226. AIR 1965 Pat 321 (326, 327) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Bihar Sales Tax Act (19 of 1959), S. 2 (f) — Question whether assessee is dealer or not is question of fact — It cannot be agitated in proceedings under Art. 226.

The question whether an assessee is a dealer or not and is liable to be taxed under the Bihar Sales Tax Act is a question of fact which cannot be agitated in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. It is open to the assessee to move the higher authorities in the Sales Tax department against the order of assessment passed against him. Where he fails to do so, it is not open to him to agitate the question of fact under Art. 226 before the High Court. 1963 B L J R 348.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact.

The question as to the date of communication of an order to the parties is a question of fact, and cannot be agitated by the petitioners in writ applications. 1959 Pat L R 255 : 1959 B L J R 661 : AIR 1960 Pat 212 (212, 213) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Question of fact cannot be challenged — (Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 11).

Question whether the lands sought to be acquired under the Land Acquisition Act contain mosque or grave-yards or not is a pure question of fact and where it has been found against the petitioners by the Land Acquisition Officer, the petitioners are not entitled to challenge the same in a writ application. AIR 1960 Pat 144 (145) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Findings of fact — Interference — (Municipalities — Patna Municipal Corporation Act (13 of 1952), S. 14 (j)).

The finding of the District Judge in an election petition on the question whether any tax was due from the opposite party to place him under the disqualification imposed by S. 14 (j) of the Patna Municipal Corporation Act is purely a question of fact which depends for its determination on the evidence adduced by the parties. As such the finding of fact cannot be interfered with on a writ application. AIR 1957 Pat 241 (245) (Pt C) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Municipal elections — (Municipalities—Patna Municipal Corporation (Preparation of Electoral Rolls and Conduct of Election) Rules (1953), R. 45.)

Where in an election petition the District Judge after considering the entire evidence, documentary and oral, on the point found that the change in one of the booths, announced previously as a polling station for one of the wards of the Municipality, had not affected the polling and rejected the objection of the petitioner and no error of law was shown by the petitioner in that finding.

Held, that the finding could not be called in question in a writ application. AIR 1957 Pat 241 (245) (Pt D) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Question of fact—(Tenancy laws — Bihar Privileged Persons Homestead Tenancy Act, 1947 (4 of 1948), S. 2 (d) — Homestead.)

The question whether a particular land is a "homestead", within the meaning of S. 2 (d) of the Act is a question of fact, and the High Court cannot go into such a question of fact in a proceeding under Art. 226 or Art. 227 of the Constitution of India : AIR 1954 Pat 334, Rel. on. 1957 B L J R 445 : I L R 35 Pat 1040 : AIR 1957 Pat 163 (166) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Question of fact — Interference — [Tenancy Laws – Bihar Privileged Persons Homestead Tenancy Act (4 of 1948), S. 6 (1)].

The question whether a particular plot is a homestead within the meaning of Bihar Act 4 of 1948 is a question of fact and the decision of the Collector thereon cannot be gone into in a proceeding under Art. 226 or Art. 227. AIR 1954 Pat 334 (335, 336) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Decision ordering eviction challenged under Art. 226 of the Constitution on grounds of mala fides — Questions of bona fides and mala fides are questions of fact and High Court cannot possibly go into those questions — See Houses and Rents — Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), S. 22. 1953 B L J R 550 : AIR 1954 Pat 97 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Finding of fact — Powers of High Court.

The finding of the canal authorities under Canal Act 8 of 1873 that there was a deliberate cut, and not a breach in the canal bank has to be regarded as final for purposes of the petition under Art. 226 and for appeal against the petition. AIR 1956 Pepsu 40 (48) (Pt H) (Pr 30) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question of fact—If can be raised — Application challenging proceedings under Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act — Question as to existence of properly constituted tribunal — If can be raised — See Abducted Persons (Recovery and Restoration) Act, S. 6. 1955 Cri L J 50 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 1 (FB).

——Art. 226—Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1957), S. 5 — Petitioner obtaining prospecting licence — No prospecting done — Petitioner not financially sound — Mining licence held was rightly refused.

Where the petitioner was refused the mining licence for the reason that after obtaining the prospecting licence no prospecting was done by him and that he was not financially sound enough to run the proposed mine efficiently and scientifically and these conclusions were drawn by competent authorities from the evidence furnished by the petitioner :

Held, that the conclusions could not be agitated in the writ proceedings and that the mining licence was rightly refused to the petitioner. 1965 Pun L R (Supp) 129.

——Art. 226 — Writ proceedings—Questions of fact cannot normally be gone into — Whether a person was ineligible to stand in an election because he was in arrears of taxes due to the Municipal Committee is a question of fact. 66 Punj L R 541 : AIR 1964 Punj 891 (393) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Controversial questions of facts — Whether Labour Court decided preliminary issues orally on a certain date is question of fact — Cannot be gone into in a writ petition especially where the records of the Labour Court are clear. 65 Punj L R 901 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 644.

——Art. 226 — Writ proceedings—Finding of fact by lower Tribunal — Cannot be assailed in a writ petition — Finding about existence of dairy farm is a finding of fact—Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (13 of 1955), S. 32 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100.

The petitioner, a landholder on the coming into force of the Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, 1955 furnished to the Collector the particulars of his lands for the purposes of preservation and exemption from ceiling under the Act and claimed exemption for an orchard, dairy farm, cattle farm and sheep farm. The matter was referred to the Pepsu Land Commission, for its opinion regarding the exemption claimed by the petitioner.

Held, that the finding of the Commission that there was no dairy farm in existence on the date of enforcement of the Act being based upon the consideration of the evidence produced by the petitioner before it, was a finding of fact and as such it could not be assailed in writ proceedings. 65 Punj L R 559 : 1963 Cur L J 226.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Question of fact — Interference.

Whether in an auction sale of the evacuee property a building is fit for horizontal division is a question of fact arising in a particular case and in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art 226 or 227 of the Constitution the High Court is not competent to review a finding based exclusively on the particular facts of the case 63 Punj L R 183 : AIR 1961 Punj 464 (466) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

Under the Rules framed under Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act the question whether in fact the house is divisible or not is a matter purely within the jurisdiction of the authorities concerned and their decision on the question whether right or wrong cannot be made the subject-matter of a writ petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 62 Pun L R 374 : AIR 1960 Punj 626 (627) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

——Art 226—Finding of fact—Finding of Industrial Tribunal—Interference. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33-A. AIR 1959 Punj 360.

——Art. 226 — Scope of inquiry — Question of adoption of foreign nationality, if can be decided in writ petition — Proper forum. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 10. AIR 1959 Punj 261.

——Art. 226—Writ of prohibition — Issue of notice against assessee under S. 34, I. T. Act — Assessee applying for issue of writ of prohibition — High Court if can investigate into allegation as to concealed income—(Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34).

Held on facts that it was not for the High Court under Art. 226 to investigate into the correctness of the allegation by scrutinising the accounts, etc., particularly when the attitude of the assessee before the Commission was not at all helpful in discovering correct state of affairs and his statements on oath before it were not found to be reliable by it. This matter had to be decided by the Income-tax Officer. (1956) 29 ITR 507 : AIR 1956 Punj 71 (73) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—'Ministerial servant"—Meaning—Question whether duties performed by municipal employee are entirely clerical is not pure question of law but mixed question of law and fact. See Ajmer Merwar Government Fundamental Rules, R. 9, Cl. (17). I L R (1963) 13 Raj 1096.

——Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64—Powers of appellate authority—Finding of, on question of interpretation of application for permit — No interference by High Court to examine correctness of finding. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1060; 1960 Raj L W 708; AIR 1962 Raj 19 (24) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Rajasthan Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules (1960), R. 78 — Decision of Election Tribunal — Finding in respect of age of a candidate — Is a finding of fact—Cannot be disturbed in a writ petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution — Panchayat—Rajasthan Panchayat and Nyaya Panchayat Election Rules (1960), R. 78. 1962 Raj LW 577 : ILR (1962) 12 Raj 969.

——Art. 226—Question of fact — Interference.

The question whether a candidate at an election actually withdrew from the contest or not is purely one of fact and the High Court cannot go into that question in its extraordinary jurisdiction. 1959 Raj L W 587 : I L R (1959) 9 Raj 461.

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Question of fact.

The question whether the charging of Talwarbandi or ked Nazarana has the force of custom behind it is a question of fact which can be decided only upon evidence to be produced on either side and it is not the province of High Court to go into such a question in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction in the matter of writs. ILR (1957) 7 Raj 601 : AIR 1957 Raj 151 (154) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Question of fact.

Where the Election Tribunal has considered the arguments for and against the genuineness of the signatures on the nomination paper and has come to a certain conclusion such decision cannot be challenged in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution on the ground that there was an error committed in the appreciation of the evidence This is a question of fact decided by the Tribunal and the High Court is not sitting in appeal against the judgment of the Election Tribunal AIR 1952 SC 192, Foll. 1955 Raj L W 182 : I L R 1954) 4 Raj 654 : AIR 1954 Raj 204 (207) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

79(b). Judicial.

——Art 226 -Scope — Nature of jurisdiction.

The exercise of jurisdiction under Art 226 by the High Court is judicial and not administrative. Whatever may be the kind of writ it issues, it does so as a Court of law guided by judicial considerations and reaches its conclusions by shifting the materials on record as it does in any other case. The fact that its jurisdiction under the Article is extraordinary does not deprive that jurisdiction of its fundamental character of being judicial. ILR (1953) Hyd 59 : A I R 1953 Hyd 73 (75) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 3 (3) — Powers of Rent Controller under S. 3 (3) — Order requisitioning building under S 3 (3) — Jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 of Constitution to find whether order was justified — (1955) 1 Mad L J 454 : 68 Mad L W 224 Overruled 70 Mad L W 359 Reversed. See Houses and Rents — Madras Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (25 of 1949), S. 3 (3). AIR 1961 Mad 475 (DB).

——Art. 226 - Land Acquisition Act (1 of 1894), Ss. 3, 9, 10 and 11 Collector - Person appointed as Land Acquisition Officer — Status of — Notifications under Ss. 9 and 10 by him — Validity — Award by him under S. 11 — Validity - Duty of Court in proceedings under Art 226. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 3. AIR 1959 Punj 538.

79(c). Matter not justiciable.

——Art. 32—Public purpose—Justiciability—Finality created by S. 6 (3), Land Acquisition Act even operates to restrict powers of Supreme Court under Art. 32. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 6 (3). AIR 1963 SC 151.

—Arts 226 and 32—Scope—Ss. 5 and 6, Bombay Land Requisition Act, 1948 — If impair or affect Jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 or of Supreme Court under Art 32.

The Bombay Land Requisition Act has made a specific provision to the effect that the determination on the question referred to in Ss. 5 and 6 of the Act by the State Government shall be conclusive evidence of the declaration so made. But that does not mean that the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 or of the Supreme Court under Art. 32 or on appeal has been impaired. But the special powers aforesaid of the Supreme Court or of the High Court cannot extend to reopening a finding by the State Government under Ss. 5 and 6 of the Bombay Land Requisition Act. AIR 1949 P. C. 136, Disting. AIR 1950 Bom 144 held Overruled by AIR 1951 Bom 303. Lilavati Bai v. State of Bombay, 1957 SCR 745 : 59 Bom L R 934 : 1957 S C J 557 : 1957 SCA 465 : AIR 1957 SC 521 (528) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226 and 311 (2)—Powers of High Court.

The High Court, when exercising powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot go into the question of unfairness or unreasonableness of a Government servant's service rule. All that can be seen is whether a rule is valid and applicable. AIR 1964 All 411 (414) (Pt B) (Pr 10

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal—High Court though reluctant to interfere with the autonomy of domestic tribunal and educational institutions which have to maintain standards, held that it could understand the misgivings regarding what the body would do when his case came up before it for consideration and this aspect of the matter could not be ignored by the High Court. AIR 1953 All 580 (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Grounds for interference — Co-operative Society — Employee retrenched in interest of society and economy — Violation of by-laws — If ground for moving High Court to quash order — (Madras Co-operative Societies Act (6 of 1932), S. 51).

It is within the competence of the authority which appoints a person to terminate his services. The Board of Directors of a Co-operative Society which appointed the petitioner as the manager has jurisdiction to terminate his services in the interest of the society and in order to effect economy in the running of the concern.

Where the petitioner filed a petition under Art. 226 to quash the order of the Society retrenching his post, the question whether it is the post of the manager or the accountant or anything else that should be abolished is a matter for the department concerned to decide and it is not for the High Court to substitute its judgment in regard to the matter.

The by-laws cannot be said to have the same force as the statutory rules, the violation of which can furnish a ground for moving the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (1959) 1 Lab L J 550 (Andh. Pra).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry—Shifting of factory — Offer of employment at new place — High Court if can consider fairness of offer — (Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunals) Act (1950), S. 22).

Where a factory is shifted from one place to another and the employer offers to employ the workers at the new place under certain conditions, it is not for the High Court to consider whether the offer is fair or not; it is for the tribunal unless prima facie on the face of the offer it is clear that the Tribunal had erred and has come to a perverse conclusion. All that the High Court has got to consider is whether the decision is a decision with jurisdiction and whether there is any error apparent on the face of the record. 57 Bom L R 1148 : (1956) 1 Lab L J 246 : ILR (1956) Bom 37 : AIR 1957 Bom 46 (49, 50) (Pt E) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Writs to prevent alleged offences of political extinction and racial suicide — Issue of.

Court protects and administers the law. It takes no part in political controversies. Political extinction or racial suicide, if they are offences at all, or offences yet unknown to our law, and the writs of the High Court do not reach there 60 Cal W N 555 : ILR (1957) 3 Cal 390 : AIR 1956 Cal 378 (381) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Order under Special Act — Revaluation of grounds — (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34).

The terms of Art. 226 are very wide and the writs which the article contemplates are not limited to writs of the precise scope and character of the English writs But, however wide the language of the article and however various the writs or orders it contemplates the width of language has no effect of releasing the article altogether from the limitations which attach in England to interference by means of high prerogative writs. There are certain obvious directions in which more extended power can legitimately be exercised under the article, but a revaluation of the grounds on which a particular order was made in a pending income-tax proceeding, governed by its own special law, and provided with its own special remedies, is not one of such directions. 23 ITR 471 : ILR (1955) 1 Cal 216 : AIR 1953 Cal 721 (722, 723) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 SC 372.]

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court—(M. B. Police Regulations No. 950).

Under the Police Regulation No. 950 if the Superintendent of Police is led to believe, on the information at his disposal, that a particular individual is leading a life of crime he is empowered to order surveillance. Whether the information, which led the Superintendent of Police to believe that the petitioner is leading a life of crime, is adequate or not is not for the High Court to enquire in proceedings under Art. 226. ILR (1953) M B 162 : AIR 1954 Madh B 63 (64) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Prohibition—Satisfaction of Commissioner of Income-tax before sanctioning proceedings under S. 34, Income-tax Act — Justiciability. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 34. AIR 1954 Mad 872 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of writ jurisdiction.

If a person alleges that all her applications for registration as foreigner, change of registration, inner line permits, extension of stay etc. were made under a misapprehension and in ignorance of her rights as Indian citizen, it is for her to approach the appropriate authorities and get herself declared as an Indian citizen by satisfying them that her conduct was in ignorance of her rights. It is not for the Judicial Commissioner's Court to interfere in such matters. The writ jurisdiction of the Judicial Commissioner's Court cannot be invoked to get a declaration of her Indian citizenship. AIR 1961 Manipur 37 (40) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 — Special Tribunal — Punishment by—Interference by High Court—Industrial Tribunal can examine findings of management on charge of misconduct and assure itself that there is evidence to support the finding — Management no doubt ought to have the right to decide what appropriate punishment should be — But its decision is liable to be reversed if the Tribunal is of opinion that the punishment is so unjust that remedy is called for in interest of justice—Tribunal has absolute discretion to decide what punishment should be meted out to guilty workman under the circumstances of the case — The discretion should not be interfered with on writ petition, unless it is shown that the order of the Tribunal is perverse or that it exercised its discretion illegally in ordering re-instatement of employee. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 11 (2). AIR 1958 Pat 120 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interference—Matter within exclusive jurisdiction of lower tribunal under special Act — Not open for examination of High Court. 63 Punj L R 183 : AIR 1961 Punj 464 (466) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 — Question regarding urgency — Not open for judicial review. See Rajasthan Land Acquisition Act (24 of 1953), S. 17. AIR 1964 Raj 270 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 2 (k), 10—Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Support to cause or grievence by other employees who are not aggrieved is not essential — Test is whether a substantial number of a particular establishment have taken up the cause of the aggrieved person or persons — Espousal of the cause of each other by the aggrieved persons themselves may be sufficient to convert their individual grievances into an industrial dispute — Whether the aggrieved persons by themselves constituted an appreciable number of workmen in a case is a question of fact — If the Government which is the statutory authority to be satisfied whether an industrial dispute exists or not was so satisfied, it will not be proper for the High Court exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to hold that substantial number of employees are not raising an industrial dispute. 1962 R L W 417.

79 (d). Original proceedings.

——Art. 226 — Nature of proceedings — Allegation about corrupt practices made in election petition — Proceeding under Art. 226 for striking out these allegations — Proceedings.

The jurisdiction which the High Court exercises under Art. 226 is original in character, as contrasted with its appellate or revisional jurisdiction, and the proceedings under Art. 226 are not proceedings in continuation of the proceedings before any inferior tribunal under any Act or status. In determining the nature of proceedings under Art. 226, the test is not to whom a writ or direction is issued or whose order is quashed, but it is 'what is the nature of the right sought to be adjudicated upon and enforced by proceedings under Art. 226.' If the right is any of the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution or a civil right, or a statutory right of civil nature, then clearly proceedings under Art. 226 for the enforcement of that right would be 'civil proceedings.' Hence where a party sought to enforce his 'statutory civil right' of having the allegations about corrupt practices made by the petitioner in his election petition struck out because of his (petitioner's) failure to file an affidavit as required by the imperative terms of the proviso to S. 83 (1) of the Act and R. 94-A of the Rules, the proceedings under Art. 226, in which the order sought to be appealed from was passed by the High Court are 'civil proceedings'. AIR 1952 S C 64 and AIR 1963 S C 946, Ref. to. AIR 1957 Pat 103, Dissented from. 1964 Jab L J 549 : 1964 M P L J 893 : AIR 1965 Madh Pra 15 (18, 19) (Pt D) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

79 (e). Presidency High Courts, powers of, before Constitution.

——Art. 226 — History of writ jurisdiction of High Courts — The Calcutta High Court had jurisdiction to issue prerogative writs even before commencement of the Constitution. The Lloyds Bank Ltd. v. Lloyds and Indian Staff Association, AIR 1956 S C 746 (747) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Courts before Constitution.

The Calcutta High Court had jurisdiction to issue prerogative writs even before the commencement of the Constitution. The Lloyds Bank Ltd. v. The Lloyds Bank's India Staff Association, AIR 1956 S C 746 (747) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

79 (f). Special jurisdiction.

——Art. 226 — Conferment of additional power on existing Courts or creation of new Court does not mean creation of new jurisdiction.

The conferment of an additional power on existing Courts or even the creation of a new Court by the Constitution does not of itself create a new jurisdiction to be called constitutional jurisdiction. Our Supreme Court was created by Art. 124 of the Constitution and its appellate powers were conferred by Arts. 132 to 136. But it cannot be argued that when the Supreme Court hears an appeal from a decree of a High Court in a civil suit, the proceedings are converted into constitutional proceedings. If new courts are created or additional powers are conferred on the existing Courts by the Constitution it does not mean that a new kind of jurisdiction is created but merely that the Courts cannot be abolished nor the power restricted without amending the Constitution. AIR 1965 All 106 (115) (Pt C) (Pr 41) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope of High Court's power under Art. 226—Extent of power determined by Art. 226—Existence of right is foundation of High Court's jurisdiction — Distinction between jurisdiction of Court and its exercise — Origin and history of prerogative writs in England — Value of English authorities in determining extent of power under Art. 226. I L R (1961) 1 All 52 : AIR 1962 All 551 (557, 558, 560) (Pt D) (Prs 32, 35, 36, 38, 53, 55, 56) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226 — Scope — High Court acting under Art. 226 exercises 'jurisdiction' within meaning of S. 4, Court-fees Act as amended by the U. P. Act (10 of 1959), and not 'power.' Khacheru Singh v. S. D. O. Khurja, ILR (1960) 1 All 429 : 1960 All W R (HC) 137 : 1960 All L J 170 : A I R 1960 All 462 (463) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3) (FB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The discretion of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution should not ordinarily be exercised simply to enable a petitioner to make a claim for money in other proceedings. AIR 1960 All 209 (210, 211) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The jurisdiction given under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a special and peculiar right. It is for the enforcement of fundamental rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution or for any other purpose. So far as the enforcement of the fundamental rights is concerned, it may be that the petitioner might insist, as of right, on their enforcement but so far as other matters are concerned, it is purely in the discretionary jurisdiction of the High Court, whether it would grant it or refuse it. A I R 1955 S C 425, Rel. on. ILR (1959) 2 All 267 : AIR 1960 All 205 (209) (Pt D) (Pr 18) (DB).

■ ——Arts. 226, 245 and 254—U. P. Sales Tax (Validation) Act (15 of 1958), S. 4 — Validity—Powers of High Court—If affected.

The Legislature derives its power to legislate from Art. 245 of the Constitution subject to the provisions of the Constitution which include Art. 226. As S. 4 of the Validation Act leaves no discretion with the High Court in the matter of agreeing or refusing to review its previous order and, after a review is granted, makes it obligatory on the High Court to pass a particular order, it is obvious that it seriously affects those powers. In enacting this provision the legislature clearly exceeded its authority and contravened Art. 245 of the Constitution. While legislating on the subject of sales-tax, therefore, it cannot be open to the State legislature to pass a law on the subject of sales tax affecting in any way the powers of the High Court to review an order passed by it under Art. 226 or under the Civil Procedure Code. Section 4 of the U. P. Sales-tax (Validation) Act (1958) is, in its application to the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution, invalid. Adarsh Bhandar Aligarh v Sales Tax Officer Aligarh, 1959 All L J 356 : 1959 All W R (HC) 274 : (1959) 10 S T C 364 : ILR (1959) 1 All 662 : AIR 1959 All 557 (558) (Prs 7, 9, 10, 11) (FB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Exercise of.

High Courts should in the discharge of their sacred duty of administering law and justice exercise the powers specially conferred under Art. 226 in accordance with the principles laid down by the Supreme Court instead of being astute to discover reasons for not applying this great constitutional remedy for error and misgovernment (1957) 2 Lab L J 238 : AIR 1956 Andhra 203 (208) (Pt D) (Pr 19).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Constitutional limitations.

The Constitution has undoubtedly placed an obligation on the High Court to protect the rights and liberties of the people; but, while it is the duty of the High Court to enforce the mandates of the Constitution and to see that persons in authority, public bodies or institutions within its jurisdiction howsoever high and exalted they may be, keep within the bounds of the Constitution, it is equally the duty and the responsibility of the High Court to realise the constitutional limitations within which it has to function. I L R (1958) 10 Assam 461 : AIR 1958 Assam 160 (163, 164) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226—Remedy under for pre-Constitution cause of action.

Where the petitioner was discharged from service before the Constitution, and the order of discharge was void under the then existing law, the petitioner should be deemed to be in service and the wrongful act of the respondent in not employing him and compelling him to retire on pension is a sort of continuing wrong, for which he is entitled to seek his remedy under the Constitution, which had in the meanwhile come into force. High prerogative writs are issued for the protection of the rights of individuals and to check excess or abuse of powers, and where the foundation of the writ prayed for is a complaint against an ultra vires order, it is difficult to say that the cause of action does not survive when the Constitution came into force. The mischievous effect of the illegal order gives a sort of a continuing cause of action. AIR 1950 Madh B 46, Ref. Hiranmoy v. State of Assam. AIR 1954 Assam 224 (235) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (FB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under — Nature.

The jurisdiction which the High Court exercises in issuing writs is a limited jurisdiction. The Court is not a Court of appeal, nor is it a court of revision. It has no power to correct either findings of fact or even errors of law. Its sole function is to correct persons or tribunals exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions when they assume jurisdiction which they do not possess or when they refuse to exercise jurisdiction which is vested in them by law, or when in the exercise of their jurisdiction they violate the principles of natural justice. I L R (1952) Hyd 791 : A I R 1953 Hyd 79 (88) (Pt J) (Pr 50) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1956 S C 319.]

——Art. 226 — Central Excises and Salt Act (1 of 1944), S. 35—Scope—Powers of appellate authority under the section are much wider—Finality of order—Order by appellate authority vacating the original order — Absence of specific direction in the order—De novo proceedings cannot be started by Collector after the order — Analogy between powers under the section and under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot be drawn — Central Excise Rules (1944), R. 223-A. See Central Excises and Salt Act (1944), S. 35. A I R 1964 Mad 111.

——Art. 226—Scope.

Art. 226 does not confer a new remedy where there was no remedy before the Constitution. 64 M L W 665 : 1951-2 : M L J 171 : AIR 1952 Mad 112 (112) (Pt B) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of High Court's power.

If authorities act wholly without jurisdiction or in excess of jurisdiction the High Court may, in appropriate cases, exercise its special jurisdiction under Art. 226. But in exercising its powers under Art. 226 the High Court should not constitute itself into an appellate authority and substitute its own judgment for the judgment of the authority whose order is under challenge before it. A I R 1952 S C 192 and AIR 1954 S C 27, Foll ILR (1954) Cut 644 : AIR 1955 Orissa 151 (153) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Proceedings within special jurisdiction—Issue of writ of certiorari.

A writ of certiorari can be issued only in respect of matters which are within the jurisdiction of the High Court. Where an inferior Court is one of civil jurisdiction, but by statute or custom it administers a law peculiar to its own forum, in respect of some particular matter and so possesses to this limited extent jurisdiction which the superior Court does not possess certiorari will not issue to remove proceedings which come within that special jurisdiction. ILR (1953) Cut 682 : AIR 1954 Orissa 67 (70) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

79 (g). Summary.

——Art. 226—Procedure — Recording of evidence—Practice.

In the summary proceedings of a writ, where under the normal practice, a petition has to be decided on the basis of affidavits alone, it is not possible to record detailed evidence, including statements of expert witnesses, which appears to be necessary considering the nature of the allegations made and the reliefs claimed. Such a case is eminently fit for being decided by a civil Court of original jurisdiction in an original trial AIR 1957 S C 882, Rel. on. AIR 1960 All 72 (77) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Extent of powers — Licence fee imposed under S. 174, U. P. District Boards Act, 1922, to regulate an offensive dangerous or obnoxious trade —In the summary proceedings under Art. 226 it was not possible to hold that the licence fee fixed by District Board was excessive. See U P. District Boards Act (10 of 1922), S. 174. A I R 1955 All 184 (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers under—Exercise of—Another remedy available.

The proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution being of a summary and coercive nature the powers under the article should be sparingly used and only in those clear cases where the rights of a person have been seriously infringed and he has no other adequate and specific remedy available to him. AIR 1951 All 1 (FB) and AIR 1950 Pat 887 (FB), Rel. on. I L R (1952) 1 Cal 282 : 55 C W N 326 : AIR 1951 Cal 420 (422) (Pt B) (Prs 22, 25, 26).

——Art. 226 — In proceedings under Art. 226, High Court cannot start an enquiry as in regular suit. 1965 Cur L J 350 (Punj).

79 (h). Decision on merits.

● ——Art. 226—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 47 (1) (a), 48 — Application for stage carriage permit — Rejection of application by Appellate Tribunal — Decision by Appellate Tribunal result of proper assessment of all relevant factors—That all relevant reasons are not set out in judgment held not proper ground for issue of writ. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (10) (c) A I R 1965 S C 107.

● ——Art. 226 — Error apparent on face of record—Proper procedure to be followed by High Court in writ jurisdiction.

In writ proceedings if an error of law apparent on the face of the record is disclosed and a writ is issued the usual course to adopt is to correct the error and send the case back to the special Tribunal for its decision in accordance with law. It would be inappropriate for the High Court exercising its writ jurisdiction to consider the evidence for itself and reach its own conclusions in matters which have been left by the legislature to the decisions of specially constituted tribunals. T. Prem Sagar v M/s. Standard Vacuum Oil Co., Madras, (1964) 5 S C R 1030 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 47 : (1964-65) 26 F J R 1 : (1964) 8 Fac L R 247 : A I R 1965 S C 111 (118) (Pt C) (Pr 22)

● ——Art 226—Certiorari—Inquiry into merits — In a petition for a writ of certiorari it would normally not be open to the employer petitioner to challenge the merits of the findings made by the authorities under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act (1946). Associated Cement Co., Ltd. v. P. D. Vyas, (1960) 1 Lab L J 563 : (1961) 62 20 F J R 59 : (1961) 2 Fac L R 569 : 1960 Nag L J 473 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 204 : 1960 S C J 1269 : (1960) 2 Mad L J (SC) 107 : 62 Bom L R 563 : (1960) 2 Andh W R (SC) 107 : (1960) 2 S C R 974 : A I R 1960 S C 665 (668, 669) (Pt B) (Pr 9)

■ ——Art. 226 — Compulsory retirement of petitioner—First counter affidavit stating that order of retirement is under Art. 465, Civil Service Regulations (as adapted in U. P.)—Supplementary counter-affidavit stating that order is also under Rules framed under S. 2, Police Act (1861) — Opposite party held could not be estopped from relying on rules.

When an authority passes an order which is within its competence it cannot fail merely because it purports to be made under a wrong provision if it can be shown to be within its powers under any other rule and the validity of an order should be judged on a consideration of its substance and not its form : A I R 1958 S C 232 Foll.

Where in a writ petition by appellant who was made to retire compulsorily the first counter-affidavit filed by State asserted that the petitioner's compulsory retirement was ordered under Art. 465, Civil Service Regulations and in the supplementary counter-affidavit reliance was placed also upon the Rules made under the Police Act:

Held, that the opposite parties' reliance upon Art. 465 in the first instance did not estop them from relying upon the Rules made under the Police Act (1861). Where Art. 465 itself reproduced the Rules made under the Police Act reliance upon it amounted to reliance upon the Rules : A I R 1954 S C 369, Foll. Abdul Ahad v. Inspector-General of Police, U P. (1965) 1 Lab L J 110 : ILR (1964) 2 All 959 1964 All L J 791 : 1964 All W R (HC) 467 : (1964) 9 Fac L R 197 : A I R 1965 All 142 (146, 147) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (FB).

——Art. 226 - Industrial dispute - Decision of labour Court as to salary—High Court's power to interfere.

Where the petitioner-company's argument in writ petition under Art. 226 was that in the absence of any time scale or grade provided in the factory to apply to stillman it was not open to the Industrial Court to hold that the employees in question were entitled to a salary of Rs. 80-2-0 per month :

Held that this was a matter which was within the jurisdiction of the labour Court to decide and if it had come to a conclusion, even though the petitioner may consider it to be unfair or incorrect, High Court could not alter it under Art 226. 1958 All L J 863 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 227 : A I R 1959 All 369 (372) (Pt D) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court — Committee having jurisdiction to inquire—High Court's power to take away jurisdiction — (Railway Establishment Code, Vol. 1, R. 1707 (c)).

The High Court cannot, at any rate, it should not, in the exercise of its discretion, take away jurisdiction which a committee has, to conduct an inquiry, under its extraordinary powers on a presumption that there may be certain circumstances on which the results of the inquiry may not be quite fair to the petitioner. AIR 1957 All 671 (677, 678) (Pt H) (Pr 36) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order allowing amendment of election petition—Amendment of clerical nature—Interference—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151).

It is always inherent in a Court or Tribunal which has the power to decide a case, to order rectification of clerical or accidental errors and omissions. If a Court or Tribunal has the right to amend such mistakes, the merits of the application for amendment cannot be gone into in a petition for writ. A Court or Tribunal which is entitled to pass a correct order may also pass an incorrect order but that would not be a ground for invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court by a petition for writ. Hence, where an Election Tribunal allows an amendment of an election petition on the ground that the amendment is of a clerical nature, the High Court will not interfere with the exercise of discretion. 1955 All L J 425 : A I R 1955 All 251 (251, 252) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope.

In the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court is not to be guided by extreme technicalities or even irregularities which do not affect the merits or justice of the case. ILR (1955) 2 All 37 : A I R 1955 All 82 (85) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Reference of industrial dispute to Industrial Tribunal and Industrial Appellate Tribunal of India on its own motion and not on report of Conciliation Board — Invalidity of report and of proceedings before Board are not material for consideration of writ application — (U. P Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss 3, 4 and 8).

Where the reference to the U. P. Industrial Tribunal was made by the State Government by Notification in exercise of the powers conferred by Ss. 3, 4 and 8 of the U P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and in pursuance of the provisions of cl (10) of the Notification under S 3, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and the notification referring a dispute to the Industrial Tribunal clearly mentioned that the State Government was satisfied that the industrial dispute existed, in applications for writs against order of the U. P Industrial Tribunal and the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India, while examining the proceedings in connection with the exercise of powers of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court cannot go into the question whether that satisfaction was right or wrong.

The State Government is competent to make a reference to the Industrial Tribunal of its own motion, and, where nothing was said in the notification referring the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal, that it was referred in pursuance of the report of the Conciliation Board, it must be held that the reference is made by the State Government of its own motion, and the invalidity of the report of the Board or proceedings before the Board are not material in considering the writ application. 1954 All W R (HC) 502 : A I R 1954 All 516 (520) (Pt C) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226 — Finding of Tribunal on preliminary issue only—No investigation into merits—Time enough for agitating question when matter is fully gone into before Tribunal — Case held not fit for exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226. (1961-62) 22 F J R 85 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 207 : A I R 1962 Andh Pra 160 (162) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope of inquiry — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 52—Consent under — Correctness cannot be investigated in Court of Law: A I R 1954 T C 331, Dissented from. A I R 1955 All 372. Rel. on. (1957) 1 Andh W R 350 : 1957 Andh L T 34 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 283 (285) (Pt B) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry.

All that a High Court exercising its jurisdiction under Art 226 of the Constitution is entitled to look into is whether the public authority, whose order is the subject of a writ petition acted within the ambit of its powers or transgressed those limits It is not for the High Court to say whether it has taken a correct view of the facts or an erroneous view of the facts or whether it has interpreted a document rightly or wrongly. Where a public authority has jurisdiction to decide a point, it can decide it rightly or wrongly. 63 Bom L R 1 : A I R 1961 Bom 244 (249) (Pt E) (Pr 15) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1966 S C 478.]

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court.

In an application under Art 226 the High Court would not enter into the details of the petitioner's claim as that would be determined by the Courts in exercise of their ordinary jurisdiction. ILR (1955) Hyd 283 : A I R 1955 Hyd 109 (109) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The jurisdiction to issue writs is not wide enough or large enough to enable High Courts to convert themselves into Courts of appeal and examine for themselves the correctness of the decisions impugned or decide what is the view to be taken of the points at issue between the parties including the issue of jurisdiction, if any. A I R 1952 S C 192, Rel. on ILR (1953) Hyd 374 : A I R 1953 Hyd 228 (229) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, Art. 103 — Jurisdiction under — Nature and scope — High Court cannot adjudicate on merits of impugned order. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, Art. 103. A I R 964 J & K 7.

——Art. 226—Applicability — Inquiry under Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act — Collector revoking order of suspension — Application under Article — Complaint that order of revocation is bad on merits and that petitioner was not heard before order — Article held was not intended for purposes like this —(Madras Hereditary Village Offices Act (3 of 1895), S. 7). 1957 Ker L T 401.

——Art. 226—Decision on merits.

The Court is not entitled to consider the merits of the order made, in application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1954 Cri L J 770 : A I R 1954 Kutch 15 (18) (Pt D) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — C. P. Forest Contract Rules — Conservator of Forests — Order of - Interference—(C P. and Berar Forest Contract Rules).

In cases of cutting of trees from specified camps comprising the lease area, the Conservator of Forests and the Divisional Forest Officer is the competent authority whose decision is final. Conservator of Forests acts as an arbitrator in such a matter and not as an appellate authority. L. P A. No 55/56, dated 30th September 1957. Foll. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 111.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—Nature and scope of—Madras Cinemas (Regulation) Act (9 of 1955), S. 5—Scope of.

Section 5 of the Madras Cinemas (Regulation) Act, 1955, no doubt, enumerates certain considerations which the licensing authority is bound to take into account. The mere fact that the licensing authority took into account circumstances not covered by the categories enumerated in S. 5, will not, by itself, vitiate the order of the licensing authority. It is of course to be borne in mind that when once the authority takes into consideration matters not expressly enumerated in the statute, it enters into a territory where controversy may become inevitable.

Where between two rival applicants for license to run a touring cinema the Collector chose one on the ground that the other had already a chance and that everybody should have a chance, when all other considerations are equal, it cannot be said that the consideration taken into account is an unreasonable one. Where it is clear that the authority whose order is sought to be impeached has applied its mind fairly, honestly and impartially, the High Court will be slow to interfere with such an order. (1958) 1 M L J 352 : (1958) M L J (Cr) 397 : 71 Mad L W 424 : 1958 Mad WN 282.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari—Powers of High Court.

In an application for a writ of certiorari it is not open to the High Court to go into the merits of the conclusion. (1950) 2 Mad L J 479 : (1950-51) 2 F J R 102 : AIR 1950 Mad 839 (840) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

[Held in AIR 1966 Cal 504 no longer good law on another point in view of AIR 1950 S C 188 – Ed.]

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction under—When exercised.

Whether or not the High Court may agree with the decision of the lower tribunal on the reason if it cannot be said that there was any excessive exercise or non-exercise of jurisdiction or any apparent error on record which has resulted in manifest injustice, the High Court would not scrutinise the matter for itself even if a different view may be taken of it. 1957 M P C 344 : 1957 M P L J 488 (Nag) : AIR 1957 Nag 102 (104) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

■ ——Art. 226—Petitioner granted petition-writer's licence under R. 5 (ii) of Punjab High Court Rules and Orders on personal ground under order of Chief Justice—Grant is contrary to R. 5 of the Punjab High Court Rules and Orders—Resolution by Full Court at its administrative meeting held subsequently not to renew licence—Resolution not open to question under Art. 226 of the Constitution, as resolution only rectified an obvious case of mistake. There is no justification for exercising discretion in favour of petitioner. See Punjab Courts Act (6 of 1918), S. 46-A. AIR 1963 Punj 46 (FB).

——Art. 226—High Court will not examine correctness of decision.

However extensive the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 may be it is not so wide or large as to enable the High Court to convert itself into a Court of appeal and examine for itself the correctness of the decisions impugned and decide what is the proper view to be taken or the order to be made. This is an extraordinary remedy which is to be used very sparingly and in grave cases only. 65 Punj L R 152 : 1963 (1) Cri L J 709.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Order of appellate authority under Motor Vehicles Act—High Court's power to examine correctness—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64).

It is not open to the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution to convert itself into a Court of appeal and then to examine the correctness of the order made by the appellate authority under Motor Vehicles Act by going into the evidence before the State Transport Authority. AIR 1952 S C 192 Foll. 61 Punj L R 647 : ILR (1959) Punj 1644 : AIR 1959 Punj 473 (474) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Scope of inquiry on the question of jurisdiction — Plea relating to merits of case — Not considered.

In a petition under Art. 226, if the plea relates to the merits of the case and not to the question of jurisdiction on which ground alone the lower Tribunal rejected the petitioner's claim, it is not the function of the High Court to make any pronouncement upon that contention in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 1043.

——Art. 226—Art. 226 cannot be used to sue irregular orders. AIR 1955 N U C (T C) 5999 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Facts not dealt with in proceedings sought to be quashed—Power of Court to give finding. 1952 Ker L T 355 : ILR (1953) T C 284 : AIR 1953 T C 70 (72) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Award by Industrial Tribunal — Remedy available to challenge award petition under Art. 226 — High Court will not express opinion on award—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 7).

When a remedy is available to the petitioner to challenge the sustainability of award given by an Industrial Tribunal, it will not be proper for the High Court to usurp the jurisdiction of the appellate Tribunal while dealing with the petition presented under Art. 226 of the Constitution and to express any opinion on the merits of the award. (1952) 2 Lab L J 9 : AIR 1952 Trav. Co 371 (376, 377) (Pt F) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 — Application for writ of certiorari or mandamus — Power of High Court to enter into merits of the case.

When an application for the issue of a writ of certiorari or mandamus is presented to the High Court for quashing the proceedings of the Government under R. 16 of the Paddy Acquisition and Movement Control Order (1950), it is not competent for the High Court, after quashing the proceedings, to go into the merits of the case and decide questions involved in the case as if it were disposing of an appeal from the decision of the Government. ILR (1951) T C 691 : 1951 Ker L T 268 : AIR 1951 Trav. Co 241 (243, 244) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Powers of High Court under—Labour Court acting within jurisdiction—Decision—Interference on merits.

Where the points raised in a writ petition are on the basis that the lower Court acted against the evidence and erroneously and not in accordance with law, they cannot be gone into in proceedings under Art. 226 or under Art. 227. The High Court cannot sit in appeal over the lower Court in proceedings under Art. 226 or Art. 227.

The Tribunals appointed under the Industrial Disputes Act have got the jurisdiction to go into the question whether the dismissal or discharge or retrenchment of a workman was wrongful and whether he was entitled to re-instatement. Hence, in deciding the question whether the discharge was right or wrong the High Court will not interfere with its award unless it is pointed out that there was an error apparent on the face of the record or that the Labour Court has come to a decision without any kind of evidence before it or it has totally failed to consider any evidence adduced before it in coming to its conclusion or that it has acted in violation of all principles of natural justice. AIR 1960 Tripura 35 (38) (Pt A) (Prs 18, 20, 21).

——Art. 226—Removal of person from office—Interference—(Vindhya Pradesh Gram Panchayat Ordinance (1949), Ss. 48, 5 and 110 (2), Rules under, Rule 61).

Where the District Magistrate removes a person from the office of pradhan of the Gram Panchayat on one of the grounds mentioned in S. 5 and under powers given to him by S. 48, and he expressly set out his reasons for removal, the removal cannot be questioned even though he wrongly refers to Ss. 48 and 5, because he is competent to act under R. 61 framed under S. 110 (2) (vi).

In considering whether the Magistrate has acted ultra vires the High Court should look into the substance of the order and the competency of the authority and not into the false demonstration in the numbers of the rules and sections. Normally the High Court will not interfere with such discretion. Cases might arise where in arriving at this conclusion the prescribed authority is acting mala fide, or in a biased manner.

Again, as the taking of explanation is provided in the rules, and is in any case a requirement of natural justice, the reason should be either a non controvertible fact, or one which is precise enough to enable a confronting, failure in this will call for interference. If the reason given is bona fide and unbiased, the Court will assume a proper exercise of discretion, even though it may consider the reason insufficient. The tests are : firstly, has the prescribed authority confronted the office-bearer with a clear and unambiguous ground for holding that his continuance in office is undesirable in the interest of the public ? Secondly, is it mere bias, or a ground which a reasonable and fair-minded person will act upon ? Thirdly, is the prescribed authority acting mala fide (i. e.) giving a ground knowing it to be inapplicable and intending all the time somehow to remove the office-bearer ?

Where the reason for the removal from office was that the person was bound down under S. 109, Criminal P. C., it is not for the High Court to substitute its judgment whatever it may be, for that of the prescribed authority, who has full discretion to decide, on the effect on a person's antecedents or his fitness to hold an office in the Panchayat. A I R 1953 Vindh Pra 47 (48, 49) (Prs 4, 5, 6).

79 (i). Appreciation of evidence.

■ ——Art. 32 — Evidence — Law framed in general terms—Evidence to show that law was meant to hit him alone—Admissibility.

Per Wanchoo, J. — Where the law is general in terms and there is no question of its direct enforcement by the State in the form, for example, of grant of licences, issue of notices, submission of returns, and so on actually resulting in wholesale abuse of its provisions the High Court will not permit an applicant under Art. 32 to lead evidence to show that the law was meant to hit him alone. Kochunni Nayar v. State of Madras, 1959 Ker L J 464 : (1959) 2 S C A 248 : 1959 S C J 858 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (S C) 70 : (1959) 2 Mad L J (S C) 70 : (1959) Supp (2) S C R 316 : A I R 1959 S C 725 (735) (Pt F) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226 — Mandamus — Jurisdiction of High Court—Notification under S. 3 (4), Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act, 1946, challenged as illegal and ultra vires — Notification superseded by another —Amendment of writ petition—Grievance that petitioner incurred financial loss under previous notification cannot be gone into—This can be done in appropriate civil proceeding. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 3594 (DB).

——Art. 226—Onus of proof—Evidence in writ proceedings if can be considered. See Ibid, Art. 5. (1958) 62 Cal W N 589.

——Art. 226 — Enquiry against public servant — Appraisement of evidence by Enquiry Officer—High Court cannot substitute it by its own appraisement in writ proceedings. A I R 1964 Cal 415 (417, 418) (Pt B) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry.

Where an order suspending a civil servant for a period of one year passed by way of punishment is challenged under Art. 226, the question of sufficiency or otherwise of the evidence on the strength of which the said order was passed, is a matter beyond the scope of a petition under Art. 226. Such a petition cannot be deemed to be an appeal against the impugned order. If there is nothing on record to show that over and above the opportunities which were made available to the petitioner to show that he was innocent of the charge against him, he wanted further opportunities and that any such request was turned down he is not entitled to complain that sufficient opportunities were not given to him or that there has been a violation of the rules of natural justice in the conduct of the inquiry into the charge against him. 1957 Ker L J 988 : 1957 Ker L T 1070 : I L R (1958) Ker 131 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 399 : A I R 1958 Ker 72 (74) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — Appreciation of evidence — Outside purview of an enquiry for writ under Art. 226.

The argument that some evidence was not duly considered by the tribunal would normally pertain to the realm of the appreciation of evidence and would as such be outside the purview of an enquiry in proceedings for a writ of certiorari under Art. 226. A I R 1964 S C 477, Foll. (1964) 2 Mys L J 373 : (1965) 1 Law Rep 219 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry.

It is not the function of the High Court, while exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 to examine the weight to be given to a particular piece of evidence. (1959) 1 O J D 157 : A I R 1960 Orissa 68 (71, 72) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1963 S C 779.]

——Art. 226—Scope and applicability.

Where the question as to the character of the property, whether it was trust property or personal property, depended upon the custom and usage of the Math, upon the interpretation of the documents of title and also upon the source from which the Mahanths acquired the lands, and it was further necessary to examine in each case whether the Mahanths dealt with the property as trust property or as personal property :

Held, that the question could not be determined solely on the affidavits, it depended upon investigation of facts and involved recording of evidence. A proceeding under Art. 226 was not a proper machinery for investigating such questions of fact. 1953 B L J R 658 : A I R 1954 Pat 278 (278) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court in proceedings under—Scope of — Cannot decide questions of fact on going through the record.

In proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution, if a finding is given by a tribunal which is not supported by any evidence, the High Court will not sustain the finding. However, if the Tribunal has not given any finding at all on a vital matter in the case, the High Court would not go through the record of the case in order to arrive at that finding. 1965 Cur L J 772 : 67 Pun L R 1211.

——Art. 226—Nature of High Court's power.

The scope of a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution is very limited. It cannot review, reweigh or re-assess the finding of fact given by the departmental Tribunals. A I R 1960 Punj 58 (61) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Punjab Court of Wards Act (1903), S. 12 - Superintendence of property assumed under S. 5 (2) (d) — Evidence — Sufficiency of. See Punjab Court of Wards Act (2 of 1903), s. 12. A I R 1954 Punj 247.

——Art 226—Powers of High Court — Appreciation of evidence by Labour Court—Interference by High Court.

The Labour Court has every jurisdiction to rely or not to rely on the evidence placed before it. High Court will not interfere with such appreciation of evidence by the Labour Court in writ proceedings, unless it is pointed out that such appreciation has been utterly perverse or that the Labour Court has failed to consider oral evidence placed before it or that it has based its order on no evidence whatsoever. A I R 1964 Tripura 32 (34) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

79 (j) Discretionary orders.

● ——Art 226 — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 10, 12—Discretion of Government to refer dispute under S. 12 (5)—Section 12 (5) does not confer power on Government to make reference independently of S. 10 (1) — Under S 12 (5) Government can consider other relevant facts besides the report of Conciliation Officer—Government in considering question of reference taking into consideration extraneous matters—Writ of mandamus can issue requiring Government to reconsider its decision State of Bombay v. K P. Krishnan, (1960) 1 F L R 392 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 592 : (1960-61) 19 F J R 61 : (1960) 2 S C A 527 : 63 B m L R 127 : 1961 Nag L J 205 : (1961) 1 S C R 227 : (1961) 2 S C J 360 : A I R 1960 S C 1223 (1225, 1226, 1227, 1228, 1230, 1231, 1232) (Prs 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 16, 17, 18).

——Art. 226—Discretion of Police—High Court can go into the matter. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 151. 1965 (1) Cri L J 413 : A I R 1965 All 161.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—When will issue — Matter falling within discretion of assessing authority — Certiorari will not issue - U. P. Agricultural Income-tax Act 1948 (3 of 1949), S. 31.

It is well settled that certiorari will issue only where there is an error of jurisdiction or a manifest error of law or a breach of the principles of natural justice. Whether or not an assessee should be penalised, when he is in default and the facts and circumstances clothe the authority with jurisdiction to impose a penalty, is a matter falling within the discretion of that authority. That the assessing authority should have awaited the decision of the assessee's appeals and revision applications and the outcome of his stay applications before the Board is a matter falling within the discretion of the authority and not a consideration warranting the grant of certiorari. 1965 All L J 1102.

——Art. 226 — Discretionary orders—Interference in writ proceedings - Competency — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 60)—(Criminal P C. (1898), S. 35).

If a Tribunal has exercised the discretion entrusted to it bona fide, not influenced by extraneous or irrelevant considerations and not arbitrarily or illegally, the courts cannot interfere; but they have power to prevent the intentional usurpation or mistaken assumption of a jurisdiction beyond that given to the Tribunal by law.

Where the Regional Transport Authority had imposed a penalty of suspension of permit on the ground that he contravened two of the terms of the permit, but it was found that the authority's view in respect of one of them was legally untenable :

Held, that when the permit-holder could not have been held guilty of one of the charges the considerations in respect of that charge became extraneous considerations and, therefore, the order of suspension passed was liable to be quashed:

Held, further, that in the writ proceedings the High Court, is not sitting in appeal against the decision of the transport authorities and cannot substitute its own view about the punishment for that taken by them. (1910) 2 K B 165, Relied on. 1958 All W R (H C) 97 : 1958 All L J 37 : 1958 Cr L J 984 : 1958 All Cr R 79 : AIR 1958 All 575 (577, 578) (Pt D) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretionary orders—Motor Vehicles Act - Refusal to renew permit — Discretion of Transport Authority — Interference. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 58. AIR 1958 All 30.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Order granting pension — Whether amenable to certiorari — (Pensions Act (1871), S. 5).

Where an order granting pension is passed by the Government pursuant to the discretion reserved to themselves and not in exercise of any of the powers conferred by S. 5, Pensions Act the order cannot be regarded as a judicial determination made after hearing both the parties and is not, therefore, amenable to certiorari. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 487 (490, 491) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Leasehold right to collect tolls — No obligation on Government to auction — No injury to possible participant in auction — Writ petition does no lie. See Madras Canals and Ferries Act (2 of 1890), S. 12. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 331.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Interference.

If Government had complete discretion in making the settlement with X or Y the High Court would be powerless to interfere with the exercise of their discretion, even if there appear to be reasons that the discretion has not been properly used. AIR 1958 Assam 9 (10, 11) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Tribunal not allowing new ground to be raised - No remedy under Art. 226 or 227. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 1301.

——Art. 226 — Issue of permit — Scope of S. 48 — Motor Vehicles — High Court when will not interfere. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 42. AIR 1954 Assam 219 (DB).

——Art. 226—Interference in discretionary matters—Exercise of discretion under S. 33, Industrial Disputes Act (1947) - Interference by Appellate Tribunal. See Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1954 Bom 342 (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Interference.

The question whether an application for revision is to be treated and dealt with as a memorandum of appeal or vice versa is a matter which is entirely in the discretion of the Court before which such appeal is preferred or the application for revision is made. The High Court cannot in exercise of its powers under Art 226 of the Constitution interfere with the exercise of such discretion unless it can be established that the discretion has been exercised arbitrarily or mala fide. 61 Cal W N 612 : AIR 1958 Cal 14 (18, 19) (Pt F) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Foundation for jurisdiction under — Existence of right.

Foundation for jurisdiction under Art. 226 is the existence of a right in petition — Granting of import licence depending on discretion of authority and not as of right—Refusal to grant licence—Petition under

Art. 226 for writ is not maintainable. AIR 1952 S C 12; AIR 1954 Cal 159 : AIR 1952 S C 192, Rel. on. AIR 1953 Cal 591 (592, 593) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Grounds for issuing it — Interference in discretionary matters.

Under para. 12 of Cabinet Order No. 578-C the authorities are given power to cancel both the allotments in case a double allotment obtained by a displaced person is suppressed by him. But this paragraph does not make it obligatory upon the authorities to cancel both the allotments. It is a matter resting with their discretion. Hence the mere circumstance that those authorities exercised their discretion in one way and not in another way or that they reached one conclusion and not the other on their own appreciation of the facts of the case is surely not a ground for interfering on certiorari. AIR 1959 J & K 98 (102) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Powers of High Court.

The High Court cannot substitute its own opinion for the opinion of an appointing authority as regards the merit and suitability of a candidate. If a candidate appointed possesses minimum qualifications, the appointment cannot be challenged merely on the ground that in the opinion of the High Court there may be others with better merit. The opinion of the appointing authority must prevail, if it is not otherwise contrary to the letter and the spirit of the rules. The Court cannot substitute its opinion for that of the appointing authority. AIR 1958 J & K 40 (41) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Appointment to official position cannot be directed.

The appointment to an official position in the Government, even if it be simply a clerical position is not a mere ministerial act, but one involving the exercise of judgment. Therefore, it is one of those acts over which the Courts have no general supervising power.

The Court, therefore, cannot substitute its own judgment for that of the appointing authority and the direction that the persons before the Court be appointed to the posts to which others had been appointed cannot be sustained. AIR 1951 S C 229, Foll. AIR 1958 J & K 14 (16, 17) (Pt C) (Prs 16, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Discretion of the High Court - Grant of permit - Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 48 and 64 —Order of State Transport Appellate Tribunal granting permit to one of applicants for the reasons mentioned therein—Not a case for interference. 1962 Ker L J 1419.

——Art. 226 — Exercise of discretion by Court — Discretion properly exercised—No interference.

Where the Court had a discretion to examine or not to examine any witness suo motu and the discretion was not improperly exercised mere failure to pass order on an application made for the purpose cannot be questioned by means of a writ petition. 1959 M P C 621 : 1959 M P L J 1086 : 1959 Jab L J 754 : 1959 M P L J (Notes) 115 : I L R (1959) Madh Pra 196.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Appealable orders — Writs against — (Elections—Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 90 (5) and 83).

A tribunal may be right or wrong in allowing or disallowing an amendment but if it acts with jurisdiction the discretion prima facie exercised by it will not be interfered with by way of writ petition. It is a matter which may be properly taken in an appeal that may be filed against the final decision. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 175, Disting. 1958 M P L J 655 : 1958 M P C 194 : 1958 Jab L J 200 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 236 (236, 237) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art 226 — Extreme penalty of dismissal effected —Rule laying down punishment of dismissal optional —Employer would be well advised to give opportunity to employee to prove past good conduct. But in such matter it is doubtful whether jurisdiction of High Court could be invoked under Art. 226 of Constitution of India. (1964) 2 Mad L J 349.

——Art. 226 — Preference between universities — Discretionary—High Court cannot interfere with such discretion. See Ibid, Art. 14. AIR 1958 Mad 494.

——Art. 226—Discretionary order - Issue of writ.

The Maharaja of Manipur acting as the head of all the religious institutions in his State is an independent tribunal to which a writ cannot be issued under Art. 226.

In any case the question of appointment or dismissal of a Sebaiyet and other allied matters or matters purely within his discretion and he need not proceed in a quasi-judicial way when deciding them. AIR 1917 P C 71, Distinguished. The decision of the Maharaja to remove the Sebaiyet will be of purely administrative nature and it is not fettered by any rules, such as bind a judicial tribunal. AIR 1959 Manipur 10 (11) (Prs 9, 10, 11)

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Interference — Promotion of teacher of private school Art. 311.

The question of promotion of a teacher of a private school receiving grant-in-aid from Government is within the power and discretion of the superior authority and is not justiciable, unless the question is decided in contravention of the provisions of some specific rules. Where there are no such rules, promotion cannot automatically go by seniority. The High Court will not go into the question of punishment, as an appellate Court might do in a proceeding under Art. 226, when the matter is a matter purely within the discretion of the Managing Committee. AIR 1959 Manipur 1 (7, 8) (Pt B) (Prs 35, 38).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Promotion is in discretion of authority —Legal action to enforce promotion does not lie. See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1958 Manipur 35.

——Art. 226—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 25F— Termination of services — Compensation instead of reinstatement ordered by Tribunal High Court will not interfere with discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (1963) 1 Mys L J 547 (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders - Industrial Tribunal —Refusal to grant adjournment - Interference by High Court —(Industrial Disputes).

There can be no doubt that granting of adjournments is a matter of discretion with the Court or Tribunal concerned and the High Court acting under Art 226 of the Constitution will not interfere with the exercise of such discretion unless it can be shown that the discretion had been exercised capriciously or arbitrarily so as virtually to amount to a negation of the principles of natural justice or to occasion failure of justice. 37 Mys L J 344 : (1959 60) 17 F J R 445: I L R (1958) Mys 914 : (1959) 2 Lab L J 196 : A I R 1959 Mys 180 (181) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Discretionary orders— Interference.

When the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution has been invoked, and a writ of certiorari has been prayed for, it cannot sit as a Court of Appeal. AIR 1955 S C 233, Rel. on. Where the discretion exercised by the Tribunal cannot be said to have been exercised either arbitrarily or capriciously, even if it were to be assumed that the Tribunal came to an erroneous conclusion, it is not a matter in regard to which the High Court ought to interfere. (1958) 1 Lab L J 79 : 35 Mys L J 359 : I L R (1957) Mys 266 : AIR 1958 Mys 26 (28) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Opening slaughter-house is discretionary — Municipal committee closing down slaughter house for beef and cancelling license for same — No interference. See Municipalities—C. P. Municipalities Act, S. 140. 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 112.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders — Interference with—Order condoning delay in filing appeal passed ex parte — No error of law — (Limitation Act (1908), S. 5 - Sufficient cause) — (Administration of Evacuee Property (Central) Rules (1950), R. 31 (7)).

At the time of the admission of the appeal, the admission matter was heard ex parte and, therefore it was not necessary for the Custodian to give any reason, if he did not like to do so. But he had to be satisfied and he was satisfied, and, therefore, he condoned the delay and admitted the appeal, but at the final hearing of the appeal, when an objection on this account was taken before him by the petitioner, he dealt with the matter in detail. Hence, there is no error of law in the order of the Custodian condoning the delay in filing the appeal under S. 5 of the Limitation Act read with R. 31 (7) of the Rules, which can entitle the High Couri to interfere on a writ application. ILR 35 Pat 920 : AIR 1957 Pat 235 (239) (Pt B) (Pr 20) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 1312.]

——Art. 226—Exercise of discretion by lower tribunal —Interference in writ proceedings — Services of employee illegally terminated on 1-12-1958 while the employer closed his activities on 1-10-1959—Tribunal granting six months' remuneration to employee—Contention that he should have been granted remuneration for ten months for which the employer continued his activities after illegal termination of service—Held the grant of relief in this respect could not be said to be an error liable to correction in writ proceedings — Whether the Tribunal thought it fit to grant compensation for six months or ten was a matter of discretion and it would be wrong for the High Court to interfere on this score. ILR (1962) 1 Punj 795 : 1962 Cur L J 129 : (1962-63) 23 FJR 209 : AIR 1962 Punj 354 (354, 355) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Error of law —Discretionary orders.

Although the High Court has power to compel a judicial or a quasi-judicial tribunal to perform a function imposed upon it by law, it has no power to correct the decision of a tribunal which is erroneous in point of law or to control the discretion and judgment of such tribunal acting within the scope of its judicial or quasi-judicial power.

A writ of certiorari is not a writ of course but it can be justified only in cases of excess of authority or flagrant and palpable violation of law which have in addition caused grave and manifest miscarriage of justice. Mere mistakes of fact, or even of law, within the power and competence of the administrative tribunals, even in the determination of rival claims, are by themselves not subject to scrutiny under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1957 Punj 206, Rel. on. ILR (1959) Punj 2121 : AIR 1959 Punj 638 (641, 642, 643) (Pt D) (Prs 6, 8).

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Interference. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 11 (3) (b). AIR 1959 Punj 189.

——Art. 226—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 523—"Make order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property"—Property seized delivered to Collector for disposal —Petitioner from whose possession property is seized applying High Court under Art. 226, Constitution of India—S. 523, Cr. P. C., vests discretion in Magistrate —Order made in exercise of such discretion will not be interfered with by High Court.

Bags of skimmed milk powder, in respect of which an offence is suspected to have been committed and in respect of which offence a prosecution is pending, when seized by the police from the possession of the petitioner and delivered by the Magistrate to the Collector along with an order that money recovered by sale is to be deposited in Government treasury, instead of delivering the bags to the petitioner, under S. 523, Criminal P. C., the disposal of the bags having thus been made by the Magistrate in exercise of his discretion under S. 523, his order cannot be interfered with by the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The clause "who shall make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property" is wide in its amplitude and confers adequate power on the Magistrate to act as he deems fit having regard to the circumstances of the case. The word disposal here appears to connote the exercise of one's power of control. It is to determine the fate of the property as the exigencies of the case suggest. A I R 1952 All 470, Rel. on. 1963 Raj L W 30.

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders —Citizenship Act —Collector granting certificate of citizenship by registration or cancelling same — Interference by High Court. See Citizenship Act (1955), S. 5 (1) (a). A I R 1958 Raj 172 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Power of High Court to grant sanction under S. 92, Civil P. C.—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92) —AIR 1953 Nag 89, dissented from.

Art. 226 cannot be read and construed as conferring an appellate jurisdiction on the High Court. Even though Art. 226 is couched in very comprehensive terms, there is a clear indication in the Constitution itself that an overriding appellate jurisdiction is not intended to be conferred on the High Court by this Article. The High Court cannot consider the petitioners' claim that they are entitled to get the sanction under S. 92, C. P. Code, for the institution of the contemplated suit, on its merits and directly issue the sanction, or command the Advocate General to give such sanction or consent. The decision in that matter should essentially be that of the Advocate-General and the same rests on a proper discretion to be exercised by him in the light of the relevant facts and circumstances. The High Court cannot usurp his jurisdiction in that matter and substitute its own discretion for his discretion and impose its independent decision on him.

Art. 227 also cannot be invoked for the grant of such relief. The power conferred on the High Court by this Article is undoubtedly very much limited in its scope than the power under Art. 226. The High Court cannot by exercising the power conferred on it under Art. 227, form a decision of its own as to whether the sanction applied for by the petitioners should be given or not, or issue a direction to the Advocate-General that he should decide the matter in any particular manner. Case law discussed. I L R (1954) T C 369 : A I R 1954 Trav-Co 331 (344, 345) (Pt D) (Prs 26, 27).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1962 Ker 90 (FB).]

——Art. 226 — Exercise of discretion by Advocate-General under S. 92, Civil P. C.—[Civil P. C. (1908) S. 92].

Where the discretion has been properly exercised as contemplated by law, the decision reached by the authority concerned cannot be interfered with by a Court. No doubt there is nothing in S. 92 to compel the Advocate-General to give his sanction or consent to institute a suit in respect of a public trust whenever two or more persons having an interest in such trust come forward with a request in that direction on the allegation that the trustees are guilty of breach of trust. On the other hand, the duty is cast on him to consider the allegations on the merits and to decide for himself whether the paramount interests of the trust require the institution of the contemplated suit. He has to exercise his own discretion in the matter and come to a definite conclusion one way or the other. It is a judicial discretion which has to be properly and reasonably exercised in accordance with certain well recognised principles of law.

Held, that a perusal of the order of the Advocate-General showed that the several points raised by the contesting parties had been duly considered by the Advocate-General in coming to the conclusion that it will not be in the paramount interest of the trust to drag it into a litigation as desired by the petitioners. He had approached the question before him in a real and proper perspective. He had also weighed the several aspects placed before him for reaching his ultimate conclusion. The enquiry which the Advocate-General could undertake under S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure was limited in its scope and character and it was not open to him to embark on any detailed investigation into all minor allegations made by the parties and to call witnesses and administer oath to them and to permit their examination and cross-examination as if he was functioning as a regular Court.

Even if the Advocate-General had formed the impression that there was a temporary diversion of trust funds and a consequent breach of trust committed by the managing trustee, it was still open to him to consider whether that reason alone would justify the institution of a suit in respect of the public trust. In view of the several circumstances the conclusion reached by the Advocate-General could not be characterised as unreasonable and unjustified. Case-law discussed. ILR (1954) T C 369 : AIR 1954 Trav.Co 331 (338 to 342) (Pt C) (Prs 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 21) (DB).

——Art. 226—Discretionary orders—Issue of writ. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. AIR 1959 Tripura 8.

79 (k). Proceedings, whether suit.

——Art. 226 —Proceedings under if in nature of suit —See High Court Rules and Orders—Allahabad High Court Rules, Chap. 7, R. 6. AIR 1956 All 535.

——Art. 226 —Extent of powers.

A petitioner cannot turn the High Court acting under the extraordinary jurisdiction conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution into an ordinary Court of the land to determine civil disputes. ILR (1955) Nag 459: AIR 1955 Nag 177 (179) (Pt E) (Pr 13) (DB).

79 (l). Conversion of proceedings.

——Arts. 226 and 227—Application under S. 115, Civil Procedure Code — Order sought to be revised amenable to remedy by way of certiorari — Conversion of application to one under Art. 227 — Practice.

In proceedings under S. 48, U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, the Compensation Officer ordered the addition of a party without jurisdiction. The objector at whose instance the proceedings commenced applied to the High Court in revision under S. 115, Civil Procedure Code. At a late stage, the objector applied for the conversion of the revision proceedings to one under Art. 227 of the Constitution.

Held, that the order of the Compensation Officer being without jurisdiction might have been quashed on certiorari and that what could be done under a writ, order or direction under Art. 226 could no longer be done under the supervisory jurisdiction. It was also not possible to treat the application as an application for a writ of cetiorari, because it did not comply with the formalities required under the rules of the High Court for such an application. 1958 All W R (H C) 330 : (1957) 2 Lab L J 225 : A I R 1957 All 495 (505) (Pt J) (Pr 16).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1962 All 315 (FB).]

——Art. 226—Revision petition against order of Debt Conciliation Board — No application for writs under Art. 226—Remedy under Art. 226 is not open to applicant. AIR 1955 N U C (Hyd) 2963.

79 (m). Whether civil proceedings.

See also Note 10.

——Art. 226—Nature of writ proceeding — High Court is Civil Court within meaning of S. 479-A, Criminal Procedure Code and Court within S. 195, Criminal Procedure Code — (Criminal Procedure Code (1898), Ss. 195 (2) and 479-A).

For the purpose of deciding the dispute raised by the petitioner in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution praying for the issue of a writ of mandamus against his superior Government Officer, the High Court is a Civil Court within the meaning of S. 479-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure and a Court within the meaning of S. 195 of that Code.

Held, that for the eradication of the evils of perjury and fabriction of false evidence and in the interest of justice, it was expedient that the petitioner in the writ petition should be prosecuted under S. 193 of the Penal Code for having made false statements in his affidavit supporting this petition. 1960 Cri L J 26 : A I R 1960 All 55 (62) (Pt C) (Prs 36, 37).

——Arts. 226, 227 and 133 — Notices under S. 34 (1) (a), Income-tax Act (1922) — Writ petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution for quashing notices —Proceedings are revenue in nature and not civil—As to whether the proceedings initiated by a writ application under Art. 226 or 227 are civil proceedings or not would depend on the nature of those proceedings and the relief sought in those proceedings. See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1964 Bom 116 (DB).

——Art. 226—Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 198—Application for prerogative writs is a "proceeding" within the meaning of S. 198. 55 Cal W N 528 : 87 Cal L J 201 : A I R 1952 Cal 103 (108) (Pt B) (Para 36).

——Arts. 226 and 133—Civil proceeding—(Hyderabad (Abolition of Jagirs) Regulation (69 of 1358F), S. 21 (2))—Passing of order by High Court in writ jurisdiction under Art. 226 whether civil proceeding. See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1953 Hyd 131.

——Art. 226—Writ proceedings—Nature of — Civil, Criminal or other proceedings—Depends upon and takes colour from proceedings in inferior tribunals—Judgment in with proceedings relating to assessment to income-tax—Not civil proceedings—Leave to appeal to Supreme Court—Not sustainable—Constitution—Substantial question of law as to interpretation of—Supreme Court, final authority—Final order extended meaning of—Right of appeal of widest amplitude—Equality clause—Question if provision of Income-tax Act violates—Not a question of law as to interpretation of Constitution—Interpretation — Constitution—Interpretation of and application of—Distinction — Income-tax Act (1922) S. 3. See Ibid, Art. 132. (1964) 54 I T R 293 (Mad).

——Art. 226—"Civil proceeding"—Judgment in writ petition to quash assessment of income-tax or to prohibit authorities from proceeding to make assessment—Not a "civil proceeding". See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1963 Mad 190 (DB).

—Art. 226—Proceedings under—Nature of—If civil proceedings. See Ibid, Art 133. (1957) 2 Mad L J 567 : AIR 1958 Mad 151 (DB).

—Art. 226—Nature of proceedings.

It is no doubt true that every application under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot be deemed to be civil proceedings. But where the proceedings instituted by the petitioners are admittedly for issue of a writ for quashing the judgment and decrees passed by a Court in Civil proceedings purporting to decide the civil rights of the petitioners and the other parties thereto, such application should be considered to be civil proceedings. 38 Mys L J 332 : I L R (1959) Mys 1003 : AIR 1960 Mys 261 (262) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

—Art. 226 - Proceedings under—Whether civil proceedings. (Quaere).

Quaere : — Whether the proceedings before the High Court on an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution for a direction to admit an appeal are of civil nature. 17 W R 364, Ref. Hossen Kasam Dada (India) Ltd. Calcutta v. State Government of M. P., (1952) 3 S T C 289: I L R (1952) Nag 204 : AIR 1952 Nag 305 (306) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (FB).

—Art. 226 — Power of High Court—Board of Revenue having discretionary power passing technically correct order — There is no power to correct under Art. 226 — Municipalities — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act, S. 83.

A triennial assessment by a Municipal Committee was upheld in appeal by the D. C. The assessee moved the Board of Revenue in revision and filed the order but through mistake the revision was directed against the next triennial assessment. The Board of Revenue did not allow the revision petition to be amended and rejected it.

Held, that the order of the Board was technically correct and could not be treated as a wrong speaking order, that revision being discretionary the Board was not bound to revise the matter and that in the circumstances the High Court had no power to order the Board to allow correction of the revision and re-hear it. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 63 (DB).

—Arts. 226 and 133 (1) — Final order in a civil proceeding — Proceeding under Art. 226 — Nature of — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 109). See Ibid, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1958 Pat 26 (DB).

—Art. 226 — Proceeding under — Nature of — Writ proceeding under Art. 226 being not civil proceeding. See Ibid, Art. 133 (1) (c). A I R 1957 Pat 102 (FB).

—Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 141 — Proceeding under Art. 226 — Nature of — Whether can be civil proceedings—Civil rights involved—Civil P. C. applies.

Any proceedings in a Court of law brought to vindicate or enforce a civil right would fall within the word 'sue' In a suit civil rights are involved and, therefore, the proceedings therein are of a civil nature. In other words, they can be termed as 'civil proceedings'. If in a petition under Art. 226, civil rights are involved, then the proceedings would be civil proceedings, but, on the other hand, if the proceedings do not involve such rights, then they cannot be termed as such; it follows therefore, that in writ petitions, where civil rights are involved, the proceedings are in the nature of a suit and by virtue of the provisions of S. 141, the procedure provided in the Code in regard to suits shall apply, as far as it can be made applicable. A I R 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1958 Andh Pra 16 and A I R 1957 Punj 173 (FB) and A I R 1959 Punj 58 and A I R 1958 Mad 151 and A I R 1962 Ker 1 (FB), Rel. on; AIR 1957 Pat 102 (FB), Dissented from; A I R 1955 Nag 257, Disting.

The fact that certain rules have been framed by the High Court for issue of writs would not change the position because they are in addition to but not in substitution of, the provisions of the Code. I L R (1963) 2 Punj 341 : 65 Pun L R 599 : A I R 1963 Punj 510 (513) (Pr 15) (DB).

—Art. 226—Criminal or civil jurisdiction, exercise of—Tests.

Whether a particular proceeding is in nature, criminal or civil, depends on the procedure adopted for dealing with it. In connection with such writs, the procedure adopted in the Punjab High Court is that for civil proceedings and there is no reason, therefore, for saying that just because the grievance was against the imposition of penalty the proceedings became criminal in nature. Union of India v. Jagdish Ishwar Singh, 1962 Cur L J 147 : I L R (1962) 1 Punj 369 : 64 Pun L R 821 : 1962 (2) Cri L J 630 : AIR 1962 Punj 484 (487) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (FB).

—Art. 226 — Proceedings under — Nature of — If civil proceeding. See Ibid, Art. 133 (1). A I R 1959 Punj 58.

—Arts. 226 and 133 (1) — Civil proceeding—Meaning of—The question in controversy pertaining to the private rights of the contestants relating to the allotment of agricultural land in a proceeding under the Evacuee Property Act is eminently of a civil nature and an order of the Letters Patent Bench in an appeal from an order of a single Judge passed in relation to such question under Art. 226 is made in a civil proceeding — (Words and Phrases) — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 10 (27)). See Ibid, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1959 Punj 58.

—Art. 226— Writ petition—Nature of proceedings —Proceedings if civil within the meaning of Art. 133. See Ibid, Art. 133. AIR 1957 Punj 173 (FB).

—Art. 226 — Any Civil, Revenue or Criminal Court — Civil Court — Meaning — High Court in writ proceedings deciding civil rights of parties is Civil Court. See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 476. 1961 (2) Cri L J 796 : AIR 1961 Raj 268 (DB).

79 (n). Error of law.

—Art. 226 — Wrong order — Jurisdiction in writ petition. See Tenancy Laws — U. P. Agricultural Tenants (Acquisition of Privileges) Act (10 of 1949), S. 12 (1) (a) (c). AIR 1955 N U C (All) 176.

—Art. 226 — Nature and scope of power of High Court — It does not interfere in every case of error of law.

It is not every case of error of law or mis-application of the principles of law that would induce the High Court to exercise its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The High Court will not exercise this jurisdiction in this class of cases unless substantial injustice has ensured, or is likely to ensure. 1959-2 Lab L J 569 (Andh Pra).

—Art. 226—Error of law — Award under Hyderabad Co-operative Societies Act passed against dismissed servant of society is no ground for issue of writ — (Hyderabad Co-operative Societies Act, S. 48).

A wrong interpretation of a statutory provision or an error of law or fact is not sufficient for issue of a writ. Thus where an award under the Hyderabad Co-operative Societies Act is passed against a dismissed servant of a Co operative society holding him liable for certain amount not accounted for this is not sufficient for the issue of a writ. A I R 1955 Hyd 33, Rel. on. I L R (1955) Hyd 701 : A I R 1955 Hyd 238 (240) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Labour Court under S. 15, Industrial Disputes Act (1947) framing issue, hearing evidence but merely passing short order of payment without deciding issue judicially and without giving evidence for and against — High Court cannot speculate whether Labour Court had applied its mind to case or was under misapprehension regarding scope of its jurisdiction — Order quashed and case remanded for disposal according to law. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 15. (1963) 1 Lab L J 97 (Mad) : (1965) 2 Mad L J 367.

——Art. 226 — Scope of jurisdiction of High Court — (Municipalities — C P. and Berar Municipalities Act (II of 1922), Ss. 53-A and 57 — Action against Municipality under S. 53-A — Opportunity of explanation not given—Interference under Art. 226.)

Where the State Government passes an order under S. 53-A, C. P. and Berar Municipalitie Act holding a certain Municipality to be incompetent to perform its duties, the mere fact that the order mentions certain charges against the Municipality on which it has not been given any opportunity for explanation is not sufficient to give the High Court jurisdiction under Art. 226 to interfere with that order.

Since the Act itself does not contemplate an opportunity being given to the municipal committee to furnish an explanation before the action under S. 53-A is taken, and particularly because the action itself is of a limited duration the rights of the committee cannot be deemed to be so far affected as to call for the exercise of the extraordinary powers of the High Court under the Constitution.

It is only in cases of grave and patent errors which seriously impair the legal or natural rights of an individual or an association, and no suitable remedy is available to rectify the mistake that the jurisdiction of the Court may rightly be invoked. In the case of action under S. 53-A it cannot be held that it is not liable to review by Government if it is appealed to in the matter and is unlike a case where an order is passed under S. 57 which permanently affects the status and the powers of the committee. 1955 Nag L J 780 : A I R 1956 Nag 56 (57) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Error of law — (C. P. and Berar Panchayat Rules (1948), Cl. 25, R. 5).

The extraordinary powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution are intended to be exercised in grave cases of manifest injustice. It is not obligatory on a High Court to act under the Constitution in every case where there has been an error of law. Even if an order may be erroneous, if it has set right a grave miscarriage of justice, it would not be proper to interfere under the special powers under the Constitution. It is true that so far as R. 5 of Cl 25 of the C. P. and Berar Panchayat Rules is concerned, no procedure has been prescribed. Nevertheless that rule is of a punitive nature and before any action could be taken under it, it is incumbent on the Gram Panchayat to specify the charge and serve a notice on the society to show cause against the action that is proposed to be taken. If due opportunity is not given to the Society to state its case, the order of the Gram Panchayat imposing fine offends against the canons of natural justice and even though the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer is void to the extent that it reduced the amount of the fine in revision which is incompetent, interference with it under the Constitution would not be justified as it has rectified, even if partially the manifest injustice that the Gram Panchayat has done to the Society. AIR 1952 S C 192, Foll. 1954 Cr L J 407 : I L R (1954) Nag 111 : 1954 Nag L J 336: AIR 1954 Nag 82 (84) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——Art 226 — C. P. and Berar House Rent Control Order, Cl. 13 (3) (vi) — Remedy Landlord applying for permission to eject—Tenant raising objection as to maintainability— Rent Controllor holding application maintainable—A D. C holding appeal against order not maintainable — It cannot be said he had no jurisdiction — High Court would not exercise its power under Art. 226 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 107 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Proceedings under E. P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (L of 1948), S 42 — Director, Consolidation of Holdings condoning delay in making application — Question of limitation even if wrongly decided cannot in any event be questioned in writ proceedings. AIR 1952 S C 319, Foll ('65) 67 Pun L R 176

——Art 226 — Scope and object—(Sea Customs Act (1879), Ss 33 (a) and 33 (b)) — (Revenue Recovery Act (1890), S 4).

There is a distinction between the right to relief and the right to a remedy by mandamus or prohibition to grant such relief Under section 4 of the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890, it is open to a person who feels that the tax has been improperly levied on him to deposit the tax and then to bring a suit against Government for the recovery of tax In that suit all questions of fact relating to evidence which have not been properly considered by the assessing tribunal or questions of law as to the applicability of one or other of the sections of the Sea Customs Act can be adequately gone into. The remedy is an adequate remedy.

Where therefore, the contention of the petitioner was that the Customs authorities should have applied the provisions of section 30 (b), Sea Customs Act, instead of S. 30 (a) and the petitioner had not alleged that there was no jurisdiction in the assessing authority but that in the exercise of its jurisdiction it came to a wrong decision in point of law, not appreciating the facts properly:

Held that the remedy by means of a writ whether of mandamus or prohibition was misconceived. AIR 1938 P C 5, Ref. 55 Pun L R 304 : I L R (1953) Punj 225 : AIR 1953 Punj 225 (226) (Pt C) (Prs 4, 5) (D B).

——Art. 226 – Revision of assessment order – Limitation Order revised after three years of its passing – Violation of statutory provision High Court would interfere in exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction— Interpretation of Statutes See Sales Tax—Rajasthan Sales Tax Act (29 of 1954), S. 14. 1962 Raj L W 402; I L R (1962) 12 Raj 467.

79 (o) Constitutional issue.

● ——Arts. 32, 226 – Vires of Act challenged— Court is not restricted to pleadings of State — Court will consider whether validity can be sustained under any provisions of Constitution. Burrakur Coal Co. v. Union of India, 1961 S C D 432 : 1961 2 S C A 523 : (1962) 1 S C R 44 : 1962-2 S C J 216 : AIR 1961 S C 954 (963) (Pt F) (Pr 25).

—Arts. 226 and 228 On the question of the legality of an Act ordinarily the High Court will wait for the various other issues to be decided first before it gives its own decision on it. AIR 1950 M B 81; AIR 1952 Mad 21, Foll. AIR 1952 Ajmer 31 (2) (32) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry.

In writ petitions High Court will not adjudicate on constitutional issues unless essential for decision of the case in which they are raised (1961 1 Ker L R 260 : 1961 Ker L J 425 : 1961 Ker L T 114.

—Art 226 Practice – Validity of statute will not be gone into when no relief can be granted (1955) 1 Mad L J 538 (1955) 2 Lab L J 473 : 1955 Mad W N 1037 : AIR 1955 Mad 468 (470) (Pt D) (Pr 6)

79 (p). Question of title.

——Art. 226—Scope of enquiry—Question of fact or title—If can be agitated—Other remedy open—Issue of writ.

Proceedings in writ petitions are not appropriate for the determination of complicated questions of fact, nor does the High Court ordinarily exercise its powers of extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 to determine questions of title or make any enquiry relating thereto. Although very large powers are conferred on the High Courts under Art. 226, the exercise of those powers is not without limitations. The High Court will not convert itself into a Court of appeal on merits, unless the decision is erroneous on the face of the record, and in matters involving the use of discretion and judgment entrusted to an authority by law, it will not direct that authority to pass orders or itself pass orders on merits, or where complicated questions of fact have to be determined, it will not turn itself into a trial Court and determine those question of fact or investigate title, nor will it issue ineffective writs. Where there is an alternative and effective remedy also the Court may not ordinarily exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction. It can only be said that where there is an alternative and effective remedy, the High Court will not in exercise of its discretion grant an application; but this is only a rule of discretion and expediency and does not arise due to any want of jurisdiction or limitation on the power of the High Court. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 222 (226) (Prs 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Proceedings under C. P. Land Revenue Act, S. 202—Interference.

The petitioner claiming to be the lessee of the ex-malguzari forest for the collection of lac and Tendu leaves prayed under Art. 226, Constitution of India, for quashing the order of the Deputy Commissioner who ordered that respondent No. 3 should be allowed to work the lease for 1955-56 and for a writ of mandamus restraining respondent No. 3 from interfering with the rights of petitioner of collecting lac and Tendu leaves.

Held, that the first prayer had become infructuous since the order was operative till 1st December, 1956, and that as regards the second prayer the dispute related to title and it should be decided by a civil Court and that the matter could not be decided in a summary way. 1958 Nag L J (Notes) 98.

——Art. 226—Another remedy open.

Questions of title have to be decided in appropriate proceedings taken for the purpose and not in the proceedings under Art. 226. AIR 1953 Cal 257 (258) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Other remedy—Issue of writ — Order under S. 144, Cr. P. Code—Quashing of.

A writ of certiorari for quashing the order passed under S. 144, Cr. P. Code, by a Magistrate cannot be issued if alternative appropriate remedies are available and if the order itself gives a right to the aggrieved person to move the Magistrate for its amendment or rescission. Declaration of title or right of possession are totally foreign to the scope of proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, if the reliefs claimed by way of writs of prohibition and mandamus involve the granting of such delaration they cannot be issued. Claims based on title or possession can only be more appropriately investigated in a proper civil suit. Delay in obtaining suitable orders or directions from civil Court is no ground for granting relief under Art. 226 by the High Court. AIR 1952 S C 12, Rel. on. 1961 Ker L T 20 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 326 : AIR 1961 Ker 259 (260) (Prs 2, 4, 5, 6).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Matter of disputed right.

When the matter is one of disputed right it cannot be agitated under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The proper forum is civil Court. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 48.

——Art. 226 — Applicability — Question of title—Writ proceedings—Propriety.

Held, that on the materials placed before the High Court including the affidavits of the parties and copies of certain correspondence that passed between the then Agent to the Governor of Ganjam and the Government of Madras it was obviously impossible for the High Court to decide the important question of title as to whether maliahs of the applicants were resumable or not. It could be decided only in a properly constituted title suit where both parties would get ample opportunities to adduce all available evidence. [L R (1956) Cut 556 : 23 Cut L T 324 : AIR 1957 Orissa 80 (83) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1964 S C 685.]

——Art. 226—Dispute relating to title to land.

A dispute relating to title to land cannot be allowed to be raised in a writ petition under Art. 226. It is a matter which will have to be agitated in a civil Court. AIR 1964 Tripura 9 (10) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

80. New point at hearing.

See Note 98.

81. Non-fundamental rights.

See also Notes 8 and 71.

——Art. 226 — Infringement of Art. 286.

Even where there is no infringement of fundamental rights if the contention of the party is that the Act which authorises the assessment, levying and collection of sales tax on inter-State trade contravenes and constitutes an infringent of Art. 286 and is therefore, ultra vires, void and unenforceable and if this contention is well founded the remedy by way of a writ must, on principle and authority, be available to the party aggrieved. AIR 1953 Pat 87, Reversed; Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar, I L R 34 Pat 905 : (1955) 6 S T C 446 : (1955) 2 S C R 603 : (1955) S C J 672 : 1955 S C A 1140 : (1955) 2 M L J (S C) 168 : 1955 Andra W R (S C) 422 : AIR 1955 S C 661 (669) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — 'Any other purpose'—Power to issue writ for—AIR 1952 Bhopal 16, Diss. from.

When an executive officer acts against the provisions of law, the Judicial Commissioner's Court is entitled in a fit case to issue a writ under Art. 226 for any other purpose even though fundamental rights under the Constitution are not violated. A I R 1650 Bom 363 (FB); A I R 1953 All 623, Rel. on; AIR 1952 Bhopal 16, Diss. from. AIR 1954 Kutch 11 (14) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Fundamental rights—Infringement — Cancellation of license.

Where the railway authorities cancel the license issued to the petitioner for vending articles on the platform of a railway station, there is nothing illegal in such a course. No fundamental right of the petitioner has been in any manner infringed by the action of the railway authorities and no relief under Art. 226 can be given. ('51) 65 Mad L W 336 (1) : 1952-2 Mad L J 28 : A I R 1952 Mad 834 (835) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 (1) — Extent of powers of High Court.

Art. 226 (1) read as a whole means that the High Court can issue orders and writs not only for the enforcement of the fundamental rights but also for other purposes. ('50) 2 Pepsu L R 443.

——Art. 226 — Scope —Power to issue writ for purpose other than enforcement of fundamental rights.

Under Art. 226. Const. of Ind., power is conferred upon the H. C to issue not only writs 'in the nature of' various categories specified in that article but those writs themselves are also 'directions' and 'orders' and they may be issued not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights but for any other purpose. 1951 Raj L W 56 : 20 I T R 214 : I L R (1951) 1 Raj 96 : AIR 1951 Raj 94 (2) (105) (Pt I) (Pr 27a) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 32 — Powers of High Court — Scope — If restricted to enforcement of fundamental rights — Issue of writs in matters relating to fundamental rights — Permissibility.

Although under Art. 32 of the Constitution the Supreme Court is given power to issue writs in a restricted sphere namely, in enforcement of the fundamental rights recognised by the Constitution, in the case of the High Courts wider powers are conferred by the Constitution under Art. 226; the High Courts are empowered to issue writs not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights but also for any other purpose. It cannot therefore be said that because the right to stand as a candidate for an election is not recognised as a fundamental right under the Constitution, therefore no writ under Art. 226 can issue in cases where citizens are aggrieved by orders passed by a Returning Officer. 1951 K L T 714 : I L R (1951) T C 808 : A I R 1952 T C 1 (1) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

82. Notice of proceeding.

See Note 98.

83. Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C.

See Note 98 and Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80.

84. Official body.

See Note 5.

85. Orders that can be passed.

See also Notes 34 and 158.

——Art. 226 — Writs of mandamus or prohibition in pending appeal — Writ of mandamus cannot be issued to subordinate tribunals to decide question in particular manner — It can only be directed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it — Similarly writ of prohibition cannot issue to interfere in matter pending before inferior tribunal and to direct it to decide appeal in particular manner. 1955 All L J 211 : AIR 1955 All 422 (423) (Pt A) (Pr. 6, (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Interference — Powers of High Court — Violation of — Mandatory provisions of law — Effect — Hyderabad Land Revenue Act (8 of 1317-F), S. 130 — Scope — Non compliance — Effect — It renders the sale void.

The failure to issue the notification or to publish it as required by S. 130 of the Hyderabad Land Revenue Act, renders the sale wholly void and not merely voidable. Therefore, it was not necessary for the defaulter in such a case to prove that he sustained loss by reason of the failure to issue and publish the notification. The jurisdiction of the Taluqdar to sell the property by auction is derived by S. 130. As such in the absence of such notification and its publication, the Taluqdar would have no jurisdiction at all to sell the property. AIR 1954 Mad 1024, Applied. It is open to the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution to set aside the sale when it is brought to its notice that the sale was held in violation of the mandatory provisions of the Act. (1961) 1 Andh W R 160 : (1961) 1 Andh L T 187.

——Art. 226 — Person acting under authority of statute — High Court has power to prevent such person from exceeding bounds set by statute.

The powers of the High Court under Art. 226 are wide enough to enable it to prevent any person acting or purporting to act under the authority of a statute from exceeding the bounds set by that statute. That the act that he does is of an executive or administrative character is irrelevant. It is the duty of the High Court to see that statutory authorities respect the terms of the statute by which they are created and under which they function. (1960) 1 Andh W R 113 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 603 (604) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Order of Election Commissioner — Writ admitted — Proper order to pass — (Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 49 (2) (g)).

Where the Election Commissioner having by order set aside the election of a Municipal Councillor on the ground that he was disqualified to stand as a candidate under S. 49 (2) (g), a writ of certiorari is admitted by the High Court against the order, the order is no longer final and conclusive and the proper order to pass when a writ has been admitted is to preserve 'status quo ante' and to permit the petitioner to function as a Municipal Councillor until the writ is disposed of. AIR 1955 Andhra 17 (18) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Northern India Ferries Rules, Rr. 19 and 19 (b) — Compliance with — State public ferry — Public auction — Acceptance of highest bid by officer conducting sale — Chief Engineer disapproving highest bid and accepting next lower bid — Reasons not recorded — Order is arbitrary and contrary to Rr. 19 and 19 (b) — Order quashed — Chief Engineer directed to settle ferry with highest bidder. See Northern India Ferries Rules, R. 19. AIR 1961 Assam 158 (SB).

——Art. 226 — Industrial disputes — Wrongful dismissal of servant — Proper relief — Reinstatement is usual remedy — Retrenchment compensation may be granted in proper cases — High Court can interfere if there is illegality on face of record in granting compensation — Labour Court not correct in granting retrenchment compensation — But could grant same amount under different heads, i.e., as compensation for unjustified and premature termination of employment — Hence no interference with quantum of compensation was called for. (1961) 2 Lab L J 625 (S C). Relied on. ILR (1962) 14 Assam 57 : AIR 1962 Assam 83 (85) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Preventive relief — Grant of.

The High Court can grant relief not only after damage has been done, but even when there is reasonable likelihood of damage being done. 61 Bom L R 1129 : I L R (1960) Bom 202 : AIR 1960 Bom 58 (61) (Pt G) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — C. P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rent Control Order (1949), Cl. (13) — Order refusing permission to landlord to terminate tenancy — Appellate authority allowing landlord's appeal but not making operative order, or considering the question of suitability of premises in occupation of landlord — Order was quashed and case sent back for fresh decision. 1960 Nag L J 130 : 62 Bom L R 490 : I L R (1960) Bom 795.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Order quashed — Substantive order by High Court.

No substantive order can be made by the High Court when it quashes the order of a judicial tribunal on a writ of certiorari. 57 Bom L R 1148 : (1956) 1 Lab L J 240 : I L R (1956) Bom 37 : AIR 1957 Bom 46 (47, 48, 49) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 5).

——Art. 226—Power of Court—Application for writ of certiorari — Challenged order affecting several persons—Court, to do proper justice, has power and jurisdiction to set aside entire order although application is by one only of persons affected by order—Industrial dispute — Award by Industrial Tribunal affecting all workers of establishment modified in appeal by Appellate Tribunal — When order of Appellate Tribunal is found unsustainable Court should set it aside in its entirety—Order should not be set aside in respect of that portion alone which affects the interest of applicant for writ, for that would bring into existence two awards concerning same dispute, first one being award of Industrial Tribunal revived by such order governing rights of the applicant and the other the modified award of Appellate Tribunal governing rights of other workers in respect of whom it is not set aside and create a situation contrary to scheme and policy of the Industrial Disputes Act — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 18) — (Industrial Dispute — Award-Binding nature of.) (Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 16). ('52) 54 Bom L R 513 : 1952-2 Lab L J 175 : (1952-53) 4 F J R 209 : ILR (1953) Bom 177 : AIR 1952 Bom 443 (444) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Power of Court issuing writ of certiorari—Nature of—Power to remand.

When the Court issues the high prerogative writ of certiorari it directs the judicial tribunal, against which it is acting, to transmit the record to the Court, and if necessary to quash the order which the tribunal has passed. In issuing the writ the Court does not act as a Court of appeal and therefore cannot exercise the power of remanding the matter to the lower Court, which power is exercisable only by a Court acting as an appellate Court. ('52) 54 Bom L R 513 : 1952-2 Lab L J 175 : (1952-53) 4 F J R 209 : ILR (1953) Bom 177 : AIR 1952 Bom 443 (444, 445) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of Court—Relief to person not party—Order affecting several parties—Application challenging order by only one — Relief — If to be confined to applicant alone or whole order to be set aside as against all — Practice — Power of Court — Principles.

The ordinary principle is that relief must be granted by Courts to the party challenging an order to the extent that it is necessary to safeguard the rights of that party. But it cannot be said that the Court cannot and has not the power or jurisdiction to set aside in proper cases an order which is ultra vires or in excess of jurisdiction as a whole although it is challenged by only one party affected by it and the others affected thereby choose to be content with and do not take any steps to challenge it. But when full justice can be done to the petitioner if it be set aside to the extent that it affects his rights, it is not at all necessary, nor desirable that the order as a whole should be set aside or declared bad and in excess of jurisdiction. I L R (1952) Bom 378 : 53 Bom L R 621 : AIR 1951 Bom 440 (458, 459) (Pt B) (Pr 33).

——Art. 226 — Sea Customs Act (1878), S. 182 — Confiscation of goods made or penalty imposed by Customs Officer — Order of confiscation or penalty found illegal—Penalty paid—High Court has power to refund penalty.

Where the High Court finds an order of confiscation of imported goods and penalty to be illegal, the High Court has power to refund of such penalty or increased duty levied and paid by the importer. AIR 1961 S C 41 Foll. (1963) 1 Cri L J 749 : AIR 1963 Cal 331 (356) (Pt E) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari—Decision by Court to quash executive order — Writ of mandamus and prohibition.

Where in a writ proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution started against the Income-tax Department, the Court decides to quash the notice of demand issued under S. 18 (7), Income-tax Act, against the assessee, then a writ of mandamus and prohibition need not be issued against the Department. For nobody can give effect or further effect to a notice or order which has been quashed by the Court. In such a case, it is logical, correct and sufficient if only a writ of mandamus is issued limiting it to restraining the Department from realising the sums mentioned in the notices or any part thereof. (1957-58) 12 F J R 324 : (1958) 33 ITR 866 : AIR 1957 Cal 514 (517) (Pt G) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Bad or invalid order must be quashed—Modification or substitution of order not permissible. ('57) 61 Cal W N 880.

——Art. 226 — High Court cannot direct authority to exercise its jurisdiction in particular way.

In exercise of their powers under Art. 226, the High Court cannot direct the authorities vested with the jurisdiction as to how they should exercise it. 1961 Ker L J 1165.

——Art. 226—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 45—Assessee filing appeal—Discretion under S. 45—Exercise of—Discretion coupled with duty — Non-exercise of — Order to compel discharge of duty in writ proceedings. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 45. AIR 1960 Ker 349.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — High Court remitting the case to Regional Transport Authority with specific directions—Regional Transport Authority is bound to carry out. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 178.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Industrial dispute relating to fixation of fair wages and provision for gratuity scheme — Employees objecting to admission of evidence of paying capacity on unit basis—Held, it was too late for them to ask for a remand of the case in the writ proceedings for a fresh decision by tribunal after receiving evidence of paying capacity on unit basis. AIR 1962 S C 673, Rel. on. (1963) 1 Lab L J 606 : ILR (1963) Madh Pra 56 : (1962-63) 22 F J R 339 : 1962 M P L J 132 : 1962 Jab L J 240 : 1962 M P C 165 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 172 (175) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The High Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution acts in supervisory capacity. All that it can do is to demolish the order which, according to its view, is without jurisdiction or palpably erroneous. It cannot substitute its own view for those of the inferior tribunal. The patent error must be an error of law revealed on the face of the order. AIR 1954 S C 440, Rel. on. 1958 M P C 855 : 1960 M P L J 559 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 397 (403) (Pt B) (Pr 38) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order of inferior tribunal quashed on grounds not dealing with merits — It is incumbent on tribunal to take up and rehear the application — Advocate-General undertaking that application would be re-heard—No necessity of mandamus.

When an order of an inferior tribunal on an application properly made to them is quashed by the High Court by a writ of certiorari on any ground which does not deal with the merits of the case, it is not only permissible, but it is also incumbent on the inferior tribunal to take up the application and re-hear the same. Where the Advocate-General appearing for the State whose order is quashed states that the Government was prepared to deal with the application before them in the light of the judgment of this Court it is not necessary to grant a mandamus directing the Tribunal to re-hear the petition. (1951) 1 K B 711 (724) Ref. 1951-2 Mad L J 656 : 1952 Mad W N 89 : 65 Mad L W 414 : ILR (1952) Mad 351 : AIR 1952 Mad 605 (605, 606) (Prs 1, 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Revenue Appellate Tribunal not recording its findings on all questions except one — High Court remanded the case to Tribunal for findings. (1963) 2 Mys L J 241: AIR 1963 Mys 329 (332) (Pt C) (Prs 20, 22) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Applications for renewal of permits under Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 — Hearing of applications delayed and scheme for nationalisation of routes got approved by State Government before disposal of renewal application—Although the postponement of consideration of the applications till after the approved Scheme was published had resulted in the petitioners losing their possible right to compensation, delay by itself was not a matter which affected the jurisdiction of the Regional Transport Authority — Applications subsequently heard but orders reserved — The High Court under Art. 226 held could not make a positive direction that the renewal applications should be considered in the light of the circumstances existing on the date of applications without reference to the approved Scheme—The primary duty of examining the relevant circumstances and material and passing an order appropriate to the case rested on the Regional Transport Authority, and if, for the purpose of effectively discharging that duty and doing complete justice between the parties, it thought fit to do so it had the undoubted jurisdiction of giving a further hearing to the parties and objectors including the Mysore Government Road Transport Department, before making up its mind as to the nature of the orders to be passed. 39 Mys L J 644 : ILR (1961) Mys 560 : AIR 1962 Mys 27 (30) (Pt C) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari—Nature of order which can be passed.

When exercising its extraordinary powers under a writ of certiorari the proper order for the High Court to pass is to quash the orders, and to leave the authorities to pass the right orders and not for the High Court to substitute its own orders because the High Court does not exercise the jurisdiction of an appellate Court which has always the authority of substituting its own operative orders for those of the lower Court. The function of the High Court in its extraordinarily jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution must be confined to pointing out the true legal position and either quashing the orders or letting these orders stand, as the case may be. 1951 Nag L J 566 : ILR (1951) Nag 769 : AIR 1952 Nag 4 (6) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Fair rent fixed by R. C. —Both parties appealing—Tenant asking for refund of excess paid—A. D. C. dismissing appeal not considering point and dismissing review—Order should be quashed—High Court can direct A. D. C. to order refund — Houses & Rents—C. P. and Berar House Rent Control Order, Cls. 8 (c) and 1 (2).

On the fixation of fair rent by the Rent Controller both parties appealed but the A. D. C. raised the rent and dismissed the tenant's appeal in which he asked for refund of rent paid in excess of fair rent for 12 months previously to date of order. A review application by the tenant was also dismissed as not maintainable but the A. D. C. observed that he had omitted to consider the point about refund through oversight.

Held, that it was a case in which the A. D. C. had failed to exercise jurisdiction and the order should be quashed, that it was futile to send the case back to the A. D. C. as the only grievance was about refund and that the High Court had ample powers under Art. 226 and could direct the A. D. C. to order refund for period of twelve months prior to date of his order. ('52) 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 58 (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus writ—When may be issued—Directions that may be given to inferior Court.

A writ of mandamus would not issue when another and equally efficacious remedy is available to the applicant or such remedy was available to the applicant but he allowed that remedy to be barred by time. Even when the Court thinks it appropriate to issue a writ of mandamus, what it can require the inferior Court to do is to decide the matter according to law and it cannot direct that Court to decide a particular question, whether of fact or of law, in a particular way. ILR (1951) Nag 94 : 1951 N L J 57 : AIR 1951 Nag 6 (7) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Industrial Dispute — Application of management and of employees respectively under Ss. 33 (2) and 33-A, Industrial Disputes Act, disposed of by single order—Employees alone challenging order passed on their application — No such application filed by management — Court cannot examine the order passed on the application of management—Industrial Disputes Act (1947), Ss. 33 (2) and 33-A. 1964 B L J R 655 : (1964) 9 Fac L R 181 : AIR 1965 Pat 297 (298, 299) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Land Acquisition Act (1 of 1894), Ss. 4 and 17 (4) — Notification under S. 4 published in Gazette and in locality—Latter containing declaration under S. 17 (4) and also mentioning that objections under S. 5-A would be considered—Notification is misleading and illegal and must be quashed along with the subsequent proceedings. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 4. AIR 1960 Pat 413.

——Arts. 226, 16 (1) — Rule regarding promotion of Income-tax Officers found ultra vires under Art. 16 (1)—Striking down the rules leading to practical difficulties in administration—Proper relief to be granted under Art. 226.

Where it was argued that if the Court struck down R. 1 (f) (iii) relating to the promotions of Income-tax Officers in Class I as ultra vires under Art. 16 (1), people who had been promoted in accordance with rule will have to be put down and the process might lead to great repercussions in the Department, and therefore, the High Court should not strike down the rule even if it offended Art. 16 of the Constitution, Held (Per Mahajan, J.) : — That this was an argument of desperation and that so far as the High Court was concerned, it had the sacred duty of upholding the Constitution and strike down whatever offended its provisions. (1858) E B and E 1024 Rel. on.

Per Shamsher Bahadur, J. : - In passing appropriate orders, the Court cannot be insensible to the effects or steps which may have to be taken to implement a decision. Keeping this perspective in view, it might well be urged that the Court should refrain from striking down the rules and leave it to the Government to redress a wrong which it should be its pleasure and responsibility to bring about. AIR 1964 Punj 155 (161, 170) (Pt D) (Prs 26, 57) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court — Power to correct decision of judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal.

Although the Court has power to compel a judicial or a quasi-judicial tribunal to perform a function imposed upon it by law, it has no power to correct the decision of a tribunal which is erroneous in point of law or to control the discretion and judgment of such tribunal acting within the scope of its judicial or quasi-judicial power. It can require the tribunal to act but not how to act. 59 Punj L R 257 : ILR (1957) Punj 1347 : AIR 1957 Punj 206 (207) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Writ of, issued — Order quashed – Direction to re examine matter cannot be issued—(Displaced Persons (Claims) Supplementary Ordinance (1954). S. 5 (1) (b)).

Where an order of the Additional Settlement Commissioner is quashed, it does not debar him from examining the matter afresh although upon a petition made to the High Court for a writ of certiorari no specific direction to re-examine the matter can be issued by the High Court. 59 Pun L R 143 : AIR 1957 Punj 24 (26) (Pt E) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari — High Court's power to issue directions — Order of R T A refusing to renew permit of operators — High Court while quashing order can direct issue of permit.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution it is open to the High Court in a writ petition to issue appropriate directions.

In the circumstances of this case, the High Court while quashing on a writ of certiorari the order of the Regional Transport Authority refusing to renew the permits of certain operators felt itself justified in issuing a direction forthwith to the Regional Transport Authority to renew the permits of the operators under the Motor Vehicles Act for the requisite period under the law, subject to the permits being terminated in case the Rajasthan State Roadways undertaking comes to operate on the line and subject to the conditions mentioned in Chapter 4-A of the Act. AIR 1956 All 594, Foll. 1961 Raj L W 435 : ILR (1961) 11 Raj 333.

——Art. 226 — Scope of — Power of High Court to issue directions against administrative order.

After the coming into force of the Constitution of India, the jurisdiction of the High Court is now not confined to issue of the writs only or to writs in the nature of those writs mentioned in Art. 226 but extends to the issue of other writs which it may be necessary to issue for the purpose of enforcement of the rights conferred by Part III or for other purposes. The High Court is constituted, under the provisions of Art. 226, a custodian of the fundamental rights which have been guaranteed to the citizens of the State, and for the purpose of protecting those rights and for enforcement of the obligations arising therefrom, it is open to the High Court to issue writs, though they may not be writs which have been recognised heretofore.

Hence, the High Court is now competent to test or examine the validity of an administrative or executive order. No doubt a writ of certiorari may not lie, but it is open to the High Court to issue necessary directions or orders or other writs and thus afford relief to the petitioner who is affected by such order. AIR 1950 S C 163 ; AIR 1950 Bom 383 (FB), Foll. I L R (1951) T C 496 : AIR 1951 Trav-Co 197 (199, 200) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

86. Other remedy.

See Note 7.

87. Parties to proceedings.

(a) Inferior tribunal or authority.

(b) Joint application.

(c) Necessary and proper parties.

(d) Misdescription.

(e) State and Government of India.

(f) Non-joinder and mis-joinder.

(g) Amendment.

87. Parties to proceedings.

——Art. 226—Against whom writ can issue.

No writ or direction can be issued under Art. 226 to persons who are not impleaded as opposite parties to the petition. AIR 1955 All 106 (108) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Parties—Procedure.

So far as the procedure to be adopted for amendment of the pleadings or addition of parties, no specific rules have been framed by Calcutta High Court under Art. 226. In fact no rules have been framed for regulating the nature of the pleadings. But following the usual procedure applicable to motions the position is as follows: (1) In an application under Art. 226 all persons must be made parties who are or are likely to be affected by the issue of a writ or order. In the case of mandamus or prohibition all parties must necessarily be before the Court who are required to obey the directions of the writ, or whose presence is necessary to make such directions effective. (2) The artificial rules under the English practice where in certain cases such writs can be made ex parte in the first instance, do not prevail in Courts of India. (3) Any party likely to be affected by a writ or order, may appear at the hearing (or make a prior application) and ask for leave to join the proceedings. or to have the rule served upon it. (4) The Court may order that a petition used as grounds for the issue of a rule nisi be amended by the addition of parties (5) If a necessary party or a party likely to be affected by the writ or order or a party whose presence may be necessary to make the writ effective is not before the Court, the Court may either upon an application made for that purpose, or of its own motion direct that such a party be added and the rule nisi served upon him, or simply that rule nisi be served upon him, or even that he may be allowed to be present at the hearing without being served with a rule nisi. In such a case the person served with the rule nisi or permitted to attend the hearing would be deemed to be a party and be entitled to show cause or support or oppose a cause already shown. (6) Such amendments should ordinarily be done upon notice to the party proposed to be added or served. There is however no rule of law which prevents an ex parte order being made in a suitable case. (7) Upon such an amendment being effected, directions should be given for the use of affidavits and/or additional affidavits. I L R (1956) 1 Cal 235 : AIR 1954 Cal 208 (210) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 10).

——Art. 226—Parties to proceedings.

An application under Art. 226 is not a regular suit and merely because certain questions will have to be determined incidentally in giving or not giving the reliefs asked for in the application does not make each and every person interested in such questions as necessary parties to those proceedings. 55 Cal W N 443 : AIR 1953 Cal 172 (176) (Pt D) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226 — Writ of mandamus will not issue in the absence of parties who are likely to be affected by the decision of the Court — Election petition — Petition which has not impleaded the successful candidates whose interests would be vitally affected and has left that matter to the Court's desire is not maintainable — It is the duty of petitioner seeking relief to implead all necessary parties and there cannot be any question of Courts' desire— Prayer for impleading such parties at a belated stage was also rejected as no satisfactory reasons were given by the petitioner for his failure to implead them when petition was filed : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 431, Rel. on. ILR (1964) Cut 433.

87 (a). Inferior tribunal or authority.

——Art. 226—Parties.

Where a writ petition is directed against the proceedings pending before the Sessions Judge he ought to be impleaded in the petition. 1959 Cr L J 6 : 1959 All W R (HC) 47 : 1959 A Cr R 395 : A I R 1959 All 21 (21) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Arts. 226 and 227— Parties— Necessary parties— Petition under Arts. 226 and 227 against orders of Excise Minister of Government of Assam against State of Assam — Minister acting as Appellate authority under Bengal and Assam Excise Act — Appellate authority, held on consideration of various Acts and Government of India Act, 1935, S. 296 and relevant Notifications, to be a creature of Provincial Government and could not be identified with Provincial Government—The Minister who passed the order and his successor-in-office, i.e., the then existing authority both held necessary parties — (Such authorities were directed to be made parties under R. 4 of Chap. V-A (Part II) Appellate Side Rules Assam). Case law Ref. AIR 1953 Assam 129 (131) (Prs 12, 13, 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Representation of workers through union before Tribunal — Petition under Art. 226 of Constitution against decision of Tribunal—Individual workers benefited by award not impleaded as opposite parties — Petition is not liable to be dismissed. See Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 36. AIR 1965 Cal 229 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application challenging tribunal's decision—Tribunal, if and when necessary party. See Ibid, Art. 227. AIR 1955 NUC (Madh B) 3370 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ for quashing orders of Revenue Tribunal confirming order of Deputy Commissioner —Parties — Revenue Tribunal and Deputy Commissioner both to be impleaded — Omission to implead either of them fatal to petition —Mere fact of presence of complete record before High Court cannot cure omission. A.I R 1956 Nag 65 Rel. on. 1961 Jab L J 1344 : 1961 M P C 755 : 1961 M P L J 1403 : I L R (1961) Madh Pra 821.

——Art. 226—Parties—Proceedings under Administration of Evacuee Property Act —Revision dismissed by Deputy Custodian General —Writ petition without impleading him—Maintainability —(Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 27.

Held, that the order of the Custodian Madhya Bharat was merged in and superseded by the order of the Deputy Custodian-General, India which was final and it was really the latter order which was in dispute. The effect of leaving the order of the Deputy Custodian-General, India untouched would be anomalous. The Custodian of Evacuee Property, Madhya Bharat who was subordinate to the Deputy Custodian-General, India and bound to obey his orders would be confronted with serious problem; he could not refuse to obey the order of the Deputy Custodian-General nor could he refuse to give effect to the decision of the High Court. Such a situation should be avoided by the Court exercising powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1957 Jab L J 210 : 1957 M P C 102 : 1957 M P L J 156 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 32 (36) (Pt A) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Presence of offending officer before Court is not necessary—Scope of certiorari is merely to demolish the offending order. (1959) M L J (Cr) 433 : (1959) 2 M L J 15.

——Art. 226—Parties — Writ to quash proceedings of Election Tribunal — Election Commission is not a necessary party. AIR 1953 S C 210 : 1953 S C J 293 : (1953) 1 M L J 702, Disting ; AIR 1953 Mys 59, Foll. ILR (1954) Mys 47 : AIR 1954 Mys 102 (107) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Parties — Quashing proceedings of Election Tribunal.

Petition under Art. 226 to quash proceedings of Election Tribunal — Election Tribunal made party —The fact that Election Tribunal has become functus officio held did not prevent issue of writ, since the record of the proceedings of the Election Tribunal were lodged before the District Judge of the Division in which the election had taken place and were at the time before the High Court.

Moreover there is no specific provision in the Representation of the People Act to support the view that the Election Tribunal becomes functus officio after the pronouncement of the order. I L R (1954) Mys 47 : A I R 1954 Mys 102 (107) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Parties to proceedings.

If a petitioner under Arts. 226 and 227 wishes a certain order to be quashed it is necessary to implead not only the appellate authority but the primary authority also even though it may be a judgment of affirmance. ILR (1955) Nag 741 : 1955 Nag L J 732 : AIR 1956 Nag 65 (66) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Parties—Election dispute.

To a petition under Art. 226 concerning a Janapada Sabha Election dispute, the Deputy Commissioner and supervising officers are not necessary parties when no relief is claimed against them. Kanglu Baula v. Chief Executive Officer, ILR (1954) Nag 875 : AIR 1955 Nag 49 (59) (Pt D) (Pr 26) (FB).

● ——Arts. 226, 227 — Parties to petition — (Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 105, 106, 107) —AIR 1953 Nag 357, Dissented from.

(Per Mudholkar and Bhutt, JJ.): — The Election Tribunal is not an 'amanuensis' of the Election Commission. On the other hand, it is the Commission which has to give effect to the decision of the Tribunal. The Commission has to register the decision of the Tribunal and have it published in the manner set out in S. 106 of the Representation of the People Act and in that sense it may perhaps be permissible to regard it as the amanuensis of the Tribunal but not vice versa. There is nothing in the Representation of the People Act nor in the Constitution which enables the Election Commission to adopt the order of the Tribunal and thus make it its own. On the other hand, Ss. 106 and 107 both make it clear that the function of the Election Commission in regard to the matter, after the decision of the Tribunal is ministerial. The Election Commission is not a necessary party to the petition under Art. 226, challenging the decision of the Election Tribunal because no relief is sought against it, and indeed, no relief need have been sought against it. Though under S. 106 of the Representation of the People Act, the Election Commission is required to transmit copies of the order of the Tribunal to the Speaker of the House of the People and to cause it to be published in the Gazette of India and the Gazette of India is published under the authority of the Government of India and therefore the actual publication has to be ordered by the Government of India these facts are not sufficient to warrant or necessitate even the joinder of the Government of India as a party to the petition. (1916) 1 K B 595, Rel. on.

(Per Bhutt, J.)—It should not be understood that in no case would it be necessary to join the Election Commission. In a case where an Election Commission proceeds to take steps to hold a fresh election, it may perhaps be necessary to implead the Commission in the proceedings in order to give relief to the petitioner In such an event, it would be a question if the petition can be entertained, as an authority which is beyond the territorial limits of the High Court's jurisdiction would be involved. Hari Vishnu v. Ahmad Syed Isak. ILR (1954) Nag 209 : AIR 1954 Nag 166 (182, 183, 189) (Pt C) (Prs 78, 79, 80, 83, 116, 117) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1955 S C 233.]

——Art. 226—Writ of mandamus will not issue in the absence of parties who are likely to be affected by the decision of the Court — Election petition — Petition which has not impleaded the successful candidates whose interests would be vitally affected and has left that matter to the Court's desire is not maintainable—It is the duty of petitioner seeking relief to implead all necessary parties and there cannot be any question of Court's desire — Prayer for impleading such parties at a belated stage was also rejected as no satisfactory reasons were given by the petitioner for his failure to implead them when petition was filed. AIR 1965 Orissa 125 (125) (Prs 1, 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Parties' petition under, challenging order of Competent Officer granting injunction under Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act, as being without jurisdiction - Appellate Officer who had upheld order of Competent Officer in appeal not impleaded — Petition cannot be dismissed in limine without reference to merits of case—Evacuee Interest (Separation) Act (1951), Ss. 5 14. ILR (1964) Punj 473 : AIR 1964 Punj 110 (111, 112) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Parties' petition under Art. 227 - Grant of relief in the nature of writ of certiorari - Permissibility—Omission to implead authority whose orders sought to be assailed — Not fatal. AIR 1962 Punj 117 (119, 120) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Parties — Authority whose order is challenged not made party to petition—Matter cannot be decided finally behind its back. 62 Punj L R 409 : AIR 1961 Punj 374 (375) (Pr 5).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Parties.

It is absolutely necessary that the tribunal to quash whose order the application for the issue of a writ of certiorari is taken should be a party because without issuing notice to him, the records of the proceedings cannot be brought up to the High Court. The omission to make him a party to the petition goes to the very root of the relief sought: AIR 1959 Punj 189 and AIR 1949 Mad 53, Rel. on.

In this respect, there is no difference in principle or analogy to the case of a writ under Art. 227 which partakes of the essential characteristics of a writ of certiorari which is the subject-matter of Art. 226. 62 Punj L R 302 : AIR 1960 Punj 432 (433) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

[Overruled in AIR 1963 Punj 156].

——Art. 226—Parties.

Those parties whose action is to be reviewed and who are interested therein and affected thereby and in whose possession the record of such action remains are not only proper but necessary parties. It is to such parties that the notice to show cause against the issuance of the Writ must be given. The omission to make parties those officers whose proceedings it is sought to direct and control goes to the very root of the relief sought:

Held that as the validity of the reference of industrial dispute made under Notification issued by the Delhi State Government was being challenged it was not possible to issue any orders under Art. 226 of the Constitution to that Authority which was not impleaded as a party to the writ petition. 61 Punj L R 118 : AIR 1959 Punj 189 (191) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

87 (b). Joint application.

——Art. 32—Parties to petition — Omission to implead a person jointly interested in relief — Effect—Principle applicable to suits for possession not applicable to petitions under Art. 32.

If a person has a right to maintain a petition under Art. 32, the fact that he has not made another person who would have equal right with him to maintain the petition, even a party to the petition, would not result in his petition being thrown out on that ground alone. This cannot be a ground to deny him relief in the matter of enforcing his fundamental right.

The principle applicable to suits for possession, namely that all co-owners must join in a suit to recover property unless the law otherwise provides, and if some co-owners refuse to sue the proper course to adopt as to the rest is to make them defendants in the suit, can have no application by way of analogy to a petition under Art. 32 which is not a suit for possession. Mahendra Lal Jaini v. State of U. P., (1963) Supp (1) S C R 912 : (1963) 2 S C A 163: AIR 1963 S C 1019 (1025) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 228—Parties — Applicability of O. 1, R. 8, Civil P C. — Joint application — Application by Association as such on behalf of members signed by Secretary and President - Registered Association — Application, whether maintainable — (Civil P. C. (1908). O. 1, R. 8).

The remedy by way of writ arises where a person is affected by any order the legality of which is challenged and such person is entitled to apply for an appropriate writ. The fact that similar orders are passed in the case of other individuals by the same officer or authority does not entitle all of them to join together in seeking an appropriate writ. The provisions of O. 1, R. 8 do not apply to the petitions. An association which has been registered but not affected by the orders, cannot in a representative capacity on behalf of its members apply for writ. In the case of unregistered Association also its secretary and president not being authorised, cannot apply in a representative capacity. AIR 1958 Mad 626, Disting. (1957) 2 Andhra W R 250.

——Art 226 — Several petitioners joining to make the same claim — Petition by only one sufficient — Joining of more than one petitioners may be regarded as surplusage — Irregularity can be cured by striking names of other petitioners. (1694) 87 E R 487, Disting. ('53) 55 Bom L R 246 : 1953-1 S T C 10 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1953 S C 252].

——Art 226—Certiorari — All persons affected not joining in petition

Where there are more than one person affected by an order which is quasi-judicial the fact that others besides the petitioner did not join in the petition cannot prevent the Court from issuing a writ of certiorari. AIR 1950 S C 222, Foll. Madh B L J 1954 H C R 1 : AIR 1954 M B 161 (172) (Pt G) (Pr 88) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Joinder of parties — One application against several parties.

Where matter out of which the various appeals arise, is only one and relates to the grant of the permit for a stage carriage asked for by the petitioner by his application under the Motor Vehicles Act and when the orders in the various appeals are inter-connected, the petitioner is entitled to challenge them by one writ petition. 1957 Jab L J 724 : 1957 M P C 344 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 9 (10) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Parties—Election dispute.

An application under Art. 226 for quashing an election to a Janapada Sabha on the ground that the election was held on the basis of obsolete electoral rolls would be dismissed where the persons who were declared have not been joined as parties and have not been given an opportunity to be heard before an order adverse to them was passed. Kanglu Baula v. Chief Executive Officer I L R (1954) Nag 875 : AIR 1955 Nag 49 (65) (Pt H) (Pr 55) (FB).

——Art. 226– Parties — Petition by member of unregistered syndicate –Members of syndicate retaining their right of individual trade—Other members need not be impleaded.

All the retail dealers possessing individual licence to trade in sugar had been directed, for the sake of convenience, to form themselves into a syndicate, the object being that instead of dealing with each individual dealer the Government would deal with a body. The right to trade in sugar of an individual was not taken away. Therefore in the writ petition filed by an individual member, other members of the syndicate need not be impleaded. 1964 Cur L J 517 : AIR 1965 Punj 410 (411) (Pt C) (Pr 7)

87 (c). Necessary and proper parties.

——Art. 226 — Petition for writ of certiorari — Necessary and proper parties—Distinction between —Who are necessary and proper parties to the petition—Persons in whose favour impugned order is passed not joined as parties — Petition is not competent.

The law as to who are necessary or proper parties to a proceeding is well settled. A necessary party is one without whom no order can be made effectively; a proper party is one in whose absence an effective order can be made but whose presence is necessary for a complete and final decision on the question involved in the proceeding.

In a writ of certiorari not only the tribunal or authority whose order is sought to be quashed but also parties in whose favour the said order is issued are necessary parties. But it is in the discretion of the Court to add or implead proper parties for completly settling all the questions that may be involved in the controversy either suo motu or on the application of a party to the writ or an application filed at the instance of such proper party. AIR 1954 Bom 33 and AIR 1955 Nag 49 (FB), Approved.

Thus where in a petition for a writ of certiorari made to the High Court, only the Tribunal whose order was sought to be quashed was made a party but the persons who were parties before the lower Tribunal and in whose favour the impugned order was passed were not joined as parties;

Held that the petition was incompetent and had been rightly rejected by the High Court. Held, further that the request that the Supreme Court may, at this stage of appeal direct them to be made parties and remand the matter to the High Court for disposal was belated and could not therefore, be granted. Udit Narain Singh Malpahonia v. Additional Member, Board of Revenue, Bihar. (1963) 1 S C W R 147 : (1964) 1 S C J 151 : (1963) Supp 1 S C R 676 : ILR 43 Pat 13 : 1963 B L J R 512 : AIR 1963 S C 786 (788, 790) (Prs 7, 12, 13, 14).

——Art. 226 — Parties — Constitution of Municipal Committee questioned—Joinder of members.

Where in a writ petition for prohibition or certiorari against a Municipal Committee wherein the constitution of the said Committee is questioned, the petitioner cannot be said to challenge the election of the different members of the Municipal Committee and therefore, it is not necessary to join all the members as parties to the writ petition. AIR 1956 Ajmer 73 (76) (Pt E) (Pr 18).

——Art. 226— Certiorari — Procedure — Necessary parties—All persons likely to be affected by orders ought to be impleaded—Failure to implead necessary parties fatal.

All those parties who would be affected by the orders passed in the writ proceedings must be impleaded so as to afford them a hearing. Failure to implead a party who is not necessary is not fatal to the maintainability of the writ petition. 1965 All W R (H C) 765 : 1965 All L J 1211.

——Art. 226—Writ petition — Necessary parties not impleaded — Held failure to implead them was fatal to the petition. (1965) 11 Fac L R 388 (All).

——Art. 226 — Bar Councils Act (38 of 1926), S. 8— Preparation of list for amalgamated High Court—Procedure — Application for writ or order by Advocate for inclusion without payment of fees — Judges of High Court need not be impleaded as opposite parties—It is enough if Joint Registrar is impleaded. See Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 8. AIR 1953 All 348.

——Art. 226 -Parties —Amendment —Application for writ directing State Government not to enforce award of Industrial Tribunal alleged to be null and void— Petitioner under criminal prosecution for non-implementation of award — State Government made party to petition under Art. 226 — Industrial Tribunal not made party - Though Industrial Tribunal need not be impleaded, still if its non-impleading is considered fatal, High Court can permit amendment of petition by adding Industrial Tribunal as party. ILR (1954) 6 Assam 161 : AIR 1954 Assam 161 (163, 164) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties—Necessary party.

One A held a permit to ply a stage-carriage on certain route according to the timing fixed by the State Transport Authority. Subsequently certain Bus Service Co-operative Society was also permitted to ply one bus on the same route. The original timings were changed and both A and the Society were directed to ply their buses according to the order of rotation. A filed a petition under Art 226 against the State Transport Authority for a writ of mandamus or prohibition directing the State Transport Authority not to compel A to ply his bus on rotation.

Held, that the petition should not be allowed unless the Bus Service Society was also impleaded as a respondent in the proceeding. 1956 Madh B L J (Bh.) 79 : AIR 1956 Bhopal 55 (56, 57) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 226 and 227 – Parties – Petition challenging order of termination passed by Health Officer— Latter if necessary party.

In a petition challenging the order of termination of his service by the Health Officer, the petitioner only joined the Corporation of the City of Nagpur as party. Neither the Health Officer nor the Chief Executive Officer were joined as a party.

Held, that merely making the Corporation as a party would not avail the petitioner because the orders of dismissal were not those of the Corporation. The orders were of the Health Officer or if there was a delegation it may be imputed to the Chief Executive Officer. As neither of those two Officers were on record the petitioner could not be granted relief. 1959 Nag L J (Notes) 106 (Bom).

——Art. 226—Parties — Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956, S 22 (1).

The petitioner claimed relief under Art. 226 against the zonal Manager, Eastern Zone, Life Insurance Corporation of India, Calcutta, to whom no powers were shown to have been delegated under S. 22 (1) of the Life Insurance Corporation Act. The Life Insurance Corporation of India who could grant the reliefs prayed for was not made a party respondent to the application.

Held, that it was for the petitioner to establish that justice had been demanded of a person competent to grant it and merely because the delegation in writing had not been disclosed by the respondent Zonal Manager an adverse inference that the Zonal Manager was authorised to deal with the matter cannot be drawn. In the absence of proper party the application was not maintainable. (1961) 2 Fac L R 170 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 456 ; (1961) 1 Lab L J 59 ; 65 Cal W N 23 ; A I R 1962 Cal 45 (47, 48) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

——Art. 226 – Parties — Application to compel Corporation of Calcutta and Commissioner of Police to maintain public streets and foot-paths for unobstructed user by public and for declaration that the latter has no right to permit hawkers' corners there —Hawers not necessary parties. 65 Cal W N 339 : AIR 1961 Cal 389 (391, 392) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226 – Parties.

Certificate proceedings started to recover loan taken from Rehabilitation Finance Administration — Writ petition making Chief Administrator a respondent instead of the administration itself which was a statutory Corporation—Main relief being against the Corporation, petition held was defective – But the defect being technical application not dismissed on that ground. 64 Cal W N 126 : AIR 1960 Cal 416 (417) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 - Parties—Reference of industrial dispute between number of banks and their employees —Writ application to quash — Non-joinder of banks interested—Effect.

Where the Central Government has referred an industrial dispute between 31 banking companies of West Bengal and their workmen for adjudication to an industrial tribunal, and an application is filed under Art. 226 challenging the order of reference, the non-joinder of all the thirty-one banks is fatal to the maintainbiliry of the application. The application cannot proceed and the order cannot be quashed, if some of the banks interested in the reference are left out and not joined as parties. AIR 1958 Cal 297 (300) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226– Parties to application.

An application for mandamus against a school committee of management was filed against the secretary and the president of the committee alone. There were no regulations issued by the Government authorising the president or the secretary to effectively represent all the members of the committee in a legal proceeding against the committee for any relief.

Held, that in these circumstances the application was defectively constituted and therefore no relief could be granted thereon. ('53) 62 Cal W N 384.

——Art. 226 — Parties — Municipalities — Bengal Municipal Act (15 of 1932), S 21.

The committee consisting of the Chairman and two Commissioners appointed under S. 21, Bengal Municipal Act (15 of 1932), by the Commissioners of the Municipality, at a meeting held for that purpose and known as the "registering authority" prepares the preliminary and final Electoral Rolls in accordance with the provision of the Act. The relevant rules with regard to the preparation and publication of the Electoral Roll are Rr. 3 to 16 and it will appear therefrom that the duties in connection therewith devolve not upon the chairman alone but upon the registering authority. It is the duty of the registering authority to amend the Final Electoral Roll and publish the same in the same manner as the final Roll that had been published when the District Magistrate in an appeal under S. 529-A orders the same. R. 15 however clearly shows that the amendment has to be carried out by the registering authority, although the District Magistrate communicates his order to the Chairman. That being so, in an application under Art. 226 for directing the amendment and republication of the Roll according to the District Magistrate's order all the members of the committee, which is registering authority, and the proper body to carry it out, should be made parties and it would not be possible to order the chairman alone to amend and republish the roll. Such an order would not be binding on the other members of the committee when they are not made parties to the application and the application would suffer from defect of parties. The fact, that the District Magistrate is a party to the application cannot obviate the defect. AIR 1954 Cal 285 (286, 287) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 6, 7, 8, 9).

——Art. 226—Proper parties—(Constitution of India, Art. 367 (1))—(General Clauses Act, 1897, S. 3 (39)) —(Civil P. C., O. 1, R. 8).

In view of the provisions of Art. 367 (1), the word 'person' in Art. 226 should be interpreted in the sense in which it has been used in S. 3 (39) of the General Clauses Act of 1897. Therefore, although the State Medical Faculty is an unincorporated body of individuals a writ can be properly issued against such a body in its official title and designation. Further, since the petitioner can have recourse to O. 1 R. 8, Civil P. C, and proceed against only some of the members representing themselves and all other members of the State Medical Faculty, it is not necessary to implead all the members of the faculty. AIR 1918 Mad 763, Rel. on ; 40 Cal 588, Ref. AIR 1953 Cal 289 (291) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 10, 11).

——Art. 226—Parties.

The Governing Body is a part of the State Medical Faculty. When the State Medical Faculty has been made a party, is is neither necessary nor proper that any part of it should be separately made a party, the Feliows, the Members and the Licentiates. Omission to make the Governing Body a distinct party is no obstacle to the success of the application. ILR (1953) 2 Cal 107 : 56 C W N 861 : AIR 1953 Cal 212 (213) (Pt A) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Petition under—Action of Corporation challenged—Corporators not necessary parties.

Where the validity of a resolution of a Corporation sanctioning allowance to Mayor, Corporators, etc., was challenged in a petition under Art. 226 what was challenged in the petition was the action of the Corporation as such. It was the Corporation which was sought to be ordered not to appropriate the municipal funds in making payments by virtue of its impugned resolution. Merely because the corporators were, or were to be, the recipients of those allowances it was not necessary to make them parties. 1962 M P C 115 : 1961 Jab L J 282 : 1961 M P L J 1215.

——Art. 226—Parties—Party affected by Government order is entitled to be heard — High Court Rules (Madras) Rule 3. (1953) 1 Mad L J 49 : 66 Mad L W 157 : AIR 1953 Mad 351 (352) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226—Parties — Some of Municipal Councillors challenging order superseding Municipal Borough—Others made co-respondents—Deletion of such respondents—Normal rule — Parties interested but not necessary may be deleted - Test with regard to necessity and propriety for impleading person as party—Mysore High Court Rules (1959) Chap. VIII, R 14 — Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act (18 of 1925), S. 219 (1), Civil P. C. (1908), O. 1, R. 10.

The normal rule regarding the addition or deletion of parties is that it is open to the plaintiff or the petitioner to array in the proceeding such persons as he wishes to join as parties and it is equally open to him to give up parties. This right, however, is not absolute and if the Court finds it necessary in the interests of giving a proper decision in the case it may direct parties to be added and refuse permission for the deletion of the names of parties when such permission is sought. The real test in regard to the necessity for impleading a person, as distinguished from propriety, is whether in the event of the petitioner succeeding, the result will be to compel the person to do something or desist from doing something.

In a writ petition made by some of the Municipal Councillors challenging the validity of the Government order under S. 219 (1), Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act by which the Municipal Borough was superseded, although all the members of the Municipal Committee are interested in and affected by the order, they are not necessary parties. The petitioners who have grievance against the order of the Government can themselves approach the High Court and they should not be compelled to array other members, if even otherwise the petitioners themselves were entitled to seek relief. AIR 1959 S C 107, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Cal 208, Ref. (1964) 1 Mys L J 147 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Parties—Necessary parties—Petition by owner of Inam lands for quashing of order of Government under S. 3, Orissa Estates Abolition Act (1 of 1952) — Absence of raiyats does not make the petition defective.

Where the Government issued notification under S. 3 of the Orissa Estates Abolition Act vesting the village of the owners of Inam lands in the State, the owners are vitally affected by the notification and have every right to file a petition under Art. 226 for quashing the order on the allegation that the notification is illegal.

The absence of the raiyats, who are indirectly affected by the decision does not make the petitions defective in any manner whatsoever and it cannot be accepted that in all such cases the petitioners will be required to bring in all the raiyats of the village as parties to these proceedings. ILR (1956) Cut 335 : 22 Cut L T 444 : AIR 1956 Orissa 214 (218) (Pt D) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 – Parties—(High Court Rules and Orders (Pepsu) — Rules relating to application under Art. 226 of the Constitution—R. 7).

A person interested in or affected by the question in dispute in a writ application should also be made a party to such an application along with the tribunal, Court, or other authority, whose order or act is questioned, and, in any case, the Court should invariably, as a matter of practice, in the interests of justice, serve rule nisi upon such a party. The applicant must disclose particulars of such a party in his affidavit to enable the Court to do so. AIR 1954 Bom 33, Rel. on; AIR 1946 Bom 407, Dist. ILR (1955) Patiala 622 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 159 (161) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties to — Appropriate party—Petition by employees against order of State Government refusing reference to Tribunal under S. 10 (1) of Industrial Disputes Act — Employer is certainly a proper party, if not a necessary party—Non-impleading of employer, however, condoned in view of order proposed to be passed, whereby employer was afforded an opportunity to intervene — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1)—Refusal to refer — Writ against order — Parties to. 1965 Cur L J 541 : ILR (1965) 2 Punj 802 : (1965-66) 29 F J R 155.

——Art. 226 — Parties to writ petition—Addition of — Writ petition by a Samiti registered under the Societies Registration Act against Registrar, Co-operative Societies — Arya Samaj seeking to be impleaded as party, not a registered body who can neither sue nor be sued in a Court of law in its own name—Arya Samaj cannot be impleaded as party especially when it was objected that the person who styled himself as its pradhan was not validly elected — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 1, R. 10; O. 29, R. 1. 1965 Raj L W 282 : ILR (1965) 15 Raj 653.

——Art. 226 — Parties — Application against State alone — Maintainability.

Where both the order of appointment and the order of termination of service of an acting clerk in the Munsiff's Court were passed by the High Court, but the only respondent made in the application under Art. 226 was State Government :

Held, that the application had to be dismissed. It may be that the High Court was not impleaded because it was not possible for the High Court to issue a writ to itself. But it would not preclude the petitioner from moving the High Court on its administrative side and seeking appropriate reliefs. 1955 Ker L T 813 : ILR (1955) Trav.Co 848 : AIR 1957 Trav-Co 176 (176, 177) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

87 (d). Misdescription.

——Art. 226 — Parties — Wrong description — Effect of.

Error in name and business of opposite party No. 1 in petition under Art. 226 — Relief sought particulary against him — Correct description averred in counter affidavit by opposite party — But no attempt to amend and correct the petition made by petitioner. Failure to amend petition and implead the correct party held was itself sufficient ground for dismissal of petition. 1954 All W R (H C) 235 : 1954 All L J 344 : AIR 1954 All 490 (490) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226 — Petition by person alleging to be managing partner of a firm — Such description appearing in power of attorney but not in the petition — Description cannot be treated as part of petition or as evidence of the fact stated therein. I L R (1953) Patiala 451 : AIR 1953 Pepsu 88 (89) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (DB).

87 (e). State and Government of India.

——Art. 226 — Validity of Act challenged — Concerned State must be impleaded as party to writ petition. (1964) 15 S T C 505 : AIR 1965 All 86 (91) (Pt F) (Pr 31) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Parties—"Option papers" circulated to State employees by Chief Secretary to the State Government for opting either to India or Pakistan—Terms and conditions of service guaranteed — Employee discharged — Petition under Art. 226 — Government of India not necessary party—(Indian Independence Act (1947), S. 9).

Chief Secretary of the Assam Government sent a circular letter to the employees of the State including the petitioner in Class II, Cadre in the State Education Service, known as 'option letter', giving the employees option to opt for Pakistan or 'rest of India' upon the partition of India. The letter did not only forward the questionaire but also contained an assurance that the representatives of the future Government consequent upon partition of India, guaranteed their existing terms and conditions of service. The petitioner who had opted for the 'rest of India' was discharged from service on the ground of retrenchment after the partition of India, consequent upon the partition. In his petition under Art. 226, he impleaded the State of Assam as respondent. It was contended on behalf of the State that the Government of India was a necessary party, since the 'option papers' were circulated at the instance of the Government of India and that the State had not offered any guarantee to the petitioner :

Held, that the argument was not tenable in view of the circular letter of the Chief Secretary of the State and that the Government of India was not a necessary party.

Per Majority. — The option given to Government servants was according to the decision of the Special Committee of the Partition Office of Government of India. It was part of the scheme of partition. It was, therefore, binding on both the Dominions under S. 9, Indian Independence Act (1947), even after 15th August. It could not be argued that the Provinces in the two Dominions were not bound by orders because they were issued by the Government of India. The Government of Assam was bound to give effect to the guarantee even though the option papers offered the guarantees of the two future Dominions.

The Government of India was not at all a necessary party to the proceedings. No relief could be asked for against that Government. The Government of Assam was bound by the decision of the Partition Committee of the Government of India. The decisions of that Committee were not dependent on the assent of the Government of Assam. They were binding on all the Provinces by virtue of the provisions contained in the Independence Act. If the consent of the Assam Government was necessary, it was given by necessary implication The option was conveyed to officers through the Assam Government. The Government of Assam thus became a party to the implementation of the decisions. Effective relief could be given to the petitioner in the petition, as constituted, and the petition could not fail for want of necessary parties.

Per (Contra). — The option letter did not give any indication whatsoever that the Assam Government undertook any responsibility for providing the officer with any job if he elected to serve in the rest of India. The Provincial Government had no say in the matter nor was any assurance given on behalf of the Provincial Government nor any inkling given that they would retain their jobs in the Province in some shape or another. The Chief Secretary only circulated the decision of the Partition Committee which was appointed by the representatives of the two future Dominions and asked for a reply in those terms. If the petitioner wanted to say that because of this exercise of option as was requested by the letter of the Chief Secretary that he was relieved of his job in the Murarichand College (which went to Pakistan) by the successor Government, that is, the East Bengal Government, he might sue the Chief Secretary or the Assam Government for damage, but could not say that there was a legal obligation to absorb him in some of the Government Offices in Assam or in Educational Service of Assam Government, and could in no way ask for a writ to have him so absorbed irrespective of any vacancy in the said Province. Surely the responsibility, if any, was of the Central Government. This was a matter that ought to have been decided in the presence of the Indian Government as a party. Hiranmoy v. State of Assam, AIR 1954 Assam 224 (235, 236, 237) (Pt E) (Pr 13) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Parties — (Municipalities — Assam Municipal Act (1923), Ss. 89 and 292).

Order disposing of review application under S. 88, Assam Municipal Act — Application under Art. 226, Constitution of India, for quashing same—Provincial Government is not necessary party, even though petitioner had applied to Provincial Government for reversal of the order under S. 292 of the Municipal Act. ILR (1953) 5 Assam 45 : AIR 1953 Assam 132 (135) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art 226 — Parties—Amendment of Constitution requiring ratification by State Legislatures challenged — Ground that resolutions passed by States did not amount to ratification — Union and ratifying States are necessary parties. 68 Cal W N 958 : AIR 1964 Cal 500 (503) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Arts. 226, 361 (1) — Petition asking writ of 'certiorari' to quash Governor's decision in appeal— Governor is not necessary party.

In a petition under Art. 226 asking for the issue of a writ of certiorari to quash the Governor's decision in appeal it is not incumbent on the petitioner to implead the Governor as a party. Article 361 (1) shows that the Governor cannot be made a party to any proceedings in Court, inter alia, in a case where his decision could have been questioned on grounds available to a citizen against other authorities justifying the quashing of any order A citizen is not without redress when his complaint relates to the performance of the powers and duties of the office of the Governor. Even though he cannot implead the Governor as a party, it will be enough if he impleads the State Government and asks for appropriate relief. Notwithstanding the absence of the Governor as a party the citizen can be given relief if the State Government is before the Court : AIR 1963 S C 786; AIR 1963 S C 1124, Rel. on. 68 Cal W N 203 : AIR 1964 Ca 184 (189, 190) (Pt B) (Pr 26) (DB).

● ——Art 226—Parties to writ proceeding.

Where the Chief Justice of the High Court withdrew the duties and functions from a Judge of the High Court acting on the decision reached by the Union Government as to the completion of 60 years of his age by the said Judge, then a writ if otherwise claimable under Art. 226 of the Constitution against the Chief Justice may still issue notwithstanding the absence of the Union Government Jyoti Prakash Mitter v. Hon'ble Mr. Justice H. K. Bose Chief Justice of High Court, Calcutta, 67 Cal W N 662 : AIR 1963 Cal 483 (489) (Pt F) (Pr 25) (SB).

——Art. 228 — Subordinate officer passing orders under statutory provisions within jurisdiction of Calcutta High Court — Orders not challengeable unless statutory provisions are challenged — Union and Superior Officer are necessary parties — Office of Superior Officer in Delhi — Calcutta High Court has no jurisdiction against Union and Superior Officer — Relief cannot be given against subordinate officer. AIR 1956 S C 246, Disting. AIR 1961 Cal 289 (293, 294) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

—Arts 226 239 (1), Sch I. Part II — Procedure— Writ petition against Himachal Pradesh Administration as main respondent — Himachal Pradesh being Union territory administered by the President through Administrator—Neither President nor Administrator impleaded—'Himachal Pradesh Administration' being not a juristic person cannot sue or be sued — Order on writ petition would not bind President or Administrator—Frame of petition therefore held defective —C. P. Code (1908) S. 79. AIR 1964 Him Pra 19 (22) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

● ——Art 226 and Art. 32 (2-A) (Jammu and Kashmir) — Parties — Writ proceeding against Election Commissioner — Kashmir Ordinance No. I of 1957— Validity challenged — Government is necessary party—(Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, S. 103)

The petioner sought a writ of mandamus against the Election Commissioner, and during the pendency of the petition an ordinance was promulgated depriving the petitioner of the right claimed. The petitioner submitted that this Ordinance was ultra vires of the provisions of the Indian Constitution as applicable to the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

Held, that as the Election Commissioner was powerless to do anything in the matter, and ultimately it was the Government which could advise the Sadar i-Riyasat to promulgate an Ordinance or replace one by a fresh Ordinance the Government was a necessary party and in its absence the petition deserved to be rejected. Jagat Ram Aryan v Election Commissioner, Jammu and Kashmir, AIR 1957 J & K 45 (46) (Pr 4) (FB).

——Art. 226 – Necessary parties — Tax imposed by Local Authority — Constitutionality in question — Government if necessary party.

Where constitutionality and legality of a tax imposed and recovered by a Local Authority are matters arising for consideration, the State is not a necessary party to such a proceeding. AIR 1954 Kutch 50 (51) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art 226 - Parties to writ petition — Prayer for joinder of Union Government against which no relief has been claimed, cannot be granted.

Where in the course of hearing of the writ petition the petitioner submitted an application for joinder of the Union Government as respondent to the petition, the prayer cannot be granted, if in the application, no relief has been claimed against the Union Government. 1965 M P L J 825 : 1965 Jab L J 1008 : A I R 1966 Madh Pra 134 (136) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Government not necessary or proper party to industrial dispute See Industrial Disputes Act (1947) S. 18 (b) AIR 1954 Mad 686.

——Art. 226 — Parties to writ proceedings—Necessary parties.

Where the house properties of the petitioners in Manipur State were removed or destroyed by the Allied Military forces under Rr. 49 and 78, Defence of India Rules and the Extra Assistant Commissioner (Claims), Manipur and the Chief Commissioner, Manipur, having failed to perform their statutory obligations under R. 98, Defence of India Rules the petitioners applied for a writ of mandamus against them, the Union of India should be added as a necessary party to the petition. AIR 1956 Manipur 1 (2) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — C P. and Berar Letting of Houses and Rents Control Order, Cls. 13 and 21.

Writ — Certiorari—Parties — Procedure — Tenant appealing against order of Rent controller — S. D. O. deciding appeal – Landlord applying for writ—D. C. and State of M. P. are not necessary parties — Procedure is now well settled. ('51) 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 102 (DB).

——Art. 226 - Writ application—Parties to —Notification issued by Central Government—Central Government should be made party — In its absence writ cannot be issued against local official who alone is made party.

Where under the power vested by a provision of an Act or of a rule made thereunder a notification is issued by the Central Government, it is that Government that should be made a party to a writ application filed under Art. 226 of the Constitution. No writ will lie against the local official. A I R 1956 S C 246 and AIR 1958 Cal 570, Disting. ILR (1961) Cut 316 : AIR 1961 Orissa 186 (187) (Prs 6, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties— Vires of Central Act challenged — Petitioners not claiming any relief against Central Goverament — Union of India need not be impleaded as party. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 424 : 1959 Raj L W 496 : A I R 1959 Raj 177 (191) (Pt L) (Pr 75) (DB).

[Reversed on another point in AIR 1961 S C 1402.]

——Art. 226—Parties—Petition challenging validity of award of labour Court — Necessary party — Art. 227.

In a petition under Arts. 226 or 227 of the Constitution when what is questioned is the validity or legality of the award of the Labour Court, the Government is not a necessary party. AIR 1959 Tripura 8 (9) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

87 (f). Non-joinder and mis-joinder.

——Art. 226—Writ petition — Parties — Non joinder of — Effect — Procedure — Petition for writ arising out of pending suit — Pro forma defendants in suit not joined as parties — Does not render petition not maintainable for non joinder. A I R 1964 All 386 (388, 389) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Relief against persons not impleaded as parties cannot be granted. 1963 All L J 909.

——Art. 226 - Other persons vitally interested in question not made parties— Question is not fit subject for decision in writ application. A I R 1955 N U C (All) 3292 (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties.

A Court cannot adjudicate on the validity of an act of an authority in its absence and any person who is likely to be affected by any decision given by a Court should be added as a party. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 431 (435) (Pt A) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties- Non-joinder—Effect—Issue of writ to person not party to petition — No direction can issue. See Tenancy Laws—Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari Act (26 of 1948), S. 4. (1958) 1 Andh W R 124.

——Art. 226—Parties to writ petition – Misjoinder — (Civil Procedure Code, 1908), O. 1, R. 9).

Where a person files a petition under Art. 226 on the ground that the seizure of his property was illegal the fact that the petitioner is his son will not create any interest or right in his father when they are separate in business and the property belongs exclusively to the son. Hence if the father is added as petitioner No. 2 to the petition the petition suffers from the defect of misjoinder of the petitioners. But this defect cannot be deemed to be of such a fatal nature as to entitle the dismissal of the petition on this very ground. AIR 1956 Bhopal 43 (44) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 – Jurisdiction—Rule 'nisi'— Rule cannot be issued against party not mentioned in writ application. 68 Cal W N 958 : A I R 1964 Cal 500 (503) (Pt F) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226 — Parties — Person in possession not made party – Effect. See Houses and Rents— Requisition and Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (5 of 1947), S 3 ('58) 62 Cal W N 158.

——Art. 226 — Powers of Court – Person not before Court—Order affecting his rights—Power to make.

Where a person is not before the High Court in a proceeding under Art. 226, it can make no order affecting his rights in his absence. 61 Cal W N 479 : AIR 1957 Cal 460 (461) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Writ for quashing orders of Revenue Tribunal confirming order of Deputy Commissioner— Parties—Revenue Tribunal and Deputy Commissioner both to be impleaded—Omission to implead either of them fatal to petition—Mere fact of presence of complete record before High Court cannot cure omission. A I R 1956 Nag 65, Rel. on. 1961 Jab L J 1344: 1961

M P C 755 : 1961 M P L J 1403 : I L R (1961) M. P. 821.

——Art. 226—Parties— Absence of necessary parties —Effect.

The extraordinary jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot be exercised when the necessary parties are not impleaded and any order passed in such an event would be infructuous. (1962) 28 Cut L T 298.

——Art. 226—Parties to writ petition — Non-joinder of—Effect — (Travancore Cochin Panchayat Act (2 of 1959), S. 46).

In a writ petition to quash the order of the Government passed under S. 40 (1), Cl. 12, Travancore-Cochin Panchayat Act, removing the petitioner from the office of the president, the members of the panchayat by whom the no-confidence motion which led to the passing of the order, was passed are the real parties in the matter of the propriety or the otherwise of the resolution. In the absence of all the members of the panchayat from the record except the vice-president it is not competent for the Court to declare the resolution invalid. AIR 1956 Trav.Co 45 (45, 46) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Parties to writ proceedings.

A petition for a writ of mandamus by a person who has been deprived of his valuable tea estate cannot be deemed to be in any way defective on account of non-joinder of any temporary occupier for an indefinite period or for non-joinder of a person who has no adverse interest against the petitioner. A I R 1956 Tripura 9 (14) (Pt D) (Pr 27).

87 (g). Amendment.

——Art. 226 — Parties — Amendment of — Duty of Court.

If the defect in a writ is material such as a defect of parties it cannot be out right by amendment of a writ. But different considerations apply at the stage of the rule nisi and a defect of parties can easily be remedied at that stage.

Further, it is the Court's duty, in proceedings under Art. 226, no less than proceedings in general to avoid, if possible, a multiplicity of judicial proceedings.

Where in a petition under Art. 226, against the Secretary of the Board of Secondary Education the respondent's case was that the party really interested was the Board and that the petition could not proceed in its absence,

Held, that the discharge of the rule nisi without allowing amendment would inevitably give rise to further application. The Board could, therefore be made a party by amending the petition. ILR (1956) 1 Cal 235: AIR 1954 Cal 208 (211) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

88. Pending cases.

——Art. 226—Writ petition pending appeal.

Where the petitioner's appeal presented to the authorities at Ajmer has not as yet been disposed of, it would not be proper to allow the petitioner to present a writ petition at this stage. A I R 1954 S C 207, Rel. on. 1955 Am LJ 40: AIR 1955 Ajmer 39 (40) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Issue of writ when subject-matter pending before Court of law.

Ordinarily Court would not issue a writ when the subject-matter involved is already pending in a case before a Court of law. A I R 1952 Ajmer 31 (2) (32) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Issue of, against interlocutory order.

There may be cases where it may be necessary for a petitioner to ask for both the relief of certiorari and prohibition, the writ of certiorari to quash the order which does not finally dispose of the controversy between the parties and a direction in the nature of prohibition restraining the Court from further proceeding with the case. It cannot, therefore, be contended that as a universal principle no writ of certiorari will issue against an interlocutory order.

The power being discretionary, such a writ may not be issued in a case where an interlocutory order may be revisable by a superior Court on revision or in appeal or in a case where any alternative remedy may be available. But in a case where the order of a subordinate Court disposes of a preliminary issue which, if decided, may affect the jurisdiction of the Court, it may be desirable to consider such an order and if other conditions are fulfiled, a proper direction may be issued by the High Court. A I R 1955 SC 233 and AIR 1952 All 99, Rel. on. AIR 1956 All 89 (91, 92) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561A—Interference by High Court at an interlocutory stage See Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561-A. A I R 1953 All 630.

——Art. 226 — Scope of inquiry — Orders of Labour Court during pendency of reference under Industrial Disputes Act — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1) (c).

Whether a particular person is a workman or not and whether in the circumstances of a case, there is an industrial dispute or not especially when a reference under S. 10 (1) (c), Industrial Disputes Act, has been made by the appropriate Government, are matters entirely for the Labour Court to consider and determine including such preliminary objections as to jurisdiction as the parties may choose to raise. The petitioner-employer cannot raise them in High Court in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution filed by him, questioning the orders of the Labour Court after the Labour Court has set the employer ex parte and purported to proceed with the enquiry. (1960) 1 Andh W R 360; (1960) 1 Lab L J 611.

——Art. 226—Administrative Tribunal— Order during pendency of writ proceedings — Validity — Quashing of.

If a party does something with the object of getting the position of advantage in the action, before a Court could interfere, he will not be permitted to plead that since he had already done the thing, it should not be undone. The Court has ample powers to direct the restoration of the status quo ante. But it cannot be said that any order passed subsequent to the issuance of a writ nisi is without jurisdiction and consequently should be struck down. (1958) 2 An W R 598: ILR (1958) Andh Pra 701: AIR 1958 Andh Pra 697 (704, 705) (Pt F) (Prs 21, 23) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Interlocutory proceedings — Interference by High Court — Proceedings before Collector under S. 56 — Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (46 of 1948).

Except on proof of clear and patent want of jurisdiction the High Court does not normally entertain an application before any final adjudication has been made by a subordinate tribunal judicial or quasi-judicial.

Thus where the Collector is exercising his jurisdiction under S. 56 of the Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, 1948 for the purpose of considering whether he should or should not sanction the scheme which had been framed by the Manager, there is nothing irregular or illegal in the attempted exercise of his powers by the Collector which calls for interference by the High Court under Art. 226.

59 Bom L R 339: I L R (1957) Bom 656: A I R 1957 Bom 155 (159, 160) (Pt E) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari or prohibition—Writ of—Appeal to Custodian against decision of Deputy Custodian under S. 2 (d) (i) and (iii) of Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950).

When the petitioners filed an appeal to the Custodian without prejudice to their contention that no appeal lay to him against the decision of the Deputy Custodian holding them evacuees within the meaning of S. 2 (d) (i) and S. 2 (d) (iii) the petitioners should have waited for the decision of the Custodian before coming to the High Court. As they had preferred the appeal to the Custodian and as they had raised the question of jurisdiction, primarily it was for the Custodian to decide whether he had jurisdiction or not. Assuming he erroneously came to a decision, with regard to his jurisdiction, it would then have been perfectly competent to the appellants to come to the High Court for a writ of certiorari or prohibition. 54 Bom L R 822: ILR (1953) Bom 406: AIR 1953 Bom 26 (27) (Pt C) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 18 — Claim for increased compensation already filed — — Petitioner held not permitted to challenge acquisition under Art. 226 of Constitution. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 18. ('62) 66 Cal W N 115.

——Art. 226 — Appeal from conviction under impugned Act under valid provisions thereof pending —Whether writ of certiorari to quash conviction can issue — Quaere. Anwar Ali v. State of West Bengal, 1952 Cri L J 450: AIR 1952 Cal 150 (163, 164) (Pt E) (Pr 93) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Interlocutory orders — Interference with.

Even interlocutory orders will be interfered with when they are passed in flagrant violation of a party's right. AIR 1958 S C 398, Foll. 1958 Ker L J 992.

——Art. 226—Interim orders—Interference with.

Where no final order has been passed there is no justification to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court to interfere with the interim order and to quash it by the issue of a writ of certiorari. 1957 Ker L J 217: ILR (1957) Kerala 59: 1957 Ker L T 198: A I R 1957 Kerala 22 (24) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Powers of High Court — Interference at interim stage.

In a matter arising under Art. 226 of the Constitution the High Court will not at an interlocutory stage decide upon the correctness of orders made by a Tribunal with jurisdiction. Where it is open to the Tribunal to reach a conclusion, if the Tribunal errs in reaching that conclusion then it is not a matter which can be corrected by the High Court in the exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction which it possesses either under Art. 226 or under Art. 227 of the Constitution. 1958 Jab L J 1: ILR (1957) Madh Pra 479: 1958 M P C 336: 1958 M P L J 426: AIR 1958 Madh Pra 168 (174) (Pt G) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Proceedings before Revenue Court—Joinder of parties.

It is not the concern of the High Court exercising its power under Art. 226 of the Constitution to order revenue authorities to join parties to proceedings which have terminated on the assumption that all the necessary parties were not brought before the Revenue Courts. 1957 M P L J (Notes) 167.

——Art. 226 — Mineral Concession Rules (1949) — R. 57 (2) — Revision against non-disposal of application under R. 27 — Revision pending before the Central Government — Writ petition under Art. 226 for same relief—Central Government being competent to grant relief, no relief can be granted in writ petition while the revision is pending—See Mineral Concession Rules (1949), R. 57 (2). AIR 1961 Pat 487.

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Prayer for quashing of interim order of Industrial Tribunal—Entire proceedings if can be quashed—(Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 33-A).

Where the petitioner has only asked in an application under Art. 226 for quashing the interim order of the Industrial Tribunal and not for quashing the entire proceeding taken by the Industrial Tribunal under S. 33-A, but the petitioner has pleaded the necessary facts in the application and the respondent has notice of those facts and has made an attempt to controvert them in the counter affidavit, the High Court can quash the entire proceeding started by the Industrial Tribunal under S. 33-A and also the interim order. AIR 1951 S C 41, Foll. (1956) 1 Lab L J 278: (1956 57) 10 F J R 89: A I R 1956 Pat 518 (521, 522) (Pt D) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Other remedy open—Error apparent on face of record—Effect.

Held, that the pendency of the appeal before the Labour Appellate Tribunal against the award in question could not prevent the petitioner from seeking a relief by way of issue of writ from the High Court when the award on its own terms had been found to be without jurisdiction. AIR 1955 Cal 341, Not Foll. 1956 B L J R 270: (1958) 1 Lab L J 84: (1956-57) 10 F J R 255: ILR 35 Pat 292: A I R 1956 Pat 294 (299) (Pt G) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Houses and Rents — Bihar Building (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (1947), S. 18-A—Order as to costs—Revision against, pending — High Court would not interfere on an application under Arts. 226 and 227 — See Houses and Rents—Bihar Building (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (1947), S. 18A. A I R 1955 N U C (Pat) 2151.

——Art. 226 — Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 80, 81, 83, 90 (5), 100 (1) (b), 123 (vii) — Election petition — Charge of corrupt practice — Amendment by introducing fresh instances of corrupt practice—Order is essentially an interlocutory order—Appeal against if lies under S. 116A, Representation of the People Act—High Court will not interfere in writ proceeding. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 80. 65 Pun L R 324.

——Art. 226—Scope—High Court when would interfere at an interlocutory stage of proceedings—Notice under S. 22 (2), Income-tax Act calling upon assessee to file return — Objection by assessee without filing return — Threat to proceed ex parte — Quashing of notice by a writ — Held writ petition could not be thrown out as incompetent without hearing the Petitioner—No cogent ground in the instant case for bypassing the prescribed procedure and for holding enquiry. (1962) 46 I T R 436: A I R 1962 Punj 41 (42, 43, 44) (Prs 5, 9).

——Art. 226—Writs in pending cases.

Where the points raised in a petition under Art. 226 have also been raised by the petitioners in a dispute referred to the Labour Court and that Court is properly seized of the matter, the High Court will not interfere under Art. 226. (1962-63) 23 F J R 200 (Punj).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Interlocutory orders—Interference.

Interference with interlocutory orders passed in the course of removal proceedings would be productive of nothing but mischief and the Court would be extremely reluctant to issue writ of certiorari. 58 Punj L R 512 : ILR (1957) Punj 198 : AIR 1957 Punj 42 (45) (Pt F) (Pr 16) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1958 S C 36].

——Art. 226 — Another remedy taken and pending.

Applicant already seeking remedy by way of appeal under Act against order — Appeal pending — He cannot resort to Art. 226. (1922) 8 Tax Cas 327 ; A I R 1951 Punj 1, Relied on. I L R (1953) T C 173 : A I R 1953 Trav Co 296 (298) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Habeas Corpus — Writ in pending cases — Question of illegal detention under S. 167, Cr. P. Code sub-judice — Matter cannot be decided in proceedings for habeas corpus — Cr. P. Code (1898), Ss. 491, 167 and 55. 1961 (2) Cr L J 588 : AIR 1964 Tripura 57 (59) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10).

89. Personally aggrieved.
See Note 6.

90. Powers of High Court.
See Notes 69 and 79.

91. Powers of Supreme Court and High Court.
See Note 13.

92. Power of Supreme Court under Art. 32.
See Note 12.

93. Premature writs.
See also Notes 88 and 175.

■ ——Art. 226 — Lock-out and closure — Distinction — No industrial dispute in respect of closure — Employer can move High Court at initial stage of proceedings before Industrial Tribunal regarding jurisdiction of Industrial Tribunal — Normally such question to be decided by the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947), S 2 (k). Management of Express Newspapers (Private) Ltd. v. The workers, (1963) 3 S C R 548 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 227 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 205 : (1962-63) 23 F J R 1 : A I R 1963 S C 569 (573, 574, 575) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 14, 15).

——Arts. 226, 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) — Infringement of fundamental right — Who can apply under Art. 226 — Title to hold property in dispute and subject of adjudication — Complaint about infringement of right to hold property is premature - Bihar Land Reforms Act (1 of 1950), S. 4 (b).

Before a party can complain of an infringement of his fundamental right to hold property he must establish that he has title to that property and if his title itself is in dispute and is the subject of adjudication in proceedings legally constituted, for example an enquiry under S. 4 (h) of the Bihar Land Reforms Act (1 of 1950), he cannot put forward any claim based on his title until as a result of that enquiry he is able to establish his title. It is only thereafter that the question whether his rights in or to that property have been improperly or illegally infringed could arise. (1962) 2 Ker L R 19 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 831 : 1962 B L J R 654 : A I R 1963 S C 516 (518) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 - Premature petition — Potential threat not enough — Land of petitioners acquired under U. P. Acquisition of Property (Flood Relief) Temporary Powers Act — Orders for compensation not issued — Provision of Act cannot be challenged on ground of inadequacy of compensation — Government of India Act (1935), S. 299.

Where no orders have been passed in respect of compensation, the Bhumidars, whose plots have been acquired under the U. P. Acquisition of Property (Flood Relief) Temporary Powers Act cannot challenge the validity of the first Proviso to S. 9 (1) of the Act, by way of a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution, on the ground that no provision for adequate compensation, as contemplated by S. 299 of the Government of India Act, 1935, has been made in the said proviso. Even though the petitioners are able to show that there is a potential threat to the invasion of their rights, their petitions are still liable to be dismissed. Potential threat cannot be the cause of action for a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution and the appropriate time for such a petition can be only after the right has already been invaded. Moreover, a declaratory relief under Art. 226 cannot be granted. AIR 1951 S C 41 and AIR 1953 Cal 187 and AIR 1959 All 57, Rel. on. A I R 1962 All 606 (609, 610) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Premature petition — Notice of suspension from service is issued by competent authority under R. 4 and final action by President under R. 3 is only consequential — Writ petition challenging validity of notice is not premature — Central Civil Service (Safeguarding of National Security Rules (1953), Rr. 3, 4.

Rule 4 itself postulates the competent authority to issue a notice in writing and the action which the President can take under R. 3 must necessarily be consequential to such a notice. The mere fact that the ultimate order is required to be passed by the President after taking into consideration the representation of the Government servant concerned, does not come in the way of the petitioner seeking relief in High Court if he can show that the notice under R. 4 is bad on any valid ground.

Where the notice under R. 4 nowhere stated that the President had formed an opinion that the petitioner was reasonably suspected to be engaged in subversive activities; and as the notice showed that it was the competent authority who had taken the initiative to issue such notice, and who had intiated action against the petitioner, the writ petition even if filed before final action is taken by the President under R. 3, cannot be considered as premature. Special Civil Appln. No. 317 of 1961 (Bom), Foll. 1963 Mah L J 15 : 65 Bom L R 48 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 459 : ILR (1963) Bom 425 : AIR 1965 Bom 59 (62) (Pt D) (Prs 10, 11) (DB).

——Art. 228 — Premature writ — Show-cause notice under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act — Objection that facts stated therein do not amount to offence under S. 167 (8) — Cannot be raised by writ application — Customs authorities have jurisdiction to decide it.

Where the Assistant Collector of Customs issued a show-cause notice to the petitioner to show cause why penalty should not be imposed upon the petitioner being a person concerned in the offence of unauthorised importation under S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act and the petitioner filed a writ petition on the ground that the matter did not come within the purview of S. 167 (8), Sea Customs Act and as such the show-cause notice and the proceedings initiated thereby were without jurisdiction :

Held, that the writ application was entirely premature and ought not to be entertained at that stage. AIR 1957 Cal 608, Rel. on. 1961 (2) Cri L J 635 : AIR 1961 Cal 616 (619) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Premature application — (Calcutta Improvement Act (5 of 1911), S. 78A).

Sub-section (1) of S. 78A, Calcutta Improvement Act is severable from sub-s. (2) and therefore where the real grievance of the party is against sub-s. (2), he will be entitled to raise objection when proceedings for the assessment of a betterment fee are actually initiated. If he succeeds in establishing that S. 78A (2) is unconstitutional and therefore invalid, the mere inclusion of the land under S. 78A (1) will in no way affect his position. But so far as the inclusion of the property in the area marked out for a betterment fee and the operation of S 78A (1) are concerned he cannot raise any question of an invasion of the fundamental right. ILR (1959) 1 Cal 175 : AIR 1957 Cal 578 (582, 583) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Right to apply under.

It is immpossible to lay down the proposition that a citizen whose right to property under Art. 19 (1) (f) is threatened by the State, must wait until the police or military arrive and throw him out. AIR 1956 Cal 437 (441, 442) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Maintainability — Application under S. 42 of Wakf Act (1954)—Wakf Board has jurisdiction to go into question—Application under Art. 226 premature.

Where there is a dispute as to the propriety or validity of the removal of the petitioner from mutavalliship and the appointment of another person to the post, S. 42 is attracted. The High Court is not at the stage of writ petition concerned with the question whether the allegations in the petition before the Board are well founded. What is necessary to note is that there obviously is a dispute as to the alleged appointment of the other person as mutavali. The Board will, therefore have prima facie jurisdiction to go into the question, whatever may be its decision on merits. Therefore, the petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution is premature. AIR 1963 Mad 132 (133) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 226 and 311—Scope — Disciplinary action against Civil servant — Interference.

A notice calling upon the petitioner to show cause why disciplinary action should not be taken against him for leaving the headquarters during the period of suspension is an enquiry of an ordinary disciplinary character, and so long as no action has been taken against him, it would not be proper to act in exercise of the extraordinary powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1957 Nag L J 75: 1957 M P L J (Nag) 115.

——Arts. 226, 310 and 311—Certiorari — Railway servants—Misconduct — Departmental enquiry — Nature of — Not quasi-judicial but administrative—No Certiorari to quash report of Enquiry Committee—Show cause notice on basis of report of Enquiry Committee—Final orders not passed — Application for certiorari to quash proceedings premature.

The Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules as well as the rules embodied in the Railway Establishment Code are all administrative rules, and any committee appointed to enquire into the allegations of misconduct against railway servant cannot be regarded as a statutory body, but an administrative body. AIR 1954 SC 375 and AIR 1958 S C 300 and AIR 1958 SC 36 and AIR 1959 S C 107 and AIR 1950 SC 222, Rel on. No duty is cast by a legislature upon such a committee to determine or decide facts judicially. Its function is merely advisory, and it may record its opinion in order to furnish fuller information to the authority empowered to punish the civil servant. The report of such a committee is nothing but a mere expression of opinion.

Three courses are open to the authority empowered to punish a civil servant, namely, (1) it may accept the report as correct and base its decision thereon; (2) where the proceedings have been duly conducted, and there is no denial of reasonable opportunity nor infringement of the rule of natural justice, but the opinion expressed by the committee is, in its view, not correct, it may come to a different decision, and (3) where the proceedings have not been duly conducted, it may direct fresh enquiry or itself hear the case. All these courses are open to the authority concerned, and unless and until the final order imposing penalty on the civil servants is passed, they can have no grievance. It is thus manifest that, before the final orders are passed the petitions under Art. 226 for a writ of certiorari are wholly misconceived and, premature. The report of the Enquiry Committee, therefore is not open to review even where the members have been biased or likely to be biased. AIR 1959 S C 107 and AIR 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1958 SC 36, Rel. on.

An order of the authority calling upon the civil servant to show cause against the proposed punishment is not a final order and is still inconclusive and therefore does not fall within the purview of certiorari. If the report of the Enquiry Committee is vitiated and the authority empowered to punish the civil servant bases its decision upon that report without further consideration, the order of the authority concerned is indeed a judicial order and if made in contravention of Art. 311 of the Constitution, process of certiorari may issue to quash such orders. Until that stage is reached, the affected civil servants, have no right to come to the High Court at intermediate stage and ask it to quash the order either on the ground of denial of reasonable opportunity, or on the ground of violation of natural justice, or for any other reason. 1928 A C 586 and AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1957 Andh Pra 414 and 1958 Andh Pra 636, Disting.

It is not however the privilege of a civil servant proceeded against to require production of all documents, relevant or irrelevant, and, if not produced, to complain that they were not given any real and effective opportunity of meeting any relevant allegations made against them. What the law requires is that the evidence, oral or documentary, which forms the basis of the decision must be made available to the delinquent civil servants. AIR 1959 Pat 382, Disting. AIR 1963 Pat 38 (42, 43, 44, 45, 46) (Pt B) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 14) (DB).

94. Prerogative writs.

— Art. 226 — Origin and history of prerogative writs in England stated. AIR 1962 All 551 (557, 558) (Pt D) (Prs 32, 35).

● ——Art. 226 - History and origin of high prerogative writs traced. Bhailal Jagdish v. Additional Deputy Commissioner Akola. ILR (1952) Nag 839: 1952 Nag L J 613 : AIR 1953 Nag 89 (108, 109) (Pt F) (Prs 107, 109) (FB).

95. Presentation of petition.
See Note 11.

96. President, writ against.
See Note 54.

97. Private person, writ against.
See Note 5 (a).

98. Procedure.
(a) Affidavit.
See Note 11.
(b) Civil P. C., applicability of.
See Note 22.
(c) Delay in applying.
See Note 35.
(d) Form of prayer.
See also Note 58.
(e) Intervener.
(f) Joint application.
See Note 11.

(g) New point, new plea, new case and new grounds.
(i) Point not taken in grounds.
(ii) Point raised during argument.
(iii) Point depending on facts.
(iv) Prejudice to opposite party.
(v) Point abandoned or not pressed.
(vi) Point of law.
(vii) Point of jurisdiction.
(viii) New case
(ix) Plea not available earlier.
(x) Point not raised at preliminary hearing.
(h) Notice and hearing.
(i) Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C.
See also Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80.
(j) Parties.
See Note 87.
(k) Presentation of petition.
See Note 11.
(l) Proceedings, whether suit.
See Note 79.
(m) Preliminary issues.
(n) Res judicata.
See Notes 105, 114, 213 and 216.
(o) Review.
See Note 108.
(p) Rules of High Court.
(q) Return by respondent.
(r) Abatement.

98(a). Affidavit.
See Note 11.

98(b). Civil P. C., applicability of.
See Note 22.

98(c). Delay in applying.
See Note 35.

98(d). Form of prayer.
See also Note 56.

—Art. 226—Statement of reliefs.

A party seeking relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution should precisely state what writ, order or direction it is that he seeks for redressing a wrong which affects him personally. Otherwise the application is liable to be dismissed on the simple ground that the reliefs asked for are neither precisely nor intelligibly stated. 1954 Cri L J 691 : I L R (1955) 1 All 25 : AIR 1954 All 319 (322) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Applicability — Nature of relief claimed to be specifically stated.

Per Mehrotra, J. — The remedy provided under Art. 226 of the Constitution is an extra-ordinary remedy available to a citizen and it is essential that the direction or the relief which the petitioner is seeking should be clearly and specifically mentioned in the petition. Dharmeshwar Kalita v. A. Ahmed. (1960) 1 Assam L R 268 : AIR 1961 Assam 158 (160) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (SB).

—Art. 226—Pleadings—Contents of petition.

What is the right of the petitioner which has been infringed and for the enforcement of which the petitioner moves the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution has got to be clearly stated in the petition. It is further necessary to clearly specify the nature of the direction which the petitioner desires the High Court to issue so as to give an opportunity to the opposite party to meet the contentions of the petitioner. The duty of the petitioner is not discharged by simply asking the Court to issue some sort of direction which the Court thinks proper under Art. 226 of the Constitution. If the intention of the petitioner was to pray for a writ in the nature of certiorari quashing the orders passed by the different authorities reducing him in rank, that prayer should be specifically mentioned. A I R 1959 Assam 112 (114, 115) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (DB).

—Art. 226 — Mere mention of Article in petition does not make out case for issue of writ. 1953 Cri L J 495 : I L R (1954) 4 Assam 320 : AIR 1953 Assam 61 (62) (Pt b) (Pr 4).

— Art. 226 — Procedure — Order of externment under S. 57, Bombay Police Act — Appeal dismissed by Government — Petition under Art. 226 challenging order of Deputy Commissioner of Police — Validity.

(Obiter) Where an order of externment is made by the Deputy Commissioner of Police under S. 57, Bombay Police Act, 1951, and the appeal to the Government of Bombay against that order is rejected, the order of the Deputy Commissioner of Police is really merged in the order made on appeal to the Government of Bombay and therefore the petitioner under Art. 226 challenging the order of externment should pray for setting aside the order of the Government of Bombay. A I R 1956 Bom 582 (583) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

—Arts. 32, 226 — Breach of fundamental rights — Prayer for wrong writ.

Whatever principles may apply when a mandamus is sought, entirely different considerations would apply when the question is of enforcing fundamental rights, and there is no doubt—and there can be no doubt—that the High Court has been given the widest powers of issuing any order, any direction or any writ under Art. 226 appropriate to the occasion and the situation which would safeguard the fundamental rights of a citizen or any person affected by the violation or contravention of fundamental rights. An application under Art. 32 cannot be thrown out simply on the ground that the proper writ or direction has not been prayed for. A I R 1951 S C 41, Rel. on. ('53) 4 STC 10 : 55 Bom L R 246 (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1953 S C 252.]

—Art. 226—Pleadings—Relief.

Where the Central Government, in exercise of the powers conferred by S. 6 (1) of Act 41 of 1955 and S. 10 (1) (b) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, made a reference of certain industrial disputes for adjudication, the orders of reference are not judicial orders and certainly cannot be set aside by a writ of mandamus. The appropriate form should be to ask for a writ in the nature of certiorari quashing the reference and the proceedings and for a writ in the nature of mandamus on the respondents directing them to forbear from proceeding with the reference. A I R 1958 Cal 297 (300) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

—Art. 226—"Directions, orders or writs"—Effect of.

The prayers of a petition under Art. 226 should be as specific and definite as they can be, but the application of the petitioner cannot be thrown out simply on the ground that the proper writ or direction has not been prayed for. AIR 1951 S C 41, Foll. 57 Cal W N 122 : AIR 1953 Cal 520 (521, 522) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

—Art. 226—Prayers under.

Very often prayers in petitions are couched as follows: "The Court may be pleased to grant such writs as it may think fit within Art. 226 of the Constitution." The prayers must be specific, the prayers must be precise. Necessarily the prayers must depend on the writs asked for. They must be specified with exactitude and clarity. A I R 1936 P C 269, Rel. on. 1951-20 I T R 400 : 56 Cal W N 232 : AIR 1952 Cal 901 (603) (Pt C) (Prs 11, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—Procedure—Powers under, are not trammelled by procedural niceties of English Law—Petitioner asking for particular kind of writ instead of a different kind of writ—High Court can mould remedy to circumstances of the case. 1959 Ker L J 1425 : 1960 Ker L T 85 : A I R 1960 Ker 229 (231) (Pt C) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Application for writ — Prayer must be specific and precise — General words "as the Court may be pleased to grant such writs as it may think fit" should be avoided. A I R 1952 Cal 601, Rel. on. ILR (1953) Madh B 24 : A I R 1953 Madh B 54 (55, 56) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

■ ——Art. 226 — Compliance with S. 4 of Abducted Persons Recovery and Restoration Act — Allegations vague in petition — Objection as to compliance, was not entertained. Sohan Singh v. The State, 1955 Cri L J 50 : A I R 1955 Pepsu 1 (3) (Pr 6) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Form of prayers in writ application.

There is no doubt that in writ petitions the petitioner should come to Court with a clear case and definite allegations. A I R 1954 All 319, Rel. on.

But even where the petitioner has asked for other writs besides the writ of mandamus, the High Court has ample power and very wide discretion in the matter of framing writs to suit the exigencies of the particular case, and the application of the petitioner cannot be thrown out simply on the ground that the proper writ or direction has not been prayed for. A I R 1951 S C 41 and A I R 1953 Cal 520, Rel. on. A I R 1956 Tripura 9 (12) (Pt A) (Pr 13).

98 (e). Intervener.

■ ——Art. 32 — Practice — Petition under Art. 32 of the Constitution — Counsel for intervener—Normally not allowed a right of reply. Kherbari Tea Co., Ltd. v. State of Assam, (1964) 2 S C A 319 : A I R 1964 S C 925 (930, 931) (Pt L) (Pr 3).

98 (f). Joint application.

See Note 11.

98 (g). New point, new plea, new case and new grounds.

(i) Point not taken in grounds.
(ii) Point raised during arguments.
(iii) Point depending on facts.
(iv) Prejudice to opposite party.
(v) Point abandoned or not pressed.
(vi) Point of law.
(vii) Point of jurisdiction.
(viii) New case.
(ix) Plea not available earlier.
(x) Point not raised at preliminary hearing.

98 (g). New point, new plea, new case and new grounds.

■ ——Art. 226—Procedure—Petition by a company against order of Sales-tax Officer under S. 8 (3) (b) of Central Sales-tax Act — High Court cannot deal with matters never in issue.

In writ petition by a company against the order of the Sales-tax Officer under S. 8 (3) (b) read with R. 13 it is not open to the High Court to expand the scope of the petition challenging the correctness of that order, and to deal with matters which were never in issue or to decide that other categories of goods which the Sales-tax Officer had not ordered to be deleted did not fall within the terms of S. 8 (3) read with R. 13. J. K. Cotton Spinning and Weaving Mills, Co., Ltd. v. Sales-tax Officer, Kanpur, (1965) 16 S T C 563 : A I R 1965 S C 1310 (1312) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

■ ——Art. 226—New point.

Where the appointment of the respondent No. 2, by the respondent No. 1, (University) as a reader was challenged only on the ground that the respondent No. 2, did not have the qualifications advertised for the post and no attempt was made to show that the appointment was illegal on the ground of statutory provisions and the High Court issued a writ of quo warranto quashing the appointment on the grounds alleged, without considering the statutory provision, in an appeal against the orders of the High Court to the Supreme Court, it would not be open to the petitioner to take a ground about the effect of the statutory rules and ordinances, for the first time. University of Mysore v. C. D. Govinda Rao, (1964) 1 S C W R 44 : A I R 1965 S C 491 (495) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

■ ——Art. 32—Scope of inquiry—New case.

The case of the petitioner was referred to the Commission under the provisions of S. 5 (4) of the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act and was not referred to the Commission by the Central Government under the provisions of S. 5 (1).

Held, that being so, an enquiry into the validity of S. 5 (1) was really outside the scope of the present case. Surajmal Motha and Co. v. A. V. Visvanatha Sastri, 1954 S C J 611 : 1954 S C A 743 : 67 Mad L W 759 : (1954) 26 I T R 1 : (1955) S C R 448 : A I R 1954 S C 545 (551) (Pt A) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — New point — Point not raised before subordinate authorities—No hard and fast rule about not allowing it to be raised for the first time in writ petition—Point sought to be raised going to the root of the matter—Point not requiring further inquiry—No prejudice caused to opposite parties — Point can be allowed to be raised.

There is no hard and fast rule that a new ground of attack is not permissible in the writ petitions. It depends on facts and circumstances of each case. Ground raising a question which goes to the root of the matter as to jurisdiction or power of an authority, whose acts or orders have been brought up before the High Court in a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution, can be allowed to be raised if it otherwise, does not require any further enquiry and no prejudice is thereby caused to the opposite parties at the hearing. 1965 All W R (HC) 716.

——Art. 226 — Application in respect of claims filed before Consolidation Courts — Opposite party raising no objection in lower Courts that the application is barred under S. 34 (5) of U. P. Land Revenue Act (1901) — High Court will not entertain objection for the first time in writ proceedings. 1964 All W R (H C) 593 : A I R 1964 All 424 (424, 425) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226 — Assessment proceedings—Objections cannot be raised for the first time in writs. AIR 1963 All 446 (446) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—New point.

While exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226, High Court, does not and cannot usurp the functions of a Court of Appeal and for that reason cannot permit the party to raise a fresh point for the first time before it. Even otherwise, the High Court can presume that a point not raised before the subordinate authorities had been given up as being without any substance. A I R 1961 All 169 (170) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — New point — Court will not entertain a fresh point in a writ petition, when it was not raised before the Board of Revenue. 1961 All W R (HC) 121 : 1961 All L J 87.

——Arts 226 and 227 — New plea — Plea of mixed question of law and fact — Question whether document was duly registered under U. P. Tenancy Act so as to be admissible in evidence not raised in Courts below cannot be raised in proceeding under Arts. 226 and 227. ILR (1958) 2 All 652 : 1958 All L J 565 : 1958 All W R (HC) 664 : A I R 1959 All 13 (14) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea.

A new point raised for the first time in an application under Art. 226, requiring determination of the questions of fact will not be entertained. 1957 All L J 548 : 1957 All W R (HC) 487.

——Art. 226—New plea

Where the plea that the Standing Orders were not applicable, was not taken before either of the inferior Tribunals, i.e., the Industrial Tribunal or the Labour Appellate Tribunal, it cannot be raised in the applications under Art. 226. (1957) 1 Lab L J 603 : ILR (1957) 1 All 109 : A I R 1956 All 644 (653) (Pt L) (Pr 51) (DB).

——Art. 226—Preamble—New point.

The grounds which are not taken in the writ petition nor before the Commissioner whose order is impugned cannot be raised at the time of hearing the petition. A I R 1963 Andh Pra 292 (295) (Pt D) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Point not raised before Returning Officer, District Judge and in petition — Could not be raised at the time of hearing of the petition — Election. (1962) 1 Andh L T 356 : (1962) 1 Andh W R 149.

——Art. 226—New plea—Plea of legality of assessment not raised at any stage — Maintainability in writ petition.

Section 44, I. T. Act as it stood in 1950 seems to proceed upon the footing that on the dissolution of a firm or an association of persons, the firm or the association, as such cannot be assessed and that the procedure would be to assess the partners or the persons as the case may be jointly and severally. The assessee firm did not, at the stage of its assessment as such or in the further appellate stage before the Appellate Assistant Commissioner or the Tribunal, raise the point that it was a dissolved firm by virtue of S. 41 (b), Partnership Act, and as such the assessment on the dissolved firm was illegal in view of S. 44, Income-tax Act as it stood in 1950. When proceedings were taken for the recovery of arrears of tax and penalty from the assessee firm, the latter applied under Art. 226 of the Constitution for a writ of prohibition on the ground that the assessment was illegal :

Held, that the duty of proving the basic fact of the dissolution and discontinuance of business rested upon the petitioner. Having regard to the conduct of the petitioner he was not entitled to raise that question. AIR 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. (1961) 43 I T R 344 : AIR 1961 Andh Pra 253 (254, 255, 256) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 18, 21).

——Art. 226 — New plea— Objection based on non-compliance with Art. 166 of the Constitution not raised before labour Court · Held, petitioner could not raise objection before High Court. AIR 1927 Mad 130 (FB), Rel. on. (1960) 1 Fac L J 494 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 599 : A I R 1960 Andh Pra 556 (559) (Pt D) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226—New point — Case under Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57.

Point that petitioner had no right to apply for route permit and consequently he was not a party aggrieved by the grant of permit in favour of opposite party not raised before Regional Transport Authority or Central Road Traffic Board or State Government—Point not even raised in counter-affidavit filed in proceedings under Art. 226—High Court refused to permit the opposite party to raise question for the first time. 1955 Andh L T (Civil) 831 : 1956 Andh W R 652 : A I R 1957 Andh Pra 739 (742) (Pt D) (Pr 16).

——Art 226—Validity of order made or executed by Governor—Bar of judicial enquiry—Writ proceedings—Plea as to validity cannot be allowed to be raised for first time at the stage of argument. See Ibid. Art. 166 (1). AIR 1962 Assam 88 (DB).

——Art. 226—New point—(Sales Tax — Assam Sales Tax Act (14 of 1947), S 3

A question of fact not urged before any of the taxing officers in proceedings under the Assam Sales Tax Act cannot be urged in support of a prayer for a writ. AIR 1956 Assam 66 (72, 73) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Question not raised as contemplated by S. 5, Assam Sales Tax Act — Petition under Art. 226 — Petitioner cannot have any advantage of S. 5 at that stage—(Sales Tax—Assam Sales Tax Act (14 of 1947), S. 51). A I R 1956 Assam 66 (73) (Pt D) (Pr 17) (DB).

——Art. 226—New point not allowed.

Where the plea, that the Government plot was sold by the Rehabilitation Authority by inviting tenders and not by public auction as required under R. 39 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules, and that the sale, therefore, was illegal was not raised by the claimant either in his application or in appeal or in revision, he was not allowed to raise that point for the first time in writ petition. 67 Bom L R 470 : 1965 Mah L J 631 : AIR 1966 Bom 58 (54) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—New point.

In exercise of its writ jurisdiction, the High Court is only entitled to find out whether there is any error apparent on the face of the record. The petitioner will not be allowed to argue an entirely new point which was never canvassed before the Tribunal which has not been dealt with by them and in respect of which it cannot be said that there is an error apparent on the face of the record. 59 Bom L R 846 : ILR (1957) Bom 874.

——Art. 226—New point—Petitioner cannot be allowed to put forward cause of action which has not been pleaded. AIR 1964 Cal 539 (542, 543) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—New point.

A plea of contravention of Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution not taken in the writ petition, nor in the memorandum of appeal preferred from the order made in the writ petition will not be allowed to be urged in appeal. I L R (1960) 2 Cal 886 : (1960) 11 S T C 47 : AIR 1960 Cal 424 (426) (Pt E) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea.

Where the petitioner never took the point that he continued to be a member of the West Bengal Police Force and the Deputy Commissioner of Police, Enforcement Branch Calcutta, could not dismiss him and on the contrary, he alleged that the Deputy Commissioner should himself have drawn up the proceedings and heard the matter.

Held, that it was too late to raise the point that the Deputy Commissioner of Police had no authority over the petitioner at all, in the writ proceedings. ('58) 62 Cal W N 437.

——Art. 226—New plea.

If it is open to a party to raise a point before a Tribunal whose order is being challenged but if such point is not raised at all before the Tribunal, the party should not be allowed to challenge the order by agitating the point in a proceeding for the issue of a writ. AIR 1954 Bom 202, AIR 1952 All 489 and AIR 1953 Mad 105, Rel. on.

Hence, where the petitioner whose application for permit has been refused by the R. T. A. does not raise certain points before the Appellate Authority in an appeal against the order, he would be precluded from attacking the order of R. T. A. on any such points in his application under Art. 226. ILR (1958) 1 Cal 486 : 61 Cal W N 726 : A I R 1957 Cal 638 (643) (Pt D) (Pr 17).

——Art 226 — New point — Petition under Art. 226 for setting aside notification under Ss. 4 and 6, Land Acquisition Act — Point that delegation of authority on Commissioner issuing notification, under Art 258 (1) was invalid because it contravened Art. 77—Cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time if not urged anywhere, in the petition. (1963) 4 Guj L R 405 : AIR 1963 Guj 80 (82) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art 226—New plea—Petition for quashing order of Custodian General passed on a review petition — Plea that opposite party had no locus standi to file review petition—Plea not taken in review proceedings —Plea cannot be allowed to be taken in writ petition. AIR 1960 J & K 125 (126) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—New plea—Point of limitation not raised before Custodian-General whose order is attacked —Point cannot be allowed to be raised in writ proceedings especially when it is mixed question of law and fact. A I R 1960 Jand K 119 (121, 122) (Pt C) (Pr 11).

——Art. 226—New Plea — Retrospective amendment of provisions of law—Plea based on amended provisions not taken in appeal and revision before tribunal because amendment had not been effected at the time — Plea cannot be taken in writ proceedings —Interpretation of Statutes—Change of law with retrospective effect — Retrospectivity is for all legal purposes — Interpretation of Statutes — Retrospectivity.

Where an order for eviction was made by the Rent Control Court on 12-2-1960 under the Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act 1959 against the tenant and after an appeal and revision filed by the tenant against that order was dismissed the tenant filed a writ petition and during the pendency of the writ an amendment to the Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act was introduced with retrospective effect from 3-4-1959 and the tenant thereupon contended that the order made on 12-2-1960 was not in accordance with the amended provisions introduced with retrospective effect from 3-4-1959 and so was liable to be quashed:

Held that the non-observance of the provisions of the Act as amended was not complained of by the tenant in the appeal or revision filed by him and since a plea not taken before the concerned statutory tribunals cannot ordinarily be made the foundation of the complaint in a writ proceeding, the writ was liable to be dismissed. The retrospective amendment cannot be confined to find errors in the order of the Rent Control Court which were in accordance with the law existent at the time of their rendition but must extend to find abandonment of the plea available thereunder by the tenant when he preferred an appeal and sought revision of that order : AIR 1958 S C 878, Rel. on. 1963 Ker L T 688.

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Grounds to be stated in application — Case tendered by petitioner different from that set up in argument — Writ will be refused. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3872 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Procedure — Subject-matter of petition.

Per Newaskar J. and Tare J. (sitting as Division Bench).—Mere raising of grounds is not enough. It must appear that those grounds had been pressed. It is only the grounds proposed before the Tribunal and dealt with by it that can form the subject-matter of the petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution. Himat Singh Kubersingh v. Board of Revenue, Madhya Pradesh, A I R 1966 Madh Pra 43 48 (Pt B) (Pr 17) (FB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—New point—Writ proceedings challenging order of Appellate Authority under Motor Vehicles Act (1939) granting permit—Contention not raised before Appellate Authority, held could not be raised by respondent in defence—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Ss. 48 (1) Proviso and 64. 1964 Jab L J 637 : 1965 M P L J 41 : A I R 1965 Madh Pra 286 (287) Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Objection not taken before the Tribunal, cannot be allowed to be taken before High Court in writ proceedings.

One of the principles on which the High Court acts in granting the writ of certiorari ex debito justitiae is that the objection on which the petitioner relies should have been taken before the Special Tribunal. (1914) 1 K B 608 and A I R 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. 1964 M P L J (Notes) 168.

——Art. 226 — New plea — Objection not raised before Tribunal — It cannot be raised in a prayer for writ of certiorari

A petitioner cannot be permitted to rely upon an objection in support of his petition for the issuance of a writ of certiorari to quash the orders by a special Tribunal, if the objection was not pressed before the Special Tribunal. (1914) 1 K B 608, Rel. on. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 64.

——Art. 226 — New point — Point not raised before State Transport Authority in appeal — Cannot be raised in writ petition. 1959 M P L J (Notes) 103 : 1959 M P C 419 : 1959 M P L J 791 : A I R 1959 Madh Pra 320 (321) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea — Plea not taken before the tribunal—Effect.

The petitioner cannot be allowed to raise an objection to the jurisdiction of the Income-tax Officer to make a certain order when the objection had not been taken before the Income-tax Officer himself. 1957 M P C 338 : 1957 Jab L J 714 : (1957) 32 I T R 656 : (1957) M P L J 518 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 148 (151) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 3 and 6 (4) — Notification under S. 3 of Madras Act extending provisions of that Act to a charity — Petitioner in suit not objecting to validity of notice on ground that the charity was not exclusively confined to Hindus — Held, petitioner could not agitate that point, after dismissal or even second appeal filed by him in writ petition.

A notification was made by the State Government in 1958 under S. 3 of the Madras Act extending the provisions of that Act to the charitable endowment in dispute. The petitioner instituted a suit for a declaration that the notification was without jurisdiction. The suit was dismissed. Appeal arising therefrom also failed. Even a second appeal was dismissed by the High Court at the admission stage. The petitioner in the suit asked for a declaration that the impugned notification was without jurisdiction only on the ground that the property in question did not constitute a trust and if it did, the trust was a private one. No objection to the validity of the notification was raised in the suit on ground that the charity was not exclusively confined to Hindus and consequently it was not governed by the provisions of the Madras Act.

Held, the petitioner could not agitate that point by means of the petition under Art. 226. The impugned order was passed as early as 1958, and the writ petition was filed in 1962. Though in justification it may be said for the petitioner, that he had been agitating the matter in the suit, the petitioner could not have a double advantage namely, to have the delay condoned and at the same time, have the omission to take the point in the suit excused. (1965) 1 Mad L J 311 : I L R (1965) 2 Mad 505 : A I R 1965 Mad 416 (417) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4).

——Art. 226—New plea — Order of removal of petitioner from office of trustee passed by Deputy Commissioner and confirmed by Commissioner — Petitioner cannot be allowed to take for first time points which have not been taken before the authorities. 76 Mad L W 36 : (1963) 1 Mad L J 225 : 1963 Mad W N 275 : AIR 1963 Mad 205 (206) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 (1) — Prosecution under S. 15 (b), Madras General Sales tax Act — Accused taking out writ of certiorari for quashing proceedings — Contentions which can be raised—(Sales Tax — Madras General Sales-tax Act (9 of 1929), S. 12-A).

Where the petitioners who were being prosecuted under S. 15 (b) of the Madras General Sales Tax Act, took out a writ for quashing those proceedings on the ground that the Act and the Rules and the assessment made thereunder were void and that the prosecution was illegal :

Held, that the petitioners were duly served with notice under the Act and had ample opportunity of putting forward before the Tribunals constituted under the Act all contentions based on the provisions of the Act or the Rules. Not having done so, they could not be permitted to put forward in these proceedings contentions which were available to them before the Tribunals. The only pleas that were open to them were those which could not have been urged before the Tribunals, such as the plea that the Act is ultra vires which could not obviously be entertained by a Tribunal which owes its very existence to the Act. (1952) 3 S T C 367 : 1952 Mad W N 847 : 1952 Mad W N (Cri) 235 : (1952) 2 Mad L J 598 : 65 Mad L W 1030 : 1953 Cri L J 277 : AIR 1953 Mad 105 (107) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Constitution of India, Art. 226 (1).

Application for issue of writ of certiorari to quash order of Court — Particular objection not taken in Court nor in affidavit — Objection cannot be raised for first time in writ of certiorari. 1952 Mad W N 219 : 65 Mad L W 275 : 1952-1 Mad L J 472 : 1953 Cri L J 18 : A I R 1952 Mad 855 (855, 856) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 226—Procedure—New inconsistent grounds in course of arguments cannot be allowed.

The petitioner under Art. 226 cannot be allowed to traverse grounds in the course of the arguments which are totally inconsistent with the grounds set forth in his petition. A I R 1963 Manipur 28 (31) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—New plea — Proceedings under Motor Vehicles Act — Objection on ground of non-compliance with requirements of S. 63 (3) — Objection not raised before authorities under the Act—Urging of objection for the first time in writ proceedings is not permitted—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S 63 (3).

Where the stage carriage permit to operate on inter-regional route granted by the transport authority of one region, possessed the counter signature of the transport authority of another region, the objection against the validity of the permit on the ground that before making the counter signature the transport authority of another region had not followed the procedure required under the Act could not be urged for the first time if the same was not raised before the authorities under the Act. AIR 1963 Mys 329, Rel. on. (1964) 1 Mys L J 318 : AIR 1965 Mys 41 (43, 44) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Duty of each party to place before Court basic facts in support of his case—Contention based upon facts not stated in affidavit cannot be allowed to be raised at the stage of argument — Further opportunity to state facts not to be given.

In a petition under Art. 226, the contesting respondents cannot be allowed to raise a contention at the time of arguments, that the petition should be dismissed without going into the merits, where the basic facts relied upon in support of that contention have not been placed before Court by way of affidavit or other acceptable documentary evidence.

A party, who knew the facts and should have stated them in support of his case in the first instance, is not entitled to the indulgence of being given at that stage another opportunity to state facts which become or appear to be necessary in support of a contention raised by his counsel during the course of his arguments. (1963) 1 Mys L J 477 : A I R 1964 Mys 6 (8) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227 — New plea — Plea not raised before Election Tribunal.

Where a contention is not urged before the election tribunal and the contesting party had therefore no opportunity of meeting it, the petitioner cannot properly be allowed to canvass the contention in a petition either under Art 226 or Art. 227 of the Constition. 35 Mys L J 152 : ILR (1957) Mys 53 : A I R 1957 Mys 76 (77, 78) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New point—(Tenancy Laws — Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (24 of 1951), Ss. 8 and 19).

Where in proceedings under the Berar Regulation of Agricultural Leases Act (24 of 1951), the Deputy Commissioner confirms the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer disallowing costs and no point as to costs is taken before the Board of Revenue in appeal such a point cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time in the High Court in a writ petition. 1955 Nag L J 735 : ILR (1956) Nag 60 : AIR 1956 Nag 174 (175) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Ground not taken in petition.

It must be distinctly understood by litigants that the High Court has to examine the case only from the point of view of the challenge raised in the petition, and if no such challenge is raised, the High Court will not go out of its way to fish into the record to find out if there is or there is not some evidence in support of a particular finding. 1953 Nag L J 385 : ILR (1953) Nag 834 : AIR 1953 Nag 250 (250) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New point — Reference under S. 10, Industrial Disputes Act (1947) — Point that employee was governed by particular Rules not raised before Tribunal — Cannot be raised in writ proceedings — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10. ILR (1965) Cut 839 : (1965) 2 Lab L J 376.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — New plea — Cannot be allowed for the first time. 68 Punj L R 237 : 1966 Cur L J 1 (Punj).

——Art. 226 — Proceedings under — Scope of — Point not raised in lower Court — If can be raised on writ side.

Writ proceedings cannot be equated with appeals and, therefore, cannot be considered to amount to a re-hearing. A point not properly raised and canvassed before the lower tribunal can scarcely be permitted to be raised for the first time on writ side, particularly when it requires going into facts and circumstances of the controversy. (1963) 65 Pun L R 157 : (1962) 5 Fac L R 405 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 231.

——Art. 226 — Plea not taken before tribunal — (Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 10 (1)).

It is open to a bank to raise before the Industrial Tribunal the plea that the dismissal of its employees was in accordance with the principles laid down in the Sastry Award and, as such, it cannot be raised in a writ petition in the High Court. (1957-58) 13 F J R 425 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 107 : AIR 1958 Punj 14 (15) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — New plea — If open.

As a matter of practice no objection which was not raised in the subordinate tribunal can be allowed to be raised in the High Court in a motion for certiorari. ILR (1955) Trav-Co 1003 : AIR 1956 Trav-Co 174 (176) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New point.

Point not raised either in petition, affidavit or other papers filed — It cannot be allowed to be taken. ILR (1953) Trav-Co 173 : AIR 1953 Trav-Co 296 (297, 298) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Cannot be allowed.

In a writ proceeding challenging the order of the Labour Court passed on an application under S. 33-C (2), Industrial Disputes Act points which only an appellate Court can go into cannot be allowed to be raised. So also points which are not raised before the Labour Court cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time. AIR 1964 Tripura 32 (34) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9).

98 (g) (i). Point not taken in grounds.

●——Art. 226—Writ Petition—Necessity to adhere to allegations in petition or counter-affidavits - Central Provinces and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 38 — City of Jabalpur Corporation Act (M. P. Act 3 of 1950), S. 81 — Land transferred to Municipality by C. P. State Government — Power of successor State Government of M. P to resume.

Save in the exceptional cases, parties to a Writ Petition should be held strictly to their pleadings and if owing to discovery of new matter or grounds, there is need to add to or to modify the allegations either in the petition in or in the counter affidavit, the Court should insist on formal a nendments being effected, for this would enable each party to state its case with precision and definiteness and the other side would have a proper opportunity to know this case and meet it with appropriate defences. Where on the terms of the conveyance there was a grant by the Government of Central Provinces to a Corporation it is open to the successor Government (the State of Madhya Pradesh) to resume the grant under S. 38 (2) of the C. P. Municipalities Act, 1922. Having accepted the grant from the State Government the Corporation was estopped from contending that the land of which it continued in possession under that grant was not one by the State Government or that the State Government had not the authority to make the grant. The State Government could validly issue a notification under S. 81 of the City of Jabalpur Corporation Act (Madhya Pradesh Act, 3 of 1950), which repealed the Central Provinces and Berar Municipalities Act, 1922 divesting the Corporation of a strip of land in its possession under a grant by the predecessor State, Government of the Central Provinces. The Municipal Corporation v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, (1965) 2 S C J 197 : (1963) 2 S C R 135 : 1966 Jab L J 536: AIR 1966 SC 837 (840, 841) (Prs 7, 9, 10)

●——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Procedure — Plea not raised in petition or in the affidavit in its support but specifically taken up in affidavit-in-rejoinder — Respondent having full notice of it — Rejection of petition by High Court on the ground that the plea was raised for the first time at time of argument — Order held erroneous ILR (1962) Mad 449, Reversed Sri-la Sri Subramania v. State of Madras, 1965 S C D 918 : (1965) 2 S C J 711 : (1965) 2 Andh W R (SC) 167 : (1965) 2 Mad L J (SC) 167 : AIR 1965 S C 1578 (1582) (Pt B) (Pr 17).

● ——Arts. 226, 133 — New plea - Plea not raised by appellant in his petition under Art. 226 not allowed to be raised for first time in appeal. Associated Cement Co. v. P. D. Vyas, 1960 S C J 1269 : (1960) 2 S C R 974 : AIR 1960 S C 665 (668, 669) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

● ——Art. 32 — New plea.

Petitioner not allowed to urge grounds which he had not taken in the petition. Tropical Insurance Co., Ltd. v. Union of India, (1955) 2 SCR 517: 1956 SCA 131 : 1956 S C J 11 : (1955) 25 Com Cas 91 : AIR 1955 S C 789 (790) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

● ——Art. 32 — Objection not raised in petition cannot be permitted to be raised in argument. Bhikaji Narain v. State of M P., 1956 S C A 1: (1955) 2 SCR 589 : (1956) 1 Mad L J (SC) 37 : AIR 1955 S C 781 (786) (Pt B) (Pr 11).

[Held Overruled on another point by AIR 1959 S C 648 in AIR 1961 Mys 3.]

——Art. 226 — Point not raised in petition cannot be raised in arguments. AIR 1965 All 356 (364) (Pt H) (Pr 26).

——Art. 226 — Procedure — New point cannot be raised for the first time. 1965 All L J 1069.

——Art. 226 — Pleadings — Petitioner has to be confined to the pleas taken by him in the writ petition. AIR 1964 All 356 (357, 358) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

● ——Art. 226 — New point.

Points not raised in the application under Art. 226 cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time at the hearing. AIR 1955 S C 789 and AIR 1956 Pat 228, Rel. on. Sri Durga Gita Vidyalaya v. State of U. P., 1962 All L J 329 : 1962 All W R (HC) 243 : ILR (1962) 1 All 737 : AIR 1962 All 187 (191) (Pt A) (Pr 14) (FB).

● ——Art. 226 — Threat to legal right of party — Held that the right to obtain grant-in-aid for the institution from education department was a right different from the right to dismiss the principal of the Institution — The two rights were independent of and separate from each other, and a threat to one right could not in law constitute a threat to another — relief in respect of grant-in-aid not asked for in petition — Ambit of petition held could not be extended. Sri Durga Gita Vidyalaya v. State of U. P., 1962 All L J 329 : 1962 All W R (HC) 243 : ILR (1962) 1 All 737 : AIR 1962 All 187 (191) (Pt D) (Pr 14) (FB).

——Art. 226—Tribunal passing orders on footing urged - Orders not outside jurisdiction—Writ quashing those orders on new grounds cannot be issued. A I R 1952 S C 319; AIR 1952 S. C 192, Rel. on. 1952 All L J 703 : 1953 All W R (HC) 150 : AIR 1953 All 117 (118) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 – New plea – Notice under S. 7 (1), Administration of Evacuee Property Act - Contention that notice was defective and consequently no notice was issued —Point not taken in grounds of petition—If can be raised in argument – See Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 7 (1). AIR 1958 All 104 (105) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—New Plea – Contentions not found among the grounds on which relief was sought in the petition and no statement made in affidavit in support of petition—Contention raised for first time in rejoinder affidavit — Contention not entertained. Acarsh Bhandary. Sales Tax Officer, 1957 All L J 654 : (1957) 8 STC 666 : 1957 All W R (HC) 692 : A I R 1957 All 475 (482) (Pt J) (Pr 40) (FB).

——Art. 226—New point—Shifting of ground in petition, will not be allowed — New point will not be allowed. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2718 (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea.

It is not open to a petitioner under Art. 226 to advance a new plea for first time at the hearing of the petition. He should be confined to the objections put forward in the petition and cannot be permitted to travel beyond them. (1958) 2 An W R 598 : I L R (1958) Andh Pra 701 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 697 (700) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—No specific allegation in petition that there was no notification delegating the power under S. 3 of the Foreigners Act (1948) to the Superintendent of Police by the State Government — In the absence of a clear averment in the petition challenging the factum of delegation, it cannot be assumed that no such notification exists and High Court will not ask the respondents to prove the existence of such a notification. ILR (1963) 15 Assam 279 : AIR 1963 Assam 105 (106) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Petitioner cannot be allowed to depart from pleadings.

No party can be allowed to depart from the pleadings and to subsequently urge that the facts were not such as were mentioned in the petition. A I R 1956 Bhopal 43 (45) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 - New point.

A point not taken in the writ application and of which the respondent had no opportunity to meet with cannot be allowed to be raised at the time of arguments. 57 Bom L R 1088 : AIR 1956 Bom 368 (372) (Pt E) (Pr 21) (DB).

——Art. 226—Ground of objection not specifically set out in petition - Point cannot be allowed to be agitated AIR 1965 Cal 380 (385 to 387) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Question of fact not disclosed in petition —Point based on such question of fact cannot be allowed to be raised at hearing of application. (1961) 3 Fac L R 391 : AIR 1962 Cal 3 (4, 5) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—New plea.

Held, that it was not for petitioner under Art. 226 to make out a new case before the High Court and that too, in an affidavit filed at a late stage which the respondents were not bound to controvert. 1960 Ker L J 725 : 1960 Ker L T 636 : AIR 1960 Ker 378 (379) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Point not taken in petition but based on statement in return cannot be allowed.

In regard to applications for prerogative writs, the settled practice of English and American Courts is that no ground shall be relied upon or relief sought at the hearing of the motion except the grounds and relief set out in the application and a writ would be refused where the case tendered by the petition is radically different from that set up upon argument. The practice being one which only carries out the object with which a copy of the application for the issue of a writ is served on the opponent and he is called upon to show cause in respect of the grounds stated in the application, must be adopted as regards applications under Art. 226 also. The applicant cannot be permitted to argue and raise objection on the basis of an incidental statement in the return. 1953 Cr L J 1409 : AIR 1953 M B 236 (240) (Pt D) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art 226—Plea not raised in petition cannot be urged in the Court.

The Municipal Committee resolved to lease out plots to respondents. The petitioner challenged it before the High Court on the ground that the Committee could lease out only by public auction. The plea was not raised specifically in the petition.

Held, that the petitioners having failed to raise a specific plea were not entitled to challenge the resolution on that ground. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 219.

——Art. 226—New plea.

Ground not taken in the petition and which was not prima facie substantial, was not allowed to be raised. 1962 Jab L J 408 : 1959 M P L J 1070.

——Art. 226—New plea.

A new plea of fact which was not taken in the petition cannot be raised at the hearing of the petition. 1961 M P L J 1011 : 1961 M P C 734 : 1961 Jab L J 1327.

——Art. 226—New plea.

The petitioner will not be allowed to raise a ground for relief which he has not stated in the petition, during the course of the hearing. 1959 M P C 597 : 1960 Jab L J 181 : 1959 M P L J 534.

——Art. 226—Writ application — Point not taken in application cannot be allowed to be raised—Practice — Writ application. 1965 B L J R 924.

——Art. 226 – New plea—Plea as to want of publication of Regulations not raised in original application —Plea raised in supplementary affidavit after respondent made return to rule nisi—Respondent not having opportunity to meet it, plea cannot be entertained at stage of argument. 1965 B L J R 513.

[Reversed in AIR 1966 S C 707].

——Art. 226—Procedure — New point — Only vires of action under S. 46 (1) (2) of Income-tax Act (1922) attacked in petition — Vires of the section itself not challenged—Vires of the section cannot be allowed to be challenged during hearing – AIR 1951 S C 41 Foll. I L R (1965) 2 Punj 21 : (1965) 2 I T J 50 : AIR 1965 Punj 333 (335, 336) (Pt C) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Procedure — New point — Point not taken in petition cannot be taken at the time of arguments 67 Pun L R 572 : AIR 1965 Punj 307 (305) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226 – New point – Plea neither raised in writ petition nor even in replication cannot be allowed to be raised. 1965 Cur L J 3 : 67 Pun L R 144 : I L R (1965) 1 Punj 358 : AIR 1965 Punj 217 (219, 220) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Practice— Party not allowed to set up new case.

It is the general principle particularly in the matter of writ petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution that no party should be allowed to depart from his pleadings and set up a new case. 1965 Cur L J 810 : 68 Pun L R 93.

——Art. 226 – New plea — Proceedings under East Punjab Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act (L of 1948) – Plea that repartition had infringed the provisions of para. 2 of the scheme not raised in writ petition Petitioners held could not be permitted to raise it for the first time at the time of arguments especially when questions of fact were involved therein. (1965) 67 Pun L R 276.

——Art. 226 –Writ petition—Practice—Question not raised in petition cannot be permitted to be raised in course of argument. 65 Pun L R 754 : I L R (1963) 2 Punj 773 : A I R 1964 Punj 90 (99) (Pt H) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Notice under S. 210 of Income-tax Act (1961) to pay advance tax by 1-3-1963— Petitioner raised objections regarding date before Income-tax authorities — Authorities though found the objection incorrect, yet changed the date to avoid unnecessary controversy—Petitioner challenging the power of changing date—Objection not taken in writ petition but later on referred to in replication filed by petitioner — High Court will not interfere on this ground in writ proceedings. (1964) 66 Pun L R 972 : (1964) 2 I T J 624.

——Art. 226 –New point — Point not raised in petition cannot be allowed to be raised at stage of argument. 62 Punj L R 218 : A I R 1960 Punj 387 (387) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 –New point.

A new point when not raised in the writ petition cannot be permitted to be urged at the time of hearing. A I R 1960 Punj 58 (61, 62) (Pt D) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—New case.

A question that has not been made a ground in support of a petition under Art. 226 cannot be permitted to be taken at the stage of arguments. (1959) 35 I T R 584 (Punj).

——Art. 226 — Ground not taken in petition cannot be allowed to be raised at stage of arguments. 1962 Raj L W 197 : I L R (1961) 11 Raj 1214.

——Art. 226—Procedure—New grounds—Laches.

Where the ground that the petition suffered from laches has not been taken by the opponent State in their return, ordinarily the Court would not be inclined to permit that new ground to be taken. 9 Sau L R 62 : A I R 1956 Sau 14 (16) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application for writ — Admissibility of additional affidavits raising new grounds—(Civil P. C. (1908), O. 19, R. 1).

Additional affidavits raising new grounds to sustain a prayer for relief in an application for a writ are permitted in England. Order 19, Civil P. C. pertaining to trial of original suits no doubt does not apply as such to the trial of original petitions for writs in the High Court but there is no reason why the salutary provisions contained therein except as regards the cross-examination of deponents should not be followed in the enquiries in the High Court connected with petitions for writ. A I R 1956 Trav-Co 85 (41) (Pt F) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226 — Amendment by introducing new grounds.

No doubt, Cl. 2 of R. 11 of the Rules framed by the Travancore-Cochin High Court to regulate proceedings under Art. 226 the Constitution gives a discretion to the Court to permit an application filed under that section to be amended under justifiable circumstances. But that provision has to be read and understood in the light of the provision contained in Cl. 1 of R. 11. A relaxation of the rigour of Cl. 1 of R. 11 by permitting the amendment as contemplated by Cl. (2) can be thought of only under very exceptional circumstances of a compelling nature and any move in that direction by a party who has been indulging in obstructive and delaying tactics throughout with the least good faith on his part, has to be sternly discountenanced. 1954 Ker L T 278 : I L R (1954) Trav Co 189 : A I R 1954 Trav-Co 291 (297) (Pt D) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—New case.

Parties to proceedings under Art. 226 should be confined to matters mentioned in the affidavits as constituting the scope of the proceedings. I L R (1952) Trav Co 960 : A I R 1953 Trav-Co 146 (154) (Pt C) (Pr 18) (DB).

98 (g) (ii). Point raised during argument.

——Art. 226—New point.

Where a ground is not disclosed in the petition under Art. 226 the High Court will not allow it to be raised for the first time at the late stage of arguments unless the opposite party is given an opportunity of filing a further counter affidavit to meet that ground. 1953 All W R (H C) 474 : 1953 Cri L J 1855 : 1954 All L J 673 : A I R 1955 All 12 (19) (Pt I) (Pr 29) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1961 S C 14.]

——Art. 226—New point—Point not taken in petition and not urged during hearing of rule — Point discovered by petitioner in course of argument — Point, a jurisdictional one — Opposite party not inconvenienced nor seeking adjournment to consider the new point — The point was allowed to be raised. 70 Cal W N 280 : (1965) 2 Com L J 152 : A I R 1966 Cal 151 (165) (Pt L) (Pr 33).

——Art. 226—New point.

In the case of high prerogative writs new matters cannot be allowed to be introduced at the hearing. I L R (1955) 1 Cal 401 : 57 Cal W N 397 : A I R 1953 Cal 548 (558) (Pt I) (Pr 40).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Quo warranto — New grounds at time of argument—Permissibility.

Where the petition for a writ of quo warranto does not mention certain grounds and hence the respondents have no opportunity to meet them in their return, a last minute attempt to raise these new grounds for the first time at the time of argument cannot ordinarily be permitted. I L R (1957) Madh Pra 188 : 1962 M P L J (Notes) 5 : 1957 M P C 177 : 1957 Jab L J 170 : A I R 1957 Madh Pra 60 (63) (Pt C) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Application under, for issue of a writ of prohibition against Hindu Religious Endowments Board, Madras, prohibiting it from proceeding to frame a scheme for administration of Shirur mutt.

Objection that the Mutt in question is not really a public religious institution within the meaning of S. 1 (2) of Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act, 1951 raised for the first time in course of arguments before High Court — Objection, held could not be entertained at such late stage in absence of evidence on the point. 1952 Mad W N 299 : 1952-1 Mad L J 557 : A I R 1952 Mad 613 (631) (Pt F) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea, where towards the end of the arguments, an attempt was made to allege want of good faith against Government, the Court did not allow this belated plea which was raised after knowing the views of the Court on a part of the case. (1957) M P L J 1 (Nag).

——Art. 226 — New point of fact — Writ application filed long ago — Date of hearing fixed from time to time — New point of fact raised at date of final hearing, held could not be entertained, specially when affidavit in support of it did not disclose clearly when the applicants became aware of the information which was the basis ot the new ground. 19 Cut L T 103 : 1953 Cri L J 1041 : A I R 1953 Orissa 153 (154) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea at hearing—If open.

Where the points have not been raised in the application under Art. 226 they cannot be permitted to be raised for the first time at the hearing when the State had no opportunity to meet them. 1956 Pat L R 110 : A I R 1956 Pat 228 (231) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Procedure—Complaints against President and member to Government — Removal by Government — Objection that there was no proposal before Government—Objection could not be raised at the hearing as it was not raised in petition, being based on question of fact. See Municipalities—Punjab Municipal Act (3 of 1911), S. 16. I L R (1954) Patiala 265 : A I R 1954 Pepsu 186 (DB).

——Art. 226—New point by State—Propriety of.

In writ cases it is the duty of the State to put the correct position before the Court and then support the order that is challenged by the writ petition. The Court will not allow the State to take a new plea at the stage of argument, when the new point is inconsistent with one of the paras of its written statements. I L R (1958) Punj 36.

98 (g) (iii). Point depending on facts.

■——Art. 226 — New case — Petition challenging validity or order terminating service—Ground that it was dismissal by way of punishment not raised in lower Court or in petition — Being question of fact, it could not be raised in argument.

Where in a petition under Art. 226, an employee of a District Board challenged the validity of the order terminating his services on the ground firstly, that the Board had no power to terminate his employment and secondly that it was not justified in terminating the employment and it was never contended that the order terminating the employment was one in reality of the nature of dismissal as punishment, and the form used in the resolution of the Board was merely to camouflage the real object of the Board, and such a plea was also not raised in the lower Court but was sought to be raised at the time of argument.

Held, that averment in the petition that the Board had acted capriciously and without any justification does not amount to a plea that the order was intended to be one of dismissal though in form one of determination of employment. Held, further that as the question raised was one primarily of fact ; and was never raised, nor explored in the lower Court on proper pleadings, it would be taking the Board by surprise to allow the petitioner to make out this new case at this stage. The petitioner was therefore, not allowed to raise the question. S. R. Tewari v. District Board, Agra, (1964) 3 S C R 55 : 1964 All L J 944 : 1964 S C D 314 : ILR (1963) 2 All 883 : (1964) 2 S C J 300 : (1964) 1 Lab L J 1 : AIR 1964 S C 1680 (1689) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

■——Art. 32 — New plea — Plea depending upon elucidation of new facts — When to be allowed.

Ordinarily, when a question raised depends upon an elucidation of further facts not disclosed in the statements already filed, the Supreme Court in a petition under Art. 32 would be very reluctant to allow a party to raise such a plea at the time of arguments. But where the validity of the impugned Act (here Madras Act 32 of 1955) depends upon the application of Art. 31-A of the Constitution the Supreme Court would not be justified in not allowing the respondents to raise the contention that the petitioner's sthanam is an 'estate' within the meaning of Art. 31-A of the Constitution and therefore the Act extinguishing or modifying the rights pertaining to the said sthanam cannot be questioned on the ground that it infringes Arts. 14, 19 and 31 of the Constitution even though there is no sufficient material on the record. Kochuni v. States of Madras and Kerala, 1960 Ker L J 1077 : 1960 Ker L T (S C) 31 : (1960) 2 S C A 412 : (1960) 3 S C R 887 : (1961) 2 S C J 443 : AIR 1960 S C 1080 (1085, 1086) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

■——Art. 32 — New point.

It would not be right to permit the petitioner to raise question, which depends on facts which were not mentioned in the petition but were put forward in a rejoinder to which the respondents had no opportunity to reply. M. S. M. Sharma v. Sri Krishna Sinha, (1959) 2 M L J (S C) 125 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (S C) 125 : 1959 Mad L J (Cr) 660 : 1959 S C J 925 : (1959) Supp (1) S C R 806 : AIR 1959 S C 395 (412) (Pt I) (Pr 33).

——Art. 226 — "New plea as to question of fact cannot be raised"—AIR 1955 N U C (All) 1412.

——Art. 226 — New plea as to questions of fact.

The question whether there existed any Magisterial authority for detaining the applicant in custody after a certain date or not is a question of fact which cannot be permitted to be raised for the first time in argument. The applicant should have alleged it in the affidavit and given an opportunity to the opposite party to contest the allegation. ILR (1955) 1 All 355 : 1955 Cri L J 623 : AIR 1955 All 193 (198) (Pt F) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Plea involving investigation into facts not already on record—Plea cannot be raised for the first time at the hearing. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 292 (295) (Pt B) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New point — Question dependent on facts — Admissibility.

The determination of the question whether the Union constitutes an industry depends upon facts and those facts cannot, for the first time, be ascertained by the High Court. (1958) 1 Lab L J 17 : ILR (1958) Andh-Pra 183.

——Art. 226 — Question of fact.

Where the contention raised by the applicant for writ was one which was not raised before the lower authorities and which was one of fact requiring evidence for its disposal :

Held that the contention could not be allowed to be raised. (1957) 8 S T C 445 : 59 Bom L R 851 : 1957 Nag L J 369 : I L R (1958) Bom 961.

——Art. 226 — New point — Point not put forth in petition — If can be raised.

Ordinarily parties are not allowed to travel beyond what they have said in the petition or return, as the case may be, but where all the facts are clear on the record a party can raise a contention which is based on facts which are already on record though that contention is not expressly set up in the petition or return. 60 Bom L R 1446 : ILR (1959) Bom 592 : 1958 Nag L J 457 : AIR 1958 Bom 498 (505, 506) (Pt E) (Pr 37) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea at hearing.

The applicants for Prerogative Writs must come to Court with all the materials or grounds on which they want to rely in support of their applications. It would be extremely undesirable and in fact it would lead to a most unsatisfactory state of affairs if petitioners were allowed to raise new grounds involving new facts by supplementary affidavits put in at the hearing. 56 Cal W N 137 : AIR 1952 Cal 100 (101) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 16).

——Art. 226 — New grounds—Application against order of Labour Court — Grounds not taken before such Court and involving investigation of facts cannot be urged before High Court.

In a reference relating to the dismissal of a workman the management took up the plea that the Labour Court had no jurisdiction on the ground that the dispute in question was an individual dispute and the sponsoring of the cause of the workman by the general Union of which the workman was not a member, did not convert such dispute into an industrial dispute. The Union without pleading in the alternative that the dispute was an industrial dispute because it had been supported by a substantial body of workmen of the establishment in which the workman belonged, fought the case merely on the basis of their right to espouse the cause of the workman. Ultimately the Labour Court rejecting the claim of the Union adjudicated that the dispute in question was an individual dispute and not an industrial dispute.

Held, that the Union could not be allowed to raise that alternative plea for the first time in the writ application against the order of the Labour Court. No doubt the workman had the right to plead that there was the support by a substantial body of the workmen of the management and hence it was an industrial dispute. But when the management took up the position that it was not an industrial dispute, there was a duty on the part of the Union which was more or less taking defence to that plea to raise all grounds which would sustain its stand that it was not an individual dispute but really an industrial dispute.

It was competent for the Union to take before the Labour Court besides the plea taken by them in support of their contention that the dispute was an industrial dispute, an alternative plea that support had been given by a substantial body of workers of the establishment to which the dismissed workman belonged. Had they raised that plea, the facts as to how many employees of the management made the request to the Union concerned to take up the cause of the workman and whether they constituted a considerable body of the workmen of the management would have been investigated. But as the Union did not choose to raise that plea before the Labour Court, it would not be allowed to raise it for the first time in the writ petition. AIR 1965 Ker 171 (173, 174) (Pt B) (Prs 21, 22, 23).

——Art. 226—Preliminary objection as to maintainability—Dependent on pleading and investigation — Not taken by way of counter-affidavit — Objection not maintainable.

Where the preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the petition under Art. 226 by a Secretary of an Association of certain employers on the ground that he was not the personally aggrieved party, had not been taken by way of counter-affidavit and hence the petitioner had no opportunity to plead, whether or not under the rules and regulations of the Association, the petitioner had right to carry on a civil proceeding on behalf of the employers whom the Association represented and who were undoubtedly aggrieved parties and has a locus standi, the preliminary objection, being dependent on matters which required pleading and investigation, was not maintainable. (1960) 1 Lab L J 780 : 1960 Ker L T 563 : 1960 Ker L J 491.

——Art. 226 — New plea—Plea not taken in specific terms in counter-affidavit but necessary averments of facts set out — It can be urged. 1960 Ker L J 192 ; 1960 Ker L T 243.

——Art. 226 — Sales Tax — Question whether turnover exceeds taxable limit—Question of fact—Cannot be allowed for first time in writ petition. See Sales Tax — C. P. and Berar Sales Tax Act (21 of 1947), S. 11. AIR 1964 Madh Pra 161 (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea — Point involving question of fact.

It is not open to the petitioner to raise a new contention in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution, when the contention involves investigation of facts. 70 Mad L W 895 ; (1957-58) 13 F J R 159 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 438 ; (1958) 1 Lab L J 74 : AIR 1958 Mad 139 (141) (Pt B) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — New ground — Petition against order of Certificate Officer regarding arrest of managing director of incorporated company—Question whether company was incorporated and whether petitioner was its managing director was not raised before Certificate officer—Question being one of fact cannot be raised during hearing of writ petition. 1965 B L J R 341.

——Art. 226—New plea.

The question as to the nature of the building contract is a mixed question of fact and law and should have been agitated by the petitioner before the Superintendent of Sales Tax and before the appellate and revisional authorities constituted under the machinery of the Bihar Sales Tax Act. Not having produced the contracts before the Superintendent of Sales Tax, it is not open now to the petitioner to say that the High Court should enter into the question and decide whether the petitioner is liable to pay sales tax under the provisions of the Bihar Sales Tax Act or not. AIR 1958 S C 560, Foll. 1960 B L J R 11.

——Art. 226—New plea — Point involving question of fact—(Houses and Rents—Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), S. 6 (2)).

The question whether S. 6 (2) of Bihar Act (3 of 1947) rendered the letting out of the building illegal is essentially one of fact. Where the point is not raised either before the Controller or the Appellate authorities under the Act, the point cannot be permitted to be raised in the High Court. Misc. J. C. No. 369 of 1952, dated 7-1-1954 (Pat), Foll. (1921) 2 K B D 716, Ref. to. 1956 Pat L R 493 : AIR 1957 Pat 717 (720) (Pt B) (Pr 15) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Additional ground involving facts not on record — Cannot be allowed to be raised at hearing except by way of amendment.

No additional ground can be allowed to be urged in a writ petition at its hearing particularly if it involves facts which are not patent on the existing record except by way of amendment. The court cannot be asked to look for additional grounds in miscellaneous applications filed for ancillary purposes. 1965 Pun L R (Sup) 703.

——Art. 226 — New point requiring evidence. See Tenancy Laws — Pepsu Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act (1955), S. 32 (P) (1). (1963) 65 Pun L R 559.

——Art. 226 — Question involving investigation of matters of fact — Cannot be agitated for the first time in writ petition. AIR 1962 Punj 523 (524) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Question whether a person is agent of assessee — Mixed question of law and fact — (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 66).

A new plea as to whether a person sent by the assessee only for the specific purpose of producing the account books before the Income-tax Officer becomes his agent entitled to accept notice of the adjourned date raises a mixed question of law and fact and cannot be entertained in writ proceedings in absence of evidence. AIR 1957 Tripura 15 (17) (Pt B) (Pr 18).

98 (g) (iv). Prejudice to opposite party.

——Art. 226—New point in rejoinder affidavit.

In a writ petition, the affidavit must contain all the material facts, otherwise the Courts can disregard facts not contained therein and in any case can accept whatever may be put forward by the respondents in their counter affidavit A rejoinder affidavit is meant to meet any new point raised in the counter affidavit. and not to make good any omission in the affidavit originally filed If the petitioner wants to use the new assertions as his evidence, it is necessary for him to seek permission of the Court to file a supplementary affidavit so that the respondents may have an opportunity to meet the new case of the petitioner. 1959 All W R (HC) 644 : 1959 All L J 789.

——Art. 226 — New point will not be allowed for first time at late stage of arguments unless opposite party is given opportunity of filing further counter affidavit. 1954 All L J 673 : AIR 1955 All 12 (19) (Pt I) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Foreigners Act (1948), S. 3—Citizenship Act (1955), Ss 5, 10 and 17 — Person holding certificate of citizenship — Service of notice under S. 3 Foreigners Act — Validity — Writ petition to quash notice — State claiming that certificate was obtained by misrepresentation and fraud or was not granted by proper authority — If valid defence.

Where the petitioner under Art. 226 who was served with notice to quit India under S. 3, Foreigners Act, claimed on the basis of a certificate of citizenship that he was a citizen of India and as such the notice under S 3 was invalid it is not open to the State to contend that the certificate had been obtained by misrepresentation and fraud, because it was open to it to get the certificate cancelled under S. 10, Citizenship Act or to prosecute the petitioner under S. 17 of that Act. But so long as the certificate is in force the petitioner cannot be treated to be a foreigner and the notice under S. 3 of the Foreigners Act will be invalid.

Further when the certificate is in the form prescribed by rules and it purports to be granted by Sub-Deputy Collector in the exercise of powers under S. 5, Citizenship Act, it is not open to the State to contend at the hearing of the petition that it has not been granted by the proper authority. The official act will be deemed to have been done in accordance with the law and if the point had been taken by the State in the counter-affidavit that it is not a certificate granted by the proper authority, the petitioner might have been in a position to file certain notification authorising the Sub-Deputy Collector to entertain such an application. But in the absence of any such point prima facie the certificate has to be accepted and the order asking the petitioner to quit India is illegal. AIR 1963 Assam 55 (55, 56) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 —New grounds.

To allow the petitioners to raise a fresh point, specially one of fact, for the first time during the arguments would be to cause a great prejudice to the respondent, who will not have any opportunity to meet out the latest version either by producing the original documents or by filing an affidavit. Therefore, any facts not clearly brought out in the petition or in the affidavit accompanying thereto, should not be allowed to be raised subsequently. AIR 1956 Bhopal 43 (47) (Pt F) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226 — Practice — Plea not taken in counter affidavit — Petitioner not having opportunity to meet it — It cannot be raised at the time of hearing. 1965 Ker L J 1161 : AIR 1966 Ker 100 (103) (Pt B) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226 — New point taken in supplementary affidavit.

After the filing of the counter-affidavits on behalf of the respondents no new ground of attack can be made by the petitioner by merely mentioning a new fact in a supplementary affidavit without an amendment of the original application 1963 B L J R 254 : AIR 1963 Pat 201 (203) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea — New ground raised in rejoinder — Sustainability.

A ground not taken in the petition for writ cannot be raised for the first time in the rejoinder to the counter affidavit filed by the opposite party. AIR 1957 Pat 676 (678) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ petition under — Practice — Objection not contained in the return — Cannot be allowed to be raised before the Court. ILR (1964) 2 Punj 150 : AIR 1964 Punj 533 (539) (Pt B) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope — Petition under S. 66 (4), Income-tax Act read with Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution—New case sought to be made out during arguments — No notice to respondents Competency. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 66 (4). AIR 1957 Punj 284 (DB).

98 (g) (v). Point abandoned or not pressed.

——Art. 226 — New point.

Where the Labour Appellate Tribunal has omitted to consider a point which arises on the admitted and proved facts of the case and has thus failed to exercise its jurisdiction of deciding the appeal on merits, the petitioner under Art. 226 is entitled to raise that point before the High Court and his omission to urge it before the Labour Appellate Tribunal should not be a bar to his taking the point in the petition under Art. 226. AIR 1956 All 401 (402) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 —Writ petition against decision of Industrial Tribunal—Contention though raised not pressed before Tribunal — Same cannot be raised again in writ petition. ILR (1963) 1 Ker 673 : AIR 1965 Ker 112 (113) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 —Certiorari—Bias—Enquiry against railway servant — Enquiry by officer who conducted investigation regarding alleged charge — Servant, though aware of his right to object to enquiry being conducted by the officer, not objecting — Held, he could not be allowed to contend in writ, that enquiry was biased — Disciplinary authority could consider whether prejudice had been caused or not. AIR 1957 S C 425, Foll. Conduct and Discipline Rules for Railway Servants, R. 1713. 1965 Ker L T 554 : I L R (1965) 1 Ker 536.

——Art. 226 — Writ proceedings — High Court will not upset award of tribunal on point not argued before it and therefore it had no occasion to decide the same.

Where the point raised in writ proceedings, regarding validity of an industrial dispute on the ground of competence on the part of the Union to take up the cause of the aggrieved workman, was though raised before the Tribunal also, but neither the evidence was let in, nor argument was addressed on the question :

Held, that the High Court would not upset, in writ proceedings, the award of the Tribunal on a point not argued before it and, therefore, it had no occasion to decide the same. (1964) 2 Lab L J 164 : AIR 1965 Mad 263 (264) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Point raised in lower Court — Party, however, failing to put forward relevant argument in its support — Party is not barred from urging that argument in writ petition.

Where the requisite plea has been raised in the lower Court, and the omission relates only to the failure to put forward a relevant argument in support of it, there will be no bar to prevent the party from urging that argument in support of the plea, before the High Court wherein he has sought the remedy by way of writ. No further investigation into the facts is involved, because the facts are apparent from the record itself and have not been disputed. Since the appellant had challenged the jurisdiction of the lower Court before it, it is open to him to support that contention in the High Court in certiorari proceedings, by a ground of law applicable to the admitted facts, even though he has not relied on that ground before the lower Court AIR 1927 Mad 130, Applied. (1964) 1 Lab L J 493 : (1965) 10 Fac L R 120 : ILR (1964) 1 Mad 819 : (1965) 1 Mad L J 100 : 78 Mad L W 120 : AIR 1965 Mad 253 (255) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ jurisdiction — New point—When could be allowed to be raised for the first time in such petition — Election petition — Recount of votes ordered against provision to that effect in Election Rules — Respondent, returned candidate, in Election petition not raising any objection to such order before prescribed authority — No such point raised by him in his written statement—Waiver - Election set aside on the ground of wrong counting of votes — Objection that the order of recount was illegal raised for first time in writ petition against order setting aside the election —Held, the conduct of petitioner, in the circumstances of the case, did not amount to waiver —Point, therefore, allowed to be raised. 1965 Cur L J 772: (1965) 67 Punj L R 1211.

98 (g) (vi). Point of law.

——Art. 226—New point.

If the objection relates to the constitutional invalidity of a provision of the Act and the rules and affects the petitioner's fundamental right, that objection can be raised for the first time in the High Court. 1956 All W R (HC) 643: 1956 All L J 878 : AIR 1957 All 297 (304) (Pt L) (Pr 31) (DB).

——Art. 226—New point — Grounds although not contained in the petition were allowed to be taken as they raised pure questions of law. 1956 Cri L J 1152: AIR 1956 All 589 (593) (Pt F) (Pr 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari — Question of law raised for first time before High Court.

A pure question of law affecting the rights of the petitioner and not dependent on any question of fact cannot be barred out of consideration on the ground that it is taken for the first time in a writ petition proceeding and not before the Tribunal against which the writ is sought. (1955) 2 Lab L J 1 : ILR (1956) 1 All 216 : AIR 1955 All 578 (580) (Pt E) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—New point — Question of law.

A pure question of law, which arises on the facts proved and upon a consideration of the relevant sections of an Act and the rules even though has not been specifically raised in the petition under Art. 226, can be canvassed and dealt with by the High Court. 59 Bom L R 1088 : ILR (1958) Bom 113.

——Art. 226—New point — Question of law Industrial dispute — No objection that Tribunal had no jurisdiction.

Objection though based on pure question of law will not be allowed to be raised in an application for a writ or order in nature of certiorari, for the first time. If the objection were raised before the Tribunal, the workmen might have obtained an order from the State Government referring the particular issue to the Tribunal for adjudication. AIR 1927 Mad 130 (FB); AIR 1953 Mad 59; AIR 1957 SC 397, Rel. on. (1960) 2 Lab L J 189 (1960) 1 Fac L R 384 : ILR (1961) 2 Cal 35 : (1960-61) 18 F J R 412 : 64 C W N 950 : AIR 1961 Cal 315 : (318) (Pt B) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 14—Averment as to unreasonable classification for the purpose of impugned Act not made in affidavit filed with writ petition No opportunity to State to counter such averment—Argument on point should not be considered. 1963 Ker L J 1193 : 1964 Ker L T 47 : AIR 1964 Ker 141 (143) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6)

——Art. 226 - Question of violation of principles of natural justice — Question not raised in petition — It cannot be allowed to be raised at the stage of argument. 1965 Jab L J 1087 : 1965 M P L J 990.

——Art. 226 — Appellate Tribunal can consider objections raised by rival claimants which were not raised in representation — Tribunal basing decision on Government orders — Validity of Government orders can be challenged in writ petition though they were not challenged before tribunal. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1). AIR 1965 Mad 79 (FB).

[Partially reversed in AIR 1966 S C 1366.]

——Arts. 226, 20 (3), 14—Practice—Appeal from decision on a writ petition — Validity of a section challenged on ground of contravention of Arts. 14 and 20 (3) of Constitution — Plea under Art. 14 neither taken before lower Court nor mentioned in grounds of appeal — Question allowed to be raised in view of importance of the matter. (1965) 1 Mad L J 465 : 1963 (2) Cri L J 636 : ILR (1964) 1 Mad 451 : A I R 1963 Mad 434 (435) (Pt D) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New point — Objection purely legal going to very root of case — Point can be rightly allowed to be raised in writ proceedings. A I R 1965 Punj 267 (268) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Plea not taken in writ petition — When can be allowed.

Where all the necessary facts have been pleaded in the writ petition, a legal plea based on those facts, though not taken in writ petition in so many words can be allowed to be raised at the hearing especially when the respondents' counsel did not contend that he was being taken by surprise by such argument but only wanted time for meeting the argument by a further supplementary written statement or otherwise. 1964 Cur L J 333 : (1964) 66 Pun L R 938.

98 (g) (vii). Point of jurisdiction.

——Art. 226 - Jurisdiction — Omission of party to raise question of.

Per Das Gupta, J. — Where an authority whether judicial or quasi-judicial, has in law no jurisdiction to make an order the omission by a party to raise before the authority the relevant facts for deciding that question cannot clothe it with jurisdiction. Pioneer Traders v. Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, Pondicherry, (1964) 1 S C J 595 : (1963) Supp (1) S C R 349 : (1963) 2 S C A 243 : A I R 1963 S C 734 (745) (Pt E) (Pr 31).

●——Art. 226—New plea.

In a petition under Art. 226 for a writ of certiorari to quash certain order the High Court acts rightly in allowing the petitioner to urge a plea which goes to the root of the matter, although the petitioner had submitted to the jurisdiction of the authority whose jurisdiction was being questioned by the new plea and had not taken the objection in his petition under Art. 226. A. St. Arunchalam Pillai v. M/s. Southern Roadways Ltd., (1961) 3 S C R 764 : (1961) 1 S C J 421 : (1961) 1 Mad L J (S C) 104 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (S C) 104 : AIR 1960 S C 1191 (1194) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226 — Objection regarding lack of jurisdiction not taken before statutory authority— Whether can be taken in application under Art. 226 —:(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 64 (f)).

If a party does not raise any objection to the jurisdiction of the Chief Commissioner to hear appeals under S. 64, Motor Vehicles Act, which depends upon the allegation and proof of certain facts and there is no patent lack of jurisdiction, the party not having raised the question of jurisdiction before the Chief Commissioner, is not entitled to raise it in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. AIR 1953 Raj 193, Rel. on. AIR 1956 Ajmer 41 (43) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—New contention not raising jurisdictional issue going to the root of the matter, cannot be raised for first time. 1965 All L J 1013.

——Art. 226 — Contention not raising question of jurisdiction or manifest error of law cannot be raised in writ petition — Income-tax Act (1961), S. 141.

The contention that the Income tax Officer having included a sum of money for a particular assessment year, could not include the same sum for another assessment year does not raise any issue of jurisdiction or manifest error of law. The contention cannot therefore be raised upon the writ petition before High Court. (1965) 1 I T J 580 : (1965) 58 I T R 823 (All).

——Art. 226—Question of law or jurisdiction — If can be raised for the first time in second appeal — Position under S. 115, Civil P. C. and Art. 226 of Constitution compared. AIR 1964 All 136 (138, 139) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 9).

——Art. 226 — New plea as to jurisdiction — High Court can in its discretion refuse relief if party by his conduct has disentitled himself to it — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100. AIR 1960 All 573.

——Art. 226—New plea as to jurisdiction in writ petition. See Co-operative Societies—Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 43 (2) (1). AIR 1960 All 294 (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea of jurisdiction.

Whether in any case a writ under Art. 226 should issue is a matter which always lies within the discretion of the Court. The fact that a petitioner has not raised the question of jurisdiction before the subordinate tribunal is not necessarily a bar to the objection being taken for the first time in a writ petition the question in such a case will be whether he has by his conduct precluded himself from obtaining the relief which he asks. (1941) 1 K B 608, Rel. on. ILR (1959) 1 All 289 : AIR 1959 All 710 (711) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea — Jurisdiction.

No doubt the power exercised by the High Court in issuing writs is discretionary and if a person has omitted to challenge jurisdiction in an inferior tribunal, he should not be heard on that point in a writ petition. In cases in which the objection goes to the root of the matter the High Court is competent to quash the order in spite of the fact that a plea of jurisdiction was not raised at the earliest opportunity or before the tribunal. AIR 1955 All 113 and AIR 1956 Bom 530, Rel. on. 1958 All L J 271 : 1958 All W R (H C) 307 : ILR (1957) 2 All 269 : AIR 1958 All 362 (362, 363) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

●——Art 226 — Replacement of two out of five panchas — Objection not taken under R. 84-D of Rules under U. P. Panchayat Raj Act — Panchayati Adalat is not bound by technical rules of procedure and evidence — High Court is reluctant to interfere — Provisions of S. 49 (2), U. P. Panchayat Raj Act, do not go to the root of jurisdiction— If no objection was taken under R. 84D' to the constitution of the Bench, it cannot be raised in writ petition. See U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 49. 1955 Cri L J 313 : AIR 1955 All 122 (FB).

——Art. 226 — New point — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115).

When the Additional District Magistrate heard the revision against an order passed under S. 45 (3), Criminal P. C., the applicant did not challenge his jurisdiction to hear it. Held, that he could not be permitted to challenge it for the first time through an application for a writ of certiorari. If he acquiesced in the Additional District Magistrate's jurisdiction in the hope of getting a favourable decision from him, the doctrine of estoppel should be applied against him and the discretionary writ of certiorari should not be issued at his instance when he was disappointed. 1954 All W R (H C) 155 : 1954 Cri L J 879 : 1954 All L J 198 : AIR 1954 All 447 (448) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Objection as to jurisdiction — Raising for the first time in application under Art. 226.

Where a party has submitted to jurisdiction, he cannot raise an objection to the exercise of the jurisdiction for the first time in an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1952 All W R (H C) 178 : 1952 All L J 106 : 1952 Cri L J 900 : ILR (1953) 2 All 855 : AIR 1952 All 489 (490, 491) (Prs 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Point not raised before subordinate tribunal or in petition— It can be urged at hearing.

A plea, not at all raised at any time before a Tribunal ought, even when it relates to a question of a jurisdiction, to be raised in the petition for issue of writ itself; it will not be allowed to be raised for the first time in the argument before the High Court. (1958) 1 Andh W R 290 : 1958 Andh L T 545 : AIR 1960 Andh Pra 17 (20) (Pt C) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 – Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Chap. IV-A —(As amended by Act 100 of 1956) – Foundation for jurisdiction to initiate scheme — Requisite opinion — Procedure — Jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 — If the petitioner had not taken the point as to the invalidity of the initiation of the scheme in the petition under Art 226, the objection cannot be allowed to be raised because normally the petitioner should confine his case to the averments in the petition and should not be allowed to travel beyond them. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by Act 100 of 1956), Chap. IV-A. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 292.

——Art. 226 –Certiorari — New plea — Proceedings arising out of notice under S. 3, Foreigners Act — Question of cessation of Indian citizenship raised— Question or voluntary acquisition of foreign citizenship cannot be allowed to be raised subsequently so as to oust the jurisdiction of the High Court by virtue of S. 9, Citizenship Act. ILR (1962) 14 Assam 313 : AIR 1962 Assam 103 (106) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—New plea of—Jurisdiction.

A party who takes a chance before a Court or a Tribunal cannot later on turn round and say that the finding recorded is without jurisdiction. Before a question of jurisdiction of a Tribunal is raised on a petition under Arts. 226 and 227, objection to jurisdiction must be taken before the Tribunal whose order is being challenged. The petitioner not having done so, on the other hand, having chosen to invite a decision of the Tribunal on the question it is no more open to him to say that the decision of the Tribunal on the question of fact is without jurisdiction so far as the petition under Arts. 226 and 227 is concerned. AIR 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on. 1959 Nag L J 497 : 61 Bom L R 1671 : ILR (1960) Bom 437 : AIR 1960 Bom 219 (219, 220) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 237—New plea—Objection to jurisdiction.

Before a question of jurisdiction of a tribunal could be raised on a petition under Arts. 226 and 227, objection to jurisdiction ought to have been taken before the Tribunal whose order was being challenged. AIR 1954 Bom 202, Foll. 61 Bom L R 148 : ILR (1959) Bom 462 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 576 : AIR 1959 Bom 538 (542) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea—(Income-tax Act (1922), S. 35).

Where the ground that a certain order of the Income-tax Officer is without jurisdiction, in that the error mentioned in the notice under S. 35 of the Income-tax Act is not an error at all, has not been clearly pleaded in the petition under Art. 226, this infirmity in the petition does not affect the jurisdiction of the High Court to grant relief, especially when the plea of want of jurisdiction but not the true ground in support thereof has been raised. If in fact there was no error committed which the Income-tax Officer sought to rectify, the High Court will not be justified in refusing to quash the order merely on the plea that the Income-tax Officer was not asked to stay his hands on the ground mentioned before the High Court. 59 Bom L R 268 : (1957) 32 ITR 350 : ILR (1957) Bom 428 : AIR 1957 Bom 134 (138) (Pt G) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—New point—Not generally allowed.

Generally speaking, an application to the High Court for a high prerogative writ of certiorari cannot be allowed on grounds which were not taken in the Courts below and which are being taken in the High Court for the first time. Even when it relates to the question of jurisdiction the objection as to jurisdiction ought to have been taken in the Court of the first instance. AIR 1957 Cal 638 and AIR 1954 Bom 202 and AIR 1958 Cal 208, Rel. on. AIR 1961 Cal 195 (197) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—New plea—Point of jurisdiction.

A person who wishes to raise a point of jurisdiction and has not raken it in the Court below, has to satisfy the High Court that he was unaware of the defect in the jurisdiction and that is why it was not taken. AIR 1954 Bom 202; (1914) 1 K B 608, Rel. on; AIR 1930 All 873, Dist. 62 Cal W N 426 : (1958) 1 Cal L J 90 : AIR 1958 Cal 641 (641, 642) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—New plea—Jurisdiction.

Where the objection to jurisdiction was neither raised before the Industrial Tribunal nor before the Appellate Tribunal the petitioner ought not to be allowed to raise the point for the first time in an application for issue of writ of certiorari or mandamus. AIR 1958 Cal 456 (457, 458) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — New plea — Question of jurisdiction not raised before Industrial Tribunal — If can be taken in writ petition.

Where the party to an industrial dispute proceeding before the Tribunal, though aware of the defect of jurisdiction of the Tribunal, does not take it before the Tribunal at all and the result is that the issue is not raised and the Tribunal is never called upon to decide it, the party cannot be permitted to take this point before the High Court in writ petition under Art. 226. AIR 1957 S C 425; AIR 1957 S C 397; AIR 1954 Bom 202, Rel. on. 62 Cal W N 248 : (1958) 2 Lab LJ 198 : (1958) 14 FJR 145 : AIR 1958 Cal 208 (212) (Pt F) (Pr 14).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1958 S C 1018.]

——Art. 226—New plea—Ground that resolution of Regional Transport Authorities was without jurisdiction not taken in appeal — Ground cannot be agitated in proceeding under Article for obtaining writ of certiorari. ('57) 61 Cal W N 779.

——Art. 226 — New plea — Notification by Collector re-forming wards in a village for Panchayat elections under Bombay Village Panchayat Act — When forming wards, Collector was not functioning as a Court or Tribunal — Notification re-forming wards contrary to provisions of Bombay Village Panchayats Act—Plea that Collector had no authority to re-form wards could be taken for first time in writ petition before High Court though not taken previously before the Collector. Case law discussed. Panchayats —Bombay Village Panchayats Act (3 of 1959), S. 19. (1962) 3 Guj L R 56.

——Art. 226 — New plea—Objection to jurisdiction not taken or taken only in general form—Effect.

A petitioner cannot succeed on the ground against the jurisdiction of an authority whose order he is challenging unless he has taken the ground before the authority making the order. A general objection to the jurisdiction taken by him before the authority is not sufficient for the purpose. The reason for the rule is that the authority making the order must have the opportunity of adjudication on the objection and where the ground be vaguely put the authority does not have a fair opportunity of doing so. Nor can a party be treated as diligent when though armed with a legal objection which is known to be strong, he intentionally refrains from urging or pressing the ground in that form : AIR 1954 Bom 202 and AIR 1961 Ker 117, Rel. on. 1960 Ker L J 1234 : 1960 Ker L T 1340 : AIR 1961 Ker 182 (183) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — New plea of jurisdiction—Absence of jurisdiction in lower tribunal — Objection — If can be taken in writ petition for the first time.

Where a suit has been decreed by a Court having no jurisdiction. the parties cannot by their mutual consent, convert, proceeding into a judicial process and where there is no inherent jurisdiction in the Court neither submission to jurisdiction nor acquiescence nor taking part in these proceedings will debar the party from contending that the decree is one passed without jurisdiction. But in cases where a party invokes the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution no general rule can be laid down that in every case in which objection to jurisdiction had not been taken before the tribunal, no relief should ever be granted in the exercise of the discretionary powers vested in the High Court. How far the conduct of a petitioner has disentitled him to any relief, would depend on the facts of each case. (1960) 1 Ker L R 565 : ILR (1960) Ker 717 : 1960 Ker L T 798

1960 Ker L J 1145 : AIR 1961 Ker 117 (119, 123) (Prs 7, 21, 22) (DB).

—— Art. 226 – Estoppel - Failure to raise objection to jurisdiction before lower tribunal– Effect.

The High Court has the power to grant or refuse to grant a writ of certiorari. The failure to raise objection to the jurisdiction of the inferior Court before that Court is a relevant point to be borne in mind. A party may be precluded by his conduct from claiming a writ, whether the proceedings challenged are void or voidable. If they are void, it is true, that no conduct of his will validate them, but such considerations do not affect the principle on which the High Court acts in granting or refusing the writ of certiorari. 1960 Ker L J 38 : 1960 Ker L T 7 : ILR (1960) Ker 266 : AIR 1960 Ker 186 (187, 188) (Pr 3)

——Art. 226—New plea of jurisdiction.

Ordinarily a party is disabled to raise the question of jurisdiction in certiorari proceedings when he has failed to raise it before the subordinate tribunal but this will not hold good when the tribunal was non-existent altogether in point of law and the petitioner had no knowledge of the defect that attached to the tribunal at the time it purported to pass an order. The petitioner is not precluded from raising the question before the High Court. 1959 Ker L J 410 : 1959 Ker L T 521 : 1959 Ker L R 1107 : ILR (1959) Ker 1124 : AIR 1959 Ker 347 (349, 350) (Pt D) (Prs 6, 7).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in A I R 1963 S C 274.]

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Submission to jurisdiction —Question raised for first time in writ proceedings —(Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 44)

It is not open to a party to raise for the first time in certiorari proceedings the question of jurisdiction of the subordinate tribunal unless he had challenged the jurisdiction before that tribunal itself or he satisfies the Court that he was unaware of the circumstances which will put him on an enquiry as to the lack of jurisdiction of the subordinate tribunal. AIR 1953 All 624 (630), Rel. on.

It is not open to the applicants to raise the question about the defective constitution of the State Transport Authority for the first time in the High Court under Art 226 where the petitioners have submitted to the jurisdiction of the State Transport Authority. 1958 Ker L J 497 : 1958 Ker L T 410 : 1958 Mad L J (Cri) 518 : AIR 1958 Ker 341 (349, 352) (Pt E) (Prs 23, 40).

——Art. 226 – Question of jurisdiction not raised before lower tribunal—Ordinarily such question cannot be raised in proceedings under Art. 226. AIR 1959 Ker 347 (349, 350) (Pt D) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 226 – New point—Validity of Cls. 15 and 16 of T. C. Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Order.

Where objection to the validity of Cls 15 and 16 of the Rent Control Order was not taken at the hearing of the revision petition by the Government and the petitioner submitted to their jurisdiction and took the chance of obtaining an order in his favour, the petitioner cannot be heard to raise the objection in the High Court at the hearing of the petition under Art. 226. AIR 1954 Bom 202 and 1955 Ker L T 568, Rel on. 1957 Ker L J 380 : 1957 Ker L T 411 : AIR 1957 Ker 109 (111) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art 226 — Ground founded on undisputed fact and going to the root of the matter — Earlier consent would not preclude the petitioner to raise it. 1965 M P L J (Notes) 175.

——Art. 226 — Question of jurisdiction not raised before tribunal — Question cannot be permitted to be raised in the High Court. 1962 M P L J (Notes) 300.

——Arts. 226 and 227—New plea.

Even if the objections raised by the petitioner who has been convicted by the Nyaya Panchayat go to root of the jurisdiction of that tribunal to try the offences they cannot be made the basis of a petition under Arts. 226 and 227 when they had not been raised before that body itself. (1914) 1 K B 608, AIR 1954 Bom 202 and 1957 M P C 91, Rel. on. 1961 Jab L J 448 : 1961 M P C 209 : 1961 M P L J 761 : ILR (1959) Madh-Pra 884.

——Art 226 — Certiorari — Impugned order of the lower Court challenged on the ground of jurisdiction —Objection not taken before that authority — Objection cannot be permitted in proceedings to obtain writ of certiorari either on the ground of acquiescence or from the standpoint of certiorari : ILR 53 Mad 130; AIR 1957 S C 397, Rel. on. 78 Mad L W 241 : ILR (1964) 2 Mad 747 : AIR 1965 Mad 321 (323) (Pt D) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Appellate Tribunal can consider objections raised by rival claimants which were not raised in representation—Tribunal basing decision on Government orders—Validity of Government orders can be challenged in writ petition though they were not challenged before tribunal—See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 47 (1). AIR 1965 Mad 79 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Objection to jurisdiction not taken at proper time—Writ jurisdiction is not affected. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (22 of 1959), S. 101. ('64) 77 Mad L W 109.

——Art. 226 — New plea — Jurisdiction—Objection cannot be heard in writ petition. (1960) 1 Lab L J 794 : 73 Mad L W 406 : ILR (1960) Mad 768 : (1960) 2 Mad L J 452 : 1960 Mad L J (Cr) 765 : 1960 Mad W N 420.

——Arts. 226, 227—New plea—Objection as to jurisdiction—When can be raised.

The principle that where the question of jurisdiction is not a pure question of law, but it is mingled with facts, a party cannot be allowed to raise it for the first time in an appeal to the Supreme Court from the decision of the Appellate Tribunal applies to writ petitions also. AIR 1953 S C 437, Rel. on. (1958-59) 14 F J R 182 : (1958) 2 Lab L J 95 : AIR 1958 Pat 120 (124) (Pt B) (Prs 19, 20) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Ground raised for first time in petition under.

Where the ground that the orders of the authorities under the Evacuee Property Act were without jurisdiction was not taken before either of those authorities it cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time in petition under Art. 226. ILR (1955) Patiala 529 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 142 (143) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Error apparent on face of record— Inherent lack of jurisdiction in Tribunal in passing certain order — Objection to jurisdiction though not taken before Authority, relief in writ petition is not barred See Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S 22. 1965 Cur L J 872 (Punj).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Objection as to jurisdiction of Tribunal passing order attacked—Absence of indication in the order that such objection was raised before Tribunal — Not sufficient ground for refusing to exercise powers under Art 226,

An objection even with regard to the jurisdiction should be raised before a Tribunal when the matter is heard by it, but if a reasonable explanation has been given either for not raising it or the High Court is satisfied that it was raised but the tribunal either failed or omitted to decide it, then the High Court will not decline to exercise the extraordinary power conferred by Art. 226 merely because there is nothing in the order to indicate that such an objection was raised or pressed. ('62) 64 Punj L R 1024.

——Art. 226—New point — Objection as to jurisdiction.

No appearance or consent can ever give a jurisdiction to a tribunal or a Court of limited jurisdiction, which it does not otherwise possess. If an order is made without jurisdiction it is never too late, in the absence of some supervening consideration, to give effect to the plea that it is a nullity.

Where from the facts and circumstances of the case it could not be said that the petitioner sat on the fence and took his chance before the District Judge by deliberately and consciously refraining from raising the objection relating to his jurisdiction to entertain and dispose of the reference made to him under the proviso to S. 9 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act 1954; on the contrary the District Judge did not care to satisfy himself if he had the requisite jurisdiction to entertain and dispose of the reference made to him, then in such a case it would not promote the ends of justice if relief is refused to the petitioner and the order of the District Judge which is indisputably without jurisdiction and therefore, a nullity, is allowed to stand. AIR 1959 Punj 389; AIR 1927 Mad 130 (FB), Disting. ('61) 63 Punj L R 444.

——Art. 226—New plea — Plea of want of jurisdiction of Tribunal on grounds different from those stated before Tribunal.

Where the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, whose order was later sought to be quashed in proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution, was challenged before the Tribunal on somewhat different grounds from those raised before the High Court :

Held, that it was not fair to shut out the arguments based on want of jurisdiction of the Tribunal in making the order in question, before the High Court in proceedings under Arts. 226 and 227. (1961-62) 20 F J R 253 : ILR (1961) 2 Punj 421 : (1962) 1 Lab L J 534 : 1961 Cur L J 1.

——Arts. 226, 227 — Discretion — Objection as to jurisdiction—When to be taken.

The grant of relief under Arts. 226 and 227 is of a discretionary nature and if the order sought to be impugned is attacked on the ground of jurisdiction such an objection ought to be taken before the tribunal whose order is being challenged. The objection cannot be allowed to be taken for the first time in the writ application. AIR 1954 Bom 202 and AIR 1958 Cal 456, Rel. on 62 Punj L R 302 : AIR 1960 Punj 432 (433) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Jurisdiction of the Tribunal—Objection can be raised even for the first time in writ proceedings — It is open to High Court to consider such objection, though it is not bound to give relief on it.

When the objection raised goes to the root of the jurisdiction of the subordinate Tribunal, it is open to the High Court to quash a decision of that Tribunal in proceedings for the grant of a writ of certiorari notwithstanding the fact that the petitioner failed to question the jurisdiction of the Tribunal before it, and challenged the jurisdiction of the subordinate Tribunal before the High Court for the first time. But this does not mean that in every case of want of jurisdiction a writ of certiorari must be issued as of right. In the matter of certiorari the law is that 'The issuance of the writ, in the exercise of superintending control over inferior Courts is not a matter of right, but one of discretion largely. It will be granted or denied according to the circumstances of each particular case, as the ends of justice may require and in accordance with sound public policy. AIR 1957 S C 227 and AIR 1960 Raj 105, Rel. on. ILR (1965) 15 Raj 1114 : 1966 Raj L W 66.

——Art. 226 — Decision of lower Court or tribunal without jurisdiction — Failure to raise objection — Writ petition against decision—Objection to jurisdiction of tribunal raised for first time—High Court should go into.

Where it is found by High Court that a lower Court or a tribunal has given a decision which amounts to a nullity on accout of inherent or patent lack of jurisdiction, then it becomes its duty to quash it by the grant of a writ of certiorari notwithstanding the fact that the petitioner failed to question the jurisdiction of the lower Court or the tribunal at an earlier stage and challenged that juri diction before the High Court for the first time. When it is found that the decisions were not given by the proper tribunal, the High Court should not go into the merits of the case because it is for the appropriate tribunal to first weigh the evidence of the parties and then to decide the case on merits. AIR 1954 S C 340, Rel. on. (1964) Raj L W 1 : ILR (1963) 13 Raj 1101.

——Art 226—Writ of Certiorari—Suit against panch — Gram panchayat has no jurisdiction — Objection raised for first time in certiorari proceeding—High Court held precluded from quashing decree See Panchayat - Rajasthan Panchayat Act (21 of 1953), S. 89, Proviso. 1961 Raj L W 229.

——Art. 226—New plea—Plea of jurisdiction.

Where an objection goes to the root of the jurisdiction of the authority, rendering its decision a nullity, no waiver or consent can confer jurisdiction on the authority. In such a case objection can be raised for the first time in the writ petition, against the decision of the authority even though it was not raised before the authority. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 869 : AIR 1960 Raj 105 (112) (Pt A) (Pr 28) (DB)

——Art. 226—New plea.

Where the lack of jurisdiction to the Assistant Custodian was patent, the mere fact that no objection was taken by the applicant before the Custodian or the Custodian General would not disable the applicant from raising the point in proceedings under Art. 226 though the matter would have been different if the question of jurisdiction depended upon the allegations and proof of certain facts. AIR 1953 Raj 193, Rel. 1955 Raj L W 95 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 526 : AIR 1954 Raj 214 (216 (Pt D) (Pr 1) (DB).

—— Art. 226—Petition under Plea of want of jurisdiction in Lower Court, cannot be allowed unless it was taken before the Lower Court itself. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 1657 (DB)

——Art. 226—New ground of want of jurisdiction if open—(V. P. Gram Panchayat Ordinance (1949), S. 49 (1)),

Where lack of jurisdiction is patent the mere fact that no objection was taken before the statutory authority would not disable the applicant from raising such question in an application under Art. 226. AIR 1953 Raj 193, Rel on.

Accordingly, the applicant is not debarred from contending that no Bench of five Panchas for the trial of the cases was formed as required by S 49 (1), that the decision was ultimately given by six Panchas and that all of them did not attend all the hearings and that the decision given was accordingly without jurisdiction and should be set aside, in an application under Art. 226. AIR 1956 Vind Pra 6 (7) (Pt C) (Pr 4).

98 (g) (viii). New case.

■ —Art. 226—New case—Petitioner should not be allowed to change case during arguments—Jabalpur Corporation Act, 1944 (M. P. Act 3 of 1950), S. 81 — C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (2 of 1922), S. 38 (1) (f)—C. P. Govt. trasferring land to Jabalpur Municipality under S. 38 (1) (f),—Land vesting in Jabalpur Corporation on coming into force of Jabalpur Corporation Act — Successor Govt. of Madhya Pradesh can resume the land under S. 81 of the Jabalpur Corporation Act.

The question as to who is a transferor, is obviously a question of fact or at best a mixed question of law and fact and when a party in a writ petition does not allege any such fact, it stands to reason that he ought not to be permitted to travel beyond the facts stated, at the stage of the arguments. To confine a party to his pleadings, particularly to his allegations as regards facts is dictated not merely by the need for orderliness in these proceedings but for avoiding surprise to the other party and consequent injustice resulting therefrom. Save in exceptional cases, parties should be held strictly to their pleadings and if owing to discovery of new matter or grounds, there is need to add to or to modify the allegations either in the petition or in the counter affidavit, the Court should insist on formal amendments being effected; for this would enable each party to state its case with precision and definiteness and the other side would have a proper opportunity to know this case and meet it with appropriate defences.

The State Government of Madhya Pradesh issued a notification under S. 81 of the Jabalpur Corporation Act, 1948, resuming the land granted to the Jabalpur Municipality under S. 38 (1) (f) of the Central Provinces Municipalities Act, 1922, by the Government of Central Provinces. The Corporation moved the High Court of Jabalpur for relief under Art. 226 praying for the issue of writ of mandamus quashing the notification. The Corporation did not deny the fact that it was the Government of C. P. and Berar that had effected the transfer and the allegation in the petition in fact proceeded on that basis. During the argument however, the Corporation put forward the case, that the transfer was not by the Government of the Central Provinces but by the Central Government. This new contention was based on the reasoning that S. 81 of the Jabalpur Corporation Act applied to transfers made after the Corporation Act came into force.

Held, that (1) the High Court should not have allowed the petitioner to put forward the new case, but should have proceeded on the basis of the pleading. (2) The contention that S. 81 applied to transfers made after the Corporation Act came into force was untenable. (3) The land in question was transferred to the Municipal Committee, Jabalpur, by the Government of the Central Provinces and not by the Central Government 1961 M P L J 797, Reversed.

The Corporation of Jabalpur was the successor-in-title to the Municipal Committee of Jabalpur and the property which was vested in the Municipal Committee of Jabalpur was transferred to and became vested in the Corporation under S. 71 of the Jabalpur Corporation Act. If any particular property had vested in the Municipal Committee subject to its being divested in particulr contingencies, the property in the hands of the Corporation would be held subject to the same obligations or disabilities. The successor Government of C. P. and Berar, viz., the State of Madhya Pradesh could under S. 81 of the Corporation Act take over the land from the Corporation for the purpose of forming a public road. Municipal Corporation v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1963) 2 S C R 135 : (1965) 2 S C J 197 : AIR 1966 S C 837 (840, 841) (Prs 7, 9, 10).

■ —Art. 226—New plea—Action under Railway Security Rules—Writ petition on ground that Rules were ultra vires—Judgment proceeding on ground not raised by railway authorities—Interference — (Railway Services (Safeguarding of National Security) Rules (1949), R. 3)—(Railway Establishment Code, R 148 (3)).

Where the services of the appellants were terminated by orders of the railway authorities under R. 3 of the Security Rules and the appellants having filed a writ petition on the ground that the Security Rules were ultra vires, the High Court held that the orders could be sustained under R. 148 of the Railway Establishment Code, but that ground was not merely not in the contemplation of the authorities when they passed the orders, but was not even raised in the pleadings in Court.

Held, that though no exception could be taken to the proposition that when an authority passes an order which is within its competence, it cannot fail merely because it purports to be made under a wrong provision, if it can be shown to be within its powers under any other rule, and that the validity of an order should be judged on a consideration of its substance and not its form, that proposition was not applicable to the instant case because it had not been the contention of the authorities at any stage that the orders in question were really made under R. 148 (3) of the Railway Establishment Code, and that the reference to R. 3 of the Security Rules in the proceedings might be disregarded as due to a mistake. P. Balakotaiah v. Union of India, 1958 S C A 209 : 1958 S C J 451 : (1958) 1 Andh W R (SC) 162 : (1958) 1 Mad L J (S C) 162 : 1958 S C R 1052 : AIR 1958 S C 232 (236) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

—Art. 226—U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (5 of 1954), Ss. 21 (2), 63-B—Appeal filed on 20-4-1963, against order of Consolidation Officer passed under S. 21 (1) on 24-1-1963, dismissed as time-barred and refusing benefit of S. 53-B—Appellant pleading, for first time in petition for certiorari that revised extract served on appellant on 16-4-1963 constituted sufficient cause — Held certiorari for quashing orders cannot be granted on ground taken for first time in certiorari. 1965 All W R (HC) 58 : 1965 All L J 172 : ILR (1965) 1 All 354.

——Art. 226 — New point — Relief on some grounds of law asked for — Relief can be given on other grounds of law where these grounds are disclosed from facts appearing in affidavits and counter affidavits and these grounds show an error of law on face of record. (1960) 39 I T R 497 : AIR 1961 All 133 (136) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—New case cannot be allowed.

In proceedings under Art. 226 for the issue of a writ of certiorari for quashing an order of assessment, it is not open to the assessee or the Department to place new facts, which were never placed before the taxing authorities for assailing or supporting the impugned assessment. AIR 1948 Mad 454; AIR 1961 SC 1615, Rel. on. (1964) 15 S T C 554 : 1964 Jab L J 320 : 1964 M P L J 390.

98 (g) (ix). Plea not available earlier.

——Art. 226—Procedure—New point—Scope.

The writ of certiorari, which is in the discretion of the Court to issue under Art. 226, should not be issued ordinarily in cases where the applicant had failed to urge the grounds on which he claimed a writ of certiorari before the other Tribunals where he could have properly urged the grounds, unless he could show that he was unaware of those grounds when the matter was before the other Tribunals. Case law considered. I L R (1954) 2 All 378 : AIR 1953 All 624 (630) (Pt D) (Pr 24) (DB).

——Art. 226—New plea — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 7).

Where the law as to the effect of a defective notice was laid down by the High Court after the Custodian General had already decided the revision and similarly the application for review was dismissed before the decision laying down the law was published in the law reports.

Held, that the applicant could not be barred from raising those points before the High Court in proceedings under Art. 226 under the circumstances. 1955 Raj L W 95 : I L R (1954) 4 Raj 526 : AIR 1954 Raj 214 (216) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari, writ of — Application for confirmation of sale by evacuees — Sale in 1948 — Application in 1949 — Rejection by Custodian of evacuee property as not bona fide — Custodian-General on appeal rejecting application as barred by time — Powers of High Court to correct by writ.

Sale to the applicants by the evacuee was in May 1948. When Saurashtra Ordinance of 1948 was in force under S. 6-A, application for confirmation had to be made on 1-5-48 or within two months of the sale. It was replaced by Central Ordinance of 1949 published in Saurashtra Gazette on 4-8-1949. Application for confirmation was filed within 2 months of the publication. The Custodian rejected it as not bona fide. On appeal the Custodian-General rejected it as time-barred with reference to Saurashtra Ordinance of 1948. On an application for issue of a writ to quash the order:

Held, the Custodian-General could decide and ought to take into consideration the question of limitation as to the maintainability of the application. Even if it was wrong it was only an error of law and the High Court cannot embark on an inquiry as if it were an appellate Court. The High Court has no jurisdiction to correct the decision of the Custodian-General. AIR 1952 S C 179 and 192, Relied on.

A point not raised before or even in the application that for 2 months from the date of sale there was no Custodian to apply for confirmation cannot be allowed to be raised in the arguments. The petition cannot therefore be entertained under Art. 226. AIR 1952 Sau 112 (113) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

98 (g) (x). Point not raised at preliminary hearing.

——Art. 226—Practice—Point not raised in preliminary hearing of Rule — Can be considered in final hearing.

The Court is not precluded, at the final hearing of a Rule from considering a ground other than that on which the Rule nisi might have been issued after giving proper opportunities to the parties. 68 Cal W N 179, Rel. on. AIR 1965 Cal 389 (391) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

98 (h). Notice and hearing.

●——Arts. 226, 227 — Application under—Issue of Rule nisi — Practice — Question of competency of Home Minister to determine question of age of High Court Judge — Question being very important — Rule nisi should issue.

Dicta — Experience shows that in writ petitions filed in High Courts under Art. 226 which raise arguable issues of much less significance and importance, Rule nisi is usually issued and speaking broadly, there seems to be no justification for holding that in a case which undoubtedly raises questions of considerable importance, that course should not be adopted.

Where, therefore, in a petition for writ the main question round which the whole controversy centred was the competence of the Home Minister to determine the question about the correct age of a Judge of the High Court, and this question obviously was a matter of great importance as its decision was vitally connected with the status, dignity and independence of the judiciary in this country; and incidental to the decision of the question were other points:

Held, that the High Court was right in coming to the conclusion that the trial Judge should have issued a Rule nisi and should have called upon the appellant to file his return. Himansu Kumar Bose v. Jyoti Prokash Mitter. (1964) 1 S C A 347 : AIR 1964 S C 1636 (1640, 1641, 1642), (Pt C) (Prs 15, 22).

●——Art. 226—Duty of High Court — Dismissal of petition in limine—Propriety.

Certain industrial disputes arose between the management of certain Mill and the workers of the said Mill. Two references were made to the Tribunal and an award was given. Again a third reference was made and the Management thereupon filed a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India for a writ of prohibition against the Tribunal and a writ of mandamus against the Government. The High Court dismissed the petition in limine, basing its decision on a mere comparison of the relative items in these references.

Held, that in view of the fact that there was an allegation of mala fide on the part of the Government and the terms of items of the third reference, though ostensibly worded differently from those of the relative items of the second reference were alleged to be identical with the same, it was the duty of the High Court to accord a hearing to the parties after issuing notice to the respondents and record its decision after considering all the circumstances of the case which would have thus been brought to its notice. British India Corporation Ltd. v Industrial Tribunal, Punjab, AIR 1957 SC 354 (356) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice — Proceeding under Chapters III, IV and V of U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act—State Govt. is necessary party —Notice should be given to Collector or his nominee on behalf of State Govt. See Tenancy Laws — U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (1 1951), S. 47. 1960 All L J 557.

——Art. 226 — Partnership Act (1932), S. 65 — Proceeding under—Rule issued upon Registrar of firms — Duty to appear and explain his conduct and action.

In a proceeding under Art. 226 of the Constitution where the Registrar of Firms was made a party respondent and a Rule was issued upon him to show cause, it is incumbent upon him to appear and explain his conduct and his action. It is all the more necessary for the Registrar to appear and help the Court in the proceeding having regard to S. 65 of the Partnership Act. ('65) 69 Cal W N 929.

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Rule 'nisi' when to be issued — Arguable issues—Meaning of.

Where there are 'arguable issues' relating to matters of considerable importance, a rule nisi should be issued. AIR 1964 S C 1636, Foll. A point raises 'arguable issues', if the Court has some doubt upon the question raised or there are obscure points which require elucidation and upon which two views may reasonably be held. 68 Cal W N 958 : AIR 1964 Cal 500 (503) (Pt D) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226—Mandamus — Petition found to be unmaintainable on technical grounds — Petitioner applying in person—Court to give petitioner audience on his grievance.

Even where a writ petition is found to be unmaintainable on technical grounds like absence of demand for justice, impleading wrong parties, etc., if the petitioner applies in person the Court should ordinarily give a petitioner audience on his grievances irrespective of such technical defects. ('64) 68 Cal W N 403.

——Art. 226—Notice to Attorney General—Necessity of — Applicability of O. 27-A, Civil P. C. See Civil P. C (1908), O. 27-A, R. 1. AIR 1957 Cal 702.

——Art. 226 - Procedure—Duty of Court—Dismissal in limine.

Application under Art. 226—Some of the questions raised being not pure questions of law, but involving questions of fact — Application should not be dismissed in limine but the respondents should be asked to show cause against the application. I L R (1955) 2 Cal 28: 58 Cal W N 18 : AIR 1954 Cal 60 (67) (Pt N) (Pr 119) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Summary dismissal — Notice.

There should not be mechanical admission of applications under Art. 226. Certainly, an application should be admitted if there is at least an arguable case. But if on the face of it there is no arguable case, and the mere reading of the enactment is sufficient to show the baselessness of the grounds, then the petition should be dismissed summarily. 1959 M P C 330 : 1959 Jab L J 467 : 1959 M P L J 1215 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 365 (366) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of inquiry — Point not seriously pressed.

In an application under Art. 226, their Lordships thought it unnecessary to discuss a technical objection which was not seriously pressed before them. 23 Cut L T 221 : (1957) 8 S T C 749 : I L R (1957) Cut 189 : AIR 1957 Orissa 240 (243) (Pt C) (Pr 14) (DB).

——Art. 226—Mandamus, writ of — Right to contest claim.

In proceedings for mandamus it is the authority to which a mandamus is to go which is entitled as of right to contest the petitioner's claim. There is, however, no prohibition or bar imposed on the High Court in the matter of hearing arguments from any counsel representing a party in the proceedings before it. AIR 1962 Punj 532 (533, 534) (Pt B) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Practice and Procedure — Statutory body like Central Road Traffic Board impleaded in writ petition — Necessity of appearance through counsel—Costs.

The practice of Travancore-Cochin High Court has been for bodies like the Central Road Traffic Board to enter an appearance through counsel whenever they are impleaded in Writ Petitions and assist the Court at the hearing of the case. If a statutory body is appearing in the role of an amicus curiae no question of costs will arise. There will of course be circumstances in which they should appear as active contestants and it is only in those cases that the question of costs will assume practical importance and ordinarily follow the result of the contest. I L R (1956) Trav Co 183 : AIR 1957 Trav-Co 229 (229, 230) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Notice—Necessity.

Where a teacher whose services are terminated by the ad hoc committee of the school applies for the issue of a writ of certiorari under Art. 226, the application cannot be said to be not maintainable because no notice was given to the ad hoc committee. AIR 1959 Tripura 27 (33) (Pt J) (Pr 39).

98 (i). Notice under S. 80, Civil P. C.

See also Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80.

——Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 41, R. 14 (3) — Power under, is discretionary — Personal relief asked against respondents not appearing before lower Court —Service of notice should not be dispensed with. See Civil P. C. (1908), O 41 R 14(3). A I R 1952 Cal 825 (DB).

——Art 226—Civil P. C (1908), S 80 — Petition for certiorari by one of persons, interested in subject-matter—Parties referred to regular suit—Government agreeing to waive notice under S. 80—Waiver applies to all persons interested in subject matter. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. AIR 1960 Mad 81.

——Art. 226—Procedure—Writ petition by Government servant — Prior permission of head of department—Necessity of.

If the service rules prescribe that without prior permission no writ could be filed against Government, the filing of the writ without permission might be a ground for taking disciplinary action against the officer but it is certainly not a ground for rejecting the writ petition. 70 Mad L W 60 : (1957) 1 Mad L J 28 : AIR 1957 Mad 338 (339) (Pt B) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Petitioner Club paying sales tax on refreshment served by it to members, since 1939—No objection to tax taken — Petitioner challenging legality of the very levy of tax—Long and tedious avenue of appeal and revision not followed — Remedy by way of writ under Art. 226 held was appropriate and correct one—Revisional machinery provided by Sales Tax Act is primarily intended for individual assessees dissatisfied by assessment made—Though there is no provision in the Constitution it is desirable that before Government is put on its defence, in such a case, there should be notice to it, like one required under S. 80, Civil P. C — In the particular case however, no notice held was necessary—(Sales Tax—Madras Sales Tax Act (9 of 1939), S. 3(a). 1952 Mad W N 200 : 1952-1 Mad L J 401 : 1952-3 S T C 77 : AIR 1952 Mad 814 (816, 817) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 10).

98 (j). Parties.

See Note 87.

98 (k). Presentation of petition.

See Note 11.

98 (l). Proceedings, whether suit.

See Note 79.

98 (m). Preliminary issues.

——Art. 226—Preliminary issue regarding jurisdiction to entertain petition—(Civil P. C. (1908), O. 14, R 2))

Where at the hearing of the petition under Art. 226 asking certain reliefs, the opposite party raised a preliminary point, namely, that the High Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the petition.

Held, that the High Court should try the issue of jurisdiction as a preliminary issue. AIR 1932 Bom 128, Ref. 57 Bom L R 753 : I L R (1955) Bom 846 : AIR 1955 Bom 381 (382, 383) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Procedure.

It is always the practice of Courts not to go into all the questions canvassed before the Court where the case could be decided on a particular point. Munwar Khan v. Hyderabad State, I L R (1955) Hyd 768 : AIR 1956 Hyd 22 (24) (Pt C) (Pr 7) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Constitutional question, when need not be decided.

In any case where a constitutional question is raised, though it may be legitimately presented by the record, yet if the record presents some other clear grounds upon which the Court may rest its judgment and thereby render the constitutional question immaterial to the case, that course will be adopted. I L R (1955) Hyd ——Art. 226—Quo warranto — Objections that petitioner has no sufficient interest and that he is guilty of laches not raised at time of admitting application can be raised during final hearing, when no formal procedure by way of obtaining leave to file motion had been adopted (Per Das C. J.). AIR 1952 Orissa 359 (373) (Pt G) (Pr 30) (DB).

337 ; A I R 1955 Hyd 82 (89, 93) (Pt C) (Prs 23, 46) (DB).

98(n). Res judicata.

See Notes 105, 114, 213 and 216.

98(o). Review.

See Note 108.

98(p). Rules of High Court.

——Art. 226—Pleadings—Petition for quashing certain notices issued under S. 34 (1-A), Income-tax Act — Affidavit in support of petition mentioning that true copies of notices were attached — Copies of notices attached not bearing signatures of deponent or his authorised agent or of the Oath Commissioner before whom affidavit was sworn, Held, that the copies filed not being in compliance with law could be ignored —Petition held not maintainable for non-compliance with rules of Court. 1960 All L J 354 : 1960 All W R (HC) 319 : (1960) 40 I T R 407 : AIR 1960 All 377 (377, 378) (Pt A) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Scope. See High Court Rules and Orders — Allahabad High Court Rules (1952), Chap VIII, R. 5. AIR 1957 All 414 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Rules of Allahabad High Court in regard to writs—R. 9—Scope of.

Rule 9 of the Rules made by the Allahabad High Court in regard to writs under Art. 226 of the Constitution concerns itself only with the formal presentation and does not regulate the right of audience either at the initial stage when the application is moved or at the time of the final hearing. G. P. Singh v. Hon'ble Judges of High Court, Allahabad, 1952 All L J 182 : 1952 All W R (H C) 234 : I L R (1953) 2 All 194 : AIR 1952 All 519 (520) (Pr 2) (SB).

——Art. 226 — All respondents to writ petition not residing or carrying on business or having offices situate within Ordinary Civil Jurisdictior of Calcutta High Court — Petition should be made in Appellate Side and not in original side—Objection on this score should be taken at inception — Defect is remediable defect. See High Court Rules and Orders — Calcutta High Court Writ Rules, R. 4. AIR 1966 Cal 151.

——Art. 226—Writ petition—Procedure—Petition in representative capacity — Maintainability — Civil P. C. (1908), O. 1, R. 8 — High Court Rules and Orders (Calcutta) Rules, Rr. 11 and 30.

An application under Art. 226 of the Constitution is in the nature of an original proceeding to be made before the constitutional writ jurisdiction of the High Court, except an application for a writ in the nature of habeas corpus, which is to be made in the Extraordinary Original Criminal Jurisdiction of the High Court. The applications are governed by procedural rules framed by the High Court. Reading Rr. 11 and 30 of the Rules made by the High Court (Calcutta) for filing applications under Art. 226 of the Constitution together, it appears that an application in a representative capacity is not wholly uncontemplated:

Held, that as the persons whom the petitioner wanted to represent did not have the same interest within the meaning of O. 1, R. 8, Civil P. C., leave to convert the petitions into a representative petition could not be granted. ('62) 66 Cal W N 912.

——Art. 226—Procedure—Application during vacation.

Rules framed by Nagpur High Court under Art. 225, R. 4 — Right to make petition during long vacation exists. I L R (1953) Nag 267 : 1953 Nag L J 503 : AIR 1953 Nag 81 (83) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

—Arts. 226 and 235 — Orissa High Court Rules (Vol. 1) R. 16 (vi) — Rule requiring disciplinary proceedings under Art. 235 to be placed before Full Court of all judges — Whether authority administratively recommending imposition of punishment on judicial officer can judicially decide legality of such punishment in writ petition. (Quaere). AIR 1965 Orissa 183 (188) (Pt I) (Prs 20, 21) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Venue — Case set down before High Court of Punjab at Chandigarh and not before Circuit Court — It is only administrative matter — Objection cannot be allowed to prevail when Circuit Bench cannot be treated as separate Court and not a part of High Court. (1963-64) 24 F J R 154 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 632 (Punj).

——Art. 226— High Court Rules and Orders (Punjab) Vol. 5, Chap 3 B Rr. 1 Proviso and 4 — Application under Art. 226 of the Constitution—Chief Justice has power to direct Division Bench to hear petition in exceptional cases — Constitution of India, Arts. 225 and 226 : See High Court Rules and Orders (Punjab), Vol. 5, Chap. 3-B, R. 1 Proviso. ('63) 65 Pun L R 125.

——Arts. 226, 227 — Commissions of Inquiry Act (1952), S. 4—Procedure regarding inspection of documents — High Court would not decide at what stage documents should be shown to petitioners. See Commissions of Enquiry Act (1952), S. 4. AIR 1960 Punj 86

98(q). Return by respondent.

——Art. 226—Pleadings—Plea in defence.

The law allows a party to take any defence which is open to him and except where there is a question of estoppel, the ethics of a party's conduct are not relevant.

Thus, the plea of a public body like the Port Commissioners as a respondent in a writ petition that though they had adopted the Fundamental Rules with the sanction of Government as long ago as in 1921 and though, at the time of the dismissal of the applicant they had been applying those rules uniformly for about sixty-one years, they were yet entitled to disregard the rules in the applicant's case, because they had adopted them without any power in law to do so, would not appear to be a very proper or becoming plea but it has to be entertained and examined. AIR 1957 Cal 720 (723) (Pt B) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Application under — Case which opposite party is to answer—Need to be precise.

In matters in the nature of high prerogative writs, it is desirable to be precise as to the case which the opposite party is called upon to answer. Chairman, Budge, Budge Municipality v. Mangru Mia 57 Cal W N 25 : AIR 1953 Cal 433 (441, 442) (Pt H) (Pr 29) (SB).

——Art. 226—Civil P. C. (1908), O. 8, R. 1 — Written statement by Government — Not exempt from provisions of O. 27, R. 1, Civil P. C. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 8, R. 1. AIR 1953 Him Pra 95.

——Art. 226—Practice — Duty of opponent Government officer to file return.

The High Court expects any Government officer who is an opponent party to proceedings under Art. 226 to file his return in obedience to the Court's order. It is his duty to file a return even if the order complained against was not passed on his own initiative but on the orders of the Government. 1956 Madh B L J 642 : Madh B L R 1956 Civil 413 : I L R (1956) Madh B 330 : AIR 1956 Madh B 163 (164) (Pt C) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Return by respondent under — Should not contain insinuations against petitioner.

The return which is required of a respondent in proceeding under Art. 226 is as to the facts relied on as constituting a valid and sufficient ground for refusing the prayer of the petitioner and not of insinuations against the petitioner in the proceedings. 1962 M P C 142 : I L R (1963) Madh Pra 22 : 1961 Jab L J 1464 : 1962 M P L J 50 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 128 (128) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Pleadings—Duty of respondent — Petition to quash deportation order of District Magistrate on ground that he had no jurisdiction to pass order — Counter statement of District Magistrate not stating whether power had been delegated to him but only submitting that notice was irregular — Counter statement held not proper. 1961 (2) Cri L J 291 : AIR 1961 Tripura 35 (36) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

98 (r). Abatement.

——Art. 226 — Abatement — Writ application made against decision of Board under Calcutta Improvement Act to include properties in scheme under the Act—One of appellants dying after hearing of appeal was concluded and judgment had been reserved—Held, appeal did not abate or was otherwise affected by the death. See Civil P. C. (1908) O. 22, R. 6. AIR 1957 Cal 578 (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Abatement — Petition for quashing order under S. 18, Land Acqqisition Act — Death of applicant — If can be continued by his brother.

A member of a Nair Tarwad applied under S. 18 (1), Land Acquisition Act, for a reference to Court on behalf of the tarwad. The application was dismissed on ground that he was not the person interested and therefore he applied under Arts. 226 and 227 for quashing that order. During the pendency of the petition the original petitioner died and his brother was substituted in his place.

Held that the brother was entitled to continue the proceedings. Any fresh application subsequent to the death of the original petitioner would have been clearly barred by limitation under sub-s. (2) of S. 18. AIR 1929 Mad 451, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 508 : 1957 Ker L J 518 : I L R (1957) Ker 765 : AIR 1957 Ker 152 (153) (Pt B) (Prs 8, 9) (DB)

——Art. 226 — Writ petition by two heirs of the deceased with respect to his property—Death of one of petitioners — Will executed by her in favour of other petitioner — Other petitioner is entitled to continue writ petition.

A died pending the writ petition filed by her and her son B challenging the order of cancellation of allotment of land to which they had succeeded after the death of C. Preliminary objection to the hearing of the petition was raised that respondents wanted to verify whether there were other heirs to A who were liable to be brought on record. On finding that A had executed a valid will in favour of B.

Held, that B was entitled to continue the writ petition in his personal capacity as well as in the capacity of A's legal representatives. 1965 Cur L J 817 (Punj).

——Art. 226 - Dismissal of petitioner on departmental enquiry—Writ of certiorari Death of petitioner — Legal representative not entitled to continue the writ.

Where the issue of a writ was sought only to quash the order of dismissal and restoration of the petitioner to his rights in the service of the State, it is only a personal right of the petitioner, that is sought to be ventilated and therefore if the petitioner is no longer alive to avail himself of the benefits of the remedy, the legal representative of the petitioner cannot continue the writ. (1985) 2 Mad L J 302 : AIR 1966 Mad 260 (262) (Prs 4, 5).

99. Proceedings under Art. 226.
See Note 79.

100. Prohibition.
See under Part E (Notes 278 to 291).

101. Quasi-judicial authority.
See Note 168.

102. Quo warranto
See under Part F (Notes 292 to 305).

103. Rajpramukh.
See Note 54.

104. Relief, consequential.
See also Note 37.

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Consequential relief — High Court has power to order — This discretionary power how and when to be exercised.

Where sales tax, assessed and paid by the dealer, is declared by a competent Court to be invalid in law, the payment of tax already made is one made under a mistake within S. 72 of the Contract Act and so the Government to whom the payment has been made by mistake must in law repay it. In this respect, the High Court has in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art 226 of the Constitution of India, power for the purpose of enforcement of fundamental rights and statutory rights to give consequential relief by ordering repayment of money realised by the Government without the authority of law.

At the same time the special remedy provided in Art. 226 is not intended to supersede completely the modes of obtaining relief by an action in a civil Court or to deny defence ligitimately open in such actions. The power to give relief under Art. 226 is a discretionary power. This is specially true in the case of power to issue writs in the nature of mandamus. Among the several matters which the High Courts rightly take into consideration in the exercise of that discretion is the delay made by the aggrieved party in seeking this special remedy. Another is the nature of controversy of facts and law that may have to be decided as regards the availability of consequential relief. Thus, where a person comes to the Court for relief under Art. 226 on the allegation that he has been assessed to tax under a void legislation and having paid it under a mistake is entitled to get it back, it will be sound use of discretion to leave the party to seek his remedy by the ordinary mode of action in a civil Court and to refuse to exercise in his favour the extraordinary remedy under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

The provisions of the Limitation Act do not as such apply to the granting of relief under Art. 226. However, the maximum period fixed by the Legislature as the time within which the relief by a suit in a civil Court must be brought may ordinarily be taken to be a reasonable standard by which delay in seeking remedy under Art 226 can be measured. The Court may consider the delay unreasonable even if it is less than the period of limitation prescribed for a civil action for the remedy but where the delay is more than this period it will almost always be proper for the Court to hold that it is unreasonable. State of Madhya Pradesh v. Bhailal Bhai (1964) 6 S C R 261 : 1964 Jab L J 115 : (1964) 15 S T C 450 : 1964 M P L J 705 : 1964 Mah L J 601 : (1964) 1 S C W R 793 : AIR 1964 S C 1006 (1010, 1011, 1012) (Pt B) (Prs 14, 16, 17, 21).

105. Res judicata.

See also Notes 114, 213 and 216 and Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11.

● —Arts. 32 and 226 — Res judicata in writ proceedings — When doctrine can be invoked.

Every citizen whose fundamental right is infringed by the State has a fundamental right to approach the Court for enforcing his right. If by a final decision of a competent Court his title to property has been negatived, he ceases to have the fundamental right in respect of that property and, therefore, he can no longer enforce it. In that context the doctrine of res judicata may be invoked. But where there is no such decision at all, there is no scope to call it in its aid. Where, therefore, the decision in petition under Art. 226, was not given on merits, the same would not operate as res judicata for maintainability of an application under Art. 32, for similar relief. Joseph Pothen v. State of Kerala, 1965 S C D 893 : 1965 Ker L T 633 : 1965 Ker L J 660 : AIR 1965 S C 1514 (1515) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

● —Art. 32 — Decision in earlier writ petition on merits — Subsequent suit involving same questions and for same reliefs is barred upon general principles of res judicata. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1965 S C 1153.

● —Art. 226 — Constructive res judicata — Writ petition under Constitution—Fundamental rights — Order of sales tax assessment for a year — Validity impugned — Dismissal of petition—Second petition under Constitution—Validity of order of same year impugned on new grounds not raised before — Bar of res judicata — Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 11.

The assessee challenged, by a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution the validity of the order of assessment for the year 1957-58 made under the Madhya Bharat Sales Tax Act. The High Court and the Supreme Court dismissed his petition. The Supreme Court in dismissing the appeal did not allow the assessee to raise two additional grounds not set out in the original petition. The assessee filed another petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution, challenging the validity of the same order of assessment, on the basis of the two additional grounds, the High Court dismissed the petition on merits. The assessee, by Special Leave, appealed,

Held, the assessee would be precluded from challenging the validity of the order on the principle of constructive res judicata. Though the Courts dealing with the questions of the infringement of fundamental rights must consistently endeavour to sustain the said rights, it would not be right to ignore the principle of res judicata altogether in dealing with writ petitions filed by citizens alleging contravention of their fundamental rights. The general principle underlying the doctrine of res judicata is ultimately based on considerations of public policy, that decisions of competent Courts should be final, and no one should be made to face the same kind of litigation twice over, because such a process would be contrary to considerations of fair play and justice.

The rule of constructive res judicata that if a plea could have been taken by a party in a proceeding between him and his opponent, he would not be permitted to take that plea against the same party in subsequent proceeding which is based on the same cause of action, is founded on the same considerations of public policy. If the doctrine of constructive res judicata is not applied to writ proceedings, it would be open to the party to take proceedings one after another and urge new grounds every time, and that is plainly inconsistent with considerations of public policy.

In regard to orders of assessment for different years, the position may be different. The Court may ultimately adopt the same view which had been adopted on the earlier occasion, but if a new ground is urged, the Court may have to consider it on the merits, because, strictly speaking, the principle of res judicata may not apply to such a case. Devilal Modi v. Sales-tax Officer, Ratlam, (1965) 1 S C J 579; (1965) 1 I T J 508 : (1965) 16 S T C 602 : AIR 1965 S C 1150 (1153) (Prs 10, 11, 12).

● —Art. 226 — General principles of res judicata apply to writ petitions under Arts. 226 and 32. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1964 SC 1013.

● —Art. 32 — Res judicata — Writ proceedings challenging validity of certain notices under U. P. Act 31 of 1957 dismissed—Petitioner claiming certificate to appeal to Supreme Court but failing to deposit necessary security as required by High Court Rules and in consequence certificate granted cancelled — Subsequent writ petition under Art. 32 in Supreme Court challenging same proceedings are barred by res judicata. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1963 S C 1563.

● —Art. 32 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11 — Rule of res judicata is not merely a technical rule but is based on public policy — Can be invoked against a petition under Art. 32 of Constitution. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1961 S C 1457 (1461, 1462, 1463) (Pt C) (Prs 9, 10, 11).

● —Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11 — Competency of Court — Constitution of India, Arts. 32 and 226 — Decision of High Court under Art. 226 if can be pleaded in bar to petition under Art. 32. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1961 S C 1457.

● —Art. 32—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11 — Applicability to petitions under Art. 32 — Prior decision on a writ petition under Art. 226—When operates as a bar to petition under Art. 32—Principles. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1961 S C 1457.

● —Arts. 32 and 226 — Succesive writ petitions against Committee of Privileges of State Legislative Assembly — Maintainability—Change in personnel of Committee—Effect—Res judicata—Applicability.

Where by a petition under Art. 32 against the Chairman and the members of the Committee of Privileges of a State Legislative Assembly, the petitioner sought to raise the same controversies or questions regarding the power or privilege of a House of a Legislature of a State decided in a former writ petition under Art. 32 by the same petitioner against the Chairman of the Committee of Privileges of the State Legislative Assembly the writ petition is barred by the principle of res judicata and, therefore, not maintainable. M. S. M. Sharma v. Dr. Shree Krishna Sinha, (1961) 1 Ker L R 8 : 1961 S C D 79 : (1961) 2 S C A 582 : (1961) 1 S C R 96 : (1961) 2 S C J 73 : A I R 1960 S C 1186 (1190) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

● —Art. 226 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 10 (5) (b)—Written down value—Method enjoined by S. 10 (5) (b) — Written down value and depreciation determined under S. 35—Such determination does not operate as estoppel or res judicata — (Evidence Act 1872), S. 115 (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11) — (Constitution of India, Art. 226). See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 10 (5) (b). A I R 1959 S C 881.

● —Arts. 32, 226 — Direct petition to Supreme Court without appeal from decision under Art. 226—Effect.

Where the questions dealt with under the petition under Art. 32 had been raised before the High Court at previous stages by means of applications under Art. 226 and decided against but no appeal to the Supreme Court had been taken against the orders therein, held, that nothing that the Supreme Court said was intended to be a pronouncement as to the correctness or otherwise of those orders, nor to encourage the practice of direct approach to the Supreme Court (except for good reasons) in matters which had been taken to the High Court and found against, without obtaining leave to appeal therefrom. M. K. Gopalan v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1954 Mad W N 564 : 1954 S C J 534 : (1954) 2 Mad L J 76 : (1954) Cri L J 1012 : 1954 S C A 557 : 1955 SCR 163 : 1954 All W R (SC) 392 : A I R 1954 S C 362 (364) (Pt E) (Pr 9).

● ——Arts. 32 and 226—Scope.

(Quaere). — Whether a proceeding under Art. 32 would lie after an application under Art. 226 for the same relief on the same facts had been rejected after the due enquiry by a High Court. Aswini Kumar v. Arbinda Bose, 1952 S C A 683 : 1952 S C J 568: 1953 S C R 1 : A I R 1952 S C 369 (370, 386) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 70).

● ——Art. 226 –Whether an application under Art. 32 is maintainble after a similar application Art. 226 is dismissed by the High Court (Quaere), Janardhan Reddy v. The State, 1951 Mad W N (Cr) 189 (2) : 64 Mad L W 401 : 1951 S C 320 : 52 Cri L J 786 : 1951 S C R 344 : 1951 All L J (SC) 94 : 1951 Mad W N 813 (2) : AIR 1951 S C 217 (226) (Pt H) (Pr 29).

● — Art. 226 –Civil P. C. (1908). S. 11 – State Government's power under S. 7-F. U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent & Eviction Act, to grant permission to landlord to file ejectment suit – Tenant challenging Government's power by writ petition – Petition dismissed—Subsequent suit between the same tenant and his landlord –Point in dispute whether State Government had power to grant permission to landlord to file ejectment suit—Held, per Majority: that decision in writ petition operates as res judicata — Per Desai, C. J. contra): No res judicata since earlier proceedings were for issue of certiorari and High Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit for ejectment and the issue decided in earlier proceeding was competency of State Government to grant permission and not whether the permission was legal and correct or whether the permission was of any legal value, which were the questions substantially in issue in the subsequent suit. Ram Kumar v. Baldeo Prasad, ILR (1965) 1 All 579 : 1964 All W R (HC) 751 : 1965 All L J 88 : AIR 1965 All 572 (579, 580, 585, 586) (Pt B) (Prs 16, 18, 20, 37, 38, 39) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Headship of a clan in United Khasi Jaintia Hills District –Competency of executive committee of District Council to decide the matter — Question settled by competent Courts and decision operating as res judicata against parties — Question cannot be raised again in writ petition under Art. 226 — Petition must proceed on basis of its competency — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. ILR (1963) 15 Assam 366 : A I R 1963 Assam 186 (187, 188) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 141 — In A. I. R. 1962 S. C. 486, Supreme Cour: holding clauses 1 and 2 of Notification dated 11th June, 1958 issued by Government of Bombay under S. 5 of the Minimum Wages Act (1948) Intra vires—Subsequently clauses challenged by petitioner in a petition under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution — Petitioner not party to the case which went up to the Supreme Court – Grounds on which clauses were challenged in the present petition neither considered nor even raised in the earlier case before the Supreme Court – High Court cannot shut out the petitioner on a preliminary ground that in the previous decision clauses 1 and 2 were held to be intra vires of the Act by the Supreme Court and could not at all be challenged in the High Court. 1963 Mah L J 793 : 65 Bom L R 726 : 1963 (7) Fac L R 373 : (1963) 2 Lab L J 548 : ILR (1963) Bom 672 : A I R 1964 Bom 51 (53) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Other remedy—Issue of writ.

The petitioner claimed certain orders of the Assistant Commissioner, Sales-Tax, to be quashed. In a previous petition between the same parties in the very matter the High Court had ordered that the petitioner must exhaust his remedies against the impugned order under S. 22, Sales-tax Act.

Held, that the previous decision was a judgment inter partes and was binding on the petitioner; that the matter was no longer res integra and that the petitioner could not be heard to urge that the remedy was not an equally efficacious remedy. 1959 Nag L J (Notes) 72.

——Art. 226 — Successive writ applications — First application dismissed summarily on hearing petitioner — Second application on same grounds and for same reliefs is barred — Principle of res judicata applies. A I R 1961 S C 1457, Expl. and Foll. 66 Cal W N 1074 : A I R 1963 Cal 6 (7, 8) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908). S. 11 — Award of Industrial Tribunal — Applicability of principle of res judicata — Industrial Disputes Act (1947), S. 19— Assumption of jurisdiction — Previous award of Tribunal deciding that issue cannot be held to be res judicata barring the constitutional remedy by High Court. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. A I R 1958 Cal 465.

——Art. 226 — Procedure — Res judicata—Previous application to quash notification under S. 4 of Land Acquisition Act — Question about interpretation of S. 40 (1) (b), considered incidentally or collaterally and not directly or substantially — Subsequent petition to quash notification under S. 6 — Earlier decision, held, would not operate as res judicata.

A previous writ application was filed for quashing a notification under S. 4 of the Land Acquisition Act issued in land acquisition proceedings for acquisition of lands for the purpose of manufacturing injections and medicines for a chemical company. It was filed and decided before the issue of final notification under S. 6. It was the view of Gujarat High Court at that time that if the product was useful to the public it was sufficient compliance with the section. This was clearly a decision on the collateral or incidental question whether the consequential relief of injunction against issuing notification under S. 6, and further proceeding with the acquisition should be granted or not after it was held that the notification under S. 4, could not be challenged. The notification under S. 6, was not and could not then be challenged as it was not even issued. The decision arrived at in the first petition was on the question whether an injunction should be issued or not, while in the subsequent petition to quash notification under S 6, of Land Acquisition Act the question was whether the impugned notification could be issued under S. 6. These two questions at two different stages could not be said to be substantially the same and the subject matter for actual decision of the Court being different, there could be no bar of res judicata especially as in the earlier petition the question of interpretation of S. 40 (1) (b) was considered only incidentally or collaterally and was not directly or substantially in issue. Thus the earlier decision at the earlier stage of the acquisition would not operate as res judicata so as to preclude the land owners from challenging the notification under S. 6, on the ground that it was without jurisdiction. A I R 1964 S C 1013, Rel. on. (1965) 6 Guj L R 505 : A I R 1966 Guj 102 (104, 105, 106) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Arts 226 and 227 — Res judicata — Dismissal of municipal employee without previous approval of Government — Collector holding that the employee was a permanent employee setting aside dismissal order on the ground that it was bad in the absence of Government approval — Municipality's writ application to quash Collector's order — High Court also holding in such proceedings that the employee was a permanent one — Municipality again passing resolution dismissing the employee without Government's previous approval — Held that in the proceedings to set aside the second order it was not open to the municipality to contend that the employee was a temporary one and hence no previous approval of Government was necessary. 1964 Jab L J 3 : 1964 M P L J 36.

——Art. 226 — Res judicata—Second petition on the same facts.

Petitioner, a Sub-Inspector of Police in the former State of Vindhya Pradesh was discharged from service by the Inspector-General of Police of the State after due enquiry. A petition challenging the order of discharge was dismissed in limine by a Division Bench of the High Court. A second petition was subsequently filed.

Held, that after the dismissal on merits of an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution, a second application on the same facts was not maintainable. AIR 1953 Cal 297; A I R 1958 Cal 219 and AIR 1959 All 589, Dist. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 221.

——Art. 226—Res judicata—Refusal to issue writ of prohibition — Subsequent petition to reconsider — Maintainability.

Where in the previous petition the petitioner had prayed for a writ of prohibition against the Government not to pass any order on the enquiry that was conducted against him by Collector, Indore, and that request was considered and rejected, it is not now open to the petitioner to make the same request, and thus ask the High Court to reconsider the earlier decision. 1959 Jab L J 370 : 1959 M P C 463 : 1959 M P L J 1168 : AIR 1959 Madh Pra 295 (297) (Pt D) (Pr 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11—Application under Art. 226, Constitution of India, dismissed on ground of availability of remedy by way of suit — Observations that provisions of Art. 311 were observed — Remarks that merits of case not entered into — Decision is not res judicata in subsequent suit. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 11. AIR 1958 M P 326.

——Art. 226—Res judicata—Principle of — Applicability of,

Precisely on the very facts that were being alleged in the second petition, the petitioner filed a writ petition on 9th July, 1954, which was dismissed on 14th January, 1957 by a Division Bench of the High Court. The only new addition in the second petition was that he now challenged the vires of Ordinance No. 56 of 1949.

Held, that although S. 11, Civil P. C. (Res judicata) did not apply in terms to cases of writ, the principle contained in it should be applied. 1957 M P C 770 : 1957 Jab L J 1039 : 1958 M P L J 184 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 82 (82) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Arts. 32 and 226 — Principle of res judicata — Its applicability to decisions under Arts. 32 and 226.

A decision between the parties, which stands, not having been appealed from, binds them and it would not be open to either of the parties to challenge its correctness by initiating fresh proceedings. This rule is firmly rooted and it applies irrespective of the nature of the proceeding, in which the decision is rendered. A writ proceeding, whether under Art. 32 or Art. 226, is just as much a proceeding in a civil Court, and there is no virtue in enabling party or a suitor to get out of an adverse decision against him by permitting him to seek the refuse of writs. But all the same, the entire body of the doctrine of res judicata as embodied in the provisions of S. 11 of the Civil P. C. or under what may be called the general principles of res judicata which are founded on grounds of public policy to avoid multiplicity of proceedings need not be pressed into service to delimit the scope of writ proceedings, particularly in cases where there is a complaint of infringement of fundamental rights. It is, of course, true that if a fundamental right is put in issue once and decided upon, the party cannot call in question that decision, as if he has a fundamental right to complain till a decision is rendered in his favour. A I R 1964 S C 922 and AIR 1964 S C 1013, Rel. on. I L R (1964) 1 Mad 954 : (1964) 54 I T R 151 : 1963 I T J (Sup) 111 : AIR 1965 Mad 68 (73, 74) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Court of competent jurisdiction — Writ petition to High Court — Decision of Industrial Appellate Tribunal held to be correct — Plea of res judicata must be rested on decision of Appellate Tribunal and not that of High Court. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1957 Mad 60.

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court — Prior application for writ of certiorari dismissed — Another application for writ of prohibition or mandamus—(Stamp Act (1899), S. 57).

Where an application for a writ of prohibition or for such other appropriate order to restrain the Revenue Board from enforcing the stamp duty and penalty was dismissed, on the ground that the dismissal of a prior application for certiorari should be deemed to have decided that the stamp duty imposed was correct :

Held, that the result of the dismissal of the prior application could not have the effect of an adjudication as to the correctness of the stamp duty. Though the order of the Revenue Board may not be quashed by a writ of certiorari it was certainly open to the High Court to have directed the Revenue Board by issuing a writ in the nature of mandamus to make a reference to this Court under S. 57 of the Indian Stamp Act. A I R 1950 S C 218, Rel. on. (1955) 1 Mad L J 8 : 1954 Mad W N 902 : 67 Mad L W 1067 : I L R (1955) Mad 1037 : A I R 1955 Mad 304 (304) (Prs 1, 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Res judicata.

The decision in a writ application proceeds on certain admitted facts. The question in such an application is whether the High Court in the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction will issue a direction to a subordinate authority. If the High Court refused to exercise its discretion to issue such a direction, the dismissal of the application will not amount to a decree in a suit within the meaning of S. 11, Civil P. C. and such a decision cannot be said to have the effect of res judicata in a subsequent suit between the parties. A I R 1961 Manipur 1 (3, 4) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226—Judgment in writ proceedings is binding on parties. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. A I R 1960 Orissa 46 (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Principles of res judicata — Previous writ petition—Question of vires of Act not raised — Subsequent suit raising this question is barred. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1964 Pat 174 (FB).

——Art. 226—Decision in writ petition—Operation as res judicata in subsequent suit. See Civil P. C. (1908) S. 11. AIR 1965 Punj 342 (DB).

——Art. 226—Res judicata — Writ petition challenging acquisition of land, under Land Acquisition Act, for public purposes — Order refusing writ for want of evidence—Order does not operate as res judicata in subsequent regular suit raising same question. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. AIR 1965 Punj 50.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Certiorari — Petition dismissed in limine — Petitioner has no right to make another application for same relief on identical facts in the same Court.

Where a petition under Arts. 226 and 227 was dismissed in limine by a Division Bench of the High Court, the petitioner moved the High Court again before another Bench of concurrent jurisdiction, for the same relief on identical facts in another petition under Arts. 226 and 227 and contended that the order of dismissal in previous petition not being a 'speaking order' was not a dismissal on the merits of the case.

Held that the petitioner had no continuous right to make applications under Arts. 226 and 227 till delivery of a judgment amounting to a speaking order and that no writ of certiorari could lie within same Court after it had once been dismissed. Case law d scused.

A final order or judgment can be challenged either by way of appeal or review and not by presentation of another similar petition. No further appeal lies so far as the High Court is concerned from any order passed by a Division Bench of the High Court either in limine or on merits. The petitioner could have moved the High Court for a review of the order under its inherent powers but that was not a petition for review.

As a matter of principle there could be no successive applications for writs of certiorari in the High Court.

It is a matter in each case to determine for the Court which chooses to pass an order of dismissal to adjust to the reasons which actuated it in so doing or content itself by simply dismissing it. ('65) 67 Pun L R 862 : 1965 Cur L J 852 : ILR (1966) 1 Punj 218 (DB).

——Art. 226—Scope of writ petition and regular civil suit — Judgment delivered in writ petition cannot operate as res judicata in civil suit. ('63) 65 Pun L R 945.

——Art. 226—Civil P. C. (1908), O. 23, R. 1—Previous writ petition not pressed and dismissed—Nothing to show that it was withdrawn with liberty to file fresh petition—Held bar might be created under O. 23, R. 1 to the filing of fresh writ petition. See Civil P. C. (1908), O. 23, R. 1. (1962) 64 Pun L R 1116.

——Art. 226 - Dismissal of petition in limine—Order not on merits — Another petition for same cause of action by different parties not barred.

If a writ petition is dismissed in limine and an order is pronounced in that behalf whether or not the dismissal would constitute a bar to another petition for the same cause of action by another party would depend upon the nature of the order. If the order is on merits, it would be a bar; if the order shows that the dismissal was for the reason that the petitioner was guilty of laches or that he had an alternative remedy, it would not be a bar except in certain cases. If the petition is dismissed in limine without passing a speaking order, then such dismissal cannot be treated as creating a bar of res judicata. In such a case considerations of propriety would not be infringed by affording relief to a petition if he is entitled to it under the law. A I R 1961 S C 1457, Rel. on. 1962 Cur L J 264 : 64 Pun L R 547 : ILR (1962) 2 Punj 583 : A I R 1962 Punj 498 (500, 501) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Res judicata — Successive applications for certiorari or mandamus on same facts and grounds —Not maintainable—Principles of res judicata apply —A I R 1956 Pat 182, Rel. on. A I R 1949 E P 67, Disting. ILR (1960) 2 Punj 660 : A I R 1960 Punj 602 (603) (Prs 5, 7).

——Art. 226—Res judicata—Railway servant — Dismissal in contravention of Art. 311 (1)— Civil suit— Decree declaring dismissal illegal — Reinstatement and second order of dismissal by same officer after fresh inquiry - Application under Art. 226 — Bar of Res judicata—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11).

The petitioner, a temporary railway clerk brought a suit for declaration that the order of dismissal passed against him was illegal on the ground that he had been appointed by the General Manager and could not be dismissed by the Divisional Personnel Officer in contravention of Art. 311 (1), Constitution of India. The suit was decreed and confirmed on appeal. The petitioner was reinstated but about a month after a fresh ex parte inquiry was held by the Divisional Personnel Officer who ordered his removal from service.

Held in a petition under Art. 226 (i) that the decision of the civil Court was binding on the parties in proceedings under Art. 226 till it was set aside in accordance with law.

A decision once rendered by a competent authority on a matter in issue between the parties after a full enquiry should not be permitted to be reagitated. The rule of res judicata is intended not only to prevent a new and possibly conflicting decision but also to prevent a new investigation so that a person may not be harassed over and over again to estabiish the same fact or right. This attitude towards the decision of the civil Courts by a public authority is improper. 1957 S C J 28 : A I R 1957 S C 38, Rel. on. (ii) that the petitioner was within his rights to avail of the remedy under Art. 226 which was cheaper and much more expeditious than the remedy of filing a second suit in civil Court. (iii) that the dismissal of the petitioner contravened the provisions of Art. 311 (1) and was therefore invalid. I L R (1957) Punj 1833 : AIR 1959 Punj 37 (38, 39) (Prs 3, 6).

——Art. 226 — Principle of res judicata — Dismissal of previous petition in limine on merits—Facts within knowledge of petitioner — Second petition with addition of such facts—Held, barred by res judicata—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11. I L R (1963) 13 Raj 703 : 1963 Raj L W 408 : A I R 1964 Raj 64 (64, 65, 66) (Pr 1) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Petition for writ of certiorari — Maintainability—Prior dismissal of revision petition by High Court.

The dismissal of a revision petition by tha High Court of Udaipur, while it had no jurisdiction to interfere cannot be a bar to a subsequent petition for a writ of certiorari in respect of the same matter. Laksmi Lal v. Bhagwat Singh. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 570 : 1951 Raj L W 484 : A I R 1952 Raj 22 (26, 27) (Pt I) (Pr 25) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Res judicata in writ proceedings — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11.

The decision in previous writ proceeding between the same parties that the petitioner company was an industry within the meaning of the Industrial Disputes Act would be binding and cannot be reagitated in subsequent writ proceeding. A I R 1964 Tripura 32 (34, 35) (Pt E) Pr 11).

106. Retrospective effect.

See also Ibid, Preamble.

——Art. 226— Retrospective operation — Departmental inquiry — Order of dismissal — Proceeding violating natural justice —Appeal against order dismissed before Constitution – Revision dismissed after Constitution —Writ petition, if maintainable.

The Constitution is prospective in its application and has no retrospective operation except where the contrary has been expressly provided for. Art. 226 and Art. 227 have no retrospective operation and transactions which are past and closed and the rights and liabilities which have accrued and vested would remain unaffected.

Where the order of dismissal is passed before the Constitution and rights accrue to the State and liabilities attach to the servant before the Constitution came into force, the subsequent conferment of jurisdiction and powers on the High Court by the Constitution under Art. 226 can have no retrospective operation on such rights and liabilities. Even if the order of dismissal be a nullity on the ground that it was passed by disregarding the rules of natural justice, the High Court cannot properly be asked to exercise its newly acquired jurisdiction and powers under Art. 226.

Bose, J. (Contra) :— Save in exceptional cases, the Courts will not interfere under Art. 226 until all normal remedies available to a petitioner have been exhausted. The position would not be any different because he has done before the Constitution exactly what he would have been expected, and in the ordinary course bound to do after. It is true that if the final order had been passed before the Constitution came into force on 26th January, 1950, the petitioner would have had no remedy in the Courts. But the Constitution breathed fresh life into this land and conferred precious rights and privileges that were not there before. They should not be viewed narrowly. The State of U. P. v. Mohammad Nooh, 1958 S C J 242 : I L R (1957) 2 All 422 : 1958 S C A 73 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 197 : 1958 SCR 595 : AIR 1958 S C 86 (94, 95, 96) (Pt C) (Prs 12, 13, 19, 20, 21).

■ ——Art. 226— Firman issued by Nizam prior to Constitution— Right to possession destroyed—Right if revived after Constitution – Writ of mandamus. See Ibid, Art. 13. AIR 1956 S C 60.

■ ——Art. 32 (2).—Retrospective operation.

The provisions of the Articles were not intended to operate retrospectively and therefore, something which was legally good on 25-1-1950, cannot be held to have become bad on 26-1-1950. Where therefore, the judgment of the H. C. affirming the convictions and sentences of the petitioners had acquired finality in the fullest sense of the term before the 26-1-1950, no one could question the validity of the convictions at the date when the Constitution came into force. Janardhan Reddy v. State of Hyderabad, 1951 S C J 320 : 52 Cri L J 736 : 1951 S C R 344 : 1951 All L J (S C) 94 : 1951 Mad W N 613 (2) : 1951 Mad W N (Cri) 189 (2) : 64 Mad L W 406 : AIR 1951 S C 217 (225) (Pt G) (Pr 27).

——Art. 226— Retrospectivity. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 16. AIR 1954 Ajmer 71.

——Art. 226– Notices for acquisition of petitioner's land issued before coming into force of the Constitution —Writ petition after Constitution was enforced— Neither award under S. 11, prepared nor possession taken by Government under S. 16 of Land Acquisition Act — Petition, held, not liable to be dismissed on ground that the injury complained of had already occurred before Constitution was enforced.

Where the notices regarding acquisition of the petitioner's land were issued before the Constitution was enforced but neither the award had been prepared under S. 11 of the Land Acquision Act nor the Government had taken possession of the disputed land, the writ petition was not liable to be dismissed on the ground that the injury complained of had already occurred before the Constitution was enforced.

Under the provisions of S. 16 of the Land Acquisition Act, the petitioner could be divested of his right in the land in dispute only after the award had been made under S. 11 and possession taken under S. 16. As that stage had not reached and no award had been prepared, the petitioner did not stand divested of his rights and dispossession if allowed to take place could only occur in the post-Constitution period : AIR 1952 S C 339 and AIR 1962 S C 92, Disting. ILR (1965) 1 All 329.

——Art. 226 – Invalid order of requisition enforced after coming into force of Constitution — It can be adjudicated upon under article – U. P. (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), S. 3.

If an invalid order of requisition is being enforced even after the coming into force of the Constitution and by such enforcement a citizen is deprived of his property such an order can be looked into and adjudicated upon under Art. 226. 1965 All L J 681 : 1963 All W R (H C) 485.

——Art. 226 — Order passed before Constitution — No writ can be issued.

The Constitution of India is not retrospective. Hence, no writ or direction can be issued in respect of an order passed or action taken before the enforcement of the Constitution. ILR (1961) 1 All 940 : AIR 1963 All 358 (360) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Retrospective operation — Assessment order becoming final before Constitution cannot be quashed under Art. 226.

Where the income-tax assessment order was made and had become final before the comming into force of the Constitution, the order is a judicial order and cannot be quashed on the ground of want of jurisdiction, under Art. 226, after the coming into force of the Constitution. AIR 1953 Punj 16 and AIR 1951 S C 217 and AIR 1954 S C 545, Rel. on. The Court cannot treat the order as nullity, and restrain action being taken in pursuance of it : AIR 1961 S C 217 and AIR 1955 All 435 (FB), Rel. on. (1960) 39 ITR 497 : AIR 1961 All 133 (134, 135) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Retrospective effect — Exercise of powers under Art. 226 in respect of orders passed before Constitution —Writ of certiorari and mandamus —Distinction.

In cases where a writ of certiorari is sought, the High Court in exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution, has to examine the validity of a judicial or quasi-judicial order and if that judicial or quasi-judicial order had attained finality before the Constitution of India came into force, the High Court would not be entitled to exercise the powers which are exercised to issue a writ in the nature of certiorari. On the other hand, in the case of a writ of mandumus the High Court only issues direction to a public servant either to act according to law or to refrain from acting against law. Such an order can be passed by the High Court whenever occasion arises and makes it necessary that such a direction be issued. If the occasion for the issue of such a direction arises after the Constitution came into force, the powers can certainly be exercised under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The occasion may arise when the order, having been passed before the Constitution came into force, is sought to be enforced after the commencement of the Constitution. If the order is not a legal and valid order, the act of enforcing it after the commencement of the Constitution would be an act of public servant against the provisions of law and such an act sought to be committed after the commencement of the Constitution can be restrained by issue of a writ, in the nature of mandamus under Art. 228 of the Constitution.

The U. P., Government in exercise of its powers under S. 3, U. P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, passed an executive order on 3rd December, 1949, directing that the petitioner should comply with the direction given in it within six months of the Notification. The order had not acquired finality when the Constitution came into force. Subsequently time for compliance was further extended so that the order was not complied with at least, upto 17th August, 1950 when the petitioner filed an application under Art. 226 challenging that order.

Held, that the order could be challenged under Art. 226 on the ground that it was not warranted by law when passed and that the opposite parties were threatening to take action against the petitioner for non-compliance of that order even after the commencement of the Constitution. A I R 1951 S C 217, Dist. Civil Misc. Writ Case No. 315 of 1950, D/- 30 4-1952, (All) and AIR 1952 Cal 891, Rel. on. Case-law Referred. AIR 1954 All 705 (710) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1961 S C 420.]

——Art. 228—Court of Wards assuming superintendence of Ward's estate by virtue of declaration made by Government under S. 8 (1) (b), U. P. Court of Wards Act long before Constitution — Validity. See Ibid, Art. 13 (1). AIR 1954 All 608 (DB).

——Art. 228—Scheme under S. 63, M. H. R. E. Act for administration of Math and its endowments given effect to prior to Constitution coming in force—Operation of Constitution — Whether retrospective—No question of violation of fundamental rights of previous head of math arises — Scheme providing that Executive Officer shall be in charge of day-to-day administration of math — Appointment of executive officer is tantamount to giving effect to scheme. See Madras Hindu Religious Endowment Act (2 of 1927), S. 63. I L R (1962) Andh Pra 221, ——Art. 228 — Object and scope of—Order recognising partition from particular date — Effect of — Retrospective operation of statute — Analogy applies to order — Order, dated 30-6-1962, held to be made on 2-11-46 —Relief open under Art. 228. See Income Tax Act (1922), S. 25-A. (1962) 1 Andh W R 344.

——Art. 226 — Court Fees Act (1870), S. 1 — Applicability of the Act to writ petition — Retrospective operation — Question of vested rights. See Court fees Act (1870), S. 1. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 267.

——Arts. 226 and 309 — Retrospective operation — Petitioner a Civil servant in Assam working as Labour Commissioner for certain period prior to enactment of Constitution — Claim that the post was of senior I. A. S. Scale and that petitioner was paid less for the period he worked as Labour Commissioner—Claim finally disallowed by Assam Government Order No. G. L. R. 373-A16/1, dated 15 9 1960—Claim held related to a matter prior to Constitution—No remedy under Art. 226 was therefore available — Order of Government was an administrative order—Certiorari cannot be issued. AIR 1958 S C 86 Rel. on. I L R (1962) 14 Assam 515 : A I R 1962 Assam 118 (119, 120) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Operation of — Rights under ordinary laws violated before Constitution—Remedy under Art. 226 is available when no violation of rights given under Constitution is alleged.

Per Sarjoo Prosad C. J.: That the Constitution is not retrospective in operation, only means that rights created or principles introduced for the first time by the Constitution itself could not be claimed in respect of facts or circumstances existing prior to the Constitution, and on the basis of which the rights and liabilities of the parties had to be adjudged, but that will have no application to a procedural provision made by the Constitution.

Where the case of the petitioner is that he was illegally discharged from service, inasmuch as the Government did not follow the law then in force, that the order of discharge had not become final, in the sense that he could still challenge the order of discharge under the ordinary laws and his right to file a suit for declaration under the ordinary law, that he still continued in service, was not barred at the time, he can avail himself of the new and speedier remedy under Art. 226, which had come into force in the mean time. The remedy under Art. 226 of the Constitution is available to the petitioner against an illegal act or order which happened before the Constitution, where the petitioner does not claim that any substantive right created for the first time by the Constitution has been violated, but what he does claim is that the order challenged could not have been passed even under the existing laws and rules governing the conditions of service of the petitioner, which laws and rules as they existed prior to the Constitution are not questioned by the petitioner on any such ground of inconsistency with the fundamental rights guaranteed to him under the Constitution. Case law Ref.

Per Ram Labhaya J.: Where the basis of the proceeding under Art. 226 is an infringement of a fundamental right, Art. 226 has no retrospective operation. The reason is obvious. There were no fundamental rights before the Constitution came into force. Contravention of fundamental rights may be cured if that takes place after the commencement of the Constitution. But the enforcement of fundamental rights does not exhaust the scope of Art. 226. It could be utilised for other purposes as well. 'Other purposes' have been held to include enforcement of legal rights not necessarily fundamental. Now in regard to the enforcement of the fundamental rights, the Article has admittedly no retrospective effect. The fundamental rights did not exist before 26 1 1950.

In regard to other rights, it requires that there should be a claim under some pre-existing law and there should be an assertion of that claim under that pre-existing law after the Constitution came into force. These conditions would not be satisfied if matters have been finally determined under the laws which were in force immediately before the Constitution or they constitute the subject-matter of pending judicial proceedings.

Where a person has a claim under a pre-existing law and decides to enforce it by invoking the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 for the first time after the Constitution comes into force, there would be no impediment in his way. The pursuit of the remedy under these circumstances would not touch existing rights. If it does not the remedy may be pursued without objection, Art. 226 not being part of the substantive law.

Per Deka J.: (Contra): The petitioner's right if any to continue in service had been denied by 31-8-1948 at the latest. Nothing would remain for the petitioner to contend if the order of 21-4-1948 be left intact or uninterfered with and his remedy therefore does not lie under Art. 226 which has no retrospective operation. Hiranmoy v. State of Assam, AIR 1954 Assam 224 (233, 234, 235, 244, 245, 246) (Pt C) [Prs 10, 38, 43, 44, 45, 47) (FB).

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect.

The enforcement of the Constitution did not affect pending proceedings even though there was a violation of fundamental rights. Pending proceedings could be affected only if the Constitution or any part of it was given in express terms or by necessary intendment any retrospective effect.

Even Art. 226 cannot be given any retrospective operation even though there may be an infringement of a fundamental right, for there were no fundamental rights before the Constitution came into force. AIR 1951 S C 128 and AIR 1952 S C 235 and AIR 1953 Assam 25, Rel. on and AIR 1951 Nag 443 (FB), Ref. AIR 1954 Assam 152 (154) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

■ ——Art 226 – Order in violation of fundamental rights passed before passing of Constitution — Interference after passing of Constitution — S. 6, General Clauses Act, it operates as bar — General Clauses Act (1897), S. 6.

Per Full Bench. — The saving of an order made prior to the commencement of the Constitution under S. 6, General Clauses Act, does not mean that the State is entitled, after 26th January 1950, to deprive a citizen of a fundamental right which is guaranteed to him. Therefore, even though the order may have been saved by S. 6, if the order is in violation of the fundamental rights, which have come into existence after 26th January 1950, the Court is entitled to interfere. In such a case, there is no question of applying S. 6, General Clauses Act. Jeshingbhai v. Emperor, 52 Bom L R 544 : ILR (1950) Bom 539 : 52 Cri L J 120 : AIR 1950 Bom 363 (366) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (FB).

——Art. 226 – Retrospective effect — Act done prior to Constitution – Application under Article upon the act producing result after Constitution — Power of High Court to issue writ.

Article 226 is a provision of a procedural character and its scope is limited to making certain forms of remedy available to the citizens of India not only for the purpose of enforcement of the fundamental rights, but also for any other purpose. So far as Calcutta High Court is concerned, even those remedies are not new, because it had under its Letters Patent, the right to issue all the writs of which Art 226 speaks. There is therefore absolutely no reason why, if a particular wrong, committed prior to the commencement of the Constitution, is brought to the notice of the Court on account of some present result which it is causing after the Constitution, Art. 226 cannot be invoked for appropriate relief or why the remedy provided for by the Article cannot reach back to the point of time when a wrong was committed. ILR (1959) 1 Cal 175 : AIR 1957 Cal 578 (582) (Pt C) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect.

That the Constitution is not retrospective in operation only means that, in the absence of an express provision, rights created or principles introduced for the first time by the Constitution itself cannot be claimed in respect of or applied to facts, situated in time before the Constitution, when rights and liabilities arising out of such facts fall to be adjudged. That principle cannot apply to a mere procedural provision made by the Constitution, unless such provision itself involves substantive rights. Article 226 merely enables High Courts to exercise their powers of revision and correction in a new form and in a new type of proceeding and so far as Calcutta High Court is concerned, the power is not even a wholly new power as regards matters arising within the ordinary original civil jurisdiction. The Article has created no substantive right, but only provided a new form of remedy through the High Courts which might well have been done by an Act of the appropriate legislature or legislatures. It follows that where the right asserted or the liability denied is one under the ordinary laws of the country and not one arising out of the Constitution, and an assertion or denial has taken place after the Constitution has come into force, it cannot be said that the application of Art. 226 is excluded by the fact that such right or liability originated before the commencement of the Constitution. The demand made was one under the Sea Customs Act and the accrual of the right on which it was based or the ground on which it was challenged depended in no way on the Constitution. The demand was sought to be enforced after the Constitution had come into force and when the applicant which was resisting, it, invoked Art. 226 for protection and relief and asked the basis of the demand to be examined, it was not asking for application of the Constitution with retrospective effect or even if it was, the application of anything more than mere procedure was not involved. At least, so far as the applicant was asking for a direction on the Customs authorities to forbear from giving effect to the Demand Notices, it was not at all asking for an application of Art. 226 with retrospective effect. Further there being an assertion of a claim after the Constitution and the claim being not one under a right created for the first time by the Constitution itself, but being one under some other pre existing law, Art. 226 empowered the High Court to deal with it by means of appropriate writs or directions although the claim might have originated before the commencement of the Constitution. 58 Cal W N 209 : AIR 1954 Cal 151 (154) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect — Article not retrospective.

Article 226 is not retrospective in operation and so recourse cannot be had to the Article for challenging the validity of the Notifications which were issued before the Constitution came into force. AIR 1952 Cal 907 (911) (Pt F) (Pr 35).

——Art. 226 – Applicability – Notification issued by Government under statute prior to Constitution – Validity of, if can be challenged.

Where a notification issued by Government under S. 6 of the West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act is ultra vires, any step taken to enforce such notification or any action taken pursuant to such notification can be challenged under Art. 226 of the Constitution, although the notification was made before the Constitution came into force. Being an ultra vires notification, it gives a recurring cause of action to the petitioner. AIR 1952 Cal 891 (892, 893) (Prs 12, 13).

——Art. 226 — Applicability — Notification issued under statute prior to Constitution – Validity of, if can be challenged.

A notification issued by Government under the West Bengal Land Development and Planning Act can be challenged as ultra vires under Art. 226 of the Constitution, even though such notification was issued before the Constitution came into force. If a particular act is ultra vires, it furnishes a recurring cause of action to the party aggrieved by such act and the aggrieved person can have recourse to Art. 226 for impugning the validity of such act. A I R 1952 Cal 857 (859) (Pt C) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Retrospective operation—Application to quash proceedings under Land Acquisition Act — Maintainability—Declaration under S. 6 of Act made before commencement of Constitution — Letters Patent, Cls. 4 and 21—Specific Relief Act, S. 45.

An application under Art. 226 of the Constitution to quash proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act is maintainable although the declaration under S. 6 of that Act was made before the commencement of the Constitution, where the proceedings are not yet complete and the applicant was not served with any formal notice of the acquisition until after the commencement of the Constitution. Where the complaint of the applicant is that the declaration and all the subsequent proceedings are ultra vires and void and therefore no rights could be acquired under them, there is no reason why recourse to Art. 226 cannot be had by him. Moreover before the Constitution came into force the High Court had power as it has now under Cls. 4 and 21 of the Charter to issue prerogative writs to interfere with the declaration and the acquisition proceedings complained of. S. 45 of the Specific Relief Act was also available in appropriate cases. AIR 1950 Madh B 46, Appl. 56 Cal W N 156: AIR 1952 Cal 573 (576) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

——Art. 226 – Applicability—Acts of executive committed before passing of Constitution.

Under Art. 226, Indian Constitution, powers have been given to the High Court to issue to any person in authority order or directions for enforcement of fundamental rights and there is no question of taking away rights which have already vested. The article can, therefore, be applied even to the acts of the executive which had been committed before the passing of the Indian Constitution. AIR 1950 Cal 512, Dist. 87 Cal L J 109 : (1951) 19 ITR 538 : AIR 1951 Cal 430 (434) (Pt C) (14).

——Art. 226—Retrospective operation.

No question of retrospective application of the provisions of the Constitution arises when the act of the respondent on account of which relief as claimed by writ petitions continued to be committed even after the coming into force of the Constitution, and what the petitioners did by the petition was not so much the challenging the act of the respondent as the assertion of a fundamental right granted to them since 26th January. 1950. AIR 1953 Punj 16, Disting.; A I R 1953 Him Pra 8, Foll. A I R 1953 Him Pra 95 (101) (Pt H) (Pr 22).

——Art. 226 (1)—Infringement of fundamental right — Right non est before Constitution — Acquiescence in infringement—Retrospective operation of Art. 19—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (g). AIR 1953 Him Pra 8.

——Arts. 226 and 31—Retrospective operation — Acquisition proceedings started before Constitution — Attempt to take possession after Constitution—Application by petitioner can be entertained — Attempt to dispossess him can be challenged by praying for writ under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 31. A I R 1955 Hyd 203 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Applicability — Pre-Constitution order.

In respect of an order of resumption of leased land passed by Government long before the coming into force of the State Constitution and it being a pre-Constitution matter no writ of certiorari can be granted by the High Court to quash the same. Bhagat Rajinder Kumar Sawhney v. State of J. & K. AIR 1960 J & K 50 (51) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (FB).

——Art. 32 (2-A) — Scope — Breach of legal duty occurring prior to Constitution — Other remedy available — Application for writ — If maintainable. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir, S. 103. AIR 1959 J & K 110 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Constitution of Jammu & Kashmir (1957), S 103—Order passed prior to 26-1-1957 cannot be challenged under S. 103 See Constitution of J. & K, S. 103. AIR 1959 J & K 98.

——Art. 226 — Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir (1957), S. 103—Retrospective operation. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir (1957), S. 103. AIR 1958 J & K 43.

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect — As applied to Jammu and Kashmir State — Scope of — Order of premature retirement in 1953—Right to challenge not barred—Availability of remedy under S. 103, Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir. See Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir (1957), S. 103. AIR 1958 J & K 11 (FB).

——Art. 32 (2-A) (read with Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order (1954)) — Dismissal of Government servant prior to promulgation of the Order—Writ petition not competent — (Constitution of India, Preamble.)

Constitution cannot be applied retrospectively. Hence where a Government servant serving as a Ghat Munshi was dismissed by the Director of Food Control on 18th January 1952, which was much earlier than the promulgation of the Jammu and Kashmir Constitution (Application) Order, assuming that the dismissed servant has a cause of action a writ petition is not competent. A I R 1957 J & K 25 (26) (Pt A) (Pr 1).

——Art. 32 (2-A) — Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order (1954) — Result of examination withheld in 1951—Examinees informed of reason in 1955 – Issue of writ.

Where a Departmental Examination of Tehsildars and Naib Tahsildars was held in 1950 by the Central Examination Board, Revenue Department and the Board issued an order, dated 24th January 1951, which said that the result of such examinees had been withheld and it was only in the order issued in January 1955 that they were told that their result had been withheld in the sense that it had been cancelled because it had been found that they had used unfair means.

Held that under the circumstances the objection that no writ could be issued in respect of decision taken in the pre-Constitution period had no force. AIR 1957 J & K 13 (14) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect—Article not retrospective. AIR 1960 Ker 138 (139) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Retrospective operation.

The vaildity of past transactions which took place before the commencement of the Constitution cannot be challenged under Art 226 of the Constitution, because the Article is not retrospective in its effect. Madh B L R 1955 Civ 17 : Madh B L J 1954-H C R 1413 : A I R 1954 Madh B 198 (203) (Pt E) (Pr 23) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order passed before Constitution came into force—High Court can be moved under Art. 226 to test vires of order. ILR (1952) Madh B 231 : AIR 1950 Madh B 46 (51) (Pt F) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Railway Establishment Code R. 2046—Order of reduction passed prior to enforcement of Constitution—Power of High Court to issue writ cannot be invoked — Petitioner made to retire on attaining age of superannuation — Petitioner has no vested right to continue service further even though he be efficient— C. T. M. living in Bombay —No writ could be issued to him.

Held, that the order of reduction having been passed on 16-12-1949 before the Constitution came into force the petitioner was not entitled to invoke the special jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ. A I R 1956 S C 246, A I R 1961 S C 532 and AIR 1962 SC 1513, Relied on. Secondly the petitioner had no vested right under R. 2046 of the Railway Establishment Code to continue in service after attaining the age of 55 years. The petitioner therefore could not be allowed to urge that his retirement on attaining the age of 55 years could be made only after examining the question of his efficiency to continue on his post which he held. The observations in AIR 1961 S C 1346 which had been made in the contex of Cl. (1) of R. 2046 of the Railway Establishment Code apply fully well to Cl. (2) (a) of the said Rule. Further that the authority finally confirming the order of retirement viz., Commercial Traffic Manager, being at Bombay and thus situate beyond the jurisdiction of this High Court; no writ could be issued to that authortty. AIR 1963 S C 1124, Rel. on. 1963 M P L J (Notes) 192.

——Art. 226 — Original order passed before commencement of Constitution—Reversing orders passed after its commencement — Art. 226 is applicable without giving it retrospective operation.

Where the original order, though passed before commencement of Constitution, was interrupted by the reversing orders passed after the commencement of the Constitution there could be no question of giving to Art. 226 any retrospective operation. Such a case is governed by the principle applicable to cases pending at the time of commencement of the Constitution which till then had not been prosecuted to final judgment. 1962 M P L J 281 : 1962 Jab L J 523 : ILR (1962) Madh Pra 788 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 280 (283, 284) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Pre-Constitution orders — Interference.

Where the order of the Sub Divisionnl Officer declining to confirm the sale, which was not interfered with by superior authorities was passed in the year 1949 though the final appellate order of the Board of Revenue was passed after the inauguration of the Constitution.

Held, that the appellate Tribunal did not do any thing more than dismiss the appeals. Therefore even if the said order was quashed, the High Court would not be in a position to quash the basic order which was passed before the Constitution came into force. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 174.

——Art. 226—Impugned order passed prior to commencement of Constitution — Exercise of power under Article.

Though the impugned order was passed prior to the commencement of the Constitution, if it interferes with a right in praesenti of the applicant and the order is in the eye of law no more than a piece of waste paper the High Court can exercise its power under Art. 226. 1955 Nag L J 145: AIR 1954 Nag 258 (260) (Pt E) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Retrospective effect.

Prayers relating to matters arising before the Constitution—Court is not competent to grant them. 1953 Nag L J 593: I L R (1953) Nag 522: A I R 1953 Nag 138 (140) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Retrospectivity — Contract—Servant dismissed before the 26th January 1950 — Petition under Art. 226 does not lie.

Where the services of a contract servant of Government are terminated before the 26th January 1950 a petition challenging the termination, under Art. 226, Constitution of India is not tenable. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 67 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Retrospective operation,

Articles 226 and 227 do not relate to matters of procedure but confer a power upon High Courts to interfere in certain case. This power cannot be invoked by a person aggrieved by a decision of Court or a tribunal arrived at before these provisions came into force. Supreme Court Case No. 9 of 1950, Rel. on. Rajaram v. State, 1951 Nag L J 535: 1952 Cri L J 1 : I L R (1951) Nag 741 : A I R 1951 Nag 443 (443, 444) (Pt A) (Prs 7, 16) (FB).

——Art. 226—Right under—Act complained of anterior to Constitution—Application does not lie.

An applicant under Art. 226 is not entitled to ask for the exercise of powers under Art. 226 in respect of matters which arose and terminated before the Constitution came into iorce. S C C No. 11 of 1950 D/- 22-1-51, Rel. on.

Where the applicant was reduced from the post of Assistant Station Master to that of signaller by order of the D. T. M. on 16-12-49 and the order was confirmed by the C. T. M. on 11-3-50.

Held, that the cause of action arose on 16-12-49 i.e., before the Constitution and the application did not lie and that even assuming that the order dated 11-3-50 could furnish the applicant with a ground for making an application under Art. 226, the High Court would decline to exercise its discretion in favour of the applicant because it would be highly inconvenient and even injudicious to make a constitutional remedy available in respect of an act which was done before the Constitution came into force. 1951 Nag L J (Notes) 97 (DB).

——Art. 226 —Retrospective effect.

Article 226, being remedial and therefore procedural, will have retrospective effect so long as the right of the petitioner is covered under the phrase "for other purpose." So far as those rights which are not fundamental rights created by the Constitution are concerned, Art. 226, can have retrospective effect if those rights have been violated. If the order passed prior to the Constitution was invalid, then the aggrieved party can move the Court under Art. 226 to remedy the illegality.

Where the petitioner had the right to bring a suit against the State for wrongful dismissal prior to the coming into force of the Constitution of India, and that right had not become extinguished by passage of time, Art. 226 of the Constitution would have retrospective effect. AIR 1956 Pat 384 (389, 390, 393) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 11, 12, 19) (DB).

——Art. 226—Applicability — Retrospective effect — No retrospective effect — State becoming absolute owner of land under Patiala Land Acquisition Act before coming into force of Constitution in the State —Art. 226 does not apply — If acquisition was bad, remedy was by way of suit — (Patiala Land Acquisition Act (3 of 1995 BK), S. 18 (1)— (Pepsu Acquisition of Land Act (4 of 2006). AIR 1955 N U C (Pepsu) 2512.

——Art. 226 — Has no retrospeetive effect — Interference with orders made by authorities before accession of States.

No action can be taken under Art. 226 in respect of the orders made prior to 26th January, 1950, because the Constitution has no retrospective effect. Further, the Article does not give the High Courts in India the authority to interfere with the orders made by the authorities of the States before their accession to the Union. ILR (1953) Patiala 651 : AIR 1954 Pepsu 159 (159) (Pt A) (Pr 3)

——Art. 226 — Retrospective effect—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 35 (5) — Exercise of discretion (Interpretation of Statutes — Retrospective effect) — (Civil P. C. (1908), Pre.) See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 35 (5). AIR 1956 Punj 161.

——Art. 226 — Retrospective effect—Does not apply to order passed before the Constitution.

A person cannot, in a petition under Art. 226, contest the legality of an order passed before the 26th of January, 1950. ILR (1956) Punj 236 : AIR (1956) Punj 58: (70) (Pt M) (Pr 34) (DB)

——Art. 226 — Retrospective effect—Original order passed before coming into force of Constitution.

When a person files a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution he seeks to challenge the original Order which affects him and it is this order which furnishes him with a cause for moving the High Court. It is that order which affects the petitioner adversely and it is that order which is either without jurisdiction or manifestly unjust. The order on appeal is not the order which he seeks to challenge. The rule which applies to civil appeals does not apply to applications for writs. The Constitution is not retroactive and is not applicable to a case where the cause of action arose before the coming into force of the Constitution. 57 Punj L R 490 : ILR (1956) Punj 55 : AIR 1956 Punj 10 (11) (Pt A) (Pr 5) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Retrospective operation — Constitution is not retrospective — Petition to redress something done before 26th January, 1950 does not lie. AIR 1955 N U C (Punj) 4593.

—— Art. 226 — Does not affect orders passed before Constitution.

The provisions of Art. 226 of the Constitution have no retrospective effect and therefore it cannot affect an act which was done before the commencement of the Constitution. (1952) 22 ITR 296 : 55 Pun L R 53: ILR (1953) Punj 193 : AIR 1953 Punj 16 (16, 17) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Retrospective effect — Civil P. C. (1908), Pre.

(Quaere) Whether orders passed before 28-1-1950 under the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (1947) which were shielded against interference by civil Courts under S. 5 (3) of that Act can be interfered with under Art. 226? 54 Cal W N 793 : AIR 1927 P C 242, Ref. 53 Pun L R 57 : 1951-20 ITR 77 : ILR (1951) Punj 165 : AIR 1951 Punj 74 (79) (Pt D) (Pr 28) (DB).

—— Art. 226 (1-A) — As added by Constitution Fifteenth Amendment Act, 1963 — Retrospective operation — Amendment being procedural in character has retrospective effect.

Article 226 of the Constitution does confer an authority on the High Court to issue writ, order or direction, but the amended clause (1-A) of this Article does not, in any manner, confer any additional power on the High Court as it already enjoyed such a power under the amended Article. The purpose and intent of the amendment of Art. 226 is to enlarge the jurisdiction of the High Courts to issue writ order or direction to any Government, authority or person, notwithstanding that the seat of such Government or authority or the residence of such person is not within the territorial jurisdiction of the Court and thus it only extends jurisdiction even beyond the boundaries of the State if the cause of action arises within its territory. Clause (1-A) of the Article is simply procedural in nature and it does not confer any vested right on the citizen of India. The amendment is therefore retrospective in effect so as to enable the High Court to exercise its powers under Art. 226 in respect of a cause of action arising before the amendment. AIR 1958 S C 915 and AIR 1961 S C 532 and AIR 1952 Bom 385 and AIR 1954 Bom 527, Rel. on. W. P. No. 638 of 1961, dated 11-11-1963 Andh Pra and W. P. No. 534 of 1962 Andh Pra, Diss. from 1964 Raj L W 387 : ILR (1964) 14 Raj 757 : AIR 1964 Raj 260 (265, 266, 267) (Pt A) (Prs 22, 25, 28) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Retrospective operation — Pre-constitution invalid order, sought to be enforced after Constitution.

If the order which was passed before the Constitution was valid when it was passed, it would certainly not be open to the Court to hold to-day after the Constitution that it is invalid by a retrospective application of the provisions of the Constitution. But if the order was invalid even when it was passed and is being enforced now, it is open to the Court to hold it invalid on an application under Art. 226. 1954 Raj L W 543 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 743: AIR 1954 Raj 200 (203) (P B) (Pr 10) (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Retrospective operation.

The provisions of the Constitution no doubt are not retrospective in the sense that anything done in accordance with law then in force cannot be regarded as illegal now after the coming into force of the Constitution simply because it is contrary to the provisions of the Constitution. But anything which was illegal before the coming into force of the Constitution remains illegal, and, a person, who is aggrieved against such an illegal act, cannot be deprived of his remedy under Art. 226 of the Constitution. Illegalities committed before the coming into force of the Constitution cannot be allowed to continue because of the coming into force of the Constitution. AIR 1951 S C 217, Rel. on. 1953 Raj L W 581 : I L R (1953) 3 Raj 336 : A I R 1953 Raj 185 (187) (Pt B) (Pr 7, (DB).

—— Art. 226 — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951), Preamble — Retrospective effect of Act — Dissolution of Municipal Board and appointment of ad hoc Committee — Application for writ of Quo Warranto against Committee — Right of member of dissolved board who has vacated office to relief — Maintainability of application after supersession of ad hoc Committee. See Municipalities — Rajasthan Town Municipalities Act (23 of 1951). Preamble. AIR 1953 Raj 73.

—— Art. 226 — Retrospective effect.

It is well settled that the articles of the Constitution have no retrospective effect unless otherwise expressly provided for in the Constitution itself. No relief under Art. 226 can therefore be granted where the acts complained of in the petition have taken place long before the Indian Constitution came into force. AIR 1951 S C 128; AIR 1951 Nag 443 (FB) and AIR 1952 Cal 907, Ref. A I R 1955 Trav-Co 46 (48) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

—— Art. 226 — Prerogative writs — Issue of — Power of Travancore-Cochin High Court — Apart from Constitution, it has power, as a Court of Record to issue appropriate prerogative writs. AIR 1955 Trav-Co 46 (48) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

—— Art. 223 — Applicability to cases arising before Constitution.

Although Art. 226 does not apply to cases arising before the Constitution came into force, the High Court has, as a Court of record, jurisdiction to issue prerogative writs in such cases. ILR (1954) Trav-Co 239 : 1954 Ker L T 952 : AIR 1954 Trav-Co 444 (445) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

107. Revenue matters.

See Notes 171 and 268.

108. Review.

—— Art 226 — Inherent power of High Court to review its order under Art. 226, of the Constitution. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151. AIR 1963 S C 1909.

—— Art. 228 — Order under Art. 226 of Constitution — Review maintainable under S. 151, Civil P. C. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 114. AIR 1960 All 152

—— Art. 226 — Review — Orders in writ proceedings — Review lies — Provisions of Civil P. C. applicable — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 114 and O. 47, R. 1.

Art. 226 of the Constitution gives power to the High Court to issue writs and make orders in the same fashion as are made in the King's Bench Division in England. The procedure however has not been set out in the Constitution, and in Civil Cases the procedure will be such as is laid down in the Civil P. C., or the rules framed by the High Court. Therefore in a proper case an application for review would lie from an order passed in proceedings under Art. 226 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Bom 468 and AIR 1953 Mad 39, Foll.; A I R 1955 Madh B 108, Not followed. AIR 1962 Cal 346 (348) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

—— Art. 226—Power to review.

High Prerogative Writs are issued under Art. 226 of the Constitution and there is no direction in the Article, which empowers the Court issuing it to recall its order with a view to cancel it, modify it, alter or vacate it. It being so, the only process known to law, by which orders are altered, modified or vacated is by way of review or appeal. The ground of review must be something which should exist at the date of the decree or order and the rule does not authorise the review of an order which was right when it was made but on the happening of some subsequent event it became bad. The power to review is not inherent in a Court. As there is no provision for the review of orders under Art. 226 in Indian law, it cannot be availed of as a remedy. The High Court therefore cannot review an order passed in a writ case. Case law discussed. Madh B L J 1954 H C R 300 : Madh B L R 1954 Civil 100 : AIR 1955 Madh B 103 (108, 109) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Order under — High Court has power to review—Civil P. C. (1908), O. 47, R. 1.

High Court can review its own order passed under Art. 226. Since this power of review of an order passed under Art. 226 is the power inhering in the Court, it is not, for that reason, fettered by the words of O. 47, R. 1, Civil P. C., or any other analogous law. AIR 1963 S C 1909, followed; AIR 1955 Madh B 108, no longer good law.

But where a decision is arrived at on an erroneous assumption that the unamended rule continued to be in force, clearly there is an error apparent on the face of the record and the High Court, even without resorting to its plenary jurisdiction can review the case under O. 47 R. 1, Civil P. C. (1949) 1 Mad L J 222 : AIR 1949 P C 112 Rel. on. ILR (1962) Madh Pra 788 : 1962 M P L J 281 : 1962 Jab L J 523 : A I R 1962 Madh Pra 280 (282) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Review — Order passed in accordance with law—Accepted view of law changing by new decision—Old order cannot be reviewed.

If the order was right according to the view of law prevailing when it was made and if a subsequent decision changes the accepted view of the law, then that subsequent decision cannot be made a ground for review of the order. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 2.

——Art. 226 — Power of review—Order can be recalled in exercise of inherent power—(Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 114 and 151 and O. 47, R. 1)—(Tenancy Laws — Madras Estates Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari Act (26 of 1948), S. 9—Madras Estates (Supplementary) Act (30 of 1956), Ss. 3 and 10).

When pending a civil suit in which one of the questions to be determined was whether the village in question was an estate at all, the landholder applied for stay of inquiry under S. 9 of the Madras Act 26 of 1948 before the Assistant Settlement Officer and on his refusal preferred a writ petition, the High Court issued a writ of mandamus for stay of that inquiry. The State which was a party respondent to the writ petition, presented a petition under O. 47, R. 1 and S. 114, Civil P. C. and under Art. 226 of the Constitution, for a review of the order directing issue of mandamus. On the question whether the writ of mandamus directed before should be recalled and set aside.

Held, (i) that it would not strictly be a case of review at all falling within the scope of O. 47, R. 1, Civil P. C., (ii) that in the writ petition what was in effect done was something of an interlocutory nature. The basis on which the order was passed had disappeared with the subsequent change in legislation. Similarly the bar imposed by statutory authority to the determination of the question whether the village was an estate could be removed in the exercise of the inherent jurisdiction vested in the High Court. However, this did not mean that any order passed in the exercise of the jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution can be set aside in exercise of the inherent powers of the High Court. 1959 Mad W N 726 : 73 Mad L W 16 : AIR 1960 Mad 177 (178) (Prs 8, 9).

——Art. 226—Order on application for issue of writ of certiorari—If subject to review for error apparent on the face of the record — Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 47, R. 1—Applicability.

Where the civil jurisdiction of the High Court is invoked under Art. 226 of the Constitution the Civil P. C is applicable to the proceeding and if there is an error apparent on the face of the record in the order quashing proceedings under the Motor Vehicles Act, it can be set right under the powers of review.

Where while passing the order, the Court did not consider the question whether the Government acted without jurisdiction in exercising its powers under S. 64-A of the Motor Vehicles Act or whether the order of the Central Road Traffic Board, was one which could be called either illegal or irregular or improper to enable the State Government to interfere with that order, such omission would constitute an error apparent on the face of the record so as to warrant a review of the order. I L R (1952) Mad 1000 : 65 Mad L W 164 : (1952) 1 Mad L J 448 : A I R 1953 Mad 39 (40) (Pt A) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 137—Review—Power of — Orders under Art. 226—Review of—Maintainability—Civil Procedure Code—Applicability—(Civil P. C. (1908), Ss. 141, 151 and O. 47, R. 1).

No Court has an inherent power of review and that power like the power of appeal must be conferred on it by statute. The Constitution of India does not either specifically or by necessary implication confer any such power upon the High Courts in matters arising under Art. 226, though there is such a provision as regards the Supreme Court, namely, Art. 137.

The contention that writ petitions involving disputes of a civil nature are civil matters and would attract S. 141, Civil P. C., has some force but that section relates to matters merely procedural and cannot be interpreted to mean as applying all the provisions of the Civil P. C. or conferring a power of appeal or review in matters governed by special enactments. Hence, there being no provision anywhere in the Constitution for review of orders passed under Art. 226, the powers for the same provided under the Civil P. C. cannot be invoked. A I R 1953 Mad 39, Diss. from. A I R 1957 Manipur 39 (40) (Prs 4, 5).

109. Rights conferred by Part III of Constitution.

See also Note 12.

(a) Suspension of.

See Note 119 and Ibid, Arts. 358, 359.

109. Rights conferred by Part III of Constitution.

See also Note 12.

● ——Art. 226 — Patiala Recovery of State Dues Act — Contracting out of fundamental rights — Procedure laid down in the Act for settlement of disputes between Patiala State Bank and its customers — No infringement of Art 19 (1) (f) and (g). See Ibid, Art. 19 (1) (f). A I R 1963 S C 222.

● ——Art. 226—Infringement of fundamental rights.

In the Bihar Act (9 of 1947) there are various provisions laying down conditions which dealers must comply with or submit to. The provisions in the Act undoubtedly constitute restrictions on the fundamental right to carry on business which is guaranteed to every citizen of India by Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. If the Act is ultra vires the Constitution and consequently void these onerous conditions can never be justified as reasonable restrictions within the meaning of Cl. (6) of that Article. A I R 1953 Pat 87, Reversed. Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar, I L R 34 Pat 905 : (1955) 6 S T C 446 : (1955) 2 S C R 603 : 1955 S C J 672 : 1955 S C A 1140 : (1955) 2 Mad L J (S C) 168 : 1955 Andh W R (S C) 422 : A I R 1955 S C 661 (669, 726) (Pt U) (Prs 5, 145).

——Art. 226—Rights conferred by Part III—Restrictions—Reasonableness — Justiciability — High Court can go into question of reasonableness of restriction. 1963 (2) Cri L J 241 : AIR 1963 All 408 (410) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 19 — Certificate for profession of guide — Cancellation.

There is no rule or other law governing the grant of any certificate nor any provision under which it may be necessary for a person carrying on the profession of a guide to obtain a certificate from the authorities. A person can carry on this profession whether any certificate from the Superintendent of Police is held or not by him. The certificate is thus in the nature of a testimonial of good conduct granted to him by the authorities. No person can claim as of right that a certificate shall be granted to him or that any certificate once granted to him shall be continued. There is no right either with respect to it. It was not necessary for the Senior Superintendent of Police to have given an opportunity to the petitioner or to hear him before cancelling the certificate, more so because its cancellation in no way affected the right of the petitioner to carry on the profession of a guide. A I R 1959 All 573 (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226—Petition under—High Court must protect fundamental rights of petitioners. (1965) 6 Guj L R 505 : A I R 1966 Guj 102 (105) (Pt C) (Pr 4) (DB).

● ——Art. 32 (2-A) — (As added by Constitution) (Application to J. & K.) Order — Lessor and lessee—Breach of condition in lease — Forfeiture of lease—Lessee's fundamental right of possession thereafter. See Ibid, Art. 19. A I R 1960 J & K 50 (FB).

——Arts. 32 (2-A) (Jammu and Kashmir) and 14—Scope—Right to office or right to promotion—Complaint of erroneous application of service rules—Writ under.

Article 32 (2-A) would apply only when one of the fundamental rights vouchsafed by Part III of the Constitution is violated. The right to office or the right to promotion in Government service, does not involve any question of any fundamental right. It is not a case which properly involves any question of equality before the law or equal protection of laws. Nor is there any case of unconstitutional discrimination in such a case. Hence, there is no scope at all in the case, for the application of Art. 14. A I R 1959 J & K 70 (70, 71) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

● ——Art. 226—Scope.

Article 226 does not merely refer to the power of High Court but also confers a right on citizens of India to invoke that power when any of their rights conferred by Part III are being prejudiced by unlawful acts by the State or other authorities. Indo-Mercantile Bank, Ltd. v. Commr. Quilon Municipality, 1960 Ker L J 1135 : 1960 Ker L T 1091 : (1960) 2 Ker L R 464 : I L R (1960) Ker 1435 : A I R 1961 Ker 96 (97) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (FB).

——Art. 226—Proclamation under S. 46-B of Bombay District Police Act by authority not authorised — Proclamation not in accordance with law — Fundamental rights sought to be restricted by order passed in pursuance of such proclamation—Action has to be taken under Art. 226. See Bombay District Police Act (4 of 1890), S. 46-B. 1954 Cri L J 770 : A I R 1954 Kutch 15.

● ——Arts. 226 and 31—"Property"—Payments made to irregular forces (Shiledars, etc) by Scindia, are not property—Nature of payment—Government of Madhya Bharat can stop these payments—No infringement of fundamental right — No writ can issue. See Ibid, Art. 31. A I R 1953 Madh B 257 (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 19 (1) (f)—Property — Hereditary trusteeship—Scheme taking away right to management of temple and its properties—Infringement of right under Art. 19 (1) (f)—Issue of writ.

Hereditary trusteeship is 'property' within the meaning of Art. 19 (1) (f) of the Constitution and if there is an encroachment on the rights of the petitioners as hereditary trustees, they can be granted appropriate relief. A I R 1954 Mad 385, Rel. on.

Held, on a scrutiny of the scheme, framed by the H. R. E. Board and modified by the District Judge, for the administration of the temple and its properties, that the petitioners who were hereditary trustees of the temple, were shorn of all their rights and powers and dignities and they were reduced to the position of dummies, left only with the doubtful honour of describing themselves as trustees of the temple. Since all the provisions in the scheme formed one integrated whole and it was not possible to salvage any part of it the whole of it must be set aside. (1955) 1 Mad L J 243 : 68 Mad L W 26 : A I R 1955 Mad 120 (121) (Pt A (Prs 3, 5).

——Art. 226 — Hyderabad Agricultural Markets Act (1339 F.), S. 5—Rules under, R. 40 — Tax and fee — Distinction — Petitioners having oil mill at R. — Petitioners purchasing ground-nut from other places for their own use — Levy of fee on groundnut by Market committee of R — Legality — Levy of fee was interference with free trade and business and contravened Art. 19 (1) (g) — Could be challenged under Art. 226. See Hyderabad Agricultural Markets Act (2 of 1339F), S. 5. AIR 1960 Mys 73.

——Art. 226 — Suspension of license during prosecution — It is possible but not without findings as to contravention — D. M. suspending license without the finding — There is interference with fundamental right. See C. P. & Berar Rice Mills Licensing Order, Cl. 5. 1952 Nag L J (Notes) 4.

——Art. 226 — Power of High Court under.

The power of the High Court under Art. 226 for enforcing fundamental rights is very wide and is not restricted to the issuing of only the well-known writs under the common law. Those writs may not prove adequate to deal with every infringement of a fundamental right. A fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution may be put in jeopardy by an act of the executive. The Court has been empowered to issue to any person or authority, and in an appropriate case even to the Government, directions, orders, or writs for the enforcement of rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution. Misc. Petn. No. 5 of 1950, Rel. on. ILR (1951) Nag 959 : AIR 1951 Nag 138 (140, 141) (Pt B) (Pr 19) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 19 (1) (g) — Order issued under Cl. 10 of Punjab Coal Control Order (1955) being illegal and ultra vires and affecting fundamental right of a person to carry on his trade or business under Art. 19 (1) (g) — Held writ under Art. 226 should issue. 63 Punj L R 593 : ILR (1962) 2 Punj 595 : AIR 1962 Punj 32 (38) (Pt G) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226—General Clauses Act (1897), S. 23 (5)—Presumption under — Scope and effect—'Duly made' Meaning — High Court can examine and pronounce upon validity of rules under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See General Clauses Act (1897), S. 23 (5). AIR 1962 Raj 24 (DB).

● ——Art. 226 — Notifications by Rajasthan State withdrawing privileges granted by Ruler of Udaipur to Zamindars, to manufacture liquor for private consumption — Privilege held not right to property — No infringement of fundamental right. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1954 Raj 85 (FB).

——Art. 226—Powers of High Court—Extent.

The power of High Court under Art. 226 for enforcing fundamental rights is very wide, and is not restricted to the issuing of the well-known writs under the Common Law. A fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution may be put in jeopardy by the executive, and the Court has been empowered to issue to any person or authority and in an appropriate case even to the Government, directions, orders or writs for the enforcement of rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution. 1952 Raj L W 71 : ILR (1952) 1 Raj 853 : AIR 1952 Raj 137 (139) (Pt E) (Pr 8) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 19 (1) (g) — Bus stand fee — Fee and tax — Distinction — Bus stand fee is not same as license fee — Former does not fall under category of taxes—Levy of such fee is not unauthorised and does not amount to unreasonable restriction on freedom to carry on business — (Municipalities — Cochin Municipal Act (18 of 1113), S. 251). AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 4127.

——Art. 226 — Scope — Travancore-Cochin Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950 — Exercise of powers under — If infringe fundamental rights—Issue of writ — If called for. See Travancore-Cochin Paddy (Acquisition and Movement) Control Order, 1950. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 455 (DB).

——Art. 226—Petitioner granted India-Pakistan passport by Government of India — District Magistrate illegally cancelling and seizing same — Cancellation confirmed by Government of India — Confirmation cannot make unauthorized action of District Magistrate, an authorised one — Matter would be different if District Magistrate had been delegated the authority of cancellation — Confirmation by Government of India had only effect of revocation and impounding the passport — This right held could not be questioned, being one of the terms on which passport was issued — Even if passport was property within meaning of Art. 31, the revocation and impounding would be one by authority of law within meaning of Art. 31—Granting and revoking and cancelling of passport was within discretion of Government of India — It was not a fundamental right to have passport issued—Writ would not therefore be granted against the order of the District Magistrate since it would not be carried into effect. See Ibid, Art. 31. AIR 1962 Tripura 7.

——Art. 226 — Salary already earned by a Government servant is his property and a deduction not made in accordance with statutory rules infringes his fundamental right to property under Art. 19 and Art. 31 and relief must be granted under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 19. AIR 1955 Vin Pra 21.

——Art. 226 — Seizure of goods without authority of law— Infringement of fundamental rights both under Art. 19 and Art. 31 — Relief must be granted under Art. 226. See Ibid, Art. 19. 1955 Cri L J 747 : AIR 1955 Vin Pra 17.

109 (a), Suspension of.

See Note 119 and Ibid, Arts. 358, 359.

109A. Scire facias, writs of.

See Note 37 (b).

110. Statutory body, writ against.

See Notes 5 and 177.

111. Stay of proceedings.

● ——Art. 226—Writ petition—Power of High Court to grant interim stay Art. 226 does not expressly confer upon the High Court any power to grant interim stay during the hearing of the writ petition. Such power cannot also be inferred from any provision contained in it. Further, the power of issuing a direction or order is exactly similar to the power of issuing a writ. If no ex parte writ can be granted, no ex parte order of stay also can be granted in exercise of the powers under Art. 226. Moreover, a petitioner has no absolute right to an interim order of stay, ex parte or after hearing the other party. Gyan Chand Bhatia v. Rent Control and Eviction Officer, Lucknow. 1965 All L J 924 : 1965 All W R (H C) 676 : AIR 1966 All 57 (61) (Pr 16) (FB).

——Art. 226—Interim relief — Effect of — Writ petition against order of removal — Interim order of stay of proceedings passed — Order staying execution of order of removal but order of removal remained intact — Disqualification which was simultaneous with removal could not be stayed under interim order. 1964 All L J 1073 : AIR 1965 All 370 (371, 372) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Power of High Court — Order in writ petition declaring certain provisions of statute unconstitutional and quashing certain orders passed thereunder — Application for certificate for leave to appeal to Supreme Court pending — Power of High Court to grant interim relief in form of stay order. See Civil P. C (1908), O. 45, R. 13. AIR 1957 All 505 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Appeal — Stay — Application under Art. 226 for quashing order of election Tribunal—Balance of convenience has to be seen — Balance of convenience held lay in letting order of Election Commissioner take its own course. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 1758.

——Art. 226—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151— High Court has inherent power to grant a stay of mandamus. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151. AIR 1953 Hyd 73.

——Arts. 226, 227—Decree for Rs. 52,000 — Pending appeal in High Court, stay of execution of decree granted by Single Judge on condition to deposit in Court Rs. 20,000 — Stay order was passed by competent Court and could not be challenged on ground that condition imposed was heavy. (1965) 2 Ker L R 440 : 1965 Ker L T 167 : 1965 Ker L J 194 : ILR (1966) 1 Ker 115 : AIR 1966 Ker 141 (142) (Pt B) (Pr 2) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Order restraining Income-tax Officer from enforcing assessment — Order by Income-tax Officer passed on same day subsequent to High Court's order is without jurisdiction. Sarup Chand and Hukumchand v. Union of India, ILR (1952) Madh B 422 : (1953) 23 ITR 382 : AIR 1953 Madh B 65 (77) (Pt H) (Pr 31) (FB).

——Art. 226 — Municipal Election—Acceptance of nomination papers prima facie involving illegality — Petition for writ of certiorari for quashing interim order of temporary injunction — Confirmation of — (Elections — M. B. Municipal Election Rules (1945), R. 26).

Where a petition for a writ of certiorari is admitted by the High Court against the order of an Election Officer, accepting nomination papers of candidates which were not signed by them at the time of presentation contrary to R. 26 of M. B. Municipal Election Rules, 1954, the acceptance of the nomination papers prima facie involves illegality and since the petition for writ has been admitted, the interim order of temporary injunction restraining the authorities concerned from proceeding with the municipal election, ought to be confirmed Madh B L J 1955 H C R 848: AIR 1955 Cal 83 and AIR 1955 Andh Pra 17, Rel. on.

The contention that a temporary stay may result in frustration has some force but in matters of this kind the question which ought to be considered is as to whether the election proceedings which prima facie appear to be not in order ought to be allowed to go on. The reason indicates that it is more in the fitness of things that they should be held up temporarily than allowed to proceed. 1958 Jab L J 85 : 1957 M P C 811.

——Art. 226 — Madras General Sales Tax (Turnover and Assesement) Rules (1939) R. 16 (1) — Assessment under — Petition under Art. 226 against—No stay of further proceedings—Assessment during pendency of writ petition is not illegal. ILR (1965) 2 Mad 294 : (1966) 1 Mad L J 166 : (1966) 18 S T C 60.

——Art. 226 — Interlocutory order—Stay of sale for realisation of income-tax — Jurisdiction of High Court under Art. 226 cannot be invoked — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46.

Jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 cannot be invoked for the sole purpose of obtaining an interlocutory order to stay the sale of properties in proceedings for realisation of Income-tax. AIR 1952 S C 12, Rel. on. (1960) 40 I T R 338 : (1961) 1 Mad L J 165 : AIR 1961 Mad 104 (105) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Writ proceedings against order of assessment — Application for stay of recovery of tax already pending before Income-tax Officer — High Court will not grant stay of recovery of tax— (Income-tax Act (1922), S. 45). (1951) 20 ITR 51 (Cal) Not foll. AIR 1953 Punj 113, Rel. on. AIR 1957 Tripura 15 (18) (Pt D) (Pr 26).

112. Sub-judice question.
See Note 88.

113. Subsequent events.

——Arts. 226 and 311—Subseqent events—Power to take note of—(Municipalities—U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 69-A).

The Court must take into account subsequent events that have happened and if they render any relief that the Court can give in the writ petition ineffective, it must refrain from granting it. A Court should not grant a relief that can be immediately rendered ineffective by a valid act of the party against whom it is granted. Where an illegal order of suspension is supplanted by another order of suspension, in the face of such order, whether legal or illegal or contemptuous or not, it would be useless for the Court to quash the earlier order of suspension, because the petitioner must remain under suspension under the second order of suspension. 1959 All L J 849 : AIR 1959 All 686 (688) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Subsequent events.

A petition was filed against the renewal of a temporary permit under the Motor Vehicles Act. On the date of petition the original permit had not expired. But there was the admission of the Government on record that they had been illegally renewing temporary permits, so as to make them run for a period in excess of four months allowed by the statute.

Held, that in these circumstances it was not a proper exercise of the discretion under Art. 226 of the Constitution to dismiss the writ petition on the technical ground that on the date of the petition the permit was valid and therefore it was not open to the Court to look into subsequent event namely that of the renewal of the permit after the petition had been filed, for the same purposes so as to exceed the statutory limitation of four months. 1957 All L J 818 : 1957 All W R (H C) 824.

——Art. 226—Subsequent events.

The Court is entitled to take notice of subsequent events for the purpose of giving effective and complete relief to the petitioner. AIR 1952 Cal 687 (688) (Pt C) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226 — Subsequent events—(Coorg Agricultural Income-tax Act (1 of 1951), S. 3).

The assessee, assessed to agricultural income-tax under the Coorg Agricultural Income-tax Act on income derived during the year ending 31-3-1951, applied under Art. 226 to have the order of assessment quashed contended that in considering the question relating to the authority of the Income-tax Officer to make the assessment, the Court was limited to the consideration of the law as it stood on the date of assessment and could not take into consideration the effect of subsequent amendment of the Act.

Held, that the contention was not correct. In dealing with a curative act, the test to be applied was whether the Income-tax Officer, if he were now making the assessment for the year 1951-52 would not have the authority to make it. AIR 1947 F C 48, Rel. on. AIR 1958 Mys 102 (112, 118) (Pt G) (Pr 42) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Powers of High Court — Scope of — It cannot convert itself into Court of appeal — Subsequent events—Power to take notice.

The control which the High Court exercises under Art. 226 through a writ of certiorari, over judicial or quasi-judicial tribunals or bodies, being not in an appellate but supervisory capacity, the High Court does not review, or reweigh, the evidence upon which the determination of the inferior tribunal purports to be based. In such circumstances, the High Court will issue a writ of certiorari only for correcting errors of jurisdiction. Decision, even if wrong, on facts or law cannot be corrected by a writ of certiorari. Consequently, the High Court in exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226 will not take notice of subsequent events or change in the law which may or may not invalidate the impugned order. 1956 BLJR 570 : ILR 35 Pat 730 : AIR 1957 Pat 725 (728) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 19, 20) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Change in law during pendency of writ petition—Change is of no consequence and cannot be taken into consideration in deciding writ petition. 66 Pun L R 552 : AIR 1965 Punj 21 (22) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Retrospective effect — Houses and Rents — Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporary Powers) Act (17 of 1947) — East Punjab Requisitioning of Immovable Property (Temporery Powers) Act (48 of 1948).

Where the requisitioning order was passed in December 1947, under the Act of 1947 the requisitioning order can be challenged under Art. 226 of the Constitution, since the amendment of the Act of 1948 by Act 16 of 1949 virtually converted the order of requisitioning into one under the Act of 1948. ILR (1951) Punj 438 : 53 Pun L R 391 : AIR 1952 Punj 70 (77) (Pt F) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Successive applications—Subsequent events—Change in law.

Where a previous application under Art. 226 for habeas corpus was dismissed by the Rajasthan High Court on the ground that it was not competent to revise a sentence passed against the petitioner by the Courts of the former Jaipur State which had long before become final, and this opinion of the Rajasthan High Court has since then been altered on account of the Full Bench decision, and now it was considered competent for the Rajasthan High Court to go into the question of the legality of the sentence passed by the Courts of the former Jaipur State, in spite of the fact that those orders had become final long before, the new circumstance which arose in the case supports the petitioner in making a second application under Art. 226 for the same relief: Case law ref. 1956 Raj L W 26 : ILR (1955) 5 Raj 872 : 1955 Cri L J 1390 : AIR 1955 Raj 161 (162) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

114. Successive applications.

See also Notes 105 and 216 and Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11.

(a) Mandamus.

114. Successive applications.

See also Notes 105 and 216 and Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11.

——Arts. 32, 19 and 31 — Khorposh grants to junior members of the family of Rulers of Native States first in the shape of lands but ultimately assuming share of money allowances payable at regular intervals—States merging in Dominion of India—Before coming into force of the Constitution, Government by their order stopping the grants—Junior members entering into prolonged correspondence with Government insisting upon their rights under the grants by the former Rulers—Only in 1957 such members realising that they had no hopes of any revision by Government of their policy—Held that every periodic deprivation of money allowance would give such members a right to approach the Supreme Court for relief under Art. 32 and it could not be held that rights guaranteed by the Constitution could not be founded upon in respect of action which arose before the Constitution. Promod Chandra Deb v. State of Orissa, (1963) 1 S C J 1 : 1962 Supp (1) S C R 405 : AIR 1962 S C 1288 (1295) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Arts. 226 and 32 — Rejection of application under Art. 226—Subsequent application under Art. 32 for same relief—If lies. See Supreme Court Advocates (Practice in High Courts) Act (18 of 1951), S. 2. AIR 1952 S C 369.

——Art. 226—Successive petitions—Maintainability—Bar of res judicata not applicable in terms—R. 7 of Ch. XXII of Rules of Court applies — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11 — High Court Rules and Orders — (Allahabad) Rules of Court (1952), Ch. XXII, R. 7.

The rule of res judicata, as embodied in S. 11, Civil P. C., does not, in term, apply to the writ petitions under Art. 226. The granting of relief on writ petitions is purely a matter of discretion. The principle that discretion should not be exercised in favour of entertaining a second writ petition if an application on the same facts and points has been rejected, is well settled. In the rules of Court that principle has been embodied in R. 7 of Ch. XXII, which deals with direction, order or writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution.

Held, in the circumstances of the case that the ground taken in the previous writ petition which was rejected would not be allowed to be reagitated in the second petition. AIR 1956 All 100, Ref. 1961 All L J 606.

——Art. 226—Successive petitions by different persons—If barred—Suppression of fact of dismissal of prior petition—Effect.

The petitioner who was a member of a District Board filed a petition under Art. 226 praying for the issue of a writ of quo warranto commanding the respondent to show the legal authority under which he was holding the post of the Secretary of the Board. Prior to this, K one of the unsuccessful applicants for the post of the Secretary, had filed a petition under Art. 226 also praying for the issue of a writ of quo warranto against the respondent. That petition was dismissed not on merits but on the ground that A could not maintain it.

Held, that K's petition not having been dismissed on merits but on the ground that he could not maintain it, the dismissal of that petition could not be urged on the ground of suppression of the fact of prior dismissal as a bar to the entertainment of the present petition. A I R 1959 All 589 (592) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

[Overruled on another point in A I R 1964 All 169].

——Art. 226—Successive applications.

Relief claimed in petition under Art. 226 same as was claimed in earlier petition — In view of decision in earlier petition relief in subsequent petition cannot be granted. 1955 All L J 657 : A I R 1956 All 100 (102) (Pt D) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Procedure—Second application if barred.

If the former application for the issue of a writ of 'certiorari' is not refused after hearing it on merits, but it is allowed to be withdrawn for want of sufficient materials to support the application, a second application is not barred. A I R 1953 Cal 297 (299) (Pt D) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 — Successive applications — Maintainability.

When an application for prerogative writ has been made, argued and refused on the grounds of defects in the case, it is not competent for the applicant to make a second application for the same writ on amended affidavits containing fresh materials. 1957 M P C 770 : 1957 Jab L J 1039 : 1958 M P L J 184 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 82 (82, 83) (Pt C) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226 — Writ for quashing list of successful candidates—Ground of attack not taken by petitioner in prior writ petition by him — He cannot raise it in subsequent writ petition — Applicant held had no cause of action. See Ibid, Art. 16 (4). A I R 1963 Mys 303 (DB).

——Art. 226—Successive applications — Principle of res judicata — Applicability — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 11).

Even if one were to agree that the provisions of res judicata, as incorporated in S. 11, Civil P. C. may not strictly apply to successive writ application, the general principle of res judicata, apart from S. 11, Civil P. C., can be made applicable to writ applications also. 1956 B L J R 727 : 1956 Pat L R 16 : AIR 1956 Pat 182 (186) (Pt E) (Pr 12) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Successive applications — Maintainability.

When a petition for a writ is dismissed on the ground that it is premature, another petition can be filed when the circumstances which necessitated it have come into existence. Apart from the mere question of principle, where the petition was dismissed as withdrawn with approval of the High Court, and with at least its implied consent that a fresh petition on more or less the same grounds would be entertained the petitioner can come to the Court with his petition when the anticipated circumstances have arisen. The principles contained in O. 23, R. 1, Civil P. C., relating to suits cannot be strictly applied to applications for the exercise of the Court's extraordinary jurisdiction under Arts. 226 and 227 of the Constitution. A I R 1956 Punj 157 (158) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10, 11).

——Art. 226 (1-A) — Successive applications for writ — Continuing wrong — What is — Impugned order giving rise to continuing cause of action passed by authority situate beyond jurisdiction of High Court —Writ against, not maintainable prior to addition of Sub-Art. (1-A)—Fresh petition is maintainable when jurisdiction of High Court is extended by Art. 226 (1-A) even assuming that it is not retrospective.

A sale of evacuee property in favour of the petitioner was cancelled by an order passed by the Deputy Chief Settlement Commissioner whose residence was beyond the jurisdiction of the High Court and the property was ordered to be resold by public auction. The petitioner filed a writ application before the Rajasthan High Court prior to the amendment of Art. 226 by addition of cl. (1-A) by the Constitution Fifteenth Amendment Act. The question was whether a second writ petition could be maintained after the coming into force of the Constitution (Fifteenth Amendment) Act, 1963, even assuming that it was not retrospective in effect.

Held, that as the impugned order had not yet been implemented, the danger of the encroachment on the petitioner's right to hold the possession of the property still continued and that a continuing cause of action had accrued to the petitioner after the impugned order was passed which entitled him to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court by filing a fresh writ to challenge the impugned order after the jurisdiction of the High Court was extended by means of Art. 226 (1-A).

If the wrongful act causes an injury which is complete, there is no continuing wrong even though the damage resulting from the act may continue. If, however, a wrongful act is of such a character that the injury caused by it itself continues, then the act constitutes a continuing wrong. In this connection it is necessary to draw a distinction between the injury caused by the wrongful act and what may be described as the effect of the said injury. A I R 1959 S C 798, Foll. I L R (1964) 14 Raj 757 : 1961 Raj L W 387 : A I R 1964 Raj 260 (267) (Pt B) (Prs 31, 32) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Second application — Withdrawal of prayer in first application under misapprehension of fact—Second application is maintainable.

Generally speaking, a second application for a writ under Art. 226 will not lie if the first application for a similar relief has been dismissed. But where the first application has been withdrawn on the ground that the materials were insufficient, a second application may be made. (1892) 2 Q B 21, Rel. on.

Similarly where in the previous application the prayer was never refused, but was withdrawn by the applicant under misapprehension of facts, a second application for the relief, upon discovery of the mistake of fact would be maintainable. 1954 Raj L W 543 : I L R (1954) 4 Raj 743 : A I R 1954 Raj 200 (202) (Pt A) (Pr 8) (DB).

114(a). Mandamus.

——Art. 226—Successive application.

Where an application for a writ of mandamus is once rejected on the ground that no prior demand for justice was made, no second application is entertained in any circumstances, even though, since the rejection of the first application, a demand for justice may have been made. This rule has been applied by English Judges inexorably. (1845) 6 Q B 721 and (1892) 2 Q B 21, Rel. on.

However, this rule is not followed in practice in the High Court of Calcutta. I L R (1959) 1 Cal 91 : AIR 1958 Cal 219 (226) (Pt E) (Pr 26) (DB).

115. Suo motu interference.

——Art. 226 —Jurisdiction of High Court—Power of, to issue suitable writ suo motu.

The High Court has jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution to grant the relief as against the defendant, even though the matter has not come in its writ jurisdiction on an application under Art. 226, and is before the High Court in an appeal from an order. 1959 All L J 704 : I L R (1959) 2 All 92 : AIR 1959 All 675 (681) (Pt I) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Powers of High Court to quash orders suo motu — Order awarding compensation under S. 11, U. P. Act 26 of 1948 unconstitutional—Order set aside on review by Land Acquisition Officer without jurisdiction — Quashing of orders.

The Land Acquisition Officer had passed an order under S. 11, U. P. Act 26 of 1948 awarding compensation in contravention of the provisions of the Constitution as it stood amended after the coming into force of the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act, 1955. The State Government made an application for review of the order as soon as they become aware of the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) Act and then followed it up by an application for reference of the matter to the Court. There was undoubted delay in making the two applications. The Land Acquisition Officer though he had no jurisdiction to review his previous order, set it aside by another order. Whereupon the applicant applied under Art. 226 for quashing the second order.

Held, that in the circumstances of the case both the orders should be quashed, with the result that the Land Acquisition Officer should now proceed to determine compensation according to law. The words of Art. 226 are wide enough to authorise the High Court to quash an order suo motu. In any case, the High Court has power under Art. 227 of the Constitution to set aside that order. I L R (1957) 2 All 88 : A I R 1958 All 154 (158) (Pt G) (Prs 17, 18) (DB).

——Art. 226—U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (1947), S. 85—Power to act suo motu when a revision is found to be defective. See U. P. Panchayat Raj Act (26 of 1947), S. 85. AIR 1954 All 340.

——Art 226—Powers under — Conditions necessary for exercise of.

It is certainly not the province of the High Court to interfere suo motu or at the instance of any person whenever there is any disregard or violation of any of the provisions of the Constitution. The High Court's power under Art. 226 of the Constitution can only be invoked at the instance of a person who has a personal grievance against any act of the State in its executive capacity which inflicts a legal injury on him. The right which is the foundation of a petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a personal and individual right. The nomination of a member to the Madras Legislative Council by His Excellency the Governor of Madras in pursuance of Art. 171. Cl. 3(e) and (5) of the Constitution of India does not infringe the personal right of any elected member even in an indirect manner so as to entitle him to sustain an application for the issue of a writ of certiorari to quash the order of His Excellency the Governor. It cannot be said that it is incumbent on the Court to interfere suo motu in the matter and issue a writ of certiorari. (1952) 2 Mad L J 671 : A I R 1953 Mad 94 (95, 96) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

116. Suppression of material facts.
See Note 11.

117. Supreme Court, appeal to.
See Note 10.

118. Supreme Court, power to issue.
See Notes 12 and 13.

119. Suspension of writ jurisdiction.
See also Notes 12 and 217 and Ibid, Arts. 358, 359.

● —Art. 226—Interpretation of Art. 359—Article is capable of only one construction—Scope of Art. 358 compared with that of Art. 359 — Effect of Presidential Order—Right to move High Court under Art. 226 falls within mischief of Art. 359(1) — Nature of proceedings that are barred by Presidential Order under Art. 359(1) 'Any Court' in Art. 359(1) mean any Court of competent jurisdiction—Vires of Defence of India Act and Rules on ground of violation of fundamental rights in issue in proceedings under S. 491(1)(b), Criminal P. C. — Proceedings fall within mischief of Art. 359(1), and the Presidential Order — Validity of Defence of India Act and Rules thereunder cannot be questioned on ground of violation of fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 for period of operation of Presidential Order under Art. 359. See Ibid, Art. 359. 1964 (1) Cri L J 269: AIR 1964 S C 381.

● —Art. 226 — Applicability — Detention under Defence of India Act and Rules — Presidential order suspending enforcement of fundamental rights under Arts. 14, 21 and 22 during operation of order—Detention can be challenged on grounds of infringement of rights other than those specified in the order. See Ibid, Art. 359(1). 1964 (1) Cri L J 269 : A I R 1964 S C 381.

● —Arts. 226 (1), 32 (1), 359 (1)—Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 491 (1) (b)—Detention under Defence of India Act not open to challenge by virtue of Presidential Order under Art. 359 (1)—Detenu cannot get mere declaration that Defence of India Act is invalid.

What Art. 359 (1) purports to do is to empower the President to make an Order by which the right of the detenu to move the Court to challenge the validity of his detention on the ground that any of his fundamental rights specified in the Order have been contravened, is suspended, and so, it would be unreasonable to suggest that what the detenu cannot do in order to secure his release, he should be allowed to do merely for the purpose of obtaining an academic declaration that the Defence of India Act and the Rules are invalid. A proceeding taken under S. 491 (1) (b), Criminal P. C., like a petition filed under Art. 226 (1) or Art. 32 (1) is intended to obtain relief, and the relief in such cases means the order for the release of the detenu. If the detenu is prohibited from asking for an order of release on the ground that the challenge to the validity of his order of detention cannot be made during the pendency of the Presidential Order it would not be open to the same detenu to claim a mere declaration either under S. 491, Criminal P. C. or Art. 226 (1) or Art. 32 (1) of the Constitution. It is not open to the High Court to consider the validity of the impugned Act without relation to the prayer made by the detenu in his petition. The proceedings commenced by the detenu by means of his petition under S. 491 (1) (b) constitute one proceeding and if the sole relief which the detenu seeks to obtain cannot be claimed by him by virtue of the Presidential Order, it would be unreasonable to hold that he can claim a different relief, viz., a mere declaration. Such a relief is clearly outside the purview of the proceedings under S. 491 (1) (b), Criminal P. C and Arts. 226 (1) and 32 (1). Makhan Singh Tarsikka v. State of Punjab. (1964) 1 Cri L J 269 : (1964) 2 SCA 663 : AIR 1964 S C 381 (403) (Pt F) (Pr 45).

——Art. 32—President ordering suspension of right to move Court for enforcing rights under Arts. 21 and 22—Effect of the order—Person detained under R. 30 of D. I. Rules — Petition to Supreme Court under Art. 32 for issue of writ of habeas corpus—Petitioner held had no locus standi to enforce the right Validity of Defence of India Ordinance, 1962 challenged —Petition not maintainable. See Ibid, Art. 359 (1). 1964 (1) Cri L J 132 : AIR 1964 S C 173.

● —Art. 32—Person detained under R. 30 of D. I. Rules—Repeal of Defence of India, Ordinances — Effect of Repeal—Section 8 of General Clauses Act, 1897—Applies to President's order under Art. 359 (1) —Defence has no right to challenge vires of D.I. Act or Rules. See Defence of India Act (1962), S. 48. 1964 (1) Cri L J 132 : AIR 1964 S C 173.

——Arts. 226, 352, 358 and 359 — Proclamation of emergency and suspension of fundamental rights — High Court's power to issue writs or direction under Art. 226—How far affected — Order of detention under Defence of India Act—Interference by High Court — Defence of India Act (1962), S. 45—Powers of High Court under Art. 226 not affected—Defence of India Act (1962), S. 45.

Article 226 confers upon all the High Courts new and very wide powers subject alone to the two limitations of territorial jurisdiction, and the availability of the person or authority upon whom the writ issues, within such territory. Its power cannot be taken away or curtailed by any legislation short of an amendment of the Constitution. Any law which seeks to take away and restrict the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 must be held to be void and the High Court will be clearly entitled to exercise its powers under Art. 226 free from the fetters imposed directly or indirectly. But it does not follow from this that the High Court will issue a writ regardless of the scheme of the particular Act and the nature of the orders passed thereunder. If the scheme of the Act is that the decision of the executive should be final and no justiciable right is created, Art. 226 cannot be invoked for converting an executive act into a judicial or quasi-judical act thereby defeating the object of the enactment ; AIR 1958 S C 956; AIR 1953 Mad 392 and AIR 1953 Mad 972, Rel. on. Under Art. 359 (1) of the Constitution, the President has power to suspend the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III during the Emergency, and for the period. In exercise of this power, on 3rd November, 1962 a Notification was issued by the President (G.S.R. 1462) declaring that the right of any person to move any Court for the enforcement of the rights conferred by Arts. 14, 21 and 22 of the Constitution shall remain suspended for the period of the Emergency 'if such person has been deprived of any such right under the Defence of India Ordinance, 1962, or any rule or order made thereunder.' The Defence of India Rules, 1962, were promulgated on 5th November, 1962. Under S. 3 (2), (15) (i) of the Defence of India Act, 1962 the State has power to direct the apprehension and detention in custody of any person whom the relevant authority suspects, on grounds appearing to that authority to be reasonable, of being of hostile, origin or having acted, being about to act or being likely to act in a manner prejudicial to the defence of India and civil defence, the security of the State.

To the extent to which certain Fundamental rights have been suspended by the aforesaid provisions, they cannot be agitated in Courts. For instance, no Court could pronounce a legislation, subsequent to the Emergency, as in violation of Art. 19 and therefore void. No Court could permit the enforcement of rights, by any affected subject, under Arts. 14, 21, 22 with regard to any state of facts arising after the Emergency, and related to the action of authorities under the Defence of India Ordinance or Act. But, subject to these limitations the powers of the Courts have not been taken away and Art. 226 of the Constitution is available to the subject for redress, within its proper scope. In addition to the two factors upon which the Court could nevertheless interfere with regard to orders of detention or orders imposing restrictions upon detenus under the Defence of India Act, namely, acts outside the statutory powers or acts lacking bona fides, the High Court would have the power of interference upon principles of writ jurisdiction, but within the limits of those principles alone. For instance the High Court could interfere, in certiorari, where the order is an error of law apparent on the face of the record; it could interfere, by the issue of an appropriate writ, where a principle of natural justice has been flagrantly violated. But the exercise of writ jurisdiction is always within the limits of the proper recognition by the High Court of factors relevant to powers delegated to the executive by the Legislature. Where, for instance, the compulsory disclosure of information by the State even to Court, might imperial security, the High Court will not exercise the writ jurisdiction in a mode that necessitates such a disclosure. But, where the High Court is satisfied that, on the principles of writ jurisdiction, a particular order has to be set aside or a particular direction given to the executive, it will not hesitate to do so, because, S. 45 (1) of the Defence of India Act, 1962, cannot override the powers of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. ILR (1964) 1 Mad 327 : AIR 1965 Mad 225 (228, 229, 234, 246) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 7, 23, 24, 66) (DB).

120. Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

(a) Habeas Corpus.
See Note 218.

(b) Authority becoming extinct or functus officio.

(c) Original and appellate authorities, duty in different States.

(d) Person or authority must be within.

(e) Merger of order in appellate order.
See also Note 120 (d).

(f) Residence of applicant.

(g) Subject-matter.

(h) Union of India, writ against.

(i) Authority within jurisdiction acting on order of authority outside jurisdiction.

(j) Effect of amendment by Constitution (15th Amendment) Act.

120. Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

■ ——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts—Two-fold limitation on jurisdiction— Application for grant of mining lease rejected by Orissa Government—Review petition also rejected by Central Government — Order rejecting application not amenable to jurisdiction of Orissa High Court under Art. 226 — Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 57, 59 and 60.

There is two-fold limitation on the power of the High Court to grant a writ under Art. 226. These limitations are firstly that the power is to be exercised throughout the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises jurisdiction, that is to say, the writs issued by the High Court cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction, and secondly, that the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such writs must be within those territories, which clearly implies that they must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories.

Where after the Orissa State Government had rejected the application of the appellant for grant of mining lease, the appellant went in review to the Central Government under R. 57 of the Mineral Concession Rules, 1949, and that review petition was also rejected, the order of the Central Government is clearly not amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Orissa under Art. 226, in view of the fact that the Central Government is not located within the territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Orissa High Court.

Quite apart from the theoretical question of the merger of the State Government's order with the Central Government's order, the terms of R. 60 makes it perfectly clear that whenever the matter is brought to the Central Government under R. 59 it is the order of the Central Government which is effective and final. In those circumstances the Orissa High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 as the final order in the case was that of the Central Government which was not situate within the territories over which the High Court has jurisdiction. AIR 1953 S C 210; A I R 1961 S C 532 and A I R 1956 S C 246, Rel. on; A I R 1958 S C 86, Expl. and Disting.; A I R 1960 S C 606, Disting.; I L R (1960) Cut 685, Affirmed. Madan Gopal Rungta v. Secretary to the Government of Orissa, 1962 S C D 778 : 28 Cut L T 498 : (1963) 1 S C A 343 : (1962) Supp 3 S C R 906 : A I R 1962 S C 1513 (1515, 1516) (Prs 4, 6).

■ ——Art. 226 — Jurisdictian to issue writ of certiorari—Existence of person or authority.

The scope of Art. 226 is firstly that it confers on the High Courts power to issue writs and directions, and secondly, it defines the limits of that power. This latter it does by enacting that it can be exercised over any person or authority within the territories in relation to which it exercises its jurisdiction. The emphasis is on the words "within the territory", and their significance is that the jurisdiction to issue writ is co-extensive with the territorial jurisdiction of the Court. The reference is not to the nature and composition of the Court or tribunal but to the area within which the power could be exercised. Hari Vishnu v. Ahmad Ishaque, 1955 Mad W N 449 : 1955-1 Mad L J (SC) 157 : 1955 S C J 267 : 1955 Andh W R (SC) 157 : 1955 All W R 339 : 1955 S C R 1104 : 1955 Nag L J 1 : 1955 S C A 105 : AIR 1955 S C 233 (241) (Pt E) (Pr 14).

■ ——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of Punjab High Court to issue writ to Investigation Commission at Delhi investigating case of assessees in State of U. P.— (Taxation of Income (Investigation Commission) Act (33 of 1947), S. 5). AIR 1951 Punj 74, Reversed.

While Art. 225 of the Constitution preserves to the existing High Courts the powers and jurisdictions which they had previously, Article 226 confers on all the High Courts new and very wide powers in the matter of issuing writs which they never possessed before. There are only two limitations placed upon the exercise of these powers by a High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution; one is that the power is to be exercised "throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction", that is to say, the writs issued by the Court cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction. The other limitation is that the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue writs "must be within those territories" and this implies that they must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories. It is with reference to these two conditions thus mentioned that the jurisdiction of the High Courts to issue writs under Art. 226 of the Constitution is to be determined.

The Punjab High Court has jurisdiction to issue writ to the Investigation Commission in Delhi investigating under S. 5 of the Act 30 of 1947, the case of the petitioners, who were the assessees within the U. P. State and whose original assessment were made by the Income-tax authorities of that State, even though subsequent proceedings, which would have to be taken in pursuance of the report of the Investigation Commission would have to be taken by the Income tax authorities in the U. P., and if a case would have to be stated, it would have to be stated to the High Court at Allahabad. A I R 1954 S C 210, Rel. on; A I R 1943 P C 164, Expl. and Disting.; AIR 1951 Punj 74, Reversed. Rashid, K. S. v. Income-tax Investigation Commission, 1954 S C J 264 : 1954 S C A 264 : 1954 S C R 738 : (1954) 25 I T R 167 : A I R 1954 S C 207 (209, 210) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court. See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 116-A. AIR 1958 All 137.

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction and powers of High Court — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 27—Power of Custodian-General),

Under S. 27, Administration of Evacuee Property Act, the powers of the Custodian-General are very wide and for all practical purposes are indistinguishable from those of an appellate authority under the Act. Upon the general principle that the order of a Court merges in that of an appellate authority, the order of the Assistant Custodian merges in the order of the Additional Custodian and that order in its turn merges in the order passed by the Custodian-General. Wide as are the powers conferred under Art. 226 of the Constitution, a two-fold limitation is placed upon the powers of the High Court. In the first place, the power is to be exercised 'throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction'. Secondly, the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such writs must be 'within those territories'. The office of the Custodian-General is located in New Delhi where he himself ordinarily resides. The High Court has therefore no power to summon the records of any case in the custody of the office of the Custodian-General or to quash any order made by him. 1954 All W R (HC) 135 : 1954 All L J 114 : AIR 1954 All 433 (434) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of Calcutta High Court over Chandernagore — (Chandernagore (Application of Laws) Order, 1950).

The High Court at Calcutta has no jurisdiction to interfere with a notice of demand of patrol duty issued by the appropriate authority in Chandernagore, in exercise of its powers under Art. 226.

Under the Chandernagore (Application of Laws) Order of 1950 the High Court has been given only a limited jurisdiction. The jurisdiction under Art. 226 which is a very special jurisdiction, does not seem to have been extended to Chandernagore. 57 Cal W N 255 : AIR 1953 Cal 363 (364) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Art. 32 (2-A) (Jammu and Kashmir)—Territorial jurisdiction—Writ against Government — Limitations of territorial jurisdiction apply — AIR 1953 All 477 (FB), Diss. from. AIR 1955 NUC (J & K) 1550 (DB).

■ ——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Test to determine.

If an authority sought to be bound is permanently located or normally carries on its activities elsewhere, the High Court cannot possess jurisdiction over it, even though the parties to the case reside and the cause of action arises within the High Courts's jurisdiction. On the contrary, if the cause of action arises elsewhere and the parties also reside outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, jurisdiction to bind the authority would be existing if the authority is permanently located or is normally carrying on its activities within the jurisdiction of the High Court. The Tribunal may have become functus officio; even then if the record is legally within the custody of some one within the jurisdiction of the High Court, the record can be called up and certiorari can issue against the record: If an authority employs an agent within the jurisdiction of the High Court and the agent acts independently under law, though under the general supervision of the outside authority, the action of the agent can be interfered with by the High Court if it is opposed to fundamental rights or is contrary to law or the course of natural justice. If a special tribunal situated outside the jurisdiction of the State deals with an order of an inferior tribunal within the jurisdiction of the State and the order of the inferior tribunal can be said to merge in that of the superior tribunal, the High Court cannot of necessity deal with the order of the inferior tribunal, if it cannot deal with the order of the superior tribunal. Surajmal Arjundas v. State of Madhya Pradesh. 1957 M P C 680 : ILR (1957) Madh Pra 507: 1957 M P L J 788: 1957 Jab L J 1011 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 103 (112) (Pt C) (Pr 31) (FB).

——Art. 226—Scope of jurisdiction to issue writs.

The jurisdiction to issue a writ does not depend upon the mere location of a tribunal but depends upon the subject-matter and the parties to the dispute in regard to which such a tribunal purports to exercise jurisdiction. To put in other words, though the tribunal is situated outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court if it purports to exercise jurisdiction in regard to the parties or the subject-matter which are within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court the tribunal must be deemed to have functioned within the jurisdiction of the High Court. The jurisdiction conferred by Art. 226 of the Constitution is to protect the fundamental and other rights of parties within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. The Article does not expressly say that the authority or tribunal interfering with such rights should reside physically within the territorial jurisdiction. If a tribunal or authority exercises jurisdiction within the territories affecting such rights it may reasonably be construed that the authority or the tribunal functioned within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court and, therefore, is amenable to its jurisdiction. Further the labour appellate tribunal under the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950) though it has its headquarters at Bombay is an intinerant body functioning in different part of the country and where in a case it functioned during some part of the enquiry at any rate within the territorial jurisdiction of the Madras High Court the High Court has jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari against the order of the Labour

Appellate Tribunal. I L R (1944) Mad 457, Rel. on. 1952 Mad W N 519 : (1952) 1 Lab L J 772 : (1952-53) 4 F J R 77 : 1952-2 Mad L J 805 : A I R 1952 Mad 659 (663) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

● ——Arts. 226, 32 — Power of High Court to issue writs in matters outside its original jurisdiction.

The High Court has both the power and jurisdiction to issue the writs specified in Art. 226. The Madras High Court therefore has power to issue writs in matters outside its Ordinary Original Jurisdiction after the commencement of the Constitution. AIR 1950 Madh B 60 (FB), Diss. Srinivasa Bhat v. State of Madras. 64 Mad L W 82 : (1951) 1 Mad L J 115 : AIR 1951 Mad 70 (73) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (SB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Limits of.

Article 226 contemplates, for purposes of jurisdiction, the following two conditions, viz., that

(i) the power to issue writs, etc., extends only to the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises jurisdiction ; and

(ii) the writs, etc., can be issued only to the person, authority or Government within those territories and these are the only two conditions which govern the question of the High Court's jurisdiction.

Merely because a tribunal or authority permanently located and normally carrying on its activities elsewhere exercises jurisdiction within the territorial limits of the High Court so as to affect the rights of the parties therein such tribunal or authority cannot be regarded as functioning within the territorial limits of the High Court and being therefore amenable to its jurisdiction under Art. 226. The same limitations apply to the case of Government. A I R 1953 S C 210, Rel. on; A I R 1952 Bom 449 and A I R 1952 Mad 659, doubted. I L R (1954) Nag 286 : 1954 Nag L J 478 : AIR 1954 Nag 161 (163) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 (1) — High Court issuing direction, order or writ under Article — High Court acts in personam.

Under article 226 of the Constitution, a High Court has power, throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, to issue to any person or authority, within those territories directions, orders or writs. Clearly, therefore, the person or authority to whom a direction, or order or writ can be issued must be normally resident within the jurisdiction of the High Court. A High Court when it issues a direction, order or writ under article 226 acts in personam. A I R 1952 Punj 1 and AIR 1952 Punj 9, Expln. I L R (1952) Nag 331 : 1954 Nag L J 327 : AIR 1952 Nag 301 (301, 302) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 266—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

It is clear from the language of Art. 226 that there are two limitations imposed upon the jurisdiction of the High Court in the matter of issuing a writ. In the first place, the power of the High Court is to be exercised "throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction"; in other words, the writ issued by the High Court cannot run beyond the territorial limits of its jurisdiction. In the second place, the person or authority to whom the High Court issues the writ must be "within those territories", which means by necessary implication that the person or authority must be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court either by residence or by location within those territories.

The test of the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is not whether the cause of action has accrued within the territorial limits of the High Court. The language of Art. 226 makes no express reference to any cause of action or where the cause of action arises. There is nothing in the language of Art. 226 to suggest that the cause of action has any relevance in determining the jurisdiction of the Court to issue a writ. On the other hand, the express limitation imposed by Art. 226 is that the person or authority to whom writ is issued must be within the territorial limits of the High Court.

Hence, the High Court at Patna has no jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution against the Chief Medical Officer, Eastern Railway, whose permanent office is located at Calcutta. AIR 1953 S C 210; AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll. ILR 33 Pat 501 : AIR 1955 Pat 76 (77, 78) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court. AIR 1954 Raj 214 and AIR 1954 Raj 189, Dissented from.

For purposes of jurisdiction Art. 226 contemplates the following two conditions, (1) the power to issue writs, etc., extends only to the territories in relation to which High Court exercises jurisdiction and (2) the writs, etc., can be issued only to the person, authority or Government within those territories. These are the only two conditions which govern the question of High Court's jurisdiction. The writs, orders or directions cannot travel beyond the territorial limits of the High Court's jurisdiction and the person, authority, or Government to whom they are to be issued must reside or be located within the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises jurisdiction. If either of these conditions is not fulfilled, the High Court will obviously be left without jurisdiction to issue such writs, etc.

Where the office of the revisional authority, i. e, Assistant Custodian General who passed the final orders under the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950, in the cases was located at Delhi which place was undoubtedly beyond the territorial limits of the Pepsu Court, merely because the Assistant Custodian-General carrying on his activities at Delhi exercised jurisdiction within the territorial limits of the High Court affecting the rights of the parties therein he could not be regarded as functioning within the territorial limits of the Pepsu High Court and thus was not amenable to its jurisdiction under Art. 226, of the Constitution. Orders of the Assistant Custodian-General passed in revision superseded those of the local tribunal and those really were the orders in dispute before the High Court. It could not be held that where a revision was dismissed the Assistant-Custodian General did not confirm the order of the local tribunal but merely declined to interfere and it was therefore the order of the local tribunal which was in dispute and the High Court had jurisdiction to issue writs: Case-law discussed. AIR 1954 Raj 214; AIR 1954 Raj 189, Diss. from. I L R (1955) Patiala 603 : AIR 1955 Pepsu 91 (93, 94, 95, 96) (Prs 10, 14, 15) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

There are two classes of cases where the respondent, a head of a department, against whom relief under Art. 226 is sought, is resident outside the jurisdiction of a particular High Court. One where the particular order is passed by an officer resident or having office within the jurisdiction of the High Court, and the superior officer residing outside the jurisdiction, only purports to confirm the order and to dismiss the appeal or revision made by the person affected by the order. The other, where the superior officer residing outside the jurisdiction of the High Court purports to set aside the order of the subordinate officer and substitutes his own order for the same. This would include also a modification of the order passed by the subordinate officer. In the first class of cases what the petitioner wants is that the order of the subordinate officer should be set aside, and he only makes the superior officer a party because he avails of the remedy provided by the rules of the law of approaching the superior officer. In the second class of cases the prayer of the petitioner would directly involve a direction to the superior officer not resident within the jurisdiction.

The petitioner who was the Head Travelling Ticket Examiner, on his periodical eye-sight examination, was ordered by the Chief Traffic Inspector, Bandikui, to rejoin as Head Ticket Collector. The petitioner filed an appeal to the D. T. S., Bandikui, T. S. Ajmer, C. T. M. Bombay and General Manager, Bombay. As a result of these representations, he was asked to appear again before the Chief Medical Officer, Bombay. The C. M. O. maintained his earlier opinion, and nothing came out of the petitioner's representations.

He then applied under Art. 226 on the ground that it involved reduction in rank without an opportunity being given to him to show cause against the reduction. Union of India and the General Manager, Western Railway, Bombay were made respondents. On objection that the General Manager had his office outside the jurisdiction of the High Court of Rajasthan.

Held, that the original order of posting of the petitioner as Head Ticket Collector was passed by the C. T. I. Bandikui, and it was that order which was under question in this petition; it was immaterial that the petitioner's efforts in setting aside that order right up to the General Manager proved fruitless. The High Court therefore had jurisdiction to entertain the application and that although the C. T. I, Bandikui, was not made a party, since the order had been upheld by the General Manager, and the General Manager appeared in the case to defend that order, the defect was immaterial, AIR 1953 S C 210, Ref. I L R (1954) 4 Raj 639 : AIR 1954 Raj 189 (190) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

120 (a). Habeas corpus.

See Note 218.

120 (b). Authority becoming extinct or functus officio.

——Art. 226—Election tribunals.

An election tribunal appointed by the Election Commission ceases to exist on the completion of its task. The argument that till the election petition has been disposed of in accordance with the law, the tribunal continues to exist even though it may be dormant cannot be accepted for if that were so the tribunal would continue to exist till all remediable processes had either been availed of or had become barred by time.

Nor does an order of the High Court vacating the order of the tribunal revive the tribunal automatically. It can be revived or re-appointed only by the Election Commission. Therefore it is not permissible to issue a direction that the tribunal should dispose of the election petition in accordance with directions given by the Court while vacating its order because there would be no one who could carry out the direction.

Further if any writ is issued by the Court it will affect the actions of the Election Commissioner which is not situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Court and hence not subject to the writ process of the Court. If the writ is to be respected the Election Commission would be compelled to follow a course of conduct other than the one it would choose. If the Election Commission chooses to ignore the writ, then the Court will have no authority to enforce it. It would be wrong not only in principle but also against the practice of the Courts to issue such directions. 1954 A M L J 1 : AIR 1954 Ajmer 33 (36, 37) (Pt D) (Prs 19, 21).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Order of extinct Tribunal—Writ of certiorari to quash.

The High Court has no power to issue a writ of certiorari for quashing the order of a Tribunal which has become extinct and the record of the proceedings, in which the impugned order was passed, was lodged outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. But where the order of the Tribunal is absolutely null and void, it could be ignored and the authority who intended to enforce the order could be restrained by the High Court by appropriate direction from enforcing the said order if he were resident within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. AIR 1956 All 684 and AIR 1958 All 80, Rel. on. 1960 All L J 274 : (1960) 1 Lab L J 756 : AIR 1960 All 444 (445) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari— Issue of—Tribunal abolished and its record removed out of jurisdiction—Effect — Existence of copy of decision with State Government — Effect — Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), Ss. 9 (9) and 16 — (Industrial Disputes—U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (28 of 1948), S. 6 (1)).

Where in proceedings for a writ of certiorari there is a clear assertion that the Labour Appellate Tribunal of Lucknow Bench has been abolished and the records of the case in which the decision of the Appellate Tribunal was given, has gone to Bombay; outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, no writ of certiorari can be issued to quash that decision of the Labour Appellate Tribunal or the award given by the Adjudicator.

The existence of the copy of the decision of the Appellate Tribunal which might have been received by the State Government under S. 9 (9) of the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1951 cannot be said to be the record in which the decision was given and against which alone a writ of certiorari can be directed. I L R (1958) 1 All 434 : AIR 1958 All 80 (83, 84) (Pt B) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

If a tribunal has been abolished or become functus officio but the record is within the territorial limits of the High Court, it can obtain it from the person who has custody or possession of it, because he being within the territorial limits, is subject to its jurisdiction and bound to comply with its order. A writ of certiorari goes to the record and not to the tribunal that has prepared it. The High Court cannot issue an order to a person outside its territorial jurisdiction directing him to submit any record to it. AIR 1955 S C 233, Foll. I L R (1957) 2 All 511 : 1957 All L J 727 : 1957 All W R (H C) 716 : (1958) 1 Lab L J 195 : AIR 1957 All 650 (651, 652) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Court — Territorial jurisdiction — Record of Labour Appellate Tribunal at Allahabad sent to Calcutta Bench — Third Lucknow Bench taking place of Allahabad Bench — Allahabad High Court's jurisdiction over Calcutta Tribunal.

A writ of certiorari is issued to an officer who is in lawful charge of the record of a case decided by a judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal so that the record may be sent for and if it is found that any order has been passed which was without jurisdiction or on the face of it erroneous in law, it may be quashed. The jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ, therefore, is to be determined by the residence of the per son in whose lawful custody the record is. The custody of an agent will be construed as the custody of the principal, and therefore where the record is in the custody of an agent who is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court but the principal is within the jurisdiction the principal may be compelled to get the record from the agent and the writ can be issued concerning any order in that record.

The Labour Appellate Tribunal exercises jurisdiction over the whole of India through several benches at Calcutta, Bombay and Lucknow. Where a case was decided by a former Bench at Allahabad which had been abolished and its place had been taken by the third Lucknow Bench, but on the abolition of the Allahabad Bench the record was sent to Calcutta and it was in the lawful custody of the Calcutta Bench.

Held, that it could not be said that the Calcutta Bench held the record as an agent of the Lucknow Bench. 1956 All L J 898 : (1956-57) 11 F J R 359 : (1957) 1 Lab L J 439 : A I R 1957 All 252 (254) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

120 (c). Original and appellate authorities, duty in different States.

● ——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction of High Court—Order of appellate authority dismissing appeal and confirming order under appeal — Appellate authority outside jurisdiction of High Court — Writ cannot be issued even against original order.

On principle when once an order of an original authority is taken in appeal to the appellate authority which is located beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court it is the order of the latter authority which is the operative order after the appeal is disposed of and as the High Court cannot issue a writ against the appellate authority for want of territorial jurisdiction it would not be open to it to issue a writ to the original authority which may be within its territorial jurisdiction once the appeal is disposed of, though it may be that the appellate authority has merely confirmed the order of the original authority and dismissed the appeal. A I R 1960 Cal 1, Reversed; A I R 1962 S C 1513 and A I R 1958 S C 86, Disting. A I R 1958 S C 246 and A I R 1958 SC 868, Rel. on.

When an appeal is made, the appellate authority can do one of three things, namely: (i) it may reverse the order under appeal, (ii) it may modify that order, and (iii) it may merely dismiss the appeal and thus confirm the order without any modification. In all these three cases after the appellate authority has disposed of the appeal, the operative order is the order of the appellate authority whether it has reversed the original order or modified it or confirmed it.

In law, the appellate order of confirmation is quite as efficacious as an operative order as an appellate order of reversal or modification. In effect, by issuing a writ to the original authority setting aside its order, the High Court would be interfering with the order of the appellate authority which had confirmed the order of the original authority even though it has no territorial jurisdiction to issue any writ to the appellate authority.

The principle, viz, that the appellate order is the operative order after the appeal is disposed of, is the basis of the rule that the decree of the lower Court merges in the decree of the appellate Court. On the same principle it would not be incorrect to say that the order of the original authority is merged in the order of the appellate authority whatsoever its decision—whether of reversal or modification or mere confirmation. Collector of Customs, Calcutta v. East India Commercial Co., Ltd., Calcutta, (1963) 1 S C A 348 : (1963) 2 S C R 563 : (1963) 2 S C J 230 : A I R 1963 S C 1124 (1126, 1127) (Prs 4, 5).

——Art. 226 (1-A) (as amended by Constitution Fifteenth Amendment Act 1963)—Order of dismissal of Government servant passed by Central Government authority situate within jurisdiction of Rajasthan High Court — Appeal against order dismissed by another authority situate outside jurisdiction —Order of dismissal provides a subsequent cause of action to the appellants—High Court has jurisdiction to entertain the writ application and set aside the order passed by the appellate authority although it was situate outside its territorial jurisdiction. A I R 1964 All 379 (381) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Order discharging railway servant—Nature of.

An order discharging a railway employee from service, being an administrative order, does not merge in the order passed on appeal by the Appellate Authority: AIR 1954 All 433, Expl. and disting.; AIR 1958 S C 86, Rel. on. Where the original authority passing the order of removal and the appellate authority are situated in different States and the employee files a writ petition for quashing the order of removal and the order of the appellate authority dismissing his appeal against the order in the High Court within whose jurisdiction the original authority is situated there is no bar to issuing any writ or direction quashing the order passed by the original authority which is within the jurisdiction of the High Court. The inability of the High Court to issue any writ or other direction to the appellate authority cannot render the remedy granted against the order of his removal ineffective. 1960 All L J 727 : (1961) 1 Lab L J 424 : A I R 1961 All 338 (340, 341) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Certiorari—Territorial jurisdiction—Executive orders—Dismissal of Government servant confirmed in appeal — Doctrine of merger not applicable — Punishing authority amenable to territorial jurisdiction of High Court while appellate authority functioning and residing, outside the jurisdiction — Original order of dismissal can be examined — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 96 — Executive orders—Appeal — Effect—Doctrine of merger—Applicability to executive orders.

The doctrine of merger is confined to judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings but does not extend to order of dismissal which is confirmed in appeal. In case of a departmental enquiry against a Government servant resulting in his dismissal the proceedings before the inquiry officer may be quasi-judicial but the dismissal order is an executive order. The Government servant has a right of appeal against it but no question of merger of order of punishing authority into that of the appellate authority arises. Where, therefore an order of dismissal passed by punishing authority functioning within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court is upheld by appellate authority functioning and residing outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, a writ petition is maintainable against that order because, in order to give effective relief to the aggrieved Government servant it is not necessary for High Court to interfere with appellate order. The original order of dismissal can be examined : 1960 All L J 727; AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1960 Cal 1, Rel. on. (1962) 1 Lab L J 7 : (1961) 3 Fac L R 25 (All).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction.

A High Court cannot issue a writ to an authority which has its office outside its jurisdiction.

Thus where an employee in Central Excise is dismissed by the Collector and that order has been confirmed by the Board of Central Excise, Delhi, the office of which is outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court cannot in a writ petition filed under Art. 226 against the Collector, interfere with the order of dismissal of the petitioner. AIR 1954

All 433 and AIR 1955 Pepsu 91, Rel. on.; AIR 1954 Raj 214, Diss. from. 1960 All L J 288: (1960) 1 Fac L R 477 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 148 : AIR 1960 All 551 (555) (Pt B) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court — Authority to whom writ is issued must be within jurisdiction—AIR 1954 Raj 145 and 189 and AIR 1954 Trav-Co 131 (FB) Diss. from.

The Board of Revenue (Andhra) which is situated in the City of Madras is not within the area of the Andhra State, over which the High Court of Andhra has jurisdiction. Hence no writ under Art. 226 can be issued to it. A I R 1955 Andhra 23; AIR 1953 S C 210; AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll.

It is difficult to appreciate the distinction between a reversing order and a confirming order of an appellate authority, so far as the exercise of jurisdiction under Art. 226 is concerned. Once there is an appeal to the Board of Revenue the final order is that of the Board of Revenue because the appeal destroys the finality of the order of the District Collector who is in Andhra. If so, the order sought to be quashed must be deemed to be that of the Board of Revenue which is situated outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court, and when a writ is sought to be issued it makes no difference whether the Order of the Board of Revenue is merely an affirming one or an order of reversal. A I R 1954 Raj 145 and 189; AIR 1954 Trav-Co 131 (FB), Dissented from. 1955 Andh L T (Civil) 117 : 1955 Andh W R 175 : AIR 1955 Andhra 178 (178, 179, 180) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 11, 13).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Order of dismissal by A. G., Maharashtra State — Appeal against such order to Comptroller and Auditor-General of India dismissad — Petition against order of dismissal under Art 226—No relief asked against Comptroller and Auditor-General of India and Union of India though made respondents — Petition in the High Court at Bombay held maintainable.

Held, on facts that though the petitioner, an upper division clerk being dismissed by the Accountant-General of Maharashtra State had impleaded the Comptroller and Auditor-General and the Union of India as parties to this petition, the petitioner had not asked for any relief against any of them directly. So long as an effective order of the disciplinary authority could be reached by the High Court to give relief to petitioner, there was no impediment in the High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution on the mere fact that an appellate order which was not impugned was passed by an authority which might not be within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. The petition was entitled to be considered on merits and decided. AIR 1962 S C 513, Disting. AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1958 S C 1036 and Misc. Petn. No. 219 of 1961, D/- 18-3-1962 (Bom) and AIR 1960 Cal 1 (FB) and A I R 1962 Madh Pra 112 and AIR 1961 Madh Pra 148 and AIR 1954 Raj 214, Rel. on. 65 Bom L R 65 : ILR (1962) Bom 664 : 1963 Mah L J 205 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 428 : AIR 1963 Bom 121 (130, 131) (Pt A) (Prs 37, 42) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

Order of General Manager — Appeal to Railway Board — Railway Board not within jurisdiction of High Court—But Railway Board not considering and not passing any order on a portion of General Manager's order — High Court is competent to deal with such portion. 62 Cal W N 921 : AIR 1960 Cal 209 (212) (Pt B) (Pr 3).

[Held Overruled on another point by AIR 1962 S C 1704 as interpreted by AIR 1966 S C 1197].

■ ——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction—Order of Tribunal situated within territorial limits of High Court, confirmed by Appellate Tribunal situated outside jurisdiction—Writ can issue on Tribunal within jurisdiction — Original order exists—(Sea Customs Act (1878), Ss. 167 (8), 37, 188 and 189).

The Calcutta High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ or order under Art. 226 of the Constitution to the Central Board of Revenue, situated outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. Where the Collector of Customs within the jurisdiction of the Calcutta High Court passes an order under the Sea Customs Act, against the petitioner and the order is confirmed by the appellate authority, namely the Central Board of Revenue, located outside the jurisdiction, the original order made by the Collector of Customs is the order continuing to be operative of its own force after the appeal has been dismissed. AIR 1958 S C 86, Foll. After the appeal is dismissed and the original order is confirmed the Calcutta High Court can give appropriate relief under Art. 226 of the Constitution in respect of this original order if the merits of the case justify. East India Commercial, Ltd. v Collector of Customs, 64 Cal W N 256 : AIR 1960 Cal 1 (2, 5, 6) (Prs 4, 14, 15, 16) (SB).

[Reversed in AIR 1963 S C 1124.]

——Art. 226—Petition for writ—Territorial jurisdiction — Appellate authority outside the State — Effect.

The High Court at Hyderabad is not competent to issue a writ against the Custodian General of the Evacuee Property whose office is at Delhi. The fact that the original order is of the Custodian at Hyderabad and it is merely confirmed by the Custodian General does not make any difference in respect of the jurisdiction. The e is no difference between the case where the order of the local custodian is merely confirmed and the case where it is modified by the Custodian General. As a matter of principle, when an order of a lower Court or an officer is merged in the order of the higher tribunal or the superior officer, as the case may be, it would be the order of the superior Court which will be under consideration and not the order of the lower Court. AIR 1954 Hyd 33, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Raj 214, Diss. from. ILR (1956) Hyd 272 : AIR 1956 Hyd 64 (64) (Prs 2, 4) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Territorial jurisdiction — Order by tribunal within jurisdiction confirmed in appeal and revision by tribunals outside jurisdiction — Principle of merger — Writ quashing lower tribunal's order—Issue of.

When an order of an inferior tribunal is carried up in appeal or revision to a superior tribunal outside the High Court's jurisdiction and the superior tribunal passes an order confirming modifying or reversing the order of the inferior tribunal, a writ cannot issue from the High Court to the superior tribunal, because it is not situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Court; in such a case no writ can equally issue against the inferior tribunal that is situated within the jurisdiction of the Court. The principle of merger applies to the case and the order of the inferior tribunal within the jurisdiction having become merged in the orders of the appellate and revisional authorities functioning outside the State, cannot be quashed as such, under Art. 226 or 227 of the Constitution. AIR 1955 All 435 (FB) and AIR 1955 Nag 148 and AIR 1955 Pepsu 91 and AIR 1956 S C 246, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 131 (FB), Disting. 1958 Ker L J 198 : 1958 Ker L T 130 : ILR (1958) Ker 319 : AIR 1958 Ker 357 (364, 365) (Pt B) (Prs 56, 58) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court — Original and appellate authorities situated in different States—Order against petitioner for contravention of R. 151, Central Excise Rules, by Assistant Collector, Central Excise Jabalpur (M. P.) — Appeal by petitioner — Appeal dismissedd and order confirmed without any modification by the Collector, Central Excise, Nagpur (Maharashtra) — Held there was no merger of original order and therefore jurisdiction of M. P. High Court to issue writ remained unaffected. AIR 1961 Madh Pra 148 and AIR 1958 S C 1036, Rel. on. 1961 M P C 727 : 1961 Jab L J 1185 : I L R (1962) Madh Pra 197 : 1961 M P L J 1314 : AIR 1962 Madh Pra 112 (114) (Pt B) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226— Order passed by subordinate executive officer does not merge in appellate or revisional order—Writ petition against such order lies in High Court even if revisional authority is outside its jurisdiction.

There is no merger of the orders of demand made by an Inspector of Central Excises under Rule 9 (2) of the Central Excises Rules and of the appellate authority under S. 35 (1) in an order made by the Central Government in revision under S. 36. An order passed by the Inspector, Central Excises, levying excise duty on the appellant is an administrative or executive order and the order passed by the appellate authority and the revisional authority are orders of administrative authorities exercising at the most quasi-judicial functions. The theory of merger of orders cannot, therefore, be applied to these orders and even if it were to be applied, they would not in any way affect the operation of the order of the original authority even if affirmed in appeal or revision. AIR 1958 S C 86 and AIR 1958 S C 1036, Foll.

Hence a writ petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution can lie in the High Court against the orders of the Inspector or the appellate authority when he or it functions within its jurisdiction, even if the Central Government functions outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. 1960 M P C 747 : I L R (1960) Madh Pra 805 : 1961 Jab L J 59 : 1961 M P L J 195: AIR 1961 Madh Pra 148 (150, 151, 152) (Prs 4, 5, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 28 —Orders of department tribunals—Principle of merger not applicable — No interfering order by appellate tribunal—Finality of lower tribunal's order not affected—Effect on territorial jurisdiction of High Court—See Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 28. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 256.

● ——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Case under Mineral Concession Rules—Central Government declining to review order by State Government — Issue of writ to Central Government—(Mineral Concession Rules (1949), R. 60).

An application for a mining lease having been dismissed by the State Government, the applicant applied to the Central Government for a revision of the order under Ch. VI of the Mineral Concession Rules. The Central Government rejected the application and the result was communicated to the applicant. The applicant having moved a petion under Art. 226 for quashing the two orders.

Held, that a writ could not be issued to bind the Central Government because, (a) the Central Government could not be deemed to be permanently located or normally carrying on its business within the jurisdiction of the High Court; (b) the record of the case which the Central Government decided was not before the High Court and could not be made available from any legal custody within the State; (c) the order of the State Government must be deemed to have merged in that of the Central Government; (d) the order of the State Government could not be touched unless the order of the Central Government could be brought before the High Court and quashed. Surajmal Arjundas v State of Madhya Pradesh, 1957 M P C 680 : I L R (1957) Madh Pra 507 : 1957 M P L J 788 : 1957 Jab L J 1011 : AIR 1958 Madh Pra 103 (115) (Pt A) (Pr 42) (FB).

——Art. 226—Writ of mandamus—Jurisdiction to issue—Principle of merger of original order in the final order — Scope—Joint Chief Controller of Imports, Madras passing an order in consultation with Chief Controller of Imports, New Delhi—Nature of.

If the appellant had applied for a writ of certiorari to quash the order of the joint Chief Controller of Imports, Madras, the High Court would, ordinarily speaking, have no jurisdiction over the matter, as such order should be deemed to have been merged in the final order of the Chief Controller, New Delhi over whom the High Court will have no jurisdiction. This principle has been laid down by the Supreme Court in AIR 1958 S C 868. This rule will not be different even in regard to the application for the issue of writ of mandamus.

There can be little doubt that the decision of a judicial or quasi-judicial authority given under the direction of, or after consultation with some other person, even if that person be a superior authority will be invalid as being in violation of the rules of natural justice.

Where the officer entrusted with the duty of deciding about the issue of licence (as in the instant case) did not do so himself but merely carried out the directions of his superior, such an order would obviously be void: AIR 1958 SC 887, followed. (1963) 2 Mad L J 207 : 76 Mad L W 76 : I L R (1963) Mad 252.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Original authority and appellate authority situated in different States — Jurisdiction of High Court to issue writ — (See Customs Act (1878), Ss. 167 (8), 182 and 183).

The general rule is that when an order of an inferior tribunal is carried up in appeal or revision to a superior tribunal and the superior tribunal passes an order confirming, modifying or reversing the order of the inferior tribunal and a writ cannot issue from the High Court to the superior tribunal because it is not situated within the territorial jurisdiction of that court, in such a case no writ can equally issue against an inferior tribunal though situate within the jurisdiction of the High Court : A I R 1956 S C 246, Foll. When an order of an inferior tribunal is a nullity, the order on appeal therefrom cannot be of greater validity.

Thus, where an order of confiscation or penalty passed by the Collector of Customs, situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Madras High Court, was a nullity in that the procedure dictated by natural justice was not followed, the fact that there was an appeal to the Central Board of Revenue, which was situated outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court and which refused to interfere, would not prevent the High Court from quashing the order of the Collector: AIR 1956 S C 246, Disting; (1927) 1 K B 491 and (1953) 2 Q B 18, Rel. on. The doctrine of merger can have no application where the appeal to the Central Board of Revenue was rejected in limine: A I R 1914 P C 66, Rel. on. I L R (1957) Mad 642 : 1957 Mad W N 256 : 70 Mad L W 328 : (1957) Mad L J (Cr) 283 : (1957) 2 Mad L J 41 : AIR 1957 Mad 496 (503, 504) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 22, 25) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction —Whether writ can issue to Appellate Tribunal having seat outside jurisdiction —(Quaere). AIR 1955 N U C (Mad) 3896.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Jurisdiction of Madras High Court to issue to Appellate Industrial Tribunal at Bombay when subject-matter of dispute is within jurisdiction. See Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (48 of 1950), S. 7 (a). AIR 1952 Mad 659.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Jurisdiction.

Where the Labour Appellate Tribunal, whose office is located in the Fort area at Bombay, has passed an order in appeal against an order of the Industrial Tribunal, Bangalore, the High Court of Mysore can issue a writ of certiorari against the Labour Appellate Tribunal for quashing its order. ILR (1953) Mys 287 : AIR 1953 Mys 52 (59) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Order of dismissal passed by Chief Commissioner — Confirmation of order by Union Government in appeal—Former order does not merge in appellate order —Court of Judicial Commissioner can issue writ to Chief Commissioner to direct him to cancel order of dismissal and refrain from giving effect to it.

Where an order of dismissal from service passed against the petitioner by the Chief Commissioner was merely confirmed by the appellate order passed by Union Government at Delhi no question of merger of the former order in the appellate order arises and hence the Judicial Commissioner's Court of Manipur has jurisdiction to quash the Chief Commissioner's order of dismissal and to command him not to put the order into effect. The theory of merger would not apply to orders passed in departmental enquiries. No doubt, where in an appeal, the order of the subordinate tribunal is varied or altered or modified the said order is no longer in force and the grievance of the party concerned would be against the appellate order and if the appellate authority is outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court cannot entertain a writ against the appellate authority. But where it is a case of dismissal of the appeal and confirmation of the order of the subordinate authority, the appellate order has no special efficiency about it and it is the original order of the subordinate authority, which is in force. In such a case if the subordinate authority which passed the original order is within the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court has certainly the power to issue directions to that authority. AIR 1958 SC 86 and AIR 1958 SC 1036, Rel. on. Obiter in AIR 1956 S C 246, Not followed. A I R 1963 Guj 6, Diss. from. AIR 1964 Manipur 46 (51, 53) (Pt B) (Prs 9, 17).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act (1957) — Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 60, 23 (1-A) Proviso, 57 (2), 59 — Application to State Government for grant of mining lease not disposed of within statutory period deemed to be rejected—Review to Central Government rejected — Order of Central Government is final and cannot be challenged before Orissa High Court by writ petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution. The offices of the Government of India being located at Delhi are clearly outside the jurisdiction of the Orissa High Court which cannot quash the order of the Central Government however erroneous or illegal it might be. AIR 1958 M P 103; A I R 1960 S C 806, Rel. on. (1960) 2 O J D 460 : I L R (1960) Cut 673.

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Grant of mining lease by State of Bihar — Cancellation by Union Government on review — Writ Petition — Maintainability — (Mineral Concession Rules (1949), Rr. 59 and 60).

Where a writ petition was made to the High Court of Patna, for quashing the order of the Union Government passed on review against the order of the State of Bihar granting a mining lease in favour of the petitioner.

Held, that the petition was not maintainable because it was not open to the High Court to examine the validity of the order of the Union Government or to grant any writ against it. The order of the State Government granting the lease, and the order of the Union Government cancelling that lease were in the nature of quasi judicial orders and there was a merger of the order of the State Government in the order of the Union Government which was a superior authority and which was located outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207 and AIR 1955 All 435 (FB) and and AIR 1955 Nag 148 and AIR 1958 Madh Pra 103, Rel. on. AIR 1956 S C 246 and AIR 1955 All 435 (FB) and AIR 1955 Nag 148 and AIR 1955 Pepsu 91, Disting. 1958 Pat L R 399 : 1958 B L J R 820 : I L R 38 Pat 18 : A I R 1959 Pat 61 (63, 64, 65) (Prs 4, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court — Authority residing outside jurisdiction — Issue of writ to —Writ cannot be issued — Lower authority functioning within jurisdiction—Appellate or revisional authority functioning outside jurisdiction —Interference by authority in revision — Interference found illegal — Order in revision can be ignored and writ issued against lower authority.

A writ issued by the High Court under Art. 226 cannot run beyond the territories subject to the jurisdiction. The person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such a writ must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories. This jurisdiction to issue a writ does not depend on the place where the cause of action accrues. AIR 1953 S C 210 and A I R 1954 S C 207, Rel. on. Where the superior tribunal has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal or revision against an order of the inferior authority and its order passed on appeal or revision is, therefore, a nullity, the order of the inferior tribunal cannot be considered to have merged in the order of the appellate authority, for there can be no merger into nothing. A I R 1960 Raj 177, Rel. on. In such a case it is open to the High Court to look into the order of the appellate or revisional authority for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is with or without jurisdiction. A I R 1956 S C 246, Rel. on. Partumal v. Managing Officer, 1962 Raj L W 1 : ILR (1961) 11 Raj 1121 : A I R 1962 Raj 112 (115, 116, 118) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 10, 17) (FB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1964 S C 1536].

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Merger of order of original authority into that of appellate authority located outside jurisdiction —Exception— —Appellate authority acting without jurisdiction— Writ to prohibit original authority from taking further activities—High Court has jurisdiction to issue.

The doctrine of merger of an order of an inferior authority into that of an appellate authority must be subject to an exception that when the superior tribunal had no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal or revision against an order of the inferior authority and its order was a nullity for all purposes, it cannot be said that order of the original authority merged in the order of the appellate authority. On this principle it is open to a High Court to look at the order of the appellate authority for the purpose of ascertaining whether it was with or without jurisdiction and if it comes to the conclusion that it had no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal or revision the High Court can ignore that order and issue an appropriate writ to the authority within its jurisdiction prohibiting its activities under cover of that order so as to prevent the infringement of the rights of the citizens and the commission of any mischief thereunder. (1960) 10 Raj 594 : 1960 Raj L W 541 : A I R 1960 Raj 177 (182) (Pt A) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 311 – Case arising under Art. 311—Jurisdiction of High Court—Superior officer residing outside jurisdiction — If order passed under Art. 311 by subordinate officer within jurisdiction is confirmed in appeal High Court has jurisdiction under Art. 226 —If he sets aside order and substitutes his own in appeal there is no jurisdiction. AIR 1955 N U C (Raj) 4351 (DB).

——Art. 226 –Territorial jurisdiction—Writ against Custodian General, New Delhi – Assistant Custodian's order — Merging of, in Custodian General's order in revision —Petition against Assistant Custodian's order.

The Saurashtra High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a writ petition against the Custodian General who resides and has his office located at New Delhi, outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Court. Even where the revisional authority dismisses the revision it does so because it affirms the order of the appellate authority and in that sense the order is the order of the revisional authority. The order is final and it is that order which operates. This is true even where the revision application is dismissed in limine. Where therefore, the Assistant Custodian's order has been confirmed on appeal by the Custodian of Saurashtra and the revision application filed against the latter's order has been dismissed by the Custodian-General in limine, the order of the Assistant Custodian merges in the order of the Custodian-General, and since no writ can issue against the Custodian-General he being not amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court a petition against the Assistant Custodian is not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed. AIR 1954 Raj 189 and AIR 1954 Raj 214 Diss. from. AIR 1954 All 433 and AIR 1955 Hepsu 91, Rel on. AIR 1956 Sau 47 (49, 50) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Territorial jurisdiction.

Order dismissing class I servant passed by Chief Commissioner, Tripura —On appeal, Central Government (President) modifying that order to one of removal from service—Writ petition filed before Judicial Commissioner, Tripura — Central Government held was not within territories under jurisdiction of Judicial Commissioner's Court — Appellate power in such matter having been retained by the President for himself final authority here was Central Government and not Chief Commissioner — (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (8)). AIR 1958 Madh Pra 103 and A I R 1954 S C 207, Rel. on.; A I R 1956 S C 246 and A I R 1956 All 684 and A I R 1953 S C 210, Disting. and Expl. AIR 1959 Tripura 7 (8) (Pr 12).

120 (d). Person or authority must be within.

● ——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Territoral jurisdiction —Determination of—Test—Art. 32 (2A)—Location or seat of Central Government determines jurisdiction.

Per Majority (Sinha C. J., Kapur, Gajendragadkar. Wanchoo and J. C., Shah JJ.)

It is not permissible to read in Art. 226 the residence or location of the person affected by the order passed in order to determine the jurisdiction of the High Court. It would be wrong to introduce in Art. 226 the concept of the place where the order passed has effect in order to determine the jurisdiction of the High Court which can give relief under Art. 226. What Art. 226 requires is residence or location as a fact and if therefore there is a seat from which the Government functions as a fact even though that seat is not mentioned in the Constitution the High Court within whose territories that seat is located will be the High Court having jurisdiction under Art. 226 so far as the orders of the Government as such are concerned. The seat of the Government of India is in New Delhi and the Government as such is located in New Delhi. Therefore, the view taken in A I R 1953 S C 210 and A I R 1954 S C 207, that there is two-fold limitation on the power of the High Court to issue writs, etc. under Art. 226 namely: (i) the power is to be exercised 'throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction,' that is to say, the writs issued by the Court cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction and (ii) the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such writs must be 'within those territories which clearly implies that they must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories is the correct one. A I R 1953 S C 210 and A I R 1954 S C 207, Reconsidered and affirmed : A I R 1953 All 477 (FB), Overruled. AIR 1943 P C 164, Expl. and Disting.

A person who is a citizen of India and is residing in the State of Kashmir, cannot enforce his fundamental right under Art. 32 (2 A) by filing an application for an appropriate writ in the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir if his right is infringed by an order of the Union Government.

Per Subba Rao J., (Contra). The Union Government has no constitutional situs in a particular place. but it exercises its executive powers in respect of matters to which Parliament has power to make laws and the power in this regard is exercisable throughout India, the Union Government must therefore be deemed in law to have functional existence throughout India. When by exercise of its powers the Union Government makes an order infringing the legal right or interest of a person residing within the territories in relation to which a particular High Court exercises jurisdiction that High Court can issue a writ to the Union Government, for in law it must be deemed to be 'within' that State also.

Per K. C. Das Gupta J. (Contra). — While the Government of India is within the territories of every High Court in India the only High Court which has jurisdiction to issue a writ or order or directions under Art. 226 or Art. 32 (2 A) against it is the one within the territories under which the act or omission against which relief was sought took place. Khajoor Singh v. Union of India, (1961) 2 S C R 828 : (1961) 2 Andh W R (SC) 46 : (1961) 2 S C J 235 : (1961) 2 Mad L J (SC) 46 : 1961 Mad L J (Cr) 498 : (1961) 1 S C A 173 : AIR 1961 S C 532 (535, 538 to 540, 547, 548, 551, 552) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 13, 14, 16, 18, 40, 57, 60).

● ——Art 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Income-tax Investigation Commission having its office in New Delhi appointing authorised official to work in Travancore under S. 6 of Travancore Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (14 of 1124 M.E.)—Authorised official acting contrary to law—Travancore-Cochin High Court – Jurisdiction to issue writ against him under Art. 226 — (Contract Act (1872), S. 182)—(Principal and agent)—(Tort).

The jurisdiction under Art. 226 is exercised by the High Court when it finds that any person within its territories is guilty of doing an act which is not authorised by law or is violative of the fundamental rights of the citizen. The only conditions of its exercise of that jurisdiction are firstly that the writs cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction and, secondly, the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such writs must be "within those territories' which clearly implies that they must be amenable to its jurisdiction by residence or location within those territories.

The authorised official appointed under S. 6 of the Travancore Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (14 of 1124, M.E.) by the Indian Income-tax Investigation Commission, even though he can be called an authorised agent of the Commission, performs the various functions assigned to him on his own initiative and in the exercise of his jurisdiction. If, therefore, he does anything in the discharge of his functions as authorised official which is not authorised by law or is violative of the fundamental rights of the petitioner, he would be amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226. It cannot be contended that as he is acting under the direction of the Commission as its authorised agent no writ can issue against him because the principal who directs the activities would be liable.

Hence the Travancore-Cochin High Court has jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 against the authorised official appointed to work in Travancore under S. 6 of the Act by the Indian Income-tax Investigation Commission having its office at New Delhi if the authorised official acts contrary to law in the discharge of his duties. A. Thangal Kunju v. M. Venkatachalam Potti, 1956 S C J 323 : (1955) 2 S C R 1196 : (1956) 29 ITR 349 : 1956 S C A 259 : AIR 1956 S C 246 (254, 255, 256) (Pt A) (Prs 28, 29, 30, 31).

● ——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — (Decision of High Court reversed).

The High Court of Madras cannot issue any writ under Art. 226 to Election Commission having its officers permanently located at New Delhi, AIR 1943 P C 164, Distinguished. Election Commission, India v. Saka Venkata Rao, 1954 Mad W N 427 : 1953 S C J 293 : (1953) 1 Mad L J 702 : 66 Mad L W 378 : 1953 S C A 203 : 1953 S C R 1144 : AIR 1953 S C 210 (212, 213, 214, 215) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 17).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction.

The Secretary, Ministry of Communications, New Delhi, is not within the territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Judicial Commissioner's Court at Ajmer either by residence or location and is therefore not amenable to the jurisdiction of that Court. Hence, the Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ against him. AIR 1953 S C 210, AIR 1954 S C 207, Ref. to. 1955 A M L J 40 : AIR 1955 Ajmer 39 (40) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—High Court of Allahabad cannot issue writ to Union of India or Election Commission, their principal seat of business being in New Delhi outside territorial jurisdiction of High Court. AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll. AIR 1963 All 363 (364) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Origin of case in Meerut area—Final order by authority functioning at Lucknow—Writ petition before Lucknow Bench—Competency. See U. P. High Courts (Amalgamation) Order (1948), Cl. 14. AIR 1959 All 722.

● ——Art. 226—Mandamus — Order of Custodian General, New Delhi, under S. 27, Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950)—Allahabad High Court cannot issue writ of mandamus to Custodian of Evacuee Property, U. P, commanding him to treat that order as nullity — (Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 27).

No High Court can issue a writ to an official who resides beyond the jurisdiction of that Court. Hence Allahabad High Court cannot issue a writ of 'mandamus' to the Custodian of Evacuee Property, U. P., commanding him to treat as a nullity an order made by the Custodian General in New Delhi in the exercise of his revisional powers under S. 27 of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950, so long as that order is valid and subsisting order. AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207, Rel. on. AIR 1954 Trav-Co. 131, Explained. AIR 1954 Raj 189 and AIR 1954 Raj 214, Disting. Azmat Ullah v. The Custodian, Evacuee Property, U. P. Lucknow, ILR (1955) 2 All 65 : 1955 All L J 521 : 1955 All W R 450 : AIR 1955 All 435 (436, 437, 438) (Prs 5, 8, 14) (FB).

——Arts. 226 and 132 — Jurisdiction — Allahabad High Court cannot quash notification issued by Ministry of Food, Government of India, enforceable throughout India — Certificate under Art. 132, granted.

The power under Art. 226 is to be exercised throughout the territories in relation to which a High Court exercises jurisdiction. The person or authority to whom the writ is issued must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by location or residence within those territories. AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll.

The Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India, cannot be said to have its location within the territories of U. P. subject to the jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court. From the mere fact that the notifications issued by it are to be enforced and can be enforced, in all parts of India, it cannot be said that it is located within the State of U. P. Consequently the Allahabad High Court cannot quash the notifications issued by the Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India, New Delhi.

It may be possible to hold (though no final opinion was expressed on the point) that a writ in the nature of a writ of mandamus can be issued to an authority within the jurisdiction of the High Court, but a writ for quashing a notification issued by a Ministry of the Union Government which is situate at New Delhi can be filed only in a Court having territorial jurisdiction there. AIR 1953 All 477. (FB)) Ref.

(There were other difficulties also in granting the petition. (1) Since the notifications applied to the large number of States and there might be difference of opinion amongst the various High Courts the granting of the petition might lead to confusion. (2) Interim stay could not also be granted since the petition was filed on the last day when the Court was about to rise for vacation and no notice could be issued on the opposite party. In such circumstances granting of interim stay would mean virtually granting the petition).

Since the question involved an important question relating to the interpretation of the Constitution, certificate under Art. 132 was granted. 1954 All L J 447 : AIR 1954 All 726 (727, 728) (Prs 3, 5, 6, 8, 10) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of mandamus—Territorial jurisdiction.

Where the order sought to be challenged by a petition for a writ of mandamus is an order passed at New Delhi by the Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, the High Court of Allahabad has no jurisdiction to entertain the petition. Civil Misc. Writ Petn. No. 449 of 1952, D/- 9-10-1953 (All), Rel. on. 1954 All L J 264 : AIR 1954 All 522 (523) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Nature of—Extraordinary original jurisdiction—Territorial limits of Andhra Pradesh High Court—Appellate Income-tax Tribunal in Telangana—Writ against — If can issue.

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 may be conveniently described as Extraordinary Original jurisdiction as distinguished from the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of a High Court. The High Court of Andhra Pradesh, therefore in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226, can issue writs against tribunals situated or persons resident in any part of the State of Andhra Pradesh. The High Court can issue a writ against the Appellate Income-tax Tribunal situated in the Telangana area (Hyderabad) which is now a part of Andhra Pradesh since 1st November, 1956. (1957) 1 Andh W R 360 : 1957 Andh L T 403 : ILR (1957) Andh Pra 229: AIR 1957 Andh Pra 123 (125) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—Authority to whom writ to be issued located at Madras—Petition filed in the High Court of Andhra—Maintainability—Waiver (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9).

A petition under Art. 226 filed in the High Court of Andhra to call for the records on the file of the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation of Andhra at Madras is not maintainable as Madras is outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court of Andhra. AIR 1953 S C 210; AIR 1955 Andhra 23, Foll.

The fact that the office is temporarily located at Madras does not make any difference, for it is the location within its territorial limits that gives jurisdiction to the High Court and so long as the office is located outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court, it is immaterial whether that location is temporary or permanent. AIR 1953 S C 210, Rel. on.

Further, although the Government represented that they were willing to waive the objection as to jurisdiction it could not be waived and the High Court could not exercise its jurisdiction by consent of parties; for, there is an essential distinction between cases where there is a total want of jurisdiction and cases where there is merely an irregular exercise or assumption of jurisdiction. The latter may be waived but the doctrine cannot be invoked in the former case. ILR 11 Mad 26, Rel. on. 1955 Andh L T (civil) 20 : 1955 Andh W R 122 : AIR 1955 Andhra 175 (176) (Prs 2, 3, 7, 10).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction — Jurisdiction of Andhra High Court over Andhra Board of Revenue sitting in Madras.

As the Board of Revenue (Andhra) is not within the Andhra State, over which the High Court has jurisdiction, no writ under Art. 226 can be issued to it. The legal position may lead to many anomalies. The Andhra High Court may issue a writ against Tribunals subordinate to the Revenue Board, whereas the Madras High Court may issue writs against the Revenue Board. There may be conflicts in orders and jurisdiction. AIR 1953 S C 210, Foll.

Further the situation of the Revenue Board at Madras will lead to the anomaly of one of the institutions of the Andhra State being subject to the superintendence of the High Court of another State.

It is for the Andhra Government to consider whether it is advisable to avoid this anomaly by shifting the Board of Revenue as early as possible to a place within the territorial jurisdiction of the Andhra High Court. ILR (1954) Andh Pra 54 : 1954 Andh L T (Civil) 31 : (1954) 2 Mad L J (Andhra) 73 : AIR 1955 Andhra 23 (24) (Prs 3, 4, 5, 6).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court to issue writ.

Where the territory in which the silver and gold were seized by the Deputy Collector under the Sea Customs Act is outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, merely because the Deputy Collector has been living in Shillong and is a Collector for Shillong under the Sea Customs Act, the High Court is not competent to issue a writ of certiorari to him. I L R (1952) 4 Assam 214 : 56 Cal W N 143 : A I R 1952 Assam 91 (91, 92) (Prs 2, 3) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Writ cannot be issued against authority not residing within High Court's jurisdiction. 63 Bom L R 1 : A I R 1961 Bom 244 (249, 250) (Pt C) (Pr 16) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1966 S C 478].

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—Parties — Petition challenging validity of order imposing penalty under S. 167, item 8, Sea Customs Act, passed by Additional Collector of Customs, Bombay and also order of Central Board of Revenue, New Delhi on appeal—Rule nisi granted only against Additional Collector of Customs.

Held, that the petition must fail firstly because Bombay High Court had no jurisdiction to proceed against second respondent and secondly because second respondent not being party to rule nisi, relief for setting aside its decision could not be granted in its absence. 61 Bom L R 1633 : A I R 1960 Bom 329 (333) (Pt C) (Pr 25).

——Art. 226 - Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Order under S. 5 (4), Cinematograph Act by Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, New Delhi, served on petitioner in Bombay—Bombay High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain petition under Art. 226—(Cinematograph Act (1952), S. 5 (4)].

A director of a company in Bombay was served with an order emanating from the Ministry of Information and Broad-casting, New Delhi, and signed by the Under-Secretary to the Government of India exercising powers under S. 5 (4) of the Cinematograph Act (1952) on behalf of the Central Government. The order was served in Bombay and directed the director that certain parts of a film should be excised from all copies of the film. The director filed a petition under Art. 226 in the Bombay High Court against the Union of India for an appropriate writ for setting aside the said order and restraining the Union of India from giving effect to the said order ;

Held, that the Bombay High Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the petition. A I R 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 SC 207, Rel. on. 57 Bom L R 753 : ILR (1955) Bom 346 : AIR 1955 Bom 381 (387) (Pt B) (Pr 12).

——Art. 226 — Writs by High Court against State other than its own.

Obiter : — It may be that the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue writs against other Governments may be of a more limited character than the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue writs against the Government of the State in which it is situated. It is only from this point of view that the qualification introduced by words "in approprirte cases" must be understood and construed. 54 Bom L R 681 : A I R 1952 Bom 468 (474, 475) (Pt C) (Pr 11) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 311—Territorial jurisdiction — Petitioner, an employee of Durgapur Steel Project under Hindustan Steel Limited, dismissed without assigning any cause — Petition under Art. 226 for violation of Art. 311 and rule of natural justice—Union of India represented by Secretary, Ministry of Iron and Steel, New Delhi, Secretary, Hindustan Steel, Limited of Ranchi, and General Manager, Durgapur Steel Project made respondents — First two respondents being outside jurisdiction of Calcutta High Court, petition is not maintainable in Calcutta High Court—Fact that third respondent is within jurisdiction does not help the petitioner. A I R 1961 S C 532 Rel. on., (1963) 6 Fac L R 378 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 569 : A I R 1963 Cal 421 (423) (Pt A) (Pr 6).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction — Writ against Election Commission cannot be issued by Calcutta High Court. AIR 1953 S C 210, Foll. A I R 1961 Cal 289 (293, 294) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Calcutta High Court's jurisdiction to issue writ against Director-General of observatories, New Delhi, and Government of India.

The Director General of Observatories, New Delhi, cannot be said to be carrying on his normal activities within the State of West Bengal and, as such he would not be amenable to the jurisdiction of the Calcutta High Court which cannot therefore issue a writ under

Art. 226 against him, nor can it issue such a writ against the Government of India. A I R 1953 S C 210 and Matter No 38 of 1952, D/ 29-5-1953 (Cal.), AIR 1953 All 477 (FB), Not foll. I L R (1955) 1 Cal 392 : AIR 1953 Cal 767 (769) (Pt A) (Prs 15, 16).

——Art. 226 — Calcutta High Court has no jurisdiction over Chandernagore — Under Chandernagore (Application of Laws) Order of 1950, High Court has been given only a limited jurisdiction — The jurisdiction under Art. 226 which is very special, does not seem to have been extended to Chandernagore. 57 Cal W N 255 : AIR 1953 Cal 363 (364) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Power to issue writs outside jurisdiction — Retrospective effect — Other remedy open—States Merger (West Bengal) Order (1949).

The petitioner was posted as Station Master at Dinhata which was in the State of Cooch-Behar prior to the 1st January 1950 when Cooch-Behar was absorbed into the State of West Bengal. In January 1949 while the petitioner was posted at Dinhata Station he was charged with offences of serious misconduct involving the offence of forgery. On the 14th February 1949 the petitioner sent a reply to the charge sheet. On the 18th March 1949 the petitioner was summoned to the office of the Deputy Chief Transportation Superintendent, Assam Railway who held a departmental enquiry into the conduct of the petitioner. By an order dated the 19th August 1949 which was communicated to the petitioner on the 1st of September 1949, the Deputy Chief Transportation Superintendent who had his office at Pandu in Assam, passed an order at that place reverting permanently the petitioner to the post of Signaller. The petitioner on the 20th October 1949 preferred an appeal to the Chief Administrative Officer of the Assam Railway, and on the 1st December 1950 he dismissed the appeal.

Held, that (i) that the High Court at Calcutta could not issue any writ to an authority or person in Behar in respect of an order passed or action taken in Behar. Therefore the High Court had no power to issue Writs quashing the orders which were made outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Court against persons whose obedience could not be enforced by the High Court in case they did not condescend to comply with the directions issued by the Court. If a person wants to get any redress against persons or authorities outside the jurisdiction of the High Court, in other words, outside the State of West Bengal in respect of action taken or order passed outside the said jurisdiction, such person must approach the proper forum which can grant relief in respect of these matters.

(ii) The order of reduction also took effect at a place which was outside the State of West Bengal at the time when the order of reduction was passed i. e., on the 19th August 1949, 'before the Constitution came into force,

(iii) the order of reduction dated the 19th August 1949 being passed before the Constitution came into force the High Court could not in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 interfere with this order inasmuch as the Constitution had no retrospective operation. The petitioner could not get complete relief by merely getting rid of the appellate order. He had also to get rid of the original order of reduction which was passed on the 19th August 1949. Unless it could be shown that the order of the 19th August 1949 was an ultra vires order, the High Court would not have any jurisdiction to interfere with that order.

(iv) It was not a case where the facts were admitted and the only question to be decided was a question of law. One of the submissions was that the orders were passed mala fide. This was a question which could be more conveniently disposed of in a suit than in an application under Art. 226. Case law discussed. 56 Cal W N 539 : AIR 1952 Cal 757 (758, 759) (Prs 3, 6, 7, 8)

●——Art. 226 — Procedure—Bombay Reorganisation Act (1960), Ss. 61, 64, 81, 82 — Civil servant serving in Bombay State at Rajkot illegally dismissed in violation of Art. 311 (2)—Reorganization of Bombay State — Effect of dismissal — Applicability of Ss. 61 and 81 of Bombay Reorganisation Act — Rajkot forming part of Gujarat, upon reorganisation—Writ petition against dismissal—Petition does not lie in Gujarat High Court. See Ibid, Art. 311 (2). AIR 1964 Guj 1 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

A person or an authority against which a writ under Art. 226 is sought to be directed must be within the territories as a condition of the High Court being empowered to issue such a writ Where, therefore, several of the respondents against whom writs are sought to be issued are residing outside the territorial limits of the High Court it has no jurisdiction to issue writs against them. AIR 1953 S C 210 : AIR 1954 S C 207 and AIR 1956 S C 246, Foll. ILR (1956) Hyd 658 : AIR 1956 Hyd 186 (188) (Pt A) (Prs 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—Authority to whom writ is issued must be within jurisdiction.

The residence of the person whose rights were affected or accrual of the cause of action or the injury resulting from act or order complained of being within the jurisdiction is not the determining factor but the location of the tribunal against whom the writ is to be issued. For the remedy by issue of a writ is in the nature of action in personam and cannot be issued against the authority who is not amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court. AIR 1953 S C 210; AIR 1954 S C 207; AIR 1954 Hyd 33 and AIR 1954 All 522, Rel. on. ILR 1955) Hyd 780 : AIR 1955 Hyd 269 (271) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Extra-territorial jurisdiction—Exercise of—Not permissible.

The High Court cannot in proceedings for a writ consider the validity or otherwise of on order passed by an authority situated outside the territorial limits of the High Court's jurisdiction.

Held, that the High Court at Kerala could not consider the validity of the assessment orders passed before the Constitution came into force by the Income-tax Officer, Delhi, against a resident of the then Travancore-Cochin State in writ proceedings. 1961 Ker L J 948 : ILR (1961) Ker 244.

——Art 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Petition against Life Insurance Corporation—Forum.

Held, on facts that there was no provision in the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956, or rules or Regulations, authorising a Divisional Manager to represent the Corporation in any Court Therefore, the Corporation was not represented in the petition. Secondly that the Corporation being situate outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Court, could not be affected by any writ which might be issued. Civil Writ No. 360 of 1958 (Punj) and Civ. Writ No. 1134 of 1958 (Punj), Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 59 : 1960 Ker L J 119 : (1960) 1 Ker L R 237 : AIR 1960 Kes 251 (253) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Writ to Tribunal sitting outside jurisdiction (Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), Ss. 9 and 16).

Writ cannot issue against an order of a subordinate tribunal within the jurisdiction of the High Court when that order has become merged in the orders of outside authorities who are not amenable to the High Court's jurisdiction. Where an award by the Industrial Tribunal situated within the jurisdiction of the High Court is confirmed in appeal by the Labour Appellate Tribunal situated outside jurisdiction no writ can issue against the order of the Industrial Tribunal.

The mere sending of a copy of the decision to the Industrial Tribunal and to the Government by an Appellate Tribunal situated outside the jurisdiction of the Court will not give jurisdiction to the High Court to interfere with the appellate order.

When the award has been confirmed in toto, S. 16 has no application. 1958 Ker L T 613 : AIR 1959 Ker 65 (66, 67) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 8, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Territorial jurisdiction.

High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ quashing order of assessment passed by an officer who is out of territorial jurisdiction of High Court. 1957 Ker L T 649 : 1957 Ker L J 662 : ILR (1957) Ker 694 : (1957) 32 I T R 582 : AIR 1957 Ker 190 (191) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Authority situated beyond jurisdiction of High Court — No certiorari.

The petitioner was employed as a nurse in the Central Railway Hospital, Bina and prayed for a writ of certiorari quashing an order of the Divisional Superintendent, Central Railways, Jhansi, discharging her from service.

Held, that the Divisional Superintendent Jhansi was not within the jurisdiction of the High Court and consequently no direction of any kind should be made by it against him under Art. 226 of the Constitution. 1961 M P L J (Notes) 75.

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Notice on assessee in Raigarh by I. T. O. in Nagpur under S. 34 (1-A), I. T. Act, 1922, on 5th August 1954 in respect of assessment years 1941-42 to 1947-48 — M. P. High Court cannot issue writ to quash the same —S. 59 (4) States Reorganisation Act does not apply. A I R 1953 S C 210; AIR 1957 Madh Pra 37, Foll. (1960) 39 I T R 429 : 1960 M P C 780 : 1960 Jab L J 1195 : 1961 M P L J 111.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Authority located permanently beyond jurisdiction of High Court — Impugned order at a place within jurisdiction of High Court—Issue of writ.

Petitioner, a displaced person, made a claim before competent authorities in respect of property left by him in Pakistan. Order in his case was passed by the Claims Officer, Bombay. Later, Additional Settlement Commissioner, New Delhi during his visit to Jabalpur took up the matter suo motu in revision and modified the order of the Claims Officer. The petitioner challenged the validity of the order passed by the Additional Settlement Commissioner.

Held, that the Additional Settlement Commissioner was an authority located and carrying on its activities outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. A writ binding on the Additional Settlement Commissioner, New Delhi could not be issued by the High Court. A I R 1958 Madh Pra 103 (FB), Foll. 1960 M P L J (Notes) 212.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court—Office of Custodian General located outside High Court's jurisdiction — Issue of writ to Custodian General—(Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 28).

The High Court in the exercise of its powers under Art. 226 of the Constitution cannot indirectly reach the order of a tribunal whose office is normally situated outside the jurisdiction of that Court.

The effect of S. 28 of the Evacuee Property Act is to make the order of the Custodian General paramount, and necessarily the order of the inferior tribunal must be taken to have merged in it. The office of the Custodian General is located outside the territories of the M. P. High Court. It therefore follows that the writ of the M. P. High Court cannot run to the Custodian General and the High Court cannot by quashing an order of the Deputy Custodian confirmed by the Custodian General reach the same result. 58 Bom L R 344, Diss. from. 1957 M P C 676 : 1957 M P L J 780 : 1958 Jab L J 56 : A I R 1958 Madh Pra 68 (71) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 227—Territorial jurisdiction—Inter-State permit issued by Mysore State —Writ petition—Territorial jurisdiction of Mysore High Court. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 57 (3). A I R 1964 Mys 26 (DB).

——Arts. 226, 227—Territorial jurisdiction — (Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 88).

The main S. 88 and the proviso of the Representation of the People Act (1951) have to be read together and after they are so read, it is clear that the place of the trial must be situate within the State from which the election petition arises, and the High Court has jurisdiction to entertain petition under Art. 226 if the Tribunal is situate within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court. (1897) A C 647 ; (1939) 4 All E R 464, Rel. on.

The person, authority or Government, to whom the writ is issued must be amenable to the High Court's jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories. The power is not exercisable if the person, authority or Government functions, without physical location or residence, within the High Court's territorial jurisdiction. A I R 1952 Bom 449; A I R 1953 All 477 (FB) ; A I R 1952 Mad 659, held no longer good law after A I R 1953 S C 210, Hari Vishnu v. Ahmed Syed Isak, I L R (1954) Nag 209 : A I R 1954 Nag 166 (182, 184) (Pt B) (Prs 76, 89) (FB).

[Reversed on another point in A I R 1955 S C 233.]

——Art. 226 (1) — Prime Minister of India not residing within jurisdiction of High Court — Issue of direction to.

There is no law which makes the Prime Minister of India directly answerable (as Prime Minister) to the public in regard to the statements he may make. He cannot, therefore, be regarded an authority who is answerable also to the public. Since he is not answerable to the public he cannot be regarded as being present everywhere in India. No direction under Art. 226 can therefore be issued to the Prime Minister by a High Court within whose jurisdiction he does not normally reside. I L R (1952) Nag 331 : 1954 Nag L J 327 : A I R 1952 Nag 301 (302) (Pt B) (Prs 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts —Nagpur High Court has no jurisdiction to issue writ against Labour Appellate Tribunal, Bombay—(Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), Ss. 15 and 16).

Article 226 makes no reference to the cause of action or where it arises but insists that the presence of the person or authority should be within the territory in relation to which the High Court exercises the jurisdiction conferred by that article. Further, an authority or tribunal, though casually present within the territories of the High Court, cannot be said to be functioning there if its 'permanent and normal location' is outside the jurisdiction of the High Court.

Hence the Nagpur High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari or mandamus under Art. 226 against Labour Appellate Tribunal, Bombay, even if the dispute related to matters which have arisen within the jurisdiction of the Nagpur High Court. A I R 1953 S C 210, Rel. on ; A I R 1952 Bom 449 and A I R 1952 Mad 659, held no longer good law. I L R (1955) Nag 108 : (1955) 2 Lab L J 220 : (1955-56) 8 F J R 67 : A I R 1955 Nag 148 (152, 153) (Pt A) (Prs 24, 27) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Writ against Election Commission.

Writ against Election Commission directing him to include petitioner's name in electoral roll or directing him to prepare new roll — Even if High Court of Orissa were to invoke its powers under Art. 226 (in spite of bar under Art. 329) the writ would be ineffective against Commission because Election Commission cannot be regarded as functioning within territorial limits of the High Court. A I R 1953 S C 210, Foll. I L R (1953) Cut 659 : A I R 1954 Orissa 87 (92) (Pt F) (Pr 18) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Parties — Persons holding posts in Employment Exchange under Central Government —Administration of Exchange transferred to State Government — Services terminated and employment under State Government on new terms suggested— Officers of Central Government not made parties— Maintainability of petition.

The petitioners held posts in quasi-permanent capacity in the National Employment Service under the Government of India and were served with notices that their services would be terminated and, if they were willing to accept employment they would be employed under the State Government. In the writ petition challenging those notices preliminary objection was taken that in the absence of the officers of the Government of India in the Ministry of Labour and in the absence of the Director General of the Resettlement and Employment no effective writ could be issued. The petitioners therefore made an application for adding these authorities as parties to the application.

Held, that the officers of the Government of India, were not amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court by either residence or location, and, as such, the writ could not go beyond the territories subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court. A I R 1955 S C 233 and A I R 1956 S C 246, Disting. and Expl. (1958) 2 Lab L J 438 : A I R 1957 Pat 555 (557) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Order of Controller of Grain Shops, Gorakhpur— Patna High Court cannot issue writ for quashing such order.

There is a two-fold limitation placed on the power of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. In the first place, the power is to be exercised throughout the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises jurisdiction, that is to say, the writs issued by the High Court cannot run beyond the territories subject to its jurisdiction. Secondly, the person or authority to whom the High Court is empowered to issue such writs must be within those territories, which clearly implies that they must be amenable to its jurisdiction either by residence or location within those territories. A I R 1953 S C 210, Rel. on.

The real test is what is the real order against which the petitioner is coming? What is the real order which the petitioner wishes to get rid of ? If that order was passed by an authority which is not amenable to the jurisdiction of the Court in which the application for a writ has been filed, then to ask the Court to issue a writ in respect of such an order is to invite the Court to do indirectly what the Court cannot do directly. A I R 1955 All 435, Rel. on.

Hence Patna High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ for quashing an order of the Controller of Grain Shops, Gorakhpur, as he resides outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Patna High Court and his office is also located outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Patna High Court. 1955 B L J R 661 : I L R 34 Pat 889 : A I R 1955 Pat 515 (516) (Prs 5, 7, 8) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Tribunal appointed by Central Government functioning within State—Issue of writ to—Jurisdiction of State High Court.

Quaere: Whether the High Court of a State is competent and has jurisdiction to issue a writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution to an industrial tribunal functioning within that State, when that authority owes its appointment to the Central Government and not the State Government. A I R 1952 Cal 103; 1951 Raj 94, Ref. (1952) 1 Lab L J 493 : AIR 1952 Pat 56 (61) (Pt D) (Pr 22) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction—Pepsu High Court cannot issue directions to authority in Himachal Pradesh— (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 561A). A I R 1955 N U C (Pepsu) 3999.

—— Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction.

Held, that a writ would not issue to the Punjab Government as it was not subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the Pepsu High Court nor did it reside within the jurisdiction of the Pepsu High Court. AIR 1953 S C 210, Foll. I L R (1954) Patiala 807 : A I R 1954 Pepsu 174 (179, 180) (Pt F) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Issue of writ beyond territorial jurisdiction.

The Pepsu High Court has no jurisdiction to issue any writ to the Assistant Custodian-General of Evacuee Property whose office is located at Delhi and thus is beyond the territorial jurisdiction of this Court.

The fact that the authorities exercising jurisdiction in the matter at the first instance are located within the jurisdiction of the High Court and the revisional authority, that is, the Assistant Custodian-General at Delhi, is located in Punjab State, will not confer jurisdiction. A I R 1954 S C 207; A I R 1953 S C 210, Rel. on. I L R (1955) Patiala 136 : A I R 1954 Pepsu 156 (158, 159) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7).

——Art. 226—Liquidation of a bank under orders of Kerala High Court—Representative liquidator carrying out its orders in respect of Delhi branch—No writ petition lies against his actions in Punjab High Court. See Banking Companies Act (1949), S. 45-B. ('63) 65 Punj L R 1009.

—— Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction.

The petitioner was an employee in the Amritsar branch of a commercial Bank having its head office at Kanpur. Inquiry was held in the petitioner's conduct by an Enquiry officer. At the conclusion of the inquiry the petitioner was informed that his services were terminated. Later he was informed that he was dismissed from service. On representation being made, the Regional Labour Commissioner directed further inquiry against the petitioner. The petitioner filed a writ petition in the Punjab High Court.

Held, that the Punjab High Court had no jurisdiction to issue any writs, orders or directions under Art. 226 to the Regional Labour Commissioner whose office was located at Kanpur. A I R 1953 S C 210, Rel. on. (1961) 1 Lab L J 204 : (1960-61) 18 F J R 257 : AIR 1960 Punj 360 (362) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

In the application under Art. 226 the Punjab University, Solan, was impleaded to be respondent No. 1 and reliefs were sought against it.

Held, that as the Punjab University, Solan, was not within the territories in relation to which Punjab High Court exercised jurisdiction, the Punjab High Court was not competent to proceed with the application. AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll. 56 Punj L R 365 : AIR 1954 Punj 253 (254) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Condition for exercise of jurisdiction—Against whom writs can be issued.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India the sole condition upon which the jurisdiction of the Court depends is that the person or authority to whom orders, directions and writs are issued is within the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises jurisdiction and the conditions mentioned in S. 45 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, or the charters establishing the Supreme Court at Madras and Calcutta cannot be read into that Article.

In exercising jurisdiction under Art. 226 the High Court acts in personam and looks to the fulfilment of its order to the person of the respondent. Hence the mere fact that the acts sought to be restrained under Art 226 are to be done by the respondent outside the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court cannot deprive the High Court of its jurisdiction to issue writ under Art. 226, when the respondent himself is within its territorial jurisdiction. Civil Misc. (Writ) No. 15 of 1951 D/- 24-5-1951, Rel. on.; AIR 1943 P C 164; A I R 1947 P C 90 and A I R 1949 P C 307, Ref. 22 Com Cas (Ins) 33 : I L R (1952) Punj 11 : A I R 1952 Punj 9 (12, 13, 23) (Pt A) (Prs 12, 16, 90) (DB).

—— Arts. 226, 227—Petition under — Jurisdiction to entertain—Constitution of India, Art. 225

Where the petitioner who was an assessee, belonged to U. P. and his assessment was under the Commissioner of Income-tax of that State, the mere fact that the location of the Investigation Commission is in Delhi within the jurisdiction of the Punjab High Court or any order or orders have been passed by the Commission at Delhi under the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act, 1947 would not confer jurisdiction on the Punjab High Court to entertain a petition under Arts. 226 and 227 against the orders passed by the Investigation Commission. AIR 1943 P C 164, Rel. on. 53 Punj L R 57 : 1951-20 I T R 77 : I L R (1951) Punj 165 : AIR 1951 Punj 74 (76, 77) (Pt A) (Prs 16, 19) (DB).

[Reversed in AIR 1954 S C 207.]

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Allotment and transfer of property by Regional Settlement Commissioner at Ajmer—Appeal not competent — Order set aside and sale by auction directed by Chief Settlement Commissioner at Delhi — Order held without jurisdiction — Writ against Regional Settlement Commissioner, Ajmer —Rajasthan High Court held had jurisdiction to issue. See Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act (1954), S. 10. AIR 1960 Raj 177 (DB).

——Art 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

The Rajasthan High Court has no jurisdiction to pass any order against the Custodian General, New Delhi and where the order of the Deputy Custodian, Ganganagar, has been upheld and confirmed by the Custodian General, Delhi, in revision, the applicant cannot ask the High Court to issue a writ to the Deputy Custodian, Ganganagar as that would not be of any help to the applicant. AIR 1956 S C 246, Foll. AIR 1954 Raj 214 Held no good law. 1956 Raj L W 283 : I L R (1956) 6 Raj 939 : A I R 1956 Raj 163 (163) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Decision of Election Tribunals.

The fact that the High Court (Rajasthan) cannot issue any writ, direction or order to the Election Commission at new Delhi is no reason why it should not be able to interfere with the order of the Election Tribunal at Bikaner, if such interference is otherwise warranted. If for example this Court were to come to the conclusion that the Bikaner Tribunal exceeded its jurisdiction it can, besides quashing the decision of the tribunal, direct the returning officer, who is within its jurisdiction not to hold a by-election in pursuance of the order of the Tribunal. AIR 1953 S C 210, Referred.

The fact that the returning officer is not yet appointed has nothing to do with the power of the High Court to pass appropriate orders in such petitions if the proper parties are before it.

There is no question in such a case of the High Court doing anything indirectly which it cannot do directly. 1954 Raj L W 192 : I L R (1953) Raj 891 : AIR 1954 Raj 145 (148, 149) (Pt B) (Pr 8) (DB).

● ——Art. 226—Extent of jurisdiction of High Court to issue writs.

Where one of the respondents to a petition for the issue of a writ under Art 226 is amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Travancore by reason of his residence and the location of his office within the State and all the activities complained about are activities confined to the State the High Court would be competent to entertain an application under Art. 226 even if the other respondent is not so amenable to its jurisdiction particularly when a writ against the first respondent, if issued, is sufficient for stopping completely the mischief complained against. AIR 1953 S C 210 and (1953) I W L R 411, Ref. Thangalkunju Musaliar v. Venkitachalam Potti. 1954 Ker L T 23 : I L R (1953) Trav Co 1145: (1954) 25 I T R 120 A I R 1954 Trav-Co 131 (133) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10) (FB).

——Arts 226, 13 (2)—Jurisdiction — Tripura J. C.'s Court has jurisdiction to issue writ in respect of Tripura Act passed by Parliament — Writ against Administrator in respect of enforcement of Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (43 of 1960).

All laws for Tripura have to be enacted by Parliament as Tripura is a Union territory and the State referred to in Art. 13 (2) so far as Tripura is concerned is the Government of India. The Tripura J. C.'s Court has therefore a right to examine any law passed by the State for enforcement in Tripura and to see whether such law takes away or abridges the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution. No doubt this Court cannot issue any order, direction or writ to any person or authority or Government who are outside the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction. But if a law is to be enforced within the territory of Tripura by any person or authority residing or having location within the territory of Tripura, this Court can issue an order or writ or direction to such person or authority if the law is found void under Art. 13 (2) of the Constitution.

Thus as the Act 43 of 1960 (Tripura Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act) is to be enforced by the authority namely, the administrator, who is within the territory of Tripura over which this Court has jurisdiction, an order, direction or writ can be issued against the Administrator if it is found that any part of the law infringes Part III of the Constitution. AIR 1961 S C 532 and A I R 1956 S C 246, Rel. on. A I R 1963 Tripura 1 (5, 6) (Pt B) (Prs 13, 14).

120 (e). Merger of order in appellate order.
See also Note 120 (d).

——Art. 226—Merger of tribunal's order into appellate order — Tribunal's order a nullity—There is no merger — Commissioner's order removing petitioner from service—Appeal to President rejected—Gujarat High Court cannot issue writ against order of Commissioner, his order having merged in the President's order.

An original order of the inferior authority ceases to be an outstanding order once an appeal or revision therefrom is disposed of. The same result would follow whether the appellate Court confirms the original order or reverses it or modifies it. AIR 1956 S C 246, Foll ; AIR 1956 Raj 163 and AIR 1957 Mad 496 and 2 Bom H C R 101 and I L R 18 Bom 542 and ILR 19 Bom 258 and AIR 1914 P C 66 and AIR 1953 Bom 122, Rel. on ; A I R 1958 S C 86, Expl. and Disting ; AIR 1960 Cal 1 (SB), Explained, commented upon and dissented from.

Where the President as the appellate authority dismissed the appeal of the petitioner (an Income-tax Officer) from the order of the Commissioner of Income-tax, removing him from service under R. 13 (6) of the Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1957, the order of dismissal passed by the authority of the first instance, namely the Commissioner merges in the order of the President and that being so, the High Court would have no jurisdiction to issue a writ against the appellate authority. The High Court would not issue a writ against the Commissioner though he would be amenable to the jurisdiction of the Court. It would be infructuous to issue a writ in respect of an order which has merged in the order of the appellate authority.

Where, however, the order of the inferior tribunal was a nullity such an order would fall outside the scope of the rule of merger. The defect must be concerning either want of jurisdiction or excess of jurisdiction or a patent violation of the principles of natural justice, such as want of notice or inquiry. It is such a defect which would render an order null and void and which would take the case out of the principle of merger. But where an order is passed after due notice of charges and after an inquiry, where the delinquent has been given an opportunity to be heard and where he files a detailed statement, even if there is some defect in the course of the proceedings there would be no question of a nullity. (1889) 22 Q B D 345 and 1905 A C 78 and (1937) 2 K B 309 and (1953) 2 Q B 18 and A I R 1957 Mad 496, Rel. on.

Held, that there was no breach of R. 15 of the C. C. S (C. C. A.) Rules 1957, and that the order of the Commissioner was not a nulity. (1962) 3 Guj L R 856 : (1963) 1 Lab L J 648 : A I R 1963 Guj 6 (9, 11, 12, 15) (Prs 15, 17, 19, 26) (DB).

120 (f). Residence of applicant.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court.

Ordinarily the jurisdiction of the High Court to pass an order for the issue of a writ of mandamus under Art. 226 is confined to acts to be done or forborne within its territorial limits, irrespective of whether the person against whom the order is passed resides or carries on business within or without those limits. The Himachal Pradesh (Legal Proceedings and Executive Authority) Order, 1949, covers all contingencies arising out of the location of the Himachal Pradesh Courts and authorities in Simla, and therefore the power with which it invested those Courts to pass orders included the power to pass an order requiring those authorities to do a certain act. Hence the Judicial Commissioner Himachal Pradesh will have the jurisdiction to issue the writ to the Provincial Transport Authority Himachal Pradesh at Simla. A I R 1951 Him Pra 36 (42, 43, 44) (Pt D) (Prs 17, 19, 22).

120 (g). Subject-matter.

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of Bombay High Court to issue writ of Certiorari against order or Labour Appellate Tribunal—(Industrial Disputes—Appellate Tribunal — Writ against) — (Industrial Disputes Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 6).

Although the High Court of Bombay has got the power to issue writs not only within the town and island of Bombay but throughout the territory of the State that power can only be exercised provided it has jurisdiction either in respect of the subject-matter or in respect of parties.

Where the subject-matter of the industrial dispute and the parties thereto were not within the jurisdiction of the Bombay High Court and the Labour Tribunal which gave the award was also not subject to the jurisdiction of that High Court, then simply because the Labour Appellate Tribunal, to which appeal was preferred from the award, has its office situated in Bombay cannot give jurisdiction to that High Court to issue writ of Certiorari against the order of the Appellate Tribunal. AIR 1943 P C 164, Rel. on ('52) 54 Bom L R 552 : (1952) 1 Lab L J 176 : (1952) 53-4 F J R 235 : I L R (1952) Bom 974 : A I R 1952 Bom 449 (450, 451) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — To whom High Court is authorised to issue writs.

The petitioners were the original residents of certain villages in the Ferozepore district. Before partition these villages formed part of the Lahore district. The land which was the subject-matter of the petition was in the cultivating possession of the petitioners and had been included in the Lahore district. This area was, however, located on the Indian side of the Sutlaj river and the petitioners remained in possession thereof in spite of the fact that the villages formed part of Pakistan territory. The State of Punjab through the Deputy Commissioner of Ferozepore having issued notices of ejectment to the petitioners, they challenged the validity of the notices by a petition under Art. 226.

Held, that on the question of jurisdiction the High Court had power over the subject-matter as well as over the persons concerned in the case. A I R 1954 S C 207, Foll. 61 Punj L R 134 ; A I R 1959 Punj 532 (533) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Issue of writ—Jurisdiction of High Court—Order of Director General of Relief and Rehabilitation allotting land situate outside its jurisdiction.

Under Art. 226 of the Constitution, the High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari against the Director-General of Relief and Rehabilitation or against the Financial Commissioner merely because of the location of their office within its jurisdiction or merely because the order was passed within its jurisdiction, where the property allotted by the order is situate outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. The High Court must confine the exercise of its powers to persons or authorities within its territorial jurisdiction and the order and writs must be confined to something to be done within its jurisdiction. AIR 1943 P C 164 and AIR 1951 Punj 74, Foll ; AIR 1952 Punj 1, Not Foll. 54 Punj L R 506 : ILR (1953) Punj 72 : AIR 1952 Punj 392 (394) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Property concerned situated outside jurisdiction—High Court if can issue writ to person or authority within jurisdiction — Jurisdiction of Punjab High Court to issue writ to Custodian-General of Evacuee Property in Delhi regarding property in Bombay.

The question was whether certain propeity situate in Bombay was evacuee property. The case was heard by the Custodian in Bombay and he came to the conclusion that the owner was not an evacuee but an intending evacuee. The person who had moved the Custodian in Bombay appealed to the Custodian-General in Delhi. The Custodian-General thought that there were important lacunae in the enquiry conducted by the Custodian in Bombay and in order to remove them he ordered that the case would be heard in Bombay. The order of the Custodian-General was challenged in the Punjab High Court by an application for writs under Art. 226, Constitution of India.

Held (Per Harnam Singh J.) — In plain English Art. 226 of the Constitution of India provides that the High Court shall have power throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, to issue to any person or authority within those territories writs in the nature of mandamus, prohibition or certiorari. That being so, the Punjab High Court has jurisdiction to issue the writs of certiorari, prohibition and mandamus to the Custodian-General Evacuee Property who resides at Delhi. In such cases the Court acts in personam and looks to the fulfilment of its order to the person of the respondent. AIR 1943 P C 164, Expl. and Disting.

Per Soni J. — In the case in question a jurisdiction adequate to the object in view existed in Bombay where the Custodian-General proposed to hold his enquiry and where the property was situate, where the parties resided and where the officials who eventually would deal with the property were functioning. The remedy for any wrongs alleged to be done to the petitioners would be more adequate and complete and their grievance better dealt with by the High Court of Bombay than here. Notes of Cases (Mad.) Vol. 1, p. 135 mentioned in 12 E R 222, Rel. on. AIR 1952 Punj 1 (3, 4, 9) (Pt A) (Prs 13, 18, 47) (DB).

120 (h). Union of India, writ against.

■ ——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction — Mineral Concession Rules (1949), R. 57 — Mineral lease — Granting of — Order of Union Government is final — State Government only carrying out order of Union Government — Quashing of order by Bombay High Court—It cannot do so.

An order of the Union Government cannot be quashed under Art. 226 by the High Court of Bombay, as it does not exercise territorial jurisdiction over the Union Government.

The State Government has the power under the Mineral Concession Rules, to grant the mining lease. But its granting such a lease is subject to the orders on a review by the Union Government. In fact the State Government only effectuates the order of the Union Government. It carries out that order which remains the final order. Shriram Jhunjhunwala v. The State of Bombay, 1961 S C D 984 : (1962) 2 S C R 733 : (1961) 2 S C J 553 : A I R 1962 S C 670 (671) (Prs 9, 12).

——Arts. 226 and 300 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts—Writ against Union of India.

The name 'Union of India' has been applied to combination of the territories which together comprise the Union, and the Union of India, as such, cannot be said to be located at any place other than where its Government is located for the purposes of issuing or serving upon it any writ to be issued under Art. 226.

As far as Art. 226 is concerned the Government there refers not to the legislative or judicial departments but merely to the executive department.

The Courts do not issue writs and injunctions which they have no power to enforce. If a writ is issued to some Officer at New Delhi and he ignores it, the Allahabad High Court cannot proceed in contempt against such Officer, as he is outside the jurisdiction of the Court.

Where, therefore, the order that was sought to be quashed purported to have been issued from the Government of India, Ministry of Defence, New Delhi and was signed by an Assistant Secretary to the Government of India, and the directions prayed for were commands to be issued to the Union of India besides the prayer to quash the order and the respondent to the petition was the Union of India through the Ministry of Defence, Government of India, New Delhi.

Held, that the Allahabad High Court could not issue any writ or direction to the Government or to the Union of India. A I R 1953 All 477 (FB), held impliedly overruled by A I R 1953 S C 210. I L R (1955) 2 All 585 : A I R 1955 All 468 (469, 470, 472) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 6, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court — Allahabad High Court cannot issue writ to Union of India. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 5818.

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction — Writ cannot be issued by Allahabad High Court to General Manager, Northern Railway, New Delhi, whose office is in New Delhi. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 2766 (DB).

■ ——Art. 226 (1)—"Any Government."

The Union of India can be said to be within the territorial jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court as it has been given authority throughout the length and breadth of the country. Maqbulunnissa v. Union of India, I L R (1953) 2 All 289 : 1953 All L J 148 : 1953 All W R (HC) 212 : A I R 1953 All 477 (479) (Pt A) (Pr 9) (FB).

[Overruled in AIR 1961 S C 532.]

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Territorial jurisdiction — Writ against Government of India — Jurisdiction of Andhra High Court.

The jurisdiction to issue a writ is co-extensive with the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court and the power can be exercised only over any person or authority in the territories in relation to which the High Court exercises its jurisdiction. Consequently the Andhra Pradesh High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ against the Government of India. AIR 1955 S C 233, Rel. on. (1962) 2 Andh W R 436 : (1965) 58 I T R 840 : A I R 1963 Andh Pra 324 (327) (Pt B) (Pr 23).

——Arts. 226 and 309 — Income-tax Inspectors' Examination — Rules determining eligibility of persons to sit for examination — Exclusion of graduates —Infringement of rights guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g)—Power of Government to prescribe rules for regulating appointments to services — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court to issue writ.

Held, on facts that the rules relating to the selection of candidates to the post of Inspector of Income-tax have been made by the President under the Proviso to Art. 309 of the Constitution. The prescribing of educational qualifications and standards for recruitment to the service is comprehended within the scope of Art. 309. So long as the qualifications prescribed for recruitment of candidates are within the scope of the power comprehended by Art. 309, the qualifications prescribed must be the same for all citizens seeking admission to the services.

Rule 6 of the Rules lays down certain basic educational qualifications for those who seek to compete for selection to the post of Income-tax Inspector. It may be that the rule-making authority could have permitted graduates, notwithstanding that they have passed their examination in Third Class, to appear for the examination. But, it is not the function of Courts of law to substitute their wishes and discretion for that of the persons to whose judgment the matter in question is entrusted by the law.

The High Court has no jurisdiction to issue a writ against the Government of India if what the petitioners seek is to question the legality and the correctness of the elucidations and clarifications issued by them. But this objection cannot be mentioned with regard to the power of the High Court to issue a writ against the respondent who is certainly amenable to the jurisdiction of this Court and who, in fact, has been vested with the power to admit or reject a candidate to the examination.

A perusal of the Note to Part IX of the Rules shows that success in the examination confers no right to appointment unless Government are satisfied, that the candidate is suitable in all respects for appointment. The appointment cannot be claimed as a matter of right even if he comes out successful in the examination. In order to be entitled to the issue of a writ of mandamus, the petitioners must at least have a clear legal right to the performance by the respondent of the particular legal duty sought to be enforced. Judged by this test, the petitioners are not entitled to invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution. (1962) 2 Andh W R 436 : (1965) 58 I T R 840 : A I R 1963 Andh Pra 324 (327) (Pt C) (Pr 20).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction — Writ cannot issue against Union of India whose office is located outside territorial jurisdiction.

It is not competent for the High Court at Bombay to issue a writ compelling the Union of India to refund the moneys paid and return the securities collected or received pursuant to the settlement under S. 8-A, Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act (1947) which has been declared to be ultra vires. The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 is to be exercised throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, but, it cannot issue a writ operative outside that jurisdiction. (1960) 40 I T R 624 : 62 Bom L R 11 : AIR 1960 Bom 353 (361, 362, 369, 370) (Pt B) (Prs 23, 28, 61, 62) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 256, 246, 248, 253, 3, 53, 51 and 73, Sch. VII, List I, Entries 14, 97—Writ against Union of India and Secretary, External Affairs—Calcutta High Court cannot issue—Arts. 256 and 51 — Exercise of executive power of State — Limitations—Boundary dispute between India and Pakistan regarding Berubari Union No. 12 — 'Radcliffe Award' — Agreement between Prime Ministers of India and Pakistan—Enforcement of — Directive of Central Government to State — Implementation — Writ against State — Agreement if Act of State — Question of cession of territory, if involved jurisdiction of Municipal Courts—Arts. 3, 53 and 73—Scope of — Adjustment of boundaries between Foreign States — Limitations to the exercise of executive power—Sanction of Parliament—(Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9).

In 1952, Pakistan claimed the Berubari Union as having gone to it under the 'Radcliffe Award' and India claimed it for herself. On September 10, 1958, an agreement was arrived at after consideration by the two Prime Ministers, and was signed on behalf of the Government of Pakistan and on behalf of the Government of India. The question that arose to be decided in a petition for the issue of mandamus was as to whether the procedure adopted by the two Prime Ministers in effecting this adjustment of the boundaries between the two countries was in accordance with law, and what exactly were the legal implications of such action.

Held, on the question of territorial jurisdiction of the Court that in order to exercise jurisdiction against the respondents Nos. 1 and 2 (Union of India and the Secretary, External Affairs, New Delhi) the person or authority concerned must be resident of or permanently located within the State of West Bengal and it was not sufficient that their activities outside the State affected the rights of persons within the State. So far as the Union of India was concerned, it was permanently located, at the Capital. The respondent No. 2 also functioned beyond the Court's Jurisdiction. That being so, it was clear that the Court had no jurisdiction to issue a high prerogative writ against either the respondent No. 1 or the Respondent No. 2. AIR 1954 S C 207, Rel. on.

Held, further on the question whether a writ could issue upon respondent 3, namely the State of West Bengal that according to Art. 256, the State Government is only bound to comply with directions by the Government of India so as to ensure compliance with the laws made by Parliament. There was as yet no law passed by Parliament sanctioning the so-called agreement for exchange of territories. This application could not instantly be rejected on the ground that the Court had no jurisdiction over the first two respondents.

Held, also that the question of an 'Act of State' does not arise in this case at all. AIR 1931 P C 248 and AIR 1949 Bom 277, Rel. on.

At this stage, it could not be said that anything unlawful had been done, Considering this along with the fact that writ could not issue against respondents 1 and 2 on the ground of absence of territorial jurisdiction, and also against respondent 3, when there was nothing to show that the Union Government had taken any steps under Art. 256 of the Constitution, directing the State of West Bengal to do something which it was obliged to do under that article, it was not possible to issue a writ in the nature of mandamus which could only be issued in the aid of a legal right. 63 Cal W N 485 : ILR (1960) 1 Cal 537 : AIR 1959 Cal 506 (512 to 519) (Prs 14, 15, 19, 20, 22 25, 30, 31).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts—Writ against Union of India—Jurisdiction.

The petitioners filed a writ petition under Art. 226 in the High Court of Calcutta seeking to restrain Union of India from bringing or initiating any Bill or legislation in Parliament for the purposes of uniting the two States of West Bengal and Bihar.

Held, that the person who would initiate the Bill, the body which would consider it, all were outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. It was but manifest that the High Court had no jurisdiction to interfere in such a case. AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 210, Rel. on. 60 Cal W N 555 : ILR (1957) 3 Cal 390 : AIR 1956 Cal 378 (384) (Pt H) (Pr 26).

——Art. 226—Application challenging order of requisition made on behalf of Union of India — Relief against Union of India—If can be granted.

Where an application under Art. 226 of the Constitution is made challenging an order of requisition made by the Land Acquisition Collector on behalf of the Union of India, notice must be issued to the Union of India, but no relief can be granted as against it if it is not located within the jurisdiction of the Court. 88 Cal L J 172 : 56 Cal W N 306 : ILR (1958) 1 Cal 155 : AIR 1952 Cal 16 (18, 19) (Pt D) (Pr 14).

——Art. 226—"Central Government" — Meaning of—Jurisdiction of M. P. High Court.

In the context of the Indian Constitution 'Central Government' would mean the President acting though the Council of Ministers. It cannot be gainsaid that the Government of India as an authority is permanently located in and normally carries on its activities from New Delhi. In this sense this authority, viz., the Central Government, is situated outside the jurisdiction of M P High Court. Surajmal Arjundas v. State of Madhya Pradesh. 1957 M P C 680 : 1957 M P L J 788 : ILR (1957) Madh-Pra 507 : 1957 Jab L J 1011 : AIR 1958 Madh.Pra 103 (112) (Pt E) (Pr 34) (FB).

——Art. 226—Writs against Union of India—Judicial Commissioner's Court of Manipur has no jurisdiction to issue such writs—AIR 1963 Tripura 1 and AIR 1961 S C 532, Rel on. AIR 1964 Manipur 46 (48, 49) (Pt A) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 - Jurisdiction — Tripara, J. C.'s Court cannot issue writ against Union of India—Union of India cannot be made even a proper party in order that writ petition may be heard in its presence—Administrator of Tripura being the agent or representative of the President in the administration of Tripura which is a Union Territory orders or writs can be issued by J. C.'s Court to him who resides and has his office within the territory in relation to which J. C.'s Court exercises jurisdiction. AIR 1961 S C 532 and AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll. AIR 1963 Tripura 1 (5) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 12).

120 (i). Authority within jurisdiction acting on order of authority outside jurisdiction.

——Art. 226 - Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Order passed by authority who is within jurisdiction but purporting to act in pursuance of order of higher authority situate outside jurisdiction.

It is open to the High Court to issue a writ under Art 226 of the Constitution of India against a person who is within the jurisdiction of the High Court if the said person is acting against the provisions of law even though the said person while doing the impugned act purports to act under the orders of a superior authority which is outside the jurisdiction of the High Court. AIR 1956 S C 246, Rel. on; AIR 1963 S C 1124 Dist. ILR (1964) 1 All 397 : AIR 1964 All 125 (127) (Pt D) (Pr 7) (DB).

—— Art 226—Jurisdiction — Order of authority outside jurisdiction — Execution of order within jurisdiction—Issue of writ.

Collection of sales tax assessed under Bihar Sales Tax Act by Collector of Mirzapur (U. P.) as agent of State of Bihar—Writ application in Allahabad High Court by assessee for issue of mandamus to Collector directing him not to collect tax on ground that order of Bihar State under Sales Tax Law Validation Act was not valid and that therefore the Collector had no jurisdiction to collect illegal tax on behalf of Bihar State—Order of Assistant Superintendent, Sales Tax, Bihar, in pursuance of which collection was sought to be made, not null and void — As long as order stands, no mandamus can issue to Collector, Mirzapur, who is only acting as agent of Bihar State -Validity of order of Asst Superintendent, Sales Tax Bihar cannot be tested in absence of State of Bihar and the Assistant Superintendent, Sales Tax, Bihar —Since both these authorities are outside jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court, no writ or direction can issue on them. AIR 1960 All 551, Foll. AIR 1960 All 732 (733) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Right to apply.

Held, on facts that the petition must be dismissed. So far as the order of the U. P. Government was concerned it had been issued under the direction of a party (Government of India) which was beyond the jurisdiction of the High Court, and secondly, that order did not in any way hit the petitioner's right under the Citizenship Act, 1955. The order of the Superintendent of Police also did not affect the petitioner's right as it was not an order of deportation and hence could not be challenged. AIR 1960 All 551 Foll. As the U. P. Government acted not on its own authority but according to the directions received from the Government of India, no direction could be issued to the U. P. Government. A I R 1956 S C 246, Disting. AIR 1960 All 565 (566, 567) (Prs 4, 7).

——Art. 226 — Jurisdiction — Record of order with officer outside jurisdiction—Agent of Officer within jurisdiction—Order, if can be quashed.

If the person who has passed the order is within the jurisdiction of the High Court a writ quashing the order can be passed by the Court even though the record may be in the possession of some agent residing outside the jurisdiction of the Court. The converse proposition however, is not true. If the principal happens to reside outside the jurisdiction of the Court, the agent though residing within the jurisdiction of the Court cannot be directed to get the records from his principal. The mere existence of a certified copy or an authentic copy of the order in possession of somebody within the jurisdiction of the Court would not empower the Court to quash the original order. I L R (1957) 2 All 246 : AIR 1959 All 624 (625) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

The jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 can be exercised within the territories in relation to which its ordinary jurisdiction extends, and further a direction, order or writ under that Article can be issued only to a person or authority residing within those territories. The mere fact that the official or authority concerned whose central office is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court has also an office or property within the jurisdiction of the High Court will not give it a jurisdiction to issue a direction, order or writ against him.

But where an order of an official or authority who is not resident within the jurisdiction of the Court is a total nullity and is altogether inoperative the official who resides within the jurisdiction of the Court and who intends to put such a null and void order into effect may be restrained. AIR 1953 S C 210; and AIR 1954 S C 207, Foll, AIR 1955 All 435 and AIR 1955 All 515, Dist. ILR 1957) 2 All 302 : AIR 1956 All 684 (686, 687) (Pt A) (Prs 7 11) DB).

——Arts. 226 and 14 — Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts — Income-tax officer, Kanpur, initiating proceedings against assessees in U P. and S. 34, Income-tax Act, in pursuance of directions of Central Government, given under S. 8 (2), Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act Application for writs against Central Government and Income Officer, Kanpur—Jurisdiction of Allahabad High Court to issue writs — (Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act 30 of 1947), Ss. 5, 8 (2))—(Income-tax Act (1922) (as amended in 1954), S. 34 (1-A)).

On the basis of the report submitted by the Investigation Commission, the Government of India, Ministry of Finance issued an order under S. 8 (2) of the Taxation on Income (Investigation Commission) Act, directing re-assessment of the petitioners' firm in U. P. and its partners on the escaped income.

Thereafter Income-tax Officer, Kanpur, issued notices to the petitioners under S. 34 of the Income-tax act. It was not disputed that those notices were issued for purposes of initiating proceedings under S 34 in pursuance of the directions of the Central Government given under S. 8 (2) of the Act (30 of 1947).

After the service of those notices, the petitioners moved a writ petition in the Allahabad High Court and impleaded Income-tax Investigation Commission, New Delhi, the Government of India, New Delhi, the Central Board of Revenue, New Delhi and the Income-tax Officer, Kanpur. The prayer was for various writs against those authorities. Against the Income tax Officer, Kanpur, a writ in the nature of prohibition was sought prohibiting him from continuing further proceedings initiated in pursuance of the Central Government order on the ground that the subsequent proceedings, which were going to be taken by him, would offend Art. 14 of the Constitution Held, (i) that the Allahabad High Court was not competent to issue writs against Income-tax Investigation Commission, Government of India and Central Board of Revenue, as those parties were situated at New Delhi which was outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court. A I R 1953 S C 210; A I R 1954 S C 207; A I R 1955 All 435 (FB) and AIR 1955 All 468, Rel. on.

(ii) That so far as Income-tax Officer, Kanpur, was concerned the position however, was different. Even if it be held that the Income-tax Officer was exercising jurisdiction, which had been conferred upon him by means of valid prior proceedings the further proceedings that were going to be taken by the Income-tax Officer, if he complied with the law under which he was acting, would result in bringing about inequality and thus create a breach of Art. 14 of the Constitution. A I R 1955 S C 13, Applied.

Consequently, this was a fit case where an appropriate writ should be issued to the Income-tax Officer, Kanpur, prohibiting him from proceeding further with the cases initiated on the basis of the notices issued by him against the petitioners. I L R (1955) 2 All 600 : (1955) 28 I T R 211 : A I R 1955 All 515 (516, 517, 518) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction.

Notwithstanding that a principal is not amenable to the jurisdiction of a High Court a writ will issue to the agent if he seeks to perform anything which is illegal or unauthorised by law, even though he purports to perform those duties in obedience to the directions of his principal. Thus, if any of the acts of the Officer of Government of India are opposed to the statutory provisions, it will be competent for the High Court of that State to exercise the jurisdiction under Art. 226 to set right the wrong that might follow in the illegal acts of the authorised officials. AIR 1956 S C 246, Foll.; A I R 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207 and AIR 1958 Andh Pra 717, Disting. AIR 1960 Andhra Pra 431 (436) (Pt C) (Prs 22, 25) (DB)

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction of High Court — Order of the General Manager, Central Railway, Bombay, communicated to petitioner through the Divisional Superintendent, Central Railway, Hyderabad — Andhra Pradesh High Court — Jurisdiction to issue writ of certiorari.

The order of the General Manager, Central Railway, whose office is located in Bombay cannot be reviewed by the High Court of Andhra Pradesh on the process of certiorari, though that order was communicated to the petitioner through the Divisional Superintendent, Central Railway, Hyderabad, on the ground that the General Manager, Central Railway, is outside the territorial jurisdiction of this Court. AIR 1953 S C 210 and AIR 1954 S C 207, Rel. on. (1958) 2 Andh W R 257 : 1958 Andh L T 567 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 717 (717, 718) (Prs 4, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Territorial jurisdiction of High Courts.

A writ petition on the allegations that the petitioner's case had been discriminated in the matter of his pay and promotion was filed before Assam High Court against (i) the General Manager, North Eastern Railway whose Head office was at Gorakhpur in U. P. and (ii) Regional Traffic Superintendent (Personnel), N. E. Railway whose office was at Pandu :

Held, that on the face of it, the High Court of Assam could not issue an appropriate writ on the General Manager at Gorakhpur unless the High Court found from the facts that he worked through some local agent at place within the jurisdiction of the High Court, who could be effectively stopped from doing a particular thing or could be directed to do a particular thing as the writ would command. AIR 1950 S C 246, Rel. on. A I R 1957 Assam 108 (110) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction of High Court.

The Joint Chief Controller of Imports and Exports is not an agent of the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports. In the matter of the transfer of quota rights the Joint Chief Controller cannot be regarded as an agent of the Chief Controller because he does not exercise any delegated function with respect to the transfer of quota rights. The grant of quotas and transfer of quotas under the rules framed under the Imports and Exports (Control) Act, 1947 are matters which pertain exclusively to the jurisdiction of the Chief Controller. Hence the rule that where an authority has an agent within the jurisdiction of the High Court it is open to it to issue a writ to that agent directing him to disregard the order made by his principal does not apply. AIR 1956 S C 246, Disting. 63 Bom L R 1 : AIR 1961 Bom 244 (249, 250) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

[Overruled on another point in AIR 1966 S C 478.]

——Art. 226—Certiorari or Mandamus — (Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 1)).

An action by way of a writ is an action in personam and disobedience of the orders therein is punishable in contempt. The provisions of Art. 226 are expressly intended to be used against persons or authorities within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Court and the characteristics of the remedy available to a litigant by way of a writ further support this view. Hence no direction in the nature of a Writ of Certiorari or Mandamus can be issued to the Custodian-General of Evacuee Property by the Hyderabad High Court inasmuch as he resides and holds his office in territories beyond the jurisdiction of that Court. The fact that the Deputy Custodian who initially decided the case is within the jurisdiction of the Court and his obedience could be effectively enforced cannot result in any difference. A I R 1953 S C 210, Foll.; AIR 1943 P C 164, Disting.

Moreover the fact that the petitioner had specifically prayed for quashing the order of Custodian General, throwing out his revision on the preliminary ground, is a further point against the issue of a writ, because if the order is set aside there should be a direction to hear the revision on merits and such a direction could not be carried out by any authority inside the State. I L R (1953) Hyd 616 : A I R 1954 Hyd 33 (34) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226—Territorial jurisdiction—Writ of prohibition against Collector within jurisdiction of High Court, from executing demand notice issued by I. T. O. outside jurisdiction — Income-tax Act (1922), Ss. 46, 45, Proviso.

Though the High Court of Kerala has no jurisdiction to quash the order of assessment of the Income-tax Officer Bombay, it has jurisdiction to prohibit the recovery of the same, in pursuance of a demand issued under S. 24, T. C. Revenue Recovery Act, by the Collector Trichur, by issue of a writ of prohibition, against the Collector and his servants from taking any steps for the recovery of the tax, where the assessee could not be treated a defaulter under the proviso to S. 45, Income-tax Act. A I R 1954 Trav Co 131 (FB) and A I R 1956 S C 246 and AIR 1957 Ker 190, Rel. on. 1960 Ker L T 942 : 1960 Ker L J 1120 : ILR (1961) 1 Ker 210 : AIR 1961 Ker 315 (317) (Pr 13).

——Art. 226—Jurisdiction — Assessing authority outside territorial jurisdiction of High Court —Enforcement of assessment through authority within jurisdiction — Assessment order not shown to be ex facie devoid of jurisdiction — Assessment order cannot be ignored — Relief against enforcement cannot be granted. 1960 Ker L T 174 : (1960) 11 S T C 170 : AIR 1960 Ker 287 (287) (Pt A) (Pr 2).

120 (j). Effect of amendment by Constitution (15th Amendment) Act.

——Art. 226 (1-A) (as amended by Constitution (Fifteenth Amendment) Act, 1963) — Territorial jurisdiction of High Court — Effect of amendment—Writ petition filed before amendment — Court exercising power and issuing the writ after the amended Act has come into force — Exercise of its enlarged power by the Court would be valid and justified by the provisions of law — As amending law relates to power of the High Court no question of retrospectivity arises in the case. AIR 1964 All 379 (381) (Pt C) (Pr 9).

121. Tribunal, writ against.

See Note 5.

122. Union of India, writ against.

See Note 5.

123. University, writ against.

See also Note 5.

——Art. 226—Power of High Court.

The contention that the final jurisdiction given to High Courts and the Supreme Court to determine the law of the land does not apply to the cases where the law is liable to be changed by the domestic authorities cannot be accepted. Any order passed, by such an authority resulting in affecting the right of a person is subject to the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court. A I R 1956 All 603 (610) (Pt I) (Pr 29) (DB).

——Arts. 226, 25, 29 (2) and 30 - Scope—Educational institution run on Christian principles and receiving State aid - Power of, to impose restrictions on practice of other religions within College precincts— Refusal of Principal to permit Hindu students to celebrate Saraswati Puja in College compound — Legality— Powers of High Court. See Ibid, Art. 25. AIR 1957 Cal 524.

——Art. 226 — Scope — Interference with internal matters of statutory bodies like university, when proper. 1965 Cur L J 182 (Punj).

124. Who may apply.

See Note 6.

125. Writ of right and writ of discretion.

See Note 39.

PART B

CERTIORARI

(Notes 126 to 185).

126. Administrative orders.

See also Notes 3, 50, 54, 140 and 142.

■ ——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Writ of — When can issue — Conditions for—Writ against acts of administrative tribunals— Administrative and quasi-judicial act—Distinction.

A writ of certiorari can be issued only to quash a judicial or a quasi judicial act and not an administrative act. Before the writ can be issued the following conditions have to be complied with: (1) The body of persons must have legal authority; (2) there must be authority to determine questions affecting the rights of subjects and (3) the body of persons should have a duty to act judicially. A writ of certiorari can be issued to quash a quasi-judicial act of an administrative tribunal or authority. The question whether an act is a judicial act or an administrative one arises ordinarily in the context of the proceedings of an administrative tribunal or authority. An act emanating from an administrative tribunal would not be anytheless a quasi-judicial act if the aforesaid tests were satisfied. The English Judges conceived and developed the concept of a quasi-judicial act with a view to keep the administrative tribunals and authorities within bounds. (1924) 1 K B 171 and (1931) 2 K B 215 and AIR 1950 S C 222 and (1952) 2 Q B 413, Rel. on. If a statute may enjoin or impose a duty on an administrative body to act judicially it is clearly a case of judicial Act. Dwaraka Nath v. I T. Officer, Special Circle, D. Ward, Kanpur, (1965) 2 S C A 868 : (1965) 2 I T J 218 : (1965) 2 S C J 298 : (1965) 57 I T R 349 : (1965) 2 S C W R 391 : A I R 1966 S C 81 (85, 86) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

■ ——Art. 226—Administrative and judicial orders—Distinction pointed out. See Companies Act (1913), S. 202. AIR 1965 S C 507.

■ ——Art. 226—Administrative order—Validity—No order of Minister can be allowed to stand if obtained by fraud. (1956) 1 All E R 341, Rel. on. S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, (1965) 1 S C A 259 : A I R 1964 S C 72 (81) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

■ ——Art 226 — Question whether the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226, to quash the order of Administrative Tribunals is confined only to circumstances under which High Court of England can issue a writ of certiorari or is much wider than the said power —Question involves substantial question of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution —Such question can be heard only by a Bench of five Judges. See Ibid, Art. 145. AIR 1963 S C 1626.

■ ——Arts. 32, 226—Administrative orders—Not open to challenge.

The orders passed under Ss. 68-F (2) (a) and (b), Motor Vehicles Act flow from the publication of the scheme duly approved and the issue of the order, which is not quasi-judicial but administrative, by the Secretary on behalf of the Regional Transport Authority is not open to challenge. Kalyan Singh v. State of U. P., (1963) 1 S C J 50 : 1962 Supp (2) SCR 76 : ILR (1962) 1 All 906 : 1962 All L J 523 : A I R 1962 S C 1183 (1189) (Pt F) (Pr 18).

■ ——Art. 226—Restrictions on right to carry on trade —Reasonableness —S. 39, Calcutta Police Act — Validity—Order of Commissioner under S. 39 is administrative and not judicial or quasi-judicial —Absence of provision for hearing person applying for licence and for reasons for refusal to grant licence does not make section unconstitutional. See Ibid, Art. 19 (1)(g). AIR 1961 S C 705.

■ ——Art. 226—Ultra vires notice or order.

When an order or notice emanates from the State Government or any of its responsible officers directing a person to do something, then, although the order or notice may eventually transpire to be ultra vires and bad in law, it is obviously one which prima facie compels obedience as a matter of prudence and precaution. A person placed in such a situation has the right to be told definitely by the proper legal authority exactly where he stands and what he may or may not do. AIR 1952 SC 16, Foll. AIR 1953 Pat 87, Reversed. Bengal Immunity Co., Ltd. v State of Bihar, ILR 34 Pat 905 : (1955) 6 S T C 446 : (1955) 2 S C R 603 : 1955 S C A 1140 : (1955) 2 M L J (S C) 168 : 1955 Andhra W R (S C) 422 : (1955) S C J 672 : A I R 1955 S C 661 (669) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226—Prosecution under Excise Regulation (1 of 1915), S. 33 (B)—Notification No E (1) / 5 / 53 & R. W. D/- 7-2-1953—Validity of order if can be questioned by application under Art. 226 — See Excise Regulation (1 of 1915), S. 33 (b). A I R 1955 N U C (Ajmer) 2618.

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Administrative orders. See Wealth Tax Act (1957), S. 25. AIR 1963 All 488 (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Administrative orders — Power of High Court.

Ordinarily the High Court does not interfere with administrative orders but if the jurisdiction of an administrative officer is limited, then the High Court can go into the question whether the administrative order was within his power or not. Similarly, where reasons are required to be recorded when passing certain orders by the administrative officer and no reasons are recorded, then there is a failure of duty on the part of the officer. AIR 1961 All 61 (61, 62) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Administrative orders — Certiorari — If can issue.

A writ of certiorari lies for quashing of orders or proceedings of an inferior Court or other persons or bodies exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions. Where the orders are administrative orders cancelling contracts entered into by the military department with the petitioner the prayer for issue of a writ for certiorari is clearly untenable. AIR 1958 S C 1018, Foll. AIR 1960 All 72 (78) (Pt E) (Pr 15).

——Art. 226—Administrative orders —Quashing of.

Though Administrative orders cannot be quashed by a writ of certiorari such orders can be quashed by the Court in exercise of the general powers conferred upon it under Art. 226 of the Constitution to issue directions and orders. AIR 1952 All 752 and A I R 1954 All 144, Rel. on. An order passed without jurisdiction which adversely affects the petitioner ought ordinarily to be set aside. 1958 All L J 567 : 1958 All W R (H C) 670 : AIR 1959 All 16 (19) (Pt D) (Pr 28) (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order — Jurisdiction of High Court to interfere.

Ordinarily the High Court will not interfere in administrative actions but where the action taken is on the face of it arbitrary or capricious and is without jurisdiction the powers of the High Court are not wanting, 1960 All Cr R 302 : 1960 All L J 570 : 1960 All W R (HC) 472 : ILR (1959) 2 All 115.

——Art. 226—U. P. Municipalities Act (1916), Ss. 68 (2), 69—Appointment subject to approval of Government and appointment with permission of Government —Distinction—Appointment not approved—Certiorari quashing order of Government cannot issue. See Municipalities — U. P. Municipalities Act (2 of 1916), S. 68 (2). AIR 1958 All 68.

——Art. 226—Administrative order—Powers of High Court to interfere. See Ibid, Art. 311. I L R (1957) 1 All 278.

——Art. 226—Certiorari — There must be body of persons with power to make determination affecting rights of parties.

High Court will not issue a writ of 'certiorari' under Art. 226 of the Constitution when the proceedings that are sought to be quashed are merely administrative or are not intended to determine any of the rights of the parties.

There must be 'authority to determine' and the persons exercising that authority must be those who have a duty to act judicially.

It is, therefore, not enough to show that a body of persons has to hear evidence from one side and the other and also submissions of one side and the other and to arrive at a conclusion. What is further necessary to show is that that body of persons has been given the power to make an order or a determination which affects the rights of one of the parties before them,

Hence, no writ of certiorari can lie against the proceedings of a 'Court of inquiry' which had been given power merely to investigate into a charge against an employee and submit its report to the officer concerned for taking necessary action. ILR (1956) 1 All 622: 1955 All L J 375: AIR 1955 All 512 (513, 514) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 7, 8, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226—U. P. General Clauses Act (1904), S. 21 —Judicial or quasi-judicial orders and administrative orders — They include orders of Tribunal other than regular Courts of justice—Power to modify—Tribunal has to act within provisions of law—Modifying orders of Subordinate Tribunal — Power must be expressly conferred — Administrative and executive orders can be modified or revoked under S. 21 — Order of allotment by Rent Control and Eviction Officer — It is not judicial or quasi-judicial order but executive or administrative order — Order can be cancelled or modified by such officer — (Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (3 of 1947), S. 7)—(Words and Phrases— Judicial or quasi-judicial order). See U. P. General Clauses Act (1 of 1904), S. 21. AIR 1955 All 501.

——Art. 226—Order under S. 45 (3), Cr. P. Code —[Cr. P. Code (1898), S. 45 (3)].

No writ of certiorari can be issued against administrative or executive orders.

The criterion for deciding whether an order is a judicial order or an administrative one is not whether the authority acts under a statute; it is whether it is required to act judicially in passing the order or not. If it is required to act judicially, the order is judicial or quasi-judicial and if it is not, it is administrative. The question whether an order is a quasi-judicial order or not arises only in respect of non-judicial authorities and cannot arise in respect of judicial authorities. In case of judicial authorities, their orders can only be either judicial or adminitrative and cannot possibly be quasi-judicial. Since other authorities are not judicial authorities, their orders cannot possibly be judicial if they are to be passed judicially : they can be only quasi-judicial. A Sub-Divisional Magistrate is a judicial authority and therefore, his order would be either judicial or executive. As an order passed by him under S. 45 (3), Cr. P. Code, has been held to be not a judicial order, it can only be administrative order. Any interference or revision or modification of an administrative order by a superior authority is itself an administrative order. The order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate is administrative, and so also the order of the Additional District Magistrate passed in revision. The order of the Additional District Magistrate does not become judicial merely because it was passed illegally. A I R 1953 All 739 ; (1932) 289 U. S. 266, Rel. on. 1954 All W R (HC) 155 : 1954 All L J 198 : 1954 Cr L J 879 : AIR 1954 All 447 (448) (Pt A) (Prs 2, 3, 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative and quasi-judicial order. (Per Sapru J.)

The distinction between an administrative and judicial or quasi-judicial act, turns upon the question whether the duty of the authority was to act judicially or not. Though the decision of the Government under S. 40 of the U. P. Municipalities Act as to whether a member has or has not acted in such a manner as to render him unfit to be a member of the Board is subjective, the process by which it arrives at the decision involves a judicial act for, in arriving at it, Government must not take into consideration any factor which is not a judicial factor. In other words, it is, on an honest application of its mind to the pros and cons of the case, against the municipal commissioner concerned that it must arrive at its decision. It is obvious that in declaring a person unfit to be a municipal commissioner, Government is passing an order which would deprive him not only of an office to which he has been elected by the electorate but also automatically disqualify him under S. 40 (2) for a period of four years from seeking election to that office. This is a serious thing to do. Obviously therefore, in exercising it the Government must be deemed to have acted quasi-judicially. Case law Rel. on. ILR (1952) 1 All 880 : AIR 1953 All 739 (742, 743) (Pt B) (Prs 12, 13) (DB).

——Art. 226 - Certiorari or suitable orders— Petition for — Application is maintainable even against administrative orders—District Magistrate requisitioning accommodation under S. 3, M. P (Temporary) Accommodation Requisition Act (25 of 1947), does not act judicially or quasi-judicially—If he acts against law, application under Art. 226 is maintainable for proper orders though certiorari is not permissible. 1952 All L J 163 : 1952 R D (H C) 161 : 1952 W R (H C) 241 : ILR (1953) 1 All 216 : AIR 1952 All 836 (838) (Pt A) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative and Judicial act— Distinction - Tests to be applied.

A quasi-judicial act requires that a decision is to be given not arbitrarily or in the mere discretion of an authority, but according to the facts and circumstances of the case as determined upon an enquiry held by the authority after giving an opportunity to the party to be affected of being heard and whenever necessary leading evidence in support of his contentions. Whenever the authority is bound to make a decision in this way it acts judicially or quasi-judicially. The essential difference between an administrative or executive act on the one hand and a judicial or quasi judicial act on the other is that while in the former case, the authority vested with the power to give a decision affecting the rights of others, may be bound to enter upon an enquiry, he is not bound to give a decision as a result of the enquiry, but may act in his discretion in utter disregard of the result of an enquiry, in the latter case, such authority is bound by law to act on the facts and circumstances, as determined upon the enquiry, in which a person to be affected is given full opportunity to place his case before the authority even though the decision of such authority, whether right or wrong, may be final and may not be liable to be challenged in a Court of law.

In order to determine whether a body is required to act quasi judicially, the whole statute has to be considered and the decision has to be based upon a consideration of all the relevant provisions. When the right to be affected is a natural or common law right of a person, there is a presumption that an authority vested with the power to affect such right must act quasi-judicially. But this presumption may be rebutted by an examination of the provisions of the statute. When the right to be affected is a creature of the statute itself, no such presumption arises at all. (1952) R D (H C) 229 : ILR (1952) 2 All 783 : 1952 A L J 342 : AIR 1952 All 63 (69) (Pt B) (Prs 44, 45) (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative order— Judicial review. See Panchayats — Andhra Pradesh Panchayat Samithis and Zilla Parishads Act (35 of 1959), S. 72 (1). AIR 1964 Andh Pra 318 (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative orders—Order granting expansion under S. 8 (3) (d) of Rice Milling Industry (Regulation) Act is administrative and not judicial or quasi-judicial order—Hence not liable to removal by certiorari. (1924) 1 K B 171 and (1931) 2 K B 215 and AIR 1950 S C 222 and (1928) 1 K B 411 and (1952) 1 All E R 480, Rel. on. (1962) 2 Andh W R 156 : (1962) 2 Andh L T 268 : AIR 1952 Andh Pra 363 (366) (Pt A) (Pr 10).

——Art 226—Certiorari—Sanctioning of Budget is an important function of a Panchayat Samithi constituted under Andhra Pradesh Panchayat Samithis and Zilla Parishads Act 1959, even though it is not expressly mentioned in general powers of Panchayat. Failure to perform this function is a dereliction which can be visited by supersession of the Panchayat under S. 63 of the Act—Such supersession being dependent upon the subjective satisfaction of the Government, an order superseding Panchayat cannot be challenged in a petition for a writ of certiorari unless mala fides are alleged or proved. See Panchayats — Andhra Pradesh Panchayat Samithis and Zilla Parishads Act (35 of 1959), S. 18. (1962) 1 An W R 212.

——Art. 226—Administrative orders — Appointment of treasurer under S. 4 of Charitable Endowments Act, 1890—Interference — (Charitable Endowments Act (1890), S. 4).

Section 4 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890 provides that the appropriate Government can appoint a treasurer, if it thinks fit. If there was a valid application and if the Government thinks it fit to appoint a treasurer it is not for the High Court to substitute its opinions for those of the Government. The High Court can and will only interfere if it is alleged and proved that the Government, in taking the decision, have been swayed by extraneous considerations or that their action has been mala fide. (1958) 2 Andh W R 580 : AIR 1958 Andh Pra 773 (778) (Pt C) (Pr 21).

——Art. 226 - Judicial or quasi-judicial order.

Where the Government was the owner of the tanks, and it originally passed an order granting a lease of the tanks to the petitioner but later on the Government modified its order, it cannot be said that the orders passed by the Government are judicial or quasi-judicial. 1955 An W R 873 : 1955 A L T 820 : AIR 1956 Andhra 119 (120) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Administrative order— Power of State Government to cancel and revise orders.

The Government has the absolute right to pass any order appointing or dismissing a mauzadar who is in essence an agent for collection of the revenue on behalf of the State Government on the basis of certain commission. Such an order is administrative in nature, and the Government has power to cancel its previous order and revise the same when they consider it necessary. There is no rule or any statute laying down restriction on the free use of this power of the State Government.

Held on facts (i) that, the power enjoyed by the State Government to review its order was within its jurisdiction and could not be challenged under Article 226 of the Constitution ; (ii) that the principle of Art. 311 of the Constitution did not apply apart from the fact that there was no question of dismissal or reduction in rank. Nor was there any discrimination because selecting a candidate out of a number of candidates does not amount to discrimination in the eye of law; (iii) that the statute or rules did not give the aggrieved employee any right to be heard and in the circumstances there was no denial of the principle of natural justice. AIR 1959 Assam 118 (119, 120) (Prs 4, 5, 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Excise Appellate Authority — Not merely Administrative body—Exercises quasi-judicial functions in deciding appeals—Powers of High Court —See Eastern Bengal and Assam Excise Act (1 of 1910), S. 36. AIR 1957 Assam 182.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari — Order cancelling license under Cl. 20, Bhopal Cotton Cloth Dealers' Licensing Order (18 of 1949) — Certiorari against Chief Commissioner passing such order.

The essential for a writ of certiorari is that the act challenged must be a judicial or a quasi-judicial act.

The necessity of this condition is not affected by the passing of the Constitution of India.

The Chief Commissioner in passing an order cancelling the license of a dealer, under Cl. 20 of the Bhopal Cotton Cloth Dealers' Licensing Order (18 of 1949), does not act judicially or quasi-judicially He acts as an Executive or an Administrative authority. The Chief Commissioner has absolute and unfettered discretion to pass the order under Cl. 20. 1952 Cri L J 57 : AIR 1951 Bhopal 5 (7) (Pt A) (Prs 10, 11, 12, 13.)

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Grant of exemption from application of Minimum Wages Act, 1948—Withdrawal of exemption after hearing one side only—Natural justice — (Minimum Wages Act (1948), S. 26 (2)).

The granting of an exemption from the application of the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, by a notification issued by the appropriate Government under S. 26, sub-s. (2) of the Act and the subsequent withdrawal of the said exemption by a notification are not quasi-judicial acts but administrative acts. AIR 1950 S C 222, Rel. on. Under S. 26, sub-s. (2) of the Act the discretion conferred upon the appropriate Government is untettered discretion. Therefore, it was not necessary for the State Government to conform to the principle of natural justice.

Where before withdrawing the exemption already granted the State Government gave a hearing to a representative of the employees but gave no opportunity to the employees to put their views before them, the notification withdrawing the exemption is arbitrary, illegal and invalid. (1911) A. C. 179, Rel. on. 61 Bom L R 148 : I L R (1959) Bom 462 : (1959) 1 Lab L J 576 : A I R 1959 Bom 538 (540, 541, 542) (Pt A) (Prs 5, 6, 7) (DB).

——Art 226—Statutory body — Writ to stop implementation of administrative step — Calcutta Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Scheme, 1956 —Calcutta Dock Labour Board constituted for furthering objectives of Scheme — Administrative Body introducing change in identity cards of registered dock workers — Change not prejudicing workers but contributing to better working of Scheme — Change subsequently ratified by Board resolution — Majority of dock workers accepting change — Others refusing to hand over cards for making changes leading to loss of their attendance and loss of wages — Writ application by some dock workers to get order commanding Board authorities not to compel dock workers to submit identity cards for making necessary changes therein according to new system, and for declaration that withholding wages prior to Board resolution was ultra vires — Writ application held not maintainable — (Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act (1948), Ss. 4 (1), 19, 28, 30) — (Calcutta Dock Workers (Regulation of Employment) Scheme, 1956). A I R 1960 Cal 9 (11, 12, 13, 14) (Prs 9, 10, 11).

——Art. 226—Certiorari.

The writ of certiorari can only be issued against judicial or quasi-judicial decisions. The conclusions reached by the Government about the necessity in the interests of public policy of a change in the conditions of the service of primary school teachers are obviously of administrative nature and hence the prayer for a writ of certiorari against the circular putting into effect those conclusions is unjustified and cannot be granted. AIR 1950 S C 222, Rel. on. ILR (1953) Hyd 498 : AIR 1953 Hyd 298 (300, 301) (Pt A) (Pr 7) (DB).

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari when issued.

Where the order challenged is purely an administrative or an executive order the High Court is reluctant to issue any writ, but if the nature of the proceedings is judicial or quasi-judicial, a writ of certiorari will be issued, provided it is a fit case for the issue of the same. ILR (1953) Hyd 412 : A I R 1953 Hyd 235 (238) (Pt A) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226— Administrative order passed beyond ambit of statutory limits — Order can be quashed by certiorari. A I R 1956 Cal 96 and A I R 1956 Assam 162 and A I R 1953 Cal 333 and A I R 1951 Raj 139 and A I R 1957 All 359 and A I R 1957 Pat 617 and AIR 1947 Bom 108, Rel. on. 1965 Kash L J 324 : AIR 1966 J & K 9 (11) (Pt C) (Prs 5, 7) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Certiorari does not lie.

Certiorari will lie to bodies and persons other than Courts stricto sensu. No doubt, the writ of certiorari was issued originally to inferior Courts using the word 'Court' in its ordinary sense. As statutory bodies of various types and denominations exercising quasi-judicial functions came to be set up, the writ was extended to them also. But the important prerequisite for bringing these statutory bodies within the writ jurisdiction is that they must be quasi-judicial bodies entrusted with quasi-judicial functions. If these statutory bodies are entrusted only with purely administrative functions no writ of certiorari can lie to correct their errors. AIR 1961 J & K 47 (49) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226—Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), Ss. 29, 100 (2) (p) and (x) (ii)—Rules under R. 16 — Power of Commissioner to suspend manager—Conditions precedent — Order of suspension is purely administrative order — Disposal of properties — Commissioner cannot initiate proposal—Plea of mala fide — Onus of proof. See Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951), S. 29. 1963 Ker L T 480.

——Art. 226—Decision of Advocate-General under S. 92, Civil P. C.—Nature of — Order neither judicial nor quasi-judicial — Not subject to judicial review under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92. AIR 1962 Ker 90 (FB).

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Authority deciding can decide upon report of subordinate officers—What is required is conscious application of mind to the records — Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act (27 of 1949), S. 3 (1) (a).

The rule that the 'authority, who hears, must decide' does not preclude administrative tribunals from reasonably delegating some of their functions. What is required of such authorities is that they must conscientiously apply their mind to the records of the case and reach their own conclusions on the material so placed. AIR 1961 Kerala 299, Rel. on.

The deciding authority under S. 3 (1) (a) of the Madras Preservation of Private Forests Act, can decide the application for sanction to cut forest trees, upon report of the subordinate officer after considering the report. 1961 Ker L T 134 : 1961 Ker L J 469 : A I R 1961 Ker 301 (303) (Pt C) (Pr 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari, writ of— Order of appointment of Melsanthi in temple by Devaswom Board — Order is administrative and cannot be quashed by certiorari. 1959 Ker L J 335 : 1959 Ker L T 401 : 1959 Ker L R 362 : AIR 1960 Ker 97 (98) (Pr 3).

——Art. 226 — Administrative order — Certiorari — Determining test is duty to act judicially — Absence of two contending parties — Order held administrative—Not amenable to certiorari. See Panchayats — T. C. Panchayats Act (2 of 1950), S. 17. 1960 Ker L T 307.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Necessary conditions for— (Houses and Rents—M. B. Sthan Niyantran Vidhan (15 of 1950), S. 14).

A writ of certiorari can only be asked for if two conditions are fulfilled. Firstly, the decision of the authority must be judicial or quasi-judicial, and secondly, challenge must be in respect of the excess or want of jurisdiction of the deciding authority.

Mere circumstance that a person's right to hold property and to give it on rent to anybody or to dispose of the same in any way is likely to be interfered with by the exercise of the power under S. 14 (1) of M. B. Sthan Niyantran Vidhan by the Collector will not make it obligatory upon the latter to hear the owner and the prospective allottee and to determine any dispute between them judicially where the law does not provide for it.

No doubt before Subha can exercise his powers the premises ought to be vacant but where that fact, which enables the Subha to act under S. 14 (1) is not disputed the exercise of the power becomes an administrative act and no writ of certiorari or prohibition can be issued. Further, before ordering the use of the premises for one of the three purposes mentioned in the Section the necessity for such a purpose must exist and the Subha in exercise of his power must come to the conclusion that such a necessity does exist. But in coming to this conclusion the law does not provide for a judicial approach. AIR 1950 S C 222, Ref. Madh B L J 1955 H C R 1577 : A I R 1955 Madh B 202 (204, 205) (Pt A) (Prs 20, 21, 22 24, 25) (DB).

——Art. 226—Administrative or ministerial orders — Issue of certiorari.

Certiorari may issue against a judicial or quasi-judicial act or order but it does not lie to remove an order merely ministerial or to remove or cancel executive or administrative acts. A I R 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1954 SC 440, Rel. on. (1960) M P L J (Notes) 159.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari, writ of — Administrative orders and actions are not amenable to such writ. A I R 1959 S C 107, Foll. 1960 Jab L J 678 : 1960 M P C 325 : 1960 M P L J 633 : I L R (1960) Madh Pra 216.

——Art. 226 — Muslim Wakfs Act (1954), S. 55 (1) and (2) — Decision of Board is outside purview of correction by certiorari.

The decision of the Board to file or not to file a suit itself, that is, to exercise or not to exercise a statutory right given to it by S. 55 (1) of the Act or to sanction or withhold sanction under S. 55 (2) to another person to file a suit is not equivalent to a judicial or quasi-judicial decision affecting the rights of parties. The decision to permit another to file a suit is an administrative act and is outside the purview of correction by the issue of a writ of certiorari: AIR 1955 Raj 166 and AIR 1955 All 372, Applied; AIR 1954 Trav-Co 331, Not applied. (1961) 2 M L J 77 : 73 Mad L W 649 : I L R (1961) Mad 493 : AIR 1961 Mad 244 (246, 247) (Prs 15, 18).

——Art. 226 — Administrative Orders — Duty of Chairman under S. 35 (3) of States Reorganisation Act (1956)—Nature of.

It is indeed difficult to find an exact label to characterise the function of the Chairman under S. 35 (3) of the States Reorganisation Act in specifying the members to be eliminated which would fit it into a single defined category—semi or quasi-judicial, administrative or ministerial—owing to difficulty due in great part to its composite character. There are competing claims of the several councillors to be retained, and a choice has to be made as between them. This might not by itself draw to its determination the rule of audi alteram partem, but nevertheless it would demand an honest and unbiassed decision. The apt nomenclature would be to describe it as an administrative duty of a quasi-judicial character and not a merely administrative order. (1956-57) 12 Ele L R 345 (Mad).

——Art. 226 — Court and administrative tribunal — Distinction.

It is often a very difficult task to draw the line, and distinguish a Court from an administrative tribunal exercising quasi-judicial functions. Merely because the administrative Tribunals have the trappings of a Court, they are not Courts in the sense of exercising judicial power. A Tribunal is not necessarily a Court in the strict sense because it gives a final decision not because it hears witnesses on oath nor because two or more contending parties appear before it between whom it has to decide, nor because it gives decisions which affect the rights of subject, nor because there is an appeal to a Court, nor because it is a body to which a matter is referred by another body. 1931 A C 275, Rel. on.

Unless judicial power is vested, a tribunal does not become a judicial tribunal or Court, and by the mere fact that a tribunal is clothed with some of the judicial functions it does not attain the status of a Court. The decisions of Courts are arrived at usually by the application of objective standards which are fixed, i. e., in accordance with the principles of procedure and the mode of taking evidence in the manner laid down by the Evidence Act. No fixed standards are laid down in the case of administrative authorities, and very often they are not bound to observe the judicial procedure, though on the principles of natural justice they must conform to a certain extent to the forms of judicial procedure. It is very often a difficult question to decide whether an administrative tribunal or authority is acting quasi-judicially or merely discharging its functions in its administrative capacity. (1954) 2 M L J 285 : (1954) 25 I T R 400 : 67 Mad L W 528 : I L R (1954) Mad 1236 : AIR 1954 Mad 806 (808) (Pt D) (Prs 6, 9) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari and mandamus — Writ to quash order of administrative authority based on extraneous considerations—Petitioner losing his job as consequence of that order—Mandamus to Government to consider petitioner's case in accordance with law.

Where the administrative authority decides a matter by taking into account extraneous consideration, the order which the authority purports to pass is an order passed without jurisdiction. In such a case the proper order would be to grant a writ of certiorari to quash the order of the Government. (1910) 2 K B 165, Rel. on.

Where a State Government Circular, while retrenching the staff of a department, violated Art. 16 of the Constitution and as a consequence of that Circular the petitioner lost his job, the proper order would be to grant a writ of certiorari to quash the order of the Government and also to issue a writ of mandamus directing the State Government to consider the case of the petitioner in accordance with law. I L R 35 Pat 1 : 1956 B L J R 458 : AIR 1957 Pat 617 (633) (Pt H) (Pr 55) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Punjab Government Order, dated 6th November. 1963 prohibiting production of Gur by power crushers in mill supply areas—Order cannot be quashed in writ proceedings—Certiorari. AIR 1964 Punj 307 (311) (Pt C) (Pr 9) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Decision under R. 22 of the Rules framed under Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Act—Cannot be reopened in writ proceedings. AIR 1963 Punj 499 (501) (Pt A) (Prs 4, 5).

——Arts. 226, 32—Administrative orders — Passed in accordance with rules not materially affecting rights of aggrieved party—Courts not competent to scan the wisdom of such orders. I L R (1963) 1 Puni 621 : AIR 1963 Punj 345 (353, 354) (Pt C) (Pr 25) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Pepsu Panchayat Raj Act (8 of 2008 Bk.), S. 123 (2) — Removal of member of Panchayat and imposition of disqualification for re-election—Order is passed by the Director in exercise of administrative function—Decision cannot be disturbed by certiorari for omission to conform to any rule of natural justice.

When the Director of Panchayats acting under S. 123 of the Panchayat Raj Act and in the interests of the public removes an officer of a Panchayat and disqualifies him for future office for a stated period, he merely performs an administrative function and there is therefore no obligation to act in a judicial or quasi-judicial manner. His decision therefore cannot be disturbed by way of certiorari merely because he did not conform to some rule of natural justice: 1958 P L R 394 and Civil Writ No. 1194 of 1961 (Punj), D/- 16-3-1962, Rel. on; AIR 1959 S C 107, Ref. to.

There is nothing in S. 123, nor anything in any other connected provision of the Act to indicate that there is any legal obligation cast on the Director to act in a judicial or quasi judicial manner; nor is there any hint that the Director should before making his decision hear the person concerned. About the nature of the decision it is obvious that it is the director who is required to be satisfied and his satisfaction concerned the undesirability of the person concerned to hold office in the interest of the public and there is nothing to show that any enquiry in the presence of the person concerned is contemplated. The act of the director is on the face of it an administrative act and it is difficult to import into his decision anything in the nature of a judicial or quasi-judicial act. 1962 Cur L J 397 (Punj).

——Art. 226 — Confidential report by superior officer against subordinate is governed by instructions which are purely administrative not having been issued under any statute and is not justiciable—Government servant—Confidential report. I L R (1965) 15 Raj 864.

——Art. 226 — Executive order distinguished from judicial or quasi-judicial order.

The following four conditions are necessary before an order becomes a judicial order—(i) there should be a body of persons, (ii) this body of persons should have legal authority, (iii) the legal authority should be to determine questions affecting rights of subjects or citizens and (iv) this body of persons should have the duty to act judicially. Three of these conditions will be present in most orders of an executive or administrative nature. It is only the fourth condition which will not be present in the case of executive orders, namely, there should be a duty to act judicially. It is the presence of this condition which differentiates an executive order from a judicial or quasi-judicial order. AIR 1950 SC 222, Rel. on. 1954 Cr L J 1672 : ILR (1954) 4 Raj 170 : AIR 1954 Raj 264 (266, 267) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Conditions for issue — Saurashtra Land Reforms Act (25 of 1951), S. 59 — Rules under, Rr. 105 to 108—Committee appointed under R. 105 is not a judicial or quasi-judicial body —Nor has it a duty to act judicially. 6 Sau L R 24 : AIR 1953 Sau 26 (27, 28) (Prs 5, 6, 7, 8) (DB).

127. Against whom lies.

(a) Inferior tribunal must have authority to decide.

See also Note 144.

(b) New tribunal.

(c) Company.

(d) Authority becoming functus officio.

(e) Merger of order in appellate order.

127. Against whom lies.

■ ——Art. 32—Certiorari — Writ of—When cannot lie.

A writ of certiorari lies wherever a body of persons having legal authority to determine questions affecting the rights of subjects and having the duty to act judicially acts in excess of its legal authority. The writ cannot issue to remove or adjudicate upon the order which is of an administrative or ministerial nature. It is not, however, predicated that for a writ of certiorari or prohibition to issue the duty to act judicially must be expressly or independently imposed upon the authority called upon to determine the rights of a citizen. Sadhu Singh v. Delhi Administration, (1965) 2 S C A 147 : AIR 1966 S C 91 (95, 96) (Pt B) (Prs 11, 15).

■ ——Arts. 226, 32, 154, 163 and 166—Quasi-judicial orders—Test stated—Scheme proposed by Transport Undertaking under S. 68C, Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 —Hearing by State Government under S. 68-D (2) — Duty is judicial — Objections to scheme — Hearing by Secretary in charge of Transport Department —Final decision by Minister in charge—Principles of natural justice held vitiated — Scheme framed held ultra vires the Act—(Natural justice)—(Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by Act 100 of 1956), Chapter IV-A) — (Motor Vehicles Rules (1939), Rr. 8, 9 and 10). AIR 1959 SC 308 (322, 323) (Pt E) (Prs 21, 22).

——Art. 226 — Order of termination of service is neither judicial nor quasi-judicial — There is no question of summoning record or issuing certiorari— It is only in case of petition for issue of writ of certiorari, that party gets right of summoning records. (1961) 2 Fac L R 558 : (1961) 2 Lab L J 191 : AIR 1961 All 284 (285) (Pt B) (Pr 4).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Judicial or quasi-judicial proceeding.

The Collector or his subordinates are not taking any judicial or quasi-judicical proceeding in acting under S. 73-D of Employees' State Insurance Act. And the prayer for the issue of a writ of certiorari cannot be granted. ILR (1958) 1 All 109 : AIR 1957 All 136 (140, 141) (Pt B) (Pr 26) (DB).

——Art. 226—Against whom certiorari lies.

A writ of certiorari can issue only to a Court or a quasi-judicial body. It cannot be issued in other cases where it was an orde of the Honorary Secretary of the Co operative Union, dispensing with the services of its employee. (1956) 1 Lab L J 242 : AIR 1956 All 43 (46) (Pt E) (Pr 10).

——Art. 226 -Certiorari—Essentials—Two conditions necessary for grant of certiorari—(i) There must be tribunal acting judicially or quasi judicially. There must be duty cast upon it to act judicially (ii) The tribunal must have acted without jurisdiction or must have committed an error of procedure or any other error apparent on face of record. AIR 1955 N U C (All) 6046.

——Art. 226—Writ of certiorari.

Order sought to be quashed must be one partaking of the nature of judicial or quasi-judicial order — Test to determine whether order is one of quasi-judicial nature, laid down—Proceedings by way of Departmental inquiry, in the matter of disciplinary action against railway employee, held to be in nature of quasi judicial inquiry. AIR 1950 S C 22; Applied. (1924) 1 K B 171, Rel. on. ILR (1953) Hyd 155 : AIR 1953 Hyd 201 (202, 203) (Pt A) (Prs 3, 4, 5) (DB).

——Art. 226—Against whom certiorari lies.

A writ of certiorari lies only when the impugned decision is that of a judicial or quasi-judicial authority and the said authority acts without jurisdiction or in excess of its jurisdiction. Such a writ is not available to correct an executive or administrative act. AIR 1950 SC 222 and AIR 1954 SC 440, Foll. M B L J 1955 H C R 569 : AIR 1955 Madh B 173 (174) (Pt A) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 (1) — Certiorari and prohibition—Writ if can be directed by High Court to tribunal which is branch of High Court.

A writ of certiorari cannot be directed by the High Court to any tribunal which is a branch of the High Court for the purpose of quashing its proceedings. A writ of prohibition likewise issues to restrain all inferior Courts whenever such Courts take cognizance of matters outside their jurisdiction. M B L J 1954 H C R 138 : AIR 1955 M B 69 (69) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ of certiorari, and mandamus —Against whom can be issued—Judicial and quasi-judicial body—Sabha registered under Societies Registration Act — Object of Sabha, promotion of moral, social intellectual interests of community and promotion of education by establishment of schools and colleges—Sabha governed by its rules and Bye-laws—Sabha is not judicial or quasi-judicial body — Certiorari cannot issue against it—Life members of Sabha do not hold public offices — Mandamus also cannot issue -Writ of Habeas Corpus, distinguished from writs of certiorari and mandamus — Societies Registration Act (1860).

Held, on facts that the Sabha was clearly not a body exercising judicial or quasi-judicial functions, though no doubt, it had framed rules, bye laws and regulations for the management of its business. No writ of certiorari could issue against the respondents. Observations of Hidayatullah, C. J. in L P A 48 of 1954, dated 28-7-1955 (M B) and (1878) 11 Ch D 553 and (1881) 17 Ch D 615 and AIR 1950 S C 222 and AIR 1954 S C 440 : AIR 1955 S C 233 and AIR 1951 Mad 249, Rel. on.

The life members of the Sabha did not become holders of public offices. That being so, no writ of mandamus could be issued to compel the respondents to restore to the petitioners their status of life members. An order of mandamus no doubt lies to compel the restoration of a person to an office or franchise, of which he has been wrongfully dispossessed; but the office or franchise must be of a public nature. AIR 1953 Mad 556, Rel. on.

The registration of the society under the Societies Registration Act only gave to the Sabha the status of a legal entity. It did not confer on the Sabha the authority to take decisions and determine questions affecting the rights of subjects or impose on the Sabha the duty to act judicially in deciding such question. 1963 M P L J 293 : 1963 Jab L J 431 : AIR 1963 Madh Pra 270 (272, 273 274) (Prs 5, 6, 12, 14) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Quasi-judicial act — Necessity—(Municipalities—Ajmer-Merwara Municipalities Regulation (6 of 1925), S. 242).

Before the High Court will interfere with an order in the exercise of its certiorari jurisdiction, such order must have been either of a Court in the exercise of its judicial functions or of any other lawful body or tribunal which may not be, strictly speaking, a Court, but still which may have lawful authority to decide between a lis or a proposal and an opposition, and such Court or tribunal is under a duty, which may be express or necessarily implied, to decide between the competing rights of the persons concerned by means of a judicial approach thereto, that is by an objective and not a subjective method. ILR (1959) 9 Raj 821 : 1960 Raj L W 486 : AIR 1960 Raj 25 (31, 32) (Pt A) (Prs 26, 27) (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Writ of—Remedy when applicable.

The remedy of writ of certiorari as a rule is only applicable where it is sought to review a judicial, as distinct from a ministerial, act of an inferior tribunal. AIR 1950 Trav-Co 97 (99) (Pt C) (Pr 6) (FB).

127 (a). Inferior tribunal must have authority to decide.

See also Note 144.

——Art. 226—Illegal order—Bihar State Board of Religious Trusts calling upon Mahant of private religious trust to furnish return of income and expenditure under S. 59, Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act (1 of 1951)—Issue of writ.

As the Bihar Hindu Religious Trusts Act does not apply to private religious trust an appropriate writ can be issued under Art. 226 of the Constitution quashing the order of the Board calling upon the Mahant to file a statement of income and expenditure with regard to the properties of such Trust and also prohibiting the Board from interfering with the rights of the Mahant in the management of the trust and the properties appertaining thereto, unless and until the Board has under S. 43 obtained the necessary determination that the trust is a public trust. ILR 38 Pat 942, Reversed. Ram Saroop Dasji v. S. P. Sahi, (1959) Supp (2) S C R 583 : ILR 38 Pat 661 : (1959) 2 S C A 415 : 1959 B L J R 820 : 1959 Pat L R (SC) 63 : 1959 SC J 1173 : AIR 1959 SC 951.

——Art. 226—Certiorari.

The Minister for Excise on whom jurisdiction was conferred by notification No. MEX 120/48/1, dated 15th June 1943, was not a mere usurper of office, though by reason of the fact that Excise Minister was disqualified from acting by reason of the prohibition contained in S. 296 of the Government of India Act, he acquired no jurisdiction to act in the matter. Certiorari therefore may not be refused on the ground that the Minister of Excise was a usurper of office. Observations in AIR 1951 Assam 96 held to be obiter. ILR (1953) 5 Assam 363 : AIR 1953 Assam 170 (175, 176) (Pt B) (Pr 27) (DB).

——Arts. 226 and 165 — Civil P. C. (1908), S. 92—Order of Advocate-General granting or refusing sanction under S. 92, Civil P. C. — Application for writ of certiorari not maintainable.

A writ of certiorari under Art. 226 of the Constitution to quash the order of the Advocate-General on a sanction application is not maintainable : AIR 1954 Trav.Co 331, Diss. from; AIR 1955 All 372, Rel. on.

Certiorari will not lie unless the body or tribunal whose proceedings are sought to be quashed has legal authority to determine questions affecting rights of the subject and owes a duty to act judicially The Advocate-General is a limb of the Executive qua his official capacity. The power to give or withhold consent to actions in regard to public nuisance and in regard to the public trust under Ss. 91 and 92 of the C. P. Code is a statutory power.

The granting or refusing consent by the Advocate-General under S. 92, C. P. Code is not judicial determination of any legal rights of the parties to the intended action. It is impossible to hold that the act of the Advocate General permitting two or more interested persons to launch a suit against the trust or refusing such consent to them can amount to discharge of a judicial function.

There is no compelling statutory obligation on the part of the Advocate-General to hear witnesses, to admit documentary evidence and to hold an enquiry before granting or refusing consent when he is moved under S. 92 C. P. Code, though adherence to judicial forms of procedure is salutary, indeed advisable, to dispel fear or apprehension of arbitrariness in the mind of the aggrieved person : AIR 1930 Mad 129, Rel. on. 1962 Mad W N 227 : 75 Mad L W 240 : ILR (1962) Mad 722 : (1962) 2 M L J 168 : 1962 M L J (Cr) 449 : AIR 1962 Mad 320 (321, 322, 323) (Prs 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11).

——Arts. 226, 311 — Scope — Railway employee ordered to retire—Writ petition—Order is administrative—Mandamus and not certiorari is appropriate relief. (1958) 2 Lab L J 324 : 1958 Mad W N 623 : (1958) 2 Mad L J 517 : 71 Mad L W 864 : AIR 1959 Mad 88 (89) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

——Art. 226 -Grounds for interference—Order without complying with law—Effect—Order held nullity —Certiorari could issue. See Madras Local Boards Rules (1920), R 5. AIR 1958 Mad 211.

——Art. 226—Order under S. 14 of Manipur Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (1960) is quasi-judicial and not administrative — Application for review under S 96 (2) of the Act filed after period of limitation—Order passed on it held was in excess of jurisdiction and it being quasi-judicial, High Court could interfere with it under Art. 226 of the Constitution. See Tenancy Laws—Manipur Land Revenue and Land Reforms Act (1960), S. 14 (2). AIR 1965 Manipur 3.

——Art. 226—Certiorari—Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886), S. 147 — Order of S. D. C. — Appeals against orders passed by the S. D. C. as well as by the Additional Deputy Commissioner and the Chief Commissioner are quasi-judicial orders and not mere administrative orders — No appeal is provided to the Deputy Commissioner from order passed by S. D. C.— It follows that the Additional Deputy Commissioner also cannot have such appellate jurisdiction Orders in appeal by the Additional Deputy Commissioner and the Chief Commissioner in second appeal have to be set aside. See Tenancy Laws — Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886), S. 147. AIR 1962 Manipur 14.

——Art. 226 - Judicial order — Authority not having legal authority to determine questions affecting rights of subjects or having duty to act judicially — Certiorari or Prohibition cannot issue — They can issue against judicial or quasi-judicial order only. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 463 (DB).

127 (b). New tribunal.

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Issue of writ—Inferior tribunal not in a position to resume proceedings — Effect.

Certiorari will not be granted where, if the order were subsequently quashed, the inferior Court could not be ordered to resume the proceedings. But this principle will not apply where the tribunal has been constituted and is functioning. 1959 Ker L J 410 : 1959 Ker L T 521 : 1959 Ker L R 1107 : I L R (1959) Ker 1124 : AIR 1959 Ker 347 (350) (Pt E) (Pr 7).

[Impliedly overruled on another point in AIR 1963 S C 274].

127 (c). Company.

——Art. 226 — Company — Writ against — Writs of mandamus and certiorari cannot be issued against company. AIR 1956 Kutch 9 (10) (Pt A) (Pr 8).

127 (d). Authority becoming functus officio.

——Art. 226 — Parties — Respondents no longer in offices—Necessity to implead present incumbents — Failure to implead—Issue of writ—If barred.

The writ for quashing is directed against a record, and as a record can be brought up only through human agency, it is issued to the person or authority whose decision is to be reviewed. If it is the record of the decision that has to be removed by certiorari, then the fact that the tribunal has become functus officio subsequent to the decision could have no effect on the jurisdiction of the Court to remove the record. Where, therefore, the respondents are no longer in their respective offices, the fact that the present incumbents of these offices have not been made parties to the application is no valid reason why the High Court should not quash the order in question if a proper case is made out on behalf of the petitioner. AIR 1955 S C 233, Foll. 1956 Pat L R 261: ILR 35 Pat 312: AIR 1956 Pat 257 (268) (Pt D) (Pr 33) (DB).

127 (e). Merger of order in appellate order.

——Art 226 — Applicability — Order of subordinate authority — Merger in appellate order — Remedy against order of subordinate authority — When available.

The basic principle of appeals is that, in the event of the subordinate authority being legally competent to pass the order, the appellate order, as it were, washes it out and takes its place. In such cases it is not possible for the High Court to give relief under Art. 226 from the order of the subordinate authority. But when there is a basic want of jurisdiction or in other words, if the subordinate authority could not have validly made an order to the same effect as the appellate one, the latter not withstanding, the aggrieved party can seek relief under Art. 226 in the High Court from the original order itself 1960 M P C 39 : 1960 M P L J 261 : 1960 Jab L J 241 : (1960) 1 Fac L R 218 : (1960) 2 Lab L J 415 : A I R 1960 Madh Pra 230 (231, 232) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

128. Bar to.

See Note 17.

129. Bias.

See also Note 144.

(a) What amounts to.
(b) Personal interest or ill will.
(c) Interest of some of members of tribunal.
(d) To be judge in his own cause.
See also Note 129 (b).
(e) Waiver of objection.
(f) Justice must not only be done but must appear to have been done.
(g) Evidence of.

129. Bias.

See also Note 144.

●——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Cancellation of licence—State Government's duty to afford reasonable opportunity to licencee—Doctrine of bias — Applicability. See Bihar Mica Act (10 of 1948), S. 25 (1) (c) 2nd Proviso. A I R 1960 S C 468.

●——Art. 226 — Bar Council Tribunal — Bias attributed against Chairman of Bar Council Tribunal — Interference—Proof of actual prejudice not necessary. See Bar Councils Act (1926), S. 11. A I R 1957 S C 425.

——Art. 226 — Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 D—Proceedings, nature of—Enquiry by Chief Minister — Bias—Tests. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68 D. A I R 1960 Andh Pra 214.

——Art. 226 — Decision of statutory body — Challenge on ground of competency and bias — High Court can entertain it under Art. 226—Resolution of Municipal Corporation not accepting certain tender —Decision held in excess of powers of Corporation — Quashed by writ under Art. 226.

Held, on facts, that though the Courts cannot enter into the merits of a discretion exercised by a competent authority, the competence of the authority to interfere as well as the question whether the decision of that authority was vitiated by bias can always be gone into by the High Court. (2) that all public powers are subject to the rule of abuse and the exercise of discretion on irrelevant considerations has always been held to be an illegal exercise of the discretion and therefore justiciable. 1925 A C 338 and A I R 1951 Nag 138, Rel. on. (3) that the resolution passed by the Corporation was in excess of the powers conferred on it by the Act and therefore was void. that the Courts were always reluctant to attribute mala fides to statutory bodies. But if from the facts proved the only reasonable inference was that extraneous considerations had entered into the decision of the Corporation then it was their duty to say so. Case Law Ref. 1962 Mys L J (Sup) 162 : ILR (1961) Mys 859 : A I R 1962 Mys 92 (94, 95, 97, 98) (Pt D) (Prs 4, 10, 13, 14) (DB).

129 (a). What amounts to.

——Arts. 226 and 311 — Departmental inquiry—Bias of inquiring officer will vitiate — What amounts to bias, indicated—Natural justice — Principles of. See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1960 Assam 141 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Bias — If ground for interference by writ.

It is well established that an order of an inferior tribunal can be quashed on the ground that it is vitiated by bias, 1915 A C 120 & 1926 A C 586, Rel. on.

"Bias" may be of three kinds, pecuniary, personal and official. Once it is proved that a member of a tribunal has a pecuniary interest in the subject-matter of the decision the order passed by the tribunal will be forthwith quashed. Personal bias may be proved by the existence of close relationship between a member of the tribunal and one of the parties. In case of official bias, there may be evidence of an abnormal desire to upold a particular departmental policy. Fraud, mala fides, and corruption are extrinsic factors which vitiate orders of a tribunal; but they have to be pleaded and proved to the hilt. A I R 1952 Cal 65, Rel. on. 70 Mad L W 623 : AIR 1957 Mad 623 (625, 626) (Pt A) (Prs 9, 10, 11) (DB).

129 (b). Personal interest or ill-will.

●——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Validity of Schemes under Ch. IV-A of Motor Vehicles Act challenged — Allegations of mala fides and personal ill-will made against Chief Minister of the State — Petitioners stating detailed facts in their affidavits — No affidavit in reply from Chief Minister — Counter-affidavit by Secretary rejected — Allegations against Chief Minister held unrebutted — Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended in 1956), S. 68-C

Where certain Motor Transport operators challenged, by a writ petition, the validity of certain schemes framed under Chapter IV A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 nationalising the motor transport in their particular area, on the ground that State Road Transport Corporation had framed the schemes not because of their opinion formed under S. 68-C of the Act but on the direction of the Chief Minister of the State and that the Chief Minister was motivated by extraneous considerations, namely, to strike at his political opponents who worked either against himself or his friends, supporters and relations in the elections in February, 1962, and had devised the schemes in order to cause them loss and compass their ruin; and the petitioners gave all the relevant objective facts in support of their allegations in their affidavits, but there was no denial by the Chief Minister, nor an affidvit by any person who claimed or could claim to know personally about the truth about these allegations and the counter affidavit filed by a Secretary of the Government formally denying the allegations on the instructions of the Chief Minister was rejected as hearsay;

Held, that the Court was constrained to hold that the allegations that the Chief Minister was motivated by bias and personal ill will against the petitioners stood unrebutted. C. S. Rowjee v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1964) 6 S C R 230 : (1964) 2 Andh L T 48 : A I R 1964 S C 962 (970) (Pt B) (Pr 22).

●——Art. 226 — Bias — Co-operative Societies Act (1912), Ss. 17, 43 — Rules under — Rr. 18, 30 (3) — Defalcation in Co-operative Bank—Application under R. 18 for award against member of managing committee — Registrar deciding to act as arbritrator — Objection on ground of official bias — Not upheld. A I R 1956 Ajmer 63, Reversed See Co-operative Societies Act (1912), S. 17. A I R 1961 S C 1743.

●——Art. 226 — Natural justice — Judicial enquiry against constable — Presiding officer himself giving evidence — The act discloses bias against the constable — Violation of natural justice is present — (Government of India Act (1935), S. 243) — (Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 556) (Police Act (5 of 1861), S. 7 — U P. Regulations under) State of U. P. v. Mohammad Nooh, 1958 S C J 242 : 1958 S C A 73 : ILR (1957) 2 All 422 : 1958 Mad L J (Cr) 197 : 1958 S C R 595 : A I R 1958 S C 86 (90, 91) (Pt A) (Pr 7).

——Art. 226 — Bias — President of Municipal Board alleged to be biased against Executive Officer — Enquiry by President after framing charges against officer, President alone having power to hold such enquiry under S. 69-A, U. P. Municipalities Act — Enquiry not vitiated. A I R 1962 All 117 (120, 121) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Reasonable opportunity—Appointing biased person for enquiry. See Ibid, Art. 311. A I R 1957 Andh Pra 414 (DB).

——Art. 226—Certiorari — Bias — Person acting both as Judge and prosecutor — Proceedings under Sea Customs Act — Customs Authority taking active part in investigation — Disqualified from acting as Judge in adjudication proceeding which followed. A. F. O O No 87 of 1958 (Cal), Applied. 1962 (2) Cri L J 342 : A I R 1962 Cal 460 (465) (Pt B) (Prs 43, 44, 46) (DB).

——Art. 226—Misconduct by Government servant — Departmental enquiry Question of bias — Principles — Charge of casting aspersions on Revenue Minister — Enquiry by Collector — Held that there was no bias.

In dealing with cases of bias attributed to members constituting tribunals, it is necessary to make a distinction between pecuniary interest and prejudice so attributed it would always be a question of fact to be decided in each case. AIR 1957 S C 425, Foll.

Held on facts that simply because the allegations related to alleged aspersions made against the Revenue Minister, it could not be said that the Collector was biased against the officer in question. (1962) 3 Guj L R 492 : (1962) 2 Lab L J 507 : AIR 1962 Guj 197 (199, 200) (Pt B) (Prs 4, 5) (DB).

——Art 226 – Natural justice—Bias—Distinction between official and personal bias, pointed out. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 68-D. AIR 1961 Raj 168 (DB).

■ ——Art. 226—Quasi-judicial proceedings.

In quasi-judicial proceedings the maxim that a man shall not be judge in his own cause is very difficult to apply. P. M. Bramadathan Nambooripad v. Cochin Deveswom Board, 1955 Ker L T 516 : ILR (1955) Trav-Co 741 : AIR 1956 Trav-Co 19 (25, 26) (Pt N) (Pr 26) (FB).

129 (c). Interest of some of members of tribunal.

——Art. 226—Natural Justice— Principles of — Rule of bias and exceptions to rule — Disciplinary action against employee of Cantonment Board — Whole Board investigating charges — It is not open to employee to say that one of the members of Board has bias against him. A I R 1961 Andh Pra 37 (42, 43) (Pt B) (Prs 18, 19, 21, 22, 23).

——Art. 226—Tribunal—Constitution.

Irrespective of the possibility or otherwise of actual partiality being proved, the constitution of a tribunal entrusted with judicial or quasi-judicial functions is deemed to be bad if and when it deals with any case in which it can be said that one of the members of that body is among the suitors or litigants before the body. (1953) 1 Mad L J 533 : 66 Mad L W 310 : ILR (1954) Mad 36 : A I R 1953 Mad 709 (710) (Pt B) (Pr 4) (DB).

129 (d). To be judge in his own cause.

See also Note 129 (b).

■ ——Art. 226 — Natural justice – Bias — Judge in his own cause — Principle of — Motor Vehicles Act — Effect of — Chief Minister hearing objections to scheme of nationalisation — Principle of natural justice—If violated—(Constitution of India, Art. 166 (3) –(Madras Government Business Rules and Secretariat Instructions, R. 7) — (Road Transport Corporations Act (1950) — (Motor Vehicles Act (1939) (as amended by Act C of 1956), S. 68-C)

The principles governing the "doctrine of bias" vis-a vis judicial tribunals are : (i) no man shall be a judge in his own cause; (ii) justice should not only be done but manifestly and undoubtedly seem to be done. The said principles are equally applicable to authorities, who are empowered to discharge quasi-judicial functions. Any person affected by the scheme of nationalisation of motor transport is required to file objections before the State Government. The Act does not authorize the State Government to act in derogation of the principles of natural justice.

Under Art. 166 of the Constitution and the Rules framed thereunder a Minister in charge of a department is primarily responsible for the disposal of the business. Whatever may be the policy of the Government in the matter of nationalisation of bus transport, it cannot be said that the Chief Minister initiated under S. 68 C of the Act the scheme in question. Consequently, in the absence of any proof that the Chief Minister has expressed his bias for the scheme in his public speeches (as alleged), it cannot be said that by hearing the objections to the scheme the Chief Minister violated the principles of natural justice by being a judge in his own cause. Gullapalli Nageswararao v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1960) S C J 53 : (1960) 1 Andh W R (SC) 13 : (1960) 1 Mad L J (SC) 13 : (1960) 1 S C R 580 : A I R 1959 S C 1376 (1378, 1379, 1380, 1381, 1382) (Pt A) (Prs 6, 8, 9).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Ground — Personal interest of judge making order—Effect.

Held, whether the sub-inspector was actually prejudiced or not, by the Superintendent himself trying the case it was not a matter on which the High Court would express its opinion in the proceedings under Art. 226 initiated for quashing the order of the Superintendent. 1956 All W R (HC) 325 : 1956 All L J 447 : (1956) 2 Lab L J 146 : 1956 Cri L J 1147 : AIR 1956 All 578 (580) (Pt B) (Pr 5).

——Art. 226—Bias—Principle that a man should not be judge in his own cause — Scope indicated — Does not necessarily apply to statutory authorities discharging purely administrative functions — Board of appointments under Mysore University Act, does not discharge quasi-judicial but administrative functions in making selection of candidate — No question of bias arises — Only question of mala fides in making selection is relevant. (1963) 2 Mys L J 383 : AIR 1964 Mys 159 (168, 169) (Pt G) (Prs 28, 29, 30) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Bias — Personal interest of Judge — Proof of bias — Bias alleged against Commissioner appointed under Public Servants (Inquiries) Act — (Public Servants (Inquiries) Act (1850), S. 21).

It is the basic principle of jurisprudence that no one is allowed to be a judge in his own cause. This rule applies not only in the case of Courts of justice but also in the case of administrative tribunals who are required to act judicially. A consequence of the rule is that the least pecuniary interest in the subject-matter of the litigation will disqualify any person from acting as a judge. But there is sharp distinction between a case of pecuniary interest and a case of non-pecuniary interest. In the case of pecuniary interest, the smallest interest in the subject-matter of the enquiry would result in the disqualification of the judge as a matter of course. But if the interest alleged is any other kind of interest, it must be shown by the petitioner that the interest is substantial so as to make it highly probable that the judge has a real bias. A mere possibility of bias is not enough to disqualify the judge. Case-law Ref. AIR 1955 Pat 131 (132, 133) (Pt A) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Certiorari—Sales tax—Assessee taxed on 'Maida' according to circular issued by Excise and Taxation Commissioner — Revision before Excise and Taxation Commissioner not heard for long time — Petition for writ — High Court quashed order for payment of tax — Commissioner held could not interpret meaning of maida he having himself issued the circular. See Sales Tax — Punjab Sales Tax Act (46 of 1948), S. 5. AIR 1954 Punj 244 (DB).

129 (e). Waiver of objection.

——Art. 226 — Natural Justice—Industrial Dispute—Domestic enquiry — Allegations by employee against officer of company holding enquiry against him — Likelihood of bias in enquiry officer presumed— Bias patent from record of enquiry – Non-raising of question of bias in written statement is immaterial— Conduct of enquiry is unfair. 1965 Ker L J 1180 : 1966 Ker L R 26 : (1966) 12 Fac L R 131 : (1966) 1 Lab L J 498 : AIR 1966 Ker 167 (168) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

129 (f). Justice must not only be done but must appear to have been done.

■ ——Arts. 32 and 226—Natural justice—Bias.

It is a fundamental principle of natural justice that in the case of quasi-judicial proceeding, the authorities empowered to decide the dispute between opposing parties must be one without bias towards one side or other in the dispute. It is also a matter of fundamental importance that a person interested in one party or the other should not, even formally, take part in the proceedings though in fact he does not influence the mind of the person, who finally decides the case. This is on the principle that justice should not only be done, but should manifestly and undoubtedly be seen to be done. (1854) 5 H L C 72 (89; (1924) 1 K B 256 (258) and (1927) 2 K B 475, Rel. on. Gullapalli Nageswara Rao v. Andhra Pradesh Road Transport Corpn., (1959) 2 Mad L J (SC) 156 : (1959) 2 Andh W R (SC) 156 : 1959 S C J 967 : 1958 Andh L T 1014 : (1959) 1 SCR (Sup) 319: A I R 1959 S C 308 (326, 327) (Pt H) (Pr 30).

——Art. 226 — Bias — When is a disqualification for disciplinary authority — Proposed enhancement of penalty – Show cause notice served on Sub Inspector —Plain and surprise expressed at leniency of sentence already imposed — Mind of the Revising tribunal held biased. See Ibid, Art. 311. ('62) 66 Cal W N 54.

—— Art. 226 — Certiorari — Bias—Collector's order under Treasure-trove Act — Likelihood of prejudice or bias—(Treasure-trove Act (1878), S. 7).

Where there is a real likelihood of an operative prejudice, although unconscious, in the mind of the Collector when he holds the inquiry under S. 7, Treasure-trove Act, and the proceedings taken and the order passed by him do not remove the suspicion that this bias may have affected his mind in exercising his discretionary power in summoning witnesses and in closing the petitioner's case, this is by itself enough in the interests of justice to oblige the High Court to grant the order of certiorari. Such a likelihood of prejudice or bias is by itself sufficient for quashing the order. (1910) 2 IR 271, Rel. on. A I R 1956 Punj 235 (238) (Pt C) (Pr 8).

[Reversed in AIR 1960 Punj 82.]

——Art. 226 — Quasi-judicial proceedings— Person himself a witness in case – He cannot take upon himself duty of final arbiter of matter in controversy.

It is a fundamental principle of natural justice that a person who is himself a witness in the case, and the facts to be determined are in his personal knowledge, should not take upon himself the duty of a final arbiter of the matter in controversy. Justice should not only be done, but manifestly and undoubtedly be seen to be done. AIR 1959 S C 308, Rel. on.

